It is reported that Miss Betty Carstairs, British sportswoman, has spent approximately $500,000 in unsuccessful attempts to take the Harmsworth gold cup, emblematic of motorboat supremacy, back to England. Miss Carstairs' fortune, while extensive, is not unlimited. In other words, a half-million dollars is something more than just a button off her smock. She was prepared to gamble that much of her means in the hope that this would be "England's year" and was cruelly disappointed when her two racing craft developed flaws that put them out of competition. Speed-boat racing probably is the most expensive of sports, but, lest the public view this outlay as sheer exravagance, there is an angle, other than that of expense, that should have serious consideration. There are sports that draw million-dollar gates, boxing and baseball, to name but two. The difference between such sports and motor boat racing is that in the former it is the public that spends the fortunes, while in the latter it is the participants. There are features about the sports which the public maintain that at times leave sour, not to say rancid, tastes in the mouths of the pew-holders. The Detroit News, in its comment on Miss Carstairs' failure to realize her ambition, says: "If not to her, Miss Carstairs' investment of $500,000 in the chance of winning a mere honor seems worth it to the public as an example of true sportsmanship." And reference is made to another phase, which contemplates the uses to which, in these times of unemployment in the United States and Great Britain, the sums spent on this year's races might have been devoted. "Would the money better have been devoted to the relief of need and distress?" asks the News, and adds that the affirmative answers probably will be more numerous than the negative ones. The point is made, however, that keeping up, as far as rational uses of one's means permit, the flow of money sustaining the sports, is as effective towards keeping wolves from numerous doors as keeping up the industries, more generally speaking.—Hamilton Spectator.

SHORT END FOR THE FARMER.

The price which Toronto will have to pay for its milk this winter has become a live question. Dairy firms there seem to be very much concerned about the welfare of their customers; they claim to be much grieved at the thought of them having to pay a higher rate.

Prof. J. B. Reynolds dealt with the matter in an interview with a Toronto paper, and said:

'During the past summer, while the housewife paid 12½ cents a quart for milk, the farmer received only 4½ cents for it. It costs only about one cent a quart to ship, which means that the distributor gets seven cents to the farmer's 4½. The farmer owns the farm, the cows, the feed and does the work. In the old days it was considered sufficient spread to double the price to the consumer. That would mean that milk would have sold for nine cents a quart this summer. Anyway, I don't see why the distributor should get seven cents when the farmer provides the land, the crop, and the cattle, which he milks twice daily, and complies all the time with the regulations of the Toronto health department—and all for 4½ cents a quart."

This looks like a case where there is something going on between producer and consumer that is not particularly helpful to either party. Producers of milk, we are certain, will admit that the consumer in Toronto is paying enough for it, and there would be no desire on the part of the producer to make him pay more.

Prof. Reynolds has a very intimate knowledge of all such matters, and the simple and direct manner in which he brings the salient features to the front will call for considerable explanation from the milk distributors.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now it can be told—about unemployment relief.

More to see and less to see it at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year. Make it a record from the viewpoint of attendance.

The special session of Parliament begins to-day, six weeks exactly since the general election. No time at least has been lost in the preliminary steps.

The directors of the Canadian National Exhibition have to dig up new thrills for next year. It is a task worthy of the showmanship usually displayed by the C.N.E. management.

Perhaps Agnes MacPhail will repeat her suggestion of making a motor roadway of the Trent Canal, this time as an unemployment measure.

When it comes to waiting for something to turn up at the special session of Parliament the Canadian people are Micawbers.

The Office Hound

THE OFFICE HOUND MURDER CASE.

Silo Dance was examining something intently through a microscope when Inspector Knowall arrived at the Great Detective's apartment next day.

O—H

"Hello, Inspector! Anything new in the Office Hound affair?" Dance greeted absently.

"Not a thing!" growled the Inspector. "And we've got to take some action mighty soon. The papers are after us. . . . Have you seen to-day's Examiner?"

"Never read the daily papers, old boy. What's eating the mugs now?"

"Well, here's a front page spread giving a lot of details about the case that we never heard anything about. For example, here's a half-tone of that Mademoiselle X. There are a lot of vague hints that the police are trying to shelter her because of the fact that she had a recent affair with a certain unnamed constable. Says here that there is more in this than meets the eye."

O—H

"Whose eye?" demanded Dance. "The woman's? . . . Never meet a woman's eye, Inspector! It's fatal!"

"And there's an editorial on page four which openly states that all is not open and above-board in the Police Department," continued the Inspector, ignoring Dance's comment.

"And after seeing some of your boys playing poker," murmured Dance, "I can well believe it."

O—H

At this moment the door was flung open and a creature entered on its hands and knees. The creature was attired in a long, black robe, a pair of blue spectacles, a green beard, and a pink turban.

O—H

Dance smiled at the amazed Inspector.

"You don't recognize your old friend?" queried the detective.

The Inspector continued to stare.

"Bark for the nice man!" commanded Dance.

"Woof! woof! woof!" returned the creature, leaning against the leg of a chair.

"Who—who—whosit? . . . I mean, who is it?" spluttered the Inspector.

"Whosis," replied Dance.

"No, I mean—whosit?"

"I told you. . . . Whosis! . . . Our old friend, Whosis—my model manservant, pressed into dogservice for the present emergency."

O—H

"But—what's he supposed to represent?"

"The Grand Wizar of Afghanistan!"

"But why does he walk on all fours and bark?"

"Oh! that's just sheer doggedness!"

"But, good lord, man! Be serious! . . . This is a serious matter! . . . Here we are in the midst of one of the worst murder mysteries in years, and you take time off to play dog with your man!"

O—H

"Which would you say was worse, Inspector — to play dog with your man? or to play man with your dog?"

"Oh, well!" grunted the Inspector, picking up his hat and turning toward the door, "if you're going to. . . ."

"Just a minute, Inspector! I want to show you something," broke in Dance.

O—H

They both turned and looked at Whosis, who was gnawing the leg of a Queen Anne table.

"Here! Stop it, Whosis!" shouted the Great Detective, "that's gnawty!"

Dance turned to the Inspector apologetically. "I suppose, if the truth were known," he remarked, 'that we all have the urge to gnaw the leg of a table in our more dogmatic moments."

The Inspector sighed wistfully.

O—H

"Have you any idea, Inspector, what I was examining under the microscope when you came in?"

"No."

"A flea."

"A what?"

"No—a flea."

"Oh."

O—H

"It's a rare Arabian flea from the shores of the Red Sea. It's regarded as sacred and is known as the Prophet-flea. . . . Does that convey anything to you, Inspector?"

"Why—why, yes . . . the—the letter. . . ."

"Yes . . . and the beard!"

At that moment the phone at Dance's elbow jangled. . . .

O—H

"Hello? . . . Yes? . . . When? . . . Oh, I see! . . . I'll be right down!"

Dance turned to the Inspector.

"That was Sergeant Beef," declared the detective cooly. "He says that the body of a foreign-looking man has just been found in the Otonabee River and that there are unmistakable signs of foul play. Come on! We're going to the morgue!"

O—H

"A foreign-looking man?" rapped the Inspector. "What kind of a foreign-looking man?"

"The Sergeant says he looks like an Arabian, or something!"

The Great Detective reached up and took down a couple of green beards from a beard-rack which he kept in the corner. He handed one to the Inspector.

"Here," he said, "put this in your pocket! We may need them. You never know, in these days of miniature golf courses, when a green beard may come in handy."

The Inspector shoved his beard into his pocket. Dance reached into a bowl which stood on a Tudor sideboard near the door and drew forth a fine, large dog biscuit.

"Here!" he cried, threwing the biscuit to Whosis, who was sleeping beside the chesterfield, "wait here till I get back—and, in the meantime, gnaw on that!"

WELL—WHO DID IT? SEND IN YOUR SOLUTIONS.

TEMPLE TOWER

By CAPTAIN DRUMMOND

"He told us at the trial, that three times that afternoon did he get as far as the local gendarmerie, only each on occasion to have his courage fail him at the last moment. Poor devil! one can hardly blame him. No one knew better than he what had been the penalty for treachery in Paris. And if it occurred in Paris with the whole force of police available, what chance had a couple of stout local gendarmes at night in the middle of a wood? And so eight o'clock found him taking the road for Gisors. He trudged along whistling, probably to try and keep his spirits up, until it length the copse on the left of the road loomed up out of the darkness. Like all town-dwellers the country at night was full of nameless terrors for him, even on normal occasions. The sudden scream of a night-bird could make him sweat with fear far more easily than any report of a revolver. So it isn't difficult to imagine his feelings on this far from normal occasion, when he struck into the trees and began to search for the wood-cutter's shed.

"At last he found it. It was in pitch darkness, and when he tried the door, it was locked. (Interrupting myself for a moment, I think at the trial, when all this came out, that our friend made as good a story as he could out of it, to try and enlist sympathy. But even granted that, I'll bet he had a pretty grim half-hour). After a while he sat down and took out a packet of Caporals. A cigarette, he reflected, might help to quieten his nerves. And even as he felt in his pocket for a match a hand came out of the darkness and took the cigarette out of his mouth.

'Frozen with horror he sat there, leaning against the wall of the shed. Speech he could understand: the roar of Paris he was at home in, but that silent action in the middle of a deserted wood where he had believed himself to be alone, literally petrified him with terror. His tongue was cleaving to his dry mouth: he couldn't even scream. Somewhere close to him was the most dreaded being in Paris—the masked hunchback.

"The sweat ran in streams from his forehead: his teeth chattered. If only this other one would speak: if only something would happen to break this ghastly silence! But there was nothing—nothing save the faint creaking of the trees in the night breeze. At last he forced himself to look round: there, standing just behind him, was the figure of a man. He could make out no details: only the outline could be seen against the blackness of the wood. And after a while he scrambled to his feet.

"'I have come,' he said in a shaking voice.

"'Why do you suppose, Rossignol, that I chose a spot like this for our rendezvous?'

"According to Marrillard at his trial, the voice of le Bossu was the most terrible thing he had ever heard. It was never raised, and his own description of it was that it sounded like drops of iced water boring into his brain.

"'That we should be secret, M'sieur,' he stammered.

"'And that is why you propose to light a cigarette in the middle of a dark wood,' went on the voice. 'That you were a fool I have long known: I perceive that you are an even more incredible imbecile than I suspected.'

"'Pardon, M'sieur,' muttered le Rossignol. 'I am not used to the country I did not think.'

"'Precisely: you did not think. In future, you will think. Now pay very close attention. To-night you will sleep at the Hotel du Grand-Cerf. To-morrow you will return to Paris. The day after you and the Snipe will take the car and go to Chateaudun. You know the road?'

"'No, M'sieur. But I will find out.'

"'Yes: you will find out. You leave Paris through the Porte d'Orleans. The distance is one hundred and twenty-five kilometres. Arrived there you will put up at the Hotel de la Place, and see that your car is refilled with petrol and oil. Place also in your car two bottles of wine and food sufficient for two of you for a day. The rest of your gang will go there by train. They will put up at the Hotel St. Louis. Repeat what I have said.'

"In a trembling voice le Rossignol repeated his instructions.

"'Good. You will then await further instructions. And be careful, Rossignol, to put a guard on your tongue. Too much wine may be dangerous. If you serve me well, it will be to your advantage. If you fail—you will not do so twice. It is my pleasure to employ your car for other purposes than frightening old women in the street.'

"'Oui, M'sieur: I will not fail. The Porte d'Orleans, you said?'

'But there was no answer: le Rossignol was alone. As he had come so did le Bossu Masque go—in utter silence. And an hour later a badly shaken Apache entered the Hotel du Grand-Cerf and called for wine. Whatever the future might hold this nerve-wracking first fence was safely over. That eeire wood was a thing of the past: in the inn was warmth and comfort and, most important of all, light.

"Now there were many people who, when they heard the story I have just told you at the trial, laughed it to scorn. Why, they demanded, these elaborate and theatrical details? Why this meeting in a deserted wood at what must have been great inconvenience to le Bossu himself, if all that transpired could as easily have been done in Paris itself? But they didn't see what I had one or two others saw. They didn't understand that le Bossu was a master of criminal psychology. He realised the immensely more powerful effect that he would produce on the mentality of a man like Marillard, if he met him as he had done, rather than in Paris, which was le Rossignol's own atmosphere. It was the terror of the unknown that he was exploiting—the most potent terror of all, especially to a man of low mental calibre. He was proposing to use this gang for his own ends, and none knew better than he that fear was the safest way of keeping their mouths shut. However, that is all in parenthesis. Subsequent events prove only too clearly that I and the others who thought as I did were right. So we will pass on to the day but one after, which found Rossignol and the Snipe installed in the Hotel de la Place at Chateadun, while the Toad and the other two were in the Hotel St. Louis. The car had been filled up with petrol and oil: all instructions had been carried out, and there was nothing to do but to wait.

"And now we come to one of the most amazing crimes that has ever been perpetrated in France: the crime, moreover, that is the direct cause of this present state of affairs here. Strange, you will think, that such a long time has elapsed, but the reason for that you will understand when I have finished. Many of the actual details of the crime, I can, of course, only fill in by guess-work: for many we have to take Marillard's unsupported word, on an occasion, too, when admittedly he was trying to make out the best case he could for himself. Still, the story hangs together, and I can vouch for its main essentials.

"About three miles out from Chateaudun, on the road to Vendome, there stands the Chateau du Lac Noir. It is a magnificent old building standing in enormous grounds. It dates, I think from the thirteenth century, and until quite recent years was the property of the Duc de St. Euogat. However, he had found keeping up the place beyond his means, and he had sold it about ten years previously to a Russian—Prince Boris Marcovitch. He was a man of fabulous wealth, whose only hobby in life was collecting. He didn't confine himself to one particular line: anything that attracted his attention and that he liked, he bought. But if there was one thing that he did have a predilection for, it was precious stones—particularly emeralds. I have talked to men who had seen his collection, and they have one and all, assured me that it was unique in the world.

"He was a man of peculiar tastes—this Russian Prince. He rarely, if ever, left the chateau grounds, and when he wanted company he imported it wholesale from Paris. It didn't seem to matter very much to him whether he knew the people or whether he didn't. He would write to a cousin of his who lived in the capital, requesting him to bring down a party. Perhaps a dozen girls and some men would arrive, and then for twentyfour hours there would take place what can only be described as an orgy. Drink flowered like water, and the only person on whom it had no effect was the Prince himself.

"I remember a man who had attended one of them describing the end of the performance to me.

BRITAIN MUST WIN

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 8—Great Britain's four must win Wednesday's International polo tilt to stay in the series after being beaten on Saturday 10 to 5 by the United States.

The British lost out in the final stages of the match after taking an early lead in the first two chuckers.

A Thought

PROBLEMS OF LEISURE

Not many years ago long working hours were a serious problem, but nowadays a greater problem has arisen, namely, the problem of our leisure time. Dean Inge recently said: "The right use of leisure is no doubt a harder problem than the right use of our working hours. The soul is dyed the color of its leisure thoughts. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

We develop character, no doubt, in our daily occupations, but our spiritual growth is even more advanced or retarded by the uses to which we put that part of our time which we peculiarly call our own. What have we to show for these hours? They are in reality a magnificent opportunity to broaden our field of thought, feeling, action, and touch life at many points. One way to keep young is to have many interests and to diversify one's occupation. It is amazing how much we can accomplish if we only change our activities.

What To-day Means To You.

If September 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and 9 p.m. to 10:40 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

This date is pictured as one of importance. It will be a sowing, and not a harvest time—precious seeds will fall on fertile ground. A slight warning is given in regard to your health. Evil words and thoughts will be diverted for your good.

The child born on this September 8th will have a good-humoured, an honest and a candid nature. It will have a good opinion of itself, and will seek the good opinions of others, even their flattery. Its mental abilities will be fairly good, and will be adapted to outward use in the world rather than to philosophical thinking.

Your life is one of extreme activity, because of your nervous energy and restless temperament. It is not one of proportionate fruition, however, for you allow a worrying mind to send out hasty and confused orders for execution. You fuss and fume and get unduly tired for the amount you accomplish. If you could calmly think, and then calmly act, you would be able to accomplish much more, and your nerves and energies would be conserved. Because of frayed nerves and a tired mind, you are many times irritable and unreasonable, although your birthright is a good disposition.

Your conscience almost works overtime, and you are a slave to duty. You would unselfishly sacrifice anything for those whom you love. You are a bondsman of Kismet, forever murmuring, "whatever is, is best." Your fight for "number one" is half-hearted. You are not contented to play inferior roles, yet you are afraid to ask life for bigger or better parts. You will either be sunk or uplifted by your environment. Your life is vividly colored by your material surroundings and human associates.

You feel an urge to express yourself in some artistic way, either through the pen or music. You have some little talent, and you would at least reap considerable enjoyment, and, perhaps, a livelihood, if you would follow out your own desires. You allow yourself to become discouraged by others. Your own faith is sadly lacking, or has been dampened by criticism.

OFFICER SHOT IN SCRAP.

DARIEN, Ga., September 8 (C.P.).—One police officer was killed and three other persons wounded, two perhaps fatally, early to-day in gun fights with two unidentified negroes. National Guardsmen were mobilized from two counties to assist posses in hunting the negroes.

STRONGER TONE ON MINE MART

International Nickel and Noranda Again Leaders in Active Trading.

SISCOE ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 8. (C.P.)—Prices moved with marked buoyancy on the mining market during the early period to-day, in spite of only a slight improvement in the rate of turnover.

International Nickel and Noranda were again the leaders, both stocks moving fractionally above the Saturday close into higher territory than they have seen for some time. Hudson Bay was 10 up. Waite Ackerman gained 11 to $3.25; and Sudbury Basin and Abana registered small advances.

Golds Strong.

Golds were a strong group; only Dome; off a few cents to $8.75 showing a decline. Teck Hughes and Lake Shore were up 10 each to 56.50 and $23; respectively. Siscoe advanced four to 35, Columario 10 to 30 and Vipond three to $1.28. Oriole; touching a high for the session of 75; was up 14 to 69, and Barry Hollinger, Wright Hargreaves and Big Missouri showed point gains.

Western oils, following strength on exchanges in the west, were practically all above the previous close. Home Oil, touching a high of $3.30, led the group, standing up a quarter at $3.25 at noon. Alberta Pacific, Mayland, Dalhousie and Associated were all a few points higher. Ajax oil gained another five to $2.05.

NEW YORK MART ENDS IRREGULAR

Bulls Strive Hard to Push Prices Above Critical Levels.

AUBURN UP TEN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Bull operators struggled strenuously to-day to push stock prices above the critical levels which proved their Waterloo in July, but were hampered by profit-taking on the rise of late last week, and fresh opposition from the bears.

The cross currents of activity carried total transactions to about 2,400,000 shares, the largest in a month, but the market closed irregular. The steel issues were under pressure during the afternoon. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Byers lost a point or more, and Vanadium 2. Gillette was soft, dropping 3 points. Gains of 1 to 3 points recorded earlier in the session in such shares as American Telephone, General Motors, North American, American Waterworks, Dupont and Southern Pacific, and more than 3 in Columbian Carbon, were whittled down. The list stiffened slightly towards the close, however, as Auburn was sent up nearly 10, apparently in a driving in of shorts.

Uriburu, Argentine President

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 8. (A.P.)—General Jose Evaristo Uriburu was sworn in this afternoon as provisional President of Argentina the ceremonies were conducted publicly as the climax of a holiday of rejoicing over the revolution but with a strong military guard.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Old resistance points on the current recovery were broken through by the Wall Street market over the week-end and the Canadian exchanges gave one of the best bullish demonstrations in months. To help the markets were optimistic interviews with Henry Ford and the president of Woolworths, trouble in Argentina that might possibly lead to greater exports of wheat by Canada and the United States resulting in an advance of 2 cents in wheat prices and a slight change in the general attitude of the public. To-day the markets were holding well, yet hesitating from fear of a technical reaction and profit taking by those who purchased securities earlier in the week and now find themselves with four and five points appreciation. To-day's opening met with no scramble to buy stocks and on the other hand the accumulation of selling orders was readily absorbed. New York's brokers in their comment this morning discussed the most recent turn of events and while most are encouraging, not a few cast doubt on the ability of the market to continue upward without interruption. With those taking the latter viewpoint holding that the attack, if any will be of short duration.

A contributing factor in the length and breadth of the advance on the Toronto Stock Exchange was the improved technical position the market had worked itself into during the period of readjustment, and when buying broadened out the market was found to be rather barg on the securities favored. For weeks a lot of attention had been paidto the action of the leaders, but the official record of daily transaction told the story of accumulation of other stocks in small lots and a persistent demand for seasoned securities with favorable dividend records and currently selling to return fairly liberal yields. Stocks moved up without accompanying volume due to the fact the buyers of small lots have been active for months in depleting the floating supply. This type of buying was in vestment and not trading and others entering the market had to reach for the shares wanted. Prices for individual securities moved up on comparatively few sales and the list broadened out to include a wide range.

Call loans in Canada are reflecting more extensively the liquidation that has taken place in the stock markets since the break of May with the total for July last $7,000,000 below that of June 1930 and almost $40,000,000 below July 1929. Call loans had outside Canada dropped much more rapidly to the end of July than did those held in the Dominion. Loans outside were reduced by approximately 35 per cent from July 1929 to June 1930 while loans in the Dominion only dropped by about 12 per cent in the same period in July, loans outside were reduced by approximately three per cent and in Canada by about two and a half per cent.

C. P. R. PLANS TO IMPROVE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Beatty States Company Will Go Ahead With Building Program Intended For 1932 and 33.

PRESIDENT OPTIMISTIC.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 8. (Special to Examiner.)—In an effort to improve the general employment situation, the Canadian Pacific Railway plans to go ahead right away with any building program which in the ordinary course would be undertaken in the next year or two. A statement to that effect was made by E. W. Beatty, president and chairman of the C.P.R., on his arrival in the city last night, accompanied by a number of prominent men, some of whom are directos of the railway. Mr. Beatty expressed himself, as decidedly optimistic about the immediate future of the Dominion, saying signs were by no means lacking that the country is turning the corner of the depression that was an unpleasant feature of the past year. The president of the road and his party are making the annual fall inspection of the company's lines.

"The 1930 wheat crop very considerably exceeds in volume that of 1929," said Mr. Beatty. "It is being harvested early under favorable weather conditions. A proportion of the 1929 crop which had been held in storage in the interim is now moving forward with the new crop to the lakehead and to the Pacific coast, this had resulted in comparatively heavy car loadings, and has brought about increased employment in the railways and in allied industries.

NEW M.P.'S SWEAR FIDELITY TO CROWN

Clerk of House Busy Several Hours This Morning Administering Oaths.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 8. (C.P.)—Before taking their seats in the House of Commons to-day, every members took an oath of allegiance and fidelity to the Crown. This is a necessary formality without which no person may sit as a member of the House of Commons.

For two or three hours this morning Arthur Beauchesne, Clerk of the House, presided at his table on the floor of the chamber administering the oaths to the members. Besides taking the oath, each member signed his name to the "toll roll" an ornate book which will be laid away in the Dominion archives as a permanent and lasting record of the personnel of the 17th Parliament of Canada.

In groups or singly, the members took the oaths, the terminology of which was specified in the British North America Act; it is as follows: "I do swear I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty, King George the fifth." French-speaking members took the same oath in that language.

BRIAND'S PLANS MEET FAILURE

Scheme For United States of Europe Dies Gentle Death.

DECISION OF 26 NATIONS.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 8 (By Smith Reavis—Associated Press Staff Writer).—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's scheme for a "United States of Europe" as outlined in his memorandum of May 17, died a gentle death at the hands of the twenty-six nations invited to participate with France when their representatives discussed the project in the Council of the League of Nations to-day.

Several plans are under consideration for such a federation as might emerge from the co-ordinated opinions of the various powers which have put forward ideas opposed to or strengthening M. Briand's proposals.

The appointment of a plenary committee to study such an organization, submission of the idea of the economic committee of the League or to the political committee, or to joint discussion by both, were indicated as possible new developments.

Big Increase Shown In the Wheat Market

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 8 (By the Canadian Press).—While there recently have been indications which denote the presence of factors slightly more favorable than the majority of those which have operated so far this year, these factors, to show the drift of general business, must be tested for a time before they can be accepted as sufficiently permanent to provide a real stimulus, says the September commercial letter issued by the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The latter singles out as a striking feature of the last month the sharp increase in the average weekly world exports of wheat. The shipments in a single week were greater than in any week of the 1929-30 year which closed at the end of July. Canada's share of the trade was 17,000,000 bushels or 36 per cent. of the total, as compared with 9,500,000 bushels in the corresponding month of 1929.

OIL SECTION SHOWS GAIN

Listed With Other Higher-priced Utilities in To-day's Toronto Advance.

SERVICE STATIONS UP.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 8. (C.P.)—Service Stations, Canada Dredging, Dominion Stores and some of the higher priced utilities along with the oils made up the side of advance on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The market gave one of its best displays in many a session during the course of the morning. Volume was centered chiefly on the oils and International Nickel.

Service Stations was up two points to 44. This is the highest peak this issue has been at for quite a time. Canada Dredge was up one to 35 as was Dominion Stores to sell 19.

The oils lead the list in volume with a goodly turnover in most all the active stocks. British American went at 19, up 7-8, Imperial was likewise up 7-8 to sell at 21 3-8. Pete had a fractional advance to sell at 19¼. Supertest was unchanged at 37.

In the higher priced section was C.P.R. up a full five points to 184; Smelters came next with a gain of two to 190. Consumers Gas went at the same price; unchanged. Goodyear Tire and Bell Telephone went fractionally higher to go at 106 and $1.53 respectively.

Weston's was up ½ to 32 while Ford of Canada sold against the trend to loose 3-8 to 29 5-8. Walkers was up an 1-8 to 8 3-8; Abitibi a ½ to 23 ¼; Canada Canners common added 5-8 to its total to sell at 17 5-8. City Dairy, Photo Engravers, both Loblaw issues, Hamilton Bridges, C.P.R. new, and Brazilian went unchanged.

International Nickel came in for the big end of the sales and also registered an advance to sell at 26. Noranda was unchanged at 24.50.

HURRICANE AREA FACING DISEASE

DEBRIS FILLS STREETS.

SONTO DOMINGO, Sept. 7—(AP)—Santo Domingo, razed by a hurricane last Wednesday which took more than 4,000 lives, today feared that outbreaks of disease would visit another source here nearly or as bad as the storm itself.

Insufficient medical supplies, the filth of the uncleaned streets, and the lack of food and other nourishment all contributed to a condition which have native and visiting physicians here very much worried. Cremation of bodies of the dead continued.

Attitude of the physicians probably was best indicated in that all are taking every prophylactic injecion possible. With the hospital survey unfinished it is known that there are already more than 1,000 storm victims there who have gangrene, or other infections, some of whom are beyond hope of ultimate relief.

At one camp yesterday more than 1,300 persons took anti-toxin inoculations for typhoid. The medical snupplies are those sent here from San Juan, Porto Rico, and from Havana, Cuba, and are serving the island republic wonderfully.

As a sanitary measure the physicians here feel that the city's streets should be cleaned of all their debris and discard since the storm, but the task is proving an impossible one, simply because there is not an automobile or truck, or wagon in the country which was not damaged greatly in the hurricane.

SEVENTEENTH PARLIAMENT OPENS AT OTTAWA, SPEECH VERY SHORT

sion of the Seventeenth Parliament of Canada.

The necessity for dealing with exceptional economic conditions with the resultant unemployment has induced me to summon you at an earlier date than would otherwise be necessary. Measures will be submitted for your consideration, including amendments to the Customs Act and the Customs Tariff which it is anticipated will do much to meet the unusual conditions which now prevail.

Honourable Members of the Senate, Members of the House of Commons:

In inviting your careful consideration of the important matters which will engage your attention, I pray that Divine Providence may guide and bless your deliberations.

Five New Senators Sworn In.

Five new Senators—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, former Speaker of the House of Commons, Hon. Dr. J. H. King, former Minister of Pensions and National Health, Hon. E. W. Tobin, former Liberal member for Richmond-Wolfe, Hon. J. E. Sinclair, former Liberal member for Queen's, P.E.I., and Hon. Geo. Parent, former Liberal member for Quebec West—were introduced in the Senate to-day.

Seven new Senators were created by the former King administration shortly before dissolution of the last parliament. Hon. L. A. Wilson, former Liberal member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges and Hon. J. E. Prevost, former Liberal member for Terrebonne are expected to arrive in the capital shortly when they will be formally introduced in the upper chamber.

SOVIET SPEEDS UP ITS PROGRAM OF PRODUCTION

BOYCOTT JOB QUITTERS

Some Directors Accused of Counter-Revolutionary Sabotage.

SOVIET NEEDS—C DLY ZEIHR

MOSCOW, Sept. 8.—On the heels of a long series of reports in the press in regard to backwardness and shortcomings in different branches of industry comes a manifesto from the central committee of the Communist party designed to lash sluggards into action and sting them into renewed efforts.

The manifesto begins with the statement that one month more begins the third year of the five-year plan, a decisive year in the execution of the plan and one presenting a number of the most complicated and important economic and political tasks. One-half the number of the present peasant farms, it says, must be brought into the ranks of collectivized agriculture. A number of big plants must start operation, wholly or in part, such as the Stalingrad tractor plant, the Nizhni-Novgorod automobile plant, the Magnetostroy electric project, and various chemical industries, coal mines and metal plants.

The sowing area for agriculture, the statement continues, must be widened. There must be more technical culture, such as cotton and sugar beets. Live stock trusts must be extended to relieve the present food shortage.

All this, the party dictum says, can be carried out through the "active and immediate mobilization of all the forces working class and all party organizations and all trade unions."

Then the reasons for this mobilization are given. The growth of industry in the first ten months of this year has been only 27 per cent when the plan calls for 32; capital construction has fallen way below the mark; the chemical industries, the coke, gas and chemical trust machinery and the agricultural machinery trusts carried out only one-half of the program in the first three-quarters of this year.

Careless Management.

All this is seen as a threat to the cherished ideal of the execution of the five-year plan in four years. The main reasons for this "sharp backwardness" in industry and for the holes in its economic structure are held to be the absence of energy and initiative in the mobilization of internal resources, inefficient use of present equipment, poor and careless management and many accidents due to criminal carelessness.

Economists and directors criticized for inaction in struggling with problems of production and in failure to support advance engineers. Some of them are accused of joining the ranks of backward specialists and in some cases of actually helping in counter-revolutionary work of sabotaging.

The co-operatives are blamed for not improving the food supply for the workers; the leaders are charged with inability of the working class; a rather large number of party members are taken to task for "not understanding the role and duties of Communists as initiators of the struggle for execution of the industrial and financial plan."

Girding-Up Program Set Forth.

The main tasks of the party and all the working class are outlined as follows:

1. The organization of all the forces of the Communist party, Communist Youths, trade unions, shock brigades and Socialist competition to force the achievement of the industrial and financial plan in factories, plants, mines, construction and transportation.

2. The tightening of labor discipline and an increase in the produtivity of labor.

3. The urging of more initiative on the part of old specialists and more provision for and training of new specialists.

4. The institution of measures for stopping labor turn over, such as boycotting of those who quit their jobs and rewards for those who stay on their jobs.

5. Organization of the means for providing the workers with food and manufactured goods.

6. Active co-operation of the press in exposing shortcomings and aiding in the organization of the workers.

7. The immediate correction of the let down in the tempo of production, but without abolishing the vacations of workers and directors.

The manifesto ends with an appeal to all forces of the country to ward off the threat to the five-year plan.

With the statement of the manifesto that many economists were aiding counter-revolutionary forces came the announcement by the OGPU 'Soviet secret police' that a large group of them had been arrested and charged with counter-revolution. The number of those arrested was not given, but the names of the most important of those held included economists who are not only well known in Soviet circles but have international reputations. Their names are Kondriateff, Grohman, Sadirin, Chanoff, Uroffsky, Sikkanoff, Makaroff and Bazaroff. Further investigations are under way.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 8. (A.P.)—Reports of the serious spread of typhus in Santo Domingo to-day caused Haitian Government officials to consider closing the frontier between Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market was decidedly erratic Saturday and after declining about one cent during the first period the market reacted and advanced to four cents from the earlier low marks. The cause of the big upturn was on buying induced by the suspension of trading in futures at Buenos Aires and on Chilean unofficial claims that revolt had broken out in Buenos Aires. However, most of the bulge was not held, as offerings became heavy with the pool selling, which filled up the demand which was largely coming from shorts. Export business was light, a little being worked Friday afternoon but practically nothing over night. On the early break Saturday morning which was due to weakness in Liverpool and liberal hedging pressure, there was fair support offered, some buying of May that was said to be for foreign account, while outside or country orders were drifting in to buy December. At the time the news broke in regard to Argentine the pit offerings had been absorbed and buying was difficult without forcing prices upward. There was a good demand for cash wheat, but offerings were quite moderate and spreads on the top grades were 1-8 to 1-4 better than at the close Friday. The weather in the west has been clear but the forecast indicates showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta. We do not think the Argentine news means anything at this time but we do believe the feed situation in the United States is serious and will finally have a big effect on world markets. Favor buying the deferred positions on moderate setbacks. Winnipeg futures closed from 1 to 1 3-8 higher.

Coarse Grains: These markets were steady but very dull with practically nothing going on in any direction. Absolutely no feature. Oats closed 1-8 up to 1-8 lower. Barley 1-8 lower to 1-8 up and rye 5-8 up.

Liverpool due 1 5-8 to 17-8 higher on Winnipeg.

FAVORITE STOCKS SHOWING HIGHER PRICE MOVEMENT

Recent Strength in Nickel and Noranda Attributed to Outside Buying.

DOME REMAINS STRONG.

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (Special to Examiner.)—Price improvement among the better class stock during the later part of last week has resulted in amore optimistic tune around the mining markets. Quotations continued to move higher during the early period to-day and while strength in Nickel and Noranda is generally attributed to outside buying rather than any increase in local interest, the bouyancy displayed by some of the lower priced stocks is taken as an indication further price recessions are unlikely. It is admitted general conditions do not warrant any rapid appreciation, but having reached a point where even bearish news has little effect, stocks will probably start in the near future to discount the business improvement forecasted for late fall and early 1931.

Dome Remains Strong.

Dome has been one of the strongest members of the gold group of late and who ever is accumulating it, is apparently satisfied to pay something more than the prices current for the past few months. Latest unofficial but well founded report is that the mill will be operating by November 1st at the latest. Rumor has it important results have been secured on the 12th level, though the nature of the new development has not been disclosed.

According to reports over private wire to the Arthur E. Moysey Company, mill construction is rapidly forging ahead at Trent Hughes where 50 per cent of the steel has been erected and the balance should be up in about two weeks. It is anticipated the new unit will be completely installed by the first week in October. The new crushing plant adjacent to the south shaft is bricked in and roof completed and it is understood installation of the machinery there will be started to-day.

Believed to be the first of a series of announcements along the same lines, it is reported a contract has been awarded by International Nickel to Fraser Brace of Montreal, for recouditioning of the old smelter and convert or building in preparation for installation of the No. 1 unit of the nickel refinery to be transferred from Port Colborne next year.

The present condition is understood to involve and expenditure of some $2,000,000.

An example of Skirocketing land values is continued in the story of a tract near Bakersville, Calif., which was valued at $5 an acre last spring and is now said to be worth $10000 an acre. Charity Coffee, a Kern county woman, owned the land. A well testing 1,600 barrels, of 16 gravity oil in 24 hours explains the sudden increase in realty values in this instance.

Opening Quotations.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 8. (By the Canadian Press)—Wheat, October, ¼ higher to ¼ lower, at 86 to 85⅛; December, ¼ higher to 1-8 lower, at 88½ to 1-8; May, ¼ higher, to 3-8 lower at 95 to 94½.

LABOR MEMBER IN SHIPLEY DIES; HOT FIGHT LOOMS

Result Determine Whether Gov't Holds Textile Workers' Confidence.

FOUR-CORNERED BATTLE.

Former Conservative Candidate, Sir R. Clough, Expected.

BRADFORD, Eng., Sept. 8 (C.P. Cable). — William Mackinder, the Labor member for the Shipley division, is dead, and his death renders vacant a seat in the textile section of Yorkshire—a county which, perhaps, more than any other, has experienced the rigors of a country-wide depression.

In the Shipley by-election the Government will face a severe test of its administration. The result will determine whether the Government still possesses the confidence of the textile workers and of the north.

The Government will be on the defensive more than in any other by-election; it will need to strain every nerve and sinew to win the decision.

Labor Had Big Majority.

In last year's general election, when the Labor Government swept into power, William Mackinder obtained 18,654 votes in Shipley, Sir Robert Clough, Conservative, 13,693, and P. W. Hirst, Liberal, 11,712. But in 1924 the Labor candidate secured a majority of only a few hundred votes, the poll being: Labor 11,862 votes, Conservatives 11,266, and Liberals 9,800. Before the 1924 election the constituency was in the Conservative fold.

Sir Robert Clough will probably be the Conservative candidate this time. He has been Mayor of Keighley and was member for the Keighley constituency from 1918 to 1922.

It appears likely that the Shipley fight will be a four-cornered one with a left-wing Laborite or a Communist running.

KINGSTON MAY REQUIRE CHILDREN'S VACCINATION

KINGSTON, Ont., September 8 (C.P.). — Demanding that the Board of Education compel all school children to either show a certificate of vaccination or a successful vaccination mark, Dr. S. J. Keyes, medical health officer, to-day wrote the Board of Education with the result that an emergent meeting has been called for to-night.

Within the past two weeks three new cases of smallpox have broken out in the city and Dr. Keyes feels that children who are not vaccinated should be refused admittance to the schools.

TRUCK DITCHES FREIGHT.

OWEN SOUND, September 88. — When a freight train struck a truck at Wiarton Saturday morning the locomotive was derailed and tore up a hundred feet of track before it could be stopped. No lives were lost. The truck was driven by W. J. Pritchard, who escaped injury.

TWO LADIES HURT IN CRASH.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.)—Mrs. R. W. Bushfield, Stratford, is in hospital here, believed to have a fracture of the skull, and Mrs. Kellar also of Stratford, had five stitches in her face, following a motor accident near here on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Kellar's auto was struck and overturned by an unknown machine.

STRONGER THAN A FIRST MORTGAGE

IT would be difficult to find a more amply secured investment than the first mortgage bonds of The T. Eaton Realty Co., Limited.

The $12,000,000 bond issue is a first mortgage on over $27,000,000 of property, and of this over $14,000,000 is land exclusive of buildings.

In addition, the mortgaged properties provide rentals more than sufficient to pay all interest and principal, and these rentals are a direct operating charge of The T. Eaton Co., Limited.

These features make the bonds an even stronger security than a first mortgage and, at the current price of 95.50, they yield 5.38 per cent.

SCHOOL FAIR IS SUCCESSFUL

CAPABLE JUDGES.

LIFFORD LINE, Sept. 8 (Examiner Correspondence.)—The North Manvers school fair was held at Fleetwood school on Wednesday, September 3rd. The weather was all that could be desired a large crowd, and a thoroughly enjoyable time featured the whole gathering.

In the late forenoon, entries for exhibition in the tent, poultry and live stock yards began to pour in. When all were placed, the tent was closed to allow an opportunity for the judges to do their work. Many enjoyed a picnic lunch on the spacious school ground or in the school building.

At one-thirty all the school lined up for parade. Considering the fact that the fair was held the second day after school opening, the costumes, decorations, marching and school yells were of a very commendable character.

Prizewinners.

Captain Garvey, who was the capable judge, experienced great difficulty in arriving at his final decision, which was: 1, S. S. No. 1, Yelverton (teacher, Miss Eileen McCamus); 2, S. S. No. 11, Franklin (teacher, Miss Gladys Spiers); 3, S. S. No. 16, North Janetville (teacher, Miss Mose).

The singing contest was next on the program, directed by Mrs. Campbell, who has instructed the various schools of Manvers in music during the past year. Special interest was noticed in this contest on account of the special prize donated by the Janetville Women's Institute of $1.25, 75c and 50c. Miss Hawkins, who teaches music in Port Hope schools, judged as follows: 1, North Janetville; 2, Bethel; 3, Lifford.

The first aid competition afforded great interest to spectators, all demonstrations showing a keen insight into the work. Captain Garvey decided in favor of Yelverton; second, Franklin; third, North Janetville.

The physical training was of very high order and displayed exceptional skill. The judging resulted as follows: North Janetville, Franklin and Yelverton.

Colonel Snider, inspector from Port Hope, made appropriate remarks at intervals during the program and assured all concerned with the Medical Health Officer's authority that there is not a known case of infantile paralysis in Manvers.

Mr. Kellough, the retiring agricultural representative of Port Hope, who has accepted a position with the wheat pool with headquarters at Toronto, introduced his successor, Mr. Somers, and bespoke for him the kindly co-operation which he has received.

A representative group of pupils took part in the public speaking contest which was introduced by Mr. Somers and judged by James Brown, Orono and Clarence Allan, Newcastle. The winning contestants were Fred Stinson, of Bethel, reciting the "New Duckling"; Ronald Gillis, Franklin, "Hearts of Oak"; Edna Fanning, North Janetville, "Hearts of Oak"; Jean Walwin, North Janetville, "Song For Little May"; Rowena Veals, "My Native Land," and May Mulligan, of Lifford, reciting "Out in the Stilly Night."

Sports Contest.

The sports contest was directed by Mr. Brown and Mr. Allan, and consisted of races of fifty-yard dashes for boys and girls of varying ages, sack races, girls' three-legged race, relay races, as well as teachers' and trustees' races.

When the tent was reopened at the close of the program all were eager to learn the results of judging therein.

The live stock exhibits consisted of lambs and calves, the prizes being too small in this entry to encourage a large number of exhibits. Chickens comprised the exhibits in the poultry pens.

About five o'clock the crowd dispersed, carrying away many new suggestions for a bigger and better fair next year.

Narrow Escape.

Early afternoon on Tuesday fire threatened the destruction of the beautiful farm home of Willis Whiteside. A spark from the chimney lodged in the shingles on the roof of the summer kitchen. This was soon discovered and the alarm given by telephone brought a number of energetic workers who extinguished the flame before any serious damage was done. Mr. Lloyd Kennedy trucked some new shingles on Wednesday to replace those damaged by fire.

Mount Pleasant

Mr. T. Harness, of Orono, spent a few days the guest of his sister, Mrs. Elson, in town.

Mrs. T. C. Morden was in Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week and attended the Canadian National Exhibition.

The Misses Laurine Best and Alma Downer are attending the fall term of the Peterborough Business College.

Mr. Gordon McLean, of Toronto, spent Labor Day with his brother, Mr. Eric McLean, and Mrs. McLean.

Mr. Pethick, of Detroit, and his sister, Mrs. Heslett, of Niles, Michigan, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Downer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lowes, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Shield and Juan enjoyed a pleasant trip during last week motoring to Toronto, Hamilton and Guelph, and attended the C. N. E.

Mrs. Henry Lowes is visiting her son, Mr. Bruce Lowes, and Mrs. Lowes, in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Running, of Detroit, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beatty Fee.

Mr. Harvey Downer attended the Canadian National Exhibition on Labor Day.

Miss Lena Finley and Miss M. Thorn spent Labor Day with Mr. and Mrs. John Handley.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fee motored to Toronto on Friday and attended the Canadian National Exhibition, returning on Saturday evening. They also visited friends in Oshawa.

Stanley Downer is visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. Lancashire, Millbrook, this week.

Mrs. H. Seeney, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Parker, and Mr. A. L. Parker, of Los Angeles, California, and Miss Jane Seaton, of Riverside, California, and Miss E. Lowery, of Millbrook, enjoyed a pleasant motor trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, going to Toronto on Wednesday and returning on Sunday evening.

Miss Margaret McCamus has resumed her duties as teacher here for the coming year.

Friends of Norman Faulkner will be pleased to learn that he is able to be out again, after his recent accident, with the aid of crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. Beatty Fee spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Margaret Lough, Peterborough.

Miss Dorothy Morden was in Toronto this week when she took part in the junion women's household science judging competition at the Canadian National Exhibition as one of the members of the Durham county team. The other members of the Durham county team are Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, of Port Hope, and Hazel Armstrong of Millbrook.

"The $50 Monthly Income will be of great assistance"

Mr. ——— was ill for a long time, but, because he had a Confederation Life Policy with Total Disability Benefits, he received $50 a month income . . . and his insurance was kept in full force without payment of further premiums while receiving such benefits.

Confederation Life Association,
Dear Sirs:

Please accept my sincere thanks for the prompt attention given my claim, regarding the Disability Clause in my insurance policy. The $50.00 monthly income will be of great assistance, as I have had such enormous expense in connection with my long illness.

I wish to express my appreciation for the courteous manner in which the Company has always transacted business with me.

I heartily recommend Life Insurance with the added Disability Clause, as it is one of the safest and best investments I know of.

Yours sincerely,

We earnestly recommend you to write for particulars of the Confederation Series of Policies, with Total Disability and Double Indemnity Accident Benefits, and participating in profits. They provide the most economical form of insurance to be had. The coupon above is for your convenience.

WARSAW

WARSAW, Sept. 8, (Examiner Correspondence.)—William Crowe, now living in Warsaw with his daughter, Mrs Charles Bowen and Mr. Bowen, will be eighty-nine years old on September the twelfth. He was born on what is now known as the English Line, Dummer, just south of where Mr. and Mrs. William Harding live. As a little boy, he and Mr. Harding played together, and he and Mrs. Harding are cousins, his mother was Mary Batten, sister of Mrs. Harding's father. His father was Frances Crowe. He and Mary Batten were married when he was twenty-two years old.

William Crowe's wife was Martha Matthews. They were married on June 12th, 1864, and celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary six years ago. Mrs. Crowe died two years ago.

To the couple were born fourteen children, thirteen of whom are living. They are Mrs. James McCracken, N. Dummer; Mrs. William Dunford, Lakefield, Mrs. Albert Dunford, Peterborough; Willaim F. Crowe, English Line Dummer; Richard Crowe, N. Dummer; Mrs. George Russel, Douro; Mrs. Charles Bowen, Warsaw; Mrs. W. Gray, Lakefield; Joseph Crowe, Dummer; George Crowe, N. Dummer; Mrs. Chambers, Toronto; Gordon Crowe, N. Dummer and Mrs. Wesley Adamson, Lakefield. One daughter, Mrs. Lanes is dead. There are fifty-three grandchildren and fifty-two great-grandchildren. He had four brothers and four sisters, of whom Mrs. John R. Myles, of Lakefield, and Mrs. William Joslin, of Regina, still live.

Mr. Crowe does not look his age; his hair is snow-white, but his face is little wrinkled. He has seen plenty of hard work. Most of his life was spent on a farm in N. Dummer. As a young man he chopped saw-logs at $10.00 a month.

On Sunday mornings they had fried pork and bread; for the other twenty meals in the week they had boiled pork and bread. The men of the gang took turns in carrying the bread and meat for dinner, and made a hole in the snow to store it. At meal time they melted snow for their tea and thawed their bread and pork over a burning pine stump In those days a half inch know in lumber was not accepted. He also worked on the river-drives at $15 a month.

Community Work.

For many years he dug the graves in the Payne Cemetery on the Third Line free. He was always interested in municipal work, and in politics, though unlike his father who was a councillor for many years, as well as a local preacher, and his brothers, he never held any public office.

He well remembers when his father would walk to Peterborough and carry back a hundred weight of flour. There was no real road, only a blazed trail, and a poor one at that.

His father was the first man in N. Dummer who had a team of horses. Mr. Crowe was but a little lad, his father was plowing the garden with the team, Lilly and Jessie; there were some post holes and the lad hid in one; the plow went over his head, barely cutting the skin.

Mr. E. Hawthorne has written speech which Francis Crowe gave at a meeting sixty-six years ago.

He delights to tell old stories. He is proud of his large and healthy family. He and his wife knew hard times, but they always had enough to eat, and were warm and happy and there is enough now.

He attended the Methodist Church.

"HANDS.. lovely as on our Wedding Day thanks to Lux in the dishpan"

HANDS lovely as a bride's! Everywhere . . . east, west, north, south . . . young wives exclaim over a new-found secret . . . a way to cherish the beauty of their hands in spite of home-making cares.

"Using Lux for dishes and other soap and water tasks has kept my hands as dainty as when I was married, 6 years ago," writes Mrs. Ivan B. Dahl.

Many other wives, like Mrs. Charles Howard Jacobie, Mrs. Carolyn Pierson, also give Lux the credit for hands lovely as a girl's, after years of housekeeping!

Among hundreds and hundreds of young wives interviewed in 11 big cities, 96 out of every 100 are using Lux!

Wisely, they follow the advice of beauty experts, who say—"A wife who uses Lux in housework has hands lovely as the hands of a woman who has maids."

So many soaps contain harmful alkali which dries up the beautifying oils of the skin, leaving it roughened and wrinkled. Lux never dries these fine oils. The soothing, bland Lux suds give your hands hours of marvellously gentle, comforting beauty care!

Hands lovely as a bride's for less than 1¢ a day

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 8. — Disturbing political news from Argentina, together with word that trading in grain futures at Buenos Aires had been suspended, swept Chicago wheat prices upward on Saturday. Denials from Buenos Aires that trading on the wheat exchange had been suspended did not reach Chicago until after trading had ended for the day.

Wheat closed nervous and unsettled at 1¼ to 1 7-8c net higher than Friday's finish. Corn closed unsteady, from ½c lower to 7-8c higher.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, September 8. — Egg prices to retailers will be advanced from 1 to 2 cents a dozen to-day; special brands to be quoted up 2c at 45, fresh extras up 2c at 42 and fresh firsts a cent higher at 36c a dozen.

The cheese market was considerably firmer last week, owing to the difficulty in disposing of cheese to British importers. Prices were indefinite awaiting the week-end county boards. Although Ontario cheese was quoted off ½c at from 14½ to 14¾c, with Quebec selling from 13¾c to 14c.

The butter market was generally unchanged during the week, quotations ranging from 28¾c to 29c a lb. for Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteur? ized creamery butter. The potato market was steady at 85c to 90c per 80 lb. bag for local stock; 85c for lower Quebecs and $1 for Quebec and New Brunswick Cobblers.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 8. —Wheat gave a flashy exhibition of strength in Saturday's short session and although unable to hold its full advance of over three cents finished the day with net gains of over two cents a bushel.

Suspension of business at the Buenos Aires market as the result of acute political disturbances sent the shorts rushing to cover commitments within an hour of the opening. Caught unawares, holders held tightly to their stocks as frantic bidding sent prices soaring until near the close when selling became general. At its peak the market was 3⅛ cents higher.

Falling off in export business had no apparent influence on the floor.

Cash wheat trade was light, though demand continued good. Coarse grains held firm, oats and barley registering gains.

FREE 11 YEARS PRISONER CAUGHT

ALERT CONSTABLE.

SIMCOE, Sept. 8 (C.P.).—To-day Frank Sutton, 30-year-old Hamilton man, begins his expiation of an 11-year-old crime. He was convicted in Police Court Saturday of jail break, and sentenced to serve three months in the reformatory, along with 18 months of a previous unexpired sentence. Sutton was arrested in Waterford a week ago on a liquor charge after he had returned to his home town for a short holiday. He pleaded not guilty, and when he took the stand to give evidence on his minor charge an alert constable remembered him. His record was hastily delved into, and his identity established as the Frank Sutton who, along with another man, successfully made his way through the bars of the Norfolk County Jail in February, 1919. He was but 19 years old at the time, and had been sentenced to serve 18 months for a theft charge.

Belleville Eliminated From Senior Play-Offs

Nationals Lose Out 12-3

WEIR ON MOUND.

Bell Telephone Scores Five Runs in Second to Offset Belleville Lead.

By F. D. C.

The remnants of a once powerful baseball machine passed off the O.B.A.A. stage for this season at James Stevenson Park Saturday afternoon when the Belleville Nationals were defeated 12 runs to 3 by Bell Telephone of Toronto in the rubber game of their senior series.

It was a hollow victory for the hard hitting outfit led by the redoubtable Harry Batstone.

The Nationals, only a shadow of that fighting club that used to ride roughshod over its opposition looked like a beaten team even before the battle began.

The old fight was lacking and even a three-run start in the first frame when a powerful wallop by Alex Weir converted a trio of charities into as many runs failed to inspire the Central Ontario League winners.

The Telephone crew came back with five in their second frame and the ball game was over except for the formalities of playing out the nine frames. There was nothing in the development of the Belleville gang to warrant hope that they would battle their way back into the lead again, it being only a question of the margin by which Bell Telephone would win.

Need To Re-build.

Ball clubs cannot last forever and the Nationals with their veterans slipping and their new material with one exception weak offensively have reached the stage when they would have to rebuild. In addition they have been handicapped by having only one pitcher of class and it was asking too much of Alex Weir who beat the Batstone gang on Wednesday to expect him to hold such a hard hitting bunch of hombres in subjection twice in succession with only a brief rest. Weir stuck to his guns manfully and made a better job of it than the score indicates for he had the ill-fortune of having his team mates fall down just when he most needed help and shaky infielding and miserable judging of fly balls in the outfield were big factors in piling up the Telephone lead. Daly's triple with the bases full in the second frame should have been an easy out and a long high fly from Batstone that went for a double was the result of slow work by the gardeners.

Smart Ball Players.

Bell Telephone, a well-seasoned aggregation of smart ball players with decided kick to their attack coasted along to an easy victory. Norm Moffat, called upon by manager Batstone to grab off the deciding game started as if he would not be in there long. Passing two and hitting another in the first frame and then allowing Alex Weir to break through with a triple but he levelled away after that and pitched steady effective ball. Only in two subsequent innings did trouble threaten, but bad base running in one case and a snappy double playing the other came to Moffat's rescue.

The fielding hero of the day was Bill Sniderman, burly second sacker of the winners who handled nine chances in sparkling style. Nipper Jones the former Leaside outfielder and Darrah the Nationals centre fielder contributed smart running catches.

An unusual incident was the fact that the game was started with official junior balls, the mistake not being discovered until the second half of the first inning was over.

Score in First.

The Nationals scored three in the first. Bob Scott walked and after V. Weir had popped up in attempting to sacrifice went to second on Moffatt's wild throw to first. W. Mills rolled to Moffatt but H. Mills was hit and Cretney passed to fill the bases. Alex Weir cracked a triple to the score board to send in three runs and stood on third while George Scott fanned.

Bell Telephone got the two back with a couple more in their half of the second. Thompson walked and Jennings doubled to centre. Sniderman's grounder over second scored Harry Mills. Moffatt sacrificed neatly. When Batstone rolled to G. Scott the shortstop threw to the plate but Sniderman went back to third and everybody was safe. Daly lifted a long high fly to centre which Darrah misjudged and the ball dropped behind him for a triple, scoring Sniderman, Jones and Batstone. Clark struck out and Alex Scott lined to his name-sake at short.

In the third the Toronto team made it sure by adding three more markers. Thompson beat out a tap to Alex Weir and sent on to second on the pitcher's wide throw. Jennings singled to centre scoring Thompson and reached third himself when Alex Weir intercepted the throw to the plate and threw over second. Sniderman was safe on R. Scott's fumble. Jennings remaining on third. Jones rolled to R. Scott and Moffatt struck out but Batstone doubled to left to score two more runs.

Belleville had a chance in the third when with one gone, A. Weir, G. Scott and Darrah singled in succession. On the third hit however G. Scott over ran second and was headed off and when Alex Weir broke for the plate he was trapped and run down.

In the sixth Harry Mills and Cretney opened with singles but Alex Weir hit into a double play and that chance went glimmering.

The final runs of the game were registered with two out in Bell Telephone's half of the ninth. Jennings started the attack with a double over first and Sniderman, Jones, Moffatt, Batstone and Clark all hit safely in succession for four runs. Finally when Clark hit to R. Scott, Daly was called out for interference, bringing the night mare to an end.

Paralysis Ban Is Lifted At Lindsay

LINDSAY, Sep. 8.— The infantile paralysis ban on gatherings of children in Lindsay was officially lifted on Saturday, all danger of an epidemic being considered past. Saturday afternoon matinees were resumed at the Academy theatre and yesterday some of the Sunday schools reopened their classes. This morning the Public and Separate schools of the town commenced the Fall term.

No new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported for two weeks.

HARRIS' CLOUT IN 3RD INNING BEATS TORONTO

And Leafs Bow to 5-3 Decision to the Buffalo Bisons.

DOUBLE WIN FOR ORIOLES.

Canadian Team's Chances For Winning International Title Held Practically Nil.

TORONTO, September 8. (C.P.) — Mathematically speaking four clubs still can win the International League pennant, but three of them might be willing to sell their chances for next to nothing.

Rochester holds first place to-day by a margin of six games over Baltimore, 10½ over Montreal, and 12½ over Toronto. Of these clubs, Rochester and Baltimore have 14 games yet to play, Montreal 13 and Toronto 15, so that it is mathematically possible for any one of the four to win.

For all practical purposes, however, both Canadian teams can be regarded as definitely out of the race, and Baltimore only a rank outsider.

Baltimore won four games over the week end but picked up only half a game on the Redwings, who made only three starts and won them all.

Beat Royals Twice.

The Redwings beat Montreal twice yesterday 6-4 and 2-1. A crowd of 19,000 watched Jim Collins break up the first game with a home run in the tenth inning with Billy Southworth on base. Montreal had led through most of the game but Rochester tied it up with two runs in the ninth after two were out. John Berly outpitched John Pomorski in the nightcap by a slender margin, the latter being the victim of home run drives by Martin and Collins. His two circuit drives gave Collins a total of 38 for the season.

Baltimore took a double bill from Jersey City 12-4 and 9-4. The Orioles clouted Miner for 14 solid blows in the opener and collected 12 more off Moore and Pitts in the second game. Luther Roy pitched a steady game for the Orioles in the first game while Jim Weaver's relief hurling was a high spot of the nightcap.

Joe Hauser hit his 60th homer of the season in the opener.

SENATORS WIN IN NINTH FRAME

YANKEES SPLIT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(CP)— The Philadelphia Athletics were all set to put the American League pennant away in their locker after two innings against Washington, but the Senators, after losing a game on Saturday, persisted stubbornly and finally regained it by scoring two runs in the ninth inning to win, 7 to 6. The champions assaulted Sad Sam Jones for five runs in the second inning then saw their lead trickle away as Fred Marberry pitched them into submission while the Senators picked up a run or two at a time to beat Walberg and Earnshaw. The teams start their final tour of the west with the Athletics 6½ games ahead.

The New York Yankees tottered on the verge of mathematical elimination from the race as they dropped the first game of a twin bill to the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3, while the A's were ahead, but they recovered by winning the second game 5 to 2, and retained the bare possibility of beating out the leaders. They are now 14½ games behind with a mathematical chance of gaining 16½ if they win all their games and the Athletics lose all.

The Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns ended their season's play all square when the Browns pounded out a 9 to 6 victory in their rain-hampered final clash. Backed by timely hitting Walter Stewart outlasted five Detroit pitchers. The Chicago White Sox won their last clash with the Cleveland Indians 5 to 2, behind the six hit pitching of Rookie Jim Moore, but did not fare so well in the year's play. Cleveland won 12 out of their 22 games.

Newark strengthened its hold on fifth place by whipping Reading 10-4 for the third time. The Bears collected 16 hits, including six doubles off for Reading pitchers, and the result was never in doubt after the opening inning when they broke through for four runs.

Joe Harris' home run with two on in the third inning, was the big bean of Toronto's 5-3 victory over Buffalo.

CLARENCE ROSS FIRST IN RACE

Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong Leads Swimmers in Three Mile Women's Race.

PROVIDES THRILLS.

TORONTO, Ont., September 8 (C.P.). — The major sports attractions on Saturday, closing day of the Canadian National Exhibition, were two swimming events of three miles—one for men and one for women; and eight contests for drivers of outboard motor speedboats, which provided plenty of thrills for the huge crowds witnessing them.

The three miles women's open swim drew ten entries, and resulted in a win for the popular young matron, Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong of Detroit, who finished 35 yards ahead of Ruth Tower Corsan of Toronto, a consistent money winner, the much improved Leah Riley of Keansburg, N.J., taking third place.

The men's invitation three-mile swim was a rousing battle most of the way between four of the entries—Clarence Ross of Brooklyn, Frank Pritchards, Buffalo, Samuel Shield, Coral Gables, Fla., and George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., who crossed the finish line in that order with Norman Ross of Chicago taking the remaining prize money in fifth place.

The Sir Thomas Lipton Challenge Trophy was the feature of the outboard motorboat racing, Hilton Fraser, Lake George, N.Y., winning this event to round out the successes of United States drivers who captured six of the eight events. The sensational 16-year-old J. R. Ardiel of Toronto was in second place and C. Atterley, Syracuse, N.Y., third. In addition to the trophy the winner got $25.00.

Bill Butler of Guelph saved the day from being a total loss for Canadian drivers by winning the Class F ten-mile open and Class B five-mile open events.

PITCHERS' DUEL ENDS IN 4-3 DECISION FOR ST. ANDREW'S "NINE"

FORTY-THREE STRIKE-OUTS.

Errors Costly For Local Entry —Favored to Win Here on Saturday.

Connecting for a single into centre field, Axsmith, first baseman for the Toronto St. Andrew's brought Jaffee home for the winning run in Saturday's bantam title battle after eleven innings of spectacular baseball. The score stood at 4-3 in favor of the Queen city club at the end of the game, the local bantam team, last year's provincial titleholders losing the first game by what is called the "breaks of the game." Nevertheless they are favored to win here in next Saturday's battle to even the series.

The game was a hurlers' duel from beginning to end, forty-three strikeouts being chalked up, 22 for Calladine and 21 for the opposing moundsman but Calladine had four walks chalked up against him to Cherevatz's one. Much can be said of the youthful catcher for the local nine, Starr who seems to be following his older brother's footsteps did creditable work behind the plate holding his team well in hand and keeping up a line of chatter that brought in the results.

Tie Count in Ninth.

It was a hard game to lose. The Petes were leading 3-1 in the last half of the ninth when one error and a wild throw from centre field brought in two runs for the homesters and tied the count at 3-all sending the game into extra innings.

Begley was the heavy hitter for the youngsters connecting for three nice hits and doing creditable work on the second sack. Calladine besides starring on the mound was effective with the bat, making three singles and scoring the first run in that taletell frame. Stanger was the only player to connect for a triple.

The Petes took the lead in the first frame. Kingdon made first on a single into left field. Starr struck-out and elected to run for it gaining the initial sack when the first baseman dropped the catcher's throw. Kingdon went to third on a wild pitch by the opposing hurler and later romped home for the first run of the game on Begley's single into the the infield. The next three batters Calladine, Williamson and Stanger struckout. Gilbert, the first man up for St. Andrew's, struck out. Parker walked, stole second and later gained third on a passed ball. Zapp also walked but the next two batters up went out by way of the strikeout route.

Murdock struckout in the second. Gardiner grounded to the second baseman and was thrown out at first. McCarthy bunted to the pitcher.

Jaffee walked and advanced to third on steals. Axsmith struckout. Sonosky also walked and the next two batters Cherevatz and Gilbert struckout. No runs, no hits and no errors.

Kingdon was dropped first by the strikeout route. Starr popped an easy one to the third baseman and Begley singled past third but was later thrown out trying to steal on a neat throw from home plate. No runs, one hit and no errors.

Parker flied to the pitcher, Zapp gained first on a neat drive into centre field when Williamson dropped the ball. Greenburg hit through shortstop bringing home the tying run for the homesters. Jaffee struckout. Jeffers grounded to the second baseman. One run, two hits and one error.

Calladine hit into left field, but was thrown out trying to steal second. Williamson and Stanger struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Calladine retired the side in order in the fourth. Murdock and Gardiner struck out, and McCarthy gained first on an error through the shortstop's part, but was thrown out trying to steal second. No runs, no hits, one error.

Gilbert and Parker were called on strikes and Zapped flied to the second baseman . No runs, no hits, no errors.

Kingdon struck out for his second time. Starr grounded to the second baseman and Begley was called. No runs, no hits, no errors.

The Saints were retired in quick order. Jaffee flied to the right fielder and Greenburg and Jeffers struck out. Nothing across. The Petes all connected in this frame, but were thrown out by smart infielding. Calladine grounded to the shortstop. Williamsosn popped to second base, Stanger flied to the third baseman. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Axsmith struck out. Sonosky flied to left field and Cherevatz went out on three strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

The Maple Leafs got one man on in this frame. Murdock struck out, Gardiner flied to short, McCarthy walked, and Kingdon went out for the third down by the strikeout route. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Gilbert and Parker were retired easily and Zapp flied to the third baseman.

The visitors scored two more runs in the ninth frame. Starr struck out, Begley singled past short, Calladine hit to Greenburg who threw to second catching Begley out. Williamson gained second when the left fielder dropped his fly and Stanger drove in the two runs on a triple clout into right field. Murdock struck out for the third down. No runs, three hits, one error.

Errors played a big part in the latter half of the ninth, the homesters tying the count and sending the game into extra innings. Greenburg flied to the pitcher. Jaffee singled into centre field and Jeffers gained first when Begley dropped his ball advancing the runner. Both runners scored when McCarthy muffed Axsmith's drive. Sonosky bunted to the pitcher and Cherevatz grounded to third. Two runs, one hit, two errors.

The side was retired in order in the first of the tenth. Cherevatz and Pollock struck out, Parker made first on hit-by-pitcher ball, and Zapp grounded the pitcher . No runs, no hits, no errors.

Win the Game.

Star grounded to the second baseman for the first down. Begley struck out, Calladine made a neat single into centre field while Williamson struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

The Saints gained the winning counter in this frame, Greenburg and Jaffee struck out. Jeffers gained first on a left drive, later stealing second and third, while Axsmith brought in the winning run with a hit into centre field. One run, two hits, no errors.

CARDINALS GAIN SECOND PLACE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis Scores Double Victory Over Reds Sunday to Strengthen Position.

2½ BEHIND CHICAGO.

Phillies and Braves Split Double-header to Even Series For Year.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.— The final decision in the National League pennant races has been put directly up to the final intersectional series with the western clubs of the circuit playing in the east and on the basis of past performances, this leaves Chicago Cubs and the New York Giants to fight it out for the flag.

The Giants have done very well during the past two occasions they have entertained the westerners while the touring Cubs have turned in about as many victories in the east as their stay-at-home rivals. These calcualtions, however, must be changed somewhat to make allowances for the recent showing of the St. Louis Cardinals, who now hold second place and are closer to the league leading Cubs than any team has been for some time.

The Cards fell down miserably in their first visits to the east, but since then they have taken a new lease on life with a great swing of victories in their own section, both at home and on the road and have moved from a poor fourth place into second, only 2½ games behind the League leaders.

A double victory over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday by scores of 11 to 6 and 4 to 2, carried the Cards well up the line and made it seven straight victories and a clean sweep of the eleven games against Cincinnati. The Cubs and the Giants both lost single games, leaving the Cards only 2½ games away from the leaders and 1½ games ahead of New York.

While Rhem and Haines were holding the Reds in check, the latter with a five hit performance, four Cub pitchers failed to stop the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cubs overcame one Pittsburgh lead only to have the Pirates steal their favorite act and score six runs in the last three innings for a 9 to 7 triumph. The Giants found the Brooklyn jinx working again during a one-game visit to Flatbush. Danny Vance did most of the pitching while the Robins supported him with timely hitting and brilliant fielding to win by a 5 to 2 count.

Split Double Bill.

Two teams which are clear out of the running put the leaders to shame in yesterday's performances as the Phillies and the Boston Braves split a double header. Philadelphia won the first contest 1 to 0, although Ed Brandt allowed only two hits while Phil Collins gave the Braves seven. Betton turned the tables in the second, winning 2 to 1, although Ray Benge outpitched Harry Siebold to the extent of five hits to eight.

LOCAL CLUB DEFEATS BRITISH PUBLIC SCHOOLS CRICKETEERS

Wade's Brilliant Bowling Does the Hat Trick—Win By 5 Wickets and 41 Runs.

B.P.S. SCORE 70.

Following their fine win against Oshawa on Labor Day, the local Cricket Club gained a fine win over the British Public Schools C. C. of Toronto, by 5 wickets and 41 runs.

The visitors winning the toss batted first, and opened with Edwards and Brewin to the bowling of Dyer and Wade; these batsmen played very carefully and found runs difficult to obtain, and in Wade's third over Edwards was clean bowled. Two more wickets fell with the score at eight, both victims of Wade's bowling. Wickets continued to fall regularly and the only batsman who played with any confidence was Neil, the Public Schools' captain, who was the only visitor to reach double figures, and scored 20 before falling to a fine ball from Wade. The inning closed for 70 shortly after 5 p.m. The visiting team had taken nearly two hours to obtain these runs, thus showing the respect the Peterborough bowlers were given.

Wade bowled magnificently, allowing eight wickets for 27 runs. He also did the hat trick.

Jefferson bowled less than four overs and claimed the other two wickets for three runs. Dyer bowled well but without success.

Gore and Dyer opened Peterboro's innings and the latter started to hit immediately and scored 14 of the first 15 runs before being bowled. Binks joined Gore and these two brought the score to 26 when Gore was most unfortunate in hitting his own wicket in playing a ball to leg. Binks and Smith carried the score along to 53 before the latter was well caught at square leg by Percival. Thorpe and Jefferson did not meet with much success and 5 wickets were down for 64. Wade the next man in commenced to hit out lustily and scored at a fast pace, while his partner Binks was compelled to play careful cricket.

Runs came fast and these two batsmen were still together when stumps were drawn at 6.30, each carrying out their bats for 32 runs. Binks batted well having been at the wickets since the first wicket fell at 15

Galt Juniors Defeat Toronto Kiwanis 4-3

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Galt scored a 4 to 3 victory overy Toronto Kiwanis at Viaduct Park Saturday afternoon in the first game of their final series for the O.B.A.A. junior title. Galt secured an early three-run lead and were never headed, Kiwanis passing up several good chances by failing to hit in the pinches.

Three error's produced Galt's first run, while a walk and Barnes's home run added two more in the second. Successive hits by Lovegrove, Buck and H. Bennett scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth.

Bob Gamble's timely pinch single in the eighth drove in two, but with three on and no one out in the ninth Kiwanis could not squeeze across the tieing run.

AUSTRALIA TO OPEN PARLIAMENT NOV. 12

Interval Left For Gov't to Consult Industrial Leaders on Situation.

MELBOURNE Australia, Sept. 8.—(C.P. Cable via Reuters.)—The Federal Parliament will probably convene its session on November 12, says the usually well-informed Melbourne Herald, which explains that the long interval has been left open to enable the Government to consult fully with employers and employees of industry in regard to retrenchment and reconstruction proposals.

The conference of the counsel of Australian Trades Union will open to-morrow and will, it is expected, have an important bearing upon the political situation. The powerful Australian Workers' Union, which is definitely against the repudiation of national obligations, will be represented at the conference for the first time since 1921.

CAN. GENERAL IS ELIMINATED BY BRINTON 2-0

O'Halloran Takes Advantage of Errors to Get Two Clever Goals.

CUSTODIANS BRILLIANT.

C.G.E. Had an Off Day—Robb Not Much Use After Receiving Injury.

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian General went down to defeat to the Brinton Athletic in the semi-final of the G. N. Gordon Cup by the score of two goals to none, before a good attendance of spectators at King Edward Park. Both teams trotted out an entirely different line-up from any other previous occasion. Wilf. Jones occupying the goals for the Brinton and Carmichael turning out for the first time this season. The winners now meet the Packers in the final.

First Half

The Brinton kicked off against the sun with a full quota of players, while the Canadian General lacked one individual to complete the eleven—Benny Bolam filling the inside Berth. Erratic shooting in the early stages by the C. G. E. spoiled their chance of getting into the final. In a scrimmage in front of the C. G. E. goal, Robb received an injury that compelled him to retire for a long period. On mid field play, Carmichael gained the ball and sent Darling along the wing who had travelled into the far corner of the field, beat his man and left Benny McMaster in possession in front of goal, but his effort hit the outside of the rigging. A few minutes later, his brother Jack went right through on his own with only the custodian to defeat, his shot went wide of the mark. Robb returned again to the field of play at center half. He immediately sent Darling down the wing who sent a long drive from touch. Jones just managing to divert the ball over the bar in the nick of time, for a fruitless flag kick. Then the attack came from the extreme right, Jack McMaster beat three men cleverly and sent his forward up into the goal. Jones running out of goal to stop him in the act of scoring. Twice in succession Darling tested the Brinton goalie with shots from long distance and always proved dangerous. The custodian conceding a corner that brought nothing through, McMaster sending the ball skyward. Added pressure by the Electric boys failed to be productive of any scoring, in fact, the attempts were poor. While this was transpiring, the Brintons would introduce a seige to make no progress against the stalwart Chambers at full back. On one occasion, Creighton robbed the opposing attack and carried the ball along with Bill Curtis into the C. G. E. area where Hanson picked the outside of the post from the center.

After having the most of the play, the Canadian General boys allowed an opening to the Brinton Centre forward who tested Daynes. Jones then giving an excellent display in goals for the Brintons against the opposing C. G. E. forward line. A minute to go, dilatory clearance by the C. G. E. full back caused them a goal. Hanson slapped a shot across the goal as soon as the full back closed in on him. Daynes run out of the goal to make the clearance but O'Halloran connected first with a rising shot that bulged the net. Brinton 1, Canadian General 0.

Second Half

On resuming, a re-arranged C. G. E. attack made play more interesting. Offsides robbing them when in a favorable position. They endeavored to get the equalizer quick but it never materialized against the hard checking full backs of the Brintons. Their only reward being flag-kicks aplenty. The Brintons now came into the picture with very aggressive tactics around the goal area. Boon in particular trying hard to beat the goalie with first timers. He received able assistance from O'Halloran who tested Daynes with two hard fast drives at goal. Burgess, now at outside right, broke away time and again to have a shot at goal, the goalie grasping his efforts away in the far corner of the goal. Rail after raid by the C. G. E. failed to find Laidler, at full back, allowing any freedom near the shooting zone. In an endeavor to force the issue, Chambers went into the centre-forward position, working overtime in his anxiety to get the equalizer. Three flag-kicks taking by Darling confined the play to the Brinton goal where Anderson used his head more than his feet to offset the attack.

Finally he connected with his right foot to send Boon away to the other end. O'Halloran gathering up the cross to make Daynes stretch himself to have his charge. Then Bill Curtis tried to get inside of the upright from the rebound. The goal-keeper throwing himself full length to divert the ball around the corner. The famous last minute rush by the Electric boys hemmed the Brintons into their goal where the players packed themselves solid so as to stop a tally. Keeness in tactics got the better of two of the players who received marching orders to the pavilion for indulging in fistic maneuvers. A minute to go, Hansen crossed into goal where his center man connected with his breast to put the game on solid ground. The teams lined up and the tussle ended with the Brintons 2, C. G. E. 0.

Brinton—W. Jones, G.; S. Laidler and D. Green, F. B.; J. Creighton, J. Anderson and E. A. Bayliss, H; W. Curtis, J. Boon, J. O'Halloran, H. Hotson and E. Hanson, forwards.

Canadian General—J. Daynes, G.; J. Mitchell and J. Chambers, F. B; J. Chamberlain, R. Carmichael and W. Robb, H; A. Burgess, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, B. Bolam and H. Darling, forwards.

Dixon, Scott and Leonard Score Wins at C. N. E. Regatta.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—The fifth and last dinghy race of the Canadian National Exhibition was held Saturday afternoon off Exhibition Park. First honors in the three classes went to boats of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club. Reg. Dixon won Senior A Class, Les Scott won Class A, and Frank Leonard captured Class B honors.

The race for Senior A Division was called for 3.30 p.m. The boats got away on time with a wind abeam and all buoys to port. There was light wind blowing from the south-east, making a buck out into the lake on the second leg. Dixon worked out a lead in this weather work and retained it to the finish, although as the wind softened toward the finish Geo. Dingwall was pressing him hard and was only 29 seconds behind him. Scott had a margin of 22 seconds in Class A, while in B Class Leonard led by over five minutes having overtaken some of the Class A sailors.

Brockville Advances By Beating Trenton

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 8.—In their second round of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate playdowns here Saturday afternoon, Brockville Agnew-Surpass team eliminated Trenton C.P.R. nine. The final score was 7 to 3.

Jack Garrett pitched for Brockville, allowing six hits and striking out six. Ernie Bowler was on the mound for Trenton, and was touched for 13 hits of them, a homer by Levi with one on. Trenton had eight errors to three by Brockville.

Don Bradman Leads English Cricketeers

LONDON, Sept. 8. (Canadian Press Cable).—Averages for the past season in English cricket published to-day show that Don Bradman, brilliant 22 year old player, led the field both in the number of runs scored and his average Bradman got close to 3,000 runs and his average was over 100, a very remarkable showing. The English batsmen are led by Herbert Sutcliffe, the Yorkshire international, while bowling honors go to C. L. L. Parker, the Gloucestershire veteran. A new bowling star has risen above the horizon in Verity, of Yorkshire. A. O. F. Freeman, the Kent old timer, took the largest number of wickets. Jack Hobbs, the great Surrey and England batsman, who has led the batting averages many times, is sixth this season.

TORONTO JUVENILES EVEN SEMI-FINALS

St. George's Connect For 16 Safeties From Moodie Hurlers Win Out 16-3.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—St. George's Juveniles, T.A.B.C. champions, tied up their round in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals with Hamilton Moodies on Saturday at Willowvale Park, when they hit the offerings of two of the visitors' pitchers for 16 safeties and won quite handily, 16 to 3.

"Red" Sherwood pitched a masterly game for the winners, and while he was reached for 11 hits he kept them well scattered and made 12 of the Moodies miss the third strike.

Anderson, who started for the losers, got himself into trouble right in the second frame when he hit 2 batters and walked one, coupled with two hits, gave St. George's a lead of two runs and they were never headed. Simpson, who relieved Anderson in the fourth, was hit just as freely as his predecessor.

The third and deciding game will probably be played at Oakville next Wednesday or Saturday.

CRESCENTS LOSE TO OSHAWA 3-2

Strong Defensive Work By Both Teams Feature of Exhibition Game.

MOUND WORK GOOD.

OSHAWA, Sept. 8.—The Oshawa Arabs defeated the Peterborough Crescents in an exhibition tilt at the Motor City Stadium here on Saturday afternoon, 3 to 2.

Crescents, runners-up to Peterborough C.G.E., Peterborough's representatives in the O.B.A.A. intermediate race, and the Arabs' next opponents, produced two very capable hurlers in Masterson and Holmes. The usual heavy-hitting Arabs were held pretty much in check, and they had to work hard for their three runs. Strong defensive play, especially by the locals, featured the game. The game was very close and hard-fought, but the crowd did not become enthusiastic owing to the fact that it was an exhibition fixture. Frank and Gower both hurled well for the Oshawa team, and they were given good support. Gingeroski turned in a nice game behind the plate for Oshawa, making several nice put-outs at the plate.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SCOTS PUT OUT OF GORDON CUP BY C. P. C. 3-0

Newt Downer Scored Twice in First Half—Poor Exhibition of Code.

MEET BRINTON NOW.

Packers Consolidated in Defensive Tactics in Second Period—Preston Scored.

The first game of the double header in the semi-final of the G. N. Gordon cup between the Caledonians and the Canadian Packing resulted in the former being eliminated by the score of three clear goals to nothing, in one of the poorest exhibitions of the code seen this season. The Scots were at full strength except in the full back division where it needs strengthening and they were completely off their game. The winners deserving to win by a greater margin and will now meet their old rivals, Brinton Athletic, in the final.

First Half

The spin of the coin went against the Caledonians. Play was of a slow character for a long while with the players not taking very participation in the game. After repeated onslaughts on the Scots goal, Newt Downer got the better of Fowler in goal with a smart header for the opening count. As the battle continued the winners gained more confidence while the Scots seemed to be all at sixes and sevens. No matter what they tried, everything went the opposite way and the forwards were in a quandry whenever they got inside the goal area. At last, the Packers increased their score by the outside right picking the far corner of the goal for the second counter. Nothing interesting thereafter transpired as the ball hovered in the vicinities of the goals. Canadian Packing 2, Caledonians 0.

Second Half

On resuming, the Scots took up the attack right away to find a defense giving no scope to make inroads on the citadel. Give and take play continued with the Packers confining the activities to keeping the Scots outside the shooting one. Twenty minutes had gone, when Preston increased the taly to number three. From a center by his wing man on the right he trapped the ball from the air. Ward closed in on him to commit a foul but Packers man got the better of the argument when he kicked the ball into the net amidst protests from the Scots. They claimed that the offense had been committed before the goal was scored and should have been a foul kick but the referee abided by his decision. Raid after raid by the Scots never brought success to them. Time and again they would work close in on the goal to finish with a lightning drive that went into the heavens. It developed into a happy go lucky game that was void of interest in every respect and finished in time to permit the other game to continue. Canadian Packing 3, Caledonians 0.

Goal scorers. Newt Downer, 2 and Preston.

Caledonians—H. Fowler, goal; A. Boggie and D. Houston, full backs; A. Graham, J. Ward and J. Emmery, halves; W. McCracken, W. Cook, D. Curtain, D. Best and J. Gore forwards.

Unattached players were Mrs. J. Runnett, Mrs. J. Greenwood, Mrs. R. Mackey, Mrs. W. A. Harvie, Mrs. G. Sexsmith, Mrs. E. Waterman, Mrs. W. Sanderson, Mrs. F. Leether, Mrs. J. Bradley, and Miss Rose Sexsmth.

Prizes Presented.

The members met at the home of Mrs. Watson recently, when a very enjoyable evening was spent in cards. The prize for the highest score was won by Mrs. Watson, who was tied with Mrs. Cheverill and Mrs. Page for highest score, and the result decided by a draw. The second prize went to Mrs. W. Hughes and the consolation to Mrs. C. Wiley. Mrs. F. Miller won the lucky chair prize. The prizes for the rink games were then presented to the successful players by the president, Mrs. G. Foster and the recipients called upon for speeches. Mrs. Hope's rink received first prizes of silver butter dishes Mrs. Wiggins' rink salad dishes, Mrs. Fisher's rink hand-painted cream and sugar sets, and Mrs. Page's rink the consolation award of china mayonnaise dishes.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Hearty votes of thanks to the hostess were voiced by Mrs. Fisher, seconded by Mrs. Miller, also to the committee who chose the prizes, proposed by Mrs. R. Grant and seconded by Mrs. Wiley. The evening concluded by singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

SEA-FLEA DAREDEVILS AT LAKE ONTARIO MEET

After a day's postponement because of rough water, the Canada Power Boat Association officials in charge of the outboard hydroplane regatta at the C.N.E., Toronto, finally started the ball rolling on September 4, under lively water conditions—but the racing wound up in a cruel man-killing grind for the thousand-dollar trophy presented by Lord Wakefield for the fifteen-mile Class "C" championship of the British Empire. No. 1, Hub Myers, famous Michigan pro. driver who won the ten-mile race for the combined Class "D" and "F" motors. No. 2, the start of the Class "B" and "C" race for foreign drivers only. No. 3, 'Pat' Patterson of Troy, New York, one of the best known drivers in the United States, who finished third in United States race. No. 4, "Young J. R." Ardiel, the sixteen-year-old Windsor Ont. lad who won the Canadian five-mile championship of Class "C", and turned right around and won the Lord Wakefield trophy after fifteen miles of the roughest sort of going, and Harry "Red" Foster, noted Toronto all-round athlete, who finished second in the Wakefield trophy race. Ardiel, a 130-pound lad, collapsed as he finished the Wakefield trophy race, while Foster, a 190-pound husky went to his knees getting out of his boat. Of fourteen starters, five finished and nine went over or were swamped.

LAWN BOWLING

The Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club of All Saints' Church have been enjoying a very successful season, with a membership of 42. This week they concluded their rink games with two keenly contested games for first and third places, Mrs. Hope's rink playing Mrs. Wiggins' rink for the first prize and winning out in a close game, and Mrs. Fisher's rink defeating Mrs. Delong's rink on Thursday afternoon. There were eight complete rinks playing this season and ten unattached players. At the beginning of the season the skips were appointed by the committee and the entire rinks were drawn for. The line-up for the games and the results were as follows:

Mrs. A. Hope, skip, Mrs. W. H. Darcy, vice, Mrs. F. W. Burnham, second, Mrs. C. Wiley, lead—13 games won.

Mrs. C. Wiggins, skip, Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, vice, Mrs. W. Hughes, second, Mrs. Gordon Moore, lead — 12 games won.

Mrs. E. W. Fisher, skip, Mrs. F. J. Parsons, vice, Mrs. F. Miller, second, Mrs. G. Grant, lead—10 games won.

Campbellford Public School Being Painted

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Under the chairmanship of J. C. Birmingham, the Property Committee of the Campbellford Board of Education is carrying out a scheme of decoration at the Public School.

The whole of the wood and iron work of the exterior is being painted in a colour scheme of green and red which blends excellently with the red brick work and white stone facings.

When complete this will greatly add to the appearance of this corner, for standing as it does on a hill, it will show to splendid advantage. The whole of the work is being given two coats of paint.

DAIRY BOARDS.

Madoc, Sept. 8.—(Special).—At Saturday's meeting of the Madoc Cheese Board, 440 white cheese were boarded, and all sold at 13 7-8c. 217 were sold to Hodgson & Rowson and 223 sold to Cook.

Belleville, Sept. 8.—(Special).—At the Belleville Cheese Board Saturday, 1,692 white were registered. 1,336 sold at 13 7-8c. The balance were refused at 13 11-16c.

MADOC SCHOOLS FULL.

High School Enrollment Exceeds 1929 Last By Twenty-five.

MADOC, Sept. 8.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — Schools opened on Tuesday morning with every room filled to capacity and about thirty beginners to fill the Primary room. One new teacher has been added to the Public school staff in the person of Miss A. Fleming, who will occupy the east room adjoining the Domestic Science room, and will have the Senior Second classes.

In the High school there is already an enrollment of pupils exceeding last year's attendance by twenty or twenty-five. Last year's teaching staff, under the Principalship of Miss McEachern, are in charge, with the exception of Miss Anderson, who is replaced by Miss Kosh, who comes to Madoc very highly recommended.

OBITUARY

DAVID CRITTEN

HAVELOCK, Sept. 8. (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late David Critten, husband of Martha Carr Critten, was held from his home, to the United Church at Rockdale, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 6th and was very largely attended. The services which were under the auspices of Rockdale L.O.L. were conducted by Rev. Mr. Howard of Marmora, formerly of Cordova United Church.

The late Mr. Critten was well and favorably known in this district where he has resided for almost fifty years. Besides his widow he leaves a family of five grown up children. They are Sheldon of Washington, D.C., Warden of Welland, Ont., Ernest of Stirling, Mrs. John Hay, Stirling, and Mrs. Amos Youmouths of Dakota. His son Sheldon, and daughter, Mrs. Youmans, were unable to get home in time for the funeral.

Many lovely floral pieces spoke eloquently of the respect of a host of friends. Burial was made in the family plot at Rockdale cemetery, the pall-bearers being Henry Clemenger, Edward Bowen, Arthur Palmateer, Frederick Cole, George Ellis, and Roy Aulthouse.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved family.

FOUR CARS CRASH BONERLAW ROAD

Mrs. P. Mumby, Springbrook, Suffers Slight Scalp Wound in Accident.

MARMORA, Sept. 8. (Examiner Correspondence).—A peculiar series of accidents in which four cars were involved, occurred about 8.45 p.m. on Saturday evening on the highway to Bonarlaw, three miles south of Marmora village. The only injury sustained in connection with the accidents, befell Mrs. Percy Mumby who sustained a slight scalp wound. Percy Mumby of Springbrook with his wife and niece Hazel Lough were on their way home from Marmora and were negotiating the curve near John Wellman's when it is alleged a car driven by John Lummiss of Stirling, crashed into them. In the impact the Mumby car was thrown crossways and the left hind wheel broken off. The other car had its left front wheel taken off and considerable damage was also caused to the chassis of the vehicle. The strange thing about the damage to the Lummiss car was that the windshield and one door glass only were cracked though it was a closed car. Hazel Lough was thrown out but escaped injury.

While these two cars were still in the roadway a third car proceeding north crashed into the ditch to avoid striking the wrecked cars. It was assisted out without the driver being identified. Closely following it was another car driven by Roy Dunkley of Bonarlaw who was not so successful in avoiding the wreckage. Instead his car turned completely 'round in the ditch and toppled over on its side.

Neither Mr. Dunkley or his daughter, who were the only occupants of the car were injured.

WEDDING BELLS

McConnell—Wellington

MADOC, Sept. 8. (Examiner Correspondence).—The mariage of Miss Irene Wellington, youngest daughter of Mrs. S. Wellington and the late Mr. Stephen Wellington, of Madoc, to Mr. Lorne McConnell, of the Bank of Commerce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McConnell, of Cannington, took place on Wednesday, September 3rd, at 10.30 a.m. at the home of the bride's mother, Durham Street, Rev. G. W. Rivers, minister of the United Crudch, officiated. Mr. J. Kinch and Miss Francis Kinch, of Thessalon, niece and nephew of the bride, were witnesses.

The bride's wedding gown was of beige lace with gold slippers, and she carried a bouquet of Marechal France roses. Her travelling dress was of flowered ninon with hat to match. The young couple left for a motor trip through the State of Michigan, also visiting Sault Ste. Marie and Thessalon.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Reid, of Ompah, Stephen Arthur was christened after the wedding ceremony.

COMPLIMENTED ON HER COMPLEXION AT 65

Tells All Women How She Does It

20 YEARS OF KRUSCHEN 20 YEARS OF HEALTH

Just fancy! A grandmother and still being complimented on her complexion! How does she do it? Her letter explains. Kruschen keeps her young and fit. That's the secret of the whole matter.

"When I was on holiday this Summer I was asked what gave me or what I used for my fresh complexion. For 20 years now I've used as directed Kruschen Salts, the finest and only medicine to my knowledge. Before this I was troubled with my liver and biliousness and rheumatism in my arm and shoulders. I just take it regularly as you describe, with the above result. I tell everyone this, also my family, who are now men and women, for I am over 65." —E. B.

Don't be content to envy her. Follow her example. Kruschen will keep you young, just as it keeps her young. The little daily dose keeps you young inside; you wake up every morning as fit and fresh as a schoolgirl, and before the first month is out the wonderful difference is written in your complexion and your eyes. Kruschen will restore the liver and kidneys to proper activity. Waste products will be naturally expelled by those eliminating organs as Nature intends. The blood will be refreshed and will course in a cleansing stream to every fibre of the body, reinvigorating your whole system, brightening your eyes, clearing your skin. You feel—and are—a different person. Thousands are proving it daily. Why shouldn't you? Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

CHURCH IS SAVING MODERN SOCIETY SAYS MINISTER

Insult to Intelligence Saying Society is All Right, Says Rev. Allan.

TOO MUCH POSING.

Prohibition Laws Treated as Nuisance and Joke in Many Parts States.

"Tell me society is all right and you insult what intelligence I have. The presence of the Christian Church is the only thing which prevents society going all to pieces" declared Rev. William Allan in the course of his sermon last evening from the pulpit of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, which he is occupying again after his return from the United States.

He based his discourse on a text taken from St. Matthew V 13 and 14, and proceeded to point out that this passage of scripture represented a portion of Christ's sermon on the Mount.

Calling to mind the fact that Christ sought solitude for meditation and prayer, the preacher said, "If you never get away from the crowd, you will never do more than the crowd."

"In Christ's sermon on the Mount, He is speaking as King and as such is laying down the laws that are to operate in His kingdom. Laws always relate to life and are given to keep life in the right relation to life."

One of the laws is spoken of in the nature of salt. Salt preserves and keeps things from going to rot, while one of the characteristics of salt is light—light which dispels the darkness. Light illiminates said the speaker, it also penetrates. Such is the nature of the Christian Church which with all its faults and shortcomings is fulfilling Christ's mission and is the only institution in the world capable of doing it. There are other organizations in the world seeking to preserve society from going corrupt" he admitted, "but any value such organizations possess must be credited to the Christian Church."

"Withdraw the elements of salt and light from society and what would happen?" asked the preacher. "Society would go absolutely corrupt."

He continued to speak of the disregard with which the prohibition laws are held in the United States, saying that in many sections of that country such laws are treated as a nuisance or a joke.

Mr. Allan continued to speak of the fact that many people are in the darkness regarding morality, and think that to do wrong is not wrong, so long as one is not found out. They think that Christianity only consists in being baptized into the Church.

He thought that the great trouble with a great many Church people is that they are spending too much time, thought and strength in posing.

"I wonder sometimes" he said, "why they can't just be themselves."

"We are spending too much time pretending to be what we are not. If we are really cultured our friends will discover it, without our affecting an Oxford accent. If we really have some money people will likely catch on to that fact without our giving them a reminder of our 16-cylinder car, and if we have not culture or money why worry? We are not asking what you have; we are asking what you are."

JUDGE WALLACE TO HOLD PROBE

Will Delve Into Fraudulent Obtaining of Naturalization Papers by Certain Aliens.

PROSECUTIONS START.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.).—His Honor J. G. Wallace, Judge of the County Court for Oxford, has been appointed Commissioner to investigate the fraudulent obtaining of naturalization papers by certain aliens. Official announcement of the appointment was made to-day. Judge Wallace, who resides at Woodstock, Ont., will embark on the work immediately.

Various methods, it it understood, have been adopted to secure the certificates fraudulently, and Judge Wallace will make an inquiry into all the facts in each case. British Consular agents in several European countries have taken up a number of these fraudulent certificates, principally by reason of the fact that the aliens possessing them had returned to their native country and had forfeited them under the clause which makes a naturalization certificate null if its owner resides away from Canada for seven years.

FIRE AT RUBBISH DUMP

Members of the City Fire Department dealt with a fire which had broken out on the city rubbish dump at Rogers and Wilson streets this noon. A water line was used but at no time was there danger to adjoining property.

Constable Disturbs Sabbath Morn Spree In Nogie's Creek District

A drinking bout staged on the shore of Nogie's Creek, by a gang of Finlanders early Sunday morning, was brought to an abrupt conclusion when Provincial Constable H. Thompson descended upon the scene of the drunken revelry. The men lay about the ground, several of them in the extreme stage of intoxication.

Only a moving van would have been sufficient to transport them to the city lock up, and not having one at hand the constable was forced to take the men's names and be satisfied with ordering them to appear in court this morning. None of them were in court today and the constable immediately set his plans for another trip to the Creek to round them up.

These men are employed in a camp in that district to cut pulp wood. They were not consuming any of the product of the still recently uncovered in that neighborhood, but liquor purchased at the vendor store in Lindsay.

LADIES AID PLANS FALL ACTIVITIES

George Street Society Prepares For Grand Rally on October 7.

88 SICK CALLS MADE.

The Ladies' Aid Society of George Street United Church met for the first fall meeting on Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. W. P. Hetherington occupied the chair and welcomed the members, asking them to actively co-operate with her in the coming busy season. A grand rally will be held on the first Tuesday in October when every member is asked to be present and bring a new member if possible. At the conclusion of this meeting a social hour will be enjoyed with the service of refreshments.

The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. E. W. Coon who gave a splendid talk on the history of the singing of hymns, their authors and the circumstances under which some hymns were written. Mrs. A. I. Brown concluded the devotional period with prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. G. C. Staples and approved and the financial statement given by the treasurer, Mrs. S. Oke.

Miss Mary Elliott, corresponding secretary, reported a number of letters of sympathy written during the past three months and read a large number of letters of thanks for flowers received by the sick.

Mrs. P. Hagerman for the sick and visiting committee reported 88 calls made since the June meeting.

Mrs. C. F. Smith, convenor of arrangements for the Christmas Fair, reported that the convenors of books had been busy during the holiday season and were planning more active work for the autumn months. She announced that a picnic would be held at Inverlea Park on Thursday afernoon, September 18th, if the weather was favorable or in case of inclement weather, at the church. An invitation was extended to all other members interested. At this get-together meeting full reports of progress will be given and plans discussed. An announcement was received from the Co-Workers Bible Class, that they would again have a booth at the Exhibition grounds and asking the church members to patronise them.

Mrs. McHoull announced that there would be a sale of home made cooking after the Rally Day meeting by the members of her committee, for the Christmas Fair fund.

Mrs. Coon gave a very interesting reading entitled "A Japanese Reformer" after which the meeting closed.

Boys Are Given Car Ride Which Is Not Altogether To Their Liking

Several young "visitors" to the Peterborough Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon had the novel experience of being entertained by a police officer, who gave them a ride in his car and took them off to see a special exhibit, which it is understood will not be found listed among the exhibits on the official program. The exhibit in question was none other than the cat-o'-nine-tails which is housed at the City Police Office. The boys were not altogether taken up with the instrument of affliction, but agreed that they were at least impressed with the majesty of the law.

The above incident was enacted as the result of a complaint from one of the Fair Board officials who had experienced considerable annoyance from small boys who had loitered around the grounds all day, in some cases causing wilful damage to the property. The police officer who patrolled the grounds for over an hour was also subjected to a great deal of insolence, capturing a carload of the culprits, he took them to headquarters, and after entertaining them for a while allowed them to go home. They went feeling greatly subdued, and had possibly profited considerably from the lesson.

Parents are requested to caution ther children about committing such offences at the Fair Grounds. Considerable trouble was experienced from this source last year and on previous occasions. Children are more than welcome at the Fair, and the Board have provided all kinds of amusements for their benefit but it is pointed out most emphatically that any unseemly conduct will not be tolerated this year.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 56 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

D'Arnot, the only son of an aristocratic French family of wealth, was unable to express his gratitude to Tarzan sufficiently. Never could he forget those terrible times among the cannibals when Tarzan had saved him from being eaten alive. Now he was heart-broken at the thought of parting.

Tarzan wished to work his way across the Atlantic. D'Arnot would not consent. He had deposited money to Tarzan's credit and had given him a fine French motor car. Making him promise to return to Paris, d'Arnot reluctantly bid him adieu and wished him "Bon voyage" as Tarzan boarded the great liner.

The handsome "Monsieur Tarzan" was a great favorite during the voyage. One morning as he watched the dancing spray, he heard a cry "Man overboard," and saw a youth slip to the dark waters below. Quick as a flash, Tarzan dived after, clasping him almost before the waters closed over them.

Tarzan became the idol of the ship. It happened that the rescued boy's grateful parents knew Jane's father. And so Tarzan easily found his way. The day after docking a big black car stopped at the modest home and a black-haired giant leaped happily up the porch.

Our old friend Esmeralda opened the door. "If 'tain't the ape-man," she cried, and as usual was about to faint, but excitement prevented her. He learned that "Miss Jane had gone up north to be married." It needed no further incentive to speed Tarzan over the miles toward Clayton's camp.

TROUBLE GROWS IN BUENOS AIRES

Revolutionary Troops Take Control of Sante Fe and Rosario.

15 DIE IN RIOTS.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 8 — (CP) — With the Hipolito Irigoyen (spelling now used) Government unseated by an army-navy rebellion and the ageing former President held a prisoner, the movement has spread to a number of other Provinces in the Republic.

Troops of the revolutionary Junta took control of Santa Fe and Rosario, the two principal cities of Santa Fe and the 11th occupying Rosario.

Reports from the city of Santiago in the Province of Del. Estero, say that when the news of the revolution in Buenos Aires was received 2,000 persons paraded the streets and shouted for the new Government.

Total casualties during the disorders accompanying the overthrow of the Irigoyen Government are placed by hospital authorities at 15 dead and 100 wounded. Reports of 1,066 dead and wounded were said to be a great exaggeration.

WORKMAN INJURED AT CANOE FACTORY

Albert W. Hinds Receives Double Fracture of Bones in Right Leg.

70 YEARS OF AGE.

Albert Wesley Hinds, of 712 Elcombe Crescent, received a fracture of both bones in the right leg as the result of an accident at the Peterborough Canoe Works at noon on Saturday.

He was immediately rushed to the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic, where his injuries were attended by Drs. A. Moir and J. H. Eastwood. The injured man was later removed to hospital, where, this morning, it was stated he is progressing favorably.

Mr. Hinds is seventy years old, and has been employed by the Peterborough Canoe Company for the past thirty years. It is learned that the accident was the result of a load falling from an overhead carrier.

EXHIBITION NOTES

FLOWER SHOW EXHIBITS.

Flower exhibitors at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are reminded that all exhibits must be in place by noon on Tuesday. Judging will commence at 2 p.m. For competitors who find it inconvenient to bring entries on Tuesday, it may be stated that any entries will be received on Monday night.

Numbers will be placed on the flower stands corresponding to the entry list for amateurs' section, such as No. 1 Antirrhinium Snapdragon, and competitors will arrange their own exhibits opposite the number corresponding to their entry in the list.

The rule which says, "In all cases there must be competition to receive first money," is to be ignored by the judge, but he has power to withhold a prize if an exhibit is not worthy. In all cases competitors are asked to have the number of blooms called for, although if an exhibitor has not the desired number it will not be a barrier to entry. Five good blooms will possibly beat out six inferior ones. Do not exceed the number of blooms called for, otherwise they will be disqualified.

'BUS SERVICE TO "EX."

Ample arrangemens have been made by the Peterborough Bus Lines Company to handle Exhibition crowds. it was learned by The Examiner this morning. While a schedule has not been prepared, the company will have four buses in reserve and can speed up the service as required; if necessary, running a four-minute service to and from all parts of the city. All Exhibition-bound 'buses will take passengers direct to the main entrance.

WEDDING BELLS

SIDEY—STRONG.

A wedding of interest took place at "Strong Holme," the home of the bride's parents, Provincial Highway, on Friday, September 5, at 3 o'clock, when Verna Eleanor Bernice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard S. Strong, became the bride of Norman Donald Sidey, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidey, Bewdley, Ont. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of the Murray street Baptist church. The wedding ceremony took place on he lawn, The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in her gown of white crepe romaine, fashioned in princess style, with appliqued yoke, while the cap-shaped veil of Brussels net with appliqued corners, was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses Miss Naomi Horn, of Peterborough, attired in pale-peach georgette and black panne velvet hat, with matching shoes, was the bride's only attendant. She carried an arm bouquet of Sunburst roses. Mr. Clarence Mitchell of Madoc, formerly of Peterborough, acted as best man. The wedding music was played by Miss Esther McGlennon of Colborne.

A reception followed the ceremony, the bride's mother receiving in black lace and georgette, with a corsage bouquet of Sunburst roses. Mrs. Sidey, who also received, was in navy blue georgette, with corasge of roses. Later Mr. and Mrs. Sidey left by motor for Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, the bride travelling in a silk tweed suit in shades of sand and brown, with matching hat, shoes and accessories. She also wore the groom's gift, a fox fur. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Sidey will reside in Bewdley.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful topaz pendant, on a gold chain, and to the pianist a topaz little finger ring. The groom's gift to the groomsman was a pair of gold cuff links.

McINDOO—SANDERSON.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sanderson of Ida, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when their youngest daughter, Mary Gladys, became the bride of Robert Frederick McIndoo, younger son of Mr. T. W. McIndoo, and the late Mrs. McIndoo, of Ida, Ont. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. S. H. Moyer of Springville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of orchid metal thread lace, with mohair hat and shoes to match, and carried talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only attendant, her niece, little Miss Helen Marie Peel, as flower girl, wore a dainty dress of Nile green taffeta. The wedding music was played by Mrs. S. H. Moyer and during the signing of the register Mr. M. P. McIndoo, brother of the groom, sang "For You Alone."

The ceremony was followed by a reception, after which a dainty buffet luncheon was served. Receiving with the bride was he rmother in a gown of black silk fish net lace with corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McIndoo left by motor for the Maritime provinces and will return through the Northern States by Buffalo and London. The bride travelled in a suit of black silvertone broadcloth with black velvet hat and gloves and bag to match, and on their return they will reside in Cavan.

QUINLAN—CAVANAGH.

At St. Joseph's church, Douro, the wedding took place at nine o'clock on Tuesday, September 2nd, of Mary Teresa, second eldest daughter of Mrs. Mary Cavanagh of Otonabee and the late Richard Cavanagh, to Joseph Christopher Quinlan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Quinlan, of Indian River. The Rev. M. McGuire performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, William Cavanagh, of Otonabee, wore a pretty frock of rose beige georgette with brown hat and matching slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of gladioli.

The bridesmaid, Miss Geraldine Quinlan, sister of the bridegroom, was in brown crepe, with matching hat, shoes and hose, and bouquet of gladioli.

Joseph Cavanagh, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The wedding music was played by Miss Mary Allen of Douro.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, to about forty-five guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan left for a honeymoon in Cobourg and Rochester, the bride travelling in a green ensemble with green hat, black slippers and eggshell hose.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a white gold bracelet set with amethysts, to the bridesmaid a white gold brooch and to the best man a pair of cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan are residing on Crescent street.

ROBERTSON—McCONNACHIE.

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Finnie of Bailleboro, when the latter's sister, Agnes ("Connie"), daughter of the Rev. A. H. and Mrs. McConnachie of Westmeath, Ontario, became the bride of Oren Alexander Robertson, B.Comm., only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Robertson of Cavan.

The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, the Rev. Mr. McConnachie, who also gave her in marriage. The wedding took place under an arch of evergreens and gladioli.

The bride wore a lovely gown of pink French lace, with matching hat and shoes, and carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses and sweet peas.

The wedding music was played by Miss Phyllis Fenn of Toronto. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Mars Westington, accompanied by Professor Mars Westington, M.A., sang very sweetly "At Dawning."

After the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom received the guests, assisted by Mrs. R. A. Robertson, who wore a dress of rose beige crepe romain, and Mrs. A. H. McConnachie, in black canton crepe with fawn trimmings.

A dainty buffet luncheon to about sixty guests was catered for by Messrs. T. H. Hooper and Sons.

On their return from a two weeks' honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will live in Hamilton.

OBITUARY

RICHARD G. SMITH.

The death occurred early on Sunday morning, of Richard C. Smith, at 50 Ware street, in his 90th year, following a short illness.

The late Mr. Smith was a native of the State of Maine, and had lived in retirement in this city for the past seven years, having come here from Coaticook, Quebec, where he was in the butcher business.

His wife predeceased him some years ago, and he is survived by one son, Eugene of Dixville, Quebec, and one daughter, Mrs. Eugene Wesley Young of 50 Ware street.

Following a service which will be conducted at the family residence this evening at 7.30 by Rev. J. H. Harton, the remains will be forwarded on the C.N.R. train at 9 p.m., for interment at Dixville, Quebec, on Tuesday.

LIBERALS HOLD SWAY IN SENATE

Senator Turriff Referred to as Progressive Classed Among Liberals.

COUNT IS 50-46.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.).—Parliament opens with the Liberals commanding a narrow majority in the Senate. The standing is fifty Liberals against forty-six Conservatives. In this line-up Senator Turriff, referred to as a Progressive, is classed among the Liberals, and his support is generally given to that party. From the Conservative ranks, Senator Blondin will go to the Speaker's throne, which will reduce the total vote of that party by one, save in the case of a tie when the Speaker has a casting vote.

The doyen of the Senate is now Senator Pascal Poirier, who has served in the Upper Chamber forty-five years, or thirteen years longer than any other member. Senator Dandurand, Liberal leader, is next in seniority in the Senate.

WAITED FOR A JOB

A group of twenty or more men gathered outside the Y.M.C.A. building this morning, all filled with the hope of securing a job on the addition work. Contractor Thomas Ephgrave told The Examiner this afternoon that he expects to be able to start the work to-morrow morning. "There are several things we want to get straightened away that may delay the start somewhat," he said, "but we hope to commence to-morrow."

Cattle judging begins Wednesday afternoon with G. A. Brethen of Norwood handling the Holsteins and Jerseys, F. M. Rutherford of Belleville, judging the Ayrshires, and J. M. Gardhouse of Weston will again select the winners in the beef cattle class.

Many Horses Exhibited.

Exhibitors of horses include the following: Emery Windrum of Omemee, P. Moncrief & Sons, South Monaghan; Charles E Moore, Rupert Byers of Blackstock, the T. Eaton Co., Ernest Beer, Bethany, Lloyd Kennedy, H. Jamieson, Mount Pleasant, J. O. Ball, James Whittington, Nassau; Col. Earchman, Trenton; Harry Redmond, R. Mark Manley, L. Moncrief, J. White South Monaghan; Harry Gillis, D. Scollard, H. Halligan, Campbellcroft; Elmer Windrum, John Hope; Mrs. J. S. Chandler, Jos. Mann, V. R. Hunter, S. S. Staples, A. B. Mann, R. McKnight, Millbrock; L. Beavis, Norwood; Jos. Staples, and other local exhibitors.

Some of these entries comprise 14 head, and others range all the way down to one team.

Numerous cattle exhibits fresh from triumphs at the Canadian National Exhibition and other fairs throughout the Province and in the Dominion arrived at the local fair grounds over the week-end. The following were the entries at noon today:

Amos and Black of Moffatt, Ontario, noted breeders of pure bred Shorthorn cattle, this year have entered 19 head, ten head of which is direct from the C.N.E. These breeders have exhibited extensively in the West this summer including Prince Albert, Regina, Brandon, Saskatoon, Portage La Prairie, Dauphin, Yorkton, Melfort, North Battleford, Lloydminster at which fairs they won over 100 first prizes and 45 championships.

They had intended going on to Vancouver, Victoria and New West Minster, stated Mr Black, but on account of the fact that they sold the major portion of their herd they were obliged to return home.

Amos and Black it will be recalled exhibited at Peterborough Fair last year and cleaned-up everything in the Shorthorn class.

Their stock includes, "Manor Guard" senior bull which has won 8 grand-championships this year.

"Lavender Lady IV" who has taken 8 grand championships in the female class.

"Mina Jean" undefeated junior champion.

"Lonach Major" seven times junior champion.

J. T. Drope of Willowcreek Farm, Hastings, has also arrived here with twelve head of Jersey thoroughbreds. He recently exhibited at Belleville, Picton and Ottawa and also attended all the spring shows in Quebec. So far he has captured everything in the Jersey class.

His herd includes such well-known animals as, "Brampton Prince Xenia" 3 years old., which captured the senior grand championship at Ottawa.

"Iona Ferns Bright Rose" senior champion at Ottawa. Her calf "Willow Creek Panola Rose" won the junior and grand championship at Ottawa.

E. Hubbell of Havelock is making his initial entry in the 1930 fairs with his exhibit of six head of thoroughbred Jerseys. He exhibited at numerous fall fairs last year, but since that time has done little or no exhibiting. His cattle are in exceptionally good condition and it will be interesting to not Mr. Hubbell's showing in Peterborough.

A breeder of thirty years' standing D. N. Foster of Sunnyside Farm, Bloomfield, Ontario and a director of the Holstein Association of Canada, is here with an exceptionally promising entry.

His herd was scored for individuality last April and 70 per cent were placed in the gold medal class. The herd is fully accredited and is negative to the abortion test.

Mr. Foster exhibited here last year and made a very good showing. This year he has attended Belleville and Picton Fairs and from here is going to Lindsay.

Already this year Mr. Foster's herd has taken all first prizes in the classes exhibited, with the exception of a junior heifer calf which was awarded second prize.

Included among the ten head of Holsteins which he has here, is "King Abbekerk Model", 3 years old, which was fifth at the Royal Winter Fair 1929 and first at Belleville and Picton.

"King Alcartra Pluto" junior bull yearling, son of a $5,000 bull. First at Belleville and Picton.

"Banostire Corndyke Lass' first prize dry cow at Belleville and Picton.

The last two mentioned cows also took special prizes at Belleville and Picton as the best two dairy cows of that breed.

"Madoc Helen" junior yearling heifer. First at Belleville and Picton, special at Belleville with all dairy breeds competing.

treatment. In between were the service clubs who formed the link by which the children requiring attention could be given the necessary treatment.

The pictures shown by Rotarian Hopper, which included scenes at the Thistledown Hospital, of the London War Memorial Hospital and the Sunshine Class promoted by the Ottawa Rotary Club were full of interest in the revelation they gave of the extent of the work being done.

In this connection it would be of much help to the local Rotary Club if parents or others knowing of crippled children who are in need of attention would send in the names to the Rotarians as soon as possible.

CUSTOMS MUM ABOUT ST. PIERRE LIQUOR TRADE

OTTAWA, Ont., September 8 (C. P.). — High officials of the Department of Customs are disinclined to comment upon the reports of vessels alleged to be carrying liquor from the French island of St. Pierre and Miquelon to United States ports on the Great Lakes. The general impression is that even if the bulk of this liquor is the produte of Canadian distilleries and breweries, the mateer of its trans-shipment to the French islands and thence to the United States via the St. Lawrence is one affecting only the governments of these foreign countries.

MEXICO SENDS FUNDS.

MEXICO CITY, September 8 (C. P.) — The Mexcan Government today cabled the minister at Santo Domingo 50,000 Pesos (about $25,000) contribution to the relief fund. President Oritz Rubio also cabled President General Trujillo his condolences.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY FIVE-DAY WEEK PLAN HELD OVER

Dominion-wide Labor Congress Scheme Sent to Committee.

'Nations Conference' Fails

Each of 12 Unemployment Resolutions Urge Congress to Press For Insurance.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 9. (CP) — Unemployment, sickness and invalid insurance, hours of labor and kindred subjects faced delegates to the 46th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in session here, when they resumed their seats to-day.

The discussion, particularly with reference to unemployment, is expected to be of great interest and every seat was taken when President Tom Moore brought the convention to order.

Twelve resolutions on unemployment alone are on the agenda and in every one of them the Unions ask the Congress to press for insurance.

In order to expedite the work of the Congress many resolutions were grouped and referred back to the committee on officer's reports.

The First Snag.

The first snag in the proceedings, however, came when a resolution urging the Canadian Government to take the initiative in bringing about a conference of nations" with the object of increasing the purchasing power of the people of all nations and uniformly reducing hours of labor, was introduced.

The resolution pointed out unemployment recommended non-concurrence on the grounds that there was machinery already in existence, namely, the International Labor Organization of the League of Nations.

This view did not meet with the approval of the delegates, who seemed in doubt as to whether this resolution too, should be referred back to the officer's reports committee as an "unemployment" measure or discussed at once.

President Moore, in response to a request, outlined the machinery now in action to accomplish these aims. There were three bodies in the International Labor Organization—Government, Employers and Labor. The International Federation of Trades Unions was another organization working with the same object in view.

T. E. SIMPSON IS CHIEF TORY WHIP

Algoma West Member Succeeds S. Charters, Who is Resigning.

McRAE MAY GO TO SENATE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—(C.P.)—Official announcement was made to-day of the appointment of T. E. Simpson as chief Conservative Parliamentary Whip. Mr. Simpson, who represents Algoma West, succeeds Samuel Charters, member for Peel, who has resigned the post.

The position of chief Conservative organizer held by General A. D. McRae, is likely to remain in its present state. Rumor has it, that General McRae may be appointed to the first vacancy in the Senate for British Columbia and resume charge of the party's activities under Premier R. B. Bennett before the next general election.

The likelihood is that General McRae will not go to London as Canadian High Commissioner. It is understood that his present plans contemplate a trip to Southern France and Spain.

Fish said the Fishers said they were fishermen, but Fish put the fish in cold storage until the court decided whether the fish Fisher brothers possessed were theirs or whether Fish could consfiscate the Fisher brothers' fish.

REV. MOORHOUSE INDUCTED IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Very Solemn and Impressive Ceremony Took Place in St. James' Church Last Night.

REV. STILLMAN PREACHED.

Rev. Mr. Millyard of George Street Conducts the Induction Service.

A very solemn and impressive ceremony took place in St. James' United Church on Monday evening, on the occasion of the induction of the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse as pastor. Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of George Street United Church presided, opening the service with prayer and the familiar hymn, "The Church's One Foundation." The induction sermon was ably delivered by Rev. R. F. Stillman of Norwood, who read for his lesson from the fifteenth chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, the beautiful parable of the prodigal son. Verses twenty to twenty-three of this same chapter formed the basis of his theme. In this story which Jesus told to the multitude, He brings the knowledge of God's love and mercy for mankind. Here the father is represented as giving to his son, the prodigal, five gifts. The first of these was his kiss, which was the seal of forgiveness. Perhaps there is nothing so symbolic of forgiveness as the kiss. If we forsake our sins and seek God's mercy, we, too, may receive this gift.

The "best robe" was another gift. Is this not the robe of righteousness, which we must wear if we are to sit at the banquet of our Lord? God has promised to each of us this robe of the redeemed. When Pharoah gave the ring to Joseph it was a token of great power and privilege. As the father gives this third gift of a ring to his son he invests him with power and authority. God has given to us this signet ring, the seal of authority over sin and Satan, and over sorrow and trouble. As ministers and members of the Church, we are responsible to God for this gift of power.

The Fourth Gift.

The son's fourth gift was "shoes." Eastern customs are very different from ours. In that land it is a disrespect to enter a temple or home wearing the shoes, just as it would be for us to wear a hat. Shoes were meant to be worn at work, and so they here symbolize service. So you and I are given "shoes" to accomplish His great work of shepherding the

CANADIAN KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

Two Companions Badly Hurt When Car Crashes Into Trolley.

IN NIAGARA FALLS.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. — One Canadian was killed and another probably fatally injured and a third seriously hurt here today when the automobile in which they were driving collided head-on with a trolley car.

The dead man was Cecil Little, 30 of Merriton, Ont. He died in hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries. Joseph Russell, 34, Niagara Falls, Ont., also suffered a skull fracture and is not expected to live. The third man, Larry Ness, 30, Stamford, Ont., suffered a broken shoulder and lacerations. He will recover physicians said.

The three men were on their way to work in an industrial plant in this city. Crossing a bridge over a canal, Little, driver of the automobile, swung out to pass a large motor bus, and his auto, a small coupe, ran head on against the trolley car, approaching from the opposite direction.

SINGLE HOSE LINE FAILS TO CHECK FLAMES ADVANCE

Two Hotels, Twenty Houses and Bank Are Razed in Herbertville.

NO CASUALTIES.

Blaze Spreads So Rapidly All Belongings Are Lost—$200,000 Damage.

Chicoutimi, Quebec, September 9. (C.P.) — Fire early this morning practically destroyed the small village of Herbertville Station, in the Lake St. John district. The church, the railway station, the branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale building, two hotels and about twenty dwellings were burned to the ground.

Loss $200,000.

The loss was estimated at more than $200,000, partly covered by insurance

Fanned by a high wind, the fire, which started in the neighborhood of the building housing the bank, swept from one end of the village to another with startling rapidity. Unable to cope with the flames, aid was sought from the neighboring towns of Jonquiere and St. Joseph D'Alma, but the fire-fighters, handicapped with only one water stream, could not check the destroying element. The conflagration burned itself out about four hours after it started.

The fire spread so rapidly that the fleeing families were unable to save any of their belongings, only having time to escape the burning houses with their lives.

No Casualties.

There were no casualties.

Those of the inhabitants who lost their residences were being taken care of temporarily by relatives and friends.

A move towards assisting the fire victims was started immediately.

WHEAT MARKET FORESEEN IN U.S.

GROUP OPERATION.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 9. (C.P.)—Possibility of the United States becoming a wheat importing rather that a wheat exporting nation was envisaged here by E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Western Canadian farmers, stated Mr. Beatty, in the course of an interview, must be prepared to capture that enormous market by producing the finest wheat in the world at prices that will give them a chance to sell their wheat to the United States in competition with other wheat-growing countries of the world.

Methods of business management and mass production would be essential, declared Mr. Beatty, adding that group operation would enable farmers to produce their wheat economically.

"I don't mean common ownership for farms at all" he stated, "but I do mean three or four or five farmers getting together a large enough group to carry the overhead of the best farm machinery using tractors drills and combination machines and growing and harvesting their crops on that basis.

The Weather

The temperature was down to 36 degrees last night, and there was some frost. This is the lowest the thermometer has reached yet this season, although 40 was touched on several mornings recently. A chance remark by George Hamilton of Welsh Brothers' Rodeo to The Examiner yesterday afternoon corroborates the conviction of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition that the prices they have charged were invariably in the public's favor.

This is not a press agent's story, but the plain statement of a fact casually mentioned in conversation.

"In Sault Ste. Marie we were the only grandstand attraction", said Mr. Hamilton, "and they had the largest crowds in the last seven years. The price to the grandstand was one dollar."

Welsh Brothers were also on the bill at Winnipeg where the charge was $1.25.

ADVISE DRIVERS TO LOCK AUTOS

Many Cars Have Been Stolen and Later Found Abandoned Near Exhibition.

ONE LAST NIGHT.

Police are advising citizens to be careful to lock their cars before leaving them parked on the streets or about Exhibition Park at night. During the summer many cars have been stolen and later found abandoned on the outskirts of the city, indicating that youths have used them for a joy ride and then left them before morning for fear of getting caught. Also rugs and other valuables have been stolen from cars.

Last night Thomas Cockerill, 13 Maple Ave., parked his car on Lansdowne street and when he returned the car was gone. It was found this morning by police near Jackson Park, undamaged and with its tank still holding a little gasoline.

"Many of such thefts could be averted if the motorists make certain to lock their cars," stated Chief Newhall. "tI would save worry and much inconvenience."

TORONTO MAN HURT.

Dr. W. W. Boyce, Coroner, Has Ordered an Inquest to be Held.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 9.—(CP)—Dr. Charles O. Wiltfong, Chesterton, Indiana, was instantly killed in a headon collision, which occurred on the provincial highway, four miles east of Belleville today. The driver of the car, Charles Jeffery, Chesterton, Ind., slightly bruised and Perry L. Sisson, Valparaiso, Ind., uninjured. G. M. Cunnington, bond salesman for Cochran, Hay and Company investment bankers of Toronto, was the driver of the second car and was taken to the Belleville hospital, seriously injured and not expected to recover.

The Indiana car was proceeding westward and the car driven by Cunnington, East. Dr. W. W. Boyce, coroner, investigated the accident and ordered an inquest.

CUBA WINS CAMPAIGN REGARDING WORLD COURT

GENEVA, Sept. 9. —(AP)— Cuba today won her campaign to prevent the immediate coming into force of the protocol for the revision of the World Court Statute. The question was referred to a committee of three for further study.

Virtually all the other members of the League had indicated willingness for the revised statute to become effective. Cuba objected to a provision requiring continuous session of the court on the ground that there is not enough business to keep the court occupied the year round. Another objection was that many ratifications by member nations were lacking.

Pusher Locomotive in Reading Round House Yard Suddenly Explodes, Killing Seven Men—Blast Occurs While Examination is Being Made After Engine Stalls.

PHILADELPHIA, September 9 (C.P.).—At least seven men were killed and a dozen injured to-day in the explosion of a pusher locomotive in the Reading Railroad roundhouse yard here.

The dead:

John Biemiller, roundhouse foreman

James Gordon, assistant roundhouse foreman .

John Kelly, inspector.

Frederick Spangler, engineman.

Crawford Dunseath, car shopman.

James P. Smith, car shopman.

The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined.

I. A. Selders, of Reading, Pa., superintendent of motive power and rolling equipment of the company, is making an investigation.

Inspect on Each Morning.

It is the rule to inspect all locomotives each morning.

The pusher had been brought out on the turntable and had been taken off again when it stopped about 100 feet away. Spangler discovered something wrong with the injector and called the roundhouse foreman. A number of other men gathered about the engine and while an examination was being conducted the blast occurred, letting loose a detonation that was heard throughout the entire neighborhood. Railroad police took charge and when the city police and firemen arrived they directed the work of getting the injured to the hospitals.

PATERSON, N.J., September 9 (C.P.). —At least three persons were trapped to-day in the Lamond Robertson Cotton Mill, which was destroyed by fire. Eighty-five escaped. Two others were seriously burned and one fireman was injured.

Ambulances from three Paterson hospitals were called to the scene. Several burned workmen were removed from the building, one so severely injured that he was expected to die.

Several hundred persons were reported at work in the building and few had reached the streets. The flames swept the structure and little hope was held out for those trapped inside.

Spontaneous combustion is believed to have started the blaze in a pile of waste.

Friends and relatives of the workers were held in check by policemen as firemen struggled to save those inside the building.

No Women Came Out.

At the women's exit of the building no women were seen to come out.

At the height of the fire, a man leaped shrieking from a window of the blazing building to the street, his clothing afire. He was rushed to a hospital.

Hysteria among the huge crowd of spectators became pronounced as the walls of the building began to wobble. Firemen were restrained from entering the inferno by superiors.

FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL GOVT'S SHOULD GIVE MUNICIPALITIES AID

SPLIT COST 3 WAYS.

HAMILTON, Ont., September 9 (C.P.). — Immediate assistance from the Federal and Provincial Governments to municipalities to enable the latter to cope with their respective problems of unemployment was urged at the thirtieth annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities by Mayor H. W. Cater, of Brandon, Man., president of the organization.

In his presidential address Mayor Cater dealt at length with the question of unemployment, and expressed his belief that Canada's immigration policy had largely contributed to the present situation. There had been far too many fingers in the immigration pie, he said. The Federal Government and the several Provincial Governments each had an immigration policy, and the railways, steamship companies, religious organizations, and land and colonization companies likewise had policies of their own. The result was that far too many persons had entered this country who should not have been allowed to do so.

Municipalities Had Burden.

The burden of coping with unemployment had been borne for the most part by the municiapliies, he said, which he did not think was fair, as the municipalities were not responsible for bringing in a surplus of labor to this country.

With at least 150,000 men out of work in Canada, it behooved the Government authorities to act speedily in this matter before cold weather arrived and conditions became acute, he said. As remedies, Mayor Cater proposed immediate Government assistance to inunicipalities, either directly by the Government opening up new work, or indirectly through the municipalities providing the work and the Governments. Federal and Provincial, paying one-third of the cost. Much might be done to avert

BEAR'S VICTIM IS NOT BADLY HURT

McArthur's Mills Woman is Only Scratched, Not Bitten.

HUNTERS HAVE NO LUCK.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 9. (C.P.) Mrs. Thomas Reeves of McArthur's Mills, who was badly mauled by a bear yesterday, is suffering mainly from shock and is not otherwise seriously injured it was stated today. The woman was attacked by the animal as she and her children were rounding up cows on their farm. She was saved from serious injury and possible death when the bear's cubs commenced whimpering and the animal released her to protect its young.

Mrs. Reeves' arms and chest were scratched by the bear, but she is sure it did not bite her at any time. Hunters have been in the vicinity during the past two days but no trace of the bear or her cubs has been found.

PARLIAMENT IS FACING SERIOUS BUSINESS TO-DAY

Possibility Seen of Tariff Measures Introduction Before Adjournment.

KING TO LEAD DEBATE.

Bennett Not to Attend Imperial Conference Till Session Over.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—(CP)—Returning to the serious business of the session today after the formal opening ceremonies of Parliament yesterday, the display, pomp and color of yesterday will be replaced by earnest efforts to deal with unemployment. It may be that sufficient progress will be made before adjournment tonight to permit the Government to introduce its tariff measures, the means by which it hopes to alleviate much of Canada's unemployment. Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, leader of the Opposition, will lead off the debate this afternoon on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, this having been left over until today at his request. He thus would be able to confer with his followers on a general line of action. It is expected that he will be followed by Premier Bennett.

Bennett Stays Till Finish

Premier R. B. Bennett, leading Parliament for the first time since his election as Leader of the Opposition, said, "As far as Canada's representation at the Imperial Conference was concerned, the Opposition, had it within its powers to have Canada represented in London or not represented, merely by its actions during the session. If the business were expedited, it would be possible for him and his associates to attend but he was "willing to stay at my post until the business of the session is completed". This was taken to mean that he had no intention of leaving Canada for England until the special session was completed, even if this meant foresaking attendance at the Conference.

At the completion of the day's sitting, Mr. King requested a long list of correspondence and orders-in-council which he asked to be presented to Parliament at the earliest possible date, possibly today. Including in the list was all correspondence between the Federal Government and any Provincial Governments and municipalities on the question of unemployment and particularly on the question of money grants in this connection. He also requested correspondence dealing with immigration, liquor export, the Imperial Conference agenda where Canada particularly was concerned, the marketing of the 1930 wheat crop, the abolition of the Tariff Advisory board and Government contracts either entered into or cancelled since assuming power.

WITH COMPANY 20 YEARS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, September 9. — Promotion of an old Peterborough boy in the person of A. V. Loftus, to the General Managership of the Canada Bread Company Limited, is announced by H. P. Gooderham, president of the firm. Mr. Loftus has occupied many different positions with the company during the past twenty years. Only last year, having moved from Montreal, where he had been manager of the Montreal plant, he went to Toronto to become assistant general manager. Mr. Loftus in future will be located at the head office of company in Toronto. During his stay in Montreal, he was identified with many public movements, being a prominent member, and a past president of the Kiwanis Club.

DETAILS OF ASSAULT AND FRESH OUTBREAK LACKING AS PRESS CENSORSHIP CLAMPED ON

Lively Demonstrations Held During Afternoon as New Regime Comes Officially Into Office—Provisional President and His Cabinet Take the Oath.

BUENOS AIRES, September 9. — The city was startled last night by the roar of cannonading, and unconfirmed reports said that warships in the harbor were firing at some of the buildings.

The newspaper Critica reported that the Eighth Cavalry Regiment had captured the military college, although the reason for the conflict was not learned. Shots were heard at 9 p.m. and the city became greatly agitated.

Cable Becomes Silent.

Washington, September 9. — The foregoing despatch indicates to some observers that a counter-revolutionary movement has opened against the new military government which overthrew the Argentine President on Saturday, and was itself sworn in yesterday.

Apparently a censorship has been clamped on because the Associated Press in New York received some brief messages from its Buenos Aires correspondent in rapid succession, and then there was ominous silence.

The first message said the newspaper Critica had learned of the Eighth Cavalry capturing the military college. This was followed by despatches reporting that warships had opened fire, but details were lacking.

Cabinet Takes Oath

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9. — The regime elevated into power by a military upheaval on Saturday officially became the Government late yesterday afternoon with administration of the oath to the Provisional President and his Cabinet.

Great crowds of citizens, happy because of the national holiday, which had been proclaimed for the formal induction of the Government, massed about the historic Government House as General Jose Evaristo Uriburu took the oath as Provisional President of the Argentine Republic.

Demonstrations, some of them with women, were formed to march through the streets and hail the revolution which ousted the aging Hipolito Irigoyen. The city was more lively than during one of its famed national fiestas.

CHILD DEATHS THROUGH FIRES BRING PROTESTS

Labor Congress to Bring Matter Before Fire Prevention Association.

URGE HEALTH INSURANCE

Storm of Criticism Meets Suggestion of Free Medical Treatment.

(By Jack Hambleton C P Staff Writer)

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 9.—The 46th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada got down to serious business here and made a doughty onslaught on the 111 resolutions facing it. When the session adjourned for dinner, 12 of the resolutions, dealing with matters ranging from abuse of the highways to health insurance, had been disposed of.

As expected, the first resolution of the list brought forth a great deal of discussion before it was adopted by the convention. This resolution proposed increased taxation of persons and companies engaged in the transportation of freight by motor.

Health Insurance Urged

Health insurance drew a great deal of argument before a resolution in favor of this measure was passed just before the convention in favor of this measure was passed just before the convention adjourned. A resolution introduced by a Toronto lodge of railway carmen asking the Congress to go on record as approving free medical and hospital treatment was responsible for the storm of criticism. The measure was amended and when finally adopted urged the provincial executives of the congress to continue to press for health insurance in the various Provinces of the Dominion.

Of particular interest to marine engineers was another resolution asking the congress to obtain legislation whereby operators of unloading machinery on ships be required to be certified marine engineers of not lower grade than third class. They would be attached to the engine room staff and under the supervision of the chief engineer. This resolution, too, received the unanimous concurrence of the convention.

The great number of children who are burned to death through being left alone next drew the attention of the Congress, which will bring this fact to the attention of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association as the outcome of another resolution.

GAS FUMES FATAL AS RAILWAYMAN FALLS INTO CAR

Companion and Constable Going to Rescue, Overcome Inside Gas Tank.

TAPS SUMMON AID.

Prompt Run By Oshawa Fire Brigade in Time to Save Two.

OSHAWA, Ont., September 9 (C.P.). — Suffering from the effects of gasoline fumes he had inhaled when trapped in a tank car on a railway siding here last night, Lawrence Kelly, local railway employee, died in a hospital early this morning.

A triple tragedy was averted by the quick response of the fire department to Sergeant Matthew Bowman's appeal for help. The fire fighters arrived in time to pull not only Kelly out, but also a fellow employee, Orville Board, and Police Constable Willard Spencer. The latter who recovered after medical treatment.

Slipped Through Opening

Kelly assisted by Board had been working on the top of the tank car when in some unexplained manner he slipped through the opening to the bottom of the car, not realising the danger and believing his fellow workman was hurt by the fall, Board climbed in to aid him. Both began to feel the effects of the fumes immediately and, after vainly trying to clumb out the pair commenced to tap against the heavy steel tank walls.

As their strength gradually left them their taps became scarcely audible, but Constable Spencer, passing by with Sergeant Bowman, heard the faint signals and climbed upon the tanks and then inside. Efforts to get Kelly, who was by this time unconscious, out of the car, proved fruitless and when the firemen arrived both Board and Spencer were fast losing consciousness and in a few minutes they too would have fallen to the bottom where the fumes were deadliest.

Flaming Fragments From Oil Tanker Fires 18 Vessels in Athens Harbor.

ATHENS, Greece, September 9. — Eight persons are known to have been killed and it is feared many others shared the same fate last night as a sailing vessel, filled with oil, exploded in front of the Standard oil depots at Drapetsonias Harbor, near the Piraeus.

The vessel was blown to pieces by the blast and its flaming fragments set fire to 18 other sailing boats and one steamship which burned rapidly.

The crews of the burning ships threw themselves into the water, but it is feared that many were fatally burned. The Standard Oil depots on the shore apparently were safe.

SANTO DOMINGO FOOD RIOT FAILS

U. S. Officers Succeed in Holding Crowd While Rations Are Landed.

CROWDS STARVING.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, September 9 (C.P.).—Only the coolness of officers of the Dominican army and of the United States mine sweeper Grebe saved hurricane-stricken Santo Domingo from a food riot yesterday.

Hundreds of men, women, and children, many of whom have not had any food since the city was destroyed by a hurricane last Wednesday, tried to seize provisions which were brought by launches and other light craft to wharves along the banks of the Ozama, which divides the city. The Dominican and United States officers quickly posted their men in such strategic positions so as to hold back the crowds until speakers should assure them that rations would be distributed as soon as possible.

Government authorities and Red Cross workers took up the difficult task of keeping the hungry people orderly while food was doled out at impromptu canteens set up in the churches, government buildings, and some of the old Spanish stone houses which withstood the fury of the hurricane. Rolling kitchens were used for cooking the food, which was brought to Santo Domingo by several vessels that had to anchor in the Caribbean, being unable to dock at the wharves because the Ozama has been on a rampage since the storm of last week.

City of Santo Domingo Where the Hurricane Took 4,000 Lives

Fort Ozoma, Santo Domingo, where a terrific hurricane took many lives and destroyed many millions of dollars worth of property, razing even the largest and best constructed buildings as though they were houses of cards. Relief has been rushed to the scene of the disaster, and the inhabitants are being given aid by government forces.

UNEMPLOYED IN LARGER CITIES

New York Leads United States With 234,854 Reported Jobless.

WORST IN DULUTH.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Most of the nation's 2,500,000 unemployed are concentrated in the big cities, statistics made public Thursday by the Census Bureau showed.

The figures covered the number of unemployed persons in each city of more than 100,000 population. They showed that in most cities of this class more than 3 per cent. of the population was without jobs, whereas the unemployment average of the country as a whole was about 2 per cent.

Duluth, Minn., had th highest percentage of jobless when the census was taken in April, the figures showed. Of Duluth's total population of 101,417, there were 5,444 persons, or 5.4 per cent., out of work and seeking employment.

Detroit Percentage Highest.

Detroit led the larger cities, with 78,153, or 5 per cent. of its population.

New York City's total of 234,854 was the largest numerically, but representing only 3.4 per cent. of the population.

Next to New York in point of numbers was Chicago, with 146,852, or 4.3 per cent. Philadelphia, the third largest city, had less unemployed than Detroit, the fourth largest. Philadelphia's total was 73,274, or 3.7 per cent.

Los Angeles, the fifth city, had 41,263, or 3.3 per cent., as compared with 41,343, or 4.6 per cent., for Cleveland, the sixth.

Nashville, Tenn., had a smaller percentage of unemployed than any of the other cities. Nashville's total was 1,600, or 1 per cent. of its population.

All of the figures include only one type of unemployed, those out of work, able to work, and looking for jobs. The census bureau recently announced there were 2,508,151 persons in this class in the nation as a whole.

ARGENTINE REVOLT PRESIDENT'S FAULT

Chamber of Commerce Representatives States Irigoyen Refused All Advice.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 8.—(C.P.).—The present revolution in Argentina came as the last resort of a people who can no longer tolerate a policy that caters only to polotical expediency and neglects the welfare of the country, was the opinion expressed here by Louis J. Skinitzero, official delegate to Canada of the Argentine Chamber of Commerce.

He described President Irigoyne as a "headstrong, self-suficient old man 80 years of age, who honestly believes his policy to be best and accepts the advice of no one. His ministers have become little more than servants."

President Irigoyen refused the advice of a commission that advised the storage of wheat, with the result that Argentina now has no storage facilities and is forced to sell her wheat at the available price as soon as it is harvested," said Mr. Skinitzero, quoting this as an example of the inefficiency of the government.

RUSTIC CEMETERIES ARE ALL DOOMED

Amalgamation With Larger Ones Eliminate Neglected Plots.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9 (C.P.).—The little rustic cemetery, familiar alongside most small churches, is doomed like the little red schoolhouse. In these days of big business and amalgamation that have seen smaller schools consolidated into large substantial seats of learning, the little church graveyard hasn't got much of a chance. "Its days are over," said Dr. W. J. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health for Ontario, addressing the forty-fourth convention of the American cemetery superintendents in session here.

"I hope to see small cemeteries amalgamated ith larger ones, and thus remove the cause of neglected cemeteries," the speaker continued.

VALUABLE HORSE DIES.

"The Tramp," Percheron Stallion Owned by R. Walsh, Believed to Have Smothered.

HASTINGS, Sept. 9 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. K. Walsh had the misfortune to lose a very valuable stallion on Sunday morning. "The Tramp," as he was registered, was a Percheron which Mr. Walsh raised himself. The horse was in the Coughlin barns, and on going into the barn on Sunday morning he was found dead. It appears that some time during the night the horse got tangled in the halter shank and smothered himself. Mr. Walsh placed his loss at $1,000.

A small American silver tankard, made in Boston in 1720, was sold in London recently for $2,625.

OSHAWA, SCENE OF ONE OF SEASON'S SMARTEST WEDDINGS

Parkwood, beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Samuel McLaughlin in Oshawa was the setting of one of the season's most interesting marriages, when their daughter, Eleanor Victoria, became the bride of Lieut. C. Churchill Mann, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, son of C. Clarence Mann, Oriole Gardens, Toronto. ABOVE appears the bride and groom and some of the nine bridesmaids who took part in the bridal procession. (1) A happy picture of the bride in riding togs. REV. T. McKIM AT CAMPBELLFORD

Colborne Minister Will Conduct Services For One Month at Christ Church.

SUNDAY'S THEME PRAYER.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, September 9.—Featuring the first of his services as guest preacher for the month, the Rev. T. McKim, M. A., of Colborne, conducted services in Christ church, Campbellford, on Sunday. The service which was choral, was directed by W. Pearson, A.T.C.M., organist and choirmaster.

Taking for his sermon text, I Thess 5-17, P.a, "without ceasing," Mr. McKim gave a clear and scholarly discourse on the subject of Prayer. He pointed out in his opening remarks that this was a theme that was suited to all seasons of the year, and it was something that people should always keep before them, and never neglect. Prayer was often recommended in the New Testament. Jesus had told His disciples to pray and had taught them what to say. He had also shown them the necessity of united prayer by telling them that when two or three were gathered together in His name they would be heard. That was one of the reasons for congregational prayer.

Prayer was also the mainspring of the source of success of St. Paul.

The preacher defined prayer as a certain condition by which we can keep in close contact with the source of our strength. It was not always necessary to offer verbal prayers, for one could pray by thinking. God expects us to ask for things even though He knows our necessities before we ask for them. But we should always be ready to pray.

Three Types of Prayer.

The preacher continued to divide prayer into three types—asking, offering and resignation. Jacob shows a type of asking prayer. It was he who told God that in exchange for protection and a certain material success he would take God as his God, and would give back one-tenth of what God had given him. This was a selfish prayer, but God heard it and accepted it. This, said the speaker, was like many prayers offered to-day. People were always willing to think of and go to God when they are in trouble. And yet God always hears their prayers.

The second type of prayer, Mr. McKim stated, was far better. It was the prayer that went with our offerings to God. Soloman was the great example of this. When he wanted to give to God the Temple for the use and worship of God he offered it with a beautiful prayer.

And so with us. When we want to give to God we should offer our gifts with a prayer. It was not the quality or quantity of the gift that counted but the spirit of prayer that accompanied the gift. Jesus had taught this in the story of the Widow's Mite.

And the third and highest type of prayer was that of Resignation, the preacher went on to say. When trouble and sorrow comes to us, when we lose one of our dear ones, or something we value much, and we go to God in the spirit of faith and trust with the cry of Jesus: "Not as I will but Thy will be done."

Prayer has always been offered, said Mr. McKim, and to-day the world was full of the music of millions of people praying to God. It was the golden chain that bound the whole earth together, and as Tennyson had said, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." It was man's special privilege to pray, and the more people that employed prayer the better pleased would God be, and the better the world, for "Whatsoever things ye shall ask, believing, ye shall receive."

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

The anniversary services of Rylstone Church will be held on Sunday, Sept. 14, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., when the Rev. F. H. Howard of Marmora will be the preacher for the day. In connection with the anniversary an old-fashioned tea will be given on Monday, Sept. 15, at which a good program will be presented.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Craighead were visitors to Toronto on Friday, making the trip by car.

Mrs. Sweet, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. Coxwell over the week-end, left for her home at Trenton on Sunday.

Mr. J. C. Birmingham was a business visitor to Cobourg on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Prior have as their guest their son, Mr. Albert Prior of New York.

Mr. William Bush of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Barr of Ottawa, Mrs. John E. Bromley of Pembroke, and Miss Vivian Ross, of Detroit, Mich., were the Sunday guests of Chief and Mrs. G. C. Bromley. They all left for Detroit on Monday.

And then we must have our laugh: "Waiter, there's a fly in my ice cream."

"Well, let the little beggar freeze; last night he was in the soup."

And don't forget the lacrosse game on Wednesday, when Campbellford will clash with Brampton on the High School grounds. Chances look good for the local team to win the group and play off in the finals.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Brown of Kingston are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Free, Seymour.

Mr. Howard Davidson and Mr. Purdy Pettey are on a motor trip to Montreal and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mason spent the week-end in Toronto.

Mr. F. C. Spencer of Port Hope is the new teller in the local branch of the Royal Bank in the place of Mr. C. R. Vanclief, who has left to take up duties in the bank at Port Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Craighead were visitors to Ivanhoe on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lapp and son Fred, are spending their holidays at Toronto.

Children boarded out by the Berkshire, England, welfare committee, are to receive four cents a week pocket money.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, September 9.—Receipts of cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were: 3,630 cattle, 505 steers, 310 hogs, 1,800 sheep and lambs. In addition to the fresh supply there were 700 stale cattle at the openng of the market. The total was 500 head heavier than last Tuesday.

Trade in butcher cattle was fairly active, but cows were slow up to 11 o'clock, with bids a quarter lower than last week. Good to choice steers sold from 7 to 7½ cents a pound, with one top load at 7.70 a cwt. Best baby beeves paid 11½ cents. Store cattle prices were fairly steady, with a range of 4½ to 5¾ cents. The odd top springers sold up to $110, but feeling is a shade easier on other classes of milkers and springers.

Calves in a light offering are selling steady at 10 to 11 cents a pound for choice, with common grassers downward to 3½ cents a pound. Lamb prices were unsettled up to 11 o'clock, with bids 50 cents per cwt. lower than last week, at 8½ cents a pound for good ewes and wethers. Good light sheep are selling at 3½ cents a pound. The hog market is strong on a light supply, with prospects of settlement at 11 to 11¼ cents f.o.b. and 12 to 12¼ cents w.o.c. for bacons.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 9. —Wheat prices followed an erratic course during yesterday's session, and, after displaying alternate strength and weakness, closed down 2c to 1⅞c under last-minute hedging pressure. Easiness at the start was due to quite heavy selling credited largely to elevator interests. The stubborn tone at Chicago had the effect of steadying this market, and prices moved up to score gains of ¾c before selling became general.

Volume of trade was large, but the bulk of operations were of a professional character with foreign demand limited and week-end sales light.

Demand from exporters and shippers for cash wheat was good at spreads unchanged, but business was small. Coarse grains eased off.

MONTREAL, PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—In spite of estimates of a lower yield made in a potatoe crop report published yesterday, potato prices held steady on the local produce market. Dealers stated that it was too early in the season to make accurate estimates of the year's crop, and that prices would remain generally unchanged. Local stock was quoted at from 80c to 90c, lower Quebecs at 85c, and New Brunswicks at $1, all per 80-pound bags.

Eggs were advanced, retail prices being 2c a dozen higher at 45c and 42c for special brands and fresh extras, respectively. Fresh firsts were up 1c a dozen at 36c.

The butter market was generally 29c a pound for Eastern Township No. 1. The cheese market was unchanged. Ontarios being quoted at 14½c and Quebecs at 13¾c a pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Unloading of wheat by owners collecting profits and persistent hedging pressure proved more than the Chicago wheat market could stand yesterday and prices eased downgrade. Scattered selling by tired owners and by commission houses placed more wheat on sale than there was buying power to absorb it. Trade was not large, and the market was nervous and easily influenced. Chicago wheat was firm at the start because of strength in Liverpool, but this influence proved only transient. Corn ranged downward along with wheat. An overbought condition showed in the trade when owners started to unload on weak spots. A sensationaly bullish estimate of the 1930 corn crop by unofficial crop expert resulted in only sporadic buying and had little market influence.

Wheat Drops 1¼ to 1½c.

Wheat closed nervous and unsettled 1¼c-1½c net lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed weak, ⅝c-1¼c down, oats 1½c-⅞c off, and provisions declined 10c-23c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, September 9. — Trading was quite slow yesterday on the local butter market, which was usual for a Monday, but receipts of Ontario supplies were light and prices held firm at 29½c to 30c for No. 1, and 29c for No. 2. There was a report of a sale of No. 2 being made at a higher price, but it was an exceptional lot, and the true market could not be based on this transaction.

Activity of buyers lately has been "coming" and "going" in spells, and as this week opened they seemed to have one of their off periods. They were not too interested in lots of any size, though enough business was completed to call the market steady. The asking price for western supplies was 30½c to 31c, the top price being for real good cars, but the general impression was that local buyers were not committing themselves on these quotations.

Eggs.

The egg market showed a firmer tone and from the statements made by local buyers of country shipments prices will advance at least one cent on Tuesday. Seconds have been getting scarce and the general change to-day in quotations will show greater uniformity among the grades.

Prices.

Yesterday country shippers were quoted 30c to 32c for extras, 28c to 29c for firsts, and 23c to 24c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailer were offered supplies at 37c to 38c for extras in cartons, 35c to 36c for extras loose, 32c to 34c for first loose, and 28c to 29c for seconds Brokers and dealers were quoting graded eggs, in free cases, at 34c for extras, 32c for first and 24c for seconds There was a good demand and receipts were not very heavy, which accounts for the prophesied increase in prices

Cheese.

The cheese market was weaker and trading locally was slow. Prices to shippers, based on country boards, were about 14½c to 15c for new, large, and taking 14½c to 15c as the most general spread, twins would have brought 15c to 15¼c and triplets 15½c to 15½c. Retailers were asked 17c for new large, 17¼c for twins, and 17½c for triplets.

BARN AND CROP LOST IN BLAZE

Fire Destroyed Large Barn and Season's Crop Near Fenella.

TRACTOR IS BLAMED.

FENELLA, Sept. 9 (Examiner Correspondence).—Fire destroyed a large barn which contained the season's crop and farm implements on the farm of Maggie Adams, one mile south--east of Fenella, late yesterday afternoon. Insurance partially covers the loss.

A spark from a tractor was the cause of the blaze. A grain stack which extended from the back of the barn close to the tractor was ignited, and in a few minutes the whole structure was a mass of flames. Fire-fighting was futile, and all that could be done by the onlookers that gathered was to prevent it spreading. A few implements were pulled out of the barn in time, but a large thresher belonging to James Waldie was destroyed.

Flames were kept from a nearby house by a brisk breeze.

STUDY REQUIRED ON BIRTH CONTROL

Rt. Rev. J. G. Farthing Gives Views on Lambeth Conference.

DIFFICULT SUBJECT.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 8.—(C.P.)—"Much stress has been laid—too much perhaps—upon what was decided upon birth control. The whole Lambeth Conference report should be carefully read and the sentence dealing with this vexed and difficult subject should be seen in its context," stated Rt. Rev. J. G. Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, when interviewed aboard the Cunarder Aurania, which docked last night at Montreal. His Lordship was returning from the Lambeth Conference and from the Faith and Unity Congress held at Geneva after the Anglican gathering.

In regard to the moral question, Bishop Farthing said that the conference was "emphasizing the sacredness of sex and of the marriage state and the great dignity, joy and blessing of parenthood. While parenthood is the primary object of marriage it is not the only one. The preservation of that love which is expressed in the relationship of marriage is essential if sweetness and purity is to prevail in the house and must be guided, as every act of a Christian should be the holy spirit," he declared.

HAMILTON VICAR GENERAL DIES

HAMILTON, Sept. 8.—((C.P.)—Monsignor John T. GET IT AWAY TO A GOOD START.

It is hoped that to-night's performance at the Exhibition Grounds, the first occasion on which the full grandstand program will be given, will be marked by a worth-while attendance that will get Peterborough's big fair off to an auspicious start.

As The Examiner has already pointed out, the directors have tried the courageous experiment this year of reducing prices and at the same time of spending money freely in providing a program in keeping with the high level of excellence reached in other years.

High-class vaudeville acts—and the Exhibition management refuses to be satisfied with anything else—run to a sizable figure, and the program arranged for this year's Exhibition represents a heavy outlay that must be met out of the gate receipts.

With reduced prices of admission and a lowered evening charge for the grandstand, there should be a big attendance at every performance, as an endorsation of the wisdom of the new policy.

In other years there have been complaints that the admission charges were too high; that complaint has now been eliminated, and it is up to the public to show its appreciation by turning out in such numbers that the revenue will increase rather than drop off as a result of the change.

RIGHT TO INVESTIGATE.

The tourist publicity department of the Ontario Government is well advised in conducting an investigation into the complaint registered by an American visitor who alleges that he was the victim of exorbitant prices and high-handed action on the part of the management of an Ontario summer hotel.

There may be much or little in the complaint, but in any case the charge is of too vital importance to be ignored.

The impression cannot be allowed to get out that Ontario exploits her tourists, and that Americans visiting here during the holiday season have to keep on guard lest they be the victims of unjustified charges.

A few stories of that kind would do infinite harm.

It is admitted that tourist traffic into this Province during the summer just ending did not approach in volume that of last year.

On the other hand, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces report a larger influx than usual.

The reason for such a condition is not readily apparent, but in any case it makes it more imperative than ever that anything reflecting upon the treatment accorded visitors to this Province should be eliminated.

We cannot afford to have Ontario's reputation for courtesy and hospitality endangered by a few individuals.

WEEK-END CASUALTIES.

Commenting upon the number of week-end traffic accidents, one of Peterborough's best known motorists who has the reputation of being a clever driver with a liking for speed when the conditions warrant it, confided to The Examiner that he no longer drives on provincial highways on Sundays.

This veteran driver, whose mileage record must compare with that of any other motorist in the city, admits that under modern traffic conditions and the carelessness of many drivers the principal roads of the Province are not safe on week-ends, or at any other time when traffic is congested.

The last week-end casualty list, which saw a dozen lives snuffed out in Ontario, would seem to bear out this contention, and unfortunately it has been duplicated practically every week-end since early spring.

In most cases it is claimed that "cutting out" is responsible.

Although the main stream of traffic usually moves along at thirty-five miles an hour or better, there are always those who want to go faster, and among this class a reckless proportion who refuse to take ordinary precautions, who swing out of line on hills or curves or when on-coming traffic constitutes a menace.

These are the people who are responsible for the week-end death list, and until they are dealt with in some way or another more and more drivers are going to follow the example of the motorist referred to at the beginning of this article and remain off the highway altogether on Sundays.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

There was a time when the Speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament was a forecast of the legislation to be introduced during the session.

In recent years, however, that practice has been departed from more and more, with the result that in the last few sessions the Speech has been little more than a review of past achievements with but a hint of what was forthcoming in the way of new measures.

It is safe to say, however, that no Speech from the Throne has approached in brevity that delivered at the opening of the special session of Parliament yesterday, which established a new record in the matter of length.

The whole thing was summed up in four sentences, pointing out the economic situation and the unemployment problem, and announcing the intention of the Government to introduce tariff changes that it is hoped will remedy the existing conditions.

What these changes will be, of course, the Speech did not say.

Few members of the House and nobody outside, of course, will know that until Mr. Bennett himself announces his tariff revision.

It is commonly accepted as certain that there will be material changes, but as to the nature of the revision there is nothing available except guess work.

Mr. Bennett, who is acting as Minister of Finance, has been keeping his own counsel; his program will remain unknown until the House is informed of it.

"WHERE FROM?"

Two thousand women of Vancouver have signed a pledge that they will purchase nothing without first asking where it came from, and that they will insist on buying goods made in Canada, or, failing that, within the Empire. This is a practical method of encouraging the purchase of Canadian-made goods, which is essential to the speeding up of industrial production in this country. Were this pledge to become uniform all over the country, and to be faithfully carried out in a practical way, there would soon be a great demand for the products of Canada's factories, and men would be rushed back into productive employment.

In this connection, we heard a novel suggestion the other day. It was that the Government should sponsor a system of bonusing the purchase of Canadian-made goods. The plan was that with every dollar's worth of Canadian goods purchased, the purchaser be given a coupon with a value of one, two or three per cent. of the purchase price. When these had been collected up to the amount of ten dollars, they would be exchangeable for some type of Government bond, and ten of these ten-dollar bonds would, in turn, be exchanged for a bond for one hundred dollars.

This is a novel suggestion, but it has merit. Manufacturers of cigarettes and tobacco have found that the giving of coupons is a stimulus to the sale of their products, and the same psychology, applied to the sale of goods made in Canada, might well bring great results. In addition, the plan suggested would bring about a practical way of saving money that would appeal to many people.

The idea, of course, would have to be carefully studied and a plan of organization worked out, but it is at least worthy of being given some consideration as a means of stimulating the purchase of the products of Canada's fields and factories.—Oshawa Times.

A CRY FROM THE EDITORIAL HEART.

Not often do we agree with anything on the editorial page of the Vancouver Sun. Publisher Cromie's a sincere sort of chap, but one can never tell what he's going to be sincere about, and he's got an editorial writer as temperamental as Greta Garbo. However, the Sun has just come out with a sort of Banshee wail that we've felt like emitting all these weeks, but just didn't know how, thus:

> Instead of filling this space with one of our learned dissertations about juvenile delinquency or when business will come back, we may tell you, confidentially, that this has been a heck of a summer for editorial writers.
> Of course, you don't care much, anyway. As long as you're sitting pretty, that's all you care about; you never think about some poor bird sitting at a typewriter, scratching out his hair, trying to think of something about which he can emit a few thoughts—or what pass for thoughts these days.
> We've written about all there is to write on farm relief, Lindbergh's baby, the Chinese war, treesitters, airplane endurance flights, Edison questionnaires and the latest whimsies of Henry Ford.
> Gazing ahead, we see nothing but the usual editorials about school reopenings, the glories of autumn forests, the necessity of putting in your winter coal early and a stern warning about not waiting too long to don your cold weather underwear.
> Well, laugh if you must—but it's simply torture for us. Not that you give a darn, what with your vacation memories and so forth. Why don't you go out and make some news, you big rummy, instead of just sitting there, waiting for something to happen?
> Let's have a bit of co-operation. You go out and do your stuff and we'll write the editorials about it. You can't expect us to keep on picking editorials out of thin air all the time. Have a heart!

Well, we agree with all of this, and can add a lot of light whines of our own. When we picked up the paper this morning and saw that somebody else was flying across the ocean and that Lord Melchett was talking again about some sort of an economic union of the Empire, we felt like giving a scream. What was a poor editorial writer to say about an ocean flight or the economic union of the Empire that hasn't been said a thousand times in a thousand ways before! We ourselves have written "epic flight" so often and looked up Roget for adjectives and synonyms so many times about such things, that a fellow will have to fly to Mars to get into this page again; while as for the economic union of the Empire, we've given it up as a job for somebody else, long ago.

Somebody will simply have to say or do something new for us to write about, or we're going to be fired. And what makes matters worse, destroying entirely what little bit of patience we've left, every time we walk up Sparks street we meet some good citizen who calls us to a doorway and says: "Here's something that will make a fine editorial"; and we having written all about it a hundred times.

Honestly, we're baffled, or bunkered, or even a lot worse than that. All summer long, when other people were out cultivating a slice we were sitting in a hot office pointing with alarm to Mr. King, trying to make democracy safe under Mr. Bennett, and now that that job's over and there don't seem to be any more Liberals anywhere, we don't know what to do. Russia, of course, is there, but we don't seem to be able to get anything into that fellow Stalin's head, nor into Mussolini's either; and Ramsay MacDonald and Hoover appear to have their own way of doing things, too. Sometimes, though not always, we wish we were back in opposition; because it's a caution how often Governments are wrong—when you're in opposition. That's the trouble—from an editorial standpoint—with Mr. Bennett. Mr. Bennett, so far, has always been right; and there's not a heck of a lot of fun in always praising a man, especially on a warm September day when it's good for golf, and the rainy season coming on, and leaves getting on the greens. Honestly, we're having a desperately hard time trying to get things to fill up this page; the proof of which is that we've gone and written this.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Remember there's more to see at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year and it costs less to see it.

The special session of Parliament has set at least one record in the brevity of the Speech from the Throne.

Visit the Exhibition Grounds often this week. You will find a real fair with plenty to entertain you.

According to reports, some of the Liberal members of Parliament have started out to make this a fighting session.

Pardon the protrusion, ladies and gentleman, while we publish a series of solutions offered by readers of our great

OFFICE HOUND MURDER CASE.

O—H

Dear Andre:

You and your Office Hound are a fake! If they don't get the dog catcher after the two of you soon, we'll have to hold a neck-tie party. As for your murder, I don't know who did it—but I'm glad of it!

—Aunt Fanny.

O—H

Dear Andre:

I believe you committed the murder yourself. After reading your column for a month, I am ready to believe you capable of anything.

—Ebenezer.

O—H

Andre Hound:

You filthy bum are you still alive well anyway thank god your rotten hound is dead!

—The Senator.

O—H

Andre:

Personally, I think Dr. Queen did it. According to the first instalment, he was hanging around The Examiner doorway when the body was being found. Anyone who hangs around The Examiner doorway is quite eligible for crime of any magnitude—especially murder.

O—H —B. V. D.

Dear Andre:

Mademoiselle X is my bet! If she didn't bump off the Hound, I don't know who did. I've had a dizzy blonde do everything to me except murder—and the only reason she didn't get to that was that I hopped a westbound freight first.

—Socrates.

O—H

Andre:

Why don't you give yourself up? You and your Silo Dance! He probably did the job himself, just on account of the unemployment situation and the wheat pool.

—Plato Beans.

O—H

Andre:

The next time I see you and your hound and your Dead Beat and your Casey and your Lady Dribble and all the rest of your idiotic tribe on a dark night, there are going to be a flock more murders for your phony detective to solve. As for the Office Hound, if he really is dead, it's probably suicide through remorse.

—Bohunkus.

A Thought

LOYALTY.

Loyalty to our King and to our country is the most elementary form of an indispensable attitude. But loyalty also means that we should be true to our convictions and have the courage to uphold them. We must not hesitate to acknowleige those sympathies and antipathies which may affect our popularity when a sense of honor commands us to speak or act. As Emerson put it—"It is easy to live in the world according to the world's opinion, but the great man is he who, living in the world retains the independence of solitude."

If we do not practice loyalty to ourselves, we shall certainly be found wanting when great issues are at stake. We may not be called upon to wear the martyr's crown, but we are of poor texture if we are not ready to sacrifice everything save honor. We must be prepared to bear blame even to the point of actual suffering if by so doing we can save the reputation of another.

Loyalty is indeed the most sublime attainment within man's reach.—Edyth M. Bute.

What To-day Means To You.

If September 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., and 10 p.m. to 11:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., and 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

"Much rainfall and little growth" describes the picture of this date. Keep to well tried paths! An unsettled and discontented mind may cause you to make a profitless change. A cloud hangs over your domestic sphere.

Children born on this September 9th will have a natural refinement, a love of harmony and considerable tact. They will have vivid imaginations, which will not lead them astray because of their logic and common-sense. They will have well developed emotions, but self-control.

If you be a woman, you have all the feminine qualities and characteristics due one of your sex, and if you have the courage of your womanliness and are content to stay in your own sphere, you will be much happier, than if you seek other fields of expression. You are not a type that is fitted for the so-called man's world. Some women are born spinsters, but you are not. If you are not mothering children, you are mothering some weak sister or brother; or a devoted dog or cat.

You have an easy going disposition, and although you may be too untidy or carefree to become a model housekeeper, your smile and understanding heart will feed the affections of your family. You are a natural play-mate and pal.

If you be a man, you have never been a "teacher's pet" or a "mama's boy." You have shrieking masculine traits, and you fight for all of man's rights and privileges. You have a great sense of discipline and sportsmanship, and you make a good leader. You win through your grit and industry, and you ask for the best the world has to offer. Your promises are sacred, and you are always ready to redress grievances. You must be master in your home, or at least feel that you hold such a position. You feel yourself capable of managing your own affairs and resent interference from others. You are probably a little too self-complacent and independent. You try to hide your affections.

TEMPLE TOWER

By CAPTAIN DRUMMOND

"'I was pretty well tight myself,' he said, 'but not as bad as the rest. The whole lot of them, men and women alike, were sprawling round the table dead drunk. In the earlier part of the debauch the Prince had been the leader of the revels: now he sat at the end of the table, twirling a wine-glass between his fingers and with a look of ineffable contempt on his face. His thoughts were so obvious that he might have spoken them aloud.'

"'"You boors: you loutish swine—why in heaven's name did I ever have anything to do with you?"'

"So my informant told me, and I had confirmation from other courses. He seemed to be a man who from time to time had to break out, and then was sickened by the reaction when he had done so. But his disgust would only last a couple of months at the most. Then another of the same sort of parties would be given, to be attended with the same result.

"It is perhaps unnecessary to say that, whatever was the effect on the host, his guests thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment—particularly the ladies of the party. The Prince would think nothing of giving each girl a present worth a hundred pounds when they left, and since most of them came from the ranks of the Casino de Paris or the Folies Bergeres, you can imagine their feelings on the matter. And so when it was noised abroad in the theatrical set in Paris that a supreme debauch of all was planned, the Prince's cousin became amazingly popular. It was to be a fancy-dress affair, and everyone was to come as an Apache. It got round of course to Police Headquarters, but it was none of our business what the Prince chose to do in his chateau. Our only concern was the prevention of crime, and it was on that account that a week before this historic party I found myself getting out of a train at Chateaudeun. You will understand that I was unofficially attached, and Grodin, my immediate superior, thought that I could give the Prince a friendly warning better than one of the regular men.

"He saw me at once when I arrived, and as I looked at that refined aristocrat I marvelled that he could ever give way to these appalling excesses.

"'Monsieur le Prince,' I said, when he had glanced at my card, 'I wish to assure you that my visit is entirely unofficial. But we understand that you are giving a party here shortly, and that your guests are coming as Apaches.'

"'Correct, Mr. Matthews,' he remarked. 'Is there any objection?'

"'None, sir,' I said. 'But in view of your magnificent collection we wondered at Headquarters if you would like any police protection for the night in question?'

"He drew himself up and stared at me coldly.

"'May I ask why I should require protection against my own guests?'

"'You will pardon me, sir,' I said dog gedly, 'but I intend no reflection on those of your guests whom you know personally. It is, however, a well-known fact that many of the people who accept your hospitality are quite unknown to you.'

"'Proceed, sir,' he said quietly.

"'And such an opportunity as this is the very one to attract the attention of le Bossu Masque.'

"He began to laugh silently: then he rose and pressed a bell.

"'Come with me, Mr. Matthews.' He gave an order in Russian to a servant who entered. 'I have heard rumours of this mysterious Bossu Masque, and I can assure you that nothing would please me more than if he should honour my party with his presence.'

"He was leading the way into the garden as he spoke.

"'He might succeed in giving me what I find so difficult to experience to-day—a genuine thrill. Oh the other hand—he might not. In my spare time, Mr. Matthews, I have sought to improve a natural aptitude in the use of firearms, and you shall judge for yourself whether my efforts have proved successful.'

"He had halted by a small garden table on which a waiting servant had already placed a case containing two revolvers. Once again he gave an order in Russian, and the man took up a position twenty yards away, holding my visiting card in his outstretched hand. There came a crack, and the visiting card was no more. Then the man threw an apple in the air. The Prince shot twice. He got the apple with the first and the largest bit of it with the second."

"Good shooting," said Hugh. "It used to be able to do that myself, but I have my doubts if I could do it now. Sorry to interrupt. Go on, Mr. Matthews."

"As you say, Captain Drummond—good shooting, marvellous shooting. He laid down his revolver, and turned to me with a smile.

"That, Sir!" he said, "is why I say that on the other hand—he might not. For I should have not the smallest hesitation in killing him on the spot."

"I bowed: there seemed nothing more to say.

"'I understand perfectly,' he continued, the object of your visit. And I am greatly obliged to your Headquarters for their courtesy. But I can assure you that I am quite capable of dealing with any uninvited guest myself; and, as for the others, I have implicit confidence in my cousin.'

"So I returned to the station and to Paris. I reported the result of my visit to Grodin, who shrugged his shoulders.

"'Well, anyway, he can't blame us if anything does happen,' he remarked, and at that we left it. We had done all we could: we had warned him. And, as Grodin pointed out, le Bossu -Masque, up to date, had confined his activities to Paris and its suburbs."

Victor Matthews paused and lit a cigarette.

"Eight days later," he said quietly, "we received a frenzied call on the telephone from the Chateaudun police. In the early hours of the morning Prince Boris Marcovitch, while at supper with his friends, had been shot dead through the heard, by le Bossu Masque, and practically the whole collection had been stolen."

"Good lord!" cried Hugh, "this beats the band. Take a breather, my dear fellow, and have a drink."

CHAPTER VIII

In Which Victor Matthews Ends his Story.

"I was afraid you might find the story a little long," said Matthews, as the butler brought out the tray.

"Long be blowed," cried Hugh. "It is the most extraordinary yarn I ever listened to. Sounds like a book."

"Truth is stranger, Captain Drummond. The old tag. I think that beer looks very promising."

He took the glass, and raised his hand in a toast.

"I am just trying to think," he went on after a while, "of the best way of telling you the remainder. I think perhaps I shall make it most interesting if I first of all give you the story as it was told us on our arrival at the Chateau du Lac Noir by the guests who had been detained there by the local police pending our coming.

"There were fourteen of them in all—eight women, and six men. And their condition, as you can imagine, was pretty bad. In addition to this appalling affair, which in itself was sufficient to upset anyone, the whole lot of them had been extremely drunk the night before. And they looked like it.

"However, by dint of questioning and piecing together their various stories, we managed to arrive at a fairly accurate account of what had happened. They had arrived by the train which reached Chateaudun at four o'clock the previous day. As usual they had been met at the station by the Prince's private carriages, and taken straight to the chateau, where the Prince received them. Champagne and caviare had at once been served, which sent them all upstairs to change for dinner in an expansive mood.

"Dinner itself started at eight-thirty and was preceded by more rounds of a special aperitif known only to the Prince, so that even at the beginning of the meal several of them were talking out of their turn. And by eleven o'clock most of them were riotously tight. Two girls from the Folies Bergeres were dancing on the table: in fact, an extra special debauch was in full swing. The hours went on: more drink arrived, and yet more drink, until many of the guests were frankly and unashamedly asleep. Only the Prince remained his normal self, though he was drinking level with them all.

"Now it was his custom to hold these carousals in the huge old banqueting-hall. It was a loftly room with a broad staircase at one end leading up to the musicians' gallery. They had long since faded away, completely worn out, and in the general din probably no one even noticed that they had ceased playing. And so you can visualise the scene. The candles guttering on the table around which sprawled the drunken guests; and sitting at one end, with a look of scornful weariness already beginning to show on his face, their host. The staircase was behind his left shoulder, the top half of it in semi-darkness, as were the portraits of the Prince's ancestors which stared down on the revellers from the walls.

"Suddenly one of the men who was singing some maudlin song broke off abruptly and leaned forward rubbing his eyes. What on earth was that strange object on the staircase? Was it really there—or was the great black shadow his imagination? Then it moved and he lurched to his feet. Grim reality struggled through the fumes of alcohol, and he hiccoughed out a warning.

"The others looked up: a woman screamed. And cold as ice the prince turned round to find himself facing a masked hunchback. There was a moment of dead silence—then he rose to his feet. And even as he did so a solitary shot rang out from the stairs, and the Prince pitched forward on his face—stone dead.

"The guests, sobered by this utterly unexpected tragedy, huddled together like sheep. 'Le Bossu Masque' passed from lip to lip in fearful whispers. And still this monstrous figure stood there motionless, his revolver still in his hand. Suddenly the door from the servants' quarters opened and five men came in. Save for the fact that they were masked they might have been five of the guests, because they too were dressed as Apaches Two of them advanced to the terrified guests, and each of them carried a revolver. No word was spoken; evidently the whole thing had been planned beforehand. While the two of them guarded the guests, and the sinister masked hunch back stood in silence on the stairs the other three systematically looted the place. They smashed in cabinets and wrenched open drawers, while the man whose collection they were taking lay dead by his own table.

"It lasted nearly an hour so we are told. The stuff was carried out through the front door, the looters returning each time for more. And then at length they finished, and the three men who had been removing the stuff disappeared. There was the sound, and of this they were one and all quite positive, of a motor-car driving away—then silence. Slowly the two men who had been covering them the whole time backed to the door and disappeared also. And with that pandemonium broke loose.

"As mysteriously as he had come le Bossu Masque had vanished. The thing was over and finished; only broken cabinets and a dead man, who stared at the ceiling, remained to prove that it was ghastly reality and not a drunken dream. Completely sobered by now, the men of the party dashed round the house, only to find that every servant had been bound and gagged. So they did the only thing there was to be done and sent for the local police.

A PROTEST.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I am very sorry you have given me this opening of writing a letter of strong protest against the insertion of an advertisement of "Atheistic Literature" by an American Association in The Examiner issue of September 6. I could scarce believe my own eyes, and horror went through my whole being even to my finger tips. Sir, I had believed that at least you had reverence for the Divine and a belief of some kind that He was good. If I was editor of a paper such as yours, and an American or any other outsider or insider offered me a million dollars to put such an advertisement in my paper, I would draw up myself to my fullest height and ask them what insult was that. I would tell them to keep their dirty money in their own country and not dare show their face to me again.

Do I know there is a God? I certainly do, and I know that God is Love. Beyond a shadow of a doubt He has manifested Himself to me as He does not unto the world, and one of these days, and perhaps not far distant, those who want to know the God that I know shall know in the book I write what I know about Him and Who He is. Let this suffice for now, but please give an answer to this letter publicly, and oblige,—Yours truly,

ONE WHO ADORES THE LORD.

(Ed.—The above writer can rest assured that no further advertising of this nature is going to be accepted by The Examiner.—Ed.)

WIN BRILLIANT GAME

PRAGUE, Sept. 9.— (CP) —The Vancouver University girls basketball team yesterday won a brilliant victory by 18 points to 14 over the French team for the world's basketball championship.

About one-seventh of the criminals sent to English prisons are women.

OILS LEADING ON STANDARD

Home Oil and Mayland Register Substantial Advances.

NICKEL REMAINS SAME.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9. (C.P.)—In spite of lack of response from Nickel and Noranda, holding within fractions of last night's close, the mining market had an unusually strong appearance during the early period to-day, the oils providing the leadership and showing the outstanding advances.

Imperial and B. A. Oil were well taken but the lower-priced oils were under the greatest accumulation. Home Oil advanced 70 to $3.95 and Mayland following reports of increased production from the company's wells; gained 50 to $1. Calmont sold up 20 to 90, Calgary and Edmonton 15 to 75, Alberta Pacific 12 to 72 and Associated 10 to 35. Ajax Oil and Nordon both recovered a few points.

Falconbridge was in good demand, selling up a quarter to $2, and Sherritt Gordon was 3 higher at $1.33. Amulet was up a point to 57 with other base metals firm.

Howey staged a sharp rally, registering a gain of six to 41, at noon. Teck Hughes was 10 up at $6.60 and Lake Shore gained a like amount to $23.05. Dome, at $9, was up five; and Kirkland Lake gold, Premier and Siscoe advanced a point or so each. Hollinger and Oriole, off five each, displayed the only softness.

SPLENDID PEACH CROP.

TORONTO, September 9. — One of the best crops in the history of the fruit growing industry, is the reference made by local dealers regarding the peach crop now being harvested. The fruit is of high quality and large, and unusually low prices are being obtained. No. 1 grade Elbertas brought 75 cents for a six quart basket, but No. 2 grade dropped to 30 cents.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Omission of dividend due in October next, by two Canadian corporations and reductions in the annual bonuses by two others will mean the shareholders of these companies receive more than $2,000,000 less in disbursements in October, 1930, than 1929. Commission of the preferred dividends by Canadian steamship lines cuts the total by $225,000 and that on the ordinary shares of the Massey Harris Company by an additional $544,045 for a total of $769,045 while the reaction in the annual bonus of Ogilvie Flour Mills from $17 to $5 per share adds a further $900,000 and the reduction in the extra from $5 to $2.50 per share by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada adds another $333,250, bringing the total decrease to $2,002,295. In October, 1929, these four companies made regular dividend and bonuses distributed of $3,027,170 and in October, 1930, this was dropped to $1,024,875. Three of the four companies are affected by much the same situation. Massey Harris the largest manufacturer of farm implements in the British Empire and the reaction in the purchasing power of farmer through lower is one of the contributoing factors to the ommission of dividends, wheat prices and difficulties in marketing the export surplus. Canada steamship lines derives considerable revenue from moving the western crop from the west to the east and distributing it to the world's markets and the slow movement of the 1929 crop affected gross revenues materially. Ogilvie flour mills has also been affected by the wheat market. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company is feeling the effects of the general drop in the sales of motor cars the world over,but this company which ends its fiscal period this year, is expected to show earnings well in excess of dividend requirements. The management has always been conservative and in years have built up an excellent cash position. Both Massey Harris and Canada Steamships have reorganized capital in the past few years. The outstanding capital of Massey Harris originally consisted of $24,179,800 ordinary shares of par value of $100 in 1926, this was changed to $12,089,900 in preferred shares of $100 and $12,089,900 in 7 per cent. Preferred shares of $100 par. In March 1928, the common stock of $100 par value was divided into 4 shares of no par and in 1929 $241,798 additional common shares were offered stockholders at $60 per share on the basis of one new for each two paid in the same year, the old preferred stock was called for redemption and replaced by a new preferred carrying a fixed dividend of 5 per cent, against 7 per cent on the old. The initial quarter dividend of 75 cents a share was paid on the ordinary shares in April, 1929, and passed as of October, 1930.

Canada Steamship.

Dividends on the old preferred issue of Canada Steamships were in arrears on a previous occasion and an arrangement was entered into whereby the holders accepted a new 7% preferred in place of the old 7%. Arrears of dividends were extinguished by giving one additional share of new preferred for each five of the old, thus holders received six shares of the new preferred for five of the old. The present preferred is cumulative and participates with the common, making possible the payment of 8% in any one year. One of the most complete financial statements yet to be issued by a Canadian corporation is that of Power Corporation of Canada, Limited. The printed report contains a wealth of information for the corporations stockholders and all sorts of useful information as to the investment in subsidiary companies and concerns in which the corporation is financially interested as well as production etc. The report is well illustrated and leaves very little to be desired. Another innovation adopted by the corporation is the circularizing of brokers offering to supply them with additional copies of the report in closed in envelopes ready for mailing. This policy is to make available printed reports for traders who are carrying the stock on margin and in brokers names and is a step in the right direction as the part owners of the securities could not be reached in any other way.

Passing of the dividend payable in October on the ordinary shares of the Massey Harris Company, Ltd., evidently took some quarters on the street by surprise and the market value of the shares dropped approximately $4 shortly after the opening of the Toronto Stock exchange to-day. Directors after a meeting Monday afternoon announcing that after full discussion it was agreed that no dividend on the no par value common shares will be paid on October 15, 1930, rumors had been current on the street for months that Massey Harris would either omit payment of the October dividend or make some reaction in the amount, a few weeks ago Massey Harris sold down to a new low for the year of 19 but strengthened more recently on the expectation that more favorable consideration would be given the dividend at yesterday's meeting.

Hunts' Sales Reduction.

August sales of Hunts' Ltd., show a reduction of 3.72 per cent dividend and the advance here was inclined to slow down on a reduced volume. Gains were liberally sprinkled throughout the local lists with the oils as a body outstanding, but nevertheless there was an inclination to hold back and traders were not bidding very briskly for a great many securities.

MASSEY HARRIS REGISTERS DROP OF FOUR POINTS

Market Following New York Trend Turns Irregular in To-day's Session.

OIL GROUP FIRM.

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP) — Influenced by the uncertainty at New York the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange displayed much irregularity during the course of the morning session.

Massey-Harris, in view of the omission of the common dividend, dropped four points during the first hour to 20 and bordered around that figure till noon hour. The turnover was much ahead of that in the previous with reference to the above issue.

The oils as a group provided a firm spot and Imperial came well to the fore to register a gain of nearly a full point; Canadian oil added on to sell at 26. The rest of the group were up fractions or unchanged at yesterday's close.

High-priced industrials were strong with C.P.R. up 3 and Consumers Gas 1. Bell Telephone was up ½ to 153.

International Nickel did little in the way of price moves, although the volume was well up with the rest of the leaders. Nickel went at 25⅛ up an ⅛. Noranda reversed things and dropped 25 to 24.00. Sherritt Gordon was easier at 28 while McIntyre went unchanged at $19.25.

Cockshutt Plow dipped an ¼ to 19⅞; Brazilian was up an ⅛ to 35½; Vinegar was up a full point to 22 and Kelvinator advanced 3 on a sale of 5 shares. City Dairy, Gypsum, Loblaw "A", Seagrams and Carlings were all unchanged.

STRICKEN CITY IS BEING RELIEVED

Water Reaches Santo Domingo Through Repaired Inland Aqueduct.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 9. (A.P.) —Furnishing of food and water to Santo Domingo's stricken thousands became to-day a problem of increasing importance to National and Red Cross authorities who are here to superintend hurricane relief.

Soldiers of the Dominican Guardia, with United States sailors standing by, suppressed a food riot yesterday at one of the wharves where relief supplies were being unloaded from the U. S. destroyer-mine sweeper "Grebe".

Lack of water has become almost as distressing a problem as lack of food, but an aduedict had been repaired for giving water from inland sources. A supply was drawn toward the city and was expected here today. With this information an order was issued for closing af all water taps in the city to prevent any wastage.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO EXPLORERS

Ceremony in Church Where Memorial Service Held For Amundsen Two Years Ago.

DIED ON ARCTIC ISLAND.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 9.—(AP) The bodies of Salomon Auguste Andree and Nils Strindberg who lost their lives 33 years ago in an attempt to fly across the North Pole in a balloon, rested today in a provisional Crypt in the southern corridor of the little Tromsoe Church.

Norwegian sailors carried the bodies there after a moving funeral service had been said over them by Dean Nisben, who recalled in his sermon that two years ago memorial services were held in the same church for Roald Amundsen.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 9. (Special to Examiner.)—Constituting a record in the history of western grain movement up to the present, from August 1st to September 6th, the prairie provinces have shipped 34,943,000 bushels of grain over Canadian Pacific Railway lines. Next highest shipment was for the same period in 1929 when 18,099,000 bushels were carried.

For the 24 hour period ending September sixth, the Canadian Pacific Inspection total 1,069 cars. Manitoba marketed 1,570,000 bushels, Saskatchewan 1,667,000 and Alberta 1,639,000 bushels, a total of 4,776,000 in 1838 cars. In store in country elevators are 21,178,000 bushels, and in government elevators on joint tracks, 416,000 at Moosejaw, 1,985,000 at Saskatoon, 11,109,000 at Calgary.

Stored at the lake front on all tracks are 53,691,000 bushels. At the Pacific coast on all tracks are stored 10,387,000 bushels, with 269,000 bushels shipped by boats from all tracks.

MASSEY HARRIS SUSPENDS OCT. DIVIDEND ON COMMON STOCK

Reserving Resources Until Such Time Conditions Warrant Resumption of Payments.

SURPRISE TO STREET.

TORONTO, Sept. 9. (Special to Examiner.)—It was announced by the Massey Harris Co., Ltd., at the close of the board meeting yesterday that after full discussion, it was agreed that no dividend on the no par value common shares be paid on Octover 15, 1930.

This announcement issued after the close of trading on the stock market, came as something of a surprise. Little more than a week ago the rumor gained circulation that Massey Harris would curtail its present dividend payment, which were on a basis of $3 a year. The last disbursement to common shareholders amounted to 75 cents paid on July 15. Later inquiries in official Massey Harris circles failed to reveal whether the directors intended to reduce or suspend the October dividend. In some quarters of the financial district it was assumed that in view of general business conditions in recent months, the company might reduce its dividend by probably $1 a year or even more, but few reports indicated any expectation that the directors would withhold payment of the whole quarterly disbursement.

The effort of the announcement will be interesting, but it is obvious that like many other corporations, Massey Harris is facing conditions boldly and conserving its resources until such time as business conditions and its own business justify resumption of dividend payment to common shareholders. The preferred dividend of Massey Harris ois on a basis of $5 a year.

lambs. "The fatted calf" was the last and fifth gift to the son. This was emblematic of the joy of the Christian life. These gifts are the greatest treasures upon earth, and are given us by the Father.

Rev. Mr. Millyard then called upon the ministry and laymen of Peterborough Presbytery to come forward and assist in the induction service. He explained that the call coming to Rev. Mr. Dudgeon from the London Conference had resulted in the call to Rev. Mr. Moorhouse from this conference. Mr. Millyard also officiated in the induction service which laid forth the duties of both pastor and congregation. At the conclusion he spoke of his great pleasure in presiding at this time, and from his long and close acquaintance with Mr. Moorhouse, paid high tribute to his qualities both as a man and as a minister of the Gospel. Rev. David Wren, president of the Presbytery, then addressed the congregation and delivered the charge to the pastor and his people. He stated that this was a two-fold pleasure. First to be present at the induction of one so well known. The church, said Mr. Wren, as well as the city, is greatly honored by Mr. Moorhouse's coming. His love and appreciation for St. James' congregation also made it a pleasing occasion. This induction service has always been a dignified and worthwhile one. Here the minister and the church plight their vows to one another, and the former received the sceptre of authority. Mr. Wren also paid tribute to the ministry as a profession. In it are unique and wonderful experiences not possible outside this profession. The church should recognize the minister as a man of God, and not hold him too cheaply. We should think of him as a watchman on a tower whose message would be, "'Tis night, but morning dawneth." He must be able to scan the heavens and read the signs, and know something of the day in which he lives. He should have something of the prestige and power of the seer.

Mouthpiece of God.

To-night we have inducted a prophet, the mouthpiece of the Almighty. He will reveal the eternal secrets of God, speaking as the Lord's anointed. He will be as a shepherd looking after his flock, and his task is a manifold one. In this new epoch of rapid changes, a minister must have a message, a gospel fitting into the needs of growing minds and lives. He must have a time for study and for visiting. His people must learn to co-operate with him charitably. They must uphold him in prayer and conversation. We should be loyal to our church and love it, for it is the child of Christ and His love should be our love.

We are to represent Christ when He is not here in the flesh. At the Jerusalem conference in 1929 at which every country was represented, a pertinent question was asked, "What is the Church"s real business?" It is the same as in the days of our Lord: "It is to bear witness and testimony to Jesus Christ, Who was Himself the witness of the glory of God."

There is an increasing tendency to lure the idle or curious by some attractive bait to attend church. There must be some "stunt" to fill the pews. If we study the history of the great revivals sweeping over England and the Continent, it is marvellous to find how the growth has been out of the quiet devotion of people near to the heart of God. To-day many prominent ministers aver that the need of the hour is the re-discovery of Jesus.

This minister has been inducted tonight to keep alive the passion for God and the Bible in this church where people have gathered for generations to worship God.

Rev. Mr. Millyard asked the newly inducted minister, Mr. Moorhouse, to come forward and announce the closing hymn and pronounce the benediction.

PRICE CHANGES

the point worth recalling from Mr. Hamilton's comments, is not the only attraction before the grandstand. It is part of the program which the Directors have prepared for this year's crowds. Surely it is not necessary to point out the obvious difference in the local public's favor.

For example, take a glimpse at one of the afternoon programs: horse races with entries from the largest and fastest string of trotters and pacers the local fans have seen in at least a generation; an interesting list of vaudeville acts; two diversions from the Rodeo; band music, and other features.

The evening program includes band music, the special vaudeville bill, the full rodeo, and the closing fireworks.

The afternoon performance by Welsh Brothers will bring before the spectators both Jose and Louis Welsh, the latter in trick roping and also high jumping over an automobile. Jose does trick riding. They will be remembered and also introduced by these separate stunts.

Welsh Brothers are especially eager to please the Peterborough crowd. They have already booked return engagement for next year with the Ottawa Exhibition, and Central Almonte, and are communicating with Sherbrooke and Quebec City for other 1931 bookings in eastern Canada.

The Rodeo Details.

The following is their evening program, which will likely conclude the night shows:

1—Jumping.
2—Trick riding.
3—Roman Race.
4—Jumping automobile.
5—Trick roping.
6—Pony express race.
7—Bronk riding with saddle.
8—Steer riding. (Just try it).
9—Roman jumping.
10—Chuck wagon race.

Mr. Hamilton told The Examiner that in the bronk riding the Calgary rodeo rules will apply; that is no bridle, no halter shank; rider allowed to use but one hand at all times. There is nothing in the whole program that is objectionable to persons of tender sensibilities, because there is no cruelty to any of the animals.

But, just to return to the subject of this review of the Stampede it may be repeated that this is an extra attraction which the Directors have supplied for this year's crowd; and especially that it was considered so good that it was the only grandstand attraction at the Sault Ste. Marie fair.

In brief, the Directors have a great bill this year, and they contend that they always have given the spectators full value for their money. This year the bill is fattened with a western feature and about forty of the best harness horses in the province.

The admission price this year at the gate is twenty-five cents, and the granstand is fifty cents for the afternoon, in the evening the grand stand is only 25c. The horse races alone, or the Rodeo alone are worth the money, according to all the prospects. However, don't miss this year's Exhibition.

EIGHT HOUR DAY

The question before the convention, he said, was whether or not these bodies were sufficient or was there some better machinery proposed which would justify the Government in scrapping the machinery already in existence.

Sufficient Machinery Exists

After a prolonged discussion, the congress was convinced sufficient machinery existed, and unanimously carried a vote of non-concurrence in the resolution.

A Dominion-wide eight hour day and five day week as a measure for the alleviation of unemployment was also turned back to the committee on officers' reports.

The first under the "hours of Labor" section, asks the convention to petition the Ontario legislature and Minister of Highways to enact legislation providing for an eight hour day for drivers of trucks and buses. Delegates pointed out transport drivers were often required to drive all night and then deliver their loads in the daytime.

PLAN ADVANCES BRIAND JOYFUL

OBJECTIONS QUIETER.

GENEVA, September 9. — (C.P.)— Aristide Briand, the French Foreign Minister, was jubilant to-day when interviewed prior to convening of the session of the council of the League of Nations, at that body's referring of his scheme for a federation of European States to the Assembly of the League, which convenes here Thursday.

Decision of the League Council to pass the idea on to the League Assembly was hailed gladly on almost every side, with the feeling general that it gave a new lease of life to an idea which had already met with dubious responses from several of the greatest powers and league adherents.

In going before the Assembly the Briand scheme will be assured of becoming a question for the whole to debate. Objections of League adherents, who felt that it might be purely sectional and would tend to overshadow its parent organization, that is, the League, were considered generally to have been partly surmounted with this course.

SAILBOAT EXPLOSION SETS HARBOR ON FIRE

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 9.—(CP)— Explosion of a sailing vessel filled with oil in front of the Standard Oil depots at Drapet-Sonias harbor last night took at least eight lives and possibly more.

The blast destroyed the vessel flaming fragments of which set fire to 18 other sailboats and one steamship nearby. Some of the boats burned rapidly and their crews threw themselves into the water, but it was feared many were burned fatally.

TORONTO SCHOOLS FILLED.

TORONTO, September 9. — An unprecedented attendance at local secondary schools has been revealed by a check made a week after the opening of the term. It is learned all the collegiates are filled and according to officials of the vocational committee lack of employment is responsible for the rush of young people for secondary education.

DEBATE IN HOUSE MAY END TONIGHT

Various Groups and Parties Hold Caucus During Morning.

KING SPEAKS FIRST.

OTTAWA, September 9. — (C. P.) —The various parties and groups in Parliament are preparing for action. This morning the Liberal members of the Senate were in caucus with plans for the session under consideration. On the Commons side members of the U.F.A. and Labor groups held a meeting, while a caucus of the Conservatives was scheduled for the early afternoon. The Liberal caucus will take place tomorrow.

The impression grows that the session will be brief and business like. To-day the general attitude of the Liberal party will be stated by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Opposition Leader, when he speaks in the debate on the address.

Premier R. B. Bennett will reply to him, and then Robert Gardiner, the leader of the U.F.A. group will speak. The debate will then be open but it will probably not last long and may even conclude this evening.

conditions of this nature, Mayor Cater said, by a permanent policy being decided upon at a conference of heads of the municipalities and members of the Federal and Provincial Governments. He would recommend that legislation be enacted to prohibit dealing in futures on commodity exchanges and market manipulations which so vitally affect the industrial life of Canada and also the labor market. All immigration agencies should be suspended until such time as those now jobless in Canada have been provided with work to maintain themselves and their families.

ISSUES STRONGER AS BULLS GAINS THE UPPER HAND

Wave of Profit Taking Early Yesterday Encourages Further Short Selling.

GAINS NOTICEABLE.

Little Progress is Made in Rails and Most Important Industrials.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. (C.P.)—Bulls gained a new leverage and continued the laborious elevation of stock prices unaided by public buying in to-day's market.

The wave of profit-taking late yesterday appeared to have encouraged further short selling thus improving the market's technical position and giving speculators for the rise a fresh advantage. Trading was less active than that of the previous session, however, and bulls were forced to shift their activity from group to group.

The operations of bullish interests were most effective in tobacco utility and natural gas, merchandising and good shares. Rails, and several of the important industrials made little progress Oils were inclined to sag. The American tobacco shares were strong spots, the Old B stock gaining more than five points. Case and Duplan Silk sold up about four, and shares advancing two to three included Dupont, Macy, Woolworth, Congress Cigar, Liggett and Myers B, Air Reduction and Best & Co. Such issues as National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, Columbian Carbon, Houston Oil, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Public Service of N. J., American Water Works, National Power and Light and Stone and Webster sold up moderately. Kreuger and Toll was active and firm.

Business reports still failed to show any emphatic change, although further signs of a turn for the better were indicated. The bull campaign has been hampered by the very limited autumn business upturn thus far.

Richard Whitney, President of the Exchange in an address to-day did not encourage the theory that the market forecasts business recovery: saying, "before security prices rise, there must be confidence that business has turned the corner." The speed with which the market will respond to business improvement, he added later, will depend upon the rapidity with which accurate business statistics are made available to the public.

Call money held at 2½ per cent, with little available at that level, but demand slight. The weekly condition statement of reporting federal reserve member banks showed a gain of 30,000,000. In "other" loans, perhaps indicating more active demand from industry; while loans against securities gained only $6,000,000.

PLAN FOR UNITED EUROPE HANDED TO LEAGUE BODY

Twenty-seven States Adhere in Principle to Briand's Suggestions.

PUBLIC EXPLANATION.

Henderson Points Out Dangers —Insists League Have Free Hand

GENEVA Sept. 9 (C.P.)—Aristide Briand's plan for an European federation went definitely into the state of public discussion following the first session of the League of Nations Council.

Without a dissenting voice, but after a long and warm discussion of methods, representatives of 27 European States decided to submit the plan to the League of Nations assembly, bearing their adhesion in principle. Hence they adopted a resolution to that effect and asked M. Briand to place the whole matter before the League.

That means that before the close of the present Assembly session the French Foreign Minister will explain in public the extent of the organization he deems necessary for real collaboration of European powers in both the political and economic field.

The meeting of the European conference followed a brief and more or less formal first session of the League Council at which the question of the Palestine mandate was buried without any fireworks.

Discussion Private.

The discussion of the Briand plan was in private session, but it was apparent to observers that it was not carried on in the perfunctory manner of the preceding meeting.

While Great Britain finally supported a resolution to submit the plan to the league, Mr. Henderson made a careful analysis of the possible dangers and insisted that the League must be given a free hand in the ensuing discussions.

To Be Handled By League.

The idea of a separate secretariat and separate political organization for the proposed 'United States of Europe' had already been pretty well abandoned by M. Briand after he received the replies to his "feeler" memorandum of May 17, and observers felt last night that the new organization—if it is established—is now definitely to be included in the mechanism of the League.

TORONTO GIRL IS MISSING 8 DAYS

POLICE IN SEARCH.

TORONTO, September 9. (C.P.)—Missing from her home since August 30, sixteen year old Shirley Greig, is believed to have travelled afar in her quest for fame and fortune on Broadway's white way.

Imbued since early childhood with the thought of becoming a famous actress Shirley eight days ago visited a fortune teller at the Canadian National Exhibition in an effort to find out what destiny had in store for her.

The fortune teller, as all fortune tellers do, forecast a glowing future for the ambitious maiden. Shirley was to become famous and rich within a short time.

Shirley then left the fair, digesting the good news on the way home. Shortly after she walked out of the house and has not been seen or heard of since. The police are aiding the frantic parents in a search for the girl.

Madoc Children Enjoy Johnson Theatre Party

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Sept. 9.—Mr. C. Johnson the Druggists' Theater Party on Saturday afternoon was a most unqualified success, with the Empire Theater packed to capacity. The picture put on was a Western story "Grit Wins" featuring Ted Wills, and a jolly comedy. "Oswald the Rabbit."

The lucky number prizes were won by Helen Blue, Marion Hamm, and Leila Lee, who were given, first, $3 box of chocolates; second, camera and film; and third a school bag.

The children all joined in the hearty cheer for their genial host.

France's American Island Base for Wholesale Rum Running

(1)

Canada's liquor export ban has served to divert much of the rum-running business to the island of St. Pierre and Miquelon, the last of France's possessions in North America. (1) is a view looking down the rocky slopes at the town and the lair of the rum-runners, with the dominating spire of the church and Dog Island (Ile aux Chiens), half a mile across the harbor where 540 fishermen, descendants of Norman forbears, live in a little self-contained community, with church and schools. (2) Rum-running schooner passing one of the lighthouses outside St. Pierre harbor as it makes its way back to the warehouses to take on another load for the coasts of Maine. The bottom illustration shows bags of champagne and whisky outside the Consolidated Distilleries warehouse and a truck taking away empty cases which are given to the churches, the nuns, and the townspeople free ofr firewood. In this old building is stored $500,000 worth of whisky, champagne, and assorted liquors as well as many thousands of dollars worth of rye in kegs, while a new cement warehouse is being built higher up on the street that will hold 250,000 cases.

PATROL PILOTS BREAK RECORDS

967 Flying Hours in Week.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9. (C.P.)—During August pilots of the Ontario air service added additional shattered records to their former performances during the season, it has been revealed by the monthly report of Captain Roy Maxwell, Air Service Director, received here. Patrolling out of Orient Bay station, says the report, Johnny Horne flew 62 hours and 30 minutes, to beat by an hour the former record. The entire flying time for the service during the month totals more than 3,000 hours compared with the former mark of 2,900. All weekly records were broken, the report says, the final mark being set the week ending August 23 when the bush fires prevailing in Northern Ontario necessitated 967 hours of flying by the hard working airmen.

Champions in Their Classes at the C. N. E. Dog Show

All-Canada year was fittingly kept at the Canadian National Exhibition dog show, when for the first time since 1926 a Canadian-owned dog won best in show. Above at the left is Ch. Lights o' Loomland, the wirehaired fox terrier, which won the terrier group, and then went on to be chosen queen of the 600 competing canines. She is owned by Mrs. J. R. Kennedy, Toronto. At the right is reserve winner, a flat-coated retriever, Gronwen Mutant, owned by H. U. P. Lewis, Toronto. It won the trophy for best of opposite sex to the winner and the cup for best sporting dog in the show, in which some of the best gun and bird dogs on the continent competed.

NATIONAL OBLIGATION.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 9.—(C.P.)—"Maintenance of unemployed will be a national obligation when trade depression occurs from time to time and unemployment insurance is a step in this direction," said W. Mansfield, M.P., fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress to the Trades and Labor Congress in session here.

Mr. Mansfield expressed the belief that unemployment insurance had been of great benefit in Great Britain. "I am very strongly in favor of this insurance," he said. 'I think it is the best method yet adopted as a means of assisting the unemployed during this terrible period of national and international trade depression. I do not agree that it has been abused and I hope that such a system will be put in operation throughout the world."

The coming Imperial conference was of tremendous importance, he continued. Huge trade benefits might be the outcome of the conference. "Britain wants Canada's goods, and if I read right the sign of the times Canada wants our good.."

Regarding immigration, the British Member of Parliament thought the influx of newcomers to Canada should be temporarily suspended.

CHINAMAN TAKES STRANGE OATH AS WITNESS IN MURDER TRIAL

Jim Wong, of Brantford, Ont., Takes "Chicken" Oath in Odd Ceremony.

2ND TIME IN CANADA

(Special to The Examiner; Copyright.)

BRANTFORD, Sept. 9 (SNS).—Ancient and picturesque ceremony necessary for the swearing of a Canton Chinaman to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, was carried out in the yard of the Brantford police station with Jim Wong, Chinese cook, as the central figure. Jim Wong is the chief witness in the trial of both Wong for the murder of George Lem in the American cafe here on the evening of August 26. Precedent was recorded in a trial many years ago in the Supreme Court of British Columbia, when this oath was taken. Known as the "chicken oath," it is administered when the trial is for a capital offense. Jim Wong can not take a Christian oath and the ancient Chinese oath was administered. It is sometimes called the King's Path, or the Oath to the King of Heaven.

The oath was first read out in court and the witness signed his name. This was recited in English by Magistrate Jones and given to the interpreter who requested the witness to recite the same in Chinese. It read as follows: "Being a true witness, I shall enjoy happiness and my sons and grandsons will prosper forever. If I falsely accuse the prisoner, I shall die on the street, heaven will punish me, earth will destroy me, I shall forever suffer adversity, and all my offspring shall be exterminated. In burning this oath I humbly submit myself to the will of Heaven which has brilliant eyes to see." Witness signed here. The signature having been made the police had ready a cock, a block of wood, not less than three punk sticks and a pair of candles. Then the court repaired to the courtyard outside as required by the oath that there be nothing between the witness and the Heavens. The candles were lighted and stuck in the ground. The oath was then read aloud by the witness, after which he wrapped it in Joss paper, as used in religious ceremonies, then laid the cock on the block and chopped its head off, the witness then set fire to the oath from the candles and held it until it was consumed.

ACHIEVEMENT.

It is not achievement that brings happiness, although it may contribute to it; it is belief in the worth-while quality of the staff of life, however it is experienced, however encountered.

NEW REFRIGERATOR IS ON THE MARKET

Q.R.S. Canadian Corporation Appointed Distributors for Majestic Electric "Freezer."

Announcement was made on Saturday (August 23rd) that the Q. R. S. Canadian Corporation Limited, Toronto, of which F. A. Trestrail is president, has just been appointed distributor for a popular-priced electric refrigerator that is expected to tap an entirely new market for domestic electric refrigeration.

This new refrigerator is being manufactured in accordance with the latest methods of mass production by the Majestic Household Utilities Corporation, Chicago, an organization working in close co-operation with the Grigsby-Grunow Company, makers of the famous Majestic Radio in the United States.

Within four months from the day the American public voiced its faith in Majestic's plans for a new refrigerator by literally "dumping" $40,000,000 into the treasury of the newly organized Majestic Household Utilities Corporation (thus over-subscribing the stock issue by 75 per cent.), the first Majestic Refrigerators were ready for shipment to the trade.

Recognizing the importance of the Canadian National Exhibition, the Canadian distributors rushed one of the first of the new refrigerators to come off the assembly line to Toronto.

Every piece and every part, from bolts, nuts and screws to motor and cabinet is made in the new Majestic Refrigerator plants in Chicago. These plants cover hundreds of thousands of square feet in floor area and are equipped with the latest automatic machinery for efficient mass production.

The finished product they turn out is said to be a refrigerator of exceptional beauty, combining supreme quality and simplicity with rare distinction in design and finish.

MEDICAL WORK ROTARY THEME

Dr. Bruce Longmore Addresses Club on Accomplishments of His Profession.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9.—Featuring the weekly luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club held yesterday in the St. Lawrence hotel, Dr. B. Longmore was the special speaker for the occasion. The president, H. N. Carr occupied the chair.

Taking for his subject the accomplishments of the medical profession, Dr. Longmore stated that he felt that he was speaking as the representative of a profession that gives as large an amount of service as any other profession. The work of his profession he said, was at the present time under the scrutiny of the general public as is the work of other professions, but there were some spheres of medical labor that should be kept in the minds of all men. The criticism under which the profession labored was not resented, but it was felt that it should be an intelligent criticism, and that all legislation coming therefrom should not be entered into too hastily.

The speaker went on to trace the idea of illnesses from the early days, to the time when all disease was felt to be caused by evil spirits. In those days healers were either to be found among the priesthood or the holy men. This idea, that all disease was caused by the supernatural was held up to a remarkably short time ago, up until 1600 in fact. But medical knowledge was known as far back as 400 years before Christ, when the Greek, Aristotle, had expounded certain laws of the profession which were sound. Then again from Nineveh and ancient Egypt had come tablets on which were written certain medical laws, from the latter place some knowledge of drugs was shown.

Great Accomplishments

But in the last few hundred years the accomplishments of the medical profession were great. Dr. Longmore, speaking of the European plague, pointed out that this was nothing more than smallpox. In 1885 no less than 1,165 people had died in the city of Montreal in one month from this disease. Now, through the precautions taken by the profession along the line of vaccination this disease was gradually disappearing, and could, with the co-operation of the general public, be wiped out altogether. "And yet, said the speaker, there were some people who were fighting this means of disease elimination."

Of the necessity of vaccination, Dr. Longmore appealed to his hearers for an open mind on this subject, and quoted facts concerning the benefits that are to be derived from this measure of prevention, stating that every child should be vaccinated before the age of three months.

Other diseases had also been lessened by the able work of the medical profession, and the speaker drew attention to the fact that tonsils often proved to be the root cause of many troubles, although the profession was often accused of removing them for gain.

Another subject mentioned by Dr. Longmore was that of irregular practitioners. Along this line the speaker told of the commission that had been appointed to decide whether the members of these cults were qualified to use the totle of doctor. This commission, which was composed of non-medical men, was outlined and their method of action told. The finding had been to the contrary.

At the conclusion of the address Elie Brunelle thanked the speaker on behalf of the club, for his splendid talk.

During the business session of the meeting a suggestion was put forward by C. Williams as to the advisability of the club building its own collapsible booths to be used at the street fairs, and to rent these to other organizations, and so defray the cost of making. This matter was discussed and a committee was appointed by the president consisting of C. Williams, P. C. Denyes, and W. Henson to investigate the matter and take action at once.

A Burden Lifted

For weeks Mrs. Brown had felt the burden of the letter she knew she should write. She always said a letter was a full day's work for her. Then she thought of "long distance!" In less than two minutes she was talking to Mrs. King. What a relief it was. "Thank goodness, I thought of the telephone," she said. The burden of letter-writing oppresses her no more.

REGISTRAR OF COMBINES FINDS NO PROFITEERING IN BREAD PRICE PROBE

WIDE INVESTIGATION

OTTAWA, Sept. 9. — (Special to The Examiner).—As a result of complaints from a number of municipalities, the Department of Labor has been engaged for several weeks in an examination into the cost of flour and bread in the larger centres of the Dominion, and, while so far no sensational combine to uphold prices has been uncovered and while bread prices in many municipalities have been beyond suspicion, there are still about a dozen cities in Canada in which the price of a loaf to-day is actually higher than it was a year ago. Since wheat, the "raw stuff" of bread, has fallen from $1.58 in August, 1929, to 94 cents in August, 1930, the department is curious to know who is getting the spread.

F. C. McGregor, registrar under the Combines Investigation Act, directing the probe, gave comparative tables in which the following cities were found to be paying higher prices than a year ago: Kingston, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Port Arthur, Fort William, Saskatoon, Calgary, Nanaimo, Bathurst, N. B., St. Johns, Quebec, Montreal.

Perhaps hastened by the publicity given to the probe, the price of bread has fallen noticeably during the past few weeks. The average for the Dominion on August 1 was 7.5 cents a pound, which is half a cent lower time in October last.

In Great Britain, Mr. McGregor noted, the average price of bread on August 1 was 4.25 cents a pound and much of it is made from Canadian wheat.

British bread is cheaper, Mr. McGregor said, because wages are lower, because the bread is not so good, because distribution costs of a four-pound loaf (the standard there) is much lower per pound than for smaller loaves, and because of other factors.

The average price of bread in the United States for the first eight months of 1930 was 8.8 cents a pound.

Reveals Some Exploitation.

In some communities there may be extensive exploitation of the public through failure of the miller and baker to pass on to the consumer lower costs of wheat and flour, the studies of the department indicate, but taking the Dominion as a whole the situation would appear to be less serious than the average consumer believes.

A year ago, wheat was $1.58 and bread was 7.8 cents a pound. At the present time, wheat has fallen to 94 cents, but bread is still 7.5 cents a pound. The question at once arises, "How much should bread fall when wheat drops 64 cents a bushel?"

The answer is that a pound of wheat makes a pound of bread; there are 60 pounds to the bushel, and therefore in this case the price of a pound of wheat fell slightly over a cent, so that the price of bread should have fallen slightly over a cent, too. Instead, it only fell three-tenths of a cent.

On the short view, this would suggest exploitation. But, as the registrar pointed out, the bread you buy to-day was made from wheat perhaps purchased six months ago, and you cannot indict the miller or the baker without finding out the movement of wheat, flour and bread prices over a long range of time.

Figures Show Movement.

Selected figures which throw a lot of light on the present situation were given by Mr. McGregor:

	Wheat Bushel	Flour Barrel	Bread Pound
June, 1929	$1.18	$6.63	7.7
July, 1929	1.60	7.91	7.7
August, 1929 ...	1.58	8.18	7.8
September, 1929	1.50	8.00	7.9
October, 1929 ..	1.41	7.80	8.
August, 1930 ...	94	6.16	7.5

In October bread prices reached their peak. Since then they have declined, with falling wheat and flour prices, and for the month just past the chart shows:

A good case for the Canadian miller and baker as a whole can be made out from this chart, it was pointed out. If it be complained that the price of bread has not dropped immediately nor to the extent it should, it can be replied that the price of bread did not go up immediately and to the extent indicated when wheat went up last summer.

Wheat in July, 1930, was 42 cents a bushel higher than in June, which raised the cost of the chief raw material for bread seven-tenths of a cent. The retail price of bread would have been justified in jumping seven-tenths cents a pound, if the theory be accepted that the change of price in one must be followed immediately by a change of price in the other.

Bread stayed the same. In August wheat was still $1.58, but bread only advanced one-tenth of one cent a pound. The baker was using wheat purchased perhaps six months before. Bread continued to rise until October, but even at the peak it had gone up only five-tenths of a cent, whereas the wheat jump from June to July would have justified (on these grounds) seven-tenths.

Some Suspicious Cases.

This "lag" between wheat and bread prices is recognized by the officials who are probing bread prices. Their one anxiety is to see that it isn't exploited, that prices fall as quickly after a decline as they rise after a boost in wheat prices.

While a good case can be made out for the bakers and millers of Canada as a whole, the Department of Labor is suspicious that in isolated instances the breadwinner is being held up.

In Niagara Falls, for instance, in July, 1928, with wheat at $1.60, bread was selling at 7.3 cents a pound. A year later, with wheat below the dollar mark, bread had risen to 8 cents a pound.

Bread in Kingston rose from 6.7 cents a pound to 7.3; in North Bay, from 7.3 to 8 cents. In Fort William and Port Arthur it rose from 6 cents to 6.7. These increases were not only made in the face of falling wheat prices, but in the face of falling bread prices in other cities of the Dominion.

Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, is anxious to not inaugurate a formal investigation. He believes that publicity will have the desired effect.

MILLBROOK W. I. HOLDS SESSION

Ladies Decide to Erect a Flag Pole to Replace the One Destroyed By Wind.

THREE QUILTS FINISHED.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 9. (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. H. J. Armstrong was hostess for the September meeting of the local branch of the Women's Institute held at her home, Union street, on Saturday at 8 p.m., the attendance being most gratifying and the president, Mrs. T. G. Harkness, occupying the chair.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, showed one new member's fees received that evening, and ten dollars remitted to the National Institute for the Blind. A report was also received on the cost of installing a lavatory in the Town Hall, the figure mentioned being four hundred dollars, the decision being arrived at to wait on the Municipal and the Cavan Councils asking these bodies to assume half of the expense.

The committee on the flag pole which the Institute intends erecting to replace the one destroyed in a wind storm some months ago reported a delay to secure further information on price of this important community asset.

Three quilts were reported as practically finished, and one which Mrs. J. McBride had brought with her was exhibited, and its pattern and quality of material much admired. Fifty Institute members from Millbrook and surrounding branches were stated by the president to have attended the special service at Saint Thomas' Anglican church on Sunday, August 24, when the organization, as a body, made its initial step toward an annual church attendance, and sincere appreciation of the sermon preached by Rev. W. P. A. Roberts was expressed.

The committee to look after the booth at the School Fair on Monday, September 8, included Mrs. Aiken, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Miss Margaret Whyte, Mrs. Harkness, and Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

Meeting Week Earlier

Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, Miss B. McCorry, and Miss Mildred Wood were appointed by the president as the committee responsible for the October W. I. meeting, the home of Mrs. C. C. Garside being announced as the place for the gathering. The meeting was held one week earlier this month owing to the Peterborough Fair coming on the regular night, a number of the members finding it inconvenient to attend when fall exhibition in the neighboring city is in progress.

Mrs. Wesley Brown was the convenor in charge of the program for Saturday evening, the items including a musical recitation, "I've Been and Had The Measles" by Gordon Jones, his sister, Miss Francis Jones, playing the piano accompaniment; a piano solo by Freddie Brown, and a talk on a motor trip taken the previous week through Northern Ontario by Miss Pearl Burnham.

The committee in charge, Mrs. W. Brown, Miss Martha Lunn, and Miss M. Gibson, assisted the hostess, Mrs. Armstrong, in serving fresh fruit during the social hour at the close, and the formal vote of thanks to the hostess and others helping to make the gathering interesting and successful was moved by Mrs. J. W. Hilton, seconded by Miss Bella McCorry, and generally endorsed by a hearty handclap.

INSTITUTE MEETS AT YOUNG'S POINT

Fourteen Members Meet at Home of Mrs. Andrew Wilson.

YOUNG'S POINT, Sept. 9 (Examiner Correspondence)—The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Wilson last week. Fourteen members were present, also one visitor.

The meeting was opened in the usual way. The singing of the Institute ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The roll-call was answered by names for the home. Mrs. Max. Kidd was appointed to purchase first aid kits for both the north school and the local school.

Grandmother's Day

The Institute intends holding a Grandmothers' Day on September 30th at the home of Mrs. Andrew Wilson when prizes will be given to the oldest grandmother, the youngest grandmother and the great grandmother. All grandmothers in the village and surrounding country are cordially invited to be the guests of the Women's Institute on that afternoon.

It was also decided to donate $8 towards buying prizes for the Girls' Sewing Class.

The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Prophet and Inventor

Alexander Graham Bell was a prophet as well as an inventor. The 70,000 daily long distance calls in Ontario and Quebec are a remarkable fulfillment of what he foresaw fifty years ago. He realized that distance would be no barrier to the telephone.

Fine Fair Program.

The Lakefield Fall Fair is scheduled for September 23rd and 24th and while the program includes all the big attractions of former years there are many new features, which will add to the enjoyment of the visitors. The list of special prizes is especially generous and well worth competing for. There are specials for every age and sex and they include cash prizes, and merchandise. Among the novelties will be a singing contest for boys and girls of 15 years and under, an old-time fiddler's contest and a step dancing contest, a contest for lady motorists, a foot race for men of 50 and over, another race for men of 60 and over. There are two good prizes for the largest family on the grounds, the Lakefield Agricultural Society does not champion race suicide apparently. There are three remarkably attractive specials listed for ladies' work and the prize list which is just off the press is worthy of careful perusal.

A special list of prizes given by the Woman's Institute for flowers is an attraction just introduced this year. There are several specials for farm stock and grain. The grounds and track have been put in first class shape and the next consideration and a very important one is the weather.

That Body of Yours

ANOTHER METHOD OF EMPTYING THE GALL BLADDERS.

When called to see a case of "biliousness" as it is frequently called, most physicians give something that will get the liver working or induce the gall bladder to empty itself.

Thus small doses of calomel, followed in a few hours by a dose of epsom salts has been the usual procedure. Other physicians go a step further and see that an enema or injection of warm water is also given.

The enema gives marked relief to many patients and it has always been thought that this was due to clearing away the waste from the large intestine so that it would not be absorbed into the blood.

However, it has been found that the enema has a more far reaching effect.

As you know the gall bladder is now being drained or emptied by the use of epsom salts poured down a fine tube extending from the mouth down past stomach to beginning of small intestine.

Drs. A. L. Garbut and H. G. Jacobi, New York, have found that instilling various solutions high up in the lower bowel may effect the secretion and help to make the gall bladder empty itself. The ordinary salt solution for instance may induce the flow of the bile from the liver and gall bladder into the intestine.

Just why the liver and gall bladder pour out bile when these fluids are injected into lower bowel is not known, but it is thought that these fluids actually stimulate the cells of the liver to action.

Now the knowledge that an ordinary solution of table salt will thus stimulate the liver is going to mean much in the treatment of sluggishness, biliousness, jaundice, and other liver conditions due to stasis or stoppage of the flow of the bile.

It is certainly simpler than the use of the drainage tube through mouth or nose, and is easier on the system than the use of calomel and epsom salts.

However, there is one important point that must not be forgotten. The use of enemas or injections daily to move wastes from intestines is a mistake.

The muscles walls of intestine are meant to grasp wastes and drive them downward and out of the body.

If enemas or injections are used too often the walls of intestine lose their muscular tone, often leaving the patient in a serious and embarrassing condition.

The thought then in a case of biliousness, one sided headache, jaundice and so forth ,the enemas of salt solution help to stimulate the liver and gall bladder and correct the condition.

Roller Skating By Children Forbidden

(Special To The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Sept. 9—Roller skating by children on their way to and from school is tabooed here. Complaints came to the Board of Education of the danger of children infesting the streets as their safety was imperilled. Consequently an order has been issued to the principals to stop the habit, and put it out of bounds. Before and after school hours the children are under the direction of the parents, but throughout school hours the teachers are guardians of the welfare of their pupils.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

I hope you have had a happy vacation, though you seem to have prepared articles for each day.

The page people seem to have deserted or possibly they have been too busy and too tired.

Vacation time is about over and I often wonder about vacations. We all need them in some form, for all work and no play makes Jack a bad boy, makes women lose heart.

No matter how we love our homes, and those in them, we are better to get away from them. They are better to know absolutely they must depend on themselves. We have seen good men and women wholly at sea when left to themselves. Their mothers or others always look after them and are to blame for it. That seems to me one of the causes of H.C.L. It is good for them to realize how much we mean in the home. For ourselves, we need change whether we recognize it or not. Our hearts may be so bound up in our homes we may think the others need us. Suppose they do, it will not hurt them. We dread the extra work on our return. There should not be extras because of what others should have done. Some children do their very best when Mother is gone, to have everything in perfect condition and some extra surprises. Others fail to have what should be done. It is largely the mother's fault.

Change is necessary to broaden us: we are inclined to get into a rut. Mixing with different people is a change and does good: "Change of occupation is as good as recreation" may be carried too far, but there is much truth in the saying. Change is necessary but it should be a pleasant one. Idling, simply lolling is not necessarily good. A person may need an absolute rest, may be so tired and worn that her whole being cries out for rest; rest for aching, tired limbs and rest for the weary brain. A few days of that will generally do, unless there is almost a complete nervous breakdown. Ordinarily after a few days rest old energy reappears and she wants something to do, and more and more of it and it is just as well to have it, within reason.

Perhaps before the intended holiday time is up, she gets anxious to return home. Better not; stay the allotted time and do not try to do too much on first reaching home.

There are people who make vacation time such a season of revelry that they are exhausted on their return and it takes sometime to rest after their holiday.

While an actual change for a few weeks is delightful many manage to get quite a bit of change and wholesome vacation by taking days off, especially since cars have come into use and most of us can manage that.

Going to various meetings, even if one has to prepare a paper is an wholesome change and studying for the paper is a change.

Few women can or should attempt to do without some change in some way, and all should have some hobby.

Quid Est.

Thank you, Quid Est, I did have a splendid holiday and I quite agree with you when you say everyone should take a vacation. Many housewives who feel they cannot take a vacation and who are persuaded to do so, really benefit to a greater extent than they realize. Please write again soon, Quid Est, we all enjoy your letters very much.

NINE DAY PICKLES.

(Contributed by Mrs. L. J. S.)

Put four quarts of small cucumbers or cucumbers cut in inch lengths, in salt brine for three days, using two or three tablespoons of salt to one quart of water. Strain and place cucumbers in unsalted or fresh water for three days, changing the water for three days, each. Again drain and put in weak vinegar bath with two tablespoons of alum. Let simmer for two hours but do not allow cucumbers to become soft.

Drain and add the following

1 gallon of vinegar, (cider preferred).
5 lbs. granulated sugar.
5 cents worth of cassia buds.
5 cents worth of allspice.

Boil together and pour over cucumbers, drain, and heat syrup each day, the third day boiling down until just sufficient to cover pickles which have been placed in sterilized jars, seal and store in cool dry place.

(Contributed by Mrs. L. J. S.).

Cook one peck of ripe tomatoes until tender then strain. Finely chop two heads of celery, three large onions and boil until tender in two quarts of water. Add this to the tomato without being strained.

Mix thoroughly and add ¼ cup each of salt, sugar and finely chopped green peppers. Let boil then thicken with ½ cup of flour and ½ lb. of butt blended together. Boil a few minutes then pour into sterilized jars and seal.

WEDDING BELLS

FITZ-PATRICK—WALSH

The marriage took place at St. Patrick's Church, Montreal, on Saturday morning of Stella Gleeson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Walsh, to Dr. W. Stanton Fitz-Patrick of Peterborough, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fitz-Patrick of Brockville. Rev. M. T. J. O'Brien officiated at the ceremony and Dr. Louis Balogh presided at the organ. During the ceremony Mrs. Balogh rendered an Ave Maria by Luzzi, and Miss Frances Stafford sang "Oh Lord Most Holy" by Cesar Franck. The church was decorated with a profusion of deep pink gladioli and mauve asters, the altar and sanctuary having large bouquets of the flowers, with a background of palms and ferns. The altar rail was covered with smilax, and four tall candelabra with bouquets of pink roses and mauve asters were placed at each side of the entrance to the sanctuary. Tall standards of pink gladioli and mauve asters were arranged at intervals down the centre aisle, and the pillars were banked with palms and ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Lanvin model of ivory Pointe d'Alencon lace over ivory satin, with long tight fitting sleeves of the lace, veiled in tulle. The narrow yoke across the front, extending to a deep V in the back, was also veiled in tulle, and embroidered in fine seed pearls and orange blossoms. The lower part of the skirt was fashioned with three graduated frills of tulle, held with a narrow band of orange blossoms, the long train of tulle, dotted with tiny orange blossoms and mounted on net, falling from the low waist line. Her veil very simply arranged was caught closely to the head across the back with tiny orange blossoms and reached beyond the length of the train. She wore white satin slippers and carried Madonna lilies, her only ornament being a small cross of diamonds. Miss Lucille Petersen, as maid of honor, Miss Patricia Kenehan, and Miss Frances Judson, and Miss Margaret Fitz-Patrick, of Brockville, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in flesh pink net over ivory tafetta printed with mauve violets, the short tight fitting waists finished with a deep bertha of the net, two frills forming the short sleeve. The long very full skirts were finished with a deep frill of the net, and a narrow deeper toned pink ribbon was tied around the short waist. Wide pink lace mittens were worn. They plaited brims, pink moire shoes and pink lace mitens were worn. They carried bouquets of pink roses.

Mr. L. V. Fitz-Patrick, of Brockville was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Mr. James E. Walsh, Jr., Mr. Gerald Gleeson Walsh, brother of the bride, Mr. Edgar Carson and Dr. A. K. Geddes, all of Montreal, Mr. Ralph Dilworth, of Toronto, and Mr. John Lynch, of Peterborough. Mrs. Walsh, mother of the bride wore a Redfern model of cafe au lait lace and crepe romaine, with short coat of the crepe and lace, a brown velvet hat, and brown crepe shoes, and carried red roses. Mrs. Fitz-Patrick, mother of the groom, wore a French gown of black chiffon and lace with a black chiffon coat, a black velvet and lace hat, her flowers consisting of orchids.

The reception following the ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, 218 St. Catherine Road, Outrement, where the decorations were carried out in pink roses, pink gladioli and mauve asters. The bride's table centred with the wedding cake, being arranged at each end with flat centre pieces of butterfly roses, and tall ivory tapers. Later Dr. and Mrs. Fitz-Patrick left for a motor trip, the bride travelling in a dark Russian green coat with grey kit fox collar and cuffs over a lighter green crepe dress, with small dark green velvet hat and green suede shoes. On their reurn from their wedding trip they will reside in Peterborough.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Joseph Fitz-Patrick and Miss Vera Fitz-Patrick, of Brockville, Mrs. Wagner, of Albany, N.Y., Mr. L. V. Fitz-Patrick, Brockville, Mr. M. E. Gleeson, Miss M. Gleeson and Miss K. Gleeson, of Cornwall, Mr. Ralph Dilworth, Toronto, Miss Gertrude Murphy of Massena, N.Y., Mrs. Arthur Judson and Miss Frances Judson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Fournelle, all of Brockville, Miss Ethel Bagnally, of Ottawa and Mr. John Lynch, of Peterborough.

Prize Lists For Horticultural Show

Competition Open to Members of Society in Public Schools of City.

Copies of the prize list prepared by the Junior Horticultural Society for its junior show at the Peterborough Exhibition are being distributed to members of the society in the public schools throughout the city. It is expected that the juniors will again make a creditable showing as they have in each of the past three years.

The list covers the following vegetables and flowers: Carrots, beets, onions, turnips, and asters, zinnia, calendula, annual phlox, African marigold, pinks, scabiosa and strawflower. Six prizes for each variety are: first, 60c; second, 50c; third, 40c; fourth, 30c; fifth, 20c; sixth, 10c.

Vegetables and flowers exhibited will be those grown by the exhibitors from seeds supplied by the Society. A cup donated by the Kiwanis Club to be held for one year will go to the school winning the most points on the basis of six points for a first prize, five points for a second prize, four points for a third prize, five points for a third prize, etc. King Edward Public School now holds the cup.

Lakefield Schools Open, Few Changes in Staff

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 9 (Examiner Correspondence).—The public and High schools re-opened on Tuesday, following the summer vacation with very few changes in the staff.

Mr. J. F. Harvey is principal of the high school and Miss Bessie Denne is again on the staff. Mr. Mark has been engaged to take the place of Miss Connell.

There are no changes on the staff of the public school with one exception, Miss Mary Armstrong is taking Miss Payne's place as she is absent through illness in the family.

Mr. T. W. Chaplin, principal, Miss E. Kennedy, Mr. H. Wannamaker, Miss E. Hill and Miss E. Kidd are all again at their posts.

The school has been renovated and some improvements put in during the summer vacation and all that was required to complete the picture were the "shining morning faces" which appeared on Tuesday at 9 o'clock.

CITY CHURCHES

ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of St. James' United Church, was in his pulpit on Sunday, bringing to his large congregation an optimistic note in the midst of the present industrial depression.

As introduction he read for his scripture lesson Matthew 6:19 dealing with the temptation coming from laying up for ourselves riches. The text proper was chosen from the 37th Psalm, verse 25: "I have been young and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." This statement of the Psalmist has often been challenged, even by the ministry, but upon examination of conditions during the past four or five generations, in communition we have intimately known, this truth still prevails.

In a new book just out, entitled "The Wesleyan Revival Movement and the Industrial Revelation," the fact was pointed out that as soon as this revival swept through Old England people began to prosper. But it is interesting to know, said the reviewer of the book, that an increase in money brought a loss of piety. This is true ever since the time of the Psalmist.

If a man trusts God he will have abundance, but the Psalmist does not say that this refers to money. The life of a Christian may have a testing time, but we must keep a broad view of the trend of life for in the end God will bless us. Dark days and overwhelming experiences may come but we must not look only at these things. God's hand is upon His people for good always.

Sometimes we wonder at the prosperity of the wicked, but they have their reward. We are told to "trust in God and do good."

The words of the text are to inspire those who are timid or afraid. To-day is not the only time of depression. It came to us after the war, yet God's helping hand was in evidence. Hard times may be ahead, but it is for our own good, that we may learn to help others. Sin is far worse than hard times in the disaster it brings to human life.

The promise of the Psalmist is not merely to the righteous but to the generation following. If men and women are true to the church neither they nor their seed shall fail.

If we turn to the New Testament we find that Christ predicted persecutions and hardships for His followers but He said "I have conquered these and you may conquer too." This is a great word of hope to us. Let us not be afraid but undertake the task ahead and God will not fail us. What wonderful things God can do if we trust Him! May peace inspire our hearts as we face the days ahead.

The pastor was supported in his message by the splendid music supplied by the two choirs under the direction of Frank Stevens, organist.

The Sunday School, which began at its usual hour, three o'clock, was largely attended, with Mr. Prest, superintending and the Brotherhood will hold its opening fall Rally next Sunday afternoon. The subject to be discussed will be "Our undeveloped resources."

HITCH-HIKERS GIRL PROBLEM

Wanderers Increasing Annually—Most of Them Between 25 and 40.

NO TIES TO HOLD THEM.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—A dainty, self-reliant miss in knickers, waiting by the roadside with thumb pointed toward the hills, typifies the new American girl problem, as described by Chicago social workers to-day.

"The ease of hitch-hiking and the readiness with which other travelers pass out money are the two factors which are making hobos of girls," said Mrs. Edith Hennessey, extension secretary of the Travelers' Aid society.

"We head off all we can and send them back to their homes, but if they say they're over 18, we're helpless. Most of them know that, and go their care-free way, unmolested.

"A typical girl hobo, her few trinkets tied up in a handkerchief, said she was 19 and told us: 'You don't have to do anything for me. I can hitch-hike anywhere I want to go'."

Mrs. Blanche Reno, of the Salvation Army, said the wandering girl problem has been increasing annually, "but this year has been the worst we've ever seen.

"The girls who drift into our quarters are not drug addicts and disreputable women. The majority are between 25 and 40, with no ties to hold them anywhere."

SPEECH FROM THRONE DISAPPOINTS LABORITES

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9. (C.P.)—Disappointment was expressed by members of the Earlscourt District Labor Party at their meeting last night regarding the programme for the solution of unemployment as presented in the speech from the throne at the opening of the House of Commons in Ottawa.

A resolution protesting against "the inadequate programme failing, as it does, to deal honestly with the problem" was passed at the meeting and copy will be forwarded to J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., of Winnipeg, who will introduce the question of unemployment insurance in the House.

Lindsay Citizen Owns $1 Bill Worth $200

LINDSAY, Sept. 9.—An American one-dollar bill of an 1886 issue with a value of at least 200 and possibly a lot more, is in the possession of E. Gregory of Lindsay. Here's how it happened:

Thirty-four years ago Mr. Gregory's best girl, who, incidentally, is now Mrs. Gregory, gave him the bill as a lucky piece. It was worth at that time one dollar and no more. However, the issue of the bill was recalled by the Federal Treasury of the United States two weeks after it was put in circulation because in a transcript of the American Constitution reproduced on the bill the word "tranquillity" was spelled with only one 'l'. It is said that there are only two of the bills of this issue in circulation.

A Sarnia man who owns the other recently refused an offer of $200 for his bill.

Styles For Adults and Children Equally Attractive

Juvenile fashions are indicated by the green wool sport coat and hat worn by Mitzi Green at the LEFT ABOVE. At the RIGHT are two Vogue sketches. According to Fall fashion notes, the peplum has let down its skirt, grown up into a tunic and become very much of a fabric in the current mode. It serves to break the length of the skirt and balance well the treatment of the bodice. The model shows the return of Canton crepe, the dress having the edges of the neckline, the sleeves and the hemline scalloped. Cream georgette fashion the vest and the tucked sleeve. The second model is of midnight blue Canton crepe featuring the surplice closing terminated with a bow. The sleeves have double jabot treatment. Sketch is by Vogue.

TRENT RIVER

The Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the United Church for their monthly meeting. There was a large attendance. Plans were discussed regarding the annual fowl supper, which will be held about the middle of October.

Tomatoes are plentiful this year; truck loads from Brighton district come through this way daily, and the price is $1.00 a bushel.

Mr. Robert Brethen, of Trenton, was a visitor Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lawson.

Mr. Norman Wight, of Peterborough, is a visitor at the home of his mother, Mrs. A. Wight, "Cedar Isle."

Mrs. A. W. C. Goodman and sister, Mrs. Morris, left for Toronto this week; Mr. and Mrs. Goodman expect to return next week to occupy their summer home for a few weeks.

Mr. I. Merson is suffering from the effects of a lame back, caused from lifting heavy stones while working at a foundation for a cottage on Mr. T. F. Ward's property.

Miss Gladys Brewster, who has spent the holidays at "Rio Vista," has gone to Hepworth, near Owen Sound, where she has been accepted on the teaching staff of the high school.

Latest Daytime and Evening Modes Along Similar Lines

The daytime and the evening modes are on a very friendly basis. The satins, lames and damasks belonging usually to the evening have been borrowed by the day, and tailored details of the daytime have lent themselves to evening. Revers are the daytime feature of the dress ABOVE in the Vogue illustration at the LEFT. It is of plain lame and the hip-line has a deep pointed treatment and the circular skirt is cut so that godet-like fullness falls from each point. In the CENTRE is a gray horse-hair and lace toque trimmed with a satin bow. The new autumn ensembles for town are smartest when combining chic with practicability. ABOVE is pictured an English creation in tweed, silk and knit. The skirt is of tweed in flared lines, and beneath the sweater jacket is a tailored silk blouse.

MEALS for men are no more difficult to prepare and serve than meals for women!

• • • • • •

In fcat, I believe I would rather prepare meals for men than women—because men much prefer plain food, while women like their food more daintily prepared.

• • • • • •

Hearty food is required for men, but the dainty food which is prepared for women sometimes does not contain much substance, but yet it satisfies them.

• • • • • •

For one thing men are not so avid to become thin as are women, and therefore they do not care if fats are stressed. What they want is sustenance, food that will keep them 'fit,' to work hard, and often at tasks requiring physical endurance.

• • • • • •

Substantial meals please men's appetites!

• • • • • •

With these ideas well grounded in a woman's mind she will realize type of meal a man wants. A foundation principle for a dinner menu consists of meat, or fish, vegetables, bread and butter, a beverage and a plain dessert.

• • • • • •

The meat varies in kind, of course, and the vegetables are chosen to go with the particular meat served. Pies are a favorite dessert, and puddings that are substantial.

• • • • • •

Light jellies, creamy puddings and fluffy whips, etc., are generally far from pleasing the average man's palate. He may eat them, but not with the same relish as pie, or even a bread pudding, rich with plums, and having a chocolate or other rather thick sauce.

• • • • • •

Soups do not satisy a man, however hearty the soup may be if they are served in place of a meat or fish. So do not try to serve such a meal to a man if you expect him to like your table. He will, however, take it as a first course, but not as a main course.

• • • • • •

The roll-and-coffee continental breakfast has little or no appeal to our men. They want something nourishing, such as eggs, bacon (or both), fish, or some one of the breakfast styles of meat that are in favor in particular seasons.

• • • • • •

• • • • • •

Men like it, and always look for it. They find the sweet satisfying 'to top off with.' Another thing men like is cake, and many of you may have found chocolate layer cake is a favorite. The man who doesn't care for the chocolate layer cake is unusual.

MADOC W.M.S. MEETS.

Officers Present Reports—Arrangements Made For Bethel Convention.

MADOC, September 9 (Examiner Correspondence). — The W.M.S. of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. M. Bristol on Thursday afternoon, with a good attendance. Owing to the absence of the Program Committee, Mrs. Huffman took charge of this part, and after devotional exercises, which were introduced by the singing of the hymn "More love o Thee, O Christ," and the repetition in unison of the Lord's Prayer, a responsive service on Christian Stewardship followed, and the hymn "Take my life and let it be," and a short season of silent prayer. After singing "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun," the 23rd Psalm was repeated by all, and Mrs. Fair led in prayer.

Roll call followed, with the key word of "Faith."

Reports of officers and committees were received, and business arrangements regarding the convention at Bethel. The Watch Tower Heralds reported for China, Africa, Korea, India, and the work among the Indians. A devotional leaflet, "The Way of Holiness," was read by Mrs. Rutherford, and after the hymn, "Jesus calls us," the Mizpah beendiction closed a very profitable meeting.

A pleasant social half-hour was spent over afternoon tea at the close of the meeting.

BOVRIL MAKES GOOD SOUPS BETTER

Marmora

Though the season at the Royal Hotel has been a busy one through the tourist trade, the proprietor, Thomas E. Potts, has found time to look after two well-stocked flower gardens, one to the fore and the other to the rear of his establishment. It is in the latter garden that he has had best results. The spot is a wealth of color at present with the asters, dahlias and other flowers in full bloom. The sunflowers are particularly fine, the average height being twelve feet, though one, measured a week ago, was found to have attained the height of fourteen feet.

Mrs. Fred Mumby was admitted to Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, and the same day underwent an operation there.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that soft corns seem to shrivel right up and drop off.

Leaks in the Larder Amount to Big Sums

BY EDWINA NOLAN

IT has been estimated by various authorities that the average American family wastes approximately 15 per cent of the food purchased. This is due largely to lack of proper facilities for food preservation.

Even the thriftiest housekeeper would be surprised at some of her own extravagances if she were shown in figures the dollars and cents she wastes.

The pint of milk that turns sour, the butter that gets an "off taste" and has to be used for cooking-fat, the tomatoes that become over-ripe, the last two or three eggs that start as Grade A and end in a dubious grade, the imported cheese that sweats and grows mouldy, the left-over soup that begins to smell foul—these and other small larder leaks go to make up the 15 per cent spoilage. And food costs too much these days for any family to be able to afford waste.

There are many women who pride themselves on never using any eggs but the very best and who would be quite horrified at the idea of buying cold-storage eggs, yet they actually use many eggs the quality of which has become equivalent to one of the lower grades. Proper refrigeration facilities, constantly assuring a safe temperature of below 50 degrees, would keep these eggs up to high standard, as well as preserve other foodstuffs in wholesome condition.

Then, too, foodstuffs not properly preserved may look good or taste good, but at the same time they may be contaminated. Bacteria in foods increase at a tremendous rate in a short period of time. Health authorities in all sections are attempting to arouse housewives to the importance of proper refrigeration because they realize better than others that the partaking of food which has not been properly preserved has taken its toll in the tens of thousands.

ROYALS DEFEAT LEAFS 3-2 IN HURLING DUEL

TORONTO LOSES SCORING CHANCE IN 6TH INNING

Marty Griffin Holds Slight Edge On Phil Page on the Mound.

WIN FOR NEWARK.

Redwings Practically Clinch Title—13 More Games to Play.

TORONTO, Sept. 9—(C.P.)—Only a baseball miracle, it seems, can keep Billy Southworth's Rochester Redwings from their third successive International League pennant.

Beating Buffalo, 12 to 2 yesterday, the Redwings increased their lead over the Baltimore Orioles to six and one-half games. Thus even should Baltimore win all its 14 remaining games Rochester still could take the pennant by capturing eight of its remaining thirteen contests. Third place Montreal is 10½ games back of first place while Toronto, in fourth position, now is 13½ games back of Rochester and could tie for the lead only by winning all of its 14 games while the Redwings lost all of their 13.

Paul Derringer pitched effectively in Rochester's triumph over Buffalo. He granted only six hits and blanked the Bisons after the first inning. The Redwings, on the other hand, drove Wilson to cover before a man was retired in the first inning, scoring seven runs before Weiland could halt the rally. Earl Smith drove home four Rochester runs with a triple and a single.

Beat Toronto 3-2.

Montreal turned back Toronto 3 to 2 in a tight hurling duel in which Marty Griffin had a slight edge on Phil Page. Montreal scored one run in the first on Haines' double and two outs, another in the third on successive hits by Gautreau and Urbanski and Gulley's sacrifice fly, and the third and deciding tally in the fourth on Ripple's single, two infield outs and Haines' tap to Richardson who hit Ripple in the back on the play at the plate. The Leafs lost an excellent chance in the sixth inning when they filled the bases with only one out.

Newark won its fourth straight game from Reading 6 to 5 in a night battle at Reading. Warneke, Reading pitcher, granted only seven hits but gave seven walks as well, and Newark took advantage of them. Reading collected eight hits off Brennan and Speece, Davis getting a triple and two doubles.

Bonarlaw Rifle Team Shoots At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 9. (Examiner Correspondence).—On Thursday afternoon a team from Rawdon township (Bonarlaw) Rifle Association, held a friendly shoot with the local Association. This is the third year that the clubs have exchanged visits and there has grown up a fraternal spirit which increases each year. "Good sportsmen" is the verdict of the Lakefield club to their visitors and there is every reason to suppose that the good feeling is reciprocated.

The following is the score:—

	200 yds.	500 yds.	600 yds.	t'l
P. Spence, Lakefield	26	27	23	76
W. A. Bateman, Bonarlaw	25	27	25	77
B. Q. Dench, Lakefield	21	23	21	65
G Eastwood, Bonarlaw	21	23	21	65
W. Trude, Lakefield	28	27	27	82
J. McKeown, Bonarlaw	20	13	26	59
M. Duffus, Lakefield	22	32	24	78
George Wellman, Bonarlaw	27	20	29	76
W. Bickell, Lakefield	26	29	19	74
Jack Wellman, Bonarlaw	25	31	31	87

The total score for Lakefield was 385 and for Bonarlaw 364, which gave Lakefield a lead of 21. The return visit will be made on Tuesday, September 9.

COMPLETES LONG TRIP

Paddling for his health's sake, Bob McCurdy of Toronto, a former long distance runner, with the Monarch A.C., arrived in Philadelphia on the last leg of his 1,300 mile journey. McCurdy left Toronto on July 3, and to date has covered approximately 1,100 miles. He expects to arrive in Baltimore, where he will probably stay for the winter, on September 13. McCurdy, whose health broke down some time ago, has paddled the entire distance, in a state of undress as shown above, and has already benefited hugely by his unique experience.

RUGBY AGAIN TAKES STAGE

The Rugby season is well on its way again and "Old Man Gridiron" will once again reign supreme on sporting pages. Once again he will rise to be idolized by thousands of enthusiastic fans. And here is one man whose name will be on the tongues of all Rugby followers. He is Mike Rodden, the famous coach of the Great Hamilton Tigers, Dominion Champions. He is a man who has built up a squad of brawn and muscle that no team in Canada can compare with. But this season that team will not be the same machine as last year, and naturally the question is what will the Great Mike Rodden do? Will he again mould together an outfit that will battle their way to the rugby supremacy of Canada. This break up of the old Tiger outfit will prove a great thing for Canadian Rugby. It will again encourage that element of competition that seemed lacking in last season's campaign. Not only this, the color which after all is the drawing card of a rugby team did not seem to exist in the Hamilton Tigers. They were too perfectly trained. This tour of the West which the Hamilton Tigers are now on sems to be a wise move on somebody's part to provide an extra training season and unless something goes wrong, these Tigers will again be down to a fighting shape before the rest of the teams get off the starting line.

CAMPBELLFORD PLAY BRAMPTON

Champions of Groups 1 and 2 Will Clash in Inter-district Play-offs.

At Campbellford On Wednesday

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—As a climax to topping Group 1 in the Intermediate O.A.L.A. by defeating Oshawa on the round, Campbellford lacrosse team now face Brampton, champions of Group 2, who headed the two game play-off with Guelph in the semi-final play offs.

The first game will be played at Campbellford on Wednesday, Sept. 10 on the High School grounds, commencing at 3.00 p.m. sharp. The second and last of these games, in which goals count, will be staged at Brampton on Sept. 20.

Campbellford has gone a long way in lacrosse this year. Starting as they did after many years away from the game, they have surpassed by a long shot the mark they set for themselves. Under the able managership of Chas. Holmes and the splendid work done by P. J. Kelley as coach the local team are playing up to form and expect to give Brampton a run for their money.

The line-up will be the same as at Oshawa, with Whitton, Cowell and the Ingram brothers to the fore, not to mention Fox in the nets and Horkins and Flint.

The winners of this inter-district play-off will have to face either Sarnia or Detroit for the championship.

Autumn Sunshine Brings Gridders Out

TORONTO, Ont., September 9 (C.P.). — Harbingers of autumn frosts and Indian summer days, the sound of cleated boot ripping into the turf and the smack of steel toes crashing into pigskin, rang out on many local gridirons last evening as teams of all grades, senior, intermediate, and junior, commenced outdoor training for the short but strenuous football season.

Argonauts, local hope for the Big Four championship had 60 candidates out for the first drill which consisted of an hour's light exercises for the linemen and punting for the half-backs.

With Ab Box doing the kicking for Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, the team held a brisk workout. Coach Elex Ponton is not worrying about his backfield now with Box signed up.

The ex-German cruiser Hindenburg, which was sunk in Scapa Flow during the World war, was raised recently and beached on the English coast.

P.C.I. TO HAVE TEAM IN SENIOR RUGBY LEAGUE

Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg and Peterborough Teams to Make Up Loop.

4 IN INTERMEDIATE

First Work-out of Local Gridders Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The dull thud of the boot on pigskin resounded in James Stevenson Park once again yesterday afternoon as the first rugby practice of the season was called for the boys of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. The material will shape up and will be divided shortly into first and second squads and possibly a third squad.

Managership of the teams or exactly what teams the school will produce this year has not yet been decided.

In Senior Loop.

The P.C.I. senior squad will operate in a loop composed of teams from Lindsay Collegiate, Cobourg Collegiate and Oshawa Collegiate. The P.C.I. intermediate squad is matched with Oshawa seconds, and Port Hope and Bowmanville squads in the preliminary schedule.

The senior schedule is as follows:

September 27—Cobourg at Lindsay; Peterborough at Oshawa.
October 4—Lindsay at Peterborough; Oshawa at Cobourg.
October 11—Lindsay at Cobourg; Oshawa at Peterborough.
October 18—Peterborough at Lindsay; Cobourg at Oshawa.
October 25—Cobourg at Peterborough; Lindsay at Oshawa.
November 1—Peterborough at Cobourg; Oshawa at Lindsay.

The intermediate schedule:

September 27—Oshawa at Peterborough; Port Hope at Bowmanville.
October 4—Peterborough at Port Hope; Bowmanville at Oshawa.
October 11—Peterborough at Oshawa; Bowmanville at Port Hope.
October 18—Port Hope at Peterborough; Oshawa at Bowmanville.
October 25—Oshawa at Port Hope; Peterborough at Bowmanville.
November 1—Port Hope at Oshawa; Bowmanville at Peterborough.

Baseball Stars of the Past Come Back For One More Game at Boston

BOSTON, Mass, Sept. 9. (C.P.) Back from the farm and fireside came almost two score of baseball's heroes to engage in an "old-timers" game here yesterday which a team composed of old Boston players, won, 8 to 4. The opponents of the Boston immortals were an aggregation of the outstanding stars of baseball history playing under the name of "The All-Stars".

Cy Young, one of the greatest of pitchers, got credit for the victory after holding the stars hitless during the one inning he pitched. The loss of the game was checked up to Ed. Walsh, former White Sox star, who now has two sons in the National pastime, although Walsh was but one of five pitchers who hurled for The All-Stars.

The activity on the playing field brought back memories to 30,000 fans who saw Tris Speaker, Harry Hooper and Duffy Lewis pulling down flies in the outfield for Boston and it seemed like old times when, in the opening inning, Lewis galloped to the left field wall to pull down "home run" Baker's drive. One incident carried back further than the memories of many of the fans as Pasty Donovan, an outfielder in 1901 singled when he batted for Bill Dineen.

The old Athletics' infield was there, Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, and Baker. Even "Candy" Lachance, whose moustache was the envy of the other big leaguers back in 1902, was back at first base for Boston.

HASTINGS WINS CLARKE TROPHY

FINAL COUNT 10-3.

(Examiner Correspondent.)

BAILIEBORO, September 9. — The Hastings baseball team captured the Sam Clark trophy on Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the Bailieboro nine by a score of 10-3, in the second and final game of the Northumberland League play-offs.

Scriver on the mound for Hastings pitched good ball and was well supported while Deyell pitching splendid ball for Bailieboro, was very poorly supported. Most of the Hastings' runs were scared on errors.

There was a record attendance at the game, this being the last league game of the season.

Presentation Made.

In the first innings of the game, as Wilfred (Rocy) Johnston, of the Bailieboro nine, stepped up to bat, he was given a pleasant surprise, when M. Brown, secretary of the Northumberland League, presented him with a beautiful sweater for knocking the most home runs in the league games during the past season. The sweater was donated by a Toronto firm.

Johnston showed his appreciation by knocking a three base hit later in the game. Bailieboro fans are very proud of their second baseman who has won distinction for himself and the Bailieboro team.

ROBINS GAIN THIRD PLACE OVER GIANTS

Phillies Lose Only Two Games in the National League.

RACE TIGHTENS.

Brooklyn Three and One-half Games Behind the Cubs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(CP)—An atmosphere of a world's championship hung over New York today as the four leading contenders for the National League pennant prepared for the opening skirmishes in the final east-west series with the pace setting Chicago Cubs meeting the Brooklyn Robins at Ebbets' field and the rising St. Louis Cardinals tangling with the New York Giants.

As the crucial series between the two eastern and like number of western clubs get underway, the standing shows the Cubs to be leading the field by two and one-half games, with the Cardinals in runner-up position, holding a full game advantage over the Robins and a game and a half over the Giants.

Robins In Third

The Robins threw the pennant scramble into even more of a turmoil yesterday, when they won the only games played in either of the major leagues, defeating the Phillies 8 to 2 and 11 to 4 in a double bill. The twin victory sent the men from Flatbush bounding into undisputed possession of third place, a half game in front of the idle Giants and a full game back of the Cards.

Ray Moss' pitching performance in the opening encounter was the high spot of the two games. He held the usually slugging Phillies to four hits, three of which were singles by Rensa and the fourth, a home run by Hurst. The circuit clout was offset, however, by similar hits off the bats of Bissonette and Frederick. A five-inning rally in the fifth, during which Hansen was sent to the showers and Phillipes was treated almost as rough, spelled victory for the Robins.

The second battle was a close contest until the seventh when the Robins again let loose with their big guns, scoring six runs and driving Willoughby from the mound. Meanwhile Jumbo Elliott was breezing along but he too weakened in the same frame and Hollis Thurston was sent to the rescue after the Phillies had counted twice.

C.N.E. ATTENDANCE UNDER 1929 TOTAL

Mass of Fireworks Brings Great Fair to Close Saturday Night.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9 (C.P.).—"All Canada Year" of the Canadian National Exhibition has closed. The closing ceremonies were brief.

Massed bands playing patriotic airs and hymns, the large crowd sang "Auld Lang Syne", then a button was pressed touching off a huge mass of fireworks and the 1930 exhibition closed with a bang.

Closing day was Citizens' Day. Mayor Bert S. Wemp addressed the directors' luncheon. "The slight diminished attendance," he said, "is not of very great concern. Merely a reflection of conditions prevailing in Canada and all over the world."

Mayor Wemp said he was confident the work on the new $1,000,000 stable and horse handling building would be started this winter with the Provincial and Federal Governments and the City of Toronto each contributing one third of the cost.

The total attendance figures at this year's exhibition show a decrease of 287,000 as compared with last year. This year's total was 1,687,000 as against the total of 1,974,000 of 1929.

Queen Mary has presented to a museum at Whitehall, England, a tortoise shell and silver snuffbox commemorative of the Battle of Waterloo.

INITIAL GAME LIKELY HELD AT PHILADELPHIA

Officials of Clubs and Leagues Make Arrangements For Series.

OPEN OCTOBER 1.

Earliest Opening Date in History of World's Baseball Series.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. - Barring unforeseen developments such as a complete form reversal by the Philadelphia Athletics or failure of the National League to decide its turbulent pennant race on schedule time, the opening game of the 1930 world series will be played Wednesday, October 1, at Shibe Park, Philadelphia.

Representatives of contending clubs and the presidents of the rival leagues met yesterday with Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis and made all necessary arrangements for the series except the all-important decision of the contestants.

Earliest Opening Date.

The first two games of the series will be played in the home park of the American League Winner, October first and second, the earliest opening date in history. The third, fourth and fifth games will be played in the home park of the National League champions, with the sixth and seventh games, if necessary, in the American League city.

Dates of the three games in the National League city will not be determined until the race is decided. If either Chicago or St. Louis win one day for travelling will be allowed between the second and third and fifth and sixth games. If Brooklyn or New York win, the series will be played on consecutive dates.

In event any game is postponed because of rain, it will be played the following day in the same city. If a legally tied game is played, it will be replayed after game No. 7, if necessary, at the park where it was originally scheduled.

LIPTON AND AMERICAN YACHT OFFICERS EXCHANGE VISITS

Old Barrier of America's Cup Races Broken.

BOATS DISCUSSED

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 9— That seeming unsurmountable barrier of space which has always separated challenger and defender in an America's Cup year until they met at the starting line for their first cup race has been broken down at last.

With the first international contest between Shamrock V and Enterprise a few days off, there has been an interchange of visits by their afterguards. So no longer will the British and American boats be released on their meeting date like two bulldogs held in leash.

Commodore Vincent Astor of the New York Yacht Club broke the ice in the heretofore chilly relations of a cup year by going to New London and welcoming Shamrock when she cup year by going to New London arrived there. Then, when the American defense yachts were idling in want of a breeze during their trials, Shamrock went out among them. Commodore Astor turned his flagship, Nourmahal, to greet her.

After Enterprise was chosen as defender it was thought that a cordiality would ripen between the opposing sides. Harold S. Vanderbilt, Enterprise's skipper, never had had any ropes strung Harold S. Vanderbilt, Enterprise's skipabout his yacht. When she was launched the public was admitted to view her, the gates of the Herreshoff yard in Bristol being thrown open for the first time.

Hard Work Aboard Yacht.

Of course, no welcome sign has been hung over her side. There has been work of the hardest kind aboard her all the time. Mr. Vanderbilt never has come to the front himself, feeling the boat was the object of interest. In that he probably was wrong through modesty, especially as he now has attained the highest pinnacle in yachting.

As for information about the boat, he has left that to W. Starling Burgess, Enterprise's designer, who has been open-minded in all his ideas. He gave out the dimensions of Enterprise before those of any other defense candidates were made known. He explained her features, which he had worked out, believing they were of interest in yachting. There were a few things that might have been copied which he withheld only until it was too late to take advantage of them.

On the other hand, as equally frank regarding his ideas and his boat was Charles E. Nicholson, Shamrock's designer. He never has believed in concealment of a racing yacht. Instead, he has put forth his endeabors as a contributive development of boats.

So launches to-day carried the afterguards of each boat to the other. There was little to see on Shamrock in the day of novelty. She is a well-built racing boat with hollow interior, where sails are stowed. The winches for hoisting sail alone break the emptiness.

Enterprise Quite Different.

With Enterprise it is far different. Below deck she is a maze of craftiness and mechanical engineering. Everything is light and compact, but the contrivances are almost endless.

Along the sides are the many gears and large crank handles not only for hoisting sails of various assortment but to trim sheets and stays as well. Then there are the instruments for measuring strain, such as are applied to the says.

Mr. Nicholson looked her over in amazement.

"A mechanical ship," he commented in summation. It was a remark made up of surprise, wonderment and admiration.

"But it would never do in England," he added.

He had in mind that the English yachtsmen still like the human element in yachting—the hand sailor competition.

Then he said Enterprise represented what could be accomplished with the combination of a designer using every resource and a man like Mr. Vanderbilt giving full leeway and encouragement.

Finally Mr. Nicholson made one remark of special interest.

"I think Enterprise will point higher than Shamrock," he said.

Appeared to Be Admission.

For the instant one might take that as an admission that Enterprise would be faster to windward, the most important point of sailing. All the races are started to windward if possible, and the odd ones are half in that direction. But there are times when a boat fills her sails close on the wind, but does not cover a given distance as fast as a boat off a bit and full and by, as the old salts say.

It is known that those connected with Shamrock expect her to beat the Enterprise off the wind.

NEW BETHUNE STREET BRIDGE IS ADVANCING

The cement work on the new C.N.R. bridge on Bethune street has been completed and the timbers removed. It is a substantial and well-finished piece of work. The iron girders are on flat cars on a near-by siding and have yet to be placed in position. When finished this bridge will be a permanent job.

WOULD EXTEND COAL RATES

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9 (C.P.)— Application has been made to the Board of Railway Commissioners for an extension of time for the movement this year of coal from Alberta to Ontario at the trial rate of $6.75 per ton. The request, which comes from the Canadian coal committee, asks that shipments of the Alberta product to Ontario be re-started immediately in place of December 1, as previously ordered, and continue until August, 1931. An early decision will likely be rendered.

Oxford, home of the famous English college, has barred all coffee stands from the streets.

Golfers Even In P. G. A. Title Series

FLUSHING, N.Y., September 9 (C.P.). — The first match to finish 18 holes in the first round of 36-hole contests for the P.G.A. championship gave no advantage either to Al Watrous, Detroit, or Eric Seavall, of Culver City, Calif. They were all square at the half-way mark.

Leo Diegel, the champion, went to luncheon several up over Henri Ciuci, Stratford, Conn. Six up going to the home hole, Diegel stymied his opponent, but Ciuci's ball knocked Diegel's into the cup, giving the title holder a win.

The card (morning):

Diegel out	434366543—38
Ciuci out	644454454—40
Diegel in	353434543—34—72
Ciuci in	444545545—41—82

Diegel seven up.

SOCCER PLAYERS GIVE TO CHARITY

A Handsome Sum Has Been Donated Through Rev. Father Phelan Cup.

GAMES SATURDAY.

Believing in the old adage "The Greatest of these is Charity," the Peterborough and District Football Association have been practicing this theme to perfection through the generosity of Rev. Father Phelan who presented the Phelan Charity Cup to the soccer board in the year 1921. The first season there was no tablet attached to it declaring the winner but in the following year the Owls F. C. carried the honour. In seasons 1923-24-25 the Thistle captured the trophy year years in succession. Masseys in 1926, Quaker F. C. 1927 Canadian General 1928-29, Brinton Athletic carried off the honour this season.

Throughout these periods, the Executive have been able to distribute to the charitable institutions in the city, the average sum of fifty dollars each year. Well over five hundreddollars has been donated through the active participation of the soccer players in the city. It is a well known fact that no player gets any recompense for services rendered as a contestant in any game and are credited as being an amateur body exclusively in every detail.

The teams have and must at all times permit their books to be examined so that all transactions are legitimate, according to the rules of the Federation of Football of the World.

Next year, Rev. Father Phelan will present another new trophy to replace the one at present fully decorated with emblems of the teams that won it each season. No doubt, it will serve the same charitable purpose to a far greater extent than ever before.

Players In ured Cup.

If at any time there is an accident on the field of sport, the player is always provided in a small way by the fund of the Holloway Injured Players Cup. At the end of last season, a number of the players received a minature payment on a proportionate basis as a help to meet the medical expenses incurred. Again showing the spirit of charity and the love of the scientific code as played universally.

Gordon Final Next Saturday.

Next Saturday afternoon, September 20th, the Canadian Packing and the Brinton meet in final of G. N. Gordon cup. Prizes will be given away at this important encounter.

Player Censored.

Alex. Burgess, Canadian General, was censored for his ungentlemanly conduct on the field of play and was requested to play the game in future. E. A. Bayliss, who was sent off the field at the same time, is automatically suspended until he appears before the board. The rule states definitely that a player must appear in person at the next meeting ot the executive, otherwise the ruling.

A C.G.E., player was reported gy the referee to the board and they decided that he be requested to appear at the next meeting so as to give an explanation of his actions and statements made during the game. The official having to put in an appearance also.

Board not Responsible.

At the last game in King Edward Park, an owner of an automobile found that he had parked his car too near the touch line of the field to his cost. During the tussle, the ball was accidentally kicked through his wind-shield and destroyed. The association are not responsible for any such accidents and the fans that park their cars near the field, do so at their own risk. Time and again, members of the executive have requested car owners to get further back so as to give the players a chance. All cars should be no nearer than nine feet to the touch line.

FAST HORSES AT THE "EX"

Headliners of Harness Track Will Take Part in Racing Events.

BUD WINGER HERE.

Horses, horses, nothing else but horses, horses. That old ditty rings true of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year.

No ordinary "hosses" these, but representatives of the blue blood of Canadian pacers. Headliners on greatest array of racing talent ever to pull sulkies over the local track are stabled in the barns at Exhibition Park awaiting the four big days of racing this week.

Bud Grattan, owned by J. T. Payette, of Penetang, that renowned Canadian pacer, is here ready to make a bid for a new track record. This horse has a great season's record behind him, winning nine $1000-purses, one $200-purse and a second in another $1000-purse for his owner. Several weeks ago Bud Grattan set a new record over the Sherbrooke half-mile track of 2.06¼ for the mile.

Termed "the best trotter of her class in Canada," Miss Chilcoot, the property of Dr. Cohen, of Toronto, is also stabled at Exhibition Park ready for the big race week. This horse has clipped the mile in a race at 2.09¾. Her earnings for the season are well above $5000.

Then there is Bud Winger, Vic Walsh's great horse from Hastings, winner of the Canadian Futurity at the Toronto Exhibition this year, bringing a $2000-purse. In winning that race Blood Winger set a new record, reducing the record set by Keendale of 2.11 last year.

Gentry Todd, owned by W. Tinkler, of Rawdon, Quebec, is another outstanding horse performer. This horse is capable of doing 2.07¾ and was a big money here last year.

Speedy Entries

Running through the list of horses, there are many others who have built up reputations of speed. Among the thirty-odd horses stabled here for the racing are: Pearl Direct, owned by J. T. Payette, Penetang; The Partizan, owned by the same man; Joe McGregor and Dr. Dale, Wilbur Hillock, Caledon; Blaze Sar, J. Connors, Collingwood. Such local horses as: Jack Abbey, who has equalled 2.10 often, Fury Mildred, Dr. Bryon, Alfred Elk, Lu Grattan, Minnie Patchen, Lena Direct and Keendale.

Others are: Mary Direct, owned by J. Peacock of Lakefield; Herman Grattan, Jerry Painter, Patchen McKinney, Frank Law, Port Hope; Hal E., Johnston and Caldwell, Port Hope, Dick Sunday, F. McCracken, Trenton; Billy Wilkes, Hodgins, Stratford; Star Peter, Wellwood, Welland; Rio Grande, H. Ellis, Caperol; Lady Isabel, Parker, Port McNichol; Red Peter, T. W. Blewett; Caucus Star, A. Elmhurst; Peter Direct, L. Bennett; Peter Patch, Rountree Bros., Weston; Princess Aubrey, R. Scott, Toronto; Joe Patchen, W. Briggs, Toronto; Rena Hal and June Patchen, C. Williams, Toronto; Miss Hall, Laura G., Silver Peter and Gollie, owned by Neeley Bros., of Sarnia; Jean Ganot, Dr. Hopkins of Cooksville, great horse.

Racing men throughout the district are enthusiastic about the galaxy of pacing stars gathered here for the four big days of racing, which starts on Wednesday.

ERNIE LEGON IS APPOINTED RUGBY COACH

Will Pilot Senior P. C. I. Squad in Fall Campaign.

C. S. BROWNE RESIGNS

Preston and Dunkerly, Last Year's Stars, Report For Practice.

"Ernie" Legon will handle the senior Rugby squad at the Peterborough Collegiate this fall as a result of the temporary withdrawal of C. S. Browne from the managership, according to a decision reached at the school last night. Mr. Browne's withdrawal was necessitated by attention required by other interests, it is understood.

The school will this year produce a senior squad, an intermediate squad and possibly third and fourth teams. It is not known who will manage the intermediate team.

Last Year's Stars Out.

Four of last year's first string men were lacking when the first practice of the season was called at James Stevenson Park yesterday afternoon. The old material on hand included Preston, who last year officiated at quarter, Armstrong, heavy middle; Clayton, middle; Wagar, outside; Macdonald, snap; Chandler, inside; Dunkerley, speedy flying wing; Young, half; Waddell, inside; and Dinisen, Lord and Hamilton will probably be on hand at future practices. Cuthbertson and Magee, star halves of last year, Westbrooke, outside, and Glover, flying wing, are among those who will be missed on the P.C.I. gridiron this fall.

A number of Class A players who performed brilliantly on last year's intermediate squad, went into action at the practice, and will be ready to step into the gaps in the first team. Richardson, flying wing, Gordon, inside; Ward, outside, Turner, middle; and Mackey, flying wing, suggest healthy possibilities.

At four o'clock this afternoon the second practice of the season will be held at the park.

FIVE MOST VALUABLE PITCHERS OF NAT. LEAGUE THIS YEAR

All the pitchers have had tough going in the National League this season. Not a single moundsman has won twenty games thus far and only Kremer and Malone bid fair to reach that coveted mark. Not a single pitcher has pitched twenty complete games. Above are five of the best this year: Kremer, with 19 victories, leads in games won, while Malone, the big fellow who has been the Cubs' mainstay in the box, comes next with sixteen victories. Vance is placed in this list, not because of his winning percentage, which is little better than an even break, but because of his earned run average which may well lead the league. Phil Collins of the Phillies should rank with any pitcher in his league this year for he has won 14 and lost 7 for a club that is a bad last, while Fitzsimmons of the Giants is entitled to ranking for the chunky knuckle ball pitcher has had a right good year. Fitz has won 14 and lost 6 games, and if he can equal his 1928 record of 20 won and 9 lost he may pitch his team to a pennant.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MERRY GO ROUND.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Jingle.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Jangle.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" cried Tootsie, Wootsie and Wopsie, the little baby rabbit, trying to be as much as they could like their older sisters.

"Why, whatever is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, hopping around the corner of the seaweed bungalow he had built for the summer at the shore. "What's the trouble, my dears?"

"School starts next week," said Jingle.

"And we have to leave this lovely place and go back to Ardy," said Jangle.

"I like Ardy. I think it's ugly," said Tootsie.

"Pooh! That's because you're only in the kindergarten, where you don't have to do anything but play games," said Jangle.

"Wait until you get up in the third grade where we are," said Jingle, "and the Lady Mouse Teacher asks you to spell big words, then you won't like school."

Uncle Wiggily swam out to a big float.

"Nonsense! Of course they will!" said Uncle Wiggily quickly. "And you older girls ought to be glad you are going back to the Hollow Stump School after all the fun you have had down here this summer."

"Oh, yes, Daddicums," spoke Jingle, "we have had a lovely time. But I wish we could have a little more fun before we go back."

"Can't you do something to make a jolly time for us?" asked Jangle.

"We 'likes fun, too," lisped Wopsie.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit gentleman. "I think all you bunnies think of is fun. Let me see now what can I do to amuse you?"

By this time quite a number of other rabbits had gathered near the seaweed bungalow, and also came Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppie dog boys; Nannie and Billie Wagtail, the goats, and Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the pigs. Their folks were also at the shore.

Uncle Wiggily looked across the tumbling, green, salty waves and, a little way out from shore, he saw something which made him smile beneath his pink, twinkling nose as he asked:

"How would you like to have some fun on a merry go 'round?"

"Oh, wonderful!" cried Jingle.

"I love merry go 'round!" exclaimed Jangle.

"But you can make a merry go 'round, Uncle Wiggily?" barked Jackie.

"I think so," answered the rabbit gentleman. "If porpoise fish that are turning somersaults out there will help me, I can turn our diving raft, or float, into a merry go 'round, and you may all play on it until it is time to go back to school."

"How can a porpoise fish make a merry go 'round?" aske Jingle.

"I am not sure they can, but I am going to ask them," said Mr. Longears. "A porpoise, you know, my dears, is a big, jolly fat fish and he and his friends just love to make circles, or turn somersaults in the ocean. They bob up into the air, turn over and flop back into the waves. Now that's what a merry go 'round does, only, instead of going round in up and down circles, or somersaults, it goes around in flat circles like a spinning top.

"So now if I can get a lot of the jolly porpoise fish to swim around and around on top of the water, instead of diving down under the waves, and if they will take hold of our float, or raft, and spin it we shall have a fine merry go 'round right here in the ocean."

"Oh, wonderful!" cried Jingle.

"Scrumptious!" shouted Jangle.

Uncle Wiggily put on his bathing suit and swam out to where he had made a big float, or raft, of driftwood. It had gone on a voyage but was now anchored near shore. The porpoise fish were somersaulting close to the raft. Uncle Wiggily spoke kindly to them.

"So you want us to do our flopping the other way and spin the raft like a merry go 'round, do you?" blubbered the largest porpoise.

"If you please," said Uncle Wiggily politely.

"Come on, fish, let's do it!" cried the big porpoise. They took hold of the edges of the floating raft with their fins. Then they began to swim around and around, spinning the queer flat boat.

"Come on, my dears—" called Uncle Wiggily to the animal children who went capering about the sand. "All aboard the porpoise merry go 'round!"

Out they scrambled, dozens of rabbits, pigs, dogs and goats together. They sat down and held tightly.

"Let's go!" cried Mr. Longears, standing in the middle. Away swam the porpoises, turning flat circles instead of up and down ones, and away went the raft, the jolliest merry go 'round you can imagine. Oh, it was great!

Canada Has 13.7 Telephones for Every 100 of Population.

UNITED STATES LEADS

World progress in communication — the development of those facilities which bring the human race into closer and closer contact—is of universal interest. Necessarily the project of collecting and assembling the data is fraught with difficulties, and must always fall short of being of the character of last minute information. In a recently published compilation, compiled from official data by Bell System statisticians, world telephone statistics are now available up to the date of January 1, 1929.

North America has 20,894,323 telephones, or 63.87 per cent. of the world total, a number that is almost twice the total of all other countries. Canada with 13.7 telephones for each 100 population comes second in telephone development to the United States which leads the world with 16.3 telephones per 100 of its inhabitants. New Zealand comes third with 10.2, followed by Denmark with 9.3, Sweden with 7.9, and Australia with 7.6 telephones per 100 inhabitants.

Canada with 1,334,534 ranks fourth in absolute number of telephones being led only by United States, Germany and Great Britain. But in Germany and Great Britain the number of telephones per 100 population is only 4.6 and 3.8 respectively. It is interesting to note that in Canada nearly 82 per cent. of the telephones are under private ownership and operation, while in Germany and Great Britain all telephones are operated by the government. Argentina leads South America in telephone development with 2.3 per 100 inhabitants, a density exactly equal to that of France. Japan easily leads the Asiatic countries but has only 1.3 telephones per 100 people.

In the provision of telephone facilities for cities of 50,000 people and over Canada leads the world. With 24.2 telephones per 100 inhabitants in these communities its closest rival is the United States with 21.8. In the smaller towns and villages Canada ranks third with 9.7 telephones per 100 people, being led by United States and New Zealand with 12.6 and 10.2 respectively. Thus the inhabitants of Canadian cities and towns of under 50,000 inhabitants are better provided with telephones than most of the larger European cities.

In Canada the telephone is used to a greater extent than in any other country. During 1928 Canadians made 241.1 telephone conversations per capita, while the United States and New Zealand with 230.7 and 209.1 were the only other countries with over 200 telephone conversations per person. Denmark with 143.5 was the leader of the European countries in conversation per capita. Canadians make nearly 8 times more use of their telephones than the British who reported 30.6 conversations per capita and over 13 times more than the French who make 18.1 calls per capita.

FUTURE BUILDING PLANS STARTED BY C.P.R. AT ONCE

WINNIPEG, Man., September 8. — In an effort to improve the general employment situation the Canadian Pacific Railway plans to go ahead right away with any building program which in the ordinary course would be undertaken in the next year or two.

A statement to that effect was made by E. W. Beatty, president and chairman of the C.P.R. on his arrival in the city last night, accompanied by a number of prominent men, some of whom are directors of the railway.

Mr. Beatty expressed himself as decidedly optimistic about the immediate future of the Dominion, saying signs were by no means lacking that the country is turning the corner of the depression that was an unpleasant feature of the past year.

Local Improvement Notice

TAKE NOTICE THAT

1—The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to construct as a local improvement a sewer on Dublin Street from Downie Street to a point 114 feet west, and intends to assess the cost of the work upon the land abutting directly on the said work. The estimated cost of the work is $384.25, the portion of the cost payable by the Corporation is $148.00 and the estimated special rate per foot frontage is $1.18. The special assessment is to be paid in thirty annual installments.

2—A petition to the said Council will not avail to prevent the construction of the work but a petition against the work or the manner in which it has been undertaken may be made pursuant to section 8 of the Local Improvement Act to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board by a majority of the owners representing at least one-half of the value of the lots which are to be specially assessed therefor.

3—A by-law for undertaking the work will be considered by the Council at a meeting thereof to be held on the 6th day of October, 1930, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. or at a regular or special meeting to be held thereafter.

S. R. ARMSTRONG, Clerk.
Peterborough, Sept. 9, 1930.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 57 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The lovely Jane had never forgotten her strange experience in the African jungle. Nor her handsome forest-god. But many troubles beset her. Their depleted fortunes, her father's health, the ardent wooing of young Clayton, now an avowed suitor, all worried her. Still loving Tarzan, Jane never expected to see him again.

For her father's sake she had accepted Clayton's invitation to visit his hunting-camp. She admired this rich, titled Englishman — but Love was another matter. She must decide....Today she had wandered far into the woods, absorbed in her thoughts. Suddenly to the east she was aware of approaching smoke.

For a week a forest fire had raged near them, but no danger threatened. Now she perceived the rushing flames were swiftly forcing their way between herself and the cottage. She gave herself up for lost....Suddenly she heard a shout....her name called in a strong, clear voice....a strange one.

She answered....saw a figure swing through the smoke. Suddenly she felt a great arm about her....felt herself lifted and borne aloft. Jane thought she was living over in a dream the experiences of the far African jungle. Would it were he of that other day again saving her! But that was impossible.

Yet who else in all the world was there with the strength and agility to do what this man was now doing? She stole a sudden glance at the face close to hers and then she gave a little frightened gasp. It was he.... her man....TARZAN OF THE APES.

OBITUARY

NICHOLAS MARTINO.

The death occurred in the House of Providence last evening of Nicholas Martino, aged 82 years. He was for many years employed by the City Board of Works and was a familiar figure in this city.

He leaves three sons, Michael and Anthony of Robinson Street, Joseph of Smith street, and a daughter, Florence, of 412 George street.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday, from McFadden's funeral home at 8.45 a.m., for a requiem mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, and burial at St. Peter's cemetery.

MOTHER MARY VINCENT

LINDSAY, Sept. 9. (Examiner Correspondent)—The death occurred recently at Pembroke of Mother Mary Vincent, a member of the Sisterhood of St. Joseph, who was the first Mother Superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

The deceased, who was in her seventy-fifth year, was born at Toronto. She spent most of her childhood in St. Catharines, and from that city entered the Sisterhood of St. Joseph at Toronto in 1873. Early in her religious life Mother Vincent went to Port Arthur to assist in the pioneer work of the Indian Missions. While laboring there, the diocesan community of Peterborough was formed, and she was one of the twenty who volunteered for service in this diocese. She was Superior for a number of years at St. Joseph's Convent, Port Arthur, before coming to Peterborough to take charge of the hospital. Later she returned to Port Arthur where she was again Mother Superior of the Convent. She was later transferred to Sault Ste. Marie and when the community of Pembroke was formed she was appointed first Rev. Mother. She later served as Assistant Superior at the Mother House of the Community, and for two years was Superior at St. Joseph's Convent, Calabogie.

WEDDING BELLS

CORKERY—SMITH

A quiet wedding took place recently at the Holy Rosary Church in Detroit, when Grace, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, became the bride of Harold Corkery of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough, and eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Corkery, now of Buffalo, N. Y. Attendants were Miss Ruth Becker and Raymond Walsh.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Corkery left by motor on a trip to Grand Rapids, Chicago and other points. They will live at 5855 Fourth street, Detroit.

BYERS—CHAMBERS

A quiet wedding took place at the Church of the Messiah, Toronto, on Saturday, with Rev. Wm. Ramsay Armitage officiating, when Dorothy Etta, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Chambers of Pears Avenue, was married to Mr. Garnet Watson Byers, son of Mr. Robert Byers and the late Mrs. Jane Byers of Peterborough. The bride who was given away by her father wore a gown of shell pink, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses. Miss Ella Chambers, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of pale blue. Mr. Warren Brewer was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Chambers received wearing a gown of black and white silk crepe. The couple left on a motor trip, and on their return will live on Clendenan Avenue, Toronto.

McKINLAY—WARRENER

Olivet Baptist Church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 6th, when Winifred Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Warrener, 28 Collahie street, was united in marriage to Mr. Nathaniel Allen McKinlay, of London, Ontario, son of Mrs. E. McKinlay, London, Ontario, and the late Samuel McKinlay of Peterborough, Ontario.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Goode. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette and a veil of tulle which was caught about the head in a tiara of orange blossoms. She wore white brocaded slippers with hose to match and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily of the valley. The maid of honour was Miss May Warrener, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Betty Tosh. Their frocks were of the same style, pink and blue respectively, with hats of mohair with brocaded slippers and hose to match. They carried nosegays of Columbia Roses, sweet peas and lily of the valley. The bridegroom was attended by his nephew, Mr. Sam Thomson of Peterborough, Ontario, while the usher was Mr. Ernie Palmer.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received, attired in a gown of embroidered beige crepe-de-chine and corsage of roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. E. McKinlay, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of black lace with an underground of gold brocaded rayon and corsage of rose buds and sweet peas.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a beautiful amethyst pendant, to the maid of honour, a topas dinner ring, to the bridesmaid an amethyst pendant, to the groomsman a Sheaffer pen, and to the usher a cigarette lighter.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. McKinlay left on a short honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy blue tailored suit, with a blue hat and brown fox neckpiece. On their return, they will reside at 1067 King street, London, Ontario.

There was a large attendance of friends from the city and other points.

BIBBY—WEIR.

OMEMEE, Sept. 9. — (Examiner Correspondence). — A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, September 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Weir, when their daughter, Catherine Ellen, became the bride of Frederick James Bibby, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bibby, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Crossley Hunter, of Toronto, assisted by Rev. J. T. Blanchard, of Omemee. The charming bride was beautifully gowned in a period costume of white chiffon, with veil arranged with orange blossoms. Her flowers were sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mary Weir, who was becomingly attired in Nile green chiffon She also carried sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley The groom was supported by Mr. Ellison Baker, of Toronto. The wedding music was played by Miss Myrtle Weir, and during the signing of the register, Miss Genevieve Sandy sang "Because."

After the ceremony a reception was held, when the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing beige lace with a corsage bouquet of roses and baby's breath. Mrs. Bibby, mother of the groom, who received with her, wore a pretty gown of blue with a corsage of roses. A dainty lunch was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bibby left by motor for New York, the bride wearing an ensemble in blue and gray, with matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

DAWSON—LESURF

A very quiet wedding took place in All Saint's Church on September 1 of Myrtle, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lesurf to Mr. Frank Dawson of this city.

The Rev. J. D. Paterson performed the ceremony.

HALL—PARKER

(Examiner Correspondence)

OMEMEE, Sept. 9.—A pretty autumn wedding of much interest to Omemee citizens was solemnized at Christ Church, Bobcaygeon on Saturday, Sept. 6 when Doris M. Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parker of Nogie's Creek, became the bride of Edward Charles Hall, son of Rev. H. A. Hall and Mrs. Hall of Toronto. Rev. W. G. G. Dreyer, rector of Christ Church officiated, assisted by Rev. A. T. Weir, of Omemee. The church was decorated with a profusion of summer flowers and ferns. The wedding music was played by Mrs. H. O. Boyd.

During the signing of the register Miss Mildred Magee of Omemee, sang "All Joy Be Thine." The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a simple gown of egg-shell satin on princess lines with yoke of French point lace, mohair hat, brocaded satin shoes with matching hose, and long kid gloves in egg-shell shade. She carried a bouquet of lillies and ferns. Her attendants were Miss Margery Parker sister of the bride, as maid of honor, who wore powder blue chiffon with hat and shoes to match. Her bouquet was butterfly roses and ferns. Miss Winnifred Parker, also a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was dressed in shell pink chiffon with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of cream tea roses and ferns. Miss Sally Aileen Scott, made a very sweet little flower girl dressed in yellow taffeta and net with a quaint bonnet to match and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Fred Hall, of Toronto. The soloist, Miss Magee wore a pretty gown of pale shade of blue with large picture hat of mohair and blue velvet ribbon.

The ushers were Mr. Earl Lyman of Montreal and Mr. William Ross of Toronto. A reception and dinner was held at the Whyte House, Sherwood Street. Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, received, wearing a gown of blue crepe trimmed with beige crepe and hat of beige. Mrs. Hall, mother of the groom also received, wearing a gown of crepe Romaine satin.

The groom's gift to the maid of honor was a beautiful hand-beaded purse, to the bridesmaid a purse of cut brilliants, to the soloist, a jade green bracelet, to the organist, a hand-beaded bag in French design, to the ushers, gold cuff links and to the dainty little flower girl a gold locket and chain.

Amid showers of confetti the happy couple left by motor to New York and then on the boat to Bermuda where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride's travelling costume was a beaver brown silk suit with hat, shoes, gloves and purse to match. She also wore a beautiful fox fur, the gift of the groom. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Miss Parker was the school teacher at Orange Corner's school for the past four years and was favorably known throughout the district.

IRIGOYEN PARTY FACING ARREST

New Buenos Aires Regime Prohibits Carrying of Fire Arms in Public.

SENATORS DETAINED.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9. (A.P.)—The Minister of Interior today ordered arrest of all Senators, Deputies and Ministers under the Irigoyen Regime, which was ended Saturday night by a successful revolutionary movement.

Presidents of all committees of the personalista or Irigoyen branch of the Radical Party also were ordered detained.

Early this morning the ministry issued the following Communique:

'In view of disturbances of the tranquility of the republic brought about by armed civilians, and since it is necessary to assure order and to make guarantees of life and property, let it be known that every person hereafter found carrying arms in public will be brought before a court martial."

GRAFT IS BIG ITEM IN GETTING AN ACTOR'S JOB

Applicant Needs More High Pressure Bologney Than a Midway Sideshow.

SINCLAIR FINDS

(By Gordon A. Sinclair. Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (SNS).—Getting a job in this city subjects the applicant to more high-pressure bologney than a midway side show, not to mention petty graft and pawing personalities.

He hears about his psychological strata, whatever that is, he discovers that a stenographer is a professional woman, that anyone drawing more than $35 a week is an executive, that a two-minute conversation about anything on earth is a conference. That these conferences should never be disturbed for anything less than a three-alarm fire and that after all New York is just a laugh.

I wrote yesterday about the thousands of jobless actors who find things just too bad among the bright lights and decided afterwards that I better turn actor myself and see what it was all about.

I bought a gay tie, set my hat a little more at an angle and stormed the Palace, the last two-a-day vaudeville house on the continent.

Over this theatre is the beginning and the end of the vaudevillian's ambitions—the booker, so I went aloft in an elevator filled with little thin fellows like myself. They were Broadway hoofers so I decided I was a hoofer too. We stepped off among deep carpets in the subdued air of a senator's funeral. Lights were low and people were whispering in corners. The hoofers vanished through a side door. I was left in the big reception hall. There were leather chesterfields around the walls, oil paintings, oriental rugs and all the other theatrical luxuries. On a bench sat six grey-clad messenger boys and over a desk sat a little gnome-like man with a big bald head. He looked at me with watery eyes and boomed in a deep voice which seemed to shake so flimsy a body, "What is it?"

"I'm an international entertainer. The crowned heads of Europe have laughed at me and ——" "To-morrow," he said. "Come earlier." I argued that I had to see the president or fly the Atlantic or something, but it was useless. The bookers, it seems, are in conference during the afternoons.

Round of Agencies.

Next morning I returned early. The little man was still surrounded by his six silent satellites. They made me write my business on a paper. The little man said knowingly, "You won't do." I was ushered into a rear cubby hole. The booker there evidently didn't expect callers because his feet were on the glass top and he was smoking a cigarette. As I sat down he took out a batch of papers and thumbed feverishly through them. He must have been an actor himself. He was acting the part of a busy executive making important decisions. He took papers out of one drawer and put them in another. He never looked up. He ticked things off and frowned and rubbed his chin and looked annoyed. Then he looked up and said, "Yes—what is it?"

"I'm an international entertainer. I ——" "Who is your agent?" "I have no agent." "Who is your manager?" "I have no manager." "Just a little guy trying to get along, eh?" "Yes, and ——" "And you never been on a stage in your life, have you? What's the idea, a gag or something?" He smiled. I confessed I was no actor and glad of it. "You ought to be. Things are tough. One minute you get a job and next minute you get a reference," he said in dismissal.

I vanished from the Palace and decided to hire myself out as an unskilled hopeful so went to 110 W. 42nd St. where there is a building almost entirely occupied by employment agents. I went into the first office I found. It was divided into three parts. One for me, one for women and one for a special type of job seekers who paid the agency a fee just for the privilege of sitting there.

I went into the women's part first and was hurried away by a red-headed girl who looked terrible in green. "Cancha read?" she demanded. When I didn't answer she said, "Just carrying the paper to look regular, eh?—but can't read." I went into the men's part. There were about 40 reasonably well-dressed young fellows there but only 10 seats. Some were sleeping in a corner and some were playing checkers with bits of cardboard. A bare counter was across the front and behind a glass partition two men sat interviewing job applicants. They smoked big cigars.

When I got in one of them looked up and said, "Yeah?" "Anything here I could do?" "Service is our motto," he prattled. "I shall talk with you and see what psychological strata you fall into. This agency gets the best jobs for its clients at a very modest fee from executive posts at $35 and upwards to the more menial beginnings, which, as you know, lead on from one success to another." He yapped away in his stereotyped speech.

"Now tell me what posts you have filled?" "I have been a fruit pedlar, a flour packer, a farmer, boom salesman, clerk ——" "Ah," he said triumphantly, "what kind of clerk?" "I kept books and sent out the mail." "Splendid, service is our motto and clerk is your job. Now, then, your psychological strata seems very good indeed and we will have something for you at a minimum of $15 a week within a very short time. We will, however, have to charge you ten per cent. of a week's wages in advance. That is our authorized charge."

"But how do you know what my salary will be?" "As a fact we don't and that point is well taken indeed. Very well taken indeed and service is our motto but you can give us two dollars and you will hear from us. I suggest you return here to-morrow." "But I am out of work. I can't spare two dollars." "It is our authorized charge and I must also warn you that should we place you in an executive post paying $35 a week or more you will be called on to give us one full week's pay in three instalments, if under $35 a week you just pay us ten per cent. the first week."

I paid the deuce and picked out another agent. His layout was similar except that he had no middle room for privileged clients. For $1.50 he offered me a job as porter and doorman in a Bronx movie. Then he also talked about the psychology of success. "Now when you go up there I am satisfied you will not stay long. You, my friend, will strive for better and better advancement for, after all, $15 a week is not much in New York. We will help you to advance. For $1 a week your name will constantly be in front of our placement executives and when a better opportunity comes we will place this before you.

"Of course, if you change your post we will expect our customary fee from time to time. Our placement executives will be pleased to look after you."

There was more of this stuff in other offices. Bunk from ill-educated men who assumed they were talking to nitwits but it satisfied me that if a man wants to pay a little graft here and there he can get a job in New York and keep from starving. He has several dozen others after the same job but if he wants to be a yes man and accept that psychological strata stuff seriously he can get work at $15 or $20 a week for 60 hours or so.

GREAT OPTIMISM

Holding their meeting in the large flower marquee on the fair grounds last evening, the Board of Directors of Peterborough Exhibition under their president, Roland Denne, received the reports of the various committees which all reflected the greatest optimism in the success of this year's fair. There were no complaints registered and the only item of discussion centred around the details connected with the posting of gatemen to handle the crowds which are confidently expected.

CLAIMS DAMAGES FOR AUTOMOBILE

Tourist Complains of Road Between Apsley and Six Point Lodge.

IMPROPER GRADING.

Complaint was recently received at the local office of the Peterborough Automobile Club, from J. H. Hughes of Canton Ohio, who was the victim of an accident on the Apsley-Six Point Lodge road (formerly Pine Lake). He alleged that the accident was caused by improper grading and to huge boulders being left on the crown of the road, which caused damage to the housing of his automobile flywheel, permitting grit and sand to enter the clutch, causing much inconvenience.

The section of road on which the alleged accident took place is jointly maintained by the townships of Anstruther and Cardiff and the Department of Northern Development.

Mr. Hughes is, it is understood, making application through the Ontario Motor League, with which his club is affiliated, for reimbursement of his expenses in connection with the alleged damage. The claim will be made to the Department of Northern Development.

NEW CHINESE GOV'T PLACED IN OFFICE

General Holiday Proclaimed as Gen. Yen Hsishan Takes Oath.

PEIPING, China, September 9. — The new Northern Government was formally inducted into office to-day. General Yen Hsishan, the new chief executive, took the oath as president of the State Council. A general holiday was proclaimed.

With General Yen Hsishan's formal assumption of office, formation of a rival government in North China took a step further although the new administration exists chiefly on paper.

The allotment of portfolios apparently was held up by the uncertainty regarding Manchuria's attitude. This should be decided at a conference with General Chang Hsueliang at Mukden, to-morrow.

HON. A. R. McMASTER MAY RETIRE.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 9. (C.P.)—A special despatch from Quebec, published to-day in the Montreal Gazette, forecasts the retirement of Hon. A. R. McMaster as Provincial Treasurer, owing to ill health. The despatch says that Gordon W. Scott chartered accountant of Montreal, is being mentioned in reliable circles as Mr. McMaster's successor.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

PARENTS PLEASED WITH MUSIC TEACHING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Group Method of Piano Instruction Organized in Two Schools Last Year.

PLAN TO EXPAND.

"I wish I had had this method when I was studying music; I am delighted with her progress." "These school music classes are just what the children need." These and similar remarks from parents whose children are in the public school piano classes express the satisfaction and approval of the group method of piano instruction organized in two of the city schools last year. Arrangements have been made to extend this advantage to other schools in the city

Group piano teaching was first introduced into Canada about five years ago, in Kitchener and Toronto. Although comparatively new in Canada, the group method has been in use in other countries for a much longer period, having been used for many years in the old country, and in the United States for some ten years. Evidence of the popularity of this method is manifest in its spread throughout Canada. There are to-day flourishing classes in almost every city and town in the Dominion with an enrolment of some 15,000 boys and girls.

Individual Work.

There are few more interesting phases of juvenile instruction than the group piano teaching With a class of eight or ten pupils the teacher can supervise work of each pupil. There is one piano and each pupil has a dummy keyboard on his desk. The pupils, one at piano and the others at their keyboards, all play the same exercises or tunes together. While the dummy keyboard gives no sound the piano key is sounded, and all hear the note. Careful attention is given to hand position, fingering, rhythm and musical interpretation. Theory and ear training form a regular part of the course so that the fundamental principles of music are understood and co-related with the practical work.

Teachers have discovered untold advantages in studying in groups, including the opportunity of comparing their work with others, the privilege of hearing others' work criticised and commended, and the group enthusiasm and friendly competition resulting.

The course covers the first two years only, the children then continuing with private teachers.

If any parents have not received application forms for these classes, information may be obtained through the principals and teachers of the various schools.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

HARVEST DANCES

Rick Roberts is starting his series of Harvest dances at Melody Inn on Tuesday evening. Decorations are quite elaborate and in tune with the Autumn season. The posts are wreathed with corn stalks, with wheat sheaves at the bases. The same idea is carried out on the orchestra stand and the side lights are shaded with imitation pumpkins. The main lights have shades of red and green crepe paper. Featured on the menu are pumpkin pie and apple cider.

SIGN IN WRONG PLACE

On hearing that at Whitby, a sign appears on highway 2 directing Peterborough traffic over highway 7 to Lindsay; the Local Chamber of Commerce took the matter up with the Department of Public Highways, pointing out that there is no good reason for sending Peterborough traffic over such a circuitous route, when the most direct route over highways 2 and 28 is in such good condition.

Word has been received that F. A. Cockburn of the Department has referred the matter to C. A. Robbins, engineer in charge, who will take immediate steps to have the matter rectified.

PILGRIMAGE TO SHRINE.

The fifth annual pilgrimage of the people of this diocese to the Martyrs' Shrine at Fort Ste. Marie will take place on Sunday next, when trains from the C.P.R. and C.N.R. will convey the pilgrims to the Shrine.

The pilgrimage is made especially interesting this year on account of the canonization of the Canadian Jesuit Martyrs at Rome in June.

Announcements with regard to the pilgrimage were made by the Rev. Paul Costello, at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday last. The drawing for prizes in connection with the recent social of St. Peter's Parish was announced to take place on Wednesday evening at St. Mary's School grounds.

In Police Court

Six Finlanders, participants in the drunken revelry staged at Nogie's Creek on Sunday morning, appeared in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place. Each was fined $10 and costs of $6.50. All signs of their celebration had disappeared except that one man wore dark glasses which only partly concealed a pair of "shiners", received when fists flew during the party. After paying their fines they left smiling.

BIRTH.

GELLING — On September 8, 1930, to Mr. and Mrs. H H. Gelling, 431 Bethune street, a daughter.

A Burden Lifted

For weeks Mrs. Brown had felt the burden of the letter she knew she should write. She always said a letter was a full day's work for her. Then she thought of "long distance!" In less than two minutes she was talking to Mrs. King. What a relief it was. "Thank goodness, I thought of the telephone," she said. The burden of letter-writing oppresses her no more.

GALLERIES CROWDED WHEN HOUSE OPENS

LIBERALS OPPOSE LATE SITTING OF FEDERAL HOUSE

SUSPEND 11 P.M. RULE.

King and Gardiner Refuse to Accept Resolution on Long Night Sessions.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 10 (C.P.). — The galleries were again crowded to-day when the afternoon sitting of the House of Commons opened. The custom of no evening sitting on Wednesday nights will be followed for this week. A Government motion on the order paper providing for suspension of the rule under which the House closes at eleven o'clock on other nights aroused opposition at the outset of the sitting.

Enters Protest.

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Opposition leader, protested against suspension of the rule. It was the desire of the Opposition to co-operate with the Government in getting the business of the session done, he said, but on the other hand the Opposition wished to secure itself the protection afforded by the rules of the House. The eleven o'clock rule had been in existence for a long time, and he saw no reason for cancelling it now. He did not recall any occasion since 1921 when it had been suspended save by unanimous consent of the House.

He hoped, said Mr. King, that the Prime Minister would not try to force the motion on the House. If it carried, there would be the possibility of all-night sittings, and to them the Opposition would object very strongly. Assuming that the Government was prepared to give some assurance that the rule would not be suspended, the Opposition was ready to proceed with the next resolution on the order paper.

It might be as well to remind the Opposition leader, said Robert Gardiner, leader of the U.F.A. group, that he had made a mistake in his statement with regard to late sittings. He well remembered for the first four or five years after he entered the House going home in the small hours of the morning after long sittings of the House.

Mr. Gardiner agreed with the Opposition leader, however, that it was undesirable to suspend the 11 o'clock rule He thought that the Prime Minister would find that "it will probably pay him better in the long run" not to insist on late sittings

Premier Bennett drew the attention of the House to the fact that the motion was down for consideration to-morrow There was no intention on the part of the government to ask the House to sit all night. There had been a number of occasions, however, when the House had set until twelve o'clock by agreement; he would consider the matter and see if by to-morrow, when the motion came up for discussion, he could not present a proposal which would meet the wishes of the House.

The House then proceeded to other business.

Congratulates Lavergne.

The Prime Minister then moved the House into committee of the whole to consider the resolution which provides $20,000,000 to ameliorate unemployment. In so doing he embraced the occasion to pay a tribute to Armand Lavergne (Cons., Montmagny), who embarked for the first time upon his duties as Deputy-Speaker and chairman of the Committee of the Whole. Mr. Lavergne replied, assuring the House that he would endeavor to conduct the business of the committee impartially.

The government, said the prime minister, talking to the resolution, was dealing with a condition and not a theory. It was not concerned with the great cause of unemployment, for these were many. On the government side of the house members believed that the policies of a government which administered a country, with practically untouched natural resources, in such a manner as the preceding administration, were responsible. The Liberal party did not quarrel with the Opposition on this score nor would he discuss

QUEBEC HUNTER SLAYS BIG BEAR AFTER FIST FIGHT

Ste. Perpetue Man Has Gun Knocked From Hand in Attack.

HITS BRUIN ON NOSE.

Animal Startled By Mode of Attack Backs Up While Gun is Recovered.

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 10.—(CP)—Gerard Fournier of Ste. Perpetue in L' Islet, killed a bear after a fist fight with the animal in the woods near his home. Fournier, who had gone hunting with some friends, let his companions go after some deer, while he picked berries.

While stooping down to pick blueberries, Fournier heard a noise and saw a bear coming towards him at full speed. Grabbing the rifle which he had laid down to pick the berries, Fournier took aim, but the bear, standing erect on its hind paws, knocked the rifle out of his grasp, leaving him unarmed.

Had Only One Fore-Paw

The bear only had one fore-paw, having apparently lost the other in a trap, and after knocking the gun out of Fournier's hands, prevented the hunter from regaining his weapon.

Fournier struck the bear a violent blow on the snout and then followed it up with another blow, these caused the animal to back up, and giving the man an opportunity to pick up his rifle and fire point blank at the bear.

The Hunter's companions, hearing the shot, hastened to where they had left him, and found the bear dead with Fournier standing over it.

Buffalo Tourists Have Fine Catch

Bigger, better and more fish are being caught these fine September days. A party of Buffalo men staying at Harrington's Island, Chemong Lake, since Sunday have bagged twenty bass and six 'lunge. The largest muskie weighed 18 pounds and the biggest bass tipped the beam at six pounds even. The party consists of: E. J. Smith, Fred Boye, Chas. L. Geth, Fred Lawson and Chas.

A Prize Winner

Harry Jopling is counting on being well up to the front when the winner of The Examiner fishing contest, is announced. Fishing at Chemong Lake last evening, Harry landed a "beaut." It is a small-mouthed bass, 21 inches long and 14 inches in girth, and tips the scales at 5 pounds 15½ ounces.

SINGAPORE WINS ST. LEGER STAKES

Parenthesis, the Favorite, Finishes Second in Final Classic of Season.

RUSTOM PASAH, THIRD.

DONCASTER, England, Sept. 10.—(C. P. Cable)—The St. Leger Stakes, longest, oldest and the last of the five racing classics of the English season, was won to-day by Singapore owned by Lord Glanely, the industrialist. The race carried about $60,000 in prizes.

Singapore, the son of Gainsborough, out of Tetrabbazis, ran a great race. He started second in the wagering and was fourth at the end of the first mile of the mile and six furlongs' course, being led by Ut Majour, Parenthesis, the Favorite, and Diolite, winner of the two thousand guineas and two other races during the season. Singapore won by a length and a half after coming through with a mighty stride during the last half of the race. On his heels at the finish line were Parenthesis and Rustom Pasah, the Aga Khan's horse which came three-quarters of a length behind Parenthesis and Rustom Pasah, the Aga Khan's horse which came three-quarters of a length behind Parenthesis.

Algonquin Takes Lead

Algonquin and Christopher Robin led during the first half of the race then Parenthesis pulled up, followed by Ut Majeur, Singapore, Rameses, Rustom, Pasah, Diolite and Prince Paradise. When three furlongs from the finish Singapore took a slight lead over the closely hunched pack, Parenthesis, Ut. Majeur and Rustom Pasah being only a short way behind. Ut Majeur staged a good finish joining issue with Parenthesis and Singapore, but Singapore rallied

HARDY BUCKING BRONCHOS SPILL THEIR RIDERS AT THE EXHIBITION

Welsh Rodeo Show Receives Much Applause By Grand Stand Audience.

NEW HIGH JUMP RECORD.

"Ride 'em, cowboy! Ride 'em!"

Jose and Louis Welsh with their staff and their horses are at the fair this year, and are giving the customers an eye-full in front of the grand stand, at afternoon and evening rodeo programs.

Long Tom and Queen Katherine provided the excitement last night. Hardy bucking bronchos, they burst from the chutes and spilled their riders along the fairway in less time than it takes to write it. Louis Welsh gripped the seat hard and held the big bay Queen for nearly a half minute, but she landed him neatly in the ruins of a gate that had barred her way and galloped off into the night across the grass to the far side of the track.

High Jump Record.

Jose Welsh pulled something off last night, unintentionally. His brother, Louis, is holder of the world's high jump record of 8 feet, 1½ inches, but last night Jose beat him at the barriers, riding the blaze-faced Hawaii, while Louis' mount, "Miracle Man," with a toss of a spirited head and a final kick with a pair of wicked heels, refused to take the last high jump. The record last night was nearly six feet, with the third member of the high-jumping trio, "Mickey," mounted by a fifteen-year-old companion of the two Welsh brothers.

Going the half-mile stretch of the racetrack at a breakneck speed, Jose and Louis rode a tandem pair apiece, standing erect in the old Roman fashion, the riding done by a loose pair of reins on one horse, and the foot of the rider on the bare back of the second animal. With the quirt rising rapidly in the air above the flanks of his cream mare, Jose beat his brother by a nose.

Then they did trick riding, jumping on and off the back of a galloping horse; lassoing with a lariat as the animal and its rider sped past; and finally, came the bronk riding, with the intrepid humans caromed neatly off the backs of the big, bucking brutes. No bridle, no halter, no allowance for both hands to guide the animal,—these are some of the rules of the brave game of bronk riding, which provided a real thrill for the patrons of last night's grand stand show.

In red shirt and dark sleeveless jacket, with the conventional chaparajos and broad-leaved, high-crowned sombrero, the Welshes were assisted last night by their chief helper. For the high-jumps, they use the light western saddles and the snaffle bit with its loose rein and wide mouth-ring that gives the horse an easy, comfortable mouth.

"Summers," Jose's pet cow pony, was

Six Broncos Hitched Tandem Run Away Causing Much Excitement at Exhibition

Citizens up-town were to-day ch eated out of a picturesque spectacle which was scheduled to take place for their benefit.

The Welsh Brothers, who gave a splendid show of Western hor emanship in front of the grand stand last night, planned to drive six broncos uptown, hitched tandem to a wagon box.

The procession did get started and made a picturesque spectacle as it circled the track towards the exit with a cavalcade of cowboys riding alongside, attired in vari-colored shirts and neckerchiefs and big ten-gallon hats.

The breaking of a piece of harness upset the pre-arranged plan, and the horses, ready to go wild on the least provocation, made a mad dash in a circle on the open greensward near the cattle pens and Midway. The Welsh Brothers made a determined effort to stop them and they finally did come to a standstill after Harvey Webber ran out and grabbed the bridle of one of the lead horses. A second attempt to drive the broncos uptown resulted in a similar display of "contrariness" on the part of the horses, and the final abandonment of the attempt.

WORKMAN FALLS FROM POLE TOP

W. H. Merrett is Slightly Injured at Corner of High and Frank Streets.

TELEPHONE POLE BROKE.

Falling to the ground from the top of a telephone pole at the corner of High and Frank Streets at 10 o'clock this morning, William H. Merrett, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrett, 363, Leslie Avenue, escaped with only minor injuries. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital with a bruised right knee and lacerated face as a result of his twenty-foot fall.

The workman was up the pole engaged in putting new supporting guy-wires about it, when the accident occurred. He had loosened the top guy wire, which caused the pole to snap off near the top, tossing him forcibly to the ground. The broken piece of pole fell on top of him, injuring his leg.

THREE FIREMEN HURT AT BLAZE

Brigades From 12 Montreal Stations Battle Two Hours on Warehouse.

$250,000 LOSS.

MONTREAL, Que., September 10. (C.P.) — Three firemen were injured this morning as they battled a $250,000 fire in a north end warehouse of the Maple Leaf Milling Co. The fire, believed to have started through spontaneous combustion, broke out at 10 o'clock, and within 15 minutes the plant was a roaring inferno. Firemen from 12 city stations fought the flames for two hours before getting the fire under control.

Residents Move out.

For a time there was fear that the flames would spread to the adjoining buildings. Householders carried their belongings out into the street to escape the flames. A water tower and practically all the apparatus downtown was brought into play to halt the spread of the fire .The injured firemen were treated by ambulance

JAPANESE GIRL FATALLY KNIFED DURING QUARREL WITH HER LOVER

IN VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 10. (C.P.) — A tiny room at the rear of a Japanese rooming house in Alexander street, was turned into a shambles shortly before midnight on Tuesday when a Japanese killed his sweet heart, probably fatally wounded the girl's mother, and then killed himself.

The Dead.

Eki Oika, 16.

Tsuchio Yoshida, 36

The Wounded.

Mrs. S. Oika.

Stabbed in Heart.

The girl was stabbed to death, the knife entering her heart after two deep wounds had been inflicted on her arms, the police said.

Her mother succeeded in crawling upstairs, suffering from numerous knife wounds on her body.

Yoshida was discovered lying near the dead girl on the floor of the room. He expired just as detective H. H. Duggan reached his side When the body was turned over a knife with an eight inch blade was found sunk to the hilt in his stomach.

He was garbed for the Japanese rite of Hari-kari, police were informed. Around his waist was tied a white cloth, and a similar cloth was knotted about his head.

Grandstand Performance Starts At 7.45

A Wholesome But Lengthy Evening Program Necessitates Starting Early.

Owing to the variety and length of the Grand Stand performance at the Exhibition it is necessary to commence the evening performance at 7:45 o'clock sharp. This was decided on today by Weober Turner and his amusement committee. There is a great performance at the grandstand, and the admission is only 25c at night. Don't miss it by any means.

AUSTRALIA PLANS TO REGULATE ITS BUTTER EXPORTS

Eliminate Competition in Canada By Holding Product in Winter Months.

TO INCREASE TRADE.

Quantity Will Be Determined in Conjunction With Canadian Board.

MELBOURNE, Australia, September 10 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters). — Regulation of the butter exports of Australia to Canada to prevent injury to the interests of the Canadian dairymen is the goal set by the Hon. F. M. Forde, acting Federal Minister for Markets, according to an interview to-day.

Forde stated the friendly attitude in Canada towards the increasing of trade relationships with the Commonwealth was much appreciated, and he desired to give assurance that the feeling was reciprocated.

Will Avoid Interference.

In the case of certain primary products Australia much desired to increase her exports to Canada, but did not wish to hamper the sale for similar Canadian products, such as butter. I was reported, remarked Mr. Forde, that large importations of New Zealand butter into Canada during the last two years had alarmed the Dominion's dairy farmers. Australia, he promised, would control its butter industry so as not to allow export during the Canadian winter except when licensed by the Minister for Markets and under conditions which would prevent competition detrimental to Canadian butter.

The Minister for Markets promised he would see to it that only such quantities are to be determined, he said, on the recommendation of the Advisory Board which Canada was now establishing, and which would consist of representative of the Canadian National Dairy Council, a representative of the Canadian butter distributors, and the Australian Trade Commissioner to Canada.

$20,000,000 For Unemployment

Premier Bennett Will Ask House to Vote Lump Sum

Resolution Seeking Relief For the Unemployed Will Be Placed on the Order Paper of the House of Commons To-day.

DEBATE IN REPLY TO SPEECHFROM THRONE IS CLOSED LIBERAL LEADER SAYS OPPOSITION CANNOT BE GAGGED

Hon R. P. Bennett Declares That as Long as He is Prime Minister There Will Be No Steam Roller Tactics Used in the House Following Leaders Clash.

OTTAWA, September 10. (C. P.) — Parliament will be asked to vote $20,000,000 for the relief of unemployment, Premier Bennett announced in the House of Commons last night.

A resolution authorizing the expenditure of this sum will be placed on the order paper to-day.

A second resolution providing for amendments to the Customs Act, and the application of the dumping clause to certain commodities will also be proceeded with.

The unemployment appropriations resolution, according to notice given by Mr. Bennett last night, will be as follows:

"That it is expedient to prove that a sum not exceeding $20,000,000 be appropriated and paid out of the revenue fund for the relief of unemployment, in constructing, extending or improving public works and undertakings, railways, highways, etc., that will assist in providing useful and suitable work for the unemployed, all as set forth in a bill founded on this resolution."

Amendments to Customs Act.

The resolution referring to the amendments to the Customs Act in respect to the provisions relating to the fair market value for duty of goods imported and subject to ad valorem duty, and goods imported the price of which are published or listed by the manufacturers, producers or persons acting on their behalf, the allowance of discounts, and the valuation of imports prejudicially or injuriously affecting Canadian producers."

Mr. Bennett's announcement came in the midst of a slight ruffle which swept the House at adjournment, and was characterized by a clash between the Prime Minister and Rt Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition. In the verbal conflict, protestations that the Opposition would combat any efforts on the part of the Prime Minister to introduce "steam-roller" methods in getting legislation through the House were voiced by Mr. King.

No Desire For Such Tactics.

This brought from Premier Bennett the retort that he had no desire to adopt such tactics, and that even if he had, the rules of the House forbade the exercise of "steam-roller methods." Mr. Mackenzie King had asked the customary question of the Prime Minister with respect to the business for to-day.

Mr. Bennett replied that he hoped to proceed with certain resolutions, provided that the consent of the House could be obtained thereto.

The Opposition leader objected. Earlier in the evening Mr. Bennett had sent him a note indicating that he desired to pursue such a course. Nothing in the note, however, indi-

BRITAIN PLANS FURTHER PEACE MOVE IN 1931

General Disarmament Conference to be Summoned at Geneva.

FRANCE TO MEET ITALY.

Arbitration Act Will Come Before Imperial Conference.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept 10. — The British Government is planning to inaugurate a further disarmament move.

It is hoped, the Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, announced last night, to summon a general Disarmament Conference some time next year. Since his arrival in Geneva, Mr. Henderson has made contacts with the French and Italian representatives and offered them any assistance possible to enable them to reach a naval accord, France and Italy having failed to reconcile their demands at the London Conference, which resulted in a tripartite agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

It is understood that Franco-Italian conversations will be resumed during the present Assembly of the League of Nations.

Mr. Henderson also intimated that the General Arbitration Act, placed before the powers, will be submitted to the Imperial Conference next month for discussion, with a view to securing common Empire action. It is the optional clause which appears to be the main stumbling-block, as it would provide compulsory arbitration of disputes.

CANADIAN FLYER KILLED IN CRASH WOMAN INJURED

Capt. J. A. Dickie, War Pilot, is Victim Near Fort William.

PLANE WENT INTO SPIN.

Rescuers Unable to Tell Who Was Piloting the Machine.

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 10.—(CP)—Captain James A. Dickie, Canadian war flier, died yesterday when his plane swooped earthward and crumpled its nose in the rough forest land about ten miles from the outskirts of Fort William. Thirty-eight-year-old Marion Swain, who was flying with Captain Dickie at the time of the crash, lies in hospital here in critical condition. The cause of the accident, witnessed by only a few persons, could not immediately be determined. It is believed that the Gipsy Moth, a machine familiar to the war ace, swung into a spin from which it could not be extricated. The position of the passengers in the debris did not indicate to rescuers which one was piloting the plane when the accident occurred. Miss Swain recently obtained her student pilot's license.

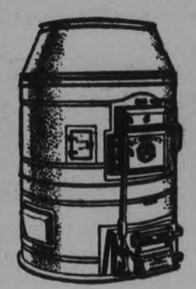
Captain Dickie, only recently named secretary of the Flying Association of Canada, was well known among Canadian airmen. He had previously been instructor of the Fort William Flying Club. Formerly a resident of Winnipeg, he came to the lakehead six years ago and operated a drug store in Fort William. Only a few months ago he was married to Miss J. Burnett, of Fort William. Two days ago Captain Dickie had returned to the lakehead from a western trip with Squadron Leader A. T. Cowley, Dominion Superintendent of Air Regulations. In the course of the journey the pair had set up a new air record in crossing British Columbia, making 530 miles in four hours and one-half. Captain Dickie's wartime air experience dated from 1916, when he joined the air force. He went overseas as a member of the Canadian Army Medical Corps.

"House Warm all Through"

Pease "ECONOMY" FURNACE

For a furnace to give entire satisfaction it must heat perfectly, with a minimum of attention, and with the greatest economy. Read how these achievements impressed Mr. George Rutledge, R.R. No. 6, Goderich, Ontario:

"I like the Pease Economy furnace fine. I gets lots of heat. This is the first time our house ever was warm all through. It always was damp but there is no dampness now. I inquired of a good many before I bought and the Pease Economy was recommended."



Indicative of the great attention paid to detail in the design of the Economy Furnace is the Dust Pipe, which draws up dust from the ashpit into the combustion chamber. There are many similar exclusive features. Ask for specification and tender.

BENNETT IS SENT LABOR PROPOSAL

Congress Would Prohibit Entry of Immigrant Labor to Canada.

FOUR SUGGESTIONS.

REGINA, Sept. 10 (By Jack Hambledon, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — Establishment of an unemployment insurance scheme, eight-hour day and five-day week on all Government work, prohibition of the entry of immigrant labor into Canada, adoption of recommendations discussed at the meeting of the Employment Service Council of Canada recently.

Proposals for these four measures, all aimed at the alleviation of Canada's unemployment situation, were telegraphed to Parliament, now in session at Ottawa by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in convention here.

In addition, the message strongly urged immediate action at this session of Parliament for the alleviation of the acute unemployment conditions existing throughout the country, and "recognizing the probable continuance of the unemployment problem," urged that steps be taken to effectively prevent a recurrence of the present situation.

YOUNG BREEDER OF BLACK CATTLE MAKES FIRST VISIT TO PETERBORO

CAME HERE FROM C.N.E.

Three exhibitors of Aberdeen-Angus cattle have made this class conspicuous this year in the beef cattle section. They are Bertram Blackburn of Uxbridge who has frequently shown in Peterborough and two newcomers, Malcolm Bailey of Epsom near Uxbridge and Arnold McKinnon of Hillsburg.

These entries bring the "black cattle" class to the front with the largest number of individual animals Peterborough Exhibition has ever registered.

Malcolm Bailey is an interesting young exhibitor, almost a mere boy of eighteen, but an experienced breeder and show ring man. Eight years ago when he was ten years old he bought an Aberdeen-Angus calf, and some years later decided to branch out into this class of cattle, departing from his father's preference for Herefords. In the meantime he had groomed his calf for the Canadian National Exhibition, but on the eve of the day of judging it became sick and died during the night.

Young Bailey then bought two head from Bertram Blackburn's herd, and added others from the Edwards Brothers' herd at Watford. Today his black herd is established. This is the work of young farmer of eighteen, whose ambitions have already been realized in so far as show-ring success is a satisfaction.

Among the Bailey herd is a yearling heifer "Eric of Anoka", which took second prize at the C.N.E. and first at the Royal Fair last year.

He is showing an eleven months old bull "Barbarian of Anoka" a son of "Queenmere" and grandson of "Earl Marshall" former United States champion. It weighs 910 pounds and was bred by Edwards Brothers of Watford.

He has also a two year old heifer that took third at the Royal in 1928. Mr. Bailey was a winner at the recent Toronto exhibition, and because of the reports he had heard about Peterborough he decided to

BUSINESS AGAIN SWINGS UPWARD

Hardwood Men Foresee 100 Per Cent Trade Revival in 1931.

TIDE TURNING NOW.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10.—(CP)—The business pendulum already is on the upward swing, and business inquiries since Aug. 1 herald a 100 per cent commercial revival in 1931, according to the sum-up of W. F. Oliver of the Oliver Hardwood Company director of the continent-wide National Hardwood Lumber Association which today opens its thirty-third annual convention here.

In many respects the hardwood business is the barometer of the commercial times, and Mr. Oliver, speaking from his knowledge of conditions all across the Dominion, said, the lumber business is just now beginning to see light out of the worst depression it had had in history. The outlook is much brighter and inquiries are coming from all the various fabricators of lumber. They are looking forward to a revival of good sound, 100 per cent business in 1931.

Mainly in the furniture business, Mr. Oliver said, was the return to the markets of buyers noticeable, but other lines of industry linked with the hardwood lumber business were also feeling the turn of the commercial tide.

BURWASH FINDS FRANKLIN CAMPS ON ARCTIC ISLAND

Site of 80 Year Old Expedition Found in King William's Land.

NEW LAND MAPPED.

Epic Flight of Northland Nears End as Fliers Turn Homeward.

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—(CP)— Word of the discovery by Major L. T. Burwash, Dominion Government explorer, of the camps of Sir John Franklin in King William's land was received with great satisfaction by Government officials here. Major Burwash's accomplishment was stated to add further distinction to the career of the explorer who is regarded as knowing more of the Arctic than any other.

For several years, Major Burwash has sought to find the camps of the Franklin expedition which perished 80 years ago in the bleak northland. By the use of the aeroplane it was possible this year to make a search during the warm months. Discovery of the relics of the early explorers of the northwest passage resulted.

Eighty years ago the Franklin expedition landed on King William's Land. An advance party disembarked to explore the island. Of the 129 men who started out on the expedition none were saved.

Many Hazards Dared.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 19.— (C. P.)—Pre-winter hazards of the Arctic had been dared and overcome by Canadian Government explorers, a brief radio message told civilization. Another epic air joureny of the north went down on the records as Major L. T. Burwash, intrepid adventurer of the barrens and W. E. Gilbert, his pilot, landed their giant seaplane on Victory Point and became the first white men to set foot on far north King William's Land in the summer season. Burwash, who left Edmonton on August 15 for the uncharted region, not far from the North Magnetic Pole, had started the homeward flight from Copper Mine, in the Northwest Territories. He and Gilbert had visited the country where in 1847 Sir John Franklin and 129 of his followers died of privation. Presumably Burwash carried back with him photographs of the land's shore line for the Dominion Government.

The message did not give the date of their arrival on King William's Land. A week ago they were reported weather-bound at Bernard Harbor, solitary trading station on Delphium Straight.

Miss Duncan, who is 19 years old, had hoped to beat the 14 hours 25 minutes record of Gertrude Ederle established four years ago. Entering the water at about 8.20 p.m., her initial speed was about 2½ miles an hour. The total time for her swim was 16 hours 15 minutes.

LETTER EXPLAINS RESIGNATION OF VINCENT MASSEY

Ideas of Commissionership at Variance With Those of Bennett.

ANNOUNCED IN HOUSE.

Action Comes as Result of Conference With Premier on August 13.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10. (C.P.)— The resignation of Hon. Vincent Massey from the post of High Commissioner to Great Britain, was announced by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons yesterday. It has been in effect for nearly a month, according to the correspondence which the Premier tabled in the House. The letter of resignation, written by Mr. Massey to the Hon. Mr. Bennett, states that the ideas of the two with respect to the High Commissioner were at variance. It is also indicated that the Prime Minister's desire was to have at London "someone in close political association with the Government of the day.

Mr. Massey's first official communication to Mr. Bennett was dated August 7. Therein the former Minister to Washington declares that he had waited until Mr. Bennett assumed office before approaching him with a view to ascertaining his instructions with respect to the London High Commissionership. An appointment was made, at which Mr. Massey met Mr. Bennett in Ottawa. On August 13. From the conversation between the two resulted Mr. Massey's resignation. This was conveyed by letter of the following day.

Massey's Letter.

Mr. Massey's letter of resignation reads as follows:

"My Dear Prime Minister,

I appreciate your courtesy in arranging our conversation of yesterday in answer to my letter requesting an expression of your wishes concerning my appointment to the High Commissionership in London.

"I left the Legation at Washington and accepted transfer to London on the understanding that the office of High Commissioner was an integral part of our service abroad differing, of course, in its procedure from our foreign diplomatic offices, but akin to these in qualifications of its personnel and in the relation of that

MASSEY HAS RESIGNED

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9. —CP)— It was announced in the House of Commons today by Premier R. B. Bennett that Hon. Vincent Massey, High Commissioner of Canada to London, has resigned his post.

LIBERATION

ONE does not have to go back many years to reach the time when most of the water used in the house had to be carried from the spring or well, not always situated close to the house.

Even the introduction of the hand pump, which brought water to the kitchen, did not dispense with the backbreaking work of pumping and lifting heavy pails.

Woman's work on the farm, and indeed in the city, involved an enormous expenditure of strength and vitality. Among other tasks she was dependent on her own hands to do the family washing, a good deal of the milking, the filling and cleaning of lamps, ironing, taking care of the poultry (which meant also the poultry house), to say nothing of innumerable minor tasks, and at the same time had to rear, feed, clothe and otherwise provide for her children.

Today she is liberated from much of the drudgery of household tasks. The washing, ironing, lighting, cooking; and on the farm, milking, poultry work, dairy work, and the pumping of water, can now be done by electricity.

The electrical servant also relieves the man of the household from many tasks which he used to take as a matter of course.

The Northern Electric Company is pleased that in the manufacture of wires and cables, and in the distribution of many electrical household appliances, it has been able to assist in the liberation of woman from some of her work, that so frequently overtaxed her strength and endurance.

PREMIER BENNETT TO ASK HOUSE FOR LUMP SUM FOR UNEMPLOYED

stated the nature of the resolutions. While the Opposition was prepared to expedite the business of the house it did not intend to acquiesce in any attempt to employ "steam-roller tactics" on the part of the Premier to put legislation through. He had therefore indicated in his reply to the note that, being in ignorance of the nature of the resolutions, he could not give the Prime Minister an assurance of a unanimous consent, inasmuch as a number of his colleagues and members of the Progressive group, would desire to examine them and so frame their attitude and course of action.

The rules of the House provided that 48 hours notice must be given before any resolutions could be proceeded with. The Prime Minister knew this. Yet to-day's order paper was blank, and no indication had been given of what business was to be proceeded with. He could not understand why this should be so, unless it was that the resolutions contained something which Mr. Bennett did not wish to have disclosed at this time.

"There is nothing more objectionable," commented the Prime Minister, "than a suspicious mind." He had pursued the proper course in this case, for the opposition leader knew quite well nothing was ordinarily printed on the order paper until the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was disposed of.

Resolutions Are Ready

The resolutions were ready. The first was to amend the Customs Act in order to make provisions against dumping and to effect such improvements as were necessary. The second dealt with a money appropriation, in which $20,000,000 would be provided for unemployment relief. There would be ample opportunity afforded members to debate these measures. In view of that it could not surely be said, continued Mr. Bennett, that the objection of the leader of the opposition was made for any other purpose than not to expedite the business of the house.

The government, said the Prime Minister, was in the hands of the house and he was sure the country would judge. The leader of the opposition had indicated his unwillingness to proceed, so there being very little business, the House would adjourn, following a brief session tomorrow, until the next day.

When the Prime Minister sent him the note, said Mr. Mackenzie King, he had asked him to assent to something that was wholly blank. Had he known the facts as they have been indicated, he might have given the Prime Minister a difference answer. If Mr. Bennett would present copies of the resolutions to himself and to Mr. Gardiner, Leader of the Progressives, they would endeavor to see if it was not possible to advance matters tomorrow.

"But I would say," he continued, "that we certainly do intend to have an opportunity to give thought and study to these matters, particularly when they involve the expenditure of $20,000,000.

"I am sure the House will acquit me of steam-rolling," said Mr. Bennett. The rules of the House prevented it, and he had no desire to adopt such methods. His wish was that the business of the House be disposed of. He assured Mr. Mackenzie King that he was grateful for the suggestion made, and he would see that he was furnished with a copy of the resolutions at once and as long as he occupied the position of Prime Minister there would be no disposition on his part of steam roll legislation through the house, the Premier repeated. The incident passed over and the House rose.

In our discussion on this subject you were good enough to make clear your view that the office of High Commissioner should be held by someone in close political association with the Government of the day, and I understood from what you said that you had in mind plans for this post as a result of which my appointment could no longer stand. In these circumstances I, of course, at once offered you my resignation from the High Commissionership, which I now confirm—the resignation to take effect whenever you so desire.

FLYING CLUB'S FIRST MEETING IS SUCCESS

Campbellford Unit Will Stage Dance in October—Preparing For Fall Fair.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 10 — The first meeting of the season of the Campbellford Flying Club which was held in the club room, Queen's Hotel, showed an eagerness on the part of the members to carry on with the good work that has already been done. The president, C. D. Beattie occupied the chair.

It was agreed to stress the social side of the work this winter, and with this in view a big dance is being arranged to take place sometime in October. As far as the staging of the proposed play was concerned, no definite action was taken. This matter will be held over to the next meeting which will be held in a few days.

The club plane is being put into shape for its demonstration at the Campbellford Fall Fair, and it is expected that this stunt will draw large crowds. Mr. Beattie expects to commence flying in the course of a few days, and this should be the outward sign of another sphere of accomplishment of the town of Campbellford.

BARN HAS CLOSE CALL.

Quick Action By Neighbors Save S. Atchinson's Barn When Spark Lights on Roof.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, September 10 — The barn of Mr. Stewart Atknson had a narrow escape from burning down on Monday morning, about 8 o'clock. A spark from the threshing engine lit on the barn roof and started quite a blaze, but owing to the heavy dew and many helpers the fire was overpowered, leaving a large burned patch in the roof. Fortunately it did not make progress into the straw or become more serious.

Scott's Wee Golf Course Is Officially Opened

CAMPBELLFORD, September 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Fun and merriment waxed high on Monday evening when Scott's Wee Golf Course was officially opened to the public. To the strains of the Northumberland Regiment Band, under the baton of Bandmaster W. Pearson, a large crowd of fans handled the sticks and kept the ball rolling in true golf fashion, and made a great success of the latest sporting innovation to the town of Campbellford.

Members of the band also enjoyed the thrill of the game as the guests of Dr. Scott, and all registered a good time. The course is now in first-class shape, and is showing signs of becoming the premier sport of town and a meeting place for the friends of yesterday and to-day.

"Skinny" Run-down Violinist Gains Pep 10 Lbs. in 4 Weeks

WEIDEN, MAN.—Mr. Fred Duneluke, well known violinist, says: "Was badly run-down for months. Then tried Ironized Yeast. New pep at once. Gained 10 lbs. in 4 weeks."

William Knox, Charlie Westlake, who is the director in charge of the beef cattle class, and other directors are highly pleased that Malcolm Bailey is an exhibitor this year. They feel that this young farmer's success will be an encouragement to all junior farmers of the district, and will demonstrate to them what an aspiring young breeder can do by intelligent and persevering work.

POULTRY.

Exceeding the entries of all previous years, the poultry exhibit promises to provide some difficult work for the judges, Messrs A. W. Tyson of Guelph and J. H. Waddington of Cornwall, who commenced their task early this morning and who will have the prize lists completed by to-night.

In addition to entries representative of all the leading breeds of utility birds and egg producers there are such entries as pigeons, turkeys ducks, geese, guinea fowl and rabbits.

Many breeders of note from Peterborough and district are included among the exhibitors, including the following:

Weir and Brocklesby of Agincourt, 36 entries; C. H. Rogers, MacFarlane avenue, 6 Chinchilla rabbits; Fred Robson, 350 London street, 8 entries, S. C. STREET FAIR TO BE STAGED BY LEGION

Will Run Feature Evening on October 1 in Connection With Campbellford Fair.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 10. (Examiner Staff Correspondent)—At the regular meeting of the Campbellford branch No. 103, Canadian Legion, held Monday evening in the Armories the committee in charge of the Legion Street Fair reported on the progress made.

This venture on the part of the Campbellford Legion gives evidence of being a great success. By arrangment with the Fair Board the Legion have been given the concessions for the fair ground and will handle the booths on the grounds during the event. On the last day of the fair, October 1, they will stage a street fair in the evening on Tice street, in front of the Armouries, and carry on with the good work at that point.

The booths, which include Bingo, wheels, and the usual blanket wheel, will offer some splendid prizes. The committee handling this end of the business have obtained the best to offer the public. The band of the Northumberland Regiment will also be on hand to add to the charm of the entertainment.

GENIUS.

I believe it is no wrong observation, that persons of genius, and those who are most capable of Art, are always most fond of Nature; and as such are chiefly sensible, that all Art consists in the imitation and study of Nature. On the contrary, people of the common level of understanding are principally delighted with the little niceties and fantastical operations of Art, and constantly think that finest which is least natural. —Pope.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, September 10. — As predicted, the local dealers raised their prices for eggs yesterday, to country shippers and to the trade. The boost to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, free cases, was 1c per dozen, but the quotations to dealers were raised 2c per dozen with the exception of seconds.

Receipts have not been too heavy the past few days, and consumption has maintained a steady trend, which made it imperative that the prices should advance. Seconds were the only grade not moving very fast on the local market, and did not follow the advance in prices to country shippers, and went lower in prices quoted to retailers.

Prices.

Country shippers were quoted 30c to 33c or extras, 29c to 30c for firsts, and 23c to 24c for seconds. Prices to retailers were 39c to 40c for extras, in cartons, 37c to 38c ofr extras loose, 34c to 35c for firsts loose, and 25c to 28c for seconds loose. Graded eggs were quoted at 34c to 35c for extras, 32c to 33c for firsts, and 24c to 25c for seconds.

Butter.

There was fair activity on the butter market and prices held firm at 29½c to 30 for No. 1, and 29c for No. 2. Dealers reported a fair demand at these prices, but stated that buyers seemed slightly backward about committing themselves to large lots.

Cream.

Churning cream prices were steady with previous quotations. Special was quoted at 30c, No. 1 29c, and No. 2 26c f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

The cheese market showed no improvement, but prices held steady at 14½c to 15c for new large, 15c to 15½c for twins, and 15¼c to 15½c for triplets.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, September 10. — The demand for all lines of cash grain here yesterday was fair and values were well mainained.

The butter market continued steady under a moderate demand. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized sold at 29c per pound, in wholesale channels. Some New Zealand butter was offering on spot at 30c per pound to retailers, for small lots, solids were 31c, and prints 32c per pound. Receipts were only seven boxes.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade, but values were unchanged. Ontario cheese was quoted at 14½c per pound. Receipts were 7,713 boxes.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a moderate demand. Special brands sold at 45c. Fresh extras at 42c, fresh firsts at 35c, and fresh seconds at 30c per dozen. Receipts were 3,357 cases

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 10. — Once more, on its interrupted way to new low levels, the wheat market skidded downward yesterday for declines of 1¼c to 1½c. Lack of support from professional speculators turned values down at the opening, and a reaction to perfect harvesting conditions in the Canadian West dragged the market still lower around midday.

Only a few resting orders for wheat temporarily halted the decline. Foreign demand continued light.

In good demand from overseas buyers, cash wheat was traded in to some extent. Spreads were unchanged to ¼c better. Coarse grains held firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Oppressed by the weight of hedging sales from the North-West and by weakness at Winnipeg, Chicago wheat prices closed yesterday at almost the season's bottom levels reached. Wheat values were on the down grade from the start, with only a mild rally or two to check the steady descent. Scattered selling by Chicago operators and commission houses forced values down until only a fraction separated the final quotations from the lowest levels reached this season. A lack of foreign demand, gloomy reports as to the French wheat crop this year and continued heavy movement of the spring wheat crop North-West were all weakening factors. Corn was unsettled, but prices averaged higher. Sufficient buying by commission houses developed to more than offset the weakness engendered by the downward trend of wheat.

Wheat closed nervous and unsettled, 1¼c-1½c net lower than Monday's finish. Corn closed ⅛c lower to ¾c-⅞c higher, oats ¼c-⅜c down, and provisions ranged from unchanged to a decline of 17c.

PROTECT THE LITTLE ONES.

The attention of parents of children of pre-school age who have not yet been immunized against diphtheria is called to the fact that inoculation will be given at the public schools of the city to-morrow, the schedule appearing in last evening's Examiner.

The great majority of the children now in attendance at the city schools have been innoculated against diphtheria in other years, and the decrease in the numbers of cases of this disease developing in Peterborough since the immunization first began some years ago is striking proof of the efficacy of the process.

The chief danger of an outbreak is now confined to the younger children, those not yet of school age; that is why an innoculation clinic for these children has been arranged, the inoculation being given without any charge, of course, to the parents.

It is to be hoped that parents of younger children will realize the desirability of having their little ones protected against a serious disease by a process that has been used with complete success in the case of hundreds of Peterborough school children.

If the little folks of pre-school age are immunized this community will have a splendid defence against an epidemic.

FROM FAR AND NEAR.

To amuse, entertain and educate the people of this city and district for a week, features have been brought here from far and near to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

The vaudeville acts come from various circuits in the United States, the wild west rodeo hails from Alberta, the trained horses seen before the grandstand have travelled all the way from Florida, the midway originated in London, Ontario, there are live stock entries and race horses from all over the Province.

All these things and many more have been gathered in Peterborough this week to make the local Exhibition something out of the ordinary, and the variety and extent of the features offered deserve recognition in the only form that means anything—that is by continued patronage during the whole fair.

If you have not yet visited the Exhibition, go down to-night and be thrilled by the vaudeville performance and the stirring riding of those genuine Canadian cowboys from Alberta.

And remember, there are three full days left, crammed full of interesting features.

There will be something doing every minute during the afternoon and evening grandstand peprformances, and in between the concessions and the exhibits provide a worth-while interlude.

THE PREMIER AND THE CONFERENCE.

Premier Bennett has intimated that he does not propose to leave Ottawa to attend the Imperial Conference until the business of the present session of Parliament is completed.

While that declaration is in line with the Premier's frequently repeated campaign statement that the first duty of a Canadian Government is to legislate for Canadians, it is to be hoped that his attendance at the London conference will not be interfered with.

That conference is likely to be of vital importance to this country as well as to all parts of the Empire, and it is most desirable that the Canadian delegation to London should be headed by the Premier himself, whose knowledge not only of Canada but world conditions would be of great value in the deliberations.

It should be possible, if all parties in the House realize the necessity of prompt action, to put into effect the Government's program in time to allow Mr. Bennett and his colleagues to be present at the opening of the Imperial Conference.

There may be features of the Bennett program to which the Opposition may not agree, and they have the right to declare their objections and put themselves on record to that effect, but any prolonged blockade of the Government proposals is likely to be regarded by most Canadians as playing politics at a time when the country expects statesmanship.

SHOULD DEAL WITH THE PARENTS.

The Trades and Labor Congress has decided to call the attention of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association to the large number of children who have been burned to death in Canada recently through being left alone.

The Examiner is glad to note that this condition has been observed by such an influential body, and that steps are being taken to prevent tragedies of this nature which have been all too common in this country in recent years.

Scores of children have been sacrificed by parents who because of sheer lack of thought or of selfishness have put their own pleasure ahead of the safety of their families, and have gone blithely off to attend some social function or entertainment, leaving their children alone in the house and helpless in the event of fire.

There have been numerous cases in which children were not only left alone but were locked in so that their escape was cut off.

The Fire Prevention Association would do well to give earnest attention to the question; in fact, if it were to press for punishment for parents who are so callous about the safety of their children it might do much to eliminate the practice which is indefensible, no matter from what angle it may be viewed.

The courts should be given an opportunity to deal with people who to satisfy their own desire for pleasure desert young children and leave them in danger of being burned to death.

A REAL ENDURANCE TEST.

There have been endurance tests of many kinds, but for real heroism and self-denial it is doubtful if any have equalled that on which eight women of Chicago recently embarked, to ascertain who could remain silent the longest. This surely is unanswerable proof of the statement that there is nothing impossible, but it is, at the same time, a refutation of the old saying that there is nothing new under the sun. We do not believe that in all history can there be found a precedent for the silence contest launched in Chicago.

No doubt the tree sitting, the marathon dancing and other endurance tests which have made this cock-eyed world rub its peepers and take notice, inspired the Chicago girls to embark on one that would be decidedly original. No one before had ever thought of a silence contest for women because apparently no one ever thought it could be done. So the Chicago endurance testers sprang an entirely new one when they decided, voluntarily, be it noted, to hold their peace.

And the strangest thing about the whole contest is that they have succeeded in doing what they set out to do. The latest report said they had been silent for sixty hours!!! One has to pause over this fact in order to drink in its full significance. Translated into minutes and seconds, the feat seems all the more remarkable. It means that for 3,600 minutes, or 216,000 seconds, not a word was spoken by eight women. Surely this is an occasion for the use of exclamation marks.

How they do it, of course, is a puzzle. Deaf and dumb, you suggest. No, apparently not, or if they are, they haven't been found out. The explanation, we think, is that seeking an endurance test that would be a real endurance, they decided on the silence proposition. No one but themselves, and they aren't telling about it, as yet, know what they are suffering in consequence, and, worst of all, in silence. Ordeal by fire would be an easy thing compared to what they have to endure. The despatches do not say if they are married, but if they are, the probability is that the husband of each is praying earnestly that his wife may be able to hold out indefinitely. But Heaven help them after the contest is over.

Those husbands who wake up in the morning to the music of their spouses' voices and wonder if they are talking again or yet, will earnestly hope that one result of this Chicago talkless competition will be the convincing of all women that it is really possible for them to keep silent for a considerable length of time.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

RECKLESS DRIVERS.

Almost every newspaper reaching the Star office during the past week tells of the enormous number of automobile accidents that happened over Labor Day week-end. Is there no way to instill into the minds of drivers the necessity for care and courtesy? Many who are sensible in other matters fail to use their usual good judgment when driving a motor car.

Go out on No. 2 Highway, or No. 3, any evening or on Sunday afternoon. Drive your own machine at around 35 miles per hour. Watch the procession passing you by, "cutting in" and otherwise endangering the lives of themselves and others. Sixty miles to the hour is common practice. One man bragged to the Star recently that he always drives around 70 miles an hour when he has any particular distance to travel. Yesterday this same driver had a blow-out when his speedometer registered 75. Members of his family sat in his car awe-stricken, expecting death. But the only remark the father would make was that he would have had the same result had he been travelling at 35. No one, surely, can be in such a hurry that he would want to imperil the lives of his family by driving at such a breakneck speed.

Michigan drivers seem to be the worst offenders here. Some of them, from the haughty attitude they adopt, would lead one to believe they entertain the idea that when they are in Canada they can bally well do as they please. Twice this year the writer of these lines has been forced into the ditch by Detroiters. Remonstrate with them, and the impertinence they show would be laughable, if the matter were not so serious. The story is told the Star that a few evenings ago a Windsor resident and a companion were driving on No. 2 Highway at a speed of about 30 miles an hour. The traffic was very heavy on that particular night. A Michigan car, notwithstanding the crowded condition of the road, shot past at 60 miles or more per hour. "That man is taking his life in his hands driving at such a speed," the Windsorite remarked. A few miles further on, the Michigan driver was found on the side of the road, his car smashed. Nearby was his victim—a farmer who tried to stay on the same side of the road with the reckless speeder.

* * * *

What the outcome will be, with the tunnel open soon and traffic ever increasing, it is not hard to predict. Extra care will have to be taken by traffic officers to see that the rules of the highway are strictly observed. The pernicious habit of "cutting in" when the path is not clear and unobstructed ahead, must receive especial attention, or the number of accidents will be appalling. It is not so much a question of speed as of rank carelessness and gross indifference to the rights of others. We know plenty of persons who operate their machines in the country at more than the 35-mile-an-hour limit, indeed, nearly everyone does, but who do so with full regard for the elements of safety and with the greatest consideration for themselves, their passengers and other drivers. The attention of the authorities, then, should be concentrated upon recklessness, upon the motorists who seem to lack any measure of common sense, and who persistently take serious chances in a wild desire for rapid progress. Incidentally, it will usually be found that the fellow who is trying to make the fastest time on the road and who, in consequence, takes these reckless chances, is not going anywhere in particular; he is merely "out for a drive" or to "see" the country!—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Put the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition over the top. Remember, more to see and it costs less to see it.

At all events the special session of Parliament got away at a speed that suggests the Government means business.

Rugby practices are under way—an even more convincing sign than the Peterborough Exhibition that summer has fled.

The usual complaint that the early opening of the Canadian National Exhibition hurts the tourist trade is being heard. There is no doubt that the event has considerable effect upon the summer resort season.

It is generally agreed that the grandstand performance at the Peterborough Industrial this year is one of the best in the history of the Exhibition. Don't fail to see these features for yourself.

The Office Hound

THE OFFICE HOUND MURDER CASE

(Concluded)

An hour later, Silo Dance, Inspector Knowall, and Sergeant Beef were coming out of the morgue.

"What makes you connect this with the Office Hound affair, Dance?" demanded the Inspector.

"If it didn't have some connection," Dance responded, "the author wouldn't put it in this story."

"Perhaps he just had this here Arabian drowned to make it look harder," ventured the Sergeant.

"Perhaps," smiled Dance, donning his green whiskers, "but in the meantime I'm going over to interview Mademoiselle X!"

"Mademoiselle X ees not at 'ome, Monsieur," announced the domestic at the door.

"When do you expect her back?" asked the Great Detective.

"I do not know, Monsieur. I do not know where she 'as gone. She leave thees morning early in beeg 'urry before I am up. Jus' take leetle hat-box an' few necessaires, that ees all. . . . "

"I see. . . . By the way, you are French?"

"Oh, oui, Monsieur! My fathair, he was Parisian—ma mere, she was from Algiers!"

Dance's whole body seemed to stiffen. His eyes hardened and shot full into the face of the little domestic. He spoke the next words in a low, distinct monotone.

"Did—you—ever—hear — of— the — Prophet?"

For a moment Dance's two companions thought the girl was going to faint, but she steadied herself by grabbing the detective's green beard.

"No—no—no!" she gasped, turning about, and slamming the door in the faces of the three men.

"Sergeant!" rapped Dance. "Get a line on the actions of Mademoiselle X since early this morning and her present whereabouts! Have your boys cover our friend, Dr. Queen, and that reprobate, Andre! . . . Inspector! Come with me—we've got to work fast!"

That evening Dance and the Inspector were standing on the corner of George and Charlotte watching the traffic unjam itself from two buggies and a kiddie-kar, when a messenger stepped up to the Great Detective and handed him a yellow envelope.

"This is a telegram, Inspector," Dance announced.

The Inspector gasped.

"It's from the Sergeant," continued Dance after he had opened the envelope and read the name at the bottom of the sheet.

This time the Inspector sneezed. As a matter of fact, he had his usual September attack of hay fever, but he was doing his best to conceal the fact.

Dance smiled slyly.

"Got the hay fever, Inspector?" he demanded.

This was too much for the Inspector.

"Yes!" he snapped.

"Too bad!" returned the Great Detective.

"What does the Sergeant say?" asked the Inspector, plying his handkerchief.

Dance read the telegram over carefully before handing it to his companion.

The Inspector read: "TRACED MADEMOISELLE X TO BLISTER BEACH WHERE SHE SEEMS TO BE LYING LOW STOP FIND SHE MADE SMALL PURCHASE IN DRUG STORE AT NOON STOP ADVISE BEEF".

"Was it quite discreet of the Sergeant to send a message like that over an open wire?" asked the Inspector a little testily.

"Well," responded Dance, "as it happens, it doesn't make any difference. If my theory proves correct, the person responsible for this whole affair can neither read nor write!"

At one o'clock the next morning Dance was playing solitaire in his apartment, attended by his model manservant, Whosis, who had temporarily deserted his role of Grand Wizar of Afghanistan.

The telephone rang.

Whosis answered it. . . . "It's The Examiner, sir," he announced, "—for you, sir."

"Dammit!" snapped Dance, bending over his pasteboards. "Why can't they leave me alone when I'm getting this filthy game to come out right for the first time in three years! . . . Tell them to call again in five minutes!"

Two minutes later the door bell rang, and Inspector Knowall and Sergeant Beef entered, looking sheepish. Silo Dance took one look at them and laughed.

"I suppose you've come to tell me the Office Hound wasn't murdered after all," he said.

"We have," grunted the Inspector. "And this the worst thing that has happened to the Department since I took office. . . . Another fiasco like this and I'll have to go back to work!"

Dance leaned back in his chair and lit a cigarette.

"I admit," he smiled, "I was off on the wrong trail there for a while. It wasn't till I got your second wire at ten o'clock, Sergeant, that I saw the light. But the minute I knew that the purchase made in a drug store by Mademoiselle X yesterday noon was a can of flea-powder, I realized that the real Office Hound was hiding out at Blister Beach under the chaperonage of Mademoiselle X, while the supposedly murdered hound under the City Desk was just the body of some old mutt that Andre had procured from the pound.

"Vanity is the key to most mysteries—and it was to this. When the Office Hound became infested with a family of the Arabian Prophet-flea, he betook himself to Blister Beach—which has been deserted since Lady Dribble and her coterie left last week—in order to remain out of sight until he had riddled himself of the unwelcome guests. To cover up the traces, this egg, Andree, engineered the supposed murder."

"But what about the drowned Arabian?" demanded the Sergeant.

"That?" shrugged Dance: "Oh . . . he was probably left over from some other Murder Case!" —Andre.

"Well, that was the situation that confronted us on our arrival. Two things were established at once. Le Bossu Masque had added yet another murder to the long list already to his credit; and the fact that a motor car had been used, and that there were five Apaches in the raid, made it practically certain that the gang involved was le Rossignol's. So the first thing obviously to do was to try and lay that gang by the heels, which should have proved an easy matter. They have their invariable haunts to which they always return sooner or later, and we anticipated no difficulty whatever in catching them. But two days went past; three; a week; and still there was no sign of them. And it became increasingly obvious to me that the reason was simply and solely that they were acting under orders from le Bossu Masque himself it was his brain we were contending against—not theirs.

"Then came a new development. In a wood not far from Chartres a shepherd found a deserted motor-car. It had been forced in through some undergrowth, and was completely hidden from the road. Indeed, but for the fact that he thought he had seen a snake, and had gone into the bushes after it, the car might have remained there for months without being discovered. Of the gang, however, there was still no trace, nor of the loot they had taken—loot which, on the Prince's cousin's valuation, was worth, at a conservative estimate, half a million pounds.

"And then at last came the final developent of all. The telephone bell rang in our office, and a voice came over the wire. It was disguised, but not quite sufficiently. Before he had said a sentence I knew it was the Toad speaking, though I didn't let on that I knew. And his information was to the effect that le Rossignol's gang were lying up in a wood halfway between Mamers and Alencon. He was speaking from a public telephone call office so it was hopeless to try and track him through that. But I passed on the word that the Toad was back in Paris, and sat down to think it out.

"If you look at the map you will see that the wood mentioned by the Toad is some sixty miles west of Chateaudun, while the wood where the car was found is about twenty miles due north. That seemed peculiar in the first place. In the second, what had caused the Road to split? That it was quite in keeping with his nature I knew, but the Toad never did anything without a reason. And what was the reason in this case? Why had he turned traitor? Was he doing it on his own account, or was he doing it under orders from le Bossu Masque? Had that gentleman decided that now the cat had pulled the chestnut out of the fire for him, its services could very well be dispensed with?

"However, the first thing to be done was to verify the Toad's information. The wood he mentioned was surrounded by a cordon of armed police, who gradually closed in on the centre. And what he had told us proved correct. The gang was there; at least, three of them were. Who fired the first shot I don't know, but men's fingers are quick on the trigger in cases like that. Sufficient to say that two of the police were killed, and two were wounded, before the three bandits fell riddled with bullets. Finding themselves cornered, half starving, dirty, and unkempt the Snipe, the Butcher, and the man called Robert fought like rates in a trap and died. But of the Nightingale there was no trace. Nor, again, was there any sign of the stolen property, though we searched the wood with a fine-tooth comb. And so there we were up against a brick wall once again. It was true that three of the gang were dead, but they were the three least important ones. Le Bossu Masque had completely vanished so had both the Nightingale and the Toad. Had they split up the loot between them, or what had they done with it? Were they hanging together or had they fallen out? Those were the questions we constantly asked one another, and as constantly failed to answer.

"And then, one day about a fortnight after the fight in the wood, we caught the Nightingale. With his voice and terrible appearance he was altogether too conspicuous a character to escape notice. And the police found him hiding in a back slum in Rouen, and promptly despatched him to us in Paris, where he first of all told us that part of his story that I have already told you.

"If you remember, we left him and his gang at Chateaudun putting up in the two hotels of the town, and having arrived there on the day of the Prince's party. They were completely in the dark as to what their further orders were to be all they had to do was to sit and wait. Their instructions come to them at eight o'clock that night, and were simple in the extreme. They were to wait until eleven, and were then to proceed by car to the Chateau du Lac Noir. The motor was to be left in the shadow of some trees a hundred metres from the front door, and they were to remain hidden in the trees, also, until they saw a light flash twice from the bedroom window over the front door. They were then to proceed to the back door, where they would again receive instructions.

"They waited until, at two-thirty, they saw the light. When they got to the back door they found it open, and confronting them in the darkness of the passage the dim black figure of the Bossu Masque, who ordered them to pick up some coils of rope and follow him.

"They obeyed: as le Rossignol said—'Messieurs, we dared not do otherwise. We were more frightened of le Bossu Masque than of all the fiends in hell.'

"Suddenly he flung open the door into a lighted room, and there confronting them they saw the four men-servants, who, following the example of those upstairs, were a bit fuddled themselves. Incidentally, of course, we knew all this part of the story already. But confirmation is always valuable, and we thought it a good thing to let him tell the yarn in his own way. They trussed the servants up, and then they received their final instructions. When they heard a shot they were to go straight into the banqueting-hall: the Snipe and he were to cover the guests, the other three were to loot the place. And he told us then exactly the same story as we had already heard from the guests.

"So far, so good—but what we wanted to know was still to come.

"'Be very careful now, Rossignol,' said Grodin sternly. 'You have spoken the truth up to date: see that you continue doing so.'

"'By the Holy Virgin, M'sieur,' he exclaimed passionately, 'no word but the truth shall pass my lips. And if it does then may I be stricken dead, and have to forego my revenge on that festering sore le Crapeau.'

"Grodin glanced at me—that was a bit of news. But he merely told le Rossignol curtly to continue.

"It appeared, then, that the Snipe, the Butcher and Robert were to find their way by cross-country trains to Mamers, from which place they were to go to a wood between there and Alencon.

"'And of those three, Messieurs, I can tell you no more. I saw in the paper that they were dead. How, if I may ask, did you find them?'

"'The Toad gave them away,' I said quietly, and for a moment we thought he was going to have an apoplectic fit. The veins stood out on his forehead, and a flood of the most filthy blasphemy poured out of his lips. We let him finish: as far as his feelings about the Toad were concerned, we had a certain sympathy with him.

"At last he pulled himself together and continued. His orders and the Toad's were to take the car, with the loot inside it, on the road towards Chartres. After they had gone twenty kilometres, they would find a track leading off to the right. They would know it because there were three tall trees at the junction. They were to proceed along this track for two kilometres, where they would find a disused quarry. In the quarry was a shed, and in that shed they were to put the car. Under no circumstances were they to move out of the quarry, or light a fire, or attract attention to themselves in any way. But if, by any chance, they were discovered by some wandering pedestrian, the pedestrian was to wander no more. And they would receive further instructions in due course.

"Now I may say at once that we subsequently verified this statement. We found the track, and the quarry, and the actual wheelmarks of the car in the shed.

"Well, it appeared that they sat there the whole of the next day. They had the bread and cheese and wine which le Bossu Masque had ordered them to put in the car, so they were not hungry. And, incidentally, it struck me, even at the time, what astounding attention to detail that little fact showed. For if there is one thing that will overcome fear it is hunger, and but for having given them food one or other of them would most certainly have gone to the nearest village to get it.

"I will now try and continue in the Nightingale's own words.

"'It was about six o'clock, M'sieurs, that it happened. The sun was just setting, so I know the time. I had risen and was standing in the door of the shed, wondering what we should next be told to do. Suddenly I received the most terrible blow in the back of the neck, and I knew no more.'

"We looked at his neck, and there was an ugly looking scar about two inches long. In fact, anyone except an abnormality like the Nightingale would never have known any more.

"'When I recovered consciousness,' he went on, 'it was dark. At first I didn't know where I was, everything was a blank. And then, little by little, memory came back to me. The quarry—the affair at the chateau—the car. Mon Dieu! M'sieurs—sick and faint, I raised myself on my elbow. The car had gone: so had le Crapeau. I was alone in the shed. How long I had lain there I knew not: some hours, because the sky was studded with stars. And then there came a voice out of the darkness, and I nearly fainted with horror.

"'"Rossignol," it said "where is the car?"'

"'I was not alone: le Bossu Masque was there too.

"'"M'sieur," I cried, "I do not know. That accursed traitor le Crapeau struck me from behind with what must have been a spanner. See—I am wet with blood."'

"And, in truth, I was, gentlemen—soaked with it—my coat, my shirt, everything.'

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Thought

THE GAME OF LIFE.

My experience has taught me that life is a great team game. The decisive thing in the world is character; but character does not come by chance, nor are we born with it. It has to be built up, just as a football team is assembled, every member of the team being carefully selected and placed in the position where he can be of the greatest service to his side. Now every man has to choose his own team. In mine I would place Hope in goal, simply because, apart from Hope, no real success is possible. I do not think I could do better than have Watchfulness and Determination as full backs, responsible for the ultimate defence of a goal.

For half-backs my selection would be Courage and Work as left and right halves respectively, and Self-Control I would place as centre-half one of the most important positions on the field. In the game of Life each man is captain of his own team, and he alone is responsible for selecting it. If I could get the ear of any individual captain I would say to him, "You can never afford for one single minute to let Self-Control stand down and Self-Indulgence take place; to do so must mean disaster."

It is a great thing in any team to have a strong defence; but apart from strong attack it is impossible to play a winning game. In my team I should want to have Faith and Truth as the two wing players; with Temperance and Purity as inside left and right—for without purity of life it is impossible to secure any real success. For centre-forward, the pivot of the team, my choice would be what Drummond called "the greatest thing in the world"—Love. I would interpret that sacred word by Him in whom the love of God was made flesh and dwelt among us.—Sir Arthur Yapp in The Service of Youth.

What To-day Means To You.

If September 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., and 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p.m., and 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Self controls and Fate controls will be strongly opposing forces in your life on this date. You will very narrowly escape very good fortune, or an equally great disappointment—one or the other will cross your path. Do not seek outside counsel! Very materialistic thoughts.

The child born on this September 10th will have a proud and vindictive nature, and an assertive will power. Much of its fate and many events of his life will come about through people, especially friends. It will have a wavering temperament, receptive to big ideas and ambitions, but incapable of carrying them out.

The very nicest and most boosting gift which nature has given you is your faith—both personal and providential. The faith in your fellow-men is a blessing to you and to them also, for you are looking for the good in others, and you usually find it. You go on, when others might turn back, because you believe in your own abilities and good judgment, and in the higher laws of justice and right. The pin of your good humour is always ready to prick troubles as big as balloons.

You are a disciplined being in every sense of the word. You have the ability to make yourself do the things you have to do, when they have to be done, whether you like it or not. You are not afraid or ashamed to do work, no matter how menial. Your associates are ready to follow your example. You are clean in your mind, frank in your manner, true in your friendship; in your behaviour, honest and reliable.

As a friend you can be leant against, but never sat on. You are not an oak for clining vines, and you are sensible not to allow others to sap your strength or mentality. Strong, yourself, you admire strength in others. You have old-fashioned ideas about love, home and family.

INOCULATION IN CITY SCHOOLS TO START THURSDAY MORNING

Children of Pre-school Age Are Also Included in Program.

NO SERIOUS RE-ACTION.

Inoculation for diphtheria among school children and children of pre-school age will commence in the Public schools to-morrow morning. The following schedule has been drawn up by the doctor and nurses, giving the time at each school: Central, 10 a.m.; Queen Mary, 10.30 a.m.; Prince of Wales, 10.45 a.m.; King Edward, 2.30 p.m.; South Central 3.00 p.m.; Queen Alexandra, 3.00 p.m.; King George 3.20 p.m.

Parents are urged to send their children of pre-school age to the schools to-morrow so that they may be inoculated. "Infants of nine months and up should be inoculated," stated Dr A. W. McPherson. "The younger the child the less disturbance and never yet have we had a serious disturbance in all our series of inoculations of between three and four thousand Peterborough children."

Children not accompanied by their parents must bring a note giving authority to the doctor to inoculate, otherwise they will not be done.

These inoculations will be made at two week intervals. The others will take place on September 25 and October 9. By that time the inoculations will be fully completed.

BORDEN TO MAKE LEAGUE SPEECH

Debate on Briand's United Europe Scheme Opens Thursday.

GRANDI GOES HOME.

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada and now the Dominion's delegate to the League of Nations expects to make his first speech in the Assembly tomorrow when M. Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, plans to outline his scheme for an European Federation of States.

Tomorrow's debate on the Briand project will probably be one of the most important in the history of the League.

Today's opening proceedings of the Assembly proved to be largely of a routine nature with the business confined to the election of M. Nicholas Titulescu, Roumanian Minister to London, as president of the Assembly for a year.

The departure for Rome this morning of S. Dino Grandi, the Italian Foreign Minister, caused some little stir in League circles. The Italian delegation, however, stated he had been recalled to deal with urgent business at home. He left Senator Scioloja as chief of the delegation.

Gas Fumes in Silo Take Four Lives

HEBRON, N. D., Sept. 10. — Poisonous fumes, which turned a silo into a turret of death, had claimed five members of the Tony Neidhardt family today.

The victims were Tony Neidhardt, Hebron farmer, and four of his children, two sons and two daughters who died in a vain attempt to save their father from the methane gas vapors. George, 24, was taken unconscious from the silo yesterday, but died while physicians were attempting to save his life.

No inquest will be held, the coroner said, as the deaths were obviously caused by methane or marsh gas generated in cornstalks.

WILL PROBE MILK PRICE IN TORONTO

Rumor Powdered Milk Used to Increase Supply When Scarce.

CONTROL BOARD'S ORDERS.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.).—The Board of Control to-day passed a motion calling for an investigation into the price of milk in the city. The resolution moved by Con. Claude Pearce reads: "That whereas it has been stated by competent authority that the milk distributors pay the producers 4½ cents a quart for their milk, and the consumers pay 12½ cents a quart for the same.

"And whereas it has been stated that at times powdered milk is used by some dairies to increase the supply.

"Therefore be it resolved, that the medical officer of health be instructed to collect data from the distributors and the producers of milk as to the cost of the production and distribution, with a view to ascertaining if the spread between the two prices mentioned is justified, and to taking such action as is necessary to protect the consumers if prices charged are found to be unreasonable, also that the medical officer of health report as to what extent, if any, powdered milk is used to increase the supply of milk when a scarcity exists.

50 HOLSTEIN COWS ARE ORDERED FOR CHINA

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 10. (C.P.) The Holstein Freisian Association of Canada has received an order for fifty cows and heifers to be shipped to China about Decembers first. They will be bought in Alberta and British Columbia. The Association reports that since January first, 2,107 head of pure bred Holsteins have been exported from Canada to the United States.

NICKEL GAINS TO NEW HIGH

GENERAL LIST FIRM.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (C.P.) — Active turnover of International nickel shot that stock up above 27 on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. That is the highest price attained since the stock sold down around 21. Bullish activities in New York were given as behind the rise here.

The remainder of the market was firm but lacked outstanding advances. Brazilian Traction made a fractional gain on a fair turnover, but the stock was still below its recent high. Consumers' Gas made a new high for the year 192. C.P.R. Ford, Gypsum were unchanged. Foods eased slightly from the close of last night and the farm implement stocks were hesitant, Massey-Harris off slightly, Cockshutt and Waterloo inactive.

Oils were slower to-day. Imperial made a further gain but B. A. Oil and International Petroleum at best but held their own. Walkers sold at 81½, off slightly.

LOW TREND IN WESTERN OILS

Dome, Hollinger and McIntyre Among Issues to Advance in Gold Section.

NICKEL IN DEMAND.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10. (C.P.)—Though trading was not as brisk during the early period to-day as in yesterday's session, strength in the golds gave the mining board a bright appearance that was only partially offset by a reactionary trend among western oils.

The following months of preparation the New York Mining Exchange was scheduled to open to-day, and Canadian traders were watching the market closely for indications of the effect of this development on local issues. It is admitted the new exchange will provide a wider market for mining securities at a time when public participation here is at an extremely low point.

Dome Mines, up a half to $9.50, and the higher prices golds generally, was the centre of attention. Hollinger, at $6.10, and McIntyres, 5 $19.15, were up a quarter each from last night, and Teck Hughes, Lake Shore and Sylvanite displayed small advances. Howey, Siscoe and Big Missouri were off a point each while Oriole, a recent feature, was conspicuous by its absence, having been suspended from trading by Standard Exchange direxors.

Nichel in Demand.

International Nickel met good demand from the opening had gained a point by noon. Noranda, selling ex-dividend to-day, was off a fraction at $23.85. Sudbury Basin and Sherritt Gordon both strengthened 5 to $1.20 and $1.35, respectively, and other base metals were firm.

In the oils Nordon was steady and Ajax Oil moved up 10 to $2.05. Home Oil led the western issues downward, however, easing a quarter to $3.75 as a result of profit-taking following recent gains. Mayland sold off 15 to 85 and Calmont 10 ta 75. Alberta Pacific, Dalhousie, Chemical Research and East Crest showed losses ranging from 2 to 5 cents.

ROMAN VILLA IS FOUND IN SPAIN

Six Tombs With Skeletons Dug Up in Suburb of Madrid.

RELICS UNCLASSIFIED.

MADRID, Sept. 10.— (A.P.)— An achaeologi cal discovery which has attracted interest throughout Spain was being investigated to-day in the Madrid suburb of Las Carolinas.

Six tombs containing several skeletons, apparently those of Roman citizens, the remains of a Roman villa, with still more ancient remains underneath, have been uncovered in a gravel pit. The more ancient relics still remain unclassified, but some observers believed they represented a prehistoric settlement.

The discovery has received extraordinary publicity. Since ancient remains, of one kind or another, are being dug up constantly, the newspaper El Debate has proposed that Madrid declare itself "the capital of the prehistoric world" alnd organize an exhibition of prehistoric museum exhibits.

The paper proposed adequate appropriations for thorough scientific excavations around Madrid. Many believe that rich archaeological material, both Roman and prehistoric, exists in this vicinity. They think it possible that fossils dating back to the earliest stone age can be found.

SPECULATORS INTERESTED IN THE OPENING OF NEW YORK MINE MART

To Ride a Bronco

E. Kennedy, a youthful visitor to Peterborough Fair, who hails from Toronto, has signified his willingness to ride one of Welsh Brothers' broncbos to-night.

Anyone who witnessed the attempts of experienced riders to retain a seat on the backs of one of the outlaws last evening, will wonder at the young man's trepidity.

In conversation with The Examiner, Kennedy nonchalantly affirmed that he is determined to make the atempt and is confident that he will be able to put up a good bid for the prize of $100 offered to anyone who can ride a broncho under Calgary rules for 12 seconds.

GENERAL PUBLIC IS RATHER COLD TO N. Y. MARKET

Advance, While Limited, Was Broad, Embracing Most Sections of List.

ALLIED CHEMICAL UP 5.

Utilities and Merchandising Issues Are in Demand on Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. (C.P.)—Cheered by further improvement in business statistics, professional speculators continued for the fifth successive day to make bullish ddmonstrations in the stock market to-day, but the general public still remained rather cold to equity shares.

The advance, while limited, was broad, embracing most sections of the list. Utilities, merchandising issues and several of the manufacturing issues were in particular demand, and rails showed a better tone. Such shares as American Can, Radio, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, General Electric, National Biscuit and Paramount gained a point or more. Shares selling up 2 to more than 3 included Byers, Spang Chalfant, American Power and Light, Vanadium, Pacific Lighting, Atchison, and Union Pacific Allied chemical sold up nearly 5.

Continental Baking shares were fiem, on announcement of the sale of interests in Commander-Labaree Corporation. Wark Baking "A" sold up a few points. While rumors of an actual merger of Ward with Gold Dust have been denied, some sort of alignment is looked for. Diamond Match sold off further, reflecting denial by the Kreuger interests of any intention or purchasing a large interest in it.

Call money held at 2½ per cent, with an easier undertone. The piling up of funds incident to the September 15 government operations is expected to flood money the market with funds.

ITALIAN CLAIMS CURE FOR CANCER IS FOUND

BOLZANO, Italy, Sept. 10. (A.P.)—A purported cure for cancer was communicated to the Congress for the advancement of science here today by Prof. Fichera of the Milan cancer institute.

After ten years of specialised work Fichera says he has a definite cure of the terrible malady that has baffled so many scientists and doctors.

The cure consists in the injection of a chemical under the skin of the patient. The chemical is said to work its way to the tumor and gradually destroy it, leaving only a scar.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Street of Opinion New Exchange Will Have Constructive Influence on Issues.

ABANA CONTROL STRUGGLE.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (Special to Examiner.)—Following several months of preparation the New York mining exchange is scheduled to start operating to-day and the street is watching carefully for indications of the effect of this broader market for mining securities on prices of local issues. While somewhat uncertain regarding actual results to be expected, the fraternity is of the opinion the new exchange cannot but have a constructive influence supplying an increased interest at a time when public participation on this side of the border is at an exceptionally low point.

The rather spectacular struggle which took place over a year ago in connection with control of Abana seems likely to be repeated in the near future as once more a committee of shareholders is working in opposition to policies adopted by the management. The chief objection now raised is in connection with the agreement entered into with mining corporation by which the later organization takes charge of development. It is stated that when Mining Corporation completed its work Abana will be obligated to offer a larger amount. It is suggested, according to financial counsil that Abana should insist on the carrying out syndicate agreement for purchase of 500,000 shares at $1 per share. It is reported little more than half this stock has been taken up and that if purchase of the remainder were enforced Abana would have adequate capital to start milling operations and also continue development work. The concentrator is practically completed and many shareholders apparently feel is should be brought into production in spite of current metal prices. The question of the delay in holding the annual meeting of the company also has been raised.

Reports from the north to-day carry word of an important find in Keefer township west of Timmins. Details are lacking but is understood Hollinger or interests associated with the company are negotiating a deal for the property. Another report states work by Dome mines on the Dome extension claims has resulted in important developments that may or may not have had something to do with the recent strength in the stock.

While no official statement has been made regarding the investment of the Castle Trethewey surplus, amounting to a considerable sum, it is understood this has been partially invested in shares of leading mining companies and that returns in the form of dividends are attaining important proportions. Improvement in market conditions should also result in market appreciation for these holdings which might permit a good profit on the transaction.

FIRST FREIGHTER USES NEW CANAL

Steamer Georgian in Unofficial Welland Opening Passes Through Lock 7.

EVENT KEPT SECRET.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 10. — (CP) — The steamer Georgian, which last April opened navigation on the southern section of the Welland ship canal, being the first craft to enter lock one at Port Weller, this morning completed the unofficial opening of the deep waterway by passing down lock 7 and flight locks 4, 5 and 6. Captain Hudson again had his craft fully decked with flags. The Georgian was followed by the Livingston and Torondoc. Mrs. Alex Grant, wife of the Chief Engineer of the canal was at the controls of lock 7 and locked the Georgian through to the level which leads to the flight locks. The opening had been kept a carefully guarded secret. Only the few members of the official party and a handful of workmen being aware that it was to occur this morning. No effort was made to beat records as far as time was concerned although the Georgian will in future use the new short route through the lift locks.

LIBERALS OPPOSE

either the validity of their attitude or the invalidity of his own.

As soon as the Government took office, the Prime Minister went on, it had set in motion machinery to enable it to secure information relative to unemployment conditions in the country. The next step was to summon the employment service council of Canwma into conference. Mr. Bennett detailed the composition of this body. For two days the council had discussed unemployment and made recommendations which were unanimous.

Confidence in Leader.

Confidence in their leader, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King was expressed to-day by the Liberal members of the House of Commons and the Senate at a joint caucus. Complete endorsation was made of his leadership and of his campaign in the last election.

The caucus passed the following resolution::

The Liberal members of the Senate and of the House of Commons feel great admiration for the magnificent battle he has fought for the cause of Liberalism in very difficult circumstances, and have the utmost confidence in his leadership.

They view with alarm the attempt of the new Tory Government to capitalize the present worldwide economic depression for the purpose of applying doctrines and policies calculated to serve special interests, but are firmly convinced that the people of Canada will soon realise that such policies will only hamper the progress and the advancement of our fine country, and that Liberal ideals and Liberal principles will be vindicated and will ultimately dominate the policies of Canada.

Hon. Charles Marcil, a former Speaker of the House of Commons, presided at the caucus. He has held this party position for a number of year. Altogether the Caucus to-day lasted nearly three hours, most of the time was taken up introducing the new members and determining a general line of action to be pursued by the Opposition at the present session of Parliament.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

In brisk early trading, wheat futures settled fractionally lower and were about ¾cents lower in the opening period. Hedging pressure was not conspicuous but bearish sentiment was occasioned by weakness at Liverpool and the almost negligible export business worked overnight. Foreign buyers appeared to be working on a hand to mouth basis, which was discouraging in view of the heavy situation in North America following the early substantial movement of new wheat, particularly in the west. Pit operations were not so active as the market progressed but in spasmodic trading, prices worked towards lower levels and at mid-session were 1½ cents below the previous close. Thereafter a sagging tendency was noticeable, due to the absence of good support and the seasons low points were almost reached although just prior to close moderate short covering caused a minor fractional upturn. Beunos Aires opened sharply higher after the two day holiday but this strength was more or less ignored. Chicago did a little buying here early and New York houses also took the May, but outside interest generally was light. The whole trend of the local market hinged around the poor support which was occasioned by the lack of any constructive news and the fear of hedging pressure. Country deliveries were a little smaller but the total of 6,658,000 bushels of wheat marketed Tuesday in the west was still impressive. The demand for cash wheat was fair, with millers and shippers in market for all grades at spreads unchanged to ½ better on some lower grades. Due to the minor recovery in the closing minutes, the market closed steady but net declines ranged from 1½ to 1¼ cents.

Coarse Grains.

These markets showed no improvement with very little business of any kind reported. Weakness in wheat was a factor but declines were less marked. Oats closed 5-8 to ¾ lower. Barley unchanged to 1-8 lower and Rye 1-8 to 3-8 lower.

Flax.

Very little doing in this commodity, final quotations showing a decline of ½ to 1-8 cents.

Liverpool due 3-8 to ¼ lower, based on Winnipeg.

THREE AUTOS IN CRASH

Three motor cars figured in a smash-up on the Lakefield road at 1:30 this morning, when one car stopped to lend aid to another which had rolled in the ditch.

About five miles out the road the touring driven by Gordon Smith rolled into the ditch. Vincent Crowley, coming along a few minutes later, stopped his car on the road to give assistance. His car was badly bumped by another car driven by Orville Benns.

No one was injured in the triple crash, but there was a great deal of shiny metal twisted and bent.

HOLD JOLLY MEETING.

A jolly meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Outdoor Club was held last evening at Crawford's Grove with Miss C. F. Littlefield in charge. Cars met the girls at 6 o'clock and by 6.30 the corn was merrily boiling and all were enjoying the camp fire supper. Stunts, sing-song and games followed until 9 p.m., when cars arrived to bring the picnicers safely back.

Plans for the last outing of the season were talked over and definite announcement will be made later. It is hoped an afternoon trip to camp can be arranged.

Fall and winter activities at the "Y" were outlined and a hearty invitation extended to every girl to come and bring others. Special attention was called to the fact that swimming lessons should all be completed this month, but the pool will remain open for swimmers and life-saving classes until the end of November.

MAJOR C. SIFTON BREAKS LEG.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.).—Major Clifford Sifton suffered a fractured leg when putting one of his hunters over hurdles at Beverley Farm, near Aurora, to-day. He is now in the General Hospital, and his condition is said to be satisfactory.

JUNIOR JUDGING COMPETITION DRAWS BIG ENTRY LIST AT FAIR

193 ENTERED.

Conducted under the supervision of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the livestock judging competition, which was in full swing at an early hour this morning, gives ample proof of the impetus which has been given to stock breeding in this and the surrounding counties in recent years, by the various activities designed to encourage the best principles of agriculture and stock raising among the young farmers.

Inaugurated last year in this district by the Exhibition Board in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, the entry list this year gives signs of a rapid and healthy growth in interest. Similar competitions and activities have been a feature of the Toronto, Ottawa and London shows for some years past, but on account of the distance did not draw a very large number of entries from Central Ontario, hence the establishment of a judging competition for the Junior Farmers of this section.

Started on Beef Cattle.

In the Livestock Judging Competitions which are under the direction of J. E. Whitelock, assistant director of agricultural representatives from the head office in Toronto, competition is exceedingly keen. Commencing at 9.30 this morning beef cattle occupied the ring and was followed throughout the day by dairy cattle, swine, sheep and heavy horses. The boys are scored on the judging, being allowed twenty minutes to place each class and to make notes. Prizes are awarded on the basis of 100 points—placing, 50; reasons, 50.

Immediately following the judging of the beef cattle, photographs were taken by Kenneth Baker of this city, of the boys at work. He is also scheduled to take further group pictures of junior farmer activities throughout the day.

Great credit for the success of the Livestock Judging Competition must go to the agricultural representatives of the United Counties, which includes J. B. Nelson of Peterborough, E. S. Summers of Durham County, M. H. Winter of Victoria County, Walter H. Smith of Northumberland County and F. J. Webster of Prince Edward County, whose indefatigable efforts in all things for the furtherance of agriculture are too well known to need further remark.

Inter-County Bacon Hog Competition.

Possibly the most marked results are to be noted in the work of the Inter-County Bacon Hog Competition—a competition designed to encourage the juniors in the breeding, feeding, management and marketing of swine. The competition was launched last year as a joint activity of the Canadian Packing Company, the Peterborough Exhibition Board and the Ontario Federal Departments of Agriculture, largely through the initiative of D. A. McKinnon, Dominion Hog Grader, who made the suggestion and who received the whole-hearted co-operation of Gordon Matthews of the C.P.C., and officials of the Agricultural Department.

In conversation with the Examiner this morning Mr. McKinnon declared himself as highly satisfied with the results of this year's efforts. The general quality is much better than last year, he stated and the boys are to be congratulated on their fine showing.

The competition is double the size of last year, having a total of 64 entries this year out of 73 hogs which were placed in the care of the boys by C.P.C. in the spring of this year.

It will be recalled that in April last boys from each of the Counties of Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough and Victoria took into their care a pair of hogs each, which they undertook to feed and exhibit in competition at this fair. On that occasion the young hogs were treated for worms and were given a tonic by Dr. Lionel Stevenson, Provincial Zoologist. The doctor also lectured the boys on hog diseases and pointed out several ways in which they could safeguard the health of their hogs. Results along this line have fully justified the efforts expended, not one case of worms being reported by any of the boys. When the hogs left the plant of the C.P.C. their average weights were from 25-40 lbs each, now the average weight of each hog is arond 200 lbs.

In accordance with rules of the competition each of the boys has submitted an essay of about 400 words, giving his experience with his pair of hogs. Judging commenced at 11.30 this morning and the prize winners will probably be announced to-night.

The judges are L. W. Pearsall, director of Ontario Hog graders, and Dan Learch of the Ontario Farmer, formerly one of Ontario's outstanding Yorkshire breeders.

Following the fair, the boys will return home with their hogs, which will be bred and the progeny exhibited under similar rules at next year's fair.

The members of the Boys' Hog Club is as follows:

Peterborough County — Maynard Evans, Indian River; Joseph Cavanagh and Arthur Crough of Ennismore; Stewart Dawson and Joseph Lynch of Peterborough; Wm. Kempt, Keene; Edward O'Toole, Peterborough; Boyd Renwick, Keene; William Mildenhall, Indian River; Garnet Patton and Stanley Dunsford of Peterborough.

Durham County — Carl Porteous, Cavan; Jay Whittington, South Monaghan; Elwood Gray, Port Hope; Clifford Larmer, Fraserville; Harry McCamus, Ida; Gerald Larmer and Kenneth Fallis of Millbrook; Mervin Smith, Cavan and George Neals, Bethany.

Victoria County —Allen Wilson, Lindsay; Lorne Smith, Sonya; Wm. Weir, John Sanderson, William Chattan, Lloyd Hard, James Johnston and Edmund Ruth of Omemee and Kenneth McMann, Reaboro'.

Concluding Fourth Year

The Smith Township Ayreshire Heifer Club is concluding its four years' official existence with the close of the Fair this year. Almost all the original members of the club, which was inaugurated four years ago are still in the running and a fine card of entries is the result this year. The club was formed under the Dominion Livestock Branch and Ayrshire Association in conjunction with the Peterborough Fair Board, to encourage the breeding by young farmers of Ayreshire cattle. The original stock for the club was purchased at cost price and has been exhibited from year to year along with the progeny.

Roy Wheeler of Bridgenorth, a young farmer, has had marked success, having built up a herd of six Ayreshire cows, no less marked has been the success of the majority of the members who are now established breeders and who will be able to continue the work started by the club as a whole, without further supervision.

The club boasts one lady member, namely Miss Margaret Mann of Bridgenorth whose father is an Ayreshire breeder of note. Her brother Clarence is also a member of the club. The original membership includes, Harry Jackson, president, of Omemee; Earl Roseborough, R. R. 4, Peterborough; Gordon Kidd, Lakefield; Aubrey Blakeley, Lakefield; Dawson Paul, Peterborough; Thos. Jones, R. R. 2, Omemee; Marvin McCarrol, Omemee; Fred Anderson, R. R. 2, Peterborough; Alex Tyres of Peterborough.

At this year's show, the club has seventeen head of Ayrshires. The herd bull was placed at the disposal of the club by the Dominion Livestock Department.

The Peterborough Holstein Heifer Club, organized in 1929, has an entry of six cows and six calves.

This club was also inaugurated as a means of stimulating the interest of the young farmers in the breeding of pure-bred stock. The nucleus of the herd was supplied by the Holstein Association, in conjunction with the Dominion Live Stock Branch and the Peterborough Fair Board.

The members exhibiting are Lloyd Stinson, Gordon Stocker and Ralph Scott of Peterborough, while other members of the club include Eddie Bowman of Peterborough, Elwood Dunsford of Lakefield, and Don Moore of Peterborough. This is the first occasion in which the club has appeared in competition.

much in evidence last night. Not handsome by any means, but just how dependable was evident in more than one way. Thin, wiry, tense, "rarin' to go," the old black, twenty-two years of age, proved an integral part of her master's performance. Her predecessor, according to Jose, was "Mademoiselle," who retired from active western riding last year at the noble age of twenty-four years and then decided to start raising a family.

The length of the program last night prevented the demonstration of several of the daring events scheduled for this western stampede performance. At other afternoon and evening exhibitions this week, further stunts will be pulled off, including chuck wagon racing with a promised startling and unexpected denouement; steer riding, when the favorite pastime of "bulldogging" the animal will be demonstrated; Roman standing racing pony express and double deck broncho riding.

These are our own Canadian cowboys with their own well-kept, wiry western ponies, doing real cowboy stunts on a real track, with the real western drawl and mild friendliness behind their stern exteriors. If you don't see them you'll miss a lot.

THREE FIREMEN

internes. Their condition is not serious.

The flames had worked their way to the roof of the building before being discovered by the employees of the company. The first firemen to arrive on the scene confined their work to stopping the blaze from spreading to other sections of the warehouse, while a second and third alarm were turned in for additional equipment. With the arrival of the latter tons of water were poured into the affected structure, and in two hours time the blaze was brought under control.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

R. A. Daly Company in their June letters pointed out that the two fundamental factors in the determination of bond status interest rates and commodity prices indicated higher bond prices. Since that time, the market on government and municipal bonds has reacted to these conditions and appreciated considerably.

The most recent issue of this company's bond letter goes on to say usually an extended advance in prices on the part of government and municipal issue followed by an improvement in the prices of high grade public utility and industrial bonds. There is evidence that this is already in progress. During recent weeks, there has been a large demand for the better public utility issues. In fact the prices on some have moved forward sympathetically with the government and municipal market.

Honey Dew in Great Britain.

A Canadian syndicate has been formed to own and control in Great Britain, the rights for the manufacture and sale of the soft drink known as Honey Dew. The syndicate will have an authorized capital consisting of 250 non cumulative preference shares of a par value of $100 each and 100,000 common shares of no par value. Head office will be in Toronto. The syndicate is a private venture to promote the sale of Honey Dew in Great Britain and has no connection with Honey Dew, Limited.

Carelessness in not collecting bonds, interest and other payments when due is resulting in considerable loss in interest for Canadian investors and there are millions of dollars in bonds called for redemption that has not been collected and in the hands of the trustees. At the special general meeting of stockholders, for the winding up of the Toronto Railway Company the liquidator D. H. McDougall, mentioned there were a number of shareholders who had failed to collect the payments being made on account of capital return. Over 100 failed to take advantage of the first distribution of $110 and this was increased to nearly 600 when the second payment was disbursed. After a period of years, the funds not collected from the liquidator will be turned over to the movement and shareholders having a claim against the company after that date will have to place their claims before the department. In the case of the Toronto Railway Company shareholders should remember that it is necessary to send the certificate to the trust company for collection of the amount to be paid and not wait for the company to send out cheque.

National Wealth of Canada, exclusive of undeveloped natural resources, is placed by the official statistics of the Dominion at approximately $28,940,000,000 this estimated, which is for the year 1928 shows an increase of four per cent over 1921. The Canadian Pacific review for September draws attention to these figures and points out that among the province, Ontario ranked first in regard to aggregate wealth while on a per capital basis British Columbia came at the head of the list. Qggregate wealth of Ontario was placed at $9,892,000,000 or 34.18 per cent of the total. Quebec came second with $7,302,000,000 or 25.23 per cent. Saskatchewan was third with a percentage of 10.63 on a per capital British Columbia showed an estimate of $4,369, Alberta $3,717, Saskatchewan $3,613. Ontario was fourth with $3,063.

Persistent strength of the Canadian markets for the past week has resulted in a keener interest in local securities and while the public has not as yet entered the market on a large scale, brokers report an improvement in actual participation and increased enquiries. These enquiries have broadened out to take in a wider list and a great many have resulted in the placing of orders for a selected group of small lots rather than a large block of a single security. Much of the increased demand has centered in the oils which have been deranging close to bottom for the year. Canadian oil stocks, having been subdivided on former occasions, to-day are selling at prices that permit of the small investor spreading his funds to purchase the shares of two or three concerns. A large portion of the current demand is for cash but there is also a limited amount of speculation and this is being readily financed, while brokers are not demanding unusually large margin clients are seeing that their accounts are well protected in eliminating the possibility of distress liquidation.

FORD IS THE LEADER IN AUTOMOBILE FIELD

NEW RUSTLESS STEEL IS USED

Non-Corroding Product is Employed in Exposed Metal Parts.

Rustless steel, which the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, introduced this year in exposed metal parts of the new models, is one of the miracles of modern science.

Corrosion, since the days of earliest metal working, has been the archenemy of metallic products. Indeed the marked resistance of gold and silver to corrosion was, in the beginning, one of the chief advantages of the precious metals. Their scarcity, however, naturally, prohibited their general use.

The problem of rust increased in direct proportion as man's use of iron and steel increased until of recent years the cost of rust in the aggregate yearly waste has amounted to staggering figures. In the automotive industry the problem of rust finally became so acute as virtually to preclude manufacturers from using any exposed plated metal parts.

The introduction of chromium plating was heralded by many manufacturers as a great step towards the conquest of corrosion. It remained for rustless steel, however, to achieve the ultimate and final victory. This remarkable metal is absolutely resistant to rust, tarnish or corrosion, a damp rag is all that is necessary to restore its original brilliance. There is no plating to crack or wear off since the lustre quality goes all the way throught the metal and will last for generations.

Before the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, decided upon the use of rustless steel in automobiles, it was subjected to many severe tests by the United States Bureau of Mines by metallurgical and other scientific institutions and by the Ford Company. The experiments were conducted for more than a year. Samples of the metal were subjected to a salt spray for 400 hours, the equivalent of 40 years of service. Still the metal could be wiped to its original brilliance with a damp cloth.

A test, startling in its results, was made by the United States Bureau of Mines. A sheet of the metal, eight by twelve inches and 7/100 inch thick, was immersed in highly corrosive mine water in Windburne Field, the strongest corrosive water in Central Pennsylvania. A sheet of ordinary steel with the same dimensions also was immersed as a check on the sample under test.

Miners in this field have left their shovels in working places for a week or ten days and upon their return have found nothing left but the handles. There also have been numerous instances in which steel pipes have been eaten through in from five to ten days. Consequently this was a difficult test. Yet after six months total immersion the rustless steel sheet was removed and found to be exactly the same weight as when first placed in the corrosive mine water. Long before, the ordinary steel sheet had been eaten away to a few ounces and had fallen apart.

Rustless steel, of course, is more expensive than plated metals. But the economies of mass production have made its use possible on the low-priced Ford cars. In the improved Canadian Fords, rustless steel has been utilized in the new cowl strip, the head lamps, radiator shell, rear lamp, and the radiator, hub and gas tank caps.

Steel Wheels Are Unusually Strong

The wheels of the Ford car are of special Pord design. There are thirty spokes in each wheel and each spoke is electrically welded to the hub shell and rim. This one-piece construction gives unusual strength. The spokes are so placed that the force of road shocks is not borne wholly by the spoke nearest the obstruction, but is evenly distributed over all. Cleaning is easy because none of the outer spokes cross.

The drop center rim gives added strength and greatly facilitates the changing of tire. Once the air is out, the tire can be removed easily without the use of tools.

It is also important to note that the removal of the entire wheel, due to tire troubles, in no way affects the brake adjustment or the brake drum.

Shatterless Glass Is Safety Factor

All of the Ford cars are equipped with windshields of shatterless glass. This is a safety factor of the greatest importance because it eliminates the danger of flying glass—the cause of most of the injuries in automobile accidents.

In these days of speed and heavy, crowded traffic, the protection afforded by this shatterless glass windshield is an absolute necessity. Its extra margin of safety is something that every motorist should look for in the purchase of a car—especially where there are women and children. Already it has saved hundreds of lives.

This shatterless glass is not provided as standard equipment on any other car in the low price field.

Leadership In Canada Uncontested.

The Ford car, outselling every other car in Canada by a large and constantly increasing margin, has assumed the uncontested leadership of the Canadian automotive field.

The pinnacle to which the Ford has climbed since the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, was organized 26 years ago is now recognized. The business, started in a frame building from which came only 117 cars the first year, now is housed in a great modern plant covering many acres of ground. Its annual payroll is in excess of $11,000,000 a year. The first force of 17 men has grown to a peak of 7500. Unquestionably, the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited ,is one of the leading industrial organizations of the Dominion.

There is a reason, furthermore, for the pride which Canadians feel in the organization. The Ford car is practically all made in Canada, of Canadian materials and by Canadian workmen. Proof that the Canadian public appreciates the unusual value built in the Ford is shown by the ever-increasing popularity of the car. In many sections 50 to 70 per cent of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

But, aside from the public pride in the Ford car, there is just one reason why it is outselling every other automobile in Canada by a large and increasing margin. That reason is value. The new Ford brings its owner everything desired or needed in a motor car and at an unusually low price.

The Ford car has beautiful lines and colors. It will do 55 to 65 miles an hour. It accelerates quickly in traffic. It is the first car away from an intersection. Its power is evident on every hill. It is unusually safe because of the fully enclosed four-wheel brakes and the shatterless glass windshield. It has four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers for comfort.

The value of the Ford car, perhaps, is best demonstrated by its exceptional economy, the result of its low cost of operation and upkeep, low yearly depreciation and long life. Many of the new Fords have already been driven 50,000, 75,000 and 100,000 miles. In tests and contests in Canada, in the United States and abroad, it has won many medals and reliabiity and general all-round good performance. It is used exclusively by a large number of industrial companies and government bureaus which keep exact cost figures.

But the best way to prove that the new Ford car has all these features is to drive it yourself. Pick your own roads. Give it a severe test. Learn for yourself its speed, power, acceleration, ease of control, safety, comfort—every feature of its good performance.

Then you will know why the new Ford is the most popular Canadian Car. It leads in sales because it leads in value.

Ford Engine Has New Features.

The engine of the Ford car embodies many new mechanical features. It has been designed to give unusual speed, acceleration, power and smoothness without sacrifice of reliability or economy. Ford engineering has found the way to include every essential feature of good performance without the necessity of high speed motor.

The design of the cylinder head is just one factor in this performance. Others are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, the carefully planned large valve diameter, the chrome silicon alloy valves, the aluminum pistons, the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, and the simplicity and efficiency of the electrical, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems.

ALLOWANCE ON USED CAR VITAL

Excessive Valuations May Mask "Temporary Bargain."

Before a new car is purchased the allowance made upon the used car being turned in should be critically analyzed. This is one of the soundest bits of advice given the new car buyer.

If a dealer pays to the new car buyer more than the true worth of the used car turned in, he must make up the differences by extra charges on the new car or he must resell the old car to someone else at too high a price.

The buyer must remember that permanent value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set upon the used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth. Used cars have a definite market value and the new car buyer is justly entitled to an allowance based upon that value. It is not fair to receive less. It is not to his best interests to receive more.

If a dealer by making too high an allowance upon a used car is forced either to re-sell it to someone else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car, someone must lose. The dealer cannot escape the loss unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the new car, or on financing, extra equipment or other charges. In either case, the buyer pays the bill ,for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere.

It is good for the buyer to have a true picture of the used-car situation and its secondary importance in the purchase of an automobile. The buyer may not get the highest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, yet gain in the long run. He saves far more than the seeming difference in trade-in allowance because of the lower first cost of the Ford, the low charges for selling, financing and accessories, and the lower cost of operation, service and replacement parts. The profits of the Ford dealer are not marked up or increased to cover a high allowance on a used car.

Furthermore, at least $75 extra value is given the new car buyer in the new Ford in the shatterless glass windshield, the rustless steel, the five steel-spoke wheels and the four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings, are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.

Shock Absorbers Aid Easy Riding

One of the fine things about driving the Ford car is the way it covers long distances without strain or fatigue to the rider. No matter how long the trip, or rough or devious the highway, it will carry its passengers safely, quickly, comfortably to the journey's end. The restfully tilted seats are generously wide and deeply cushioned. The backs of the seats are carefully designed to conform to the curves of the body.

Furthermore, every Ford car is equipped with four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and specially designed tranverse springs. Even bad stretches may be taken at a reasonably fast pace without hard jolts or bumps or the exaggerated bouncing which is the cause of most motoring fatigue.

Western Cow Ponies, Glittering Costumes Seen at Exhibition

GRAND STAND PROGRAM APPLAUDED ON OPENING NIGHT OF GREAT SHOW

600 ON GRAND STAND.

Queen Katherine, a plunging broncho, threw her man at the barrier and crashed through it to thunder madly over the green turf of the Exhibition grounds and to charge wildly around the track, until Jose Welsh, on his trusty black cow pony, Summers, with twenty-two years to his credit and a lot of dynamite under his hard-bitten skin, went out to lasso the Queen and bring her back to safety.

With strong brown fingers caressing the keys and stops of a flashing white and gold piano accordeon, "Mike" (Joe La Vaux) brought the grand stand crowd to a chorus of lusty voices under the dark sky, singing to the music that he coaxed from the instrument such old favorites as "Tipperary" and "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" and "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean." With his stocky figure clad in black loose brecks and a white satin shirt glistening over brawny shoulders, he listened, head cocked under a black beret, with a smile, as the music flowed out under his magnetic spell.

The Stampede.

The Welsh Brothers' Stampede is a whole show in itself, and is treated of separately in another article. It is quite out of the ordinary. These are not the usual brand of showmen performers. They are soft-spoken westerners with pleasant smiles for admiring patrons and the loose, easy seat in the saddle that comes from a long acquaintanceship with the life that is made up of wide, open spaces and a trusty animal.

About six hundred people watched the show last night and applauded every number on the program. The band of The Peterborough Rangers provided splendid music for the acts and during the intermissions, and members of the city police force, under Inspector Reid, were efficient guardians of public safety.

The Three Rosards, with two comedy members of the act, were openers on the bill, in a clever tumbling bit that included some stunts by a waggish grey mare, "that wasn't what she used to be," as the band proclaimed. They were followed by the Harrisons, trick bicyclists, whose senior member, a man, was amazingly good in the fashion of his bicycle riding. Later, he came out for a number of comedy bike stunts that were real feats of balancing skill.

A racetrack frolic, "the cart before the horse," brought into the limelight a snappy looking chestnut that had its driver, in a light sulky, directing matters from the front, instead of the rear of the beast. This horse, Peter Mount, with a white and tan shepherd dog, Rex, did a trick later in the program that brought both animal actors much applause. The dog, saddled securely on the sulky, drove the horse around the track at top trotting speed, the pair silhouetted against the far horizon in striking fashion as they fled swiftly about the darkened circle.

Then came Mike, playing the piano accordeon, in popular tunes and in brief excerpts from Faust and Carmen that brought him much highly appreciative applause.

The Vivian Sisters, in their spotless white satin suits, were acrobats of a high degree of skill. The smaller of the two, a slight and girlish figure, braced by her toes to an upper horizontal bar, held her sister by her teeth and by straps adjusted about her neck, as the other went through a series of involved acrobatic stunts.

Youna, or Ike, and Mike were curious figures in Oriental and western costumes, the former doing some fantastic juggling of spinning tops and bowls on the tip of a revolving rod, assisted by Mike, who did a spectacular bit of juggling aided by blazing torches.

To the tune of "When Francis Dances With Me," Mike played a concertina while balancing a chair atop his head, and finished up with a glass bell solo to band accompaniment of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The Rosard and Harriston troupe were a brilliant group of gymnasts, doing graceful and difficult figure work on white ladders.

Aerial Stunts.

Kurtzo and Kurtz provided the breath-taking thrills of the evening, bringing plenty of excited "Ohs" from the watchers as they perched in hair-brained fashion on the side and summit of a swaying white pole that reached high into the dark night sky. With negligent ease, they did stunts on aerial trapezes and climbed to the summit to show just how little they cared for the laws of gravitation. On the tiny crows' nest at the top of the pole, Kurtzo waved his legs in the air and stood on his head and his audience breathed a prayer of thankfulness when he slid to the ground with his partner in daredevilry. At the afternoon performance yesterday, Kurtzo saved himself from a nasty accident by grabbing the pole in the nick of time.

Then came the major event of the performance, the Welsh Brothers' Stampede, which comes in for a separate write-up all its own, in another column, and is quite worth it.

The program extended so long last night and the patrons were getting so much for their money that the fireworks nearly got left out. On succeeding nights, the wild west show will be lengthened considerably, with different events.

The fireworks display was exceptionally good and the cloudy, dimmed sky with the moon peeping forth only occasionally, furnished the most excellent background imaginable for the exhibition of pyrotechnics which concluded the grand stand performance.

There were Roman candles and Catherine wheels, rockets and sprays of colored jewels and flowers, shooting stars and comets, a waterfall of blazing light, a miniature Niagara, sky flowers of many tints and shapes, and a glowing fountain of rainbow-hued incandescent brilliance. The Prince of Wales rose on the horizon to greet his people of Peterborough and there were fireworks like large, white-toned Very lights, that lit up the darkened track. And there was a rose and blue fiery traffic cop that waved jocund hands and feet and showed his watchers the way to go home, as a bit of farewell illumination.

Hugh Lush was at the megaphone and 'mike' last night and gave his usual excellent service to the crowd. Webber Turner managed the show with capable ease.

EXHIBITION NOTES

TWENTY YEARS AT EX.

It is interesting to note that St. James Church Ladies' Aid Society are operating their dining tent at the Fair grounds this year for the twentieth annual time. It was just twenty years ago that the venture was launched, in a small way, consisting of merely a refreshment stand. The good cooking and service which is a feature drew such a crowd from year to year, that it was not long before the large marquee was necessary to house the patrons. This year the tent is in charge of Mrs. W. D. Sargeant, president of the Society, with the following capable band of assistants: Mesdames M. Stokes, secretary; H. Fry, treasurer; A. Wilson, honorary president; J. O. Fife and M. Drysdale, table committee and W. Atkinson, J. Plunkett and Master Oscar Sloane.

DELIGHTED WITH FAIR.

The treasurer of one of the district exhibition boards was a visitor to the Peterborough 'Ex' yesterday, and paying a call on the secretary, F. J. A. Hall, he requested a first prize card blank. It was learned that this visitor has a sort of hobby of collecting such cards, which he intends to display in his barn as mementos of a pleasant summer spent in visiting all the neighboring fairs and exhibitions. He was delighted with what he saw here and elsewhere and said that he was seeking new ideas with a view to incorporating some of the outstanding of them in their own fair which is being held the first week in October.

PRIZES AWARDED.

The Flower Show at the Exhibition was judged on Tuesday afternoon by George Baldwin of Toronto who completed his work by evening, enabling the directors to throw this department open to the first night crowd.

Not only in the number of exhibits but also in the distinctive specialities that are displayed this year, the Flower Show has attained a new standard that undoubtedly indicates the interest which it is creating among exhibitors outside Peterborough. The Brookdale Nurseries of Bowmanville have a fine arrangement of nursery stock, shrubs, and perennials which they have transplanted for this week within the horticulture tent. They won first prize at the Toronto Exhibition, and in coming to Peterborough they have struck a note which may be a promise of future elaboration of exhibits especially by the professional florists.

Another conspicuous display was introduced by W. W. Lane of Kenilworth Gardens, Valentia, Ontario, who is showing gladioli as a commercial exhibit, and also in the professional competitive class. The Lane display also includes double Delphiniums.

David Jordan swept the professional section of the Flower Show, and have the only group of greenhouse plants in the big tent. Mr. Jordan's exhibits represent a large section of the professional class, and their quality is attested by their first prize awards.

Although the weather is said to have been adverse to outdoor flower gardens, having set back most flowers during the August drouth, growers have managed to circumvent the effects of the dry spell, and their combined efforts present splendid collections of gladioli, asters, and the other later flowers.

G. W. Downer was again a heavy winner with a total of 15 firsts, 8 seconds and 1 third.

Al. Spenceley has named his garden "Al's Pastime Garden." He was in the money with his "Glads," and took first for primulini.

A E. Prest has a comprehensive showing in which his gladioli and phlox are outstanding.

W. H. Callander has the cactus section all to himself, and W. H. Young won first prize for roses.

Ira D. Moore's tickets stand out among the first prize awards for dahlias.

Mrs. Frank Roberts' Fuchsia was placed as the best specimen plant.

S. T. Harris had the satisfaction of receiving red first prize tickets for the best gladiolus spike in the amateur section and also for the two collections of six spikes and ten varieties respectively.

HAROLD MORROW VISITS BIG FAIR

One of Exhibition's Outstanding Benefactors is Well Pleased With Show.

OWNS THE GROUNDS.

Among the visitors who were welcomed to the Exhibition by President Roland Denne and the members of the directorate on opening day was Mr. Harold Morrow, the owner of the property comprising the Exhibition grounds. Mr. Morrow was accompanied by his wife.

Mr. Morrow is one of the outstanding benefactors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, but like all his good deeds his interest in Peterborough's Fair and his substantial assistance are rarely, if ever, publicly mentioned. A member of the contracting firm of Morrow and eBatty who are at present carrying on a large electrical development work in Quebec, Mr. Morrow found one of his home trips timed with the opening of the Exhibition, and his call upon President Denne and the Directors was a personal evidence of interest in Peterborough's big fair. In this respect Mr. Morrow is quietly maintaining the very helpful support of the Exhibition which was begun by his father the late R. A. Morrow one of its unfailing friends in the lean days that have been almost forgotten in the expansion the Exhibition has accomplished during the last fifteen years.

Obviously the directors were delighted to welcome Mr. Morrow, but knowing his dislike of expressions of approbation it may be imagined that their greeting was attuned to Mr. Morrow's innate modesty. His visit was not even mentioned to the press by President Denne or any of the other directors, but as there is no censorship at the Exhibition Grounds the people of the city and district will be interested to know that Harold Morrow was among those present on opening day.

Prima Donna Stuff

By MARGARET CULKIN BANNING

Illustrated by ARMSTRONG SPERRY

SHE had told him that Philip was manager of the Dry Goods Co and given him the children's names—Mark, Anthony and Deborah. The young man on the doorstep rose and thin as a shaft pencil and jotted it down on the neat book in his notebook. He jotted her down as—Marie Fay.

"Housewife," he wrote.

Marie did not answer. It was ridiculous that she should be irritated at being classified by the pale young man.

Listing her briefly as housewife, limp and ineffective, for Marie had studied dramatic art at the Stage school in New York and actually been signed up for an engagement when she had tossed it all over to take part in that swiftest of dramas, breathless love and marriage.

That was her immediate thought, blotted against the young reporter's civil farewell.

"Thank you, Mrs. Fay. That's everything, I guess."

Everything—and she thought, looking after his departing back. It was nothing! And she kept on resenting his classification of her while she went back to the kitchen and took her cookies out of the oven just in time. She felt an attack of temperament coming on, but she meant to get the cookies baked first.

That was one thing Marie had discovered about temperament: If you had to, you could not postpone it. During the first year she had been married, there had been a good many attacks, and she had not timed them to suit anything but her mood. Philip had been an angel to put up with those surges of restlessness which were not so much discontent as the baffling feeling of having cut off retreat.

They had plenty of time during that first emotional year for the attacks, and the patience and the sweetness of readjustment. But then Mark had come along, and, practically on his heels, Anthony, and, last of all, the unexpected and delightful Deborah, who seemed to have been chuckling ever since she was born.

There hadn't been so much time for temperament then; at least, not with the shoe industry going the way it did during several years of business depression. But when the attacks came, they were blacker. At night, shut in the house, with Philip tired and seemingly forgetful of all the might-have-beens, the dark mood would sweep over Marie, relentless and bitter.

Or it would come at a play, when she watched an actress whose part she fancied would have suited her. She would sit at her dressing table when she got home after such a play, gazing into it, wondering. Philip knew the look. He usually left her alone for a while.

Attack of Temperament

THE way Marie knew she was having an attack of temperament was by the way things shrank and shriveled around her. This morning, for example, there had been a certain gorgeousness about the world. And now it was as if everything had been touched by one of those wands of which she read to the children, which were so prolific in changing gold and diamonds to frogs and toads on occasion. The sun was still there; but shining now on a dull little suburban street.

The sound of riot in the back yard claimed her, and she went out to find the usual chaos of sand-box quarrel between the Cook children from next door and her own.

Marie told them categorically to stop fighting. They stopped abruptly, conscious of unsympathetic authority, and she left them, only to find that between interruption and meditation the latest of cookies was a total loss.

She was scraping them off the tray and mentally fighting fate when Lynn came in. Lynn was her brother.

"Hello," she said. "How do you happen to be out here?"

"Had a prospect out in Lakeview. Rich old girl. Took a car out myself to show her how it looked with a handsome man in it."

"Did she fall?" asked Marie.

"She's toppling," said Lynn. "It's only a question of time."

He sat down beside the pile of cookies which had not burned and attacked them methodically.

"Good," he complimented her.

"I'll show Viola how to make them," offered Marie.

"Don't bother. Don't tell her how to make cookies, whatever you do! That's what I came in about. Viola's off me."

"Not really, Lynn!"

He nodded, his thin face sinking from its habitual tiptancy into a deeper cast of gravity.

"She sounded very real last night."

"What have you been doing?"

"I don't know. I guess she doesn't want to get married, that's all."

"That's just a woman's fit of panic."

"No. Not a bit like that. This has been rumbling along all the time. She likes her work, and it came to a choice. They offered to send her to Europe twice a year to buy for them, but it means, of course, that she's supposed to stay there for a while. And she's got some kind of designing clothes and getting along alone."

"You mean you're just fighting it out?"

"All tough. I'm pitched, that's all. Viola's sailing for Europe next week." He got up and went savagely toward the door.

"I think it's kind of yellow," said Marie, stopping him; "pretty yellow of her."

"No," answered Lynn sharply, "I guess not. She's not feeling very gay over it. But she is dead sure that she'd regret giving up the job. Says she'd take it out on me later. I told her I'd take a chance on that, and she couldn't see it. I even told her that she could keep her darned job, and get married too. But she says the thing hasn't been worked out yet, how to keep her kind of full-time job and marry, and she'd want to be thoroughly married if she went into it at all. She's so clear, you know. But she isn't happy. And I don't believe she's going to be happy, either, if you ask me." He took another turn around the room, and came back to Marie.

"Could you talk to her, do you suppose?" he asked hesitantly. "You know—from your point of view—tell her that marriage isn't just sticking your head in a bag. I rubbed you in—told her that you'd give up an idea of going on the stage, and that you had three swell kids and a nice home and were perfectly happy. Maybe if you talked to her yourself—"

Marie was looking at him, her eyes dark with thought.

"If you just told her," said Lynn, "that you forget all that career stuff—pretty quickly—"

"But you don't."

"You did."

"I did not. I never have. I'm no person to talk to Viola. Not me." She gave a little laugh.

The Money Problem

HE looked at her, his lean face very surprised.

"So you don't think much of marriage, either?"

"I do. I'm crazy about Philip. I adore having the children. But I know a lot about marriage. There's the first part, when you're treading on air, and you're so important to your husband and yourself that nothing else in the world counts. Then, if children come along, you're still very important for a while and sort of petted.

"Yes—the first year, when you're a bride, is heavenly, and the baby years are so exciting you forget other things. But after that—for most women, the show in the big tent's over, Lynn. After that, so much of the fun is crowded out by managing—and money. You haven't any idea how the biggest thing in married people's lives gets to be just money!"

"I'm going to make a lot, old girl," said Lynn.

"So was Philip. Maybe you will and maybe you won't. Maybe you'll make a lot or maybe you'll get behind, the way we did last year. Then you've got to pare bills and get along with old clothes and do your housework yourself, and try to forget that some of the people you know are getting rich and famous.

"I don't suppose that is what really hurts, either. The worst thing is that feeling that you've let the moths get in what talent you had. You don't want to care, and yet you feel that if you don't care, you're just another dowdy, dull, work-ridden housewife."

The last word came out somberly, dramatically.

"Curtain," said Lynn, and they both tried to laugh.

He picked up his hat.

"I guess the sober truth is that most of us haven't much to offer a smart girl. Where are the kids?"

"The boys are in the sand box fighting, and Deborah's upstairs. Wait a minute. I'll bring her down."

She carried Deborah down, all gay and curly, and Deborah contradicted or annulled everything that had been said by the mere fact of her presence.

"The attractive thing about Debby," said Lynn, walking about with her on his shoulder, "is that she has no interest in careers. She's the only sensible woman I know."

"To think," said Margot, "that you should have become such a complete home body." Marie's eyes smouldered—"Well, there are compensations, you know—even in domesticity," she answered.

And he lifted her down and went away, rather pathetically.

Marie met Viola that afternoon. She had left the children with the by-the-half-day nurse girl and was downtown shopping. And the shops taunted her. Their windows were full of new displays. Everything she saw made her feel more dowdy. Thus she met Viola, who was unconsciously standing beside her outside a shop window, contemplating it.

"Hello," they said, with extra casualness.

Viola wore what you might have called black, if something green had not flashed as her tiny cape swung from the shoulders. She also wore one of the perfectly inconspicuous hats that women turn around to look at, and the simplest of cobra oxfords, outlined in lizard.

"You ought to be in a window yourself," said Marie. "Where'd you get all that?"

"Trousseau," Viola told her shortly. "May as well wear it while it's in style. I suppose you think I'm a poor kind of thing, Marie."

"Well, it's your business," evaded Marie.

Viola's arguments were near the surface. She pulled them out as if to show their quality off, perhaps to convince herself.

"I've thought until I'm stiff. It seemed to me the only thing to do. If you have a chance to get married to the man you want and don't take it, it may hurt you; but they say that heals in time. But you knock a good career on the head, and it doesn't come again. They told me, Marie, that if I'd stay by, in ten years I could be singing articles in any fashion magazine in the country. If I didn't take the chance, I'd always regret it. I don't want to go into marriage looking back over my shoulder."

Expressing Her Discontent

MARIE shook her head over the situation. She was not really thinking very much of Viola, whose competent brittle philosophy seemed to be translated into terms of herself.

"You lose so much," she said slowly. "I know."

"Made up my mind," Viola answered, and swung away.

Philip knew from the very moment he entered the house that night that Marie was having an attack of temperament. And he avoided her. All day he had been beating against obstacle after obstacle and disappointment after disappointment, and his nerves were loose and jangling.

"If we're going to the theatre, we'll have to hurry," Marie reminded him.

He had forgotten the theatre, but, remembering it, thought quickly that a play would make Marie still more miserable.

"Sure you want to go?" he asked.

"Of course. We get a good play rarely enough heaven knows."

"Oh, well, I want to go, of course," he told her hurriedly. "I just wondered if you weren't tired."

She neglected her vegetables and nagged at her meat.

"Viola's not going to marry Lynn," she said suddenly.

He looked up. "What's up?"

"She just happens to prefer a very profitable job and possible career."

"She's a little fool," said Philip. "Men like Lynn don't grow on every bush."

"Nor careers like hers."

"You mean to say that for a chance to write poppycock about a lot of crazy dresses she's leaving Lynn flat?"

"You wouldn't understand it, of course. Women are getting more and more like that. Why should they give up good, real places in the world for the sake of being some man's wife, and getting in the census as another of the fifty million housewives?"

Philip said nothing more. He finished his dinner hastily.

They had to hurry to get to the theatre, and the curtain had gone up on the first act before they had parked their car and fumbled their way into their seats. Marie took off her wrap, concentrated on the stage, and then turned hurriedly to Philip.

"Philip!" she whispered. "I know that girl on the left. That's Margot Blood! She was in the Illington School when I was."

Philip sighed under his breath. He wasn't sure where all this was leading, but he was reasonably sure that it would mean trouble. His mind wandered back to shoe manufacturing and stayed there worrying.

"Just think of it," he heard Marie saying, "and Margot wasn't considered one of the best in school at all. This just goes to show what can be done."

Philip did not look at her. He did not have to. He knew exactly how she looked, that something like resentment lay deep in her eyes.

"We'll have to look her up afterward," Marie remarked.

"Why do you bother? You're tired to-night, and if she wasn't a special friend, it isn't necessary, is it?"

"Well, it's rather nice to hear about the world, Phil, even if you are out of it. We can take her to supper somewhere. We can take her to the Grandmaison."

Grandmaison, thought Philip—and by a simple and direct sequence, that his checking account was getting low at this point of the month, and this would mean cashing a good-sized check he hadn't counted on. However, he never disagreed with Marie in this mood.

An Apologetic Attitude

MARGOT BLOOD had supper with them. So did a gentleman called Owen Falk, whom Margot brought along. The actress wore a black satin coat with a red lining, which she held together in the front with manner. Her hat was also satin and tight, and her face beneath it, with its languorous gray eyes, was very sophisticated.

The gentleman also had manner, an excess of it. They were taking a train shortly after midnight, but they were glad to come to supper, so Philip and Marie took them to the Grandmaison restaurant, where they ate twenty dollars' worth of something or other which did not taste very good to Philip.

They talked of plays and Broadway of actors and managers.

"To think," said Margot, "that you should have become such a complete home body."

Marie's eyes smoldered.

"Well, there are compensations, you know, even in domesticity. I've three darling children."

"Three! Honestly!"

Why did she say three, thought Philip as if it were a dozen! He did not like Margot, with her air of superiority toward his wife. And still less did he like the humility Marie seemed to assume, a kind of apology for her position.

"All of three," he repeated proudly.

"Oh, I think it's perfectly lovely," said Margot, in her stagy drawl.

"You were on the stage, Mrs. Fay?" asked Owen Faulk.

"I'd just started when I married."

"Your husband robbed the world," said the gentleman, with still more manner.

Philip eyed him with dislike. He wished that they wouldn't talk that slop to Marie. It was hard enough as it was, without giving her an earful like that. But Marie was eating it up. She was looking really beautiful.

"And she gave it all up for you," said Margot to him. "Well, I don't know that I blame her."

She tried him out with the languorous eyes; but Philip was indifferent. He didn't like the type much.

"She didn't give it up for me specially," he answered; "she decided that she wanted to be married. Can't eat your cake and have it, can you?"

Argument was not in Margot's line. She only tried a smile on him.

"Can't you?" she asked. "I adore cake."

"She is just plain dumb," thought Philip.

"I adore cake and good-looking men," Margot insisted, stringing words along loosely.

"Have some coffee," suggested Philip.

She had a purse of silver mesh, which slipped to the floor, and he stooped to pick it up for her. He noticed that it was not a fine purse. It was tawdry. And he noticed something else as he lifted the bag.

One of Margot's slippers almost touched his hand, and he looked at it with the unconscious sizing up his eyes gave to every pair of women's shoes that came his way. These were of satin, worn at the side and beginning to split—cheap shoes.

He saw one other thing as the evening drew to a close and they were preparing to leave the table. The actor, who had been so devoted to Marie, casually turned, as they rose, and put into his pocket the two half-used packages of cigarettes which Phil had ordered. He did it very quickly, but Philip saw it.

Philip Walks Out

THEY took the pair to the train, and then drove home. It was early morning, and Philip was tired. Marie was wrapped in a silence that was alert with thought, and Philip did not talk, for fear of starting something. He let her off at their house and went on to put the car up in the garage they rented, half a block away.

When he came back it was as he feared: Marie was sitting before her dressing table, brushing her hair somberly. He took off his coat and put it on a hanger in the closet.

"Do you know what I think?" asked Marie suddenly.

"Don't think at this time of the night, dear. Get to bed."

"The suburban rule," said Marie bitterly. "Get to bed and get up. Then do it over again."

"It's a good rule," mumbled Philip.

"I think Viola's right. When you see girls like Viola, and girls like Margot Blood — living the way I do, shut up in four walls, just doing nothing except cook and clean and watch the children, seems so inexcusable!"

What part of that remark slid under Philip's skin with unbearable irritation, he hardly knew. Perhaps it was not the remark, but the worrying day ahead, or the wasted twenty dollars behind. But at that moment, rather to his own astonishment, he found that his exhaustion left him, changed in a second to heated anger, fury at this woman who sat in his room and bemoaned her life because she shared his.

"Yes," repeated Marie, "Viola's right."

"She's right in one thing," said Philip. "She's not letting Lynn in for a lifetime of scenes like this. She's playing fair. Which is certainly more than you do."

"Play fair!" cried Marie. "What do you mean? I'd like to know how I could play fairer. I've worked like a dog, and got along with nothing, while the rest of the girls I know—Margot and the rest of them—were getting ahead and making something of their lives—"

Philip looked down at her, without a trace of the rather apologetic sympathy she usually found in him.

"You're a selfish woman," he said flatly. "Margot Blood — with her cheap little split shoes, her cheap little purse with nothing in it, probably! She was playing the game, though. She wasn't kicking. That ham actor that made such a hit with you, bumming cigarettes! What do you want, anyway? How do you know you'd have been any better than she is, running around with a road-show from town to town. If that's what you're after, why don't you put on your hat and go get it? I won't stop you."

"Are you crazy?" asked Marie.

"I pretty near am. I've put up with this sort of stuff ever since we were married, and I'm getting to the point where I'm just about ready to call it a day. Talk about your being buried in marriage, what you give up for it! Did it ever occur to you that maybe a man gives up something, too? Maybe I had an idea of going to South America or to Africa before I met you. Hear me sniveling about that? Maybe there are things I could do now, if it weren't for you and the kids."

His face was deadly pale now, and he was striding up and down.

"Now, I tell you flat, Marie, I'm through. You made your choice, and you've been whining off and on ever since. I can't stand it any longer, and I won't. Next time you begin, either you walk out or I do. This house isn't big enough for me and you and your agonies."

Marie burst into tears.

"You don't understand," she managed to make clear, "what it is to have temperament'.

"Temperament, bunk!" said Philip. "It's nothing but sulks. I'm going where I can get some sleep."

He did. Marie stood and watched him go, the tears drying on her face. And as he walked down the sidewalk outside, his steps hit her cruelly as she listened.

Where he slept, Marie did not know. Nor if he slept. She only knew that she herself did not. With Philip gone during those lonely hours, it gradually began to be borne in upon her that, of all things she could not and would not give up, the most important, after all, was Philip.

A State of Chaos

SHE was running the vacuum in the living-room. Once again the aspect of her house had lifted. Today these things she lived among were precious. She loved the soft lustre and lovely shapes of her chairs and tables. Through the open windows she could see the boys in the back yard. A lump rose her throat. Possibly Phil was trying to get a divorce, had already started something like that. He had been away three days.

She telephoned him the day after that scene, but he was abrupt. He said he was rushed with work and tired of discussion and wanted her to take time to think things over and wanted time to do it himself.

She felt thwarted. She wanted things back the way they were, not in this state of limbo. And instead of hanging around footlights, her mind absurdly lingered around the sort of thing she could do to prove to Philip — But there wasn't any chance to prove anything to Philip.

At least there were the children. She sat on the back steps and grimly administered neighborhood justice. She read to them at lunch. It was the afternoon when the nursemaid did not come, so she gave Deborah her supper and bathed her. In spite of incipient tragedy, Deborah made that a merry rite.

They were so gay in their splashing that Marie did not hear the car drive in front of the house or the men come into the hall.

"Marie!" called Lynn.

She came to the top of the stairs with Deborah in her arms, wrapped in a soft, small bathrobe. There was Lynn in the hallway, and beside him, looking rather indecisive, Philip. Their eyes met curiously, and she came down the stairs with the baby, feeling rather weak. Was this to be a cut-off of some kind, with her brother as witness?

"What brings you out, Lynn?" she asked.

"I sold the old lady the car, and I'm delivering it in person, so I could stop off and give you a rising vote of thanks. Picked up your boss on the street, and told him the glad tidings."

"What tidings?"

"Don't you know? Viola's changed her mind. And she says you did it."

"I did it?"

"When you talked to her on the street that day. She says you didn't say much, but what you said sank in."

"It couldn't have been that," said Marie honestly.

"But it was. Just that remark about the fact that she'd lose a lot. She said she couldn't forget it, nor the contented, serene way you looked when you said it."

It came to Marie that Viola had taken her remark exactly as she had not meant it, and that when she had been steaming with discontent, Viola had taken her expression for serene happiness! She had a crazy impulse to go into hysterics. Then she saw Philip's face, full of weariness, and beaten-down love.

"Did you really tell Viola that, Marie?" he asked, so quietly that Lynn got no special significance in the query.

Marie did. She hesitated between frankness and the feeling that if Philip went off again she couldn't bear it. And in that second of tenseness, Deborah, who was frankly delighted at having two men attend her, chuckled. The chuckle gave Marie her cue. There was no use in being so serious. Some day she'd tell Philip a lot of things. But not now. He needed supper now, and peace. So did she.

"That's exactly what I said!" she admitted. "And Viola took it just right."

"The attractive thing about Debby," said Lynn, walking about with her on his shoulder, "is that she has no interest in careers. She's the only sensible woman I know."

French Officer in Algeria Suffocated Army of Arabs

Sealed Them in Caves, Then Filled the Caves With Deadly Gas —Crime Is One of the Blackest in War Record of the French

THE story of the French conquest of Algeria is not a pleasing story and there are many incidents which the French might well wish to be forgotten.

One of the most disgraceful of these occurred in the summer of 1845, when the French commander, Colonel Saint Arnaud, destroyed a band of five hundred Kabyles in a particularly brutal way.

The warfare had been fierce and the Arabs had fought bravely and then retired.

Saint Arnaud received information that a body of these Arabs had taken refuge in the caves of Shelas, and he marched a body of French troops to the caves and called upon the fugitives to surrender. Eleven only came out and gave themselves up, and Saint Arnaud determined to destroy the remainder, but his manner of doing so was not such as is recognized in civilized warfare.

His soldiers, curiously enough, were not aware of the large body of Arabs still remaining in the cave. The only people Arnaud informed of his purpose were his brother and his superior, Marshal Bugeaud. His idea was to suffocate the whole band of Arabs, and thus save himself from any further trouble at their hands. He tells the story of what happened in a letter to his brother:

"I had all the aperatures hermetically stopped up," he says. "I made one vast sepulchre. No one went into the caverns; no one but myself knew that under these there were five hundred brigands who will never again slaughter Frenchmen. A confidential report has told all to the marshal without terrible poetry or imagery. Brother, no one is so good as I am by taste and by nature. From the 8th to the 12th I have been ill, but my conscience does not reproach me. I have done my duty as a commander, and to-morrow I would do the same over again; but I have taken a disgust to Africa."

No wonder the "gallant" colonel took a dislike to Africa. If he was sane he could hardly have been so pleased at his "brave" exploit as he pretends in his letter to his brother.

The only thing that can be said in extenuation of his barbarity was that the year before a superior officer, Marshal Pelissier, had done the same thing without any concealment. He had filled with smoke the crowded caves of the Dahra and destroyed many hundreds of Kabyles, whose sole crime had been to defend their country against the French hordes.

—This and That.

PREACHERS IN HOUSE

OVER twenty members of the British parliament who are also local preachers held a dinner at the House of Commons the other night, at which Mr. Arthur Henderson presided. Another cabinet minister who has frequently conducted religious services was not present—Miss Margaret Bondfield.

In addition to these local preacher M.P.'s, of whom Mr. Arthur Henderson is probably the senior—he has been active in this way for about half a century—there are also a number of ordained ministers of religion who are members of the house.

On the whole, clergymen have not won a great deal of distinction in politics, though one of those in the present House—Mr. Campbell Stephen—has made a reputation as a parliamentarian of the type that governments detest. He was recently described as a master of the art of parliamentary obstruction. But perhaps he should hardly count, as he has now adopted the law as a profession, and is practising as a barrister.—From Answers.

ON THE RUN

ROBERTSON was very fond of boasting of his sporting accomplishments.

One day he met a friend who looked obviously down in the dumps.

"What do you think of my latest stunt?" said Robertson. "I ran five miles this morning and jumped a five-bar gate."

"And so you jolly well ought to," replied the other.

"What do you mean—'ought to'?" asked Robertson.

"Well, you had a long enough run," came back his friend's reply.

PUPILS CONTEND ALL EXHIBITS KEENLY AT CAVAN SCHOOL FAIR

Instructive Talks Given By Mr. Summer on Fine Points in Judging.

RAIN MARS SPORTS.

CAVAN, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence) — It is frequently remarked that the Rural School Fairs are on the wane but the North Cavan Rural School Fair held at Ida on Friday, September the sixth, proved that this is a mistaken idea.

The new District Representative, Mr. Summers was in charge, and conducted everything in an interesting and efficient manner. There was great interest shown by the pupils in all classes of exhibits, there being a great many entries and all of good quality.

After all exhibits in Domestic Science, Manual Training, Drawing, Nature Collection, flowers, roots and vegetables were in place, the tent was closed for judging and the live stock was called for outside.

Colts Shown First

Colts were shown first; there were three entries.

Before the judging took place Mr. Summers gave the boys an instructive talk, using the colts shown to demonstrate on what constitutes a good colt. He did the same when calves and sheep were shown, thus giving the boys an idea of what to look for in the animals, when marking their score card. This added much to the educative value of the Fair. There were two beef calves, two dairy calves and two sheep shown.

There was another prize given when boys and girls were called to exhibit their colts, calves and sheep in the ring at one time and the prize was given for the handling of these animals. This was to show how much time and care had been expended on their animals by the boys and girls. Some showed that they were well trained and accustomed to be led.

They were also instructed in the proper method of holding their animals in the show ring, thus fitting these Junior Farmers for showing at the larger fairs in the future.

There were many entries in chickens both barred rocks and leghorns.

Mr. Summers expressed disappointment that out of the seven schools comprising the Fair, only three entered the parades and had First Aid Teams.

He hoped that next year every teacher would have his or her school in this very interesting part of the Fair.

Three Schools Marched

The three schools who marched, gave their school yells and each had a first aid team of three, made a good showing.

The first aid teams gave a demonstration of setting a broken leg.

There were eight recitations, all showing careful preparation and ability in delivering them. The judges had a hard task before them. A shower of rain somewhat marred the sports, but when it cleared off the kiddies entered heartily into the various contests. Zest was added by the fact that the Cavan Women's Institute gave money prizes, as well as the winners getting the usual red, white or blue ribbon.

Mrs. H. Snider and Mrs. R. M. Howden were the Institute committee in charge of the prize money for the sports.

The W. A. of St. John's Church, Ida, served an excellent dinner and supper on Mr. Roy Lough's lawn. The attendance at the fair was good.

EXHIBITION NOTES

Fred Field of Field Lodge Farms arrived yesterday afternoon with twelve head of Jerseys. The Examiner owes Mr. Field a retraction of the earlier report that his entry was this year among the missing. That premature observation did not take into account the fact that the entry sheet was in the hands of the secretary.

Several exhibitors had not brought in their stock up to four o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

C. H. Curtis, deputy-reeve of Percy township, clocked in Tuesday afternoon, with a display of sheep. He reported that work on the paved road from Norham to the Campbellford-Brighton corners was begun on Monday. This a two and half mile strip.

Vernon Hunter of Cavan is taking the plunge into the Peterborough pool for the first time. He is showing a registered Clyde mare and foal and two year old colt. Mr. Hunter has often exhibited at Millbrook and other smaller fairs, but this year decided to test his stock in the Peterborough company.

William Skuce of Reaboro brought in fifteen shorthorns late Monday evening. They ambled down George street in a drove, recalling the years of the pre-truck era when cattle had to walk for their prize money.

Fred McIntyre, reeve of Otonabee Township, has a display of Case tractors and other farm implements. Reeve McIntyre says the harvest has been exceptionally good with peas a bumper crop. However, farmers would feel more cheery if prices would show signs of recovering

Look what Art Blade has let himself in for this week! Starting the races with the biggest field of horses the Fair has ever seen; plenty of horses with plenty of speed; and veteran drivers who will be in their battling for the money. However, a starter under the Horsemen's Association has as much authority as a big league umpire once he takes charge of a game.

Rheumatism 23 Yrs Discovers Way to Banish all Pain

Nothing Helped Till She Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

"Had rheumatism for 23 years. Hospitals couldn't help me. Was in bed when I took 'Fruit-a-tives.' They have done wonders. Can do my work and no more pain."—Mrs. A. N. Field, Wynyard, Sask.

SAFETY FLAG IS GIVEN ENGINEERS

H. Rennie Delivers Report of Inspection Committee at Deloro Meeting.

PRONE METHOD SHOWN.

MARMORA, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—The monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee took place on Monday evening, R. A. Elliott presiding. Six suggestions were received during the month, two of which merited award. The flag was awarded to the Silver Plant Engineers and Oxide Plant, while the Oxide has the star.

The report of the inspection committee was presented by H. Rennie, and W. L. Rigg was appointed floating member for September. Prone method practices were given in August by H. Loveless, and H. Rennie was appointed to carry out same in the current month. C. H. Buskard gave the monthly statement of the benevolent fund, and with the report of the publicity committee by W. A. Reynolds, the meeting adjourned.

CROOKSTON VISITOR IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Injured Man Rushed to Madoc, and Later to Belleville Hospital.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.)—Arthur Bolyear of Toronto received a fractured leg and possibly internal injuries near Crookston, while walking along the tracks. The man was brought to Madoc and examined by Drs. Harper and Beatty, later brought to Belleville Hospital for a complete examination. Mr. Bolyea came to Crookston on Saturday to visit his parents and was proceeding to visit friends when the accident occurred.

Social Worker Will Visit Keene District

An unusual event is announced for the Keene United Church on Thursday, September 11th. "Mother" Whitemore, who is known throughout the world as the Founder of the Door of Hope will speak at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

Mrs. Whittemore was a fashionable society woman in the city of New York and about forty years ago was led to give her life to the uplift of the fallen. She has faced murderous men and women in the vilest dens of vice and her stories of regeneration have thrilled multitudes in all parts of the world.

NURSES HAVE SHORTER HOURS

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10. (C.P.)—As a measure towards relief of unemployment the board of trustees of Ottawa Civic Hospital have decided to provide an eight hour working day for nurses on the staff. Three shifts of nurses will now be employed daily in place of the present double shift of 12 hours each.

OFFICER OUTRUN DURING GUN DUEL

Sandwich Police Combing Neighborhood For Two Who Fired on Constable.

RADIATOR PUNCTURED.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 10.—(CP)—District public are searching for at least two and possibly three men who early this morning engaged in a running gun fight with Constable Murray Webster of the Sandwich police force. Webster was on patrol when he spied the other car without rear number plates. He followed the car which was moving at a reasonable rate until it swung into Seven Mile Road at the Sandwich-Ojibway boundary. As the car speeded up there was a burst of flames and a bullet whistled past the police car. A second bullet punctured the radiator of the car. Webster opened fire in return but is not certain whether any of his bullets found their mark as his car soon heated and he had to give up the pursuit.

YOUNG BURGLARS GIVEN 17 YEARS

Two Admit Robberies in Galt, Preston, Kitchener, Elmira.

SENT TO PORTSMOUTH.

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 10. (C.P.)—Two youthful burglars who last week admitted thefts in Galt, Preston, Kitchener and Elmira, were given heavy sentences in police court here today by Magistrate Weir. Alcide Fontaine, 22, was given ten years at Portsmouth penitentiary and his companion, Howard Trupp, 24, of this city, was given seven years.

Two jewelery stores in Preston and the Government liquor store at Elmira suffered the largest losses.

GUNBOATS ROUT CHINESE REBELS

Reds Along Yangtse River Bank Use Mortars on Two Vessels.

MORTARS DESTROYED.

HANKOW, China, Sept. 10.—Two foreign gunboats repulsed Communists attacks at nearby points on the Yangtse River yesterday inflicting heavy damage on their adversaries. Dispatches said neither of the foreign gunboats suffered casualties.

The warships involved were the British Ladybird and the United States gunboat Tutuil.

A roving Communist band fired upon the Tutuil with machine guns and trench mortars about 80 miles above Yoohow, Hunan Province. The warship answered with three-inch rifles and machine guns. The bandits were dislodged from their position along the river bank. Their mortars were destroyed. Dispatches failed to state whether any reds were killed or wounded.

MADOC CHURCHES

MADOC, Sept. 10.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A bright autumn Sunday brought good congregations to all the churches of the community on Sunday, 7th inst.

The annual camp meeting of the Standard Church of America was opened on Friday, 5th, at Ivanhoe, with Sunday services at 8.00, 10.00, 2.30, and 7.30. Bishop Monahan is in charge, so the usual services at the Standard church were withdrawn in the village.

At the United Church, services were commenced by Sunday school and Bible classes at ten o'clock, and morning worship at eleven o'clock, which were taken by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers, who followed up his introductory address of last Sunday on the Apostle's Creed, by taking as his subject, "The First Article of the Apostle's Creed." The subject for the evening service at seven o'clock was "A Strong Man."

At St. Peter's Presbyterian church, services were as usual, beginning with Sunday school and Bible Class at ten o'clock. The subject for the morning service was "The faithful and the faithless" and the evening subject was "A great contest."

At the Church of St. John the Baptist (Anglican) Sunday school was held as usual at ten o'clock, with Holy Communion and sermon at eleven o'clock, the subject taken by Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds being, "The work of the Holy Spirit" from the text taken from St. John's Gospel, 3:8: "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou are hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and wither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit." A seven p.m. there was evensong and sermon.

At Sacred Heart church, Roman Catholic, morning service was held at eleven a.m. with the celebration of the Mass.

OBITUARY

FRANK McCAW.

TWEED, September 10.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of Frank McCaw took place on Thursday morning at nine o'clock at St. Cartagha Church, Tweed, where the Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Dean O'Riordan. Interment took place in St. Cartagha Cemetery. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, four daughters, and three sons.

ELIZABETH WRIGHT RODGERS.

STIRLING, September 10 (Examiner Correspondence). — The death occurred in Belleville on Thursday morning of Elizabeth, wife of John Rodgers of Stirling, after a brief illness, at the age of 86 years. The deceased was born in Stirling and lived practically all her life here. She had been on an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Martin, when overtaken with death.

She was married over fifty years ago and leaves to mourn her loss her husband, who is in his 93rd year, also two daughters, Mrs. Martin of Belleville and Mrs. H. Bell of Stirling and one son, John A., of Long Beach, Cal. Three grandchildren also survive.

During her long life she was a faithful member of the Methodist church. The funeral service was held in the Stirling United church on Saturday afternoon with her pastor, the Rev. E. W. Rowland, in charge, assisted by the Rev. A. E. McCutcheon of Belleville. The burial was in Stirling cemetery.

HAVELOCK SCHOOL LINES UP SPORTS

Pupils of Continuation School Prepare For Meet Staged in October.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—Havelock Continuation School students are actively engaged these days after school hours, organizing for the school sports which will be held some time early in October. The sports committee is composed of two students from each form and this committee, under the direction of the principal, Mr. G. F. Coates, is mapping out a program for the current season. Members of the committee are as follows: 1st Form — Helen Bedford and Gerald Whitney; 2nd Form — Gwendoline Rutherford and Billie Rose; 3rd Form — Alma Clarke and Keith Knox. Six ball teams have been formed, and there will be inter-class competitions at various times.

Following are the teams which have been formed: Rinkey Dinks, Supremes, Stars, Canucks, Pole Cats and Comets. Captain of the teams are as follows: Keith Knox, Alma Clarke, Bert Hagerman, Gerald Whitney, Nelson Chiles, Bill Rose. Other sports which are being talked of for competitions are horse-shoes, basketball, pole vaulting, shot putting, running broad jump, high jumping, javelin throwing, short distance sprinting, and distance running.

There will also be a school literary society.

There are about sixty-seven students enrolled in the Continuation School, which is thought to be the largest ever enrolled here. Miss Mildred Redden of Tamworth is the new assistant, and Mr. G. F. Coates continues as principal. The classes are not quite so well balanced this year, there being not nearly so many boys as in other years.

LODGES ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

Interesting Address Read to I. O.O.F. No. 179 Members at Madoc United Church.

LARGE CONGREGATION.

MADOC, Sept. 10.—On Sunday afternoon at two o'clock the I.O.O.F. No. 179, Madoc, and Oakdale Rebekah Lodge attended Divine service at Trinity United church on the 110th anniversary, after which they marched to Lakeview cemetery where they decorated the graves of about forty-nine deceased members and remembered some fifteen who are buried elsewhere. About eighty members and visiting members were in attendance, and music was furnished by Marmora Community Band.

Visiting members were present from Marmora, Tweed, Stirling, Thomasburg, Springbrook, and members of the Canton in Belleville. To martial airs played by the Marmora Band, the members marched to the church where they were joined by the Rebekahs, and all marched into the church to the processional of the pipe-organ played by Miss L. M. Ramsay. "Stand Up, and Bless the Lord," was used as the opening hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, and the 41st Psalm responsivley.

Scripture lessons followed, taken from the eighteenth chapter of First Samuel and part of the first chapter of Second Samuel, David's love for Jonathan, and his lament. The choir's selection was "All Hail," with Mesdames Hulin, Moon, Whytock, Hough, Wellman, Parks and Embury, and Messrs. Wellman, Sills, and Hawthorne in the choir.

During the offertory, the organist played "Melody in F," by Rockwell. The sermon was preceded by the hymn "He liveth long who liveth well."

After a brief welcome to the assembled Oddfellows and Rebekahs, the Rev. Mr. Rivers introduced his theme, "Brotherhood," taking as his text, Proverbs 18:24: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly," and "There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." Friends, he said, may be very helpful, but some we are much better without. We call many friends, but the title is often carelessly granted. The term is worthy of a much more careful use.

Considering how to get friends, some may say, Get rich, for the rich make many friends. Some say, Give presents, and the generous giver expects to have many friends, but to show himself friendly is a very sure way to have good friends.

A true friend does not change with adversity. Unmerited dishonor will not change him, and even though we fall into sin, a friend will stay close to help and try to save. Friendship is elevated by piety, and tested by adversity.

Quoting Shakespeare and other great writers, Mr. Rivers showed the great value of a true friend, and the harm of a false friend. False friends bring distress and irritation, as in the case of Job. The value of a great friendship was shown in the case of George Elliott's "Silas Marner", Ruth and Naomi, and David and Jonathan.

Human friendship is often imperfect, and even the friends of Jesus forsook Him and fled. Jesus is the only true Friend. "O, how He loves." The secret of true friendship is love.

Brotherhood is stronger than friendship, but some brothers are unnatural as Cain and Abel. Others are truly helpful as Andrew and Peter, James and John. Jesus sticketh closer than a brother. He enters into our heart and life. He is closer in knowledge, sympathy, and patience. He is always the same, and ever lives. He sticketh closer.

After prayer, a beautiful quartette was rendered by Mrs. Hulin, Mrs. Whytock, R. Wellman and W. Hawthorne, "The Old Rugged Cross." The hymn "One There Is Above All Others", was followed by the Benediction.

The members of the Orders then proceeded to the cemetery for the decoration of the graves. Along the line of march on East St. Lawrence street, stands the War Memorial, and halting there, a beautiful wreath was placed in loving rememberance of "Our Boys" who fell in the Great War.

Arrived at the cemetery, the members of the Oddfellows decorated the graves of deceased brothrs and the Rebekahs those of sisters deceased. The band and Lodges marched back to the Lodge rooms to the music of the band before dismissing.

Elaine And Her Ideas From Paris

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DIGESTIVE TRACT CAUSE OF ACNE OR PIMPLES.

I try to talk about acne or 'pimples at least once a year, because it is an embarrassing condition just at a time when the individual is most interested in his or her appearance.

Acne starts at about the age of puberty just when some glands are ceasing to work in the body and others are just getting started; the oil glands and the hair follicles are becoming more active.

Now although there is an organism thought to be the direct cause, that the digestive system enters into the causation is now generally admitted.

Research workers find that in practically every case, some little defect in the digestive tract can be found.

These defects are over acidity of the stomach juice; the food staying too long in the stomach or intestine; the walls of the stomach or intestine often too weak to move their contents along rapidly enough

Often the stomach or the intestine is 'dropped', placed too low in the abdomen.

Now you can see what the effect upon the blood is going to be when there is this laziness in the movement of the stomach and intestine. The blood is going to be laden with wastes, and of a consistency that will not nourish the tissues and clear away the broken down or used tissues.

The material, the oil, in the oil glands of the skin, gets so thick that it doesn't pour out on the skin to make the skin soft and pliable.

This oil gets infected and you have acne or pimples.

Now most individuals can eat everything and anything and because their glands are working right, or because their stomach or intestines move contents along properly or for other reasons, they haven't the slightest trouble with the skin.

Other individuals have to watch the diet carefully, cutting down on tea, coffee and alcohol, and avoiding pork, veal, fats, cheese, and some kinds of fish.

There are hundreds of preparations used to apply externally, containing mercury, sulphur, arsenic, zinc or other drugs. The X-ray treatment has given brilliant results in many cases.

The thought then is to keep the abdominal muscles tight by exercise, perhaps an abdominal belt in some cases, cutting down on the foods mentioned above, the use of a little alkali, like baking soda, besides the medical or other treatment prescribed by your physician.

Don't get discouraged. Most cases can be greatly helped, and the digestive tract is the part that needs watchful care.

Norham L. A. Corn Roast Much Enjoyed

NORHAM, Sept. 10. — (Examiner Correspondence)—On Friday evening the Ladies' Aid of Codrington Church held a corn roast and pumpkin pie social on the grounds of the church.

A large bonfire was lit on the grounds and in the early part of the evening, games were played around the fire. After everyone had been liberally served with corn and pumpkin pie, there was a sing-song which included old favorites, rounds, spirituals, and patriotic songs.

On Friday evening a number of the young people of Norham enjoyed a corn and marshmallow roast on the flats, south of Mr. Willam Huycke's home.

WEDDING BELLS

HONEY—DIAMOND

NORHAM, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Saturday, September 6th, at 12 o'clock a quiet but very beautiful wedding was solemnized by Rev. D. R. Clare, B.A., B.D., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Diamond, Norham, Ontario, when their daughter, Della Marie, became the bride of Mr. William Honey, son of Mr. Richard Honey and the late Mrs. Honey of Dartford.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and streamers—the color scheme in the house and verandah was in yellow and white.

The ceremony took place under a large white bell on the spacious verandah banked with ferns and autumn flowers.

The bride entered on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelsshon's wedding march played by Miss Florence Clare.

The bride was gowned in white georgette and lace with an embroidered silk net veil trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a beautiful bouquet of delphiniums.

Miss Jeanne Diamond, Wellsville, N.Y., in nile green chiffon and carrying an attractive bouquet of pink asters was her sister's bridesmaid.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Walter Honey.

After the reception a buffet lunch was served by friends of the bride Misses Pearl Church of Streetsville and Florence Clare and Mr. Norman McCubbin.

Mr. and Mrs. Honey left for an extended trip to Banff and other western points, the bride travelling in a rose beige flecked tweed travel coat with dress, hat and shoes to match.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Honey will live in Dartford.

The guests included Mr. Diamond Sr. and Mrs. Mary Diamond, Campbellford; Mr. Richard Honey, Mr. Walter Honey, Mr. Charles Honey and Mr. and Mrs. Denike of Dartford; Mrs. Hamilton and daughter and Miss Honey of Toronto; Miss Pearl Church of Streetsville; Miss J. Diamond of Wellsville; Rev. and Mrs. Clare and Miss Florence Clare and Mr. N. McCubbin of Norham.

INSTITUTE PLANS DENTAL INSPECTION

Stirling Society to Interview Village Board of Education Regarding Same.

STIRLING, Sept. 10.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Women's Institute resumed their monthly meetings last Thursday evening in the Community Hall. Several accounts were presented and on motion were ordered to be paid. A communication from the secretary of the Agricultural Society asking that the Institute decorate the booth used for the baby show. This they agreed to do. A committee was appointed to interview the school board regarding dental inspection in the schools.

The program was in charge of the chairman of health, Mrs. George Bailey. A duet was sweetly sung by two little girls, Helen Jeffrey and Lillian Mathews. Dr. F. C. Walt's health talk was both interesting and instructive. The roll call was answered by "Don'ts for the sick room." An instrumental selection was given by Mrs. C. Cain. A paper on co-operation by the president, Mrs. A. Shaw, concluded the program. The lunch hostesses were Mesdames Corrigal, Spry, Tullock and Meiklejohn.

The high and public schools of Stirling opened on Tuesday with two new principals. Increased attendance was noted in both schools.

Manual training and domestic science will be taught in the public school and equipment is being installed for this purpose.

Petty thieving and shop-breaking has been somewhate prevalent of late. The Dominion Stores grocery was entered twice and Saturday morning entrance had been made into Lowry and Sons' store by sawing through the back door. Harry Jones, who is a mail courier, when on his way to the post office at an early hour saw Horace Budd, a well-know young man, who works for Michael Shea on the farm until a few months ago, crossing the field to the south of the village. Later when Mr. Luery found his store had been entered suspicion centered on young Budd. The provincial police were notified and later on the young man was traced to Mr. Shea's sugar camp where he was arrested and taken to Belleville.

From the old South to Canada

A coffee so rich, so mellow, that those who taste it once never forget it

AWAY down South in Dixie! What a picture comes to mind of Southern hospitality—of good things to eat and drink—of famous hotels. To this day silvery-haired enthusiasts recount the glories of the old Maxwell House in Nashville, Tennessee.

They will tell you of the brilliant balls—the lavish banquets—the fame of its cuisine—the renown of its coffee.

For the Maxwell House coffee cups imprisoned a blend so rich, so mellow, so absolutely delicious that palates were taken by storm.

How Maxwell House Coffee Came to Canada

By word of mouth, by mail, an ever-widening circle spread the fame of this excellent coffee. And now Maxwell House is sold in Canada by your grocer. Sold in vacuum tins which absolutely protect its freshness.

"GOOD to the LAST DROP"

In 1 lb. and ½ lb. tins.

Freshness Guaranteed by Vacuum Pack

Maxwell House Coffee is vacuum packed for freshness. This wonderful modern method ensures that superb Maxwell House flavour. When you open a Maxwell House vacuum tin the coffee is exactly as it was when it left the grinder—fresher than coffee packed in the ordinary way even one day old. And the tight lid keeps it better after you open it.

First Meeting Of School Association

The Home and School Association of Central School met on Monday evening in the Kindergarten Room of the School for the first meeting of the fall season. The President, Mrs. D. G. Eldred, occupied the chair, and welcomed the members, of whom the represeentation was not large.

The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison.

A financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. P. Gray, but owing to the absence of the secretary, no report of the last meeting could be given.

The banner for the largest number of mothers present was won by the rooms of Mr. Steer and Mr. Frost, who will each have it for two weeks.

The President discussed with the members some ways and means of raising funds for benevolent purposes, as these have been seriously depleted of late owing to the many calls for help which the Society has endeavored to fill. A larger membership would help to solve this problem, so all parents of children at Central School are asked to join and lend their support in such a good cause.

Mrs. Eldred thanked those present for their hearty support, which made the picnic so successful, and asked them to actively co-operate with her in the coming season, and urged every member present to bring a new member, if possible, to the October meeting.

Arrangements are being made to have the entrance certificates presented to the successful pupils at the next meeting. Further notice of this, however, will appear in the press.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Miss Olive Rowe made an efficient pianist for the opening and closing exercises.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

IF WE DO A THING often enough it becomes a sort of a habit, and we continue to do it in a sort of unconscious manner. We also acquire what is known as a trained eye.

• • • • • • •

This trained eye is of great value to the homemaker. It is something that can be acquired since the very word "trained" implies cultivation.

• • • • • • •

Some persons have a naturally accurate and artistic eye, while others have to depend chiefly upon study and cultivation to get it.

• • • • • • •

A mother who is competent watches her family and discovers, without being told, that Tommy shows signs of a cold, Tommy needs to have her teeth attended to, Billy comes in with wet shoes, etc.

• • • • • • •

Before she had a family she never thought, perhaps, of noting these things in others. Instinctively, she has acquired the training which makes her observant.

• • • • • • •

The family needs her trained eye and benefit by the precautions she makes them observe. Tommy must keep warm and rest, Sally must go to the dentist, and Billy must change to dry shoes, etc.

• • • • • • •

The trained eye helps her in every detail of homemaking. She is quick to detect that a picture is askew on the wall, and it bothers her until it is straightened and her eye satisfied.

• • • • • • •

She notices any tendencies to shabbiness in the furnishings and does what lies within her purse and power to remedy the defects, and keep the home in the best possible condition.

• • • • • • •

She notices, too, when the larder is low in any special thing, and orders a new supply.

• • • • • • •

In short the trained eye is a benefit in every household matter in which observation can prove useful.

• • • • • • •

One of the great advantages of a trained eye is that it not only discovers immediately when things are wrong, but notes what should be done to make them right.

• • • • • • •

Sometimes it takes time and thought to make things right.

• • • • • • •

And so we see the training of the eye is a constructive bit of education. It gets to be as quick to detect beauty in having things correct and well-ordered as in noting when they are wrong.

The model in the (left) of this illustration is from Goupy, who deceives the onlooker by the bolero which turns out to be a wide band applied to the bodice. It is finished with a curved line and bow. Note the peplum skirt. The dress is of crepe de chine. Even more capricious is Lucille Paray in the dinner-dress at the (right) of the illustration. One short sleeve is added while the front of the bodice is cut to form a shoulder cape in the back and tying on the right shoulder. A circular peplum is added across the back of the skirt and brought around to the left only to be dropped in favor of an applied band; the dress is of ochre chiffon.—Sketch is by Vogue.

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS BEAUTIFUL IF THEY NEVER USE BRAINS

So Says Earl Carroll — Chorus Girls Seldom Land Millionaires.

BLONDES DUMBEST.

(By Gordon A. Sinclair. Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (SNS). — Beauty and brains don't go any better together than ice-cream and lobster or Red Riding Hood and the bull ring. Earl Carroll says so and while Earl doesn't claim to be a master of mentality he does claim to be a past master of pulchritude.

"Beautiful girls can only stay beautiful so long as they never think. Therefore, the show girls and ladies of the ensemble in my vanities ought to be beautiful for many years to come," the baron of beauty smiled when I caught him for an off-parade interview recently. "Blondes are just a bit goofier than brunettes but I may have that all wrong — you see I have more blondes than brunettes," he added.

Since that bath-tub party which got him a long rest down Georgia way, Carroll has closed his refrigerated reception room to the newsboys and hidden in a garret. I found him there toying with plans for the new theatre, which is his answer to challenge of the talkies.

At this stage the press agent remembered his job. "We got the most beautiful girls in all the world. Not one of them over 20. They are marvellous," he exclaimed. Mr. Carroll soon afterwards announced that some of the girls in his show were 25 or more. He and his press agent should meet some time.

"I think the average age of our girls is 18 or 19," the producer went on. "Of course their mental ages runs lower than that—about five years lower."

"And I suppose a Vanities girl is always expected to marry a millionaire?" "There is some popular fable to that effect. Offhand I can't recall any of our girls ever marrying a millionaire, although some of them think they have prize packages. One of our girls did marry Sir Hubert Wilkins, the British polar explorer and caused a lot of chatter among the others when she blossomed out as Lady Wilkins."

"And how long can a chorus girl last on Broadway — about two years?" "That's a fair average. After that they pass on. We have two girls who have been with us five years. They are looked on as the grandmothers of the troupe."

"And no millionaires sought them out in this five years?" "One thought she had a millionaire. You see the man who called on her had a coonskin coat, a coupe, and a brief case. What you might call one important hombre."

"A man with a coon coat and a coupe is a millionaire around Times Square?" "Yes, sir, and how — where chorines are concerned."

Back stage at Carroll's show is a chart showing various specifications of the girls in the troupe. Among others is their weight which must be brought up to date twice a week. For instance, Grace Moore, a Canadian girl, goes about 119. If by next Saturday Grace touches 123, there will be viewings with alarm. If the following Saturday sees her at 127 or 128, it's just too bad for Grace.

"The perfect woman used to be 5 foot 4 and 120," Carroll explained. "Now she has to be taller, five foot six or even seven and still about 120. That's what the public wants."

Many Applicants.

When Carroll is casting for a new show he gets thousands of applicants and when he's not casting he gets mash notes. Just for fun he tabulated the ages of applicants who lined up for his last attempt at pleasing the tired business man. They ran from 12 to 55, from 87 pounds to 193. The one at 193 got a job and is now in the show — but not as a Vanity Venus.

"Lots of fellows have the idea that looking at beautiful girls all day is a soft job. It's not. In the first place the average applicant is hopeless from the start. Some are homely as a pig's tail, but we have to be courteous and kindly to them all. Then, even chorus girls get temperamental. After a few hours of this sort of thing I get girl blind and can't tell the good from the bad. After the sheep are separated from the goats come the letters and other insulting documents from the unsuccessful ones. Oh, sure, it's a great life. Then you spend thousands on costumes, scenery, photographs, advertising and a hundred other things and hope people will come to see the show. If they don't you start all over again."

Carroll insists movies can't take the place of live actors so he has started a 3,000 seater on Broadway which will be the first strictly modernistic theatre in America. It is being designed by the man who built the Parliament Buildings and University of Hungary at Budapest, and will have only 30 rows of orchestra seats. The whole interior will be stainless steel.

"The idea is to give the public better shows at less money. That sounds like so much hokum but we won't charge over $3 in the new house against $6 now and we'll pay the girls a flat minimum of $100 a week compared with $75 a week now," the producer said.

Mr. Carroll is young, blonde, partly bald and thin. He doesn't mind being thin but does mind getting bald. He says he is vain and that every other producer and actor is vain or else they would be in some other business.

STRIKE TO IMPROVE.

Every wrong propensity may be finally subdued or considerably corrected; every right one may be assisted by additional motives and carried on to yet higher perfection. Even in the worst characters some capacity for virtuous improvement, of which no vestige has yet been observed, may be discovered or drawn forth. —Blair.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS COMMUNITY WORRY

Belief That Men Over 45 Discriminated Against is Denied.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10, (C.P.)—Underlying factors connected with the unemployment problem are being probed by delegates attending the international association of Public Employment Services' annual convention here in an effort to effect a possible solution.

H. C. Hudson, provincial superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada and President of the Association, declared at last night's meeting that "probably there were more men and women unemployed in Canada and United States than in any year since 1930-31. All employment officials, he continued, were faced with a responsibility doubly serious compared with that during normal times.

The fact public attention finally has become centred on the problem, "had realised for the first time in history" that it was not the fault of the men out of work and that it was a problem for the community," he cited as the one bright spot in the situation.

Mr. Hudson said the Association was meeting co-incidentally with the special session of Parliament and was confident that its deliberations and decisions would be watched by all in attendance, not to mention all Canada and other countries as well, to note the Dominion's attempts to solve the problem.

Roswell Phelps, director of statistics for the Massachusetts department of Labor and Industries, exploded the belief that older workers, particularly those above 40 or 45 years of age, were discriminated against in industry and in their ability to get jobs. Careful surveys, he said, showed that placements were more frequent of men over 45 and under 55 than of those in lower age groups.

The General Electric Refrigerator is more than a luxury . . . .

"IT'S AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY" Says Canadian Food Inspector

OWNER enthusiasm for the General Electric Refrigerator is reflected in the following unsolicited letter from a well-known Canadian food inspector (name on request):

"Some time ago I purchased a General Electric refrigerator and it has given satisfaction far beyond expectations.

"I thought it would be a luxury but it is an absolute necessity in any household and will soon pay for itself in the saving of foods.

"I placed a pint of milk in the refrigerator and at the end of eight days it was perfectly sweet.

"The General Electric Refrigerator operates 100 per cent. perfect. It is extremely economical to run."

The General Electric Refrigerator is a necessity because it not only safeguards health . . . but it also safeguards the family budget.

Day after day and year after year . . . without any attention . . . the General Electric maintains a temperature well below 50 degrees . . . the danger line above which foods spoil rapidly.

Toronto Abandons All Hopes of Gaining Title

LEAFS SCORE 2-1 WIN OVER MONTREAL CLUB

Royal Batsmen Get Only Five Hits Off Gibson's Slants.

WINGS ADD TO LEAD.

Baltimore Suffers 11-2 Beating at Hands of Newark Bears.

TORONTO, September 10 (Canadian Press). — The list of contenders, actual and mathematical, for the International League pennant had dwindled from four to three today with Toronto abandoning the fight to Rochester, Baltimore, and Montreal.

Toronto won from Montreal yesterday, 2 to 1, but lost its last mathematical chance to win the pennant when Rochester trounced Buffalo, 12 to 6. Toronto now is 13½ games behind first place with only 13 games to play and thus cannot gain even a tie even should the Leafs win all their remaining games while Rochester loses all of its remaining 12 contests.

Montreal's Royals also are in a precarious condition so far as pennant hopes go for they now are 11½ games behind first place with 11 games to play.

The best the Royals can do now is to tie by winning 11 straight games while Rochester loses 12. The Baltimore Orioles, holding second place, are not much better off for the Redwings lead them by seven and one-half games with 13 full games still on Baltimore's card Even should the Orioles win all their remaining games, Rochester still could win the pennant by capturing six of their last 12 games.

Rochester made full use of 10 hits and eight bases on balls, to swamp Buffalo yesterday even though the Redwings were outhit, 15 to 10. The leaders scored six runs in the second inning on five hits and four in the eight on one safety to pile up a winning advantage. Grant went the route for the Redwings despite the fact that he was hit freely.

Baltimore suffered an 11-2 beating at the hands of Newark Bears, who have won nine of their last 12 games and appear to have clinched fifth place in the standings. Jim Faulkner gave the Orioles only seven hits, while the Bears clouted four pitchers for 19 safeties of which Jordan got a homer, double, and two singles to drive in seven runs.

2-1 Win for Toronto.

Sam Gibson's great pitching was the chief factor in Toronto's close victory over Montreal. Gibson permitted only five hits, struck out seven and would have had a shutout had not Shortstope Cote let loose with a wild throw in the eighth inning The Leafs scored their first run off Herb. Thormahlen in the fourth in two infield errors—a safe bunt and an infield out. Their second run came off Walter Brown in the seventh on Sheedy's triple and Richardson's single. Only 300 fans saw the game, the smallest crowd of the season

In a duel of tail-enders, Reading tightened its grip on seventh place by defeating Jersey City, 7-3, in a night game at Reading. Herrmann pitched effectively for the Keys, keeping Jersey City's nine hits well scattered. Reading, on the other hand, made the most of the nine safeties permitted by Allen and Moore. Reading's victory broke a four-game losing streak, while Jersey City's defeat was its ninth reverse in a row.

ROGERS QUALIFIES TO OPPOSE TILDEN

Irish Tennis Star Defeats Ellsworth Vines 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., September 10. — A fighting Irishman, Lyttleton Rogers, drew himself up to his full height of 6 feet 7 inches, took a firm grib on his racquet and provided the national tennis singles championship with its daily thrill yesterday afternoon by defeating young Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

The victory carried the biggest tennis player in the world into the fourth round where he will encounter Bill Tilden to-day "Big Bill," whose 6 feet 1 inch of altitude will be dwarfed by the giant Davis Cup ace from Ireland, outclassed Ed. Feibleman of New York, the twentieth ranking player of the country, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, and took advantage of the opportunity to pull off all manner of spectacular shots for the benefit of the gallery of 5500.

BATTING ARMS AND EYES OF HACK WILSON

When Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs pounded out his 45th and 46th home run in a game recently at the Windy City, he passed Babe Ruth in the race for the major league circuit clouting championship and his prowess was wildly acclaimed by many thousand fans. Many of these some enthusiasts couldn't say anything too harsh about him when he lost several fly balls in the sun in the baseball classic of 1929, which the Athletics won. No. 1 shows Wilson's grip. No. 2 shows him after making one of his tremendous homers. No. 3 shows his telescopic eyes.

Strenuous Workout Is Held By Tigers

Gibb, Languay, Cox and Wright Absent For Practice.

HAMILTON, Sept. 10.—Four members of the Dominion grid champions absented themselves from last night's practice, namely, Gibb, Languay, Cox and "Beano" Wright, but their absence did not interfere in any way with the strenuous program mapped out by Coach Rodden, and for ninety minutes the squad, augmented by several Ontario Union players and "Abe" Zvonkin, Delta star of the past three years, went through a stiff drill. Considerable time was spent on new plays, and, judging from the condition displayed, it is safe to say that it will not take many more workouts to put the majority of the squad in mid-season form. Interference was also worked on last night, and when it was all over the coach seemed to be well pleased with the form displayed.

TORONTO, Ont., September 9 (C. P.). — Work will be commenced shortly on the extension of the Royal Ontario Museum on Bloor Street. The extension will cost close to $1,000,000, and it is thought this will be a big move toward relieving the unemployment situation.

Cleghorn To Pilot New York Americans In National League Hockey Title Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—It will occasion little surprise if Sprague Cleghorn signs as manager of the New York American National Hockey League Club. It is known that overtures have been made to him, and, according to Montreal opinion, Cleghorn will accept. Last year he managed the Providence Reds, champions of the Canadian-American League and one of the best minor loop teams.. Cleghorn took over the reins of control at a time when the Reds were near the cellar, but under his leadership they were undefeated in eleven consecutive games, and then went on to capture the title. When with Boston, many gave credit to Cleghorn for the great showing the Bruins made. He was regarded as "the brains" of the team, but he didn't linger long when that opinion gained ground and received credence in the Hub City. During the illness of Art Ross two years ago the Bruins forged to the front, and Cleghorn was in sole charge at that time. However the spring found him released, and he took over charge of the late lamented Newark professionals. The latter had no home arena, and played all games on the road. Under such conditions, they could hardly hope to be championship contenders, and they ran true to form along those lines, and eventually disbanded. Cleghorn again becoming a free lance. The Montreal athlete has had an extraordinary career, and he rates with the best defense men of all time. He made his professional debut with the Renfrew Millionaires in 1911, and after that starred for Canadiens, the Montreal Wanderers, Boston, Toronto and Ottawa, and this despite the fact that before the war, he at different times, fractured both legs near the ankles. Most athletes would have been useless after such mishaps, but they never bothered Cleghorn, who continued to stand out in the fastest hockey company in the world.

ROBINS BLANK CHICAGO CUBS

National League Race Grows Tighter Than Ever as Result.

SETBACK FOR CARDS.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Seven games involving the four contending teams in the National League pennant race ought to be enough to settle the dispute for good. But the opening clashes in the concurrent crucial series which bring the league leading Chicago Cubs against the third place Brooklyn Robins and St. Louis, holder of second place, against New York, possessor of the fourth, have only served to increase the tensity of the race.

The lower ranking clubs were victorious yesterday, and instead of starting to effect a settlement, they placed four clubs within a space of three games in the standing to fight it out. After Brooklyn's 3 to 0 triumph over the Cubs and New York's 2 to 1 victory over St. Louis yesterday, here is how the four leaders lined up:

	Won	Lost	P.C.	Games behind	To Play
Chicago.	80	57	.584	2½	17
St. Louis	77	59	.584	2½	18
Brooklyn.	78	60	.565	2½	16
New York	77	60	.562	3	18

Brooklyn's Robins were the most highly triumphant team of the four yesterday. For the Robins not only gained a full game on the two teams that are ahead of them, but they went into a virtual tie with St. Louis for second place, trailing by only one point, and had the additional pleasure of shutting out the league leaders.

The Robins' two babes, Phelps and Herman, performed the greater part of the feat between them. Given great support, Phelps limited the Cubs to five hits as he bested Pat Malone in a pitching duel. Herman put the finishing touch on the struggle in the eighth inning when he slammed the ball into the left field bleachers for his 31st home run and the last two runs of the game. The other run was scored in the first with Frederick's triple as the starting point. Gilbert did the scoring, getting to second when Frederick was run down between third and home and tallying on an infield out and Wright's single.

The Giants had an even closer battle with St. Louis, going seven innings before either team could score against the experienced hurling of Clarence Mitchell and Burleigh Grimes. In the first six frames these two veterans allowed only seven hits between them.

The Cards scored first when two singles and a sacrifice gave them a run in the first half of the seventh, but the Giants got to Grimes for a single and a double to open their half of the game and scored twice on a pair of hits to the infield.

The remaininng game on the day's National League schedule served only to extend Cincinnati's latest losing streak to six games as the Phillies defeated the Reds, 8 to 5. Frank O'Doul, acting as a pinch hitter, clouted a home run with two on base in the sixth to tie the score.

JIMMY MOORE WINS FOR A'S

Athletics Star Records His 26th Victory—Senators Win Long Game.

YANKS BEAT INDIANS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(CP)— The American League race once more was unchanged although Washington's Senators had a long hard struggle to keep from losing ground. It was not until the twelfth inning that the Senators put on one of their characteristic rallies, scoring five runs to defeat St. Louis, 8 to 4. The Browns had knotted the count at 3-3 in the ninth inning of a close duel between Hadley and Collins.

The league leading Philadelphia Athletics likewise had their troubles in Detroit and came out on the long end of a 3 to 1 score only through the efforts of their slugging recruit outfield, Jim Moore, who broke up the struggle between Lefty Grove and Earl Whitehill by inserting his second home run in the two weeks or less, he has been with the A.'s in the middle of it. The homer provided the margin that enabled Grove to win his 26th game of the season.

The New York Yanks clung to their slim chance of overtaking the A.'s by combining some of their 16 hits with gifts from Cleveland pitchers to defeat the Indians, 8 to 6. Five hit batsmen were among the features of the game, which was notable principally for its poor pitching.

The Chicago White Sox combined the day's biggest collection of hits, 19, with a five hit pitching job by Pat Caraway to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 1.

DIEGEL SCORES EASY VICTORY

Tommy Armour Also Wins Easily in P. G. A. Tournament.

SARAZEN EXTENDED.

PLUSHING, September 10. — The Professional Golfers' Association championship, the annual match play battle of the pros., almost lost its host yesterday in the very first round.

Gene Sarazen, home pro., was brought to the thirty-sixth hole by Charles Schneider, young Philadelphian, before the man who has held this title twice, and has won the open championship, was able to shake him off, one up.

Horton Smith, another favorite, was one down to Billy Burke, Greenwich, with only six holes left to play, but the half dozen were enough for the tall Missourian promptly levelled matters and then won two straight holes to become dormie. The margin was two and one.

Diegel Wins Easily.

Leo Diegel, the defending champion, won with little effort from Henri Sluci, young pro., who is either very good or very bad. He was good in the afternoon but he was bad in the morning, and when he struck his stride Diegel was too far ahead to be overhauled, winning eight and seven.

Tommy Armour had the widest margin of victory of the day, with a victory over Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass., eleven up and ten to play.

Wiffy Cox, one of the colorful figures of the tournament, was put out by Bob Crowley, Haverhill, Mass., four and three.

The Fry brothers from California, Mark and Earl, were defeated after they had led their opponents at the luncheon recess. Mark Fry was stopped by Al Espinosa, two and one. Earl fell before Laule Ayton, 4 and 5.

Al Watrous and Eric Seavall fought out a great battle before the Michigan pro. nosed the Californian out. They were all even when 30 holes had been played.

McLARNIN HAS GREAT DEFENSE SAYS EX-CHAMP

Singer Has Only Slight Chance of Flattening Vancouver Irishman.

CANUCK TOO RUGGED.

Although New Yorker May Get Decision in Opening Rounds of Fight.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., September 10. — Among those sold on Jimmy McLarnin to flatten Al. Singer on Thursday night, is Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion and veteran of nearly 400 ring battles

Johnny sat on the jury here today and was deeply impressed with the arguments advanced by the Vanu couver flash in the form of left hooks, right crosses and defensive tactics that are reminiscent of the Dundee style of evading punishment

"I don't think it will go more than four rounds," said Dundee, "and it should be a great show while it lasts. The first good punch should settle it."

Dundee likes to study form and never depends on second hand information. He was a visitor at Singer's camp on Saturday and while commenting on the lightweight champion's condition, boxing skill and training methods, could not quite bring himself to believe that youth will triump in this fight. Johnny had already taken a peek at McLarnin.

He dropped in here again to-day to sum up the eye evidence and after watching the Belfast Biffer chug through four rounds in the outdoor ring cast his vote for Jimmy.

"Singer is good," he reasoned, "but how can you take it away from this fellow. He has everything ,plus experience, and is the more rugged of the two. Singer may pop him, but he won's slay him with one punoh, I'm sure of that. McLarnin is the kind that gets up.

Jimmy Strong.

"Age has not grabbed Jmmy yet, he is a master boxer, a terrific hitter, resourceful on defense and certainly he is a better ring general than Singer. He owns a pair of legs that will brace him against extraordinary shocks. He holds his strength and is apt to hit you as hard in the ninth round as the first.

"I give Singer a chance in the early rounds. He is fast and he may drop one of his rights over early and reach the button. Singer burns up energy by his rapid feinting and leg bouncng. If he doesn't cop in three rounds I don't believe he can floor McLarnin even if he could call his shot."

At the Theatres

"SINS OF THE CHILDREN."

"I am the rich man. You are the failure!" thundered Adolf Wagenkampf to the rich banker, as he turned from the wealthy home to the street. "I have the love of my children. Your son fears you!"

"Sins of the Children" is one of those strong dramas of paternal love that seems to be a cross section of life itself. The German accent of Louis Mann, as he portrays the role of the barber, Adolf, seems to harmonize with the story that unfolds itself the tale of the man who lost his temper once, in Heidelberg, and never again thereafter. He loved his home and his children. He made Ludwig a doctor and the boy changed his name to Lawrence and married a snobbish wife. He refused to help the father who had given him money, and put him through college. Then Johan, collector for a gas company, embezzled funds and once again the father understood and helped the boy. And Alma, the daughter, who went to college also, threw her cap over the windmill.

One by one he helped and loved them, and on Christmas Eve, his shop was going under the auctioneer's hammer.

But it hasn't a sad ending, this talkie with the German flavor. It has a mighty happy and nice one, and the father triumps at last, with the music of "Stille nacht, heilg nacht," ringing in his ears ,and the ears of the audience, as the curtain goes down.

It makes a wonderful character study, and Louis Mann is superb in the role of Adolf. Then there is Robert Montgomery, weak man of "The Divorcee," it will be remembered and the likeable and weak boy of this tale, until he retrieves himself by a sudden change. He is "Nick" Higginson. Elliott Nugent is Johan, the good son who starts out as an embezzler, and finishes ace high, and Leila Hyams is the blonde and loving Alma. —Jeanette.

ASK FEDERAL, PROVINCIAL GOVT'S TO QUIT FIELD OF DIRECT TAXATION

Municipalities Union Would Have Dominion Income Tax Abolished.

SESSION CHOSEN.

HAMILTON, Ont., September 10.—(C. P.) — Resolutions urging the withdrawal of Dominion and Provincial governments from the field of direct taxation and abolition as soon as possible by the Federal Government of the Dominion Income Tax featured the concluding business of the Union of Canadian Municipalities here.

Another resolution approved requests the Federal Government to make provision for the immediate relief of unemployment by undertaking necessary public works or by grants of assistance towards a portion of the cost of public works instituted by municipalities for relief and further appropriations to take care of the cost of unemployment relief works in time of acute industrial depression.

Obligations Reaffirmed.

The convention reaffirmed its obligations of last year to the method of financing old age pensions, which in its opinion, permits the Federal Government to pass on its obligations to the provinces, which in turn are enabled to pass the same on to the municipalities, which should not be required to discharge any but local obligations.

With regard to immigrants who may become indigents withing two years of their arrival in the Dominion, it was urged all charges paid by the municipalities for their temporary relief pending deportation should be assumed by the Dominion government.

It was also resolved to ask the Dominion Railway Commission to establish a reduced railway fare for the transportation of persons unemployed to places where occupation has been secured, subject to regulations as to certification of the facts as they may deem fit.

U.S. Team Needs One Game To Win Title

WESTBURY, N.Y., September 10 (C.P.). — The Meadow Brook Club was a potent magnet for 40,000 spectators to-day as Great Britain and the United States prepared for the second, and perhaps final, game of the 1930 series for the Westchester Cup, emblem of the international polo supremacy.

The United States team, led by Tommy Hitchcock, needed only to capture to-day's contest to end the series and retain the cup, held by this country without a break since 1921.

POLICE ARREST INDIAN WOMEN

Parading in Honor of English Girl Who Joined Gandhi's Ranks.

RIOT ENSUES.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 10 (C.P.)—Thirty women were arrested yesterday for taking part in a procession in honor of "Mirabai," a British girl who forsook Christianity for "Swaraj" and became a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi.

Before her conversion she was Madeline Slade. She is the daughter of a British admiral. Mirabai arrived in Calcutta yesterday afternoon and immediately members of the Congress party arranged the procession in her honor.

Police ordered the marchers to disperse and placed them under arrest when they refused. The crowd then stoned the police, one inspector and two European sergeants being injured.

After the disturbance, police raided one of the buildings attached to Calcutta University. Ten students, including the son of a High Court judge, and ten persons not connected with the university, were injured during the raid.

TURVILLE DRILLS WITH ARGO TEAM

Great Enthusiasm at Scullers' Practice—Robertson Joins Balmy Beach.

SNAPPY WORKOUTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 10. — Generally coaches, executives and non-participants engage in an all talkie prior to each football season and have their team bored to tears before the gridders are actually in working form. Generally there is a great deal of coaxing and wheedling to get the so-called stars from their annual retirement and make a foundation for a team.

General symptoms have gone astray at the Argo drills and last night's conditioning workout saw the Scullers driving themselves four or five extra rounds on the back campus at Varsity. Like Hugh Jenney says: "It seems that there will be no holding the team this year. They are after the title with gusto."

While many of the first night's attendance were cut off there were still sixty taking part in the drill.

Turville in Uniform.

Frank Turville was in uniform last night and his high hoists showed that his hoofing habits have not suffered in the least over the summer and the duration of his first workout marked him to be in fine condition.

In all there were eight new men at the Argo drill last night that seemingly are capable of landing places. Turville, of course, was practically a sure thing. "Red" Vail, stalwart line plunger, who was with St. Thomas juniors last season, was in uniform and looms as a brilliant prospect. Richardson, a wing-man from Gordie Thoms' juniors of 1929; Earl McDougall, a fleet-footed backfielder from Windsor; Firpo Brown, short-sighted but nevertheless effective front rank man; Ritter, a junior last year; Weiner Lough, and Alex. Parkes round out the list of newcomers. Quarterbacks seemed to be a scarcity for the Argos a little while ago, but the last three are all capable ball handlers who will be battling for a relief role for Gordon Beal.

Still confining their work to conditioning the Scullers raced around the field last night, up and down under the long lifts of his majesty, as far as Argos are concerned, the King of Hoof, Frank Turville.

McDougall, who hails from Windsor, will be remembered as the clever catching rearguardsman of the Windsor O.R.F.U. senior team who raced through the Varsity Orfuns for 90 yards last season for a touchdown. Most likely the Varsity players will recall that dash. McDougall also seems to have a reliable pair of hands.

Robertson With Beaches.

Ross Robertson, veteran backfielder, and Lou Snyder have apparently got "the bug" and were at Balmy Beach's practice at the Riverdale Park last night. Neither were in uniform, but both signified their intention of being in the Blue and Gold uniform last night.

Gordie Ford, trainer for Balmy Beach, is again with the Beachers and his muscle stretching and hole patching practices have not yet begun. However, he has his tape, iodine, scissors, absorbent cotton and rubbing liniment on hand and is ready for any emergency. However, he is concentrating on a light season. There are few that can equal the masterful applications of Gordie Ford.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

YACHTS READY FOR CUP RACES

No Action Will Be Taken Following Disputes Over Legality of New Fangled Boom.

DEPENDS ON WEATHER.

NEWPORT, R.I., September 10 (C.P.). — Enterprise, defender in the America's Cup races which start off here on Saturday, to-day was to join Shamrock V., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, on the rails.

Early to-day she was expected at Bristol, where she is to be hauled up and given a final polishing prior to the races. Shamrock V. was sitting on the rails here waiting for her final coat of paint to dry.

The defender went for another spin yesterday with the mainsail attached to the much-discussed sliding-foot boom, the legality of which was questioned on Monday by George Nichols, skipper of the unsuccessful candidate for the defence, Weetamoe.

To-day the excitement caused by boom was dying down. It became obvious that despite Nicholls' protest no one was going to do anything about it.

Should the weather prove heavy during the races, the defender will carry its regular boom, and will make no attempt to experiment with the new contrivance.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ROLLER COASTER.

Uncle Wiggily sat in front of his seaside bungalow cottage at the beach, looking out over the ocean. A little distance away the bunny boys and girls, with their friends, Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow were having fun on the water merry go round. This was a big raft which was twirled about in the sea by a lot of porpoises. Mr. Longears had asked the fish to turn some raft around the raft like an egg beater instead of leaping up and down in the water as porpoises nearly always do.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily saw something bobbing up and down in the water not far from shore. At first he thought it was one of the porpoise fish who, perhaps, had gotten tired of twirling the raft merry go 'round. But when he looked again he saw it was no porpoise.

"Maybe it's another empty bottle, like the one Jackie Bow Wow stuck on the tail of the Sea wolf," though the rabbit gentleman.

But soon he saw it was a big, empty wooden barrel, instead of a bottle, and he said, out loud:

"I'm going to bring that barrel ashore"

"What for?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy who was getting ready to make a clamshell pie.

"I'll get that barrel ashore, shiver my timbers!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, talking like a sailor, "and I'll make a roller coaster of it for the children to have fun with."

"Aren't they having fun enough with the merry go 'round?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper. She could hear the merry shouts and laughter of the children out on the raft, being twirled around by the jolly porpoise fish.

"Yes, they are having fun on that," said the rabbit gentleman. "But they may soon get tired of it and tease me for something else. When they do I'll have the roller coaster all ready for them."

"For land sakes!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "What's next?"

"I want to keep the children jolly," said Mr. Longears, "because they must go back to school next week and I want them feeling happy for the Lady Mouse Teacher. So I'll make a barrel roller coaster."

"Sugar fish and soft shell crabs!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears, speaking like a seashore boarding house lady. "You can never make a roller coaster of a barrel, Wiggy!"

"Just you watch!" said Uncle Wiggily with a funny pinke of his twink nose. There! I've got that wrong, but let it go."

The rabbit gentleman put on his bathing suit, swam out to the barrel that was bobbing up and down in the salty waves, and soon he had pushed it ashore. He said nothing to the children on the merry go 'round raft, for he wanted to be sure his roller coaster would work by trying it himself. Anyhow the bunnies were having fun as it was.

The barrel was a large one, and strong. It had a bottom, but no top so it was open at one end and a dozen bunnies, puppy cats or pussy dogs could get in at once.

Back of Uncle Wiggily's seaweed bungalow were some sand hills and hollows. First there would be a hill and then there would be a hollow, or little valley, just as on a real roller coaster.

The rabbit gentleman emptied the sea water out of the barrel and then he rolled it to the top of one of the sand hills.

"What in the world are you going to do?" asked his wife.

"Watch and you'll see," said Uncle Wiggily, laughing.

He hopped into the barrel, which was lying on the side and then, giving himself some twiddles and twaddles, Uncle Wiggily rocked the barrel until it started to roll down the first sand hill.

"Oh, ho! We're off!" he cried.

Down, down, down the hill rolled the barrel, just like a car on a roller coaster. Swish, swosh, swash it went! Down into the sand hollow and then the barrel was going so fast that it rolled right up to the top of the next hill, which wasn't quite as high as the first hill.

"Hurray! It works!" cried the rabbit gentleman, sticking his head out of the barrel long enough to see that he was rolling and coasting down the second hill.

Faster and faster he went until he reached the bottom, and then the barrel coaster was going so swiftly that it slid right up the third hill to the top, this hill not being quite as high as the second one. And so Uncle Wiggily made his roller coaster and, having tried it and finding it safe, he called to his bunny boys and girls.

"Come and try the roller coaster!" he shouted. Off the raft merry go 'round they splashed and came swimming ashore yelling:

"Hurray for Daddicums!" There was a great rush to try the new toy and very soon something happened. If the lobster will stop trying to squeeze into a milk bottle to make believe he is a sardine, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily bumping the Wolf.

Miss Dorothy Joblin has returned home after spending the summer holidays with relatives at Scugog Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lagrow were recent visitors at the home of the latter's father, Mr. Dillon, in Buffalo.

Misses Grace and Geneva Wright, daughters of Mr. Roscoe Wright, have successfully passed their examinations at the Ontario Business College, Belleville.

Miss Grace Vanderwaters, who was one of the teachers in the public school, left last week for Montreal where she will train for a nurse in Royal Victoria Hospital. Her sister, Miss Murial, has gone to the Hamilton General Hospital as a nurse-in-training.

Mrs. (Dr.) McTavish, of Belleville, visited her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Potts, for a few days last week and called on many of her former acquaintances.

The Rev. W. Shaw, of Menie, had charge of the services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday, owing to the absence of the Rev. A. N. Reid, who was dispensing the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Sydenham.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wannamaker and children were guests of friends in Stockdale on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McCaffery and Miss A. Sinclair, of Madoc, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sine on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Martin, of Belleville, visited at the home of Mrs. Martin's sister, Mrs. H. Bell, on Sunday.

Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Sept. 9. (Examiner Correspondent.)—On Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Women's Institute held their monthly meeting and sports on the Agricultural grounds with a goodly attendance of members, visitors and children present.

Arriving at the grounds about 2.30 o'clock, the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Elva Sandercock. After the singing of the Institute ode and the regular business transacted, the programme committee, Misses Mary Braithwaite and Jessie Johnston, were in charge. "Ask your neighbour a question" was the first item called.

Choosing Mrs. Lily Turner and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe for captains, the gathering was divided into two lines, each person supplied with paper and pencil and asked to write a question to their neighbor, changing these questions from one group to the other, giving everyone an opportunity to answer a question. Some were remarkably humorous, others very instructive. One good point was noticed the neighbors did not "gossip" which many of the men folk accuse the Woman's Institute of doing.

Singing Contest.

Following, was a singing contest, one group singing "Away Down Upon the Swanee River," the other singing, "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," both groups singing their own song at the same time making it a hard contest to judge, as it was a "howling scream" the onlookers doing amply as well in laughter One would almost think they were taking a walk through the midway at the C.N.E.

Number three on the program was a contest, "Bees without stings", this being more or less a brain twister, was fairly well solved by one group out of six andwho received a box of candy for their prize.

Mrs. W. Johnson Wins.

The knitting contest put on by Miss Annie Brown, was particularly interesting to watch. Only members over seventy years of age were eligible. The idea was to set up and knit three rounds on a sock. Mrs. William Jackson who is 83 years old was the winner of first prize, Mrs. Robert Mouncey, 2nd and Mrs. Joseph Robins, third. Each of these ladies, though handicapped physically, retain very clear intellect and are brilliant conversationalists, keeping up with the times and took delight in the fun of watching the sports as well as the knitting contest.

Immediately after the meeting which closed by singing the National Anthem, the crowd of merry-makers adjourned to the athletic grounds where the sports for every age were played. The efficient committee, Miss Annie Brown, Mrs. Lily Turner and Mrs. Marcena Davey are noted as entertainers and proved it out when they staged the various races, including the hat race, peanut race, ball rolling race, slow race, fast races for everybody and many other stunts were played. Miss Brown remembered the kiddies and kept them amused and busy for some time in a peanut hunt, besides having several races that were greatly enjoyed. Each winner receiving a prize both for children and adults, making the event more important and pleasing.

Afternoon Passes Quickly.

The entire afternoon sped away so quickly, no one realized it was after five o'clock until a halt was called to summon the gathering that lunch would be served in the Agricultural Hall.

All partook of a bountiful and wholesome picnic lunch and left for their numerous homes feeling they had enjoyed a delightful time.

TRENT RIVER

The pupils of the public school are rehearsing for the annual School Fair to be held at Campbellford, Sept. 15th.

Mr and Mrs Alex Greenley, Miss Helen and Master Reginald were Sunday visitors with Miss Mary Ketcheson, Burnbrae.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Greenley, Miss Helen and Master Reginald left Monday for Toronto after spending the past six weeks at "Beau Sejour."

Mr. Percy Keyes of Toronto is a guest at the "Cook Cottage."

Mrs. Andrew Carnrite is confined to bed through illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Hay at at Campbellford.

Miss Irene Fish of Toronto was a week-end visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pollock.

DRIVER TRAPPED 26 HOURS SAVED

Hundred Men Work Day and Night Before Rescuing 62 Year Old Captain.

PILING COLLAPSED.

NEW ORLEANS, La., September 10 (C.P.). — For twenty-six hours Captain H. A. Danese, 62-year-old marine diver, struggled on the floor of the drainage canal in 22 feet of water helplessly entangled in piling and lived to tell of the experience.

He went down on Monday morning at 11 o'clock to complete repairs to a leaking lock where the canal runs into Lake Pontcharthain. While working on the lock it collapsed and threw the diver and three heavy pilings against the pumping station. He had made the mistake of holding in his hand the rope that usually is placed around a diver's body. It snapped out of his hand, and the diver was barely able to move. Only the air line from his diver's helmet connected him with the surface. His associates in a boat were afraid to pull on the air line for fear of breaking it and bringing slow death to the man below.

All through the day and night and until past noon yesterday men worked a hand pump in the boat and kept a steady flow of oxygen moving down to the trapped diver. A hundred men tried to extricate him, but it remained for another tough old driver, Fritz John, 65, who has never failed to rescue a man from the water yet, to bring him up.

Buildings Demolished as Storm Nears Tornado Proportions Over District.

GRANARY FALLS.

REGINA, Sept. 10.—A tempest of wind and rain raked Central Saskatchewan early last night, rising to the fury of a near-tornado before subsiding. Garages were torn from their moorings, sheds and granaries were dislodged and outhouses were lifted bodily by the force of the wind. The rain came down so heavily that it was impossible to see across the main street.

At Disley, north of Regina, the storm crashed hundreds of window panes and even shattered heavy plate glass in store fronts. Hundreds of bushels of wheat were scattered to the winds as a granary crashed before the gale's fury.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 58 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"My Man." Jane must have spoken aloud. The eyes above her lightened with a smile. "Yes, 'tis I, Tarzan come out of the jungle to claim you—the woman who ran away from me," he added fiercely. They had come to a point beyond the fire. The wind had changed.

The fire was burning back upon itself....He led her to his car.... Swiftly, silently, they drove campward. Suddenly she exclaimed: "Tarzan—oh why did you come back?" "Because I love you," he replied happily. "You are mine"..... Jane buried her face in her hands and sobbed, bitterly.

Tarzan was eagerly welcomed when they all assembled at the camp. Overwhelming him with gratitude, they voiced their surprise and pleasure at seeing their jungle friend again. Long into the night they talked, asking questions of Tarzan and reliving those days beside the African wild, and what there befell them.

Then the conversation turned to the ill-fated pirates' chest. Tarzan, turning to Jane's father, said: "Your treasure has been found, sir!" Then he related its history since they had seen it last. Great was their amazement, and greater when Tarzan produced the letter of credit and gave it to Jane.

Tarzan, saying good-night, asked the Professor to recall the burial from the African cabin. "Were all three human skeletons?" Jane's father eyed him narrowly. "No," he replied. "The smallest one—that found in the crib—was the skeleton of an anthropoid ape!" "Thank you," said Tarzan quietly. Dawn was breaking.

YOU CAN'T SEE IT ALL IN ONE VISIT

Biggest Fair Peterborough Has Ever Had—Exhibits Outgrow Accommodations.

So large has the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition become that it is not possible to see it all in one visit. The show of stock is larger than at any previous Fair and has nearly outgrown the accommodations.

The Grand Stand performance both afternoon and evening is the most pretentious ever put on here. The midway is a clean, up-to-date one with honest games and is doing a thriving business.

Don't try to see it all in one visit. The admission price is only 25c. Go again and see all there is to see and you will get more than you pay for by a good deal.

AN EXHIBIT THAT IS WORTH SEEING

Heintzman & Co.'s Display of Pianos and Radios at Exhibition.

Again as in former years, Ye Old Firme Heintzman & Co.'s exhibit in the manufacturers' building of the Peterborough Exhibition is a center of attraction. This exhibit consists of the new models of Victor, Spartan, Fada, Rogers and Majestic Radios, together with Heintzman & Co.'s own makes of pianos, the choice of leading pianists and vocal artists in the operatic and concert field.

The piano holds an ineffaceable spot in the hearts of true music lovers as an instrument whose capability for interpreting the moods of nature and the sentiments of mankind, is only limited by its performer's skill; and as such it worthily finds its place as Ye Old Firme's feature exhibit.

The display of this firms New 1931 models comprise Upright Grands and the Modern Parlor Grands, all surpassingly beautiful in design, with scale improvements and tone perfection excelling, perhaps, anything yet produced in piano construction. By all means see them.

The Radios are also all 1931 models and last awards in case beauty, long distance, pick-up and natural reception. And they are as trouble-free as is yet possible with any radio.

Should you be in the market for a radio set or piano, you'll find a choice in the Heintzman section at the Exhibition worthy of investigation by the most critical.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWNE—PERRIN.

CAVAN, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—Cavan United Church was the scene of an interesting wedding on Saturday, September 6th, at 6.30 p.m., when Margaret Olive Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Perrin, became the bride of Adrian Ross Browne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Browne, Huntsville.

The church was prettily decorated with autumn flowers; the altar was banked with gladioli and ferns, while the guest pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon and calendulas.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Kenny, Consecon, assisted by the Rev. J. E. Whitham, pastor of Cavan United Church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. J. E. Whitham.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of eggshell satin, princess style, and a silk net veil, caught with eidleweis, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alma Perrin, becomingly attired in powder blue chiffon, with hat and shoes to match, and carrying a bouquet of talisman roses.

Little Berniece Lang, in pink net, with her brother Aylmer, in a Lord Fauntleroy suit, strewed pansies in the path of the bride.

Mr. Arthur McGinn, Toronto, acted as groomsman.

Mr. Meredith Perrin and Mr. Melville Perrin were ushers.

During the signing of the register Miss Margaret Lang, Toronto, cousin of the bride, sang "Still as the night."

After the ceremony a reception was held at "The Poplars," the home of the bride's parents, after which a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. P. Bonner, Mrs. Ruth Kiegan Taylor, and the Misses Gwen Hunter and Effie Perrin were waitresses.

Later the bride and groom left by motor for Temagami, the bride travelling in a dress of silk tweed in shades of brown, with coat, hat and shoes to match.

The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of amethyst and rose quartz. The bridesmaid, the soloist and the two small flower bearers received rings, and the organist a five dollar gold piece.

On their return from their honeymoon, Mr and Mrs. Browne will reside in Toronto.

Guests from outside points included Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown, Huntsville, father and mother of the groom, and their friend, Miss Christine Kellock; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Breckenridge, Millbrook; Mr. and Mrs. A. Butters, Plainville; Mr. and Mrs. J. McKnight and Mrs. Locke, Millbrook; Mr. Norman Locke, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Perrin and son Fred; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Perrin and daughter, Effie, South Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Perrin and son Meredith, Bailieboro; Miss Frances Polley, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McGinn, Toronto.

GORE—SHURETY.

At Christ Church, Oshawa, on Saturday, August 30th, the Rev. Mr. Patterson officiating, Joseph Gore, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gore, 785 George Street, Peterborough, and Freda May, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Shurety, of 697 Water Street, Peterborough, were quietly married.

COLLINS—MACQUEEN.

The Presbyterian Church at Paris, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 6, when Mary Isobel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. MacQueen, of Paris, was united in marriage to Mr. James Wesley Collins of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Collins of Peterborough. Rev. E. C. McCullough of Brantford conducted the ceremony before a bank of fern and flowers. The bride, wearing a dress of ivory satin with flowing embroidered veil and orange blossoms, carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley, and entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Mr. Kenneth Tennant, cousin of the bride. Miss Bessie Telfer of Paris was bridesmaid, wearing a dress of flowered chiffon and carrying a bouquet of roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Charles Collins of Pembroke, and the ushers were Mr. William MacQueen of Galt and Mr. Douglas MacQueen of Toronto. During the signing of the register, Miss Lyla Foulds of Paris sang. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Mary Tennant. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Collins left on a motor trip. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

OBITUARY

H. S. FEE.

(Examiner Correspondent.)

EAST EMILY, September 10. — With deep regret the sad news reach the district of East Emily on Sunday, August 31, of the death of Mr. H. S. Fee, in Toronto.

Mr. Fee spent his boyhood days on the homestead where Vincent Fee now lives, then learning the tailoring in Peterborough, later moving to Toronto, where he was married to Miss Jennie Long, and has carried on in the tailoring business for the past thirty-three years.

His death came as a shock to his many friends both in Toronto and in Emily township.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, two daughters, Muriel and Betha at home, and one son, Earl of Montreal. Also two sisters, Mrs. Walter Monerief, Mrs Kelly Mitchell, and one brother, Mr. John Fee, all of East Emily.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, to Prospect cemetery for interment.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

MRS. ROBERT McNALLY

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 10—In the passing of Mrs. Robert McNally in the Brandon General Hospital, Tilston lost one of its pioneer residents. The deceased, who was in her 70th year, had been confined to her bed since last fall, following an injury to her hip due to her slipping on the ice, and a few weeks ago was transferred to Brandon Hospital.

The late Mrs. McNally, the former Sarah Dickey, was born in County Antrim, Ireland, and came with her parents to Ontario, where she married Robert McNally in 1869 and settled on a homestead in Tilston, Manitoba.

The deceased, who was a staunch Presbyterian, was much respected in her community as a true friend and a good neighbor.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Anderson of Tilston United Church. Floral tributes were piled about the casket, including a pillow from the husband, and Wreaths from the Liston Curling Club, Tilston Ladies' Aid, Tilston Women's Institute, Mr. and Mrs. M. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. S. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Lang.

The late Mrs. McNally is survived by her husband and one brother, Mr. James Dickey of Hastings, Ontario, as well as by several nephews and nieces.

BIRTH.

SARGINSON. — At Nicholls Hospital, on September 7, 1930, to Mr. and Mrs Thomas J. Sarginson, 487 Albert street, a son—Robert Richard.

DIED

AHERN.—The death occurred at Windsor on Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1930, of Josephine, wife of George V. Ahern, son of Mrs. and the late George Ahern, 462 Bolivar.
Funeral at Windsor.

ATTENDED FAIR FOR 59 YEARS.

Possibly one of the oldest regular visitors to Peterborough Fair is Thos. Graham, eighty-one years old, resident of Lindsay.

Mr. Graham, who arrived in town last night, states that he has attended all the local fairs without fail since he was twenty-three years old.

He was formerly a farmer in Emily Township, and exhibited cattle and agricultural produce throughout the district for 55 years. The first fair he ever attended was Millbrook.

He thinks that Peterborough Fair is better than ever, and expressed the intention of staying here for the remainder of the week.

ACCIDENTS

Almost daily we read about someone being injured or badly shaken up because of an accident. It is almost impossible to get a bad jar or twist without causing a strain to the spinal column. This may produce a slight derangement of spinal joints or tightness of spinal ligaments and muscles which will result in nerve constriction.

PAIN

stiffness, backache, stomach trouble or headache may develop. These discomforts are frequently the direct after-effect of an injury and it has been our experience that Chiropractic spinal treatments do afford genuine relief.

DOROTHY ALLAN PARK
Soprano Soloist "Church of the Redeemer," Toronto
Conductress of "The Madrigal Singers"
TEACHER OF SINGING

Edward Wodson ("Yenmita") in Toronto Telegram, April 16th, 1930: "Dorothy Allan Park's singing was beautiful. Her voice is purest soprano, like Hempel's in its planetary steadiness, and like Curci's for its 'edge' of pathos. And her song was never seeking to dramatize itself or to stress the obvious. Her 'Come Unto Him' was clear and sweet as the notes of the lark on a dewy morning. Not a tone forced or dark-colored, nor a phrase that was ever less rounded than perfection. And she sang 'I Know That My Redeemer Liveth' just as you have heard the very greatest artists sing it—so calmly and dispassionately, and yet so sweetly and courageously that its lovely cadences seemed to enshrine the faith of all the martyrs and the strength of all the warrior saints that have ever been. And the best of her beautiful singing was its unaffected directness and simplicity."

Shotgun May Solve Keene Murder

OLD RUSTED GUN FOUND IN SWAMP NEAR MARMORA

Jerome Keene Was Found Dead in Shack in February, 1927.

MURDER NEVER SOLVED.

Shotgun is Found in Marsh Embedded, Muzzle First in Muck.

MARMORA, September 11 (Examiner Correspondence).—Will the finding of an old rusted shotgun lead to the solving of one of Hastings County's most baffling murder mysteries?

The cold-blooded, fiendish slaying of Jerome Keene in his little shack in February, 1927, is again the chief topic of discussion among residents of this district, following the recovery on Monday of a shotgun from the marshlands, half a mile distant from the ruined shack of the murdered man.

Found in Marsh

The shotgun was found by William Smith and his son as they were returning across the marshes from the cutting of driftwood on the river bed. The lad noticed the butt of the gun sticking out of a bog. He drew his father's attention to it and together they pulled the gun out of its concealment. It had been embedded, muzzle first, up over the locks, and it was deeply rusted and dirty as though it had lain there for years. They carried the gun into the village and handed it over to Provincial police.

The opinion is current that this is the same gun that blew part of the head off Jerome Keene in his shack on the Shanick road nearly four years ago, and around it may hang the complete unravelling of Hasting's bloodiest murders.

Residents of this district were never satisfied with the result of the investigation into the Keene murder. So strong was this feeling that a petition bearing the names of nearly every woman and man in Marmora was dispatched to Attorney-General Price, when it became evident that the murder was to be allowed by listed among the numerous unsolved crimes of Hasting's County.

RUMOR IRIGOYEN SENT INTO EXILE

ACCOMPANIED BY DOCTOR.

LA PLATA, Argentina, Sept. 11.—(C.P.)—Hipolito Irigoyen, ousted President of Argentina, left the barracks of the Seventh Regiment at La Plata at eleven o'clock this forenoon.

The aged statesman's personal effects previously had been made ready to go on board the cruiser Belgrano, which was expected to sail this afternoon for Montevideo.

Apparently the man who for many years had been a figure in the political life of Argentina, was going into exile this afternoon.

Irigoyen boarded the cruiser Belgrano at 11.35 a.m., under an escort of representatives of the Provisional Government. The former President was accompanied to the cruiser by his daughter and his personal physician, Dr. Meabe.

FERGUSON DENIES REPORTS

TORONTO, September 11. (C.P.)—"The newspapers are guessing again; I don't know where they get their information," said Hon. G. BORDEN MAKES PLEA FOR PEACE BEFORE LEAGUE

Treaties Will Fail Unless Backed By Will to Peace, Says Sir Robert.

BRIAND MAINTAINS HOPE.

United Europe Plan Must Be in Framework of League, Frenchman States.

GENEVA, Sept. 11. (By George Hambleton C. P. Staff Correspondent). The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations and the Dominion's wartime Prime Minister, opened the main debate of the League Assembly today with a speech which was an earnest and eager plea for reduction of armaments — for peace based not on force but on the will to peace.

Sir Robert, who spoke as Chairman of the Assembly's political committee, found grounds for joy in what the League had accomplished since its birth in the tempest-scoured world of eleven years ago.

"In 1919" the Canadian delegate exclaimed, "I returned from Europe to my own country with feelings of the most profound depression. It seemed to me that men cried "Peace, peace" when there was no peace."

Memorable Achievements

Today, in a good wholesome atmosphere of goodwill, understanding and co-operation, the Assembly of the League of Nations was consecrated to the cause of peaceful arbitrament and the enthronement of light as between nations. The achievements of the League had, indeed, been memorable.

"But in my conception" continued Sir Robert, "the highest service of the League to humanity lies in the mere existence of constant association and co-operation. The nations are here to be trained in a kindergarten of peace and already they have learned many a useful lesson thought there were other and harder lessons still to be learned.

"It is not yet idle to conceive that the peace of the world may be maintained by force" the Canadian delegate said. "Can' we ever imagine that it may be maintained by treaties and conventions unless behind them lies the will to peace. We must

NEW ZEALAND DELEGATION ARRIVES IN VANCOUVER

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand and his party, en route to the Imperial Economic Conference at London, England, will spend an hour and 1 minutes in Victoria to-day, after the arirval of R. M. S. Aorangi.

Premier Forbes wirelessed appreciation of the welcome extended by the Provincial government to the party by radio and will be met at the dockside by a reception committee of government, civic and business leaders.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Premier Forbes of New Zealand is due to reach the capital on Wednesday next. Arrival of the New Zealand prime minister will mark the opening of discussion with a view to a new trade agreement between Canada and New Zealand.

Present trade arrangements terminate on October 12.

DENY MARSHAL JOFFRE'S CONDITION IS SERIOUS

PARIS, September 11. (C.P.) — Denial was made to-day of reports current here yesterday that Marshal Joffre's health was causing alarm. The Marshal has long been frail, and friends said that he was suffering from painful attacks of rheumatism but that his general health was not causing anxiety. He is resting at his suburban home at Louveciennes but will leave shortly on a trip to Southeastern France.

5 RED DEMONSTRATORS ARE SHOT IN SARGEON

SAICEON, French Indo-China Sept. 11. (C. P. Cable via Havas)—The killing of five Communist demonstrators and the wounding of five were reported here today following riots Tuesday near Hatinth and at Kyae.

In the first encounter native police shot down eight when demonstrators refused to disperse. At Kyae the residence of the administration was wrecked by a gathering of about 1000 Communists before guards on duty killed one and wounded a second.

BAD MAN OF 90'S CAREER IS ENDED

WAS 64 YEARS OLD.

PLATTSBURG, N.Y., Sept. 11.—(C.P.)—Oliver Curtiss Perry, lone train bandit of the early 90's who spent 25 years in solitary confinement in Dannemora State Hospital for the insane, is dead. He was 64 years old.

He first achieved notoriety in 1892, when while employed as a brakeman on the New York Central Railroad he robbed an express car of about $5,000 and escaped.

Equipping himself with a saw one night while of duty he boarded a train between Herkimer and Utica, and sawed a hole in the end of the express car. Although Perry was unarmed except for a pocket knife, the messenger was so frightened at the appearance of the masked man he surrendered the key to the car safe without resistance.

Took All the Money

Perry took all the money he could find, cut the airhose to slow down the train and disappeared. He went west where he spent most of the money.

The next spring he returned to New York State and attempted to rob the same train. He let himself down on the side of the moving express car, smashed a glass in the door, unlocked it and climbed in.

This time the messenger showed fight but Perry also was armed. In an exchange of shots the robber shot the messenger's gun from his hand. While Perry was searching the safe the messenger pulled the signal cord and the train stopped near Jordan. Perry compelled the engineer to proceed to Lyon where he took off his mask and mingled in the crowd about the express car.

Stole Locomotive

He was recognized and attempted to escape by stealing a locomotive standing in the yard. Pursued by officers on another engine, he carried on a running gun battle with them until steam failed in his locomotive. He then robbed a farmer of a horse but was tracked and captured.

When sentenced in Syracuse the judge said he was sending him up for a term as "long as he could see."

Soon after his commitment Perry became violently insane and blinded himself with needles. He refused to wear clothing and for several years refused food and was forcibly fed.

Before coming east, he had served a three-year prison term in Minnesota for robbing a store.

LONFERININI IS DEAD

Montreal Girl Is Given Jail Term

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(CP)—Rosetta Gray, 16, whose home is in Montreal was today given an indeterminate sentence in Bedford reformatory when she pleaded guilty to charges of grand larceny and assault.

The Montreal girl, who said she ran away from home in April after a quarrel with her mother, was charged with holding up two department store messengers at her hotel and robbing them of a total of $26. She also appropriated the merchandise they were delivering C. O. D. and on which there was $70 to collect.

The girl said she entered the United States illegally at Niagara Falls with a man who later deserted her.

DRUGGIST SLAIN LOOT TOO SMALL

Killer Shoots Bound Victim in Back Because He Had Only $45.

CUSTOMERS HELPLESS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11. (C.P.) — Murder as heartless and unprovoked as the police can recall over a long period was committed late last night in the drugstore of Willis Fiddelke, the 40-year-old proprietor.

Fiddelke was shot dead as he lay face down on the floor. "You've only got $45, and that ain't enough," was what the killer said, jabbing the muzzle of his pistol into the druggist's back between the shoulders, and pulling the trigger.

Two customers held at bay in another room by an accomplice of the gunman, heard him say: "I croaked him all right. Lets get out of here.

The robbers had compelled Fiddelke to go to a rear room and lie face down. They complained at only finding $45, but Fiddelke explained that it had been a poor day and that was all he had.

So he was killed.

CROSS CANADA DRIVER HEADING FOR SUDBURY

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.). — Confident he will complete his trans-Canada motor trip in record time, P. Needham reached Ottawa yesterday in his powerful roadster. He left Halifax last week, with Vancouver his goal, the first man to attempt a coast-to-coast motor tour over Canadian territory.

The former Edmonton newspaperman raced out of the Capital last night and headed for Sudbury. Somewhere beyond that Northern Ontario point his real difficulties begin, for the travelled highway ends near there and he must blaze his own trail through heavy timberland and rocky hills.

TWO COW BOYS BURNED AT "EX"

BOTH IN HOSPITAL.

While thousands in the packed grand stand looked on thinking it was but part of the breath-taking act, two members of Welch Bros. rodeo troupe were severely burned at Exhibition Park last night.

It was one of the closing acts in the sensational vaudeville and rough-riding program—the flaming chuck wagon race. Two light wagons, each drawn by four lunging horses and each bearing two men, raced at break-neck speed about the dark track. Halfway around both wagons burst into flames.

Too Much Kerosene

That was but part of the act. Hundreds of times previously in cities across the continent the Welch Bros. troupers had pulled the same stunt and made the spectators gasp. But last night the boys had soaked too much kercsene and gasoline on the sacks and straw in the wagons. The flames mounted higher and higher until they reached the riders in one of the wagons.

However, the daring performers did not stop their act. While the flames swept around them, burnt through their clothes and then seared their flesh, they continued standing in the blazing wagon behind their pracing steeds until they had passed the gaping thousands in the stands.

Given First Aid

Immediately they wheeled off the track, their burns were examined and they were rushed to the St. John's Ambulance Corps' tent on the grounds where they received First Aid. Dr. Herbert Young was called and had the men moved to St. Joseph's hospital where they spent the night.

They were burned across the back and shoulders, and one had bad burns on his neck. Dr. Young stated that the burns were fortunately only surface burns and that they would recover. In fact it is likely that one, if not both, will be discharged from the hospital some time this evening.

STROMBOLI IN ERUPTION SCORES FEARED DEAD

MESSINA, Italy, Sept. 11.—(C.P.)—A score of persons were reported dead and fifty or more injured in the simultaneous eruption of Stromboli volcano and an earthquake on Stromboli Island, one of the Aeolian group near here.

The eruption threw thousands of burning rocks high into the air. These descended on little villages which dot the countryside around the base of the volcano.

A river of lava flowed down upon the village of San Bartolo, destroying farms, and setting many buildings on fire.

Attendance Has Almost Doubled That of Last Year

Young Peterborough Had Its Fling at the Exhibition Yesterday When the Paid Attendance Was 10,866, Almost a Record.

FOR FIRST THREE DAYS IN 1929 ATTENDANCE WAS 6,470 NOT ONE FLAW TO BE FOUND IN GREAT EXHIBITION

Rupert Gliddon's New Band Makes Its Bow to Peterborough Audience—Mr. Gliddon Has Gotten Together Evenly Balanced Arrangement of Instruments.

The children of the city had their fling at the Exhibition on Wednesday afternoon and evening, and with them came fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers, remaining until nearly eleven o'clock. Many of them made a perfect day of it by staying until after the fireworks.

The little people packed the grand stand to overflowing, and their high-pitched cheering rang across the Exhibition Grounds with a typical tonality of youth and Children's Day. From all indications and expressions the youngsters thoroughly enjoyed the big show. On the Midway they found ample rides which they kept moving briskly all afternoon and evening.

The children's gay spirits, the weather, the thorough success of all the competitive departments of the Exhibition, and the cordial manifestations of co-operation from the people of the city and district delighted the directors; and the attendance figures reported by Fred Holmes this morning set President Denne and his associates thinking of new totals at the turnstiles.

Big Gain in Attendance.

At the close of Wednesday night the paid attendance this year stood at 12,705, as compared with 6,470 for the same days last year. There's encouragement in these figures, and a promise of what the week will produce if this ideal weather of autumn holds out until Saturday night.

Wednesday's attendance was 10,866, with 7,967 in the afternoon, and 2,919 at night. The corresponding day last year registered 6,256 at the gates.

So far, this year's count at the gates is not only nearly double that of 1929, an actual gain of 6,235, but it is also up 4,383 on the first three days in 1928.

WETS VICTORIOUS IN DRY MICHIGAN

Senator S. H. Person Defeats Rep. G. H. Hudson in Preliminaries.

HEAVY VOTE POLLED.

DETROIT, Sept. 11.—(C.P.)—After years of unsuccessful efforts, the wets finally have carried trophies of conquest from the political battlefields of "dry Michigan."

One clear-cut victory was marked up for the opponents of prohibition in the state-wide primary Tuesday, Rep. Grant M. Hudson, ardent dry and former superintendent of the Michigan anti-saloon league, was unseated in the largest district in the United States, decisively beaten by State Senator Seymour H. Person, who was given the support of wet organizations.

In another district, known as one of the "driest" in the country in past campaigns, Rep. Louis C. Cramton, dean of the prohibition leaders of the Lower House of Congress, will not know until the official count is completed whether he was defeated by a man who had wet support.

GOTHAM'S PONY GOLF SEIZED BY THE GAMBLING RACKATEERS

Bet on Anything and Everything—Suckers Who Pay.

GAME IS ON WANE.

By Gordon Sinclair
(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1930).

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Pony golf at $200 a round has added another goofy gamble to the Broadway whirl. The smoothest pygmy course in the world, and the most expensive is just abaft the Roxy Theatre, where you pay a half-dollar for a ball and club and then find yourself surrounded by rackateers of the felt fairway.

This course, opened in April, was soon seized on by gamblers who figured out the chances on all the holes then commenced to bet. If you are about to make a four-foot putt on one of the synthetic greens some wise guy will step up and want to bet you ten dollars you don't make it. Or if you want a partner there are plenty to be had at $2 a hole.

The game runs all day and night, with the busy time around three in the morning. It's then that you hear golfers who don't know the difference between a driver and a niblic saying, "Now, let's see, that makes me $40 up; all right, I'll make it $80 or nothing on the next putt."

This eight-cylinder gambling is not confined to the alleged golfers, many of whom step out in evening togs, but spreads among the rail birds who try to make a dollar or two on every shot. I was leaning over the fence to-night watching three chorus girls trim their gullible escorts at two dollars a hole when a lad of ten or so stepped up to make a side swiping shot through an obstacle shaped like the ace of spades. A swankily dressed Broadwayite next to me flashed a roll of bills and said, "Bet you $25 to $10 he's not less than three. Come on 25 to 10 or any part of it, no, three, five to two he can't get a three."

I didn't bet, so he shouted to others around and wiggled his way among the crowd making a noise like an Epsom Downs booky. He got his bets and lost, but soon made his cash back

Coal Oil Ignites Woman Is Burned

Mrs. A. Somerville, 505 George Street South, was admitted to Nicholls Hospital yesterday suffering from burns, received when she was attempting to light a fire in the kitchen stove with coal oil. Her clothing became ignited. Mrs. Somerville, who was in the lower portion of the house alone at the time, succeeded in extinguishing the flames unaided, and then rushed to the door and called for assistance.

Neighbors immediately procured the services of Dr. G. Murray Fraser, who ordered the woman's removal to hospital. She is not seriously burned, it is learned.

EXCURSION TO SHRINE TO BE HELD ON SUNDAY

Fifth Annual Pilgrimage From Peterborough Diocese Scheduled For Sunday Next

For the fifth annual pilgrimage from this diocese to the Shrine of the Canadian Martyrs at Fort Ste. Marie, both railway companies are providing trains. The pilgrimage takes place next Sunday, September 14th and the return fares for adults (on both lines) will be $3.25 and for children, $1.65).

The Canadian Pacific Railway train commences at Tweed at 5.45 a.m. It stops at Ivanhoe, Bonar Law, Havelock, Indian River and Norwood. It leaves Peterborough at 7.30 a.m.

The Canadian National Railway train commences at Campbellford at 6.25 a.m. and stops at Hastings and Keene. It leaves Peterborough at 7.50 a.m.

Both trains arrive at the Shrine at about 10.45 a.m. and leave there at 3.35, so as to bring all the pilgrims home at a reasonable time. Tickets are now on sale at both railway offices.

ROY BARRON OF RAWDON FATALLY INJURED IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Youth Ran Down Near Broadsworth's Corners By Harry Potter of Stirling.

DIES SHORTLY AFTER.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Septemb rell.—(C.P.) — Roy Barron of Rawdon township, was fatally injured when he was knocked from his bicycle near Broadsworth's corners on the Belleville-Marmora highway, late last evening, by a car driven by Harry Potter of Stirling. The lad received a fractured skull and died on the way to the hospital. The accident occurred when Barron was crossing the Marmora highway on the fourth concession, while Potter was travelling north at a moderate rate of speed, and did not see the boy until he struck him. Dr. Alger, coroner, opened an inquest, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death. Potter not being held responsible.

16 YEAR OLD GIRL IS INJURED AT "EX"

Pearl Welch Is Struck on Jaw by Heavy Hammer — Three Teeth Are Broken.

Pearl Welch, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Welch, of 237 Princess Street, was the victim of a very painful accident at the Fair Grounds last evening in which she sustained three broken teeth on the upper jaw. Her injuries were attended to by Dr. J. C. Green dental surgeon.

It appears that Miss Welch was passing the hammer-swinging sideshow just as one of the fair-goers was taking a swing. The heavy hammer caught her under the jaw, fortunately causing injuries no worse than those stated above. The girl was able to attend school to-day.

Fireworks Please Many Spectators

As a grand finale to the afternoon grand stand performance each day at Peterborough Exhibition, there is a pleasing display of daylight fireworks.

Sky rockets soaring high into the sky, burst open and shower down on the amazed spectators all manner of weird litt'e figures, including cowboys on broncos, dancing figures, witches, and animals.

The dancing figures, large enough to be discerned from any portion of the grounds, were particularly realistic, swaying about in artistic motions, and floating gracefully to earth meanwhile.

FISHERIES ASSOCIATIONS STUDY FINNY PROBLEMS

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 11.—(CP)—The joint convention of the Canadian and United States Fisheries Associations opened here today with a luncheon meeting.

Attending the convention are over a hundred delegates from many points in the United States and Canada, here to discuss the problems of fishermen and consider the question of conservation and other matters pertaining to the finny denizens of the deep.

At the banquet on Friday night, a unique entertainment will be offered by the dispatch of telegrams and cables to all parts of the globe, all of which will be answered before the banquet is over, demonstrating the speed and accuracy of modern communication systems.

JUNIOR FARMERS BANQUETED BY C.P.C.

DURHAM COUNTY WINS 1ST PLACE IN COMPETITION

Prizes For Junior Farmers' Competitions at 'Ex' Awarded at Banquet.

PROFESSOR DAY SPEAKS.

Two Cavan Boys Tied For First Place in Beef Cattle Judging.

Climaxing a day of outstanding successes and hard work in the judging rings and in the domestic science departments the Junior Farmers of Peterborough and surrounding counties were tendered a banquet at the Empress Hotel by Gordon Matthews, general manager of the Canadian Company, last evening.

The large dining room and club room was incapable of accommodating all the young guests and many of them were obliged to dine upstairs, returning later to participate in the prize giving and the accompanying speeches.

Gordon Matthews occupied the chair, and was accompanied at the head table by Miss Edith Hopkins of Lindsay in charge of the girls' competition; William Knox, managing director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition; Professor G. E. Day, secretary of the Dominion Shorthorn Association and for many years professor of animal husbandry at Guelph Agricultural College; L. W. Pearsall, director of Ontario Hog Graders; J. E. Whitelock, assistant director of agricultural representatives; D. A. McKinnon, Dominion Hog Grader and J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative for Peterborough County.

Emery Smith of Cavan who tied for first place with Harry McCamus of Ida in the beef cattle judging and who was also second in the swine judging was the recipient of the Wilson McNeely Corporation Shield. Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville also received a Wilson McNeely Corporation Shield, these two awards being emblematic of the Championship prizes at Peterborough Fair in these classes.

In the inter-county bacon hog competition Elwood Gray of Port Hope was awarded a silver cup presented by Mr. Shosenberg of the Stimson Investment Company. The competitor was first in the placing of hogs and second in the essay competition.

The Bank of Commerce silver cup presented by Mr. Falkner of the Peterborough branch and presented to the winning county was awarded to Durham County with 263 points. E. S. Summers, agricultural representative accepted the cup on behalf of Durham County junior farmers.

Expressing regret at the fact that His Worship Mayor Denne was unable to be present, Gordon Matthews called attention to the unceasing work which Mr. Denne has accomplished both as Mayor and as chairman of the Exhibition Board.

"This banquet" said Mr. Matthews was inspired last year by the inauguration of the inter-county bacon hog competition." He proceeded to enlarge on the fact that pig production is an important industry to Canada which had unfortunately fallen off considerably in past years. "We have got to decide on a policy as to whether we are going to produce hogs for Canada alone or to enter the world markets. If we do the latter, the cost of production must be equal to what people in other countries can produce pigs for." He suggested that the farmers and producers must co-operate more closely for the good of the country as a whole.

Professor Day

In the course of a pleasing address which was both inspiring and encouraging, Professor Day thought that it was up to the young men and women to wake up the older people. It is to the young men and women to whom we must look for incentive to action in the future.

Commenting on the competitions the Professor spoke of the "devil of jealous" calling attention to the qualities which go to make up a good winner and a good loser. He dwelt on the great possibilities of farming, speaking of it as the fundamental business of the country. "When the farmer is prosperous, the whole country is prosperous" he stated "and when the farmer is not prosperous the whole country is bound to feel the effect. He thought possibly that was what was wrong to-day.

Recounting a visit which he paid to Windsor Castle some years ago, Professor Day recalled Her late Majesty Queen Victoria's unfailing interest in cattle and thought that a similar attitude on the part of Canadians in general was much needed. Many people he considered thought that such matters were beneath them, but he would ask them which was more wonderful the work of the painter or sculptor or the work of

CANADIANS HOLD WRONG BELIEFS

County Cannot Build Up Exports By Refusing to Permit Imports.

SHIPPING MAGNATE'S VIEWS.

TORONTO, September 11. (C.P.)—Attributing the present trade depression to failure of countries to exchange their basic products and manufactured goods, Major Leonard H. Cripps, C.B.E., partner in a large shipping firm at Liverpool, England, and son of Lord Parmoor, president of the council in Premier MacDonald's Cabinet, said he found many Canadian business men unable to grasp the simple economic principle that a country cannot increase its exports if it refuses to permit imports.

Major Cripps said he found the belief prevalent not only in Canada but also in United States, that a country can build up a large export market while prohibiting importation of goods.

This the visitor contended was a mistaken attitude. For instance, he said, if Canada desires to sell her wheat in Great Britain at a reasonable price, she must be prepared to accept British-made goods at a reasonable price, on the basis of a fair deal.

ATLANTIC CITY, September 10 (C.P.). — The executive council of the American Federation of Labor to-day stood on record as favoring a move to bring about the manufacture of 2.75 per cent. beer in an effort to bring relief to unemployment.

It was argued the move would bring employment to not fewer than 2,000,000 persons now out of work, and would provide a market for not less than 65,000,000 bushels of the farmers' surplus grain.

HOUSE DEBATES PLAN TO SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT

Opposition Question Premier as to Way $20,000,000 is to be Spent.

DEAL WITH PROVINCES.

Work Not Charity, Wages Not Dole, Premier Bennett Declares is Plan.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Unemployment relief, in the form of a sum of $20,000,000 set aside for construction programs, aids to municipalities and provinces, will again be under discussion in the House of Commons to-day. The whole of yesterday's sitting was given over to a prolonged cross-examination of the Government's proposals by the Opposition members and explanations from the Treasury benches. If this debate is completed to-day—and the House will sit both afternoon and evening—it is possible the Government's tariff changes will be introduced in their preliminary form.

The day in the House of Commons consisted largely of a long list of questions directed to Premier R. B. Bennett. He was sponsoring a resolution calling upon to set aside $20,000,000 for unemployment relief. This brought about a barrage of questions from the Opposition members, who wanted to know how it was to be spent. The Premier, as Minister of Finance and representative in the Commons of the Minister of Labor, took it upon himself to personally guide the resolution through the debate.

Among other things, Premier Bennett indicated there are now 117,000 persons out of work in Canada, and added that the prospect was that 177,000 would be unemployed during the coming winter.

He expressed the opinion that the Government proposals, if placed into effect, would materially reduce the number of jobless and possibly reduce the total by several thousands within a few weeks.

Deal With Provinces.

The Government will deal directly with the provinces in its relief program affecting provinces or municipalities, the Premier stated. This approach also would be followed in the granting of one-third of the total expended by municipalities forced to provide relief other than employ-

12 SUGGESTIONS GIVEN TO GOV'T

Parliament Guided in $20,000,000 Relief Expenditure By Employment Council.

MARRIED MEN COME FIRST.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—(CP)—In the expenditure of the $20,000,000 Premier Bennett is asking Parliament to vote for the relief of unemployment the Government will be guided by the recommendations of the Employment Service Council of Canada. The Council met in Ottawa August 21 and 22 when summoned by the Minister of Labor, Hon. G. D. Robertson to advise the Government on measures to meet the unemployment situation.

The recommendations of the council were 12 in number and in so far they relate to the spending of money are as follows.

Commencement and continuance of public works by Provincial, Municipal and Federal Governments.

Joint responsibility on Provincial Federal and Municipal authorities for the cost of relief work.

Anticipation of requirements and advance orders for supplies by all Government bodies.

Preference to married men in relief work.

Equal division of cost of direct relief work between Province, Municipality and Dominion.

ONTARIO CABINET BE RE-ORGANIZED FOUR IMPORTANT MOVES RUMORED

Claim Premier Will Turn Education Portfolio Over to Leopold Macaulay.

NEW WELFARE DEPARTMENT

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11—(CP)—Four important changes in Premier G. Howard Ferguson's Government, including the relinquishing of the portfolio of Minister of Education by the Premier, are forecast in a feature story published by the Globe today.

"In the reported reorganization," says the paper, "there are said to be involved the retirement of three of the present members of the Government, Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, and Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, the elevation to full Cabinet rank of one present minister without portfolio, Hon. E. A. Dunlop, and of four private members of the Legislature.

New Welfare Department

"The creation of a new Department of Welfare, which Mr. Ferguson has intimated on several occasions was needed, will be effected in the reorganization," continued the Globe. "The transfer of at least two existing portfolios to other administrative heads, and a general revamping of departmental services as at present constituted," are other changes forecast.

According to the paper, "Should the prospective reorganisation be effected on the lines indicated, Premier Ferguson will relinquish to Leopold Macaulay, M.L.A., South York, the education portfolio the Premier has administered since his Government came into office; Dr John M. Robb, M.L.A., Algoma, will take over the Health Department that will be extended, it is understood, to include within its jurisdiction the provincial mental hospitals and the public general hospitals, now administered by Mr. Goldie; Brig.-General T. L. Kennedy M.L.A., Peel, will succeed Mr. Martin as head of the Agricultural Department.

"The fourth new face in the reorganized Cabinet," says the paper, "will be that of Rev. William O. Martin, M.L.A., Brantford, who will be entrusted with the Welfare portfolio, which was urgently recommended in the recent report of the Royal Commission that investigated the Province's general welfare situation.

Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer.

"Mr. Dunlop will be the new Provincial Treasurer," the story proceeds, "while Hon. J. D. Monteith, Treasurer since 1926, will head a new combination of portfolios, Game and Fisheries, and that of the Provincial Secretary, which, it is said, will become almost nominal in future."

The Globe says it has "learned from authoritative sources that an official announcement regarding the rearrangement of the Cabinet will be made by Premier Ferguson early next week."

the livestock improver. Undoubtedly he believed the work of the latter typified the Creator and was a really worthwhile task

"Whatever you do, don't be time servers" urged the speaker. "The happiest man is he who gets pleasure out of his work and the only pleasure is to try and improve that which comes to our hands."

In conclusion he congratulated the winners on their success and paid tribute to the losers from the fact that they came out to do their best and were willing to stand or fall by the judges' decisions. "You are going to come back and do better in the future" he said, "and be men and women really worth while and useful citizens of this great Dominion which is developing before our eyes."

L. W. Pearsall

"I am glad to have this opportunity of attending Peterborough Fair and in joining with you at this banquet," exclaimed Mr. Pearsall, who paid tribute to work of Mayor Denne and to William Knox, "for the punch and perseverance which they have put into the Fair."

Mr. Pearsall who judged the work of the Hog Club said in reading over some of the essays which had been submitted as part of the contest, he was very pleased with the indications of close attention to the details of hog feeding and management as displayed by the boys. He thought the work would be of advantage to the contestants throughout their lives. He also congratulated the winners and said he had found the work of judging extremely difficult, on account of the fine entries.

In conclusion Mr. Pearsall, expressed his appreciation to Mr. Matthews who had made the bacon hog competition possible and also for tendering the banquet that evening.

Prize Winners

J. E. Whitelock, assistant director of agricultural representatives in announcing the prizes in the Junior Farmer livestock judging competition asked the first and second prize winners in each class to stand up. On doing so the successful contestants were the recipients of the applause of their fellow competitors. Mr. Whitelock called attention to the fact that Frank Huff of Bloomfield, first prize winner in the swine judging was winner of the inter-county trophy at the Royal Fair in 1929.

He called upon J. B. Nelson to make the presentation of the trophies to Emery Smith of Cavan; Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville; Elwood Gray of Port Hope and to Mr. Summers on behalf of Durham County.

The livestock judging competition prize list is as follows:

Miss Hopkins

Miss Hopkins read the prize lists for the girls section. The list of prize winners will be found reported in another section of this edition.

In a few remarks, the speaker expressed her satisfaction with the results of the days competition although she said it had been far harder than the open class at Toronto exhibition. She also mentioned the fact that a larger number of entries had been received here than either at London or Ottawa shows.

Bacon Hog Contest

D. A. McKinnon, Dominion hog grader announced the prize winners in the Bacon Hog Contest and on behalf of the Dominion Department of Agriculture thanked Mr. Matthews who had furnished the wherewithal to make the competition possible. He also thanked the boys for their co-operation and respecting the arrangements for the continuance of the competition said he would have an important announcement to make in the early fall or winter.

He wished also to thank J. E. Smith, Thomas Brown and Charles Brown who had acted as judges of the essays on hog management; to L. W. Pearsall and Dan Learch, judges; William Knox; Mr. Shosenberg, Stimson Investment Company who donated one of the silver cups for the highest boy and to Mr. Falkner, manager of the Bank of Commerce who had donated a cup to the County winning the highest number of points.

The Bank of Commerce Cup was won by Durham County with 263 points. Other counties in order of merit were: Northumberland, 212; Peterborough, 170; Victoria, 122.

Placing of hogs—

1, Elwood Gray, Port Hope; 2, Wm. Kempt, Keene; 3, Wm Weir, Omemee; 4, Carl Porteous, Cavan; 5, Mervin Smith, Cavan; 6, Wm. Note: As the same boy cannot win in both classes there will be some changes in the way the prize money is paid out.

Entertainment was provided during the evening by Jack Primeau who received an encore from the large audience who were delighted with his fund of wit and humour and his "mellow" voice, while Mowry-Steer and his Silver Collegians provided a pleasing program of music during the course of the meal and also played for community singing led by D. A. McKinnon.

Clarence Allen was the mover of a vote of thanks to Mr. Matthews which was seconded by Florence Metherall of Oakwood Victoria Victoria county.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—A feature of the dairy and produce markets here yesterday was the stronger feeling that developed for potatoes, and values were marked up 10c to 15c per bag. Local stock sold at $1, and New Brunswick cobblers sold at $1.10 per 80-lb. bag.

The butter market exhibited a little firmer tone. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized, in car lots, sold between 29c and 29¼c per lb. New Zealand sold at 30c to retailers, for small lots. Solids were 31c and prints 32c per lb. Receipts were 17 boxes.

The trade in cheese was dull, but values were unchanged. Ontario's were quoted at 14¼c, and Quebec's at 13¾c per lb. Receipts were 3,058 boxes.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. Receipts were 1,569 cases.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Septemebr 11.—A low estimate of the new western crop, issued here Tuesday night turned the wheat market bullish yesterday. Gains of 1c to 1¼c were held at the close.

Shorts brought a measure of support to the pit as they rushed to cover in early trading and scattered buying was sufficient thereafter to take care of the limited offerings. Better export sales, estimated at half a million bushels overnight, added to the bullish tinge and steadiness at Chicago was a factor.

Trading on the cash wheat market was lifeless, spreads remaining unchanged. Coarse grains, marked up gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Grain trade yesterday was largely of a balancing nature, with traders reducing commitments in preparation for the United States Government crop report, due late in the day. Wheat had a better undertone and prices averaged higher, although most of the trading was done within narrow limits. Final estimates on the amount of export business done overnight were 500,000 bushels. Strength of wheat at Liverpool, with the October delivery selling at a premium over the December and March deliveries for the first time in several years, helped the Chicago market. Corn met with selling pressure toward the end of trading and sagged some.

Closing prices on wheat were nervous, 3-8c to 1c higher than Tuesday's finish. Corn closed unsettled, from 1-8c lower to ¼c higher; oats, 1-8c to ¼c up, and provisions ranging from a 10c decline to an average of 2c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—There was a slight strengthening in butter and egg prices on the local produce market yesterday and dealers were bidding and offering supplies at levels equal to Tuesday's height. On the egg market, 33c was the top quotation on extras from shippers, but the low price was 31c making a spread of 31c to 33c. Shippers were quoted 28c to 30c for firsts and 23c to 24c for seconds, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Brokers were offering graded eggs in free cases, at 35c for extras, 33c for firsts and 24c for seconds. Retailers were securing lots at 39c to 40c for extras in cartons, 37c to 38c for extras, loose, 34c to 35c for firsts loose, and 26c to 27c for seconds loose.

Butter

Butter was steadier at 30c for No. 1 and 29c for No 2. Ontario butter was not arriving in large lots, but Western supplies were being offered in 1,000-box lots at 30c to 30½c. There were few sales reported of Western supplies at these prices, but the general activity of the local market was fairly good.

Cheese

Cheese was being sold locally at 15¾c to 15½c for new large, 15½c to 15¾c for twins, and 15¾c to 16c for triplets. These prices were higher than one would expect, figuring the prices on country boards, but much of the cheaper cheese has not arrived in Toronto yet.

BORDEN MAKES

seek from the world peace in the domain of the spirit."

The Canadian delegate's address was followed by that of M. Briand, France's foreign minister, who expounded his plan for a European Federation. The veteran statesman spoke before a packed house.

Briand Holds Hope.

There was prolonged applause as Briand mounted the rostrum and perfect silence as he started to speak.

He told his hearers: "I persist in seeing with a profound hope." He then launched into a history of the fight for peace, painting the Briand-Kellogg pact as of infinite value. Then he spoke of the multiplication of pacts of arbitration and friendship which he said greatly multiplied the possibilities of peace.

His hearers gave him the closest attention as he turned then to what he considers his greatest work for peace, the projected Federation of European States. He recalled that when he first laid the idea before the world that he had insisted his proposed federation must be within the framework of the League of Nations. He repeated to-day that it must rest there.

One objection, M. Briand averred, has been that the proposed union might run counter to the best interests of the League of Nations. This he found false, contending that there was not the least possibility of anything but the closest co-operation between the two organizations, this being particularly true since the League of Nations necessarily would remain above and superior to the European Union.

Not Inimical to U.S.

He denied again flatly that the union would run counter to or be in any way inimical to the United States.

Statesmen had told him on the other hand, he declared, that relations between Europe and America could more easily be strengthened by existence of a European organization.

"Twenty-seven nations have studied this question," he concluded. "Twenty seven nations have said, 'Yes it can be done.' There it is before you. Go. March on. Accomplish peace."

There was a burst of applause as M. Briand with these words quitted the tribune.

BROMLEY FAMILY HONORS FATHER

St. Mary's Church, Westmeath, Presented With Cross in His Memory.

PRESENTATION BY SON.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 11. — A very impressive ceremony was held at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Westmeath on Sunday, Aug. 31 when the members of the family of the late John E. Bromley presented the church in which he had worshipped for so many years, with a beautiful floreated cross to his memory.

The triple base of the Cross was inscribed "In loving memory of John E. Bromley, 1860-1930. Presented by his family." and "In memory of Mae Bromley Hennessy, May 27, 1895, Nov. 27, 1924."

The presentation was made by J. Bromley, a son of the late Mr. Bromley on behalf of the family and was accepted by Allan Brown, people's warden. The rector, the Rev. C. V. Maxell preached a splendid sermon on the subject of symbolic gifts.

Many of the family and friends attended the service. The flowers on the altar were given by William Bush of Ottawa, and were afterward placed on the grave of the deceased.

Beautiful brass vases for the altar and a white marble Baptismal Font were recently placed in the church by the Bromley's of Westmeath.

The late John E. Bromley was the father of Chief G. C. Bromley of Campbellford.

HOUSE DEBATES

ment. It is proposed, he said, to assist the provinces in connecting up the links in the Trans-Canada Highway, but the Government did not intend building a second coast-to-coast road. Assistance might be forthcoming from the Federal treasury, Premier Bennett said, to provinces for the maintenance of highways connecting provinces.

"Work, not charity" and "Wages, not the dole" will be the guiding inbuence in the Government's fight to alleviate unemployment, Premier Bennett said. The money which he would ask Parliament to vote would be spent in accordance with the recommendations of the Employment Service Council of Canada which met in Ottawa recently. After listing the 12 recommendations, the Prime Minister said the proposal before the House was in the nature of a palliative, not a cure. He made no promise that, through it, unemployment would be ended, but he did believe it would alleviate the emergent situation.

In outlining how the Government proposed to use the money which parliament would be asked to supply, the Prime Minister said there were certain national undertakings which, ordinarily, would not be commenced this year. Such works as wharves, docks and public buildings might be commenced at once. Municipalities wishing to borrow money for public works might be accommodated if the program were instituted promptly. All this, he believed, would provide employment for hundreds of men and create a far better general economic situation throughout Canada.

When Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King asked how the Government proposed aiding factory workers, miners, transportation workers, lumbermen and fishermen, the Premier said the Government had adopted one general scheme which the present resolution was merely a part. There would be tariff changes to aid the manufacturing industry and efforts made to provide work by making it possible for Canadians to use Canadian products.

Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor in the King Government requested an assurance from the Government that there be no discrimination against unemployed men because of political affiliations. He declared there had been rotten politics played by the Ontario government in the last election campaign, particularly in the northern part of the province.

Five thousand laborers at Madrid, Spain, recently protested against reduced work in match factories.

Wheat Crop Tops Last Year's Yield

OTTAWA, Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Canada's wheat crop is estimated at 284,000,000 bushels, of which 262,000,000 bushels will be garnered in the three Prairie provinces. This is the forecast made public by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, based on reports filed on or about Aug. 31.

Of the above total for all Canada 264,681,000 bushels is spring wheat. Last year's spring wheat crop totalled 2,234,016,000 bushels and the entire wheat crop was 304,520,000 bushels.

MOUNT DENNIS DEMANDS PROBE

Would Have Contracts For Past 6 Years and School Board Investigated.

ASK COUNCILLORS RESIGN.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.)—Passages of resolutions urging Judge J. H. Denton to investigate the tendering of contracts in York Township during the last six years and for a probe into the state of affairs existing in the School Board and all other departments of the municipal administration and a request for the resignation of Councillors J. J. Little and I. C. Woolner, marked the meeting of Mount Dennis ratepayers in that village last night.

Aroused by the disclosure of alleged irregularities at the recent probe conducted by Judge Denton into the system of awarding contracts in the township, ratepayers in all parts of the township are planning meetings for the purpose of deciding on some course of action leading to a complete clean-up of the administration.

U. S. SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS GIVE WRONG IMPRESSION

TORONTO, September 11 (C.P.)—Biased presentation of the American revolution in United States school text books has been responsible for much of the ill-feeling existing between that country and Great Britain, said Canon H. J. Cody, of Toronto, addressing the delegates at a dinner held in connection with the 44th annual convention of the Association of American Cemetery Superintendents.

The speaker contended that as a result of this prejudiced viewpoint in the text books youthful citizens of the United States received the impression that Great Britain was the enemy of freedom.

VARICOSE VEINS RAPIDLY REDUCED

Simple Home Treatment That is Giving Amazing Results.

If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start to-day to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any drug store and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications causes the eruptions to dry up, scale off, and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness, and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. McDermid Drug Co. Ltd., Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury and leading drug stores sell lots of it.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has declared emphatically in favor of the establishment of a Canadian unemployment insurance scheme, this recommendation being included in a number of proposals wired to Premier Bennett from the Regina convention.

There is little chance that the request will be acted upon at present.

Public opinion in Canada is very sharply divided on this question of unemployment insurance.

While Labor's view that some form of insurance relief to protect the worker during periods of industrial depression is necessary is shared by many people, the contrary opinion is held by thousands of other Canadians who point to the injurious effects of the dole system as developed in Great Britain, and who argue that it is foolish to compare the unemployment situation in this country with conditions in the United States or in the British Isles.

In a country such as this, rich in natural resources and with a population of only ten million people occupying over half a continent, there surely is not the same justification for unemployment insurance as exists in other countries where there is a congested population and opportunities for development have long since been exhausted.

The present session of Parliament may produce many things, but it is safe to say a system of unemployment insurance will not be included among them.

$20,000,000 FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

The resolution to be moved by Premier Bennett today asking Parliament to vote $20,000,000 for unemployment relief in the form of constructing public works coincides with the motion adopted by the Union of Canadian Municipalities at its thirteenth annual convention calling upon the Federal Government to make provision for the immediate relief of unemployment.

The municipal delegates have expressed the opinion that this relief should take the form of Government works or of municipal construction, in the cost of which the Federal and Provincial Governments would share, and it is probable that this is the policy that will be followed by the Government.

To this emergency proposal it is not believed there will be much opposition.

With winter approaching and the several hundred thousand now unemployed likely to be materially increased, it is imperative that public works should be started that will absorb as many as possible of those out of work.

In some districts construction work done directly by the Government will afford relief; in others it will be necessary for the municipal government with the aid of federal and provincial grants to launch out a construction program on its own account.

This may prove to be the case in Peterborough, and the situation in that regard should be taken into early consideration by the Council.

NOT ONE-SIDED.

Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition, away to a good start, has two big days left, and these should be marked by a record attendance in view of the merit of the exhibits and the attractiveness of the entertainment features.

It should be remembered in this connection that elaborate as is the grandstand performance it has not been allowed to bury the real purpose of the Exhibition.

In other words, the primary object of such an institution, which is, of course, to develop and encourage the agricultural industry in its district, has not been neglected.

In the various agricultural departments there are healthy signs of growth and expansion, with a prize list substantial enough to encourage leading Canadian breeders and producers to send their best to Peterborough.

From the viewpoint of fine stock, the present Exhibition is a record-breaker.

There is nothing one-sided about the Peterborough Industrial; there is something for everybody, and while much money has wisely been spent upon entertainment, it has been found possible to do so without neglecting other essential and important departments.

The expenses in connection with the Exhibition are necessarily large; it is imperative, therefore, that the support given at the box office during the next two days should be worthy of the program.

THE NATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The suggestion is made in the Globe that a consolidated annual grant of $250,000 a year for twenty years be made by the Dominion and Ontario Governments to the Canadian National Exhibition.

Canadians, as The Examiner has often pointed out, are proud of the National Exhibition as a triumph of Canadian enterprise and vision, and if the suggested grants were to be made it is not likely that there would be any great amount of opposition.

There is one point to be remembered, however, and that is that the directors should keep in line with the ideals according to which the Canadian National Exhibition has been developed, and see to it that it is really a national exhibition, a veritable cross section of Canadian life.

If circus features are to be stressed beyond the limits of their importance, if spectacular stunts like marathon swims are to be given first place and the real purposes of the Canadian National subordinated to sensational items, there is likely to be a strong feeling against extensive Government aid.

The money of the Canadian taxpayers has too many calls upon it to make grants that will go into the pockets of American long distance swimmers popular with the people who have to foot the bills.

Canadians will not object to financing a genuine exhibition, but they draw the line at Government assistance for a series of circus stunts.

BRITAIN'S COLOSSAL BURDEN.

(From the Winnipeg Tribune)

No matter what his personal views on any subject may be, Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, never allows himself to become hysterical or sentimental in his public utterances. His arguments are presented in a cold, incisive manner which seldom fails to impress the severely practical mind. A recent radio talk in which he pleaded for world peace is eminently characteristic. Despite his well-known pacifism he dealt only with the mere dollars and cents aspect of war as an agent of destruction.

Taking the case of Great Britain, he said that it had spent some 50,000 million dollars on its part in the Great War. This was apart from the loss of the wealth-producing capacity of millions of men drawn for four years from useful employment. The war left Britain with a debt of over thirty-five billion dollars, the interest on which alone costs one and three-quarter billions a year; and it has to come out of taxation.

At the present rate of payment, Mr. Snowden added, it will take 140 years to wipe it out. To-day the British people were raising $5,000,000 every day, $200,000 every hour, $3,000 every minute for debt purposes. It takes the whole-time labor of 2,000,000 workers year in and year out to pay the annual cost of the nation's debt burden. To this must be added $575,000,000, which Britain annually spends on war services, and $280,000,000 it pays yearly for war pensions, which gives a total of $2,600,000,000—$5,000 a minute—which Great Britain has to provide for war purposes.

Such stupendous figures throw Mr. Snowden's main point into bold relief. "It passes the power of the most imaginative mind," he said, "to conceive what prosperity and happiness could be added to the world if the resources wasted by war could have been used for the advancement of human wealth." But even the least imaginative mind must realize from the figures given that now is the time for all good men the world over to ponder the folly of preparing for another war.

A NATIONAL CRISIS.

Canada stands at this moment very distinctly at the parting of the ways. We face a grave crisis. The question of unemployment is subordinate to the infinitely larger question of national policy as between a road that is safe and a road that is unsafe. Every man who pauses to think will realize that what we can do about the problem of unemployment will be irrevocable; that it will either keep our feet on sound fundamentals or carry us into pathways the ends of which we can neither foresee nor appraise. Therefore, it is not a time to listen to the call of expediency. It is a time for sober thinking.

What is unemployment? What is this thing with which a special session of Parliament has been called to deal? The answer is clear and positive. It is a temporary and a world-wide condition. A year ago we had not heard of it. It got into politics, and a general election gave it an emphasis out of all proportion to its importance. Hitherto, whether or not an individual was out of work, or any number of individuals, was not regarded as a matter for state intervention. The state was not held accountable. To the extent that relief measures were necessary, they were initiated and carried out by the municipalities directly concerned. Beyond the responsibility of the municipality lay the responsibility of the Province; but never in a single instance in all history did any of the Provinces intervene directly—and we have had several periods of as acute depression as now obtains.

If now the Dominion steps in, it will be not only a departure from traditional and constitutional practice, but it will be the assertion of a new principle in government. It will mark our entrance upon social paternalism, to which there is no end. The experience of Australia along that road should warn us of our peril. That sister Dominion, under a Labor Government, undertook all sorts of social services, including the care of the unemployed; and to-day there is not a country on earth with as high a proportion of its population living on the state. Has this brought peace and happiness? The very opposite. Discontent and dissension are rife. Strikes are perpetual. And because of heavy borrowing to carry out this socialistic program, Australia hangs perilously on the brink of national bankruptcy.

The course of safety is for our Federal Government to stand firmly on the constitutional definition of its functions. If unemployment is so serious that relief for the workless is imperative, both the initiative and the administration of measures of that nature should be undertaken by the municipalities primarily and the Provinces secondarily. That is the law, and to depart from it would be perilous in the extreme. Yet even under municipal or provincial action, taken separately or jointly, it should be clearly understood that the resultant cost would have to be met by new forms of taxation.

Again let it be said that if there was ever a time when the Canadian people needed to pause and think soberly, that time is now. It is most unfortunate that this question of unemployment should have gotten into politics, and it is to be hoped that it may be extricated therefrom by the members of the House taking the broader, more patriotic view in dealing with it. It is true the Government accepted the responsibility voluntarily without reservation, during the election, but that is a matter of history now. The question is too big to divide the House on strictly party lines, and the country has a right to expect that, whatever is proposed as a solution, will be gauged solely from the national viewpoint. In this connection, it is gratifying to learn from the Minister of Labor that there are to be no doles and, while he didn't say so, it is presumed unemployment insurance is not contemplated, at least until more time is given for its consideration. The probable program will be one providing for public works on a large scale and a general advance in the tariff, as a temporary measure to assist industry to greater activity. What further steps are taken should be through the well-established channels by the giving of assistance to the local municipalities to provide work for their unemployed. Such a plan would avoid the danger of creating embarrassing precedents. In the meanwhile an onlooking country, sympathetic and not disposed to be unreasonably critical, will watch with deep interest the course of events during the session.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a record; send the Exhibition attendance over the top.

Canadian aviation has suffered a great loss in the killing of Major J. A. Dickie, secretary of the Canadian Flying Club's Association.

The census to be taken next year should include a survey of the number of miniature golf players in the Dominion.

Premier Bennett's contribution to the debate on the Speech from the Throne only occupied fifteen minutes. But then no one except Dr. Manion can say more in a quarter of an hour than Mr. Bennett.

Canadians regard the present session of Parliament as an unemployment clinic, not as a political post mortem, it would be well for the politicians to remember.

Who can plumb the vasty deeps of The Examiner's rural correspondence?.... For example, here is a sentence which occurred the other day: "Mr. H. Fee, the Pathmaster, is busy repairing the sidewalks."

O—H

What a gem is here! In its simple, unadorned style, we have the English language at its best. This sentence stands alone. There is no further comment or information. We are not told who Mr. Fee is, nor how long he has been Pathmaster, nor how he got the job, nor whose sidewalks he is repairing, nor what material he is using, nor how extensive are the operations....But, after all, what need is there for more? In its straightforward elegance, our correspondent's sentence presents unlimited possibilities....

O—H

There is one thing of which we are quite sure....Mr. Fee is a pathmaster of his art.

O—H

Perhaps his father was a pathmaster before him. Probably he comes of a long line of pathmasters ....One pictures a long and honorable line of Fees making paths down the ages. Patiently, carefully, and well they have made their paths from the time of Alfred the Great to the present day....And if all the paths were laid end to end, it would be—in the words of the prophet—some path!....One pictures the present Mr. Fee one bright morning taking his path-making materials and his pathmaster tools—probably his pathmaster badge, too,....treasured in the family since the fourteenth Fee who repaired the very gutter over which Queen Elizabeth had stepped on Raleigh's cloak the day before—and betaking himself to the honest task of repairing the village sidewalks....

O—H

And when the day's work is over he hies himself homeward to the bosom of his family, where—amid the simple joys of the rural hearth—he spends his evening instructing the youngest Fees in the ancient art of pathmastering.

O—H

And so to bed...And all the recognition he gets is a sentence in The Examiner's rural correspondence.... But such a sentence!

O—H

But there are other bright spots among the opera of our amiable correspondents....To wit: 'Several pots of steaming corn were devoured to say nothing of the hot dogs and coffee."

O—H

That'll larn 'em b'gorsh!

What To-day Means To You.

"VIRGO."

If September 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to noon, and 11 p.m. to midnight.

Astrological configurations on this date are too vague for clear interpretation. It need not, however, be a blank. As your life to-day has been determined by the way you lived yesterday, so your to-morrow is being determined by the way you live to-day. Improve that which you have!

The child born on this September 11th will have a self-reliant, courageous nature. It will not need aggressive supervision and restraint. It will be full of common-sense, ingenuity, and industry. It will be companionable, love sports, love animals, and be devoted to its home.

You are not a commercial-minded person—your loves, your sentiments, are the things which make your world go round. You do not like to listen to pure reason, and you refuse to see through lenses which are too disillusioning. You want to be fooled, and you want to be blind. You courageously fight for your ideals, and it causes you great pain when some of them are killed by a cruel, misunderstanding world. You are not a moral or mental coward, but it makes you happier to see a little bravery and loyalty in the great crowd that passes, than to hunt for their weaknesses and meannesses. The world will test you, try you and hurt you, and it is not likely that you will be able to retain your Pan-like spirit. You must fight against becoming a cynic.

An efficiency expert might mark you low in practicability, business acumen, decision and judgment; you would have to be marked plus, however, in cheerfulness, optimism, faith and originality. You refuse to worry or to take things too seriously. You are a most lovable man or woman, and you are frequently imposed upon, but usually harbour no rancour or revenge.

You are magnetic and attractive to members of the opposite sex. Beware of traitors (especially if you be a woman) amongst those of your own sex. You are intuitive, psychic, and also superstitious. Your mental strength overlaps your physical endurance.

TEMPLE TOWER
BY "SAPPER"

"'Accursed fool,' went on the voice, and I could dimly see le Bossu's outline in the gloom. "Blundering idiot. Do I plan with my great brain this wonderful coup in order that you should allow yourself to be sandbagged like an English tourist? And by le Crapeau of all people."

"'M'sieur," I pleaded, "I did not suspect him. I was standing in the door wondering what our next instructions would be when he crept on me from behind."

"'Be silent, worm," he said. "It is well for you, Rossignol, that your shirt is soaked with blood. Were it otherwise I might be tempted to think that this was a put-up job between you."

"'By the blood of the Virgin, M'sieur," I cried, "I swear to you——"

"'Be silent," he snarled. "I said it was well for you that he hit so hard. It proves to me that you are only a fool and not a traitor. Were you the second, Rossignol, I would strangle you, here and now with my own hands. As it is, your punishment is sufficient."

"'But, M'sieur," I cried, "what am I to do?"

"There was no answer, le Bossu Masque had gone. I was alone now, in very truth—miles from anywhere.'

"So did the Nightingale ramble on. We let him talk, but there was obviously nothing more that he could tell us. He was very incoherent as to dates and times, and I think he undoubtedly remained in that shed in a semi-delirious state for three or four days. How he finally arrived at Rouen we never found out: he hardly seemed to know himself. Anyway, the point was not important.

"He bought up on a charge of robbery with violence, and sentenced to twenty-one years' imprisonment in Devil's Island. And with that we can leave him for the present. And with that also my story of the quarter of a century ago is practically finished. Le Rossignol, with a characteristic outburst of frenzied invective against the Toad, disappeared from the dock into twenty-one years of hell.

"And now, gentlemen, we pass out of the region of certain fact into the region of guesswork. To take the Toad first. I do not think there can be any doubt as to what he did. Overcome by the thought of so much loot, he determined to try and get it all for himself. He laid out the Nightingale, and went off in the car. What happened then we can only surmise. Perhaps he found that he couldn't manage the car: perhaps he lost his nerve. But somewhere in that area of country he hid the stolen stuff. Probably he put in his pocket sufficient jewellery to keep him in comfort for many a long day. But the bulk of the stuff he must have hidden, intending to go back for it when the hue and cry was over. Then he ran the car into a wood, hid it as well as he could, and disappeared. And it is a fact that he did disappear. Years passed by: the war came, but never a trace of the Toad did we see. He vanished from the underworld of Paris as completely as a stone vanished in the sea. Many people thought he was dead, though, personally, I never agreed with them. But at last the whole thing was forgotten: even the search for the treasure was abandoned. That had really been hopeless from the first, unless we could lay our hands on the Toad and make him lead us to it.

"As to what happened to le Bossu Masque we are equally in doubt. Many people believed that he had caught the Toad, and had murdered him for his treachery, first compelling him to reveal the hiding-place of the loot. There was a great deal to be said for the theory, though, somehow, I never believed it myself. No body was ever found anywhere which could possibly have been the Toad's. And I felt tolerably certain that a big man like le Bossu would never have taken the trouble to follow an object of that sort out of the country merely to kill him. It was the loot he was after—not the Toad. We still felt his activities in Paris, though, as years went by, they seemed to grow less and less. And there are strange stories told of incredible deeds of heroism performed in the war by a masked hunchback, who appeared suddenly in different parts of the line. Fiction, of course, but le poilu likes his little bit of mystery—just as your Tom my does.

"And so we come to the present moment, and this strang reunion of the principals in that drama of nearly thirty years ago. As a matter of fact, you will see that it is not quite so strange as it would appear at first sight, but a perfectly logical affair.

"It starts with the release of the Nightingale from Devil's Island five years ago. I was then working with the police in New York, but not because I had to. I happen to be of independent means, and I work for the love of the thing, not for the salary. And the cas of all others that intrigued me mos during my whole career was the one have just told you. It was unsolved: I felt I had been beaten.

"Now I have a fairly good knowledge of the criminal nature. And quite by chance I happened to learn that an uncle of le Rossignol's had died leaving his money to his nephew. So I gambled on the result that twenty-one years in Devil's Island would produce on a man like the Nightingale, believing, as he did, that he was there principally because of the Toad's treachery. I chucked up my job, and got on the heels of the Nightingale.

"Well, my guess proved right. He was now, for a man in his position, comparatively affluent, which enabled him to be free from the necessity of working. And, as I thought would prove the case, he was obsessed with one idea, to the exclusion of everything else. And that idea was revenge on the Toad. If le Crapeau was still alive he was going to find him.

"Gentlemen, these past few years may seem to you to have been dull: to me they have been fascinating. Backwards and forwards, searching and ferreting, the Nightingale has chased his man. Old companions of twenty years previously have been interrogated: clues have been followed up, only to be discarded. And all the time, inknown to him, I have been sitting on his heels, patiently waiting. I knew that no one was better qualified to find the Toad than he was. He had access to information that I could never have got: in addition it was the sole driving force of his life.

"It is true, I admit, that at one period, when for months he seemed completely defeated, I very nearly gave it up. And then, quite suddenly out of the blue, there came the message that gave me the greatest thrill of my life. It was proof of what I had always thought in days gone by. Just an envelope handed to me by a gamin as I sat outside a cafe in Paris.

"'Keep out of this.' That was all that was written on the paper: that—and the drawing I hadn't seen for so many years. So le Bossue Masque was not dead: le Bossu Masque was on the trail, too. He also was following the Nightingale: he also was working on the same lines as myself. A strange situation as you will agree: I and that greatest of criminals both using the same dog to hunt our man, and the dog quite unconscious of the fact that he was being so used. It added zest to it, I can assure you. It meant sleeping with one eye permanently open: it meant that the whole time it was necessary to look in every direction, not only at the Nightingale. Several times I sensed his presence near me: how, I can't tell you. And remember the terrible handicap that I was working under. He knew me, but I didn't know him.

"However, that is neither here nor there. Just as the obsession of le Rossignol's life was to lay hands on the Toad, so the obsession of mine became the desire to catch le Bossu Masque. It had turned into a duel between him and me. And that duel is now approaching its end."

For a moment or two Victor Matthews fell silent, his eyes fixed on the little drawing still pinned to the tree above my head. And we, enthralled though we were, let him take his own time.

"The rest," he continued after a while, "is fairly soon told. Little by little, from a clue here and a clue there, it became increasingly certain that the Toad had left France. But where had he gone, and had he taken the loot with him? And then came a sudden and astounding stroke of luck. The Nightingale, in the course of his search, had reached Boulogne, and one evening he was sitting in a small wine shop on the Quai Gambetta. At the next table to him was a French ouvirer, and I venture to think that not even the Bossu Masque himself would have recognized me in that excellent workman. The cafe was fairly empty, and I was on the point of going when two French fishermen came in. They were both a little tight, and their conversation was clearly audible. But what principally attracted my attention was the fact that they obviously were full of money.

"At first I listened idly, and then a stray sentence struck my ear.

"'Le moulin a Bonneval.'

UNION STATION NEEDED.

To the Editor of The Examiner."
Dear sir:

At this time of serious unemployment it may not be amiss for one to suggest to you and to our local member that a union station is probably the greatest need for Peterborough. The present condition of level crossings in this city is a disgrace while the inconvenience of two stations with all their tracks and diamonds is such as we are ashamed of.

Admittedly it would be costly but with the expense divided several ways and the scheme undertaken as a scheme for relief of unemployment I do not see that it is out of the way.

The new union station would so improve that part of Peterborough between Charlotte and Townsend and from George to Bethune and at the lower end along the present track of the C.P.R. to Toronto and C.N.R. to Port Hope that the whole city would be greatly benefitted.

If, as the Mail & Empire forecasts, we are to have 1,000 out of work this winter let this scheme be vigorously urged and we will gain in every way.

Yours truly,
SOUTHENDER.

MEN OVER 60.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Dear sir:

Please allow me a little space in The Examiner to voice my opinion in what I have all along claimed, that as Henry Ford said: "If you take all the men over 60 years of age out of a business, you won't have enough experience left to run the business." And here is a little proof of it.

This morning I was walking south on George street when a horse belonging to The Bredin Bread Co., began backing up across from the Grand Opera Co. and the more he backed the more the reins pulled on his mouth, so he backed the wagon clean around, because the driver had left the reins through the front of the top part of the wagon and hitched on the tie weight to the end of the reins as they were, which as it will do when reins are tied to a wagon wheel. No driver of experience would do either.

I ran around the wagon and pulled the weight from behind the wheel and waited until the driver came back from delivering his bread, and told what I had done and asked him for a loaf of bread.

He refused—was not sport enough to see that a loaf of bread was a pretty small reward for saving the Bredin Bread Company a possible damage suit.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
BERNARD WELSH

Peterborough, Sept. 9.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

The Brisbane Journal of Australia has been moved by the attitude of General J. B. Hertzog, Prime Minister of South Africa, to ask if the present component parts of the British Empire, or any of them, have the right to secede and declare their independence. General Hertzog's claim of the "right to secede" has arisen or at any rate come to life, he says, through his contemplation of the "independent" stand taken by Mr. Bennett of Canada, which was apparently endorsed by the Canadian people at the polls.

The last conference of the Empire, held at London in 1926, announced that a basis of Imperial union had at last been found. The first of these conferences was called at Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who early saw the "preferences" could be the only feasible basis of union and of a wholly voluntary kind, a policy finally adopted by all parts of the Empire at the conference in 1926. But quite unexpectedly the Canadian electors turned down the recommendation of the conference and the acquiescence of Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe therein. Mr. Bennett's policy of denouncing preferences and of demanding the right of Canada to act independently of the conference and, if necessary, of the Empire, was adopted by the Canadian electorate.

Britain has always allowed her colonies to develop themselves in their own economic way, but are the inhabitants of those colonies, now grown to dominions, owners in fee simple of the lands composing them, or are they only tenants? The very scornful remark in Britain that apparently all that is left of the Empire is the "right to secede" has ended in bringing this matter up for consideration before the conference of September assembles at London. It must be plain to even the most partisan of us that Britain has never at any time ceded Canada to Canadians to be their own exclusive property. Canadians as tenants are perfectly free to act as tenants usually do regarding their own affairs, but the "right to secede" and walk off with the owner's property does not exist. The United States obtained it only after a revolution.

Under ordinary circumstance it would not be necessary to bring this matter up, but it has suddenly become the chief subject of discussion everywhere. Moreover, within this matter lies the germ of very serious disagreement, even to the posible extent of war between Canada and the rest of the Empire, and of civil war between Sir John A. Macdonald's Tories and the Bennett Tories, to say nothing of what the followers of the originator of the idea of a preferential Empire, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, may do. It is idle to try to evade the facts and bluff the matter off as some wish to do. British journals are taking the questions seriously, and Mr. de Valera, with his sinister smile, is ready to take advantage of Mr. Bennett's "independence" stand and of the accompanying "right to secede.' How far does Mr. Bennett really intend to proceed with his claims?

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, September 11. (C.P.) — The Graf Zeppelin landed here safely at 11.35 a.m., after a round trip cruise to Moscow.

FIRM LIST ON TORONTO CURB

International Nickel Makes Another Advance to Hold its Place as Market Leader.

LITTLE OIL INTEREST.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.) — Prices were firm but trading was dull on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The market having settled back into a quieter mood after the mild excitement of the past little while. International Nickel held its place as leader of this market and made another advance this morning, selling above 27 after opening around last night. Close of 26¾. The turnover, while greater than that of other stocks, was below that of yesterday.

Oils were firm but interest was missing in all save Imperial Oil, which however, only held its own in comparison with last night's close. Supertest Petroleum advanced above 39 on a few sales.

Utilities were firm, Bell Telephone up a point and C.P.R. new fractionally higher. Massey-Harris made a gain of nearly a point, while Cockshutt Plow remained unchanged. Dominion Stores was up one at 21 and City Dairy firm at 69. Steels showed no definite trend, fractional variations occurring in both directions. Ford was easier at 29½. Gypsum unchanged and most curb industrials unchanged. Liquor stocks were quiet, selling about the same.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Prime mercantile paper 3-3¼ per cent. Foreign exchange steady, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars), others in cents). Great Britain 4.86 1-16; France 3.92 5-8; Italy 5.23½; Germany, 23.81. Canadian dollars 9-64 of one per cent premium.

OPENING PRICES.

WINNIPEG, Man. Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Wheat prices were 1c to 1 5-8c a bushel lower at the opening of the market here this morning. Lack of overnight export business and lower values at Liverpool, along with the government estimate issued Wednesday, were the main factors in the decline. Opening prices follow.

Wheat, October 1½ to 1½ c lower at 82¼ to 82. December, 1c to 1⅛c lower at 85 to 84½. May 1 1-8c to 1 5-8c lower at 91½ to 91.

PREMIER GOLD DECLARES SIX P. C. DIVIDEND

New Developments on Property —Company Negotiating With Lorne Gold.

WAITE DEVELOPMENT.

Harry S. Thayer Retained as Consulting Engineer by N.Y. Mining Exchange.

TORONTO, Sept. 11. (Special to Examiner.)—In augurating a practice that may prove a constructive innovating for exchanges handling mining and oil securities, the New York Exchange has retained Harry S. Thayer, well known mining man, as consulting engineer of the organization which went into operation yesterday with some sixty securities listed. Mr. Thayer was formerly connected with United States Reduction and Refining company of Colorada and more recently followed the profession of consulting engineer with headquarters in Colorada Springs and Salt Lake City.

Premier Gold mining company has declared a dividend of six cents a share in United States currency payable, October 4 to shareholders of record at the close of business on September 16. The stock will sell ex-dividend September 15. Premier has figured more prominently in the news of late. New developments have reported on the property and the company is said to have examined the Lorne gold with a view to arriving at a deal for exploration of this group, closed down coincident with the assignment of a local brokerage firm last spring.

Kerr Lake mines, whose annual report for the year ended August 30, has just been submitted, has called its annual general meeting for September 22 in New York. The stock of Nordon Corporation is reported to have been listed on the New York curb exchange at 11 o'clock to-day. According to latest available information the company's well in the Button Willow field San Joaquin valley, California is standing cemented at 4900 feet was drilling is expected to start about the end of the week.

Waite Development.

Little of an official nature has come out regarding Ackerman Montgomery of late, but it is understood development work is being continued on the 500,600 and 700 levels it has been proven the six and seven per cent, copper content over widths of more than 130 feet is continuing to greater depth and it is understood preparations are being made for further shaft sinking in the near future, with the next objective probably 1100 feet, the presence of a new ore body below the workings is rumore to have been indicated by drilling. An unofficial report states Waite recently acquired so some 400 acres in one block adjoining the present holdings to the east. This ground is said to show similar geological conditions and it is believed the line of strike of the Waite ore zone passes through this property. If this is the case the company has added important possibilities to its holdings and Noranda with its large interest, stands to benefit to the fullest extent fromany developments on this new ground.

Diamond drilling hole No. 102 on the Tough Oakes property, under option to Bunker Hill Extension, is reported to have cut one of the easterly vein extentions of the old No. 2 vein system on the 200 level. The ore indicated a smaller high grade vein structure carrying average value of $20 ro the ton, over a width of a little more than four feet. Drilling is being continued.

MARKET EASES TO-DAY'S TRADE

Sporadic Bidding Up of Specialties Gives New York Market Spotty Appearance.

TRADING SLUMPS.

NEW YORK, September 11.—The still convalescent stock market required a breathing spell to-day after the strenuous bullish efforts of the first half of the week had finally lifted the general level of prices over the rough places which wrecked the bull movement of July.

Although the market closed yesterday only a fraction above the peak of July 28, as measured by the index of 90 issues, much liquidation had to be absorbed on the way and pool operators were anxious to get their bearings before further ambitious undertakings. Trading slumped and prices generally eased, although sporadic bidding up of specialties gave the market a spotty appearance.

Such stocks as U.S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, New York Central, Air Reduction and Johns Manville lost a point or more. Shares losing two or more than 3, included American Waterworks, Pacific Lighting, Stone & Webster, Gulf States Steel, U S. Industrial Alcohol and allied Chemical. Case dropped more than 5. On the other hand Vanadium, Foster Wheeler, Gillette, National Steel, Coca Cola, Safeway and Shattuck, rose 2 to 3.

The money market indicated an increasing supply of funds. Call money renewed at 2½ per cent, but was soon available in the outside market at 2.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 11. —(AP)—A Swedish-Norwegian committee consisting of four legal authorities has been instituted by the Governments of Sweden and Norway to investigate all questions of property right in connection with the dairy and other objects belonging to the Andree expedition.

Gas Smuggling Does Not Exist

OTTAWA, Ont., September 11 (C.P.). — Officials of the Department of National Revenue, when asked to-day in regard to reports of the smuggling of so-called "bootleg" gasoline into Canada, were inclined to the opinion there was very little, if any of it, going on. It is explained that the better class of gasoline comes in free of duty. It is only gasoline of 725 specific gravity and over against which there is a tariff which is one cent a gallon. The lighter gasoline is the better, official; stated. They doubt that even the type which comes under the tariff would be worth while smuggling to save one cent a gallon.

BENNETT QUERIED ON SEAWAY MOVE

U. S. Through New Minister Urges Starting of Final Negotiations.

FIRST ACTION SINCE 1928.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 11 (C.P.). —The New York Times, in a special despatch from Washington, to-day, says:

"In a note delivered by Hanford MacNider, as one of his first official acts as the new American Minister to Canada, the United States has asked the Conservative Government of Premier Bennett whether it is prepared to proceed with the development of the St. Lawrence Waterway, and has suggested that the two Governments appoint commissioners for settling the remaining points of difference and negotiating a treaty for carrying out the project.

Whether a reply has been transmitted by the Dominion Government is not known here.

The step taken by the United States is the first formal diplomatic move in the situation since 1928, when this country urged the conclusion of arrangements for building the waterway, but was informed by Premier Mackenzie King that Canada, for various reasons, was not prepared to proceed with the matter until several domestic questions had been adjusted.

Harold Sampson One Up in P.G.A. Tourney

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 11. (C.P.) Harold Sampson, California "dark horse," was one up over Charles Lacey of Clemton, N. J., after the first 18 holes of their quarter-final match to-day in the P.G.A. championships.

STANDARD LIST IS IRREGULAR

Profit-taking Mainly Responsible for Reaction—Volume Slightly Lower.

NORANDA EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—(C.P.) —The market took on an irregular appearance on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, after two days of rising prices. Profit-taking was mainly responsible for the reaction. Volume was slightly below that of yesterday.

International Nickel and Noranda were easier, the former selling off 10 to $27, and the latter 30 to $24.25. Neither was active. Lindsley issues were firm. Ventures up 5, Nordon 4, Sudbury Basin showed no change, while Falconbridge was off a small amount at $2.40.

Nordon Corporation sold up to-day, gaining 10 to $1,000. This stock was listed on the New York Curb Exchange to-day. Home weakened, dropping 23 points to $3.65. Alberta Pacific hit a low of 50, off 12, and Calmont lost 8 to 65. Ajax and Merland had small gains.

In the golds, Dome and Vipond were unchanged, while Teck Hughes went up 5, and Premier 2, Hollingers lost 10, McIntyre 25, and Wright Hargreaves 11.

TORONTO KIWANIS DEFEATED BY GALT

Homesters Eliminate Queen City Boys' Club in Junior Semi-finals.

GALT, Sept. 11.—Despite the fact that they gave their poorest exhibition of the year, the Robin Hoods nosed out the Toronto Kiwanis in the second game of their series in the O.B.A.A. junior semi-finals here last night 8 to 7, and will now meet the Northern winners for the Ontario championship. Catcher "Buzz" Bennett's home run in the eighth won the game for Galt. It was a terrific drive over the left fielder's head. After making a rally in the eighth to tie the score, Kiwanis lost their chance for victory when, with none out and Keating on third, an attempted squeeze play was called on the first pitch and Fadman failed to connect, the runner being an easy out. That was the turning point of the game.

Toronto's first six runs were gifts, the locals throwing the ball wildly around the field, having no less than eight errors. Lovegrove for Galt had a homer in the seventh, while Gamble had a circuit blow in the eighth with one on. Zivetsky starred in the field, and with Gamble tied for hitting honors for Toronto, each having a pair.

Galt took a three-run lead in the first, when, after two were out, a triple, two singles and a walk scored three runs. Toronto got a pair in the third on two hits and two errors, pulling off a squeeze play. Two singles, a walk, double steal and triple by Hickey netted the locals three more counters in the fourth. Toronto was presented with another in the fifth on three errors. Then came Lovegrove's homer in the seventh and Toronto's eighth-inning rally. An error started the fireworks. Then came a homer by Gamble, a walk, a single, an error and Keating's triple for four runs, and Carl Last, the Galt pitcher, was yanked and Glennie finished the game.

7 To 5 Betting Odds On Jimmy McLarnin

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (CP).—With nothing but his reputation at stake Al Singer, youthful king of the lightweights, takes on Jimmy McLarnin, a tough two-fisted Canadian welterweight, in a ten-round bout at the Yankees stadium to-night.

Despite the fact that McLarnin will outweigh the young Jewish titleholder by six pounds, the betting marts refused to offer better than 7 to 5 on the 23-year-old Vancouver (B. C.) slugger, who has knocked out such top-notchers as Jackie Fields, Sammy Baker, Ruby Goldstein, Louis Kid Kaplan and Sid Terris. Singer sought the bout and will have no alibis if laid low or outpointed by Jimmy.

UNITED STATES WINS POLO CUP

Great Britain Drops Second Successive Game By Score 14-9.

PROVE SERIOUS THREAT.

WESTBURY, N.Y., Sept. 11 (By the Canadian Press).—Great Britain's four to-day were acclaimed gallant losers of the international polo series with the United States for the historic Westchester cup, after dropping the second match yesterday by a score of 14 goals to 9. The United States won the first match of the series on Saturday, 10 goals to 5.

Not since 1914 has a British team provided such a serious threat against the supremacy of the United States four. For the first five periods 45,000 spectators sat stunned and amazed by the fury of the British attack which kept them leading in a see-saw match. At the start of the sixth chukker Great Britain lead at 7-6, but a four-goal rally by their United States rivals sent them out in front, and at the end of the period they led by 10 to 7.

The British failed to score during the sixth, and for the rest of the game the best they could do was hammer in two more while the United States side, spurred on by desperation, swept four more between the posts.

Grain Figures For C.P.R. Coast Shipment

(Special to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 11.—Storage of grain on all tracks at the Pacific coast boat shipments in the west and storage in country elevators, and at the head of the lakes, have increased during the twenty four hour period covering September 8th, according to the report received this morning from the transportation department, Canadian Pacific Railway.

Complete figures for this period are: Inspections 1,068, marketing Manitoba district 984,000 Saskatchewan 1,562,000 and Alberta 1,477,000 cars loaded 1,747. DEAD BABY LIES 3 WEEKS IN PORCUPINE POST OFFICE

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 11. — The body of a new-born child has lain for three weeks in the post office in Porcupine. The ghastly discovery was made by a boy as a result of the offensive odor.

Municipal police are endeavoring to solve the mystery and are following up a clue they have obtained. They state the boy who opened the wrappers claimed to have found the parcel in an old bread van, but later admitted taking it from the rear of the Timmins post office. The police were notified when the boys opened the parcel.

An autopsy disclosed that the child had been born dead.

BRITISH SAILORS ASSIST CLEANING SANTO DOMINGO

SANTO DOMINGO, September 11 (C.P., — British naval detachments worked like any other laborers today in putting this ancient capital back on its feet.

At the request of President Trujillo sailors from the cruiser Danae landed yesterday to supervise cleaning of the debris and refuse from the streets, thus relieving fatigued Dominican soldiers who have had almost no relief since the hurricane on Wednesday of last week.

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

The point has been emphasized repeatedly that, unless the credit and monetary structure of the country has been undermining which it has not business depressions seldom extend longer than twelve months. The current depression has already run its "legitimate" time and public physchology is surely turning and trade figures are comparing more favorablely. C.P.R. earnings for the first week of September exceeded those for the like period last year the first time there has been an increase reported in nearly a years time, railroad earnings last September were prophetic of the approaching depression and the fact that now the trend has been reversed may be taken as a sign that we have passed through the slump and are now entering a new phase of the cycle.

Indications were not wanting that rail returns were improving revenue, car loadings in August outweighed those of July. Loadings the first week of August were 58,453 cars, the second week 61,272 cars and the third and, fourth weeks better than 64,000 cars. The assumption that we are again entering a period of progress is supported by the statement of the Royal Bank of Canada in the September letter that it is reasonable to conclude the present average of prices has reached the bottom of the cyclycal movement. Given some assurance the decline in prices has been halted, buyers will make heavier forward committments and industrial life will quicken.

Operations Lower.

Operations were on a reduced scale on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The turnover was not large, except in a few stocks and with them buying was not urgent although committments were being made on a slightly upward scale observers are viewing with satisfaction that the rise has not been followed by heavy profit-taking and with the pace slowing again believe stocks will firmly entrench themselves at present levels.

D. H. McDougall, liquidator, has written shareholders that the affairs of the Toronto Railway Company have been fully liquidated and that he has forwarded to the National Trust Company a sum of $96,000 for the purpose of making a final distribution to shareholders of 80 cents a share in accordance with the pressure on the previous payments, stockholders are requested upon receipt of the notice to send or deliver their stock certificates unendorsed, to the trust company. Certificates so surrendered, after the final payment has been made, will be cancelled and retained by the trust company. This final distribution will make the fourth on account of capital since the liquidation was appointed in 1924 and will bring the total payment to $116.30 a share on the stock of $100 par.

BAILIEBORO COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Purse of Gold and Walking Stick Presented to Mr. and Mrs. W. Thompson.

MANY FRIENDS ATTEND

(Examiner Correspondence)

BAILIEBORO, September 11. — Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thompson celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Monday evening, when a large number of their friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at their home to honor them by a presentation.

Rev. M. W. Leizh, pastor of the Hilton United Church, and a former pastor of the Bailieboro Methodist church, acted as chairman for the program, in the absence of Rev. E. F. Swayne, who was attending induction services at Bethany. At the conclusion of the renewal of the marriage vows, an address was read by Mr. J. W. Porter, and a presentation was made of a purse of gold to Mrs. Thompson, and a gold-headed walking stick to Mr. Thompson.

A program of speeches, solos, instrumentalists, readings and community singing was very much enjoyed by everyone, and a very plentiful lunch was served by the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have been life long residents of Bailieboro and vicinity and are held in the highest esteem by their many friends and neighbors.

One feature of the wedding anniversary was the presence of the bridesmaid and groomsman of fifty years ago, Mr. Milton Thompson of Detroit, and Mrs. H. C. Barnard of Bailieboro. They again assisted in the renewal of marriage vows.

Mr. Thompson has been a very prominent supporter of the local baseball team and various other sporting activities. For several years he has supplied the village with an athletic field. Mrs. Thompson was a very active member of the former Methodist church, and now United Church, being at various times the president of the Ladies' Aid, the church organist and Sunday school teacher.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are enjoying the best of health and are very active. Mr. Thompson recently assisted in threshing at the farm of Mr. Herb Dawson for his 66th consecutive year.

Guests included several from Detroit, Buffalo, Peterborough, Port Hope and Hilton.

LABORER KILLED THREE INJURED

Victims Thrown Off C. N. R. Train When Car Breaks Loose.

NEAR BROCKVILLE.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 11.—(C.P.)—One man is dead and three others are in hospital with injuries, one of them in a critical condition, as the result of an accident on the Canadian National Railway near Lansdowne Station yesterday.

A. Dregnook, died shortly after being admitted to the hospital with head injuries; A. Bonderchuch is in a critical condition with a fractured pelvis; G. Bortko suffered a fractured leg and facial injuries, and K. Bonderuk, a fractured leg, fractured collar bone and severe cuts.

The four men were laborers employed on an extra track gang engaged in ballasting operations. They were returning to work after lunch on a train made up of two track motor cars and a number of lorries along with 55 other men. The four victims were seated on the first lorrie when the motor cars broke away from the rest of the train and the men were hurled on the track beneath the lorries.

LADIES PREPARE FOR FOWL SUPPER

Millbrook Saint Andrew's Association Sets Date For October 14.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Percy Stinson was hostess for the September meeting of the Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church, the gathering, which was well attended, being held at her home, Centre street, on Tuesday, September 9th at 3 p.m. with the president, Mrs. C. C. Garside, in the chair.

Following the opening devotional period, with the president and Mrs. Stinson in charge, business items coming up for discussion included necessary repairs to the furnace in the parsonage, papering to be done, and new blinds purchased. The latter items were left in the hands of the parsonage committee for attention in the immediate future, the members being Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. George Locke, Mrs. J. L. Bvam, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and Mrs. W. E. Ball.

On motion it was decided that the Association contribute five dollars to the thankoffering of the other churches on the circuit, Fallis Line, Zion, and Carmel, on their respective anniversary occasions. It was also decided, after discussion, to have a booth on fall fair day at the Agricultural Park, the committee to attend to this matter being: Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, Mrs. G. Locke, and Mrs. Thornton; the president and treasurer will give assistance as well.

Fees amounting to three dollars were received, and four new members were reported. The main item on the business program was concerned with arrangements for the annual fowl supper, which will come one week earlier than usual this year, the date being Tuesday, October 14th; the church anniversary will be observed the previous Sunday, with Rev. Dr. Bishop, of Albert College, Belleville, as the special preacher.

Canvassers were appointed as follows: Fallis Line, Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, and Mrs. J. Albert Brown; Zion, Mrs. A. J. Henderson and Miss Pearl Burnham; Carmel, Miss Martha Lunn; Fourth Line, Mrs. H. A. Earle, and Mrs. W. H. Armstrong; Fifth Line, Mrs. W. O'Brian and Mrs. J. H. Might; Seventh Line, Mrs. Edgar Fallis and Mrs. T. Douglas; Tupper street, Mrs. I. M. Nattress and Mrs. Weston Fallis; Anne Street, Mrs. J. H. George; King street, west, Mrs. Howard Lunn and Mrs. George Fallis; King east, Mrs. Locke; King centre, Mrs. Ross Edmunds and Miss Duncan.

The matter of purchasing the geese required for the supper was left with the president, and the program committee, Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and Miss May Duncan, was also left responsible for the entertainment which will follow the service of the supper.

Following the figure set last year, sixty cents will be the ticket price, and those placed in charge of tables were: No 1 Mrs. H. A. Fallis and Mrs. I. Nattress; No 2 Mrs. Will Armstrong and Mrs. J. McKnight; No. 3 Mrs. Fred Fallis and Mrs. Jas. H. Might. These ladies will secure their own list of waiters, and the president read the names of those to be in charge of kitchen, pantry and the service of the fowl for which a separate room is reserved, in order to avoid all confusion. Mr. G. W. Sayles is kindly allowing the use of his bake oven for cooking the fowl, and those assisting with the preparation of the geese will meet at the Waverley on Monday afternoon.

The canvassers are urged to cover their respective territory as soon as possible, the meeting to receive the lists being at Mrs. F. H. Smith's on Saturday, September 20th, at 8 p.m.

The meeting was dismissed with the benediction, and the hostess served homemade candy during the social hour, Mrs. Stinson being warmly thanked for the hospitality extended.

JOY IN LIFE.

A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which one attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work, a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts — which the superficial man who leaves his work in a slovenly slip-shod half-finished condition can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, well done, becomes artistic.—William Matthews.

Ashcans or BUYERS—

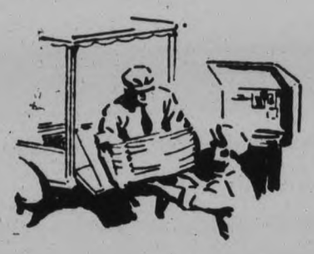
where is YOUR Advertising GOING?



YOU give an Air Mail Special Delivery letter preference over all other mail, not because of the carrier investment involved, (you, the recipient, pay NOTHING for it) but because its manner of delivery has CONVINCED you of the importance of its contents . . . . The self same message, carelessly tossed into your front yard, to snarl the blades of your lawn mower or spoil the yard's tidy appearance, would probably gain your attention also, but it would be attention not calculated to put you in a mood to buy the product advertised . . . . EVEN IF YOU READ THE MESSAGE.

Your Advertising Message to be Wholly Convincing Must be Delivered Convincingly

Your may force your advertising message into the hands of a prospective buyer, with countless schemes and methods of delivery, but you CANNOT force him to read that message . . . . . The prospect must be PERSUADED to read your message by first placing it before him in a manner that CONVINCES him that YOU, the advertiser, believe sufficiently in its importance to, at least, GUARANTEE delivery . . . . Unobtrusive delivery, in no sense forced delivery that gains his attention by persuasion; delivery that gives him his news the way he wants to receive it . . . . THAT is newspaper advertising.

AND AS FOR INVESTMENT

The cost of printing in a job room, a circular of the same size as a full newspaper page and mailing laboriously only 5,000 of them to an uncertain delivery, is at least $20.00 more than the newspaper full page costs, and it is given a welcome reception in double the number of homes, without any more trouble to the advertiser than the simple preparation of copy. There is a great difference between the way a circular is looked on, which is "only an advertisement," and the way the daily newspaper is received, so that in the latter case, your offerings are brought to the reader's attention under the most favorable conditions possible. The Examiner reaches 10,000 homes, where 50,000 readers look eagerly for its daily visits, bringing both the cream of the world's news, and your advertising message to an appreciative public.

SCHOOL FAIR IS HELD IN OMEMEE

Exhibits Are Splendid Quality But Fewer Than Former Years.

SIX SCHOOLS ATTEND.

OMEMEE, Sept. 11.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Under ideal weather conditions, the annual rural school fair was held in Athletic Park, Omemee on Saturday afternoon, with a fair attendance. The schools lined up on King street about 1.30 o'clock and marched with their teachers to the park where the singing of God Save the King opened the afternoon's program. The six schools participating were: No. 5, Emily, teacher, Miss Urquhart; No. 8 Emily, Royal Faulkner; No. 9, Miss M. Thom; No. 10, Miss Hamilton; No. 11, Miss Wilson; No. 13, Miss M. Rea. Each in order gave their school yell and song, and each received a deal of applause in their pretty decorated costumes. Other years each school gave the Strathcona drill; but this year the schools were lined in a body and the drilling conducted by Mr. Norman Lindsay, who assisted Mr. Winters of Lindsay. This, of course, saved much time.

Irene Fairfield Wins Contest.

Several young orators were heard to good advantage in the public speaking contest. Miss Irene Fairfield was awarded first by the judges with Harrietta Fee second. In recitation Janet Fee received highest award and in reading Thelma Bailey.

A very interesting sports program was run off. The teachers' race was won by Miss Wilson of Lang's school, and Mr. Norman Fee came first in the trustees' race.

The special prizes donated by the T. Eaton Company for the two pupils winning the highest number of points were on display in the tent. The first is a handsome silver cup suitably engraved and was won by Barbara McConnell, who secured 53 points. The second is a book entitled "Feather and Flint" and Master Fairbairn Magee who had 51 points will be the recipient.

In the large tent the exhibits were excellent but not as numerous as in previous years, but nothwithstanding were none the less admired by the interested citizens not connected in any way with the fair.

AMBITION.

An ambitious man puts it into the power of every malicious tongue to throw him into a fit of melancholy.

Mrs. A. Stinson and Mrs. I. Connell favored the gathering with a piano duet. The remainder of the time was devoted to sewing and completing the unfinished articles for that bale.

The hostesses were, Mrs. G. Haygarth, Mrs. H. Bradley and Mrs. S. Vaughan.

LODGE CORN ROAST.

Golden Sheaf Rebekahs Stage Event in Millbrook Hall.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—A most enjoyable social gathering was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday, September 6th, beginning at 8 p.m., when Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No 176, held its annual corn roast, fifty or more guests being present.

The plan of holding the social affair in the Lodge Hall, instead of motoring to some nearby riverside or lake shore, was adopted last year and found satisfactory it was decided to continue the venture another year. The many expressions of approval heard on all sides convinced the committee in charge of the wisdom of their choice.

The guests were entertained with bridge, five hundred, and music until summoned to the dining-tables attractively laid in the large hall on the second floor, where the 'roast' was enjoyed.

The extension is based on the zone system. The first zone embraces the Province of Buenos Aires, the second the remainder of Argentina and Uruguay, and the third includes Chile.

Germany has placed a tax on unmarried persons.

NEW LUNCHEONETTE SHOPPE NOW OPEN

Smartly Decorated Interior, a Little Different, Proves Very Inviting.

The fine, warm ivory that is called royal and the soft green named foam, have been used with splendid effect in the very attractive small Luncheonette Shoppe which John Econs has just opened on the south-west corner of George and Charlotte streets. The two pretty colors are combined successfully in an interior that is cosy and pleasant and very bright, with a shade of metropolitan atmosphere to it which makes it just a little different to anything else in town.

There is something very inviting about the small round individual tables and the comfortable wicker chairs with their soft red leather cushioning. Here, one may order anything in the way of a light lunch and be sure of immaculate cleanliness in preparing and serving and of the very best viands. All sorts of sandwiches and pies, cold and hot drinks, ice cream novelties of every description, are available.

The interior of the bright, well-lighted place is finished with kyanized lustre paint in panelled effect in foam green and royal ivory, with an upper frieze of pure white. The ceiling and electroliers are also pure white and the linoleum is in floral pattern. On the little tables are tiny green elephant ash trays, at the windows are white muslin curtains with green chenille dots and the waitresses behind the spotless marble-topped counters at the rear are garbed in soft green and yellow linen. On the shelves are green and ivory glasses.

The motto of this pleasant little place is "The most of the best for the least." It stays open from nine in the morning until midnight. Electric equipment for toasting, grilling, slicing, etcetra, is used in the kitchen.

Mr. Econs invites his friends to come and patronize his newly-opened Luncheonette Shoppe.

"Use Palmolive Soap to avoid an irritated unattractive skin"

urges MADAME B. SCHAANNING
Celebrated Copenhagen beauty specialist

"Your face needs soap and water, but ordinary soaps sometimes do more harm than good. Modern beauty science lays particular stress on vegetable oils. These cosmetic oils—such as you get in Palmolive Soap—are fresh, healing, soothing; they bring up the under-the-surface-color and keep the skin free of irritation."

Bschaanning

VIMMELSKAFTET 42, STUEN, COPENHAGEN.

Madame Schaanning personally conducting a treatment on one of her clients, in her exquisite salon at Vimmelskaftet 42, Stuen, Copenhagen.

Olive oil, as you use it in Palmolive Soap, is the ideal means of freeing the skin of dirt, dust and make-up.

"EVERY woman dreads that look of middle age which comes with a coarse, rough-textured skin," according to the renowned Madame Schaanning, of Copenhagen. "Yet no woman need have such a skin, for the right kind of daily care keeps your skin young, fresh and lovely! And by the right kind of care I simply mean cleansing with Palmolive Soap and water."

Madame Schaanning has the distinction of caring for many of the loveliest women of Denmark . . . where beauty requires special protection from harsh weather conditions. She is insistent on the use of one soap and one soap only, because she has seen the harmful effect of ordinary cleansing agents.

Beware of pimples and skin irritation

"Pimples and other similar outbreaks on the surface of the skin," warns Madame Schaanning, "too often are encouraged because care is not taken to use the right kind of soap. That is why I lay so much stress on the use of Palmolive."

Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color comes from the oils of palm and olives, famous since the days of Cleopatra as the finest of natural beautifiers. Its naturally fresh odor makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes.

Here is the simple treatment advised not only by Madame Schaanning but also by more than 23,720 other beauty specialists in every great city of Europe and America: massage a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the pores; rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Now—and not before—your face is ready for make-up.

See your beauty expert for special beauty treatments. And use Palmolive regularly for the bath as well as the face. Its fresh fragrant lather will do for your skin what ordinary soaps cannot do . . . and you will avoid the danger of an irritated skin.

HARSH MEASURES OVER ARGENTINE

New Gov't Acts Quickly to Prevent Reprisals By Friends of Ousted Regime.

RIGID CENSORSHIP.

BUENOS AIRES, September 10 (C.P.). — The new Government of the Argentine to-day adopted the most severe measures to prevent reprisals and counter-revolutionary tactics by friends of the ousted administration of the resigned president, Hipolito Irigoyen.

Rule by martial law was tightened. Heavy guards, who made an attempt to keep into the background, were maintained at strategic places in the city and at public buildings.

At the same time a censorship more rigid than has been known heretofore was imposed.

The prohibition applied alike to cable, telegraph, and telephone. Newspaper correspondents were told that any one of them violating the order would be expelled from the country summarily.

Two military edicts were issued prescribing trial by court-martial for anyone found in possession of arms after 6 p.m. yesterday, for anyone acting in any manner against the Government, and for anyone failing to return within twelve hours any arms belonging to the Government which they might have in their possession.

'EX' BUILDINGS ARE ATTRACTING LARGE CROWDS

Exhibits Display Fine Quality of Goods in Neat Arrangement.

BOOTHS ARE REVIEWED.

Drawing continual crowds of exhibition visitors eager to view products and merchandise from their own factories and stores, the Manufacturers' Building once more stands forth as one of the main attractions at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. An array of exhibits never surpassed in diversity and cleverness of arrangement is to be found.

Eighteen firms are represented in the stalls which are arranged in the large building. Many schemes of decoration and arrangement with various color combinations have been used to attract the eye of the visitor and hold his interest.

Making a tour of the building one first finds the Canadian Packing Company exhibit on his right hand as he enters. Under a banner reading "Packed in Peterborough", bacons, hams, canned peas, canned tomatoes and tomato juices, packed olives and cheese are arranged in eye-catching fashion. The F. R. J. McPherson Company has something to catch the attention of "madame" with its display of Easy Washing Machines, wringers, ironers and other equipment. The slogans "Easy to Demonstrate" and "Easy to Operate," are backed up by actual demonstrations of the equipment.

Arranged with a background of black and white, decorated in a manner extremely "moderne", The De-Laval exhibit is possibly the most striking on the floor. A card in the foreground reads, "The best and most complete line of cream separators and milkers in the world."

Canada Starch Company.

The products and by-products of corn are displayed by the Canada Starch Company of Montreal in its well-planned booth. Edwardsburg products including several kinds of corn syrups and starch are displayed along with Mazola Food Oil.

Despite the warmth of the weather, the extensive fur exhibits of Wm. Lech and Sons and Barries Limited, attract no small amount of attention. Many a husband who would pass these exhibits with a wary eye is detained while his wife makes a closer inspection. Coats of Hudson seal, Persian lamb, karacul, squirrel and other furs are arranged attractively in the stalls and the wealth of pelts to be found includes valuable silver fox furs, ermine, red, cross, white, amber, peach and platinum fox, fitch, mink and sivet.

A colorful lay-out of flags, Hudson Bay blankets and motor rugs comprise the exhibit in the large stall of J. J. Turner and Sons near the south-east corner of the building. In the Westclox booth the entire "Ben" family is on parade. "Big Ben" the largest alarm clock in the display, is contrasted with "Tiny Tim", his smallest brother. The timepieces are done in a variety of colors and nickel. The Westclox line on display includes pocket watches, motor clocks and parlour clocks.

In the Heintzman and Company exhibit a Heintzman 1931 model upright piano is featured. It is beaunut. Radios on display are the Victifully finished in a lacquered waltor Combination, Flashograph, Fada and Sparton.

Another of the Made-in-Peterborough displays in the building is that of the Brinton Peterborough Carpet Company. The Royal Sarouk Carpet is featured.

House furnishings, drapes and floor coverings are on view in the stall of the firm of Comstock's. "For all round good bread you can't beat Stock's" is the slogan presented on a rotating circle in the exhibit of Stock's Bread, Limited. All kinds of boxed cakes and varieties of bread to suit every occasion make up the display. In the next booth, Silverwood's Peterborough Dairy advertises butter milk, sweet milk, Five-O chocolate drinks, ice cream cones and Alaska pies.

Talkie Motion Pictures

Talkie motion pictures are afforded by the exhibit of the Post Office Department through the use of special portable equipment. The motion pictures portray different aspects of Canadian air mail service and general service with a section showing the arrival of the R-100 in Canada.

Apparatus which suggests the method by which Quaker Puffed Wheat and Quaker Puffed Rice is exploded to eight times its normal size, attracts eyes to the Quaker Oats Company stall. Cereal and flour products of the company are on display.

A bunsen gas flame continually directed at a wall of Gyproc, fireproof building material, testifies to its fire resisting qualities in a booth prepared by the Peterborough Lumber Company. Next door, Grafton's display many articles of boys' and men's clothing.

Notwithstanding the fact that the summer season is rapidly drawing to a close, the Peterborough Canoe Company booth holds the interest of many. A luxurious "Water Dart", mahogany finished, spring upholstered and powered with a large Evenrude Outboard motor is on view. However, a smaller, round-bottom outboard boat, powered with a Evenrude Fold Light motor is also an object of interest to many with more conservative tastes.

U.S. ESTABLISHES NEW ALIEN BAN

Laborers From Canada and Mexico Must Show They Have Occupations.

CONSULS INSTRUCTED.

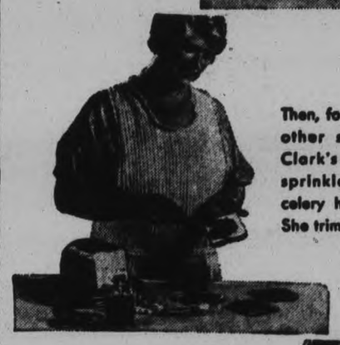
WASHINGTON D.C., Sept. 11. — (C.P.)—Plans for the restriction of immigration on the part of laborers from Canada and Mexico were being considered today by President Hoover who announced last night that such steps would have to be taken in view of present serious unemployment situation in the United States.

Consuls, according to the President's plan, will be instructed to refuse immigration visas to aliens who cannot show that they will not become public charges on entry into the United States. Those unable to show that they have some sort of occupation in sight will be denied admittance, under the new plan.

This should interest a lot of wives!

"Goodness, I almost forgot that Dad is having some of his friends in tonight for a game of cards," thought Mother, "I must make them some tasty sandwiches."

She mixed some Clark's Potted Veal with chopped hard-boiled egg, and spread this on thin slices of bread, adding a dash of Clark's Tomato Ketchup for relish.



Then, for variety, she spread other slices of bread with Clark's Pâté de Viande, and sprinkled each with crisped celery hearts sliced very thin. She trimmed off all crusts.

"There," she murmured to herself, after rolling each slice, "I'll wrap them in a damp napkin and they'll be just right for tonight." (After those sandwiches you couldn't tell a loser from a winner.)

JUNIOR HORTICULTURAL EXHIBIT AT EXHIBITION MOST PLEASING

PRIZE WINNERS.

The exhibit of the Junior Horticultural Society in the Flower tent comprises a large group of Zinnias, Asters, Marigolds, Dianthus, Strawflowers and Calendula: The children who submitted their bloom in this competition attend the public schools of the city and also Confederation and May's schools in North Monaghan.

Seeds were distributed among the students in the Spring by the Peterborough Horticultural Society to stimulate interest among the young folks in the culture of flowers and also in the work of the Horticultural Society. The results have been highly encouraging, the children having produced some excellent blooms.

Children of the Sacred Heart School contributed Dahlias from their school garden, and also sent a mammoth sunflower.

The prize winners in the Junior Horticultural exhibition were as follows:

Zinnias—1, Betty Piercy, King Edward; 2, Claire Dobson, Queen Mary; 3, Edna Lee, King Edward; 4, Mary Parks, May's School; 5, Dorothy Pearson, Prince of Wales; 6, Alton Vanallen, Confederation.

Asters—1, Donna White, Prince of Wales; 2, Frances Livingston, May's; 3, Mary Carr, Queen Mary; 4, Roy Hudson, Queen Mary; 5, Charles Garside, May's; 6, George Ball, King Edward.

Strawflowers—1, James Stillwell, May's; 2, Alton Vanallen, Confederation; 3, J. Stinson, Central.

Calendula—1, Beryl Stinson, May's; 2, Harvard White; 3, May Pickles, Confederation; 4, Amelia Stoneburg, King George.

Eczema on Hands. Unable to Work. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out on my face and was in the form of a rash. I used to scratch it and the irritation was sometimes unbearable. The eczema spread to my hands and I was unable to do my regular work or put my hands in water for over a month. They were so sore that I wore rubber gloves when I did any work.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. After the first application I got relief and in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. William Coward, R. R. 1, Lingar, Que.

HUNGRY ARE FED IN WRECKED CITY

Trucks With Food From Interior Break Through to Santo Domingo.

INJURED CARED FOR.

SANTO DOMINGO, September 11 (C.P.). — For the first time in a week the populace of this old city to-day was not hungry.

A small fleet of relief ships arriving yesterday and trucks which finally broke through the debris from the interior of the country brought food, as much food as was needed, to the stricken city. Relief crews dished out the first meals most of 10,000 or more of the populace had had since the hurricane last Wednesday afternoon blew most of the city away. There was some scrambling in the bread lines at first, but when it was realized there was enough food for all even this ceased.

The same ships which brought food also brought other supplies, medicines, shelters, and clothing, and, as important, doctors, nurses, and relief workers. It would be difficult to estimate the increase in the morale of the people here as a consequence of the arrivals.

Surgical attention for the injured was greatly aided to-day with the opening of the Roosevelt emergency tent hospital with 1,000 beds.

SCHOONER BEARS BENNETT'S NAME

LUNENBURG, N. S., Sept. 11. — The 158th fishing schooner to be launched from the yards of the shipbuilding firm of Smith and Rhuland, slipped off the ways yesterday and was christened "R. B. Bennett," in honor of the Prime Minister of Canada.

Ten men and boys rode a motorcycle around a speedway at Loughten, England, recently.

Household Science Competition Sets Up a New Record

W. I. ERECTS FENCE.

Havelock Ladies Greatly Improve Town Hall Lot By Addition.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—The lattice fence which the Women's Institute is having erected at the west side of the town hall is now in place, and the ground graded and prepared for the planting of shrubs and perrenials. This is going to make a very great improvement. A much needed further improvement would be made if the council would have new steps built at the front entrance, and the lot at the west side of the hall lighted when the hall is in use. This would be an added protection to the flowers, which would otherwise be destroyed by trampling. New steps are a real necessity, as those now leading to the hall are in a very unsafe condition, and there is a great danger of their collapsing.

LAVERGNE IS NAMED COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—Armand Lavergne, K. C., (Con. Montmagny) was elected Chairman of Committees of the Whole in the House of Commons last night, on a motion of Premier Bennett, seconded by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice. The post of Chairman of Committees involves in addition the duties of Deputy Speaker. Mr. Lavergne's selection is in accordance with the tradition that when an English speaking member is Speaker the Deputy Speaker should be French-speaking.

68 GIRLS ENTER BEST CONTEST IN HISTORY OF "EX"

Peterborough Fair Stands Second in Province in Household Competition.

EIGHT COUNTIES.

Miss Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville is High Girl With 364 Marks.

The Household Science Judging Competitions sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, for Peterborough and seven neighboring counties, were an important event of yesterday a the Fall Exhibition.

In this the second year in which the eight counties have united in the event, there was an enrolment of 68 girls. The presiding judge in charge of the competitions, Miss E. Hopkins of Lindsay, was loud in her praise of the ability of the contestants, and declared competition here was stiffer than at Toronto's Big Fair.

Peterborough, with 38 entries at its Fair, stands second best in the province in this event. At Ottawa there were only 65 entrants, and London had only 39 at its fair on Tuesday, when this competition took place. The list shows an increase of about 26 entries over last year's total.

Judges for the different classes, which, with the exception of school lunches and menus, were judged from charts in the big tent placed at the disposal of the ladies at the Fair yesterday, were as follows: Miss Bertha Duncan, of Toronto (school lunches); Miss Gertrude Gray of Toronto, (menus); Miss E. Collins of Ancaster (parade of clothing3; Mrs. P. Shorey of Dundas (wardrobes); Miss Stewart of Brussels (house furnishings); Miss Baycroft of Aurora (living rooms).

The eight counties represented include Peterborough, Ontario, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings, Lennox-Addington and Prince Edward.

The competition was open to young women of these counties who are over sixteen and under twenty-six years of age, and who have never attended a Home Economics School for more than three months. Fifteen minutes is allowed for placing in each class and oral reasons are taken throughout. Prizes, which are in cash, and are donated by the Peterborough Fair Board, are awarded for placing, and for reasons, 50 points each. The classes are three: Nutrition, school lunches and menus for the pre-school child; Home furnishing, farm living room and kitchen plans; Clothing, semiformal costume and country girl's wardrobe.

Prizes in each class are: 1st, $10; 2nd, $8; 3rd, $6; 4th, $5; 5th, $4; 6th, $3; 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, $1 each.

Prize Winners.

Miss Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville was high girl in two classes, with a total of 364 marks.

In the first class (Nutrition, etc.,) the following won awards: 1st, Miss Ina Rosevear of Harwood (181 marks); 2nd, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Nestleton (179 marks), tied with Miss Anna McMurray of R. R. No. 4, Lakefield, (179 marks); 4th, Miss Ruth Mitchell, of R. R. No. 4, Lindsay (178 marks); 5th, Miss Hazel Armstrong of Millbrook (175 marks); 6th, Miss Velma Payne, of R. R. No. 2, Lakefeild (173 marks), 7th, Miss Candace Rich, of Little Britain (171 marks), tied with Miss Gladys Simpson of R. R. No. 2, Campbellford (171 marks); 9th, Miss Sadie Allen of R. R. No. 1, Ida (170 marks), tied with Miss Jessie Armstrong of Fraserville (170 marks), and Miss Jean Wilson of R. R. No. 1 Lindsay (170 marks.) Standing in this class was obtained by Mrs. J. A. Reynolds of R. R. No. 1, Port Hope (177 marks), Miss Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville (174 marks), and Miss Florence Metheral of Oakwood (170 marks.)

Awards in the second class (Clothing, etc.,) were won by: 1st, Mrs. J. A. Reynolds, of R. R. No. 1, Port Hope (181 marks), 2nd, Miss Helen Baker of Hampton (180 marks); 3rd, Miss Florence Ashton of Bowmanville (178 marks); 4th Miss Marion McMillan, of Rural Route No. 2, Woodville (176 marks); 5th, Miss Rosetta Frankish of R. R. No. 2, Lakefield (174 marks), tied with Miss Pearl Mullen of R. R. No. 4, Peterborough (174 marks), and Miss Dorothy Wilson of R. R. No 1, Lindsay (174 marks); 8th Miss Isabel Towns of Douro (173 marks); 9th, Miss Mabel McIntyre of R. R. No. 8, Peterborough (172 marks), tied with Miss Mary Rose of Warsaw (172 marks.)

Winners in the third class (House Furnishings, etc.), were as follows: 1st, Miss Maggie Waddell, of R. R. No. 4, Campbellford (191 marks); 2nd, Miss Dorothy Allen of Bowmanville (190 marks); 3rd, Miss Helen Campbell, of R. R. No. 4, Campbellford (188 marks); 4th, Miss Helen Tedford of Indian River (185 marks), 5th, Miss Marion Allen of Newcastle (182 marks); 6th, Miss Evelyn Tink of R. R. No. 1, Hampton (181 marks); 7th, Miss Marjorie Frankish of R. R. No. 2, Lakefield (180 marks); 8th Miss Mildred Hoar of Woodville (179 marks; 9th, Miss Violet Hooper of Campbellford (175 marks), tied with Miss Florence Metheral of Oakwood (175 marks.) Standing in this class was obtained by Miss Gladys Simpson of R. R. No. 2, Campbellford (178 marks.)

The Honorable Company of Master Mariners has just been organized in England.

OBITUARY

SANDY MATCHETT

Sandy Matchett highly respected farmer of Otonabee township passed away at his home last evening in his 73rd year. The late Mr. Matchett was a native son of Otonabee and always took a keen interest in the affairs of his township. He was a livestock breeder of some renown. There are left to mourn his loss a sorrowing widow, three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Hall, Edmonton; Mrs. J. Finnie, Peterborough; Miss Annie at home and two sons Dougal and James at home.

The funeral will be held from the deceased's home near Stuart's Hall on Friday at 2 p.m. with interment in Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Thornley of Mark Street United church will officiate.

MRS. D. A. MCDONELL

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence). — The "Bachaw Star," of Alberta, in a recent issue received locally, carries news of the death and funeral of Mrs. D. A. McDonell, formerly Georgina Elliott, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, of Millbrook, deceased having been born near the village, and brought up in this community until her marriage, and her subsequent removal to the west. The many friends of Mrs. McDonell will regret to learn of her death, and will be interested in the obituary which reads:

"In the early hours of Friday morning there passed into rest Georgina C. McDonell, wife of D. A. McDonell. An invalid for many years, Mrs. McDonell fought courageously to retain her frail hold of a life which, to her, was full of interest. Born in 1873, near Millbrook, Ontario, Mrs. McDonell came to the west about twenty years ago, and settled for a time at Alix, where she married and where her son, George, was born. Shortly after this the McDonells moved to Bashaw, and during the many years of her residence here the deceased never enjoyed good health. She has been a source of cheer, comfort, and inspiration to many, and her passing will leave a gap in the lives of all who knew her.

Deceased is survived by her husband, her only son, George, two sisters, Mrs. Yarwood (Tena) of Alix, Alberta, and Mrs. Cairns (Emma) of Vancouver, B.C., also two brothers, James Elliott, of Oxbow, Sask., and John Elliott, in the States.

The funeral service was held in the Anglican Church and conducted by Rev. P. Griffiths, of Mirror.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CURING SEVERE GOITRE WITHOUT SURGERY.

One of the common ailments found in all countries is what is known as exopthalmic goitre, or Grave's disease, which in addition to an enlargement of the thyroid gland in front of the neck, there is also palpitation of the heart. Even in mild cases the heart beats 100 to the minute. In advanced or severe cases, the heart may go 200 to the minute.

In about three out of every four cases there is a bulging of the eyes, and when the patient turns the eyes downward, the upper lid does not immediately follow the eyeball as in normal individuals. There is also extreme nervousness.

Further all the processes of the body are working harder and faster than normal, even when the patient is at rest.

The cause is due to some irritation or excitability of the thyroid gland in the neck. Just whether it is a poison from some infection, emotional disturbance, or just an inherited tendency, is not known.

For awhile iodine treatment was used, then rest, then combination of rest and iodine, removal of infections, diet and so forth.

Then came the use of surgery, the removal of a large portion of the gland, with brilliant results.

And just when we are thinking of the wonderful results, our surgeons are securing in these severe goitre cases, it is refreshing to turn to the equally brilliant results obtained by our medical practitioners without the use of surgery.

Dr. I. Bram, Philadelphia, reports a study of 2,000 cases of the severe type of goitre which have been under his care.

His report shows that the average time required for the patient away from customary duties was about fifteen weeks. In more than 17 percent of cases, no time was lost from ordinary duties.

Dr. Bram followed up all the cases for from three to ten years and finds that 1819 cases, that ab out 91 per cent, are in perfect health, 116 or 6 percent are in fair health and able to do their work, but still show some goitre symptoms and heart enlargement, and about 65 or 3 percent still have severe symptoms, but these had been treated surgically before receiving medical attention.

Now what does this mean to sufferers from exopthalmic goitre, as the ailment is called?

That before undergoing surgery they should put themselves under the care of the family doctor, and carry out his treatment of rest, fresh air, diet, and so forth.

It has been found, as in Dr. Bram's cases that this brings a large percentage of curs; X-ray treatments have been shown to be effective; whilst surgery is the last resort.

Engineers' Institute Will Inspect Plant

The Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will commence its activities on Saturday next, September 13, 1930, by making a trip to Lakefield for inspection of the Canada Cement Plant, followed by a program of sports and dinner at the Raydon Manor, Lakefield.

Cars are scheduled to leave the Public Library, Peterboro promptly at 2 p.m. Transportation arrangements being in the hands of Messrs. W. F. Stewart and R. C. Flitton. Non-members are cordially invited to take part in this trip.

DYNAMITE KILLS TWO.

FORT COLLINS, Col., Sept. 10. — (C.P.)—The blade of a steam shovel exploded dynamite buried on a mountainside near Chambers Lake yesterday killing Julius Nelson and C. H. Larson, the operators. Two men were injured. Workers believed the explosive had been set by a road crew.

LARGEST EXHIBIT IN FAIR'S HISTORY IS SEEN IN THE WOMEN'S SECTION

Further Accommodation Will Be Necessary For Ladies Next Year.

BEAUTIFUL FANCY WORK.

Exhibit Entered By Ladies Over 70 is Most Interesting.

An overflow in women's work is the situation at the Fair this year. The products of skilful fingers have filled to capacity, and more, the shelves and tables in the upper room at the Main Building. On every side, in every corner, are piled up pieces of fancy work, and the work of the children in the schools, which is also included in this exhibit. It looks as if further accommodation will have to be made for the ladies in coming seasons, or their work will not have the proper setting.

The room is arranged very attractively, with artificial greenery, with yellow crepe paper curtains at the windows and with fresh pots of ferns. Ladies in charge are Miss M. Higgins and Miss M. Elliott, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Cox.

By Ladies over 70.

The exhibit of work done by ladies of seventy years and over, is always a very interestin portion of this display. Careful knitting, pretty pieces of fancy work, and some handsome quilts are on view here. One entry, the first prize winner, comes from Mrs. Annie Chase of Campbellford, whose eighty-year-old hands fashioned two of the very pretty quilts. It is made of Peter Pan print in Irish chain design, pink on white.

Other quilts attract the eye: flower basket designs and piece work, one very intricate patchwork pattern having thouands of tiny bits of material in its fashioning, of Log Cabin design.

There are crocheted spreads and gay Afghans of many colors, in silk and wool. One spread that is outstanding is very simple, but very effective. It is of pale buttercup yellow sheeting with a lazy daisy pattern, in a pretty corner, lady surrounded by garlands of pastel-tinted flowers.

There are Italian embroideries in centerpieces and table covers and piano drapes, of brilliant silks; there are dozens of pieces of dainty white embroideries in cutwork and Madeira end drawn lace and tatting.

A handsome luncheon set is developed in deep rose linen with tatted edges and a blue silk flower design with green leaves.

A very striking cushion done in gros point has pink roses and white daisies on a black background.

Hooked and crocheted mats come in for particular attention.

and several dolls dressed in pretty in pink and white wool for the baby and several dolls dressed in prettyy frocks and woollen jackets and bonnets. There are crocheted tea cosies and chenille-flowered cushions.

Children's Work.

The children of the schools have a large display of their handicraft, showing the talent of these small men and women in contriving pretty and useful things for the home. There are pencil and pen and ink and water color sketches and drawings; a display of soap sculpture that illustrates a new and interesting branch, and exhibits from the Manual training classes, in models of aeroplanes, and ships and birch bark birdhouses, as well as tiny jardiniere stands and tables.

In the cooking section, displayed behind spotless white muslin curtains, there is plenty to attract the eye of the food lover. Crusty loaves of bread (a tiny sparrow flew in he window and perched atop one of them yestrday afternoon); biscuits and muffins and heart shaped cookies; pound cakes and cocoanut cakes and chocolate cakes, they are all here in appetizing array.

The exhibit of art is interesting also. Here are oil and water color and crayon pictures; bits from still life, marine and landscape views, figures and "kit-kat" portraits, as the artists dub head and shoulder efforts. A group of children bathing in a stream has a Watteau-like effect; there is strength in the head of a couchant lion and his mate, and plenty of skill in the tiny, fine picture of a crimson blaze of fire among forest trees.

There is a reminiscence of the subject of Arthur Heming's "Northern Drama," that extraordinarily striking picture that drew crowds before its small frame at the Toronto Exhibition this year, in "Alaskan Mail Carrier," with a good deal of forceful effort in the study of the man marooned in Northern wastes, his dogs lying dead beside a shattered carriole, his gun in his hand with perhaps a solitary cartridge left for the finish, and two gaunt wolves in the rear, watching the fading drama.

Here also are inlaid trays of fine woods and the fine model of a ship, spars and masts all complete, done by Lloyd Rutherford.

For stealing a chicken a laborer at Uxbridge, England, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labor.

Cod Liver Extractives have been prescribed for years by world's greatest medical authorities for rundown weak, nervous men, women and children.

The great energizing, flesh-adding and health-regulating substance found most abundantly in the livers of the lowly Codfish, has been extracted and put into delightfully pleasant and palatable sugar coated McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

60 tablets cost only 60 cents at McDermid & Jury McDermid's Bond's, Lynch, and Payne's or any drugstore and if any skinny man doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days—his money back.

WEDDING BELLS

BLODGETT—BAKER.

NORWOOD, Sept. 11.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— A pretty autumn wedding took place Wednesday, Sept. 10, in the Baptist church, Norwood, when Leata Winnifred, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker became the bride of Eduel Blodgett, only son of Mrs. Fanny Blodgett, of Roseneath.

The bride entered the prettily decorated church on the arm of her father to the strains of 'Lohengrin's' wedding march, played by Miss Mary Stewart, Norwood.

The bride was attired in ivory satin caught in long lines, her veil fashioned in bonnet style was caught with orange blossoms, while she carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

She was attended by her sister, Reta, who wore a graceful gown of maize georgette with matching hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Little Miss Marguerite Baker, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore a pretty frock of orchid organdie, carrying a basket of sweet peas.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Downing, pastor of the Baptist church, Norwood, during the signing of the register Miss Downing sang "O Perfect Love."

The groom was supported by George Turner, Roseneath. The ushers were Earl Gerow and Flen McMillan of Norwood and Roseneath respectively.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Norwood. Mrs. R. Baker, mother of the bride, received in a gown of beige flat crepe with hat to match. Mrs. Fanny Blodgett, mother of the groom, wore black georgette and matching hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett left amid showers of congratulations and good wishes of their friends for a trip to Niagara Falls, Rochester and points west, the bride wearing a becoming ensemble of sand and brown. On their return they will reside in Roseneath, near where the bride previously taught school.

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well. What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

HAVE you as a hostess ever thought that your entertainment wasn't the success it should have been? I know lots of hostesses who have.

• • • • • • •

And just recently I have found the cause. All these women had practically copied ideas from some other hostess, although a different crowd was being entertained each time.

• • • • • • •

Here is the secret to successful entertaining. The hostess who would entertain successfully must suit her type of entertainment to the group of persons gathered together.

• • • • • • •

There are people who like to be kept diverted; those who prefer to take part in whatever is going on; those who enjoy quiet games and those who want to be active

• • • • • • •

Considering age as a criterion, the young folks must be kept active most of the time or they fidget, while persons of middle age should have quiet games—they require mental alertness rather than physical agility.

• • • • • • •

Very small children should have quiet games mixed with active, lest they get fatigued.

• • • • • • •

But apart from the age of persons, other elements enter into the form of entertainment that should be chosen. For instance many adults wish to be mentally relaxed when they are in a festive mood, while others like to have stimulating diversion.

• • • • • • •

For the former the hostess should plan amusements that will keep them in a happy frame of mind. Music is a great aid in this.

• • • • • • •

For the latter she should plan guessing games, conundrums, anagrams, games of skill, card games that necessitate feats of memory or strict adherence to arbitrary rules

• • • • • • •

Often in a company some will want to be inactive while others prefer to help entertain. A good way to find out personal preferences when a company is a large group, is to have both types of entertainment arranged for.

• • • • • • •

In one room tables ofr cards can be placed. In another the floor can be cleared for dancing, and music of some kind supplied. In almost every home "canned music" of one sort or another is to be found.

• • • • • • •

The company will soon sort itself into active and inactive groups.

• • • • • • •

It is by no means an indication of lack of mental acumen when simple games are enjoyed by adults. I know of one group who revel in an evening when such games as spin the plate, shouting proverbs, etc., is enjoyed.

• • • • • • •

Tableau and charades are not so much in evidence as entertaining features today as formerly, but they are found popular when started

• • • • • • •

When a hostess knows she will have persons who shine in conversation; those who are wits and good at repartee; returned travellers about whose trips a company wants to hear, etc., she can rely upon the group having a good time without stressing other entertainment.

• • • • • • •

She is wise, however if she has some plans to fill in any gaps when moments prove dull elsewise. These plans should be kept in reserve and not pushed forward unless really needed.

PLEASING EXHIBITS BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Carpentry and Woodwork Displays By Pupils of Vocational School.

The exhibit of work done by pupils of Peterborough's Vocational School is a new and most interesting portion of the exhibits this year in the lower part of the Main Building at the Exhibition.

The display is so good that it is difficult to realise that students executed these careful pieces of carpentry and wood work. In natural woods, stained to imitate desired finishes, there is a handsome hope chest; a piano bench and a tabouret, a radio stool and end table; a jardiniere stand, smoker's set, medicine and shaving cabinets and a Priscilla sewing table. These are from the Woodworking Department of the classes.

From the Building Construction section come the models of tiny stairs and ladders and the wooden working model of the foundation plan of a house.

There are displays of tools made from raw materials and finished as well as the products of large machine shops; vises and plumbobs, wrenches and centerheads, gears and milling cutters, as well as a small motor from the electrical department.

The girls contribute several pieces of fine sewing, in a pretty white dress of Swiss dotted muslin; a lovely child's dress of green silk crepe with exquisite smocking on the tiny yoke; a bright linen smock and several carefully stitched small silk hats.

The whole display is in charge of a polite youth from the classes.

Millions to Call.

There are over 900,000 telephones in Quebec and Ontario alone. This means that literally millions of persons in these provinces are at the other end of the teelphone line. What a mighty group of neighbors! Over 70,000 times a day they place calls for friends in other towns.

BURWASH MAPS MAGNETIC POLE

Daring Airman Charts Northern Reefs Imperilling Navigation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Major L. T. Burwash, on his way back from the magnetic pole and King William's Land, landed at Fort McMurray, northeastern Alberta radio post, last night, with his pilot W. E. Gilbert. The Canadian Government explorer a few days ago secured data that may throw new light on the fate of a large party of British explorers, headed by Sir John Franklin, who died nearly a century ago on the Arctic island.

Sent on the daring trip by his Government, Burwash announced in a wire he had mapped the north magnetic pole, on Boothia Peninsula, by aerial photography and surveyed Arctic territory. Reefs and island, hazards which have added to the perils of navigation, were mapped.

GRAIN BOOTLEGGING WILL BE PREVENTED

Manitoba Wheat Pool Seeks Injunctions Against Farmers.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 11. (C.P.) Determined attempt to prevent the "bootlegging" of grain by Wheat Pool members was started when 11 interim injunctions against Manitoba farmers were sought by the Manitoba Wheat Pool before Mr. Justice Donovan in chambers.

Sale of grain by Pool members to non-pool purchasers is a breach of the organization's five-year contract, and constitutes what the trade calls "bootlegging."

SELFISHNESS.

There is a parable in India of the Selfish Fool, to whom a rice field was bequeathed. The first season, the irrigation water covered his field and made it fruitful, then flowed on to his neighbor's fields, bringing fertility everywhere. But the next season the Selfish Fool said within his heart: "This water is wealth; it is liquid harvest. I was a fool to let this treasure escape to my neighbor's land." He robbed his neighbor—and he spoiled his own crop. For the irrigation water brought blessing while it flowed, but when it became stagnant it bred a marsh.

FISHING BAN LAID ON BAY OF QUINTE

McCrae Would Protect Whitefish in Spawning Season.

OCTOBER 20-NOV. 4.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11. (C.P.)—Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines and Fisheries for Ontario has announced netting of fish in the Bay of Quinte will be prohibited from October 20 to November 4(both days inclusive) this year with a view to affording increased protection to the whitefish dring the spawning period.

Licensed fishermen, accustomed to operating in Quinte waters will be allowed by the department to fish elsewhere on Lake Ontario while the restricted period is in effect.

Mr. McCrea expressed the belief the department's action was in the interest of fish conservation as a whole, and would be recognized as such. It was particularly designed to protect the whitefish spawning grounds in the Hay Bay waters.

ASIATIC IMMIGRANTS ALL COME UNDER BAN

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.). —The complete prohibition of all Asiatic immigration into Canada, except from those countries with which the Dominion has a special treaty, agreement, or convention regulating immigration, is decreed in an Order-in-Council passed on August 14, and tabled in the House of Commons here by Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration.

LINGLE'S SLAYER WOULD GIVE UP

Four Conditions Laid Down By Forsythe Under Which He Will Surrender.

ATTORNEY REFUSES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (C.P.).—James ('Red') Forsythe, whose photograph has been tentatively identified as that of the man who slew Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, June 9, has opened negotiations with the State's attorney's office for his surrender.

Forsythe, speaking through an attorney, laid down four conditions under which he would give himself up. He must have the assurance that he would not be mauled by police in taking a confession from him; he must be interviewed only in the presence of his attorney; he must be either booked and a clear bill of health within 24 ed for murder or given his freedom hours; he must not be turned over to Judge John H. Lyle, who a year ago sentenced him to a year in jail, for gun toting—a sentence Forsythe never served.

The State's attorney has not agreed to accept Forsythe's terms, but has taken steps to accomplish his arrest independently.

GOV'T MAY ASSIST LUMBER COMPANIES

Considers Reduction in Stumpage Bonus—Aid Hush Workers.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11. (C.P.)—The Ontario Government is considering making some concessions to Ontario lumber companies which recently asked for a reduction in their stumpage bonus and an abatement of timber dues, it has been learned.

Two weeks ago, a delegation of lumbermen operating between the Quebec and Manitoba boundaries, approached Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, with a request for these reductions, explaining that unless encouragement was received from the Government, many bush employees would be laid off and operation cut down.

Compliance with the requests of the lumber companies would make a big hole in the Government revenue from this source, department officials states. The concessions to be made expected to aid the lumber companies in continuing operations without creating hardship among bush workers.

ORPHANAGE BOYS ENJOY EXHIBITION

Boys Are Guests of Local Council Knights of Columbus.

Through the kindness of the members of the Local Council of the Knights of Columbus, 25 children of St. Vincent's Orphanage spent the afternoon of Children's Day at the Peterborough Exhibition.

Through the courtesy of the Management of the Midway they enjoyed to the fullest the wonders of this year's show. Candies, hot dogs and ice cream were also given the children.

The outing was in charge of Grand Knight, Dr. E. M. Crough, Frank Fairen, Gerald McFadden, Gerald Turley, and Douglas McDonald.

Wash dishes, pots, pans

. . . this quick, easy way

IT'S A SHAME to waste time and energy three times a day, when Rinso makes dishwashing so easy. Its rich, active suds cut the grease in a flash. A hot rinse—and your dishes dry bright and clear without wiping!

Rinso's suds are creamy and lasting even in the hardest water. Marvellous for pots, pans, tubs, basins and all cleaning. No grit. Economical, too—cup for cup it goes twice as far as lightweight, puffed-up soaps because it's granulated, compact.

Get the BIG household package of Rinso. Of course you'll want to use it on washday because it soaks clothes whiter than they can be scrubbed! Follow the easy directions on the box.

MANION MET PRINCE ON THE FIRING LINE

His Royal Highness Was Slogging Cheerfully Through the Mud Where Bullets Were Flying

HON. R. J. "BOB" MANION, minister of railways and canals in the Bennett government, like hundreds of thousands of Canadians, saw service in France. Unlike most other Canadians at war, Manion had an experience which comes but once in a lifetime.

Hon. Robt. Manion

One chilly spring day in 1917, when standing up to his knees in mud in the front line trenches, Manion saw a curious sight. He has described it himself.

"Looking up I saw three staff officers, with the distinguished red bands on their caps, for they were not wearing helmets. Two of them wore raincoats, so that their rank could not be seen; the third wore no overcoat, but an ordinary officer's uniform with ankle boots and puttees. He strode doggedly behind the others, apparently caring nothing for mud or rain, and to my surprise he had upon his breast, though he looked no more than twenty years of age, the ribbons of a number of decorations.'

"They paused just before they came to where I was. Taking out a map they and their guide began studying it, while I stood wondering how a boy of twenty could have won these coveted decorations. While I was still wondering he turned to me and, though he was my own rank, he saluted and, with a pleasant smile, asked me if I could give them any information as to this front. I joined them, and for some time I answered their questions, which, rather strangely, were in regard to a cemetery to which Guillemot trench—the one in which we stood—led on its way to the firing line 500 yards away.

"'After we go there,' he asked, 'what is the easiest way out?'

"I explained that the easiest way out was overland to Neuville St. Vaast and then down the road, but as we still heard the bullets passing a few feet above the parapet it might not be the safest. He smiled whimsically and said he would personally rather take the risk than plow through this dreadful mud, but perhaps had better stick to the trenches.

"That evening the colonel informed me that my questioner of the afternoon was the Prince of Wales. And this, for me at least, removes the idea many of us had that, while in France, the Prince kept out of the danger zone."

Manion, who now has achieved high place in the government of the Dominion, is the favorite son of Fort William. He has been a member of parliament since 1917, steadily rising in reputation as a parliamentarian and a platform speaker.

He has been an unflagging champion of the returned soldier, the pensioner, and for the best of all reasons. He served at the front, not in a medical officer's dug-out, but in the trenches. He went "over the top," thereby, according to his own opinion, earning the right to call himself a "veteran." He endured shell fire, gas attacks, lived in rat-infested quarters, ate iron rations.

Mr GUNDY

By L.

GAVIN HAMILTON

J. H. Gundy

MR. GUNDY is one reason why so many of our young men have gone into the bond business.

He attends the meetings of Wood, Gundy salesmen on Saturday mornings as often as he can, and sometimes tells his young men what he has been doing. He is able to call quite a number of them by name.

He started Wood, Gundy and Company when he was about 25 years old, and is now 50.

He has done very well indeed in the meantime, and hopes to do still better before Sir Herbert dies.

If things should happen to go wrong he is pretty sure of always being able to get a job of some sort with the United church.

He is at present one of Toronto's most leading citizens but spends most of his time out of town.

He spends quite a number of nights per month on the train and wonders if flying will ever be safe enough for financiers.

In New York he stops at the Savoy Plaza and in Montreal at the Ritz-Carlton. In Toronto he has a house on Russell Hill Rd. and occasionally has a meal there.

He also sleeps there and sometimes, when he is very tired, will stay in bed from Saturday noon until Monday morning.

He is a minister's son but has almost no bad habits except making money.

He smokes a lot of cigarettes but practically does not drink, play bridge, bet on horses, dance, play golf, do crossword puzzles or eat too much.

He hardly swears either, although he has become acquainted with some of the words in Montreal.

So far as he knows he does nothing he should not do. When he figures out a deal on Sunday it is always a matter of necessity.

He was born in Harriston, Ont., and went to school in Windsor. He has sometimes wished that he had gone through Victoria college, but has good connections there anyway.

His first job after he finished school was as a junior clerk in Central Canada Savings and Loan Company under Mr. E. R. Wood.

Mr. Wood started the Dominion Securities Corporation in 1900 and made him secretary of it. He stayed there for five years before he cut loose and started Wood, Gundy and Company.

He confined his company pretty well to government and municipal bonds for a number of years until he perceived that this would never make him a great financier.

Since then he has engaged in several variations of the bond business and now has hardly a dull moment.

His hobby is making money and he has declared on occasion that no thrill in sport can compare with the fun of reorganizing a company on the right lines.

Reorganizing a company on the right lines may be defined as rearranging its capital structure so that a satisfactory amount of common stock is jarred loose.

He is in favor of any merger, including church union. If United church could be set up as convertible preferred and two classes of common the thing would be perfect.

He likes to wear double-breasted blue suits and refuses to believe that they look better on tall slim men like Mr. Killam.

Under pressure he has admitted that he is smart and he prides himself on having broken economic laws all his life.

He has occasional lapses into emotionalism which make Sir Herbert nervous. These, however, are less frequent than they used to be.

One of his great personal friends is not Mr. A. R. Graustein. (Mr. Graustein is a Boston lawyer who has made quite a study of the pulp and paper industry.)

Most of his friends call him Harry. Others call him J. H., and a number of his young men refer to him as The Chief. They do not intend this as any reflection on Sir Herbert.

He likes his young men to wear nice clothes, speak good English and do what they are told, and most of them do.

He has been a Liberal in politics and in 1921 had some idea of going into it seriously and becoming minister of finance. He gave up this idea, however, and has since wondered how he could have been so foolish.

He does not mind difficulties, does not get frightened and would like to be more venturesome.

Most of his renown has come to him since 1921. So has most of his money.

PASSENGERS by tramcar in Greater London in 1929 show an increase of 19,000,000 over the total of the previous year.

This Looks Like a Case Of Love's Labor Lost

CANADA'S most ambitious author is without a doubt Mrs. L. Adams Beck of Victoria, B.C. She averages at least two a year, one published under her own name, and the other under the pseudonym of "E. Barrington." The technique of the books is so vastly different that for a long time the double identity of the author was not suspected even by her closest friends.

For over a year now Mrs. Beck has been visiting the far east, in which she is tremendously interested. She has delved deep into Buddhist lore, and has evolved a philosophy that is apparently a compound of what she has found best in the Christian and Buddhist religions, but she has never succeeded in expressing this quite clearly enough for it to be understood by her admirers.

Just now Mrs. Beck is living in Kyoto. In colloboration with a professor of languages at Kyoto, she has undertaken a task of tremendous magnitude, nothing less than the translating of the Scriptures into the Japanese language!

It is true that such a translation already exists, and that it has done good service for a century or so. No complaint of inaccuracies had ever been made until Mrs. Beck expressed dissatisfaction with the rendering of one of the Proverbs of Solomon. Her knowledge of Japanese at the time was exceedingly meagre, but after her version had been approved by recognized philologists she announced that she would perfect herself in Japanese and then free the Japanese Bible of errors of fact or grammar. She has given herself two years in which to complete this task, with the help of competent assistants, of course.

Presumably by way of relaxation, she is at the same time writing a novel with a Burmese setting.

Those who know Mrs. Beck have no doubt that she will succeed in her self-imposed task. She is a woman of tremendous energy and an exceedingly rapid writer. Until she was nearly sixty she had never written a line for publication. By now she has nearly twenty books of permanent value to her credit, the best known being probably "The Chaste Diana" and "The Divine Lady."

ANOTHER RECORD

THERE was a tremendous crash. Farmer Jones, who was working in one of his cowsheds, rushed out into the farmyard, and in a nearby tree saw a small aeroplane lodged in the topmost branches.

"What do you think you're doing?" he asked the pilot, who had, fortunately, escaped injury and was in the act of climbing down the tree.

"I was trying to create a new air record," returned the other sadly.

"And you've succeeded," exclaimed the farmer. "You're about the first chap who has climbed down a tree without first climbing up."

GIBBS SAYS NEXT WAR WILL DESTROY WORLD

Men Have Learned to Kill Each Other Much More Efficiently Since the Last War

SIR PHILIP GIBBS is probably the best known newspaper man of the English-speaking world, partly because of his extraordinary war experiences, although he had already established a reputation before he became a war correspondent in the Balkans in 1912. Now fifty-two years of age, Sir Philip has been an active figure in the writing world for over thirty years. At twenty-one he was one of the editors of the publishing house of Cassell & Company. Thereafter he plunged into straight newspaper work, being in succession on the writing and editorial staffs of the London Daily Mail, the Chronicle and the Tribune. At the outbreak of the Great War he was appointed war correspondent with the Belgian army, and served throughout the war with the fighting forces on the western front. To Sir Philip is largely due the reforms that were established during the war in regard to newspaper men. They were in very bad odor with the old school of war administrators, their work was hampered and co-operation between writers and army chiefs was almost impossible. The newspaper men were out to keep the people at home informed of as much as possible of the news of the army, and the rigid disciplinarians were inclined to run the war in secret. Largely through his efforts official war correspondents were appointed, who were entrusted with secret news and relied on to keep faith with the army chiefs for the sake of the army as a whole. In 1920, in recognition of his services, he was knighted. After the war he wandered over the stricken countries of Europe, particularly in Russia, telling in his clear, incisive and colorful way, the story of what he saw.

Sir Phillip Gibbs

"Youth will have nothing of the past," he says. "It is not much interested in the past except for a smiling wonderment that such things should have been and that men and women should have thought that way. It has rejected much of its heritage as fit only for lumber rooms of rubbish, careless of many treasures there."

He finds the old leisurely rhythm of life abruptly changed to a swift beat by machinery, scientific advancement, in communication and transportation, all working at a speed at which the human body is not attuned. Vibrations of light and sound have "brought all the world into a back parlor."

But in spite of the human skill, which has brought all these wonders into being, the last war revealed, he says, "a low standard of intelligence and morality," especially among the leaders of the world. The victory of flight, only just won, to bring men the liberty of the skies, was used for the purposes of destruction. If another war comes, he predicts, it will wipe out western civilization.

KING GEORGE ON THE MOORS

By GEORGE MARSHALL

KING GEORGE is, and has been for many years, one of the foremost game shots in England, shooting being his favorite sport and recreation. From the middle of August until late in the autumn, the King spends most of his time on the moors, and bags as many, if not more birds, than most keen sportsmen. This is not because the best shooting in England and Scotland is available to him, but rather because the King seldom misses. With him it is the man behind the gun that counts, not the number of birds coming over.

This year his majesty's plans have been slightly altered, as between the yacht racing at Cowes and his journey to Balmoral, he spent a week at Sandringham, the home in which he is so truly happy. Once he was heard to observe to an old retainer that the only place in which he could consider himself to be an ordinary, undisturbed Englishman was in his cabin on the royal yacht. At Balmoral the King does not enjoy complete privacy, his weekly ordeal being the visit to the local church on Sundays. Here, too, eager crowds of tourists are wont to gather in the churchyard and press around the royal party to get a close-up view of the different members.

The King, however, loves his annual visit to Deeside, where the scenery fascinates by its combination of river, burn, mountain and pine forest. Balmoral House, which was purchased by Queen Victoria in 1852, was converted into a gleaming granite castle, and it has been frequently renovated and brought up-to-date in accordance with modern requirements. When last season the King, not long recovered from his serious illness, went out shooting, he used a sporting gun of a type not used by practised shots. But before the end of the season it was apparent that his cunning skill had returned to him, and he shot [illegible] runs of the make and bore to which for years as a first class shot he had been accustomed.

During the grouse season his majesty generally finds time to spend a few days shooting with his old friend the Duke of Devonshire at Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire. This old-world beauty spot never fails in its appeal to the King. Tucked away in a backwater, Bolton Abbey is far from the beaten track. It lies on the River Wharfe in a valley beautifully wooded and closely surrounded by hills, and retains to-day all its characteristics of bygone days. The manor came into the possession of Henry Clifford, second Earl of Cumberland, in 1542, whose descendants, the dukes of Devonshire, have held it ever since. Here Prince Rupert and his army camped in the summer of 1644 on their way to defeat at Marston Moor.

But Bolton Abbey existed long before 1542. History relates that it was granted by William the Conqueror to Robert de Romille, who held it in 1086. Robert's heiress, Cicely de Romille, and her husband, William de Meschines, founded and endowed a priory in the neighborhood in 1120, but it was moved to Bolton in 1151 by their daughter, Alice de Romille, wife of William FitzDuncan.

Around the removal of the monks to Bolton a surprising charm has been thrown by the genius of Wordsworth and Rogers. Alice, on the death of her parents, adopted her mother's name of Romille, and as the wife of a nephew of David of Scotland, she had two sons, the elder of whom died at an early age. The younger, called the "noble boy of Egremond," from the place of his birth, thus became the sole hope of his mother. According to the story, he was one day hunting in the woods around Bolton, with the hound in his leash, when he arrived at the Strid—a narrow chasm, about five feet wide, through which the river rushes with great rapidity—across which "perhaps for the hundredth time,"

"He sprang in glee—for what cared he
That the river was strong and the rocks were steep;
But the greyhound in the leash hung back,
And checked him in his leap.
The boy is in the arms of Wharfe
And strangled by a merciless force;
For never more was young Romille seen,
Till he rose a liteless corpse."

The forester who had accompanied him hastened to his mother, and asked her, in the words of the period: "What is good for a bootless bene?"

"And she made answer, 'Endless sorrow!'
For she knew that her son was dead.

. . . . . .

Long, long in darkness did she sit,
And her first words were, 'Let there be
In Bolton on the field of Wharfe,
A stately priory.'"

According to this tradition, the spot chosen for the erection of the "stately priory" was the nearest eligible site to the place where the boy was drowned.

It is a pretty legend, but not quite in agreement with facts, for the "boy of Egremond" himself added his signature to his mother's on a charter consenting to the monks receiving the manor of Bolton in exchange for certain other manors. It has been suggested that his subsequent death by drowning may have given rise to the generally received account of the foundation of the monastery. Wordsworth and Rogers each wrote a simple ballad upon the alleged circumstances attending the drowning of the "boy of Egremond," the former in his "Force of Prayer," quoted above, and the latter in "The Boy of Egremond." The accident is also alluded to in Wordsworth's "White Doe of Rylstone," the scene of which lies in the churchyard of Bolton Abbey.

It is amid these surroundings of legend and story that King George loves to spend a few quiet days in the summer shooting grouse and turning over the old records of Bolton and its history. Moving freely among the villagers, many of whom he knows personally, the King is really at home and far removed from affairs of state and routine. From his windows at Bolton Hall he can gaze out on the abbey itself, of which, unfortunately, there is little left. That little, however, contains traces of the various styles of architecture that prevailed during the centuries that intervened between the foundation and the suppression of the abbey. The conventual buildings have nearly all gone, the ruins that still remain being principally of the church. And they are a mere shell, with the exception of the nave, which at the Reformation was preserved as a Protestant church.

Bolton Hall, where the King stays, was originally the gateway to the abbey. The Earl of Cumberland, on whom Henry VIII. bestowed the confiscated property a few years after the Reformation, transformed the gateway into a shooting-box, and the Duke of Devonshire uses it for the same purpose. The outline of this, the main entrance to the abbey, is familiar in most English homes from its representation in Landseer's celebrated painting, Bolton Abbey in the Olden Times, the original of which is in the Duke of Devonshire's country house at Chatsworth.

One of King George's favorite walks in the cool of the evening is to stroll down through the abbey grounds to the stepping stones in the River Wharfe. There are 57 of these big, square boulders altogether; nobody knows when they were placed there, but the causeway was probably constructed so that people living on the other side of the Wharfe might more conveniently attend the services in the abbey church. The King, too, seldom fails to visit the Cavendish Memorial Cross while at Bolton. This is at the north end of the churchyard, and was erected by the tenantry of the Duke of Devonshire's Bolton estates to the memory of Lord Frederick Cavendish, chief secretary for Ireland in one of Mr. Gladstone's governments, who was murdered in Phoenix Park, Dublin, in 1882, by Fenians within twelve hours of his arrival.

Bolton Abbey is within a few miles of Harewood House, the country residence of Princess Mary and the Earl of Harewood. From its elevated position in a park of great beauty and extent, the windows of the house command a wide view over fields and woods. Quite close, also, is Goldsborough Hall, built during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, another country residence of Princess Mary and her husband, which they have used continuously since their marriage.

He Has Saved 150 People From Death But It's a Thankless Job, He Finds

THERE are some funny quirks in the genus homo. It would be difficult to find a man or woman who would sell one year of their lives for $100,000, yet in most cases they don't think it worth a "thank you" when someone risks his own life to snatch them from the brink of eternity.

This statement is backed up by the experience of Russell "Buck" Deneau, a resident of Sandwich, Ont., and one of the best known characters on the Border Cities riverfront. Few persons, if any, are better qualified than he to comment upon man's ingratitude in this respect.

Buck estimates that he has saved approximately 150 persons from drowning in the Detroit river during the past twenty years—and not one of them offered him as much as a thin dime for his services.

This quiet, unassuming man, by the way, has never solicited any remuneration for saving lives. He would not accept any if it were offered him. But he would like to think that those he aided appreciated his efforts.

"You know," he states, "there is only one in a dozen who will say as much as 'thank you' when you've hauled him to dry land and brought him back to life."

During the years that Buck has been making a name for himself as an amateur lifesaver he has also built up quite a reputation in the matter of recovering the bodies of drowned persons.

All told, he has recovered the bodies of thirty persons. This business, he has found, is more profitable than saving lives. Once he was offered 65 cents for bringing a body to the surface. He didn't accept it, but then it was nice to know that his effort was appreciated even to the extent of 65 cents.

Buck's net loss, as a result of his readiness to assist persons in distress, has probably run into several hundreds of dollars. Water is hard on shoes, and he seldom has time to remove his before he plunges into the river to aid a drowning person. The result is that he is generally out one pair of shoes after each rescue, to say nothing of the damage done to other articles of clothing.

This prince of lifesavers is not very favorably impressed by the record hung up by his friend, Arthur "Muskrat" Laframboise, who boasts of having recovered more than forty bodies from the river.

"Most of his were floaters," Buck asserts. "They go to him. I go out after mine and bring them up. I got seven or eight floaters myself, but I don't count them."

A powerful man and an expert swimmer, Buck is well fitted for the sideline—lifesaving—fate has thrust upon him. He is also a diver, and is as much at home on the river bed as he is on its surface.

Buck lives in a small houseboat on the Sandwich riverfront, near the docks of the construction company that employs him. A bed, a radio, a tiny stove and a few chairs are the only furnishings in this odd dwelling—but it's "home" to him and he likes it.

The proximity of this residence to the river tends to explain the reason why Buck has saved so many lives. He is on the ground floor, so to speak, and is always available when help is needed.

Many of the persons Buck has rescued are children who got into difficulties for various reasons while swimming, or who fell into the river while fishing from a boat or a dock. He saved five youngsters from drowning this summer, and expected to add to that total when the schools reopened.

It would be impossible to list the number of men, women and children Buck has saved, or the occasions on which he saved them, but this example will serve to show that he invariably happens along when someone is in trouble:

While walking along a Border dock a few years ago Buck noted that a colored man was trudging along behind him. There was nothing unusual about that, but when he turned around a minute or two later and failed to see this man, he got suspicious.

Walking quickly to the place where the colored man was last seen, Buck found him struggling in the water between the dock and a barge, and unable to get out. The darkey's foot had slipped and he fell in.

"Man, you-all came along just in time," the colored man gasped after Buck had succeeded in dragging him on to the dock. "Ah sho' was doggone near gone."

Hardly had this man been hauled to safety when Buck heard a faint scream at the other end of the dock. He rushed there in time to drag from the water a small boy who fell in while fishing. The boy struck some piling when he fell, and was still unconscious when taken from the water.

Two rescues inside of five minutes was Buck's record for that day. It's like that with him. He's Johnny-on-the-spot when a strong man's help is needed.

ONE Sunday morning a member of a church that could not boast of a new organ met a friend who belonged to a church that had just purchased one.

"I hear you've got a new organ," he said. "Now all you need is a monkey."

"And all you need is an organ," his friend answered with a smile.

Brampton Wins First Game From Campbellford

TORONTO LEAFS DROP LAST GAME

Royals Take Season's Final Contest at the Home Stadium 6-1.

CLASSET EFFECTIVE.

TORONTO Ont. Sept. 11 (C.P.)—Rochester's seven and one-half game lead in the International league apparently is enough to assure the Redwings their third consecutive pennant but the Baltimore Orioles and Montreal Royals are clinging to their slim hopes like a leech.

The Redwings and Orioles lost yesterday but the Royals came through with a victory to remain in the race. To tie for the pennant, however, Montreal would have to win all of its ten remaining games while the Redwings were dropping the eleven remaining of their schedule. The Orioles have twleve games to play.

After winning nine straight, the defending champions finally had their string snapped yesterday by Buffalo, the Bisons taking an 8 to 6 decision in ten innings. Each team scored one run in the ninth to leave the score tied at the end of the regulation game but the Bisons came through with two runs in the tenth to win. Manager Billy Southworth led Rochester's 14-hit attack with four safe blows.

Lose Last Game

Montreal and Toronto brought the Leafs' home season to a close with Toronto taking the short end of a 6 to 1 count.

Lefty Classet was on the mound for the Royals to earn his sixteenth victory of the year, handing out just eight hits while Joe Samuels and Kyle Graham of Toronto were wild, issuing ten passes. Classet passed six Leafs but was tight in the pinches. Jimmy Ruppie's home run in the sixth went a long way in deciding the game although the Royals added three more runs in the ninth.

The Newark Bears kept the Orioles from advancing on the titleholders, winning 10 to 7 to take the second game of the current series. Both teams drove out 14 hits but the Bears bunched their blows, scoring five runs in the first inning. Zitzman and Harvin hit homers for the Bears while McGowan and Barton repeated the act for the Orioles.

Bob Walsh, son of the famous Ed. Walsh of White Sox fame, held Reading to three hits as Jersey City won 3 to 2 in a night game. Walsh was exceptionally wild, passing 12 men and hitting one, but tightened in the pinches, leaving 14 Keys stranded on the bases.

PIGMENTATION CONTROLS GLAND IS DISCOVERED

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 11 (C.P.)—Discovery of a gland secretion that appears to control pigmentation—the basis of complexion—was reported to the American Chemical Society yesterday.

The secretion comes from the pituitary gland, which lies between the roof of the mouth and base of the brain, which has been identified previously as producing other secretions affecting growth of the body and bones and developing of sex.

The discovery was credited to Dr. C. G. McArthur, of the University of Buffalo, during the explanation of a new theory of bodily circulation by Dr. Oliver Kamm, of Parke Davis and Company.

C. W. WIGGINS IS RE-ELECTED

Carpet Ball League Holds Annual Election of Officers.

START IN OCTOBER.

A meeting of the City Carpet Ball League was held in All Saints' Parish House on Tuesday evening. After general business, President C. W. Wiggins vacated the chair to Chief George Gimblett for the nomination of officers. C. W. Wiggins was again elected president for the coming season of 1930-1931. This makes Mr. Wiggins' third term in this office. Ed. Cooney was unanimously elected vice-president. G. E. Groombridge was elected secretary-treasurer for the ensuing term. It was then moved that a meeting be called for Wednesday, September 24, for full reports from all teams wishing to enter the league for the coming season. All clubs, associations, or churches desirous of placing one or more teams in the Carpet Ball League are asked to have the names and addresses of all such members in by that date, and also to attend the meeting, as it is the desire of the committee to sart in October wih the schedule. Co-operation will be greatly appreciated and for further information 'phone C. W. Wiggins 1594M, Ed. Cooney 847, or the secretary, G. E. Groombridge 567W.

SENATORS FAIL TO COP CHANCE

Washington Club Handed 3-2 Setback by the St. Louis Browns.

PITCHING DUEL.

NEW YORK, September 11 (C.P.)—The Washington Senators again failed to take advantage of an opportunity to tighten up the American League pennant chase when they allowed the St. Louis Browns to hand them a 3 to 2 setback although Alvin Crowden gave his former mates only four hits. They remained 6½ games behind the Philadelphia Athletics, who were not successful with their four blows off Vic Sorrell in another fine pitching duel. They failed to score while the Detroit Tigers bunched a good part of their five hits off Shores and Walberg for four runs in the fourth inning and won by that margin. A home run with two aboard by recruit Frank Doljack furnished most of the scoring.

Danny MacFadyen of Boston was not far behind in the day's hurling feats as he gave the Chicago White Sox only six hits while the Red Sox hammered out a 6 to 2 victory. Henry Johnson of New York had the honor of outpitching Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's young ace, to give the Yankees their second straight triumph over the Indians, 7 to 2 ,and to enable them to hold their mathematical chance of capturing the flag.

Large Crowd of Spectators See Colorful Exhibition of Lacrosse at Campbellford.

GOOD COMBINATION.

Nine Penalties Handed Out in Heavy Checking Affair—Ontario Semi-finals.

CAMPBELLFORD, September 11 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Before the largest lacrosse crowd this season in Campbellford, the Brampton squad swept home to victory against the Home Towners with a 5-2 count in the first game of the inter-district intermediate lacrosse semi-final play-offs staged yesterday afternoon on the High School grounds.

The game was one of the cleanest that has been played this season. Both teams worked hard, with the result that the fans saw the finest lacrosse exhibition staged in Campbellford this year. Campbellford put up a grand fight and their play was marked by the persistent run of near goals and tough luck that sometimes follows a team. The Brampton boys played with a precision and niceness that was pretty o watch. Covering well and with an almost perfect system of passing, they proved formidable opponents for the entertainers.

Take Early Lead.

Scoring two goals in the first period, Brampton counted one in each of the other sessions, while Campbellford did not start the count until the last period. It seemed as if it took the Millers some time to feel the play of their opposition. Especially in the first period was this noticed. Checking through the game was very heavy, and although nine penalties were registered, this gives no indication of the play. Len. Smith, the official referee from Toronto, handled the game with ease and satisfaction to all concerned, and by giving five-minute stretches on the fence kept the play above the average of cleanness. Combination was good on both sides, but it was Brampton who gathered in most of the loose balls.

This game comes as the result of Campbellford winning the championship in Group 1, and Brampton heading the lists in Group 2. These two teams met for the first time and felt each others' strength, and now one game has been played in the series and the prowess of the individual players gauged, the last and final game of the play-off, which is to be staged at Brampton on September 20, should be one of the finest this season.

The line-ups were as follows:

Brampton—Goal, W. Large; point, E. Ingram; cover point, Dr. McClean; 1st defence, J. Burton; 2nd defence, W. Smith; 3rd defence W. Hill; centre A. Sheppard; 3rd home, P. Graham; 2nd home, C. Clarke; 1st home, A. Hilgartener; outside home, S. Halpin; inside home, K. Dobson; subs, H. Mullus, F. Lockhurst, H. Lenton.

Campbellford—Goal, E. Fox; point, H. McArthur; cover point, V. Cochrane; 1st defence, L. Blake; 2nd defence, F. Whitton; 3rd defence, J. Cowell; centre, S. Flint; 3rd home, O. Hendy; 2nd home, L Copperthwaite; 1st home, H. Ingram; outside home, F. Ingram; inside home, L. Jack; subs, T. B. Horkins, L. Plunkett, L. Bausch.

Referee—Len. Smith, Toronto.

Umpires—Brampton: Time, Roy Ingram; goal, E. Meyers. Campbellford: Time, J. Benor; goal, Mayor C. H. Davidson. Neutral time, J. Richards, Toronto.

Press From First.

The first period was marked by the pressing of Brampton toward the Campbellford net and throwing the Home Towners on the defensive for most of the play. Starting with an attack by Campbellford, the ball was soon in centre field and stiff checking started on the side line. Then came a break and Brampton swarmed the Campbellford net and play became hot until Whitton got possession of the ball and made a get-away. He shot but missed, and this was closely followed by another shot by Hendy, which also failed. Then the visitors started counting when Hilgartener netted the ball with a pass from Halpin after eight minutes of play. Campbellford then tried to even up the score but were driven back, and another count was made for Brampton when Halpin scored on a lone play. The game then became hot, and in a centre field play Lockhurst for Brampton went to the ground and Horkins was put on the fence for charging, registering the first penalty of the game. This gave Brampton a free throw. The play then ranged to the Brampton district, and in a scrum at that end Sheppard was penalized for hitting Cowell over the head.

Score at the end of the first period: Brampton 2, Campbellford 0.

Goals: Brampton, Hilgartener, Halpin.

Penalties: Brampton, Sheppard; Campbellford, Horkins.

Play Even in Second.

Play in the second period was more even. Much of it was in centre field, and hard checking featured the session. Brampton had to work all they were worth to gain the one count they did, and in return received several severe attacks from the Home Towners which were only repelled after hard fighting. Both goalies played exceptionally good games and deserve credit for the work they did. The play opened with an attack on the Campbellford goal, which was returned. Then Cowell broke away, but failed to place the ball in Brampton's net, and Halpin got possession and returned to the attack, but without success. Play then ranged from one goal to the other with very pretty passing by Brampton and severe checking by the Home Towners. Both teams covered well, but Brampton had the edge on this side of the play, and showed smart tactics when their goal was invaded. Horkins went down in the middle of the period and Smith was put on the fence. This was soon followed by another penalty against Brampton when McClean was put off the field for five minutes for holding in front of the Brampton net. The attack then went to the Campbellford area, and Cochrane was penalized for slashing when the Home Towners' goal was sore pressed. The only goal of the period was counted just before the bell rang when Clarke netted the ball for Brampton in a lone play.

Goals—Brampton, Clark. Penalties, Brampton, Smith, McClean; Campbellford, Cochrane.

The third period was much the same as the second, with end to end play and severe checking and counter-checking. Campbellford made many shots at the Brampton net and registered some tough breaks. Brampton played a fine game of defence in this quarter and repelled several determined attacks from Campbellford, while the Millers starred with several lone rushes which were dangerous and swift. The play ranged from centre field to the Campbellford net and became hot for a time until the visitors' combination was broken and a scrum was staged on the half line. This was broken and for a time the game was loose. Hendy for Campbellford was put on the fence twice, once for slashing, and Whitton made a lone rush and shot, but failed. This was a goal Campbellford earned, but did not get. Hilgartener was penalized for hitting Jack on the head. At the end of the period, after stiff play, Clarke for Brampton netted another goal.

Goals — Brampton, Clarke. Penalties — Brampton, Hilgartener; Campbellford, Hendy 2.

Homsters Carry Play

In the last period Campbellford played up to form and started to stage a comeback which might have been successful if more time was found. Registering two counts to Brampton's one, and having the edge on the play they kept the visitors busy, crowding their net and preventing them from doing much damage. Most of the play during this quarter was in the Brampton area and with the visitors strong defence, fighting was the order of the day. Much of the play was behind the Brampton net, one goal being scored from a pass from that position. Several long shots were tried by Brampton, but were intercepted. The play opened with rBampton taking the offensive which did not get them anywhere. Then the game became general with Campbellford breaking away everytime Brampton advanced. Cowell netted the first count of the game for Campbellford after six minutes of play, this being closely followed by a penalty against the Home Towner's when Horkins was put on the fence. The visitors then invaded the Campbellford goal, and after several good saves by Fox scored another goal, Dobson doing the deed. Then started a terrific bombardment of Brampton's net by Campbellford which continued until the minal bell rang, but not before Jack had counted one more goal for the Home Towners.

Score at the end of the fourth period. Brampton 5, Campbellford 2. Goals— Brampton, Dobson. Campbellford, Cowell, Jack. Penalties, Campbellford, Horkins.

So ended the first of the two games in the semi-finals. Campbellford will go to Brampton on the twentieth with a three goal lead against them, but there is no knowing what will happen. To say that they were outclassed would be wrong, for they put up a fine brand of lacrosse, but it was their unlucky day. On the other hand Brampton played a splendid game and showed what can be done in the matter of passing and covering. Both teams showed good combination and both goal keepers did excellent work in the nets. Knowing what the Home Towner's did to Oshawa when it was least expected of them, there are still great hopes of a come back in a series where goals count.

ARMADALE WINS IN "EX" RACES

Famed Colt Shows Heels to Field After Bad Break in First Heat.

GREAT RACING CARD.

Armadale, that son of a great sire, stepped out on the race track at Exhibition Park yesterday afternoon and proved again that blood will tell.

This three-year old colt, fathered by the famed Armadale and a member of Art Johnston's stable, showed great form and speed to cop the first race in the Exhibition's biggest racing menu. It was Armadale's second start in a race and he was opposed by nine of the fleetest youngsters in the district.

He showed his heels to the whole field, and, except in the first heat, was well out in front, going under the wire. He was wisely driven by that peer of racing drivers, Cliff Chapman, who has created something of a record for Canadian tracks with the number of horses he has wheeled first under the wire this season.

Broke in First

The horses were off in a great start for the first heat and coming in the first lap they were bunched. Going around the back stretch Chapman urged Armadale out in front. The horse had a nice lead but broke badly a hundred yards from the finish to allow Patch McKinney, Maggie W. and Elsie Ganot to pass him.

That was the only heat in which Armadale made a misstep. In the other three heats he ran true to form and was always first under the wire.

With fifty-three of the cream of Canadian pacers stabled in Exhibition Park for the three days of racing being offered on the Exhibition card, race lovers around the district are offered a treat. These horses should break some track records in producing the best horse racing ever seen on the local track.

ADOLFO LUQUE HOLDS THE CUBS TO FIVE HITS

Brooklyn and St. Louis Cardinals Come Game Nearer League Leaders.

CHICAGO LOSES 6-0.

Bottomley's Eighth Inning Homer Gives Cards 6-5 Victory Over Giants.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

After seeing the congestion caused by four teams trying to occupy one place, it appears that a squadron of traffic police is needed along the road of the National League pennant. So far all the efforts of the teams from Chicago, St. Louis, Brooklyn and New York to get to the championship only have resulted in one of the greatest jams that a highway ever has seen.

The only progress made in yesterday's pair of "crucial" games was to bring the Brooklyn Robins and the St. Louis Cardinals a game closer to Chicago's League leading Cubs, while the New York Giants in fourth place remained only three games behind the top, with Adolfo Luque making history repeat itself by shutting out the National League champions with five hits. The Robins made it two straight over the Cubs by a 6 to 0 count while St. Louis retained its one-point grip on second place as Jim Bottomley's eighth inning home run gave the Cards a 5 to 3 victory over the Giants.

The Robins already have avenged themselves for several indignities suffered by Chicago's star pitchers, Pat Malone and Charley Root. After defeating Malone for the first time on Tuesday, they ran out of their dug out yesterday to greet another nemesis, Root, and promptly started running around the bases.

Five men faced Root and all of them hit. Then Jess Petty came to the rescue and allowed one more blow, which brought Brooklyn's first inning total up to five runs before he cast a spell over the Robins that lasted until he left the game in the eighth inning. They scored their sixth run off Lynn Nelson in that frame. Luque, however, pitched almost perfect ball from start to finish and some fine Robin fielding made up for his few deficiencies to keep the Cubs well away from the plate.

The Giants and Cardinals started out for a second pitchers' battle with Fred Fitzsimmons, leader of the Giant staff, opposed by Sylvester Johnson. The Giants forged ahead slowly, getting one run in the first, which St. Louis equalled in the third, and two more in the sixth, when Frank Hogan clouted a home run with one mate on base. But the eighth inning overcame all their labor. High's single and Adams' double accounted for the tally. Then Frisch hit and Bottomley smacked the ball against the upper deck of the stand for a home run, and the ball game.

Tom Zachary's four hit pitching and Wally Berger's 34th home run gave the Boston Braves a 5 to 0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are not so far out of the pennant race, while steady and timely hitting by the Phillies enabled them to defeat Cincinnati in the fourth National League clash.

LINDSAY YOUTH IN HURRICANE AREA

Parents of John M. Donald Have Received No Word From Son Since Disaster.

FORMER BANK EMPLOYEE.

LINDSAY, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondent). — The troubles which have confronted the Town Council during the past several months regarding the local brass band were further aggravated last night when the town fathers refused the request of the Kiwanis Club to give half the civic grant ($600) and let the latter organization take over the boys band.

The town at present has two bands —the senior and boys band but neither of them has a leader. Some weeks ago bandmaster Shunk resigned as leader of the Citizens' Band, as he had reached the decision that there was no hope of proper co-operation between that organization and himself.

Hoping to continue the good work which bandmaster Shunk had accomplished with the boys band, the Kiwanians suggested taking over the band with him as leader providing the Council helped them out to the extent of $600.

A committee has been appointed to select a leader from the thirty or more applications which have been received for the position.

Havelock W.M.S. Opens Its Sessions For Fall

HAVELOCK, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—The first meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox Presbyterian Church for the fall season was held in the manse, the president, Mrs. (Rev.) Lennox presiding. The devotional exercise was under the leadership of Mrs. Lennox, assisted by Mrs. McGill. Hymn number 399 was sung. The chief business in hand was discussion of a bale to be prepared for the missionary field. It was decided to hold a special meeting for this purpose on Friday, Sept. 12th, when it will be definitely decided upon. Mrs. Clifford Jamieson sang a soprano solo, "Perfect Day" very acceptably. A dainty lunch was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

In the first half of this year Canada imported 8,649,511 feet of American motion picture film.

FRANK HUNTER ALSO LISTED IN QUARTER-FINAL

"Big Bill" Pitted Against Johnny Van Ryan in To-day's Play.

EXPECTED TO WIN.

While Hunter Faces Johnny Doeg in Which Latter Favored to Win.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 11 (CP).—Those two old soldiers of the tennis court, Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, stood to-day in the quarter final round of the National tennis singles championship surrounded by half a dozen youngsters ranging in age from 18 to 24.

"Big Bill" was pitted against the same opponent he met in the quarter-final round of last year's tournament — Johnny Van Ryn.

On that occasion "Big Bill" turned back the former Princeton captain in four sets after a hard fight and something of the same sort was anticipated to-day. Tilden yesterday downed Lyttleton Rogers, six-foot seven-inch Irish Davis cup ace, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, with a bewildering assortment of sizzling drives and soft teases.

Van Ryn displayed his usual well-rounded game in downing Frederick Perryn, one of the best of the younger English players, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, but the general feeling seems to be that he is no better than he was last year, while Tilden, although 37 years of age, is at least as good as in 1929.

Hunter, facing big Johnny Doeg in another quarter-final in the same half of the draw, was given only an outside chance to win.

Should both Tilden and Doeg come through to-day, they would meet in the semi-final round.

NOTED CRICKETER IS FOUND DEAD

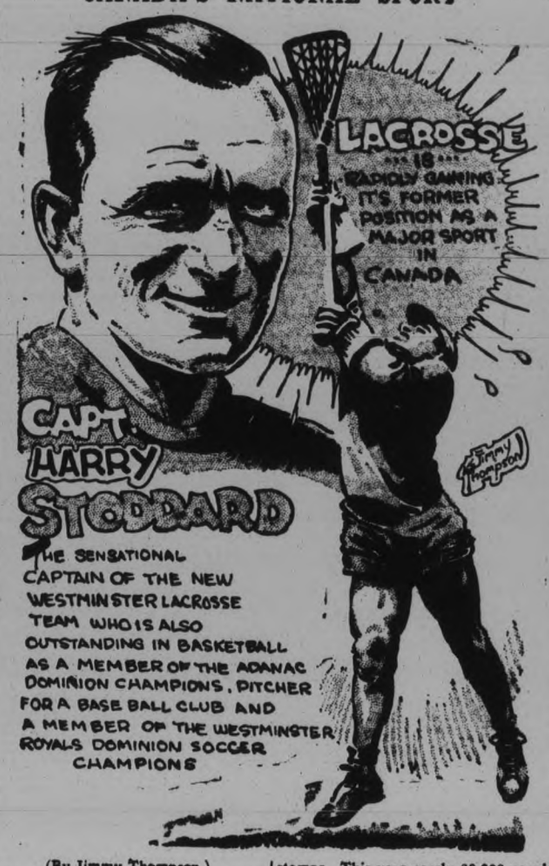
Gas Turned on Full in Major Aubrey Faulkner's Room.

KNOWN OVER WIRELESS.

LONDON, Sept. 11. (C.P.)— Major Aubrey Faulkner, the famous cricketer, was found dead to-day in a gas-filled room connected with the office in his cricket school in Fulham. The gas radiator was turned on and all the doors and windows of the room shut.

Faulkner's voice was well known to wireless listeners from his broadcast criticisms during the latest matches and more recently for the discussion between himself and Jack Hobbs on cricketers and cricket. The school with which Faulkner was connected for the past six years was largely used by the public school boys for training. Many prominent county cricketers also practised there. Faulkner, who was a great player in his time, was also distinguished as a coach.

CANADA'S NATIONAL SPORT



(By Jimmy Thompson.)

They say they don't come back. Well, here's one that did. Lacrosse has become a big sport again. The game has been cleaned up and once more old Man Public is spending his time and money on the game. First the Americans come over and hand our local talent a good dubbing with the result the boys got hot under the collar and the next game they set out like a house afire to retain the Lally cup. Yet it took this trimming and a group of all-star athletes from over the line to make the boys wake up. Then came the boys of New Westminster, a lacrosse team that still remains great, even as a finalist. They are the boys that helped out Bill Harcourt. The former treasurer ran the competition the first year on postage stamps. This year nearly 20,000 people saw the Mann cup finals. That means that Bill Harcourt had about $4,500 to bank for the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association — nothing wrong with that.

Haddy Stoddard, captain of the Salmon Bellies, mentioned at the banquet that his team had done remarkably well owing to the fact that they were outweighed by 30 pounds. Eastern critics don't think this is necessary — they did more than well. In fact, more than one Brampton supporter was uneasy right up till the last ten minutes of the game. They look almost at any time as though they were ready to put the Excelsiors on the Shelf. All that the boys in the east hope is that next season the west has a team as good as the New Westminsters. C. G. E. WILL MEET ARABS ON MONDAY

First Game in Second Round of Intermediate Playdowns Will Be Played in Oshawa.

SECOND ON WEDNESDAY.

Toronto and Peterborough Bantams to Tangle in O.B. A.A. Final on Saturday.

Fans will not see the C.G.E. ball team in action again until next Wednesday, when they will encounter the Oshawa Arabs here. After much exchange of correspondence and long-distance telephone calls, it was definitely arranged late yesterday that the first game of the series with Oshawa in the second round of the intermediate O.B.A.A. playdowns will be played in Oshawa on Monday afternoon, September 15, with the return game here Wednesday afternoon.

This series has all the ear-marks of a classic. All summer fans have argued whether the classy Motor City crew could take the number of the East Peterborough champs. Manager Cohen of the Arabs has a stalwart nine, having obtained many of last year's Central Leaguers and also added the old mound hero, "Duke" Dainty, to his pitching staff. The C.G.E. have been practising hard since they downed Point Anne and are right on edge for the next series.

Bantam Game Saturday.

On Saturday at James Stevenson Park the fans should crowd the stands to watch the Peterborough Bantams battle the Toronto team. This team will bring together a pair of strike-out kings in Calladine, the local twirler, and Cherevaty, of Toronto. Last Saturday Calladine whiffed twenty-two batsmen and Cherevaty twenty-one in eleven innings.

GENE SARAZEN ONLY CHAMPION LEFT IN PLAY

Defending Titleholder of P.G.A. Eliminated By Harold Sampson.

REAL UPSET OF PLAY.

Diegel Drops Decision on 38th Hole After Squaring Off at 36th.

FLUSHING, N.Y., Sept. 11 (CP).—Minus the defending champion, the Professional Golfers' Association's championship swung into the quarter-final round to-day with Gene Sarazen, the only former titleholder remaining, and even other veterans fighting for the crown vacated yesterday by Leo Diegel.

Diegel, who has held the title for two years, fell by the wayside yesterday when he was unable to cope with the short but accurate game of Harold Sampson, 35-year-old, 118 pound Californian. Leo dropped the decision on the thirty-eighth hole after squaring of the match at the end of the regulation 36 holes.

The defeat of unorthodox Diegel was the only real upset of the play.

INTEREST MOUNTS IN YACHT RACES

Shamrock V and Enterprise Will Make Trial Tests To-day.

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 11 (By the Canadian Press).—Shamrock V and Enterprise, challenger and defender for the historic America's cup, were scheduled to take to the water again to-day, after having spent the past few days drying their paint up on the railway. If weather is favorable, both boats will go for a spin this afternoon.

It has been a quiet week among the afterguards, except for the flurry as to whether or not the sliding foot boom of the defender were legal or not. But with the first series starting on Saturday interest is mounting rapidly.

Both boats have had finishing touches applied to them and will not be painted again before the races. Shamrock, with her sides sandpapered, now presents a dull appearance, very different from the shining enamel which she has sported hitherto. She will not carry any fresh paint, except a little below the water line where seams have been puttied and dabbed over, as her smooth sandpapered hull will offer less resistance in the water than if freshly painted.

18 Planes Take Off On National Air Tour

DETROIT, Sept. 11. — (CP) — Eighteen contesting planes in the 1930 National air tour took off without accident today from the Forest Airport on a 4,500 mile flight over the United States and Canada.

The fliers are scheduled to stop at Edmonton, Alta., the night of September 17, spend all day September 18 at Calgary, Alta., and visit Lethbridge, Alta., at noon, September 19.

The winner of the tour, to be decided by a complicated system of scoring on the basis of both speed and reliability, will become holder for one year of the Ford reliability trophy and will receive several thousand dollars prize money.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

The first fall meeting of the First Peterborough (St. John's) Troop was held in the Parish Hall on Friday, September 5.

Scoutmaster Johnson was in charge and was assisted by Assistant Scoutmasters Turner and Howden.

"Flag-break" and inspection was followed by a period in the Patrol corners, much of the evening being given over to organization for the fall season.

The turnout was very fair, considering the fact that it was the first meeting of the season, and that a number of the boys were still living out at summer homes.

During the evening several games were played and heartily enjoyed by the boys.

The camp-fire was a feature of the evening, the scouter coming to the conclusion that all the good singers of the troop were on hand. Many references were made to the Scoutmaster's camp and the Troop Leaders' camp during the camp-fire.

The meeting was closed in the regular way.

The leaders of the Troop urge that all boys be on hand next week at 7.15 sharp.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL WINS 1-2 MILE RELAY

South-end Team Just Noses Out King George Sprinters By a Nose.

KEEN COMPETITION.

Good Sports Program Feature of Children's Day at Exhibition.

Close races featured the children's sports day at the Exhibition yesterday afternoon. The youngsters put everything they had into the races, and although they didn't reduce any world's records they showed plenty of form. Every race was crowded with entries, and a feature on the card was the ½-mile relay in which King Edward School's team just nosed out the team from King George School. Going under the wire the runners were apparently abreast, and it was a close decision.

EXHIBITION NOTES

FIRST AID TENT

The first aid tent operated by the womens' division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade has more than justified its existence at the fair grounds under the presidency of Mrs. W. Stevens.

Several cases have been treated since the opening of the Exhibition, including a showman who was bitten by a bear cub and numerous minor injuries from cut fingers to grit in the eyes.

The tent is neatly fixed up complete with stretcher, hospital cot, well-stocked first aid kit and is staffed by a corps of efficient men and women members of the local division S.J.A.B., who work in relays, giving their services voluntarily.

A visit recently found the following staff on duty: Mrs. W. Stevens, Mrs. J. Barnes and Messrs. A. Barnes, J. Barnes, H. Sanderson and W. Blair. The men have done yeomen service on the grand stand and around the fair grounds.

CAR SHOW AT FAIR

Tickets are going fast for the Kiwanis lucky guess car which somebody is going to get for 25 cents. It now stands to the left of the entrance to the Manufacturer's Building on the Exhibition grounds.

One month remains until the speedometer on the vehicle will be opened for inspection and the winner declared. This event is scheduled for the final day of the Kiwanis Produced in Canada Exhibition at the Armouries, October 6 to 11.

Each day at its Exhibition stand the back wheels of the car are being driven by belt and the mileage will of course, all be recorded on the speedometer. It is to be run a total of 100 hours by the motor and pulley and, as well as 30 hours on the city streets will make trips to Lindsay, Lakefield, Oshawa and Belleville. Proceeds will be used in aid of pre-tubercular clinic and under-privileged child work.

A Foaming Silvery Brew

THAT'S the new drink . . . O'Keefe's STONE GINGER. In its foaming, silvery stream is all the deliciousness . . . all the racy vigour and sweetness . . . that one associates with the words: STONE GINGER. O'Keefe's now make it from a treasured English recipe.

Ask for it at fountains, or better still, get a 12 bottle carton from your dealer—

TWENTY-FIVE GOLD MEDALS OFFERED AT MUSICAL CONTEST

Made in Canada Fair Promises Best Musical Competition in Its History.

CLASSES AND AWARDS.

"Music" is that art which, along with Literature and Speech, strikes the most universally responsive chord on the emotions and intelligences of human beings."

The Chinese, that race that possesses so much ancient wisdom and seems to have the ability to phrase it in telling ways, declare that we are given two ears and one mouth, so that we may listen twice and speak once. Listening has its major advantage where music is concerned.

The Musical Competitions that will be held here during the week of October 6th to 11th, in connection with the Made-in-Canada Fair sponsored by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, promise to be most interesting and worth while. Those who attended the contests held in other years at these Fairs remember the extraordinary interest taken by the audiences in the various competitions.

No less than twenty-five gold medals, twenty-five silver medals and fourteen shields, all of exceptional value, will be presented to the successful contestants. The Club is out this year to make the Musical Competitions more attractive than ever before. The co-operation of musicians and students of the city is all that is needed now to put these events over the top.

Perhaps the basic ideas behind these competitions are summed up as well as possible in a speech given by a W. B. Rothwell in connection with the large Perth County Musical Festival of 1927, when he said:

"Most important of all, the children will derive the most benefit from a festival of this type. There is no greater truth than that which states that a child learns by observation and by doing a thing himself. Children who become interested in the festival will lay up a store of knowledge of music, which in the future will determine the standards of music accepted by the country. The best of them will be the teachers and soloists and the majority will form our audiences and will know what to expect from the variety of talent heard each year. The last and most important influence, good music in the home, will be a fact, not an accident, as is so often the case nowadays.

"When the future mothers and fathers are able to play and sing well, children will be brought up naturally with not only an appreciation but an understanding of music as a definite asset in life, and the musical development of the country will be in safe hands."

Classes And Awards.

The contests go forward under the best of auspices. Adjudicators have not yet been chosen, but the club is negotiating with three of the outstanding musicians of the province and expects shortly to be able to publish their names. The decision of these men is final. The audiences gather to silently appraise and value the competitions and then listen with the utmost interest to the judge's words. The whole affair is an education of the highest and most attractive type. The Kiwanis Club hopes, if enough support is received, to make these contests annual events.

In all solo competitons, the first prize will be a gold medal and the second prize a silver medal, while in choral, orchestral or band competitions the first award is a silver shield, the second a bronze one, such shield to be returnable for future competition.

In the vocal department, classes are made for open soprano, dramatic, mezzo and lyric, also contralto, lyric tenor, robust tenor, baritone and basso. There are classes for boys' choirs and boys' unchanged voices, girls' voices, school choirs, church choirs, (in three classes) mixed choirs, male, female and mixed quartettes and ladies' trios. There are violin, 'cello and string quartette contests, piano sections, band and orchestra competitions, also contests for cornet, trombone, clarinet solos and for brass quartettes.

The Club is very anxious to have as many entries as possible in these competitions, the entries for which close on September 20th. The forms may be sent to W. P. Blackmore, P.O. Box 1020.

HASTINGS

Mr. Reg. Runnels, manager of the Royal Bank at Metcalfe, is convalescing after his serious illness at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Runnels.

Mr. Chas. Graham, of Toronto, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. J. C. Smith, of Peterborough, was a business visitor in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wield and Mr. and Mrs. Dunham, of Vistal, N.Y., were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Wield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Smullen

We are pleased to report that the condition of Mrs. Smullen is improved enough for her removal from Kingston Hospital.

Mr. Redmond Walsh, of Toronto, was a recent guest at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. R. Walsh.

Mrs. P. M. Howard and son, John, of Toronto, were week-end visitors with friends in town.

Mrs Patterson and son Junior, of Schenectady, are guests at the home of the former's aunt, Miss Mary Barry.

Miss Marie Armstrong of Peterborough, is spending her vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Cruichshank.

Miss Mary Pickens, nurse-in-training at Nichols Hospital, Peterborough, is spending her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pickens.

Miss Eileen and Master Courtney Spooner, returned to their home in Edmonton, this week after an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Spooner.

Mrs. J. T. O'Connell and daughter, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sophia of Timmins spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Simpson.

Messrs. John and William McGurty, of Cobourg, are guests at the home of Mrs. P. McGurty.

WARSAW

Recent rains have caused John Condon, who operates a farm close to Warsaw, considerable trouble. Fall wheat which he had sown in a field with a slight slope was washed away in part and rushing water caused other lesser damages on his farm.

Some yields of wheat in Warsaw district have been remarkably good but others have been found below average. Fred Hamblin reports a yield of 60 bushels to the acre from a four acre field. W. Darling reports a crop of oats weighing 40 pounds to the bushel.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Payne were in Toronto over the week-end.

Misses May and Laura Webster returned home from Toronto on Sunday.

MILLBROOK

Rev. W. P. A. and Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Bedward, Miss Etta Needler, and Miss May Attwooll, motored to Crowe's Landing on Monday, where they were met by Dr. H. A. Turner with his motor boat and taken across to the island where his summer home is located, spending the day as guests of Dr. and Mrs. and Miss M. B. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Graham, Mr. Francis Graham, of Port Perry, and Miss Anne Shay, of Fleetwood, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Byam, Bank street.

The Women's Guild of Saint Thomas' Church is sponsoring the entertainment to be given on both nights of the annual fall fair, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham having charge of the training of the characters for the play, "Dr. Wake's Patient," a royalty production that will be presented by local talent in the Town Hall on Thursday and Friday, October 2-3, at 8 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shay, and family, of Fleetwood, and Mrs. Mitchell, of Omemee, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam on Sunday.

Mrs. W. McGee, of Cavan accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson on their motor trip as far as Midland where she will visit friends while the others go on to Creemore and are guests of Rev. M. G. B. and Mrs. Williams at the rectory.

Miss Mabel Clarry met with an unfortunate accident last week when a stick with which she was working rebounded and struck her above the left eye, one or two stitches being necessary to close the wound. Dr. Wright gave the necessary medical attention.

An afternoon tea, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of Saint Thomas' Church will be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Kells, King street, on Saturday, September 13, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. W. McKee Bingham is looking after the program which will include Act 1, Scene 11, from "The Merchant of Venice."

GRAF ZEPPELIN PAYS VISIT TO MOSCOW CITY

MOSCOW, Sept. 11. (C.P.) — The Graf Zeppelin, landing here at noon to-day, paid her first official visit to the Soviet capital and was greeted with Red flags flying and bands playing proletarian airs. After a brief visit she left for Germany again.

The veteran dirigible, which on her round-the-world flight last summer sailed across the entire U.S.S.R. from east to west, appeared over Moscow earlier than expected. Her progress 27-hour flight from Friedrichshafen, was speeded by a tail-wind during the Germany.

IMPROVE YOUR HEALTH

MRS. G. W. POSLIFF
263 Huron St., Stratford, Ontario

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a good medicine. Anyone who is in poor health should not hesitate to try it. When I was taking the Compound I tried the sample Liver Pills I found in the package. I have taken them every night since and I can feel myself improving. I am so thankful for the good they do me that I have told several women about it."—Mrs. G. W. Posliff.

MRS. T. E. SLEEMAN
R. R. 4, Cobourg, Ontario

"Years ago when I had a sick father and a nursing baby to care for, I got all rundown and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get strength to do my work. Another time at Change of Life, I had severe headaches and felt tired all the time. I took seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound and felt like a new woman. I recommend it to any woman who is at this age."—Mrs. T. E. Sleeman.

THREE CANDIDATES AS CHURCH PRIMATE

House of Bishops of Anglican Church to Discuss Question at Ottawa Meeting.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11. (C.P.)—When the House of Bishops of the Anglican church in Canada convenes here this week end, the matter of first importance for consideration will be the resignation of His Grace Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, as Primate of the church. His Grace, who is Archbishop of vast Rupert's Land, is 78 years old. He was anxious to retire from the primacy when the House of Bishops met in Hamilton three years ago, but was induced to remain in office.

Should the resignation be accepted Saturday when the Bishops open their Ottawa meeting, selection of a successor would appear to rest between the three remaining Archbishops of the Church — Most Rev. C. L. Worrell, Halifax, Archbishop of Nova Scotia, and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada, Most Rev. A. U. De Pencier, Vancouver, Archbishop of New Westminster, and Metropolitan of British Columbia, and most Rev. David Williams, London, Ont., Archbishop of Huron and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario.

CANADA MADE GOODS SHOWN IN MAIN BUILDING

Peterborough Vocational School Exhibit Big Feature in Building.

TORONTO FIRMS SHOWING.

Canadian Department Stores Have Two Booths—Radio Much in Evidence.

All-Canada products displayed by local and Toronto firms feature the exhibits in the Main Building.

Radio sales and Service offer two displays, one of a full line of DeForest Crosley Radios, and the other presenting a working display of the Frigidaire electric refrigerator.

Canadian Department Stories also have two booths. One shows the complete line of Rogers and Majestic Radios, while the other features the Gyrex and the new Eatonia Washing Machines.

The Beatty Washer Store also shows a splendid display of electric washing machines. In addition to the Beatty Washers and the Beatty Vacuum Cleaners, there are tubs, drying racks, and a small electric stove in this booth for the purpose of practical demonstration.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company offers an extensive display, showing their full line of sewing machines from "The Singer 20"—a practical miniature machine for little girls to the largest de luxe machine encased in a beautiful walnut cabinet, which is featuree as a worthy addition to the furniture of the finest home as well as an accepted lavor-saving device.

Roy Studio Exhibit.

The display of the Roy Studio is featured by the three prize-winning photographs which have made this summer one of triumph for Mr. Roy; the two child-portraits which carried off part of the $20,000.00 offered by the Photographers Association of America, in a contest covering the whole of the U.S. and Canada, and the splendid group-portrait which carried off premier honors and the gold medal in the Mother-and-Child class of the same Association in convention at Milwaukee. In addition, Mr. Roy exhibits a striking night-photo which took honorable mention at Milwaukee. The display is also notable for a series of colored photographs of landscapes here and in Europe, taken by Mr. Roy himself; and by four splendid portraits of prominent Canadians.

Sam. Jordan presents a display of plants and cut flowers, featuring gladioli and roses. This booth provides a veritable garden in the midst of the practicality of most of the other exhibits in the Main Building.

The Canadian Guild, Toronto, headed by T. J. Crabbin and Donald Clarke, offer valuable premiums with subscriptions to leading magazines of the U.S. and Canada. Fifty publications are on display, together with a selection of the premiums.

The display of the Gold Medal Combination Cleaner promises to remove spots and stains from all fabrics.

The John R. Cressy Company of Toronto offers a wide selection of perfumes.

For Decorative Painting.

The United Inventors of Toronto exhibit Floaton Art Colors for decorative painting. Drops of these paints are placed on the surface of water. Since the colors are water-proof, they float. After the colors have been blown about, the article to be colores is plunged into the water and is taken out finished in a vari-colored marble effect which will take on any material and is said not to wash off.

One of the features of the Main Building is the exhibit of the Peterborough Vocational School. There are blueprints and examples of house construction in miniature, as well as machines and parts. There is furniture, finished in the most professional manner. The sewing department includes fancy-work, dresses, smocks, and cloth mats.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 59 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

All the following day Jane thought fast and furiously. She had felt the purpose for which Tarzan had asked a few words with her. She knew she must be prepared to give him her answer. What was it to be? Did she love him?....She did not know now.

She realized the spell that had been upon her in the depths of the far-off jungle. Here there was no spell of enchantment. Nor did this immaculate young Frenchman appeal to the primal woman in her as had the stalwart forest-god. Why, he had not even a name!

She thought of Clayton. Here was a man of social position, culture, and wealth. She knew his was the sort of love a civilized woman should crave. Clayton sought her in the garden. "Won't you say Yes, Jane?" he pleaded. "I will devote my life to making you happy." What could she say?

That evening Tarzan caught Jane alone. For the first time, she realized the depths of his love. "You do not love me then?" Tarzan asked quietly. She was miserably silent ...."You will be happier without me," came her faint reply. "Civilization will bore you. Soon you will long for freedom."

"I'd rather see you happy than be happy myself. I know now you couldn't be happy with—an Ape." Bitterness tinged his voice. "Don't say that!" she cried. "You don't understand....Forgive me, for I may never see you again."....Tarzan heard his name called. Unmindful, he felt something pressed into his hand.

IN MEMORIAM.

FLEETWOOD. — In ever loving memory of our dear sister, Helen, who died September 11, 1919.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears of sorrow often flow,
Memory keeps our loved one near us
Whom God claimed eleven years ago.
Though her loving voice is silent,
And her good heart ceased to beat,
Yet we miss her well known foot steps,
And the face we used to greet.
—Ever remembered by her sisters, Madeline and Belle.

WILLIAM CATHCART

William Cathcart of 310 Monaghan road passed away in his 73rd year at Frobisher, Saskatchewan while on a business trip.

The late Mr. Cathcart was a native of Cavan township. During his residence in this city he was an ardent member of St. Andrew's United Church.

He was also active in the work of the J. B. Hall, Masonic Lodge of Millbrook.

The late Mr. Cathcart was bereaved of his wife in May of this year. He leaves one son Robert W. and two daughters Jane and Mary E. all at home.

The remains will reach this city on Monday next. The funeral will be held from his former residence, 310 Monaghan road on Tuesday, Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean officiating. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

A Few Short Cuts To 3 Meals a Day

BY EDWINA NOLAN

THREE meals a day! A thousand meals a year! It's a never-ending problem for housewife and mother. But there are innumerable short cuts in solving the problem.

Every homemaker knows that it is the actual cooking of meals which is most confining. She can double up on this time-consuming process by planning menus for two or three days ahead and by cooking in quantities sufficient to form the foundation for two or more meals if she has proper facilities for keeping food. Here is how the plan works out:

(1) Enough potatoes are boiled to mash for dinner and to serve creamed or au gratin the next day.

(2) Enough spinach is cooked so that there can be a cream of spinach soup for another meal and spinach and egg au gratin for supper or luncheon.

(3) A whole ham is boiled, cooled and put in the electric refrigerator and at dinner time it is given the final half-hour roasting and served hot; the remainder being made into ham and macaroni casserole for another dinner, and devilled ham sandwiches for luncheon.

(4) Twice as many apples as will be needed to serve with roast ham are baked. Thoroughly chilled baked apples with a custard sauce make a delicious dessert, or they may be reheated and served with cream.

(5) Soft custards are made in larger quantities because they have many uses and they keep well in tightly-covered jars.

With such preparations made and the food tucked safely away in the electric refrigerator, assuring proper preservation, most of the work is done for the day. In as short a time as 20 or 30 minutes it is possible to have dinner on the table.

FAMOUS EXPLORER NEARING EDMONTON

Major Burwash Expected to be Bringing Important Information as to Franklin Tragedy.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 11 (C.P.). — Two men, one a famous veteran explorer, internationally known for his work in the Arctic, and the other a flyer of note among the northern pilots, neared Edmonton to-day after an historic aerial voyage to King William's Land, the scene of the Sir John Franklin tragedy, in which he and more than 100 men, members of his exploration expedition seeking the North-West Passage, perished nearly a century ago.

Major L. T. Burwash, Dominion Government explorer, and his pilot, W. E. Gilbert, are the men who have accomplished an aerial mission during which they have made important discoveries at the site of the Franklin camps on the far-off Arctic island of King William's Land, and have surveyed from the air territory never crossed by white men in the summer season.

VANCOUVER OFFICIAL ARRESTED FOR THEFT

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 11 (C.P.) John Morton, 63, suspended head of the city scavenging department, was arrested last night on a charge of theft by conversion. Morton's arrest followed evidence he gave before the select committee of the City Council investigating civic administration, on Tuesday last, when he failed to explain to the satisfaction of the committee certain alleged irregular entries in his books.

Arrest of Morton brings the total arrests of civic employees since the committee commenced its investigations in May to four.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held its opening Fall meeting in the school Monday, September 8, with Mrs. H. Graham, vice-president in the chair.

Plans for work for the coming Fall and Winter were discussed.

Arrangements were made to have the entrance certificates presented to the 1930 graduating class on Monday night, September 15.

The association plans to have a music night later in the Fall to enable parents in the school district to see something of what Miss Snider is accomplishing with classes in that school.

Merrill Smith gave two well-rendered piano selections.

The attendance picture was won by Mr. Dearborn's room.

Jane is so thrilled because her newf yellow and white dimity frock is sleeveless. It has a scalloped yoke that simulates a capelet collar. It's wuite like mother's cape collar which makes it doubly attractive. The yoke is of yellow dimity.

The front and back of the dress are gathered and joined to the scalloped yoke with long shoulders. The scalloped hem has bias binding in plain yellow organdies.

It's so easily made! It's so comfortably cool and pretty for summery days.

Style No. 2503 may be had in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years.

Pale blue dotted swiss, nile green handkerchief lawn, red, and white pique print with white pique and tub silk in pink and white are fashionable combinations.

The 4-year size requires one yard of 32-inch material with 5-8 yard of 27-inch contrasting and 2¼ yards of binding.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

GOTHAM'S GOLF

again. Others took up the cry and a regular casino started right there on the curb. Men inside the cage were betting on their own shots and the shots of perfect strangers. Rail birds were betting on anything and everything.

Twice I saw a chap win $100 on a girl who seemed as awkward as an elephant on roller skates. He swore he had never seen her before, but it looked like a fine gyp. The girl was playing wildly. She whiffed many shots completely. When she did connect she bashed the ball all over the place for three or four holes. Then at a given hole the boy friend in the crowd suddenly wanted to bet on her. He laid a total of $100 that the girl would beat par—which was three—on the next putt. She promptly smacked a hole in one, then commenced to drive wild again.

The presence of show girls in wholesale quantities attracts suckers to this game, and the suckers promptly get taken by the rackateers. Just an old Broadway custom, but somehow the suckers don't seem to mind.

You never see girls betting each other, but sometimes they idle around the course until someone flirts with them and teams up to make it a foursome. After that the stranger might as well be in a night club.

Aside from this course, pygmy golf is a flop in New York. Prices have been cut to a dime in some districts and 15 cents in others. There are only 75 courses in New York itself, but hundreds in the outskirts. It's in these suburban spots that the price war is on. Those trying to attract a fickle clientelle at regular two bit prices are offering prizes of everything from boxes of candies to coupes. The coupe prize goes to the player who gets the lowest score in 500 rounds. Since this costs each contestant $125 at the 25 cent rate, it looks like profitable business.

Showmen who felt the pinch of competition from pony courses are delighted to see the game on the wane. About two weeks ago a group of movie moguls went into a huddle and hired a couple of psychologists to find out what this strange spell was that had gripped the public. The psychologists had to think something up to earn the retainer, and said it was a temporary hysteria for sport which would perish after the curiosity died off. "When passers-by are no longer curious about the game they will cease stopping to watch. When they no longer watch attendance will dwindle," the wise men said. They must have been right, because rail-birding as an outdoor sport has died except at the Roxy pari mutuel course and attendance is not so hot.

A couple of endurance record boys have set up their stands near the half-dollar course for publicity purposes. One is on his eighth day of rocking in a rocking chair, and another is out to make a non-stop fiddle playing record. But they shot Lincoln.

ATTENDANCE HAS ALMOST DOUBLED

have been exceedingly auspicious — record exhibits, splendid weather, increased attendance, bigger and better grand stand attractions, and positively the greatest string of harness horses Peterborough has ever seen. The horse barn is crowded with them, others are in the exhibition building allotted to carriage and roadster classes, occupying at least a dozen stalls, and between the poultry and horse building a big canvas stable has been provided as temporary quarters for the racers, for which there was no other available accommodation.

New Band Makes Bow.

Wednesday's program was signalized by the debut of Mr. Rupert Gliddon's band, composed of local musicians which have been playing together at the Conservatory, largely because of their love of music. The band, dressed in blue and white uniforms, looked smart, and their numbers were well played. Mr. Gliddon has an evenly balanced arrangement of instruments in the hands of experienced musicians whose ability was manifest from the first note. Because this is a local organization it received the heartiest encouragement from the Exhibition directors, who were especially gratified that the new bands introduction took place in front of the grand stand of this year's show. They played again last night and this afternoon.

On Friday and Saturday afternoons the performance before the grandstand at the Exhibition Grounds commences at two o'clock and every night, at 7.45.

A full Rodeoe show will be given each night, in addition to the vaudeville performance and the fireworks display.

OLD RUSTED GUN

life-long resident of the county, in his 65th year, he was industrious and of a kindly disposition. One day in February he was found lying in his bed in his small shack with part of his forehead blown off, and also part of his jaw and mouth. Everything about the place was smeared and spattered with blood—leaving it beyond a shadow of doubt that the crime had been enacted in the shack.

The coroner's jury returned the verdict that "Jerome Keene came to his death while lying in his shack—on some date after December 20, 1926 and before February 15, 1927, as a result of being shot in the head by two charges of a shot gun in the hands of a person or persons unknown."

Residents of Marmora were never content to allow the murder to be filed away as "unsolved" and the desire to have the brutal killing cleaned up and the murderer brought to justice has been given fresh impetus by the finding of the rusted shotgun.

FAIR BOARD HOLDS COMBINED DINNER AT EXHIBITION

Kiwanis Club and Life Underwriters Sit Around Same Table.

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION.

R. W. Burnaby, Maritimes Trade Commissioner, Speaks on "Empire Building."

The combined banquet of the Exhibition Board of Directors, the Kiwanis Club and Life Underwriters' Association held in the large dining tent at the Fair grounds under the supervision of St. James United Church, was fully demonstrative of the wonderful spirit of co-operation which exists between all branches of endeavour and activity in this city, and the spirit which has dominated the building of Peterborough Industrial Exhibition during it's tenure of twenty-eight years, bringing it this year to its peak of success.

"We are not building a city alone, we are building a nation—Canada, and we must broaden our outlook and get acquainted with the Dominion as a whole and her economic problems" was one of the striking thoughts left with the gathering by the principal speaker, Ralph W. E. Burnaby, Trade Commissioner for the Maritime Provinces.

Carl Brown, president of the Kiwanis Club was in the chair, and called to mind that this is the seventh occasion on which the Peterborough Kiwanis Club has had the honour of dining with the Fair Board executive on the Fair grounds. "We have always realised" he said, "that the Industrial Exhibition Board is performing one of the biggest items of service in the district, and the Kiwanis Club as a service in the district ,and the Kiwanis Club as a service organization is heartily in accord with their efforts and glad to dine in their company at least one day out of the year."

Mayor Extends Thanks.

His Worship Mayor Roland Denne, president of the fair, extended his thanks to the members of the Kiwanis Club for their co-operation, and to the ladies of St. James' church, who have always been with us, even in the gloomy days of the show."

Mr. Denne, in his usual optimistic strain, referred to Peterborough as one of the finest little cities in the

Lion Sits in Crowd To See Fireworks

PORT ROYAL, Pa., Sept. 12. (C.P.)—A circus lion escaped from its cage during a fireworks celebration last night at the Port Royal fair, and for 29 minutes sat in the unlighted grandstand unnoticed.

The shout of a small boy, "Look at the dog", revealed the animal to the crowd, and several thousand persons rushed for the exits. Several women fainted in the crush. A few persons who remained in the stands fled in confusion when the animal roared.

State troopers with drawn revolvers formed a circle about the lion until circus attendants lassoed it and dragged it back to its cage.

BUFFALO MAN IS TOSSED IN RIVER

Victim Claims He Was Kidnapped Monday and Held For $5,000 Ransom.

SUSPECTED BY POLICE.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 12 (C.P.).—William Shisler, 24, of Fort Erie, was bound hand and foot, stunned by a blow at the base of his skull, and tossed into a Buffalo creek early today by two thugs, according to a report at police headquarters.

The shock of being thrown into the water partially revived Shisler, and he managed to work loose from his bonds. Half an hour later he was rescued by two men whose names police did not disclose.

Shisler told police he was held prisoner from Monday night until he was thrown into the creek. He said he met two men in accordance with a telephone appointment, and leaving his own car in a downtown garage, went with them for a ride in their car.

The men, Shisler said, demanded $5,000 for his release. He offered $500, which was refused.

Shisler was described by police as a well-known "riverman," and Police Commissioner J. Roche said he was investigating connection between Shisler and Joseph "Red" Sulvani, believed to have escaped to Canada after being released in bail of $25,000 in connection with the employment of young boys to smuggle boatloads of liquor across the Niagara River from Canada.

DIETING AND PHYSICAL CULTURE ARE WHAT MAKE KURTZOS GREAT

Vaudeville Artists at Exhibition Tell How They Keep in Condition.

DO DAREDEVIL STUNTS.

If you want to learn how to stand composedly on your head on top of a sixty-foot pole that has no rubber mats beneath it and depends for safety on a group of slender guy wires that anchor it to the ground, then practise physical culture, eat meat only once or twice a week and eat only two meals a day.

This isn't a recipe from the lips of Alfons Kurtzo, who does that very thing twice a day at the fair grounds and a number of other equally thrilling stunts on his aerial perch, but it might be gathered from a conversation with the interesting dark man who smiles in friendly fashion at you as he tells you of his method of life. And his pretty blonde wife echoes his views with unerring belief in their efficacy.

Started at Early Age

Born in Alsace-Lorraine, Kurtzo has been doing stunts since he was nine years of age, a matter of about a quarter of a century. And he comes from a family whose remaining members hate to go up even a little way into the air. It makes them sick.

His attractive wife, who works with him on the swing that hangs about fifty feet in the air, on the white steel pole, and shinnies up to its summit with cool composure, was born in Germany. Both have lived in America for many years, making their home in New York city and taking many trips to England France, Switzerland and Australia. Mrs. Kurtzo only commenced this type of work about five years ago under her husband's tuition. She confesses to a slight apprehension while he hangs suspended by his

4 Canoeists Cover 7,500 Miles in Trip

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 12.—(C.P.)— The Arctic-to-Panama canoeists, three Fisher brothers, Victor, Alvin and Evans, and Charles Bruder, have arrived here. All are from the village of Tyvan in Saskatchewan.

The youths have travelled 7,500 miles in their canoe ,and more than 1,000 miles by dog team on side trips. They have flirted with death often, running dozens of unknown and dangerous rapids, being attacked by wolves, and finally having a tussle with the rollers of the Pacific in Dixon Entrance.

Despite their adventures, they are in the best of health.

MAGISTRATES NAME OFFICERS FOR 1930

O. A. Langley, Peterborough, is on Executive Committee of Provincial Body.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 12 (C.P.). — Frederick Watt, K.C., Guelph's Magistrate, was this morning selected by the Magistrates of Ontario to head their Provincial organization. He succeeds Magistrate H. P. Moore, Acton. The election was by acclamation, as was that of His Honor Judge Coatsworth, Toronto, Honorary Vice-President; Col. C. S. Woodrow, Sarnia, Vice-President; Howard Gover, Coldwater, Secretary-Treasurer; and Dr. Margaret Patterson, Toronto, Librarian.

The executive committee will be composed of J. H. Campbell, K.C., St. Catharines; O. A. Langley, Peterborough; William Joynt, Ottawa; W. C. Mihel, K.C., Belleville, C. Jeffs.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, could not be present owing to the special session of the Federal House. His Honor Judge Coatsworth, Toronto, was the speaker at the morning session.

RUSTED SHOTGUN TO BE EXAMINED BY GUN EXPERT

District Officers Making Search of Locality For Owner of Weapon.

KEENE SLAIN IN 1927.

Officials of Belief Aged Man Killed By an Irresponsible.

Machinery already has been set in motion by the Provincial Police to learn what connection the old rusted shotgun, found in a marsh on Monday, near Marmora, a half-mile from the little shack of Jerome Keene, who was fiendishly shot to death in the winter of 1927, has with the murder.

Gunsmith on Job

Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy was informed of the finding of the gun. The district officers, he said, would endeavour to find the owner, and he purposed having an expert gunsmith make experiments. He stated that he recalled the circumstances of the murder, which always baffled the officers who worked on the case, although they were fairly well convinced that an irresponsible in Hastings County had committed the crime. No motive had ever been suggested for the murder. Keene had no money. When his body was found his face had been virtually blown off. He lived alone in his shack and had no enemies.

Meanwhile residents in the Marmora district are anxiously awaiting results of the investigation in the hope that a murder, which they were never content to allow to be listed as "unsolved" will be cleared up and the murderer brought to justice.

LOW LAKE LEVEL WORRIES KENORA

Industries Around Lake of Woods May Have to Close if Flow Reduced.

CALL EMERGENCY MEETING.

KENORA, Ont., Sept. 12.—(C.P.)—Prevailing low water conditions on the Lake of the Woods threatens to and some 300 men to the list of unemployed in this district. Kenora's Board of Trade, Town Council and other bodies, fearing closing down of industries—have communicated with the Lake of the Woods Control Board, the Dominion's Premier and Minister of Labor and the Premier of Ontario, asking assistance in preventing possible calamity.

Commencing Sept. 15, outflow of water at the Norman dam will be cut down from 9,500 to 6,000 cubic feet per second. This, it is believed, will compel at least one of the largest local industries to close down, throwing hundreds of skilled employees out of work.

At an emergency meeting last night the situation was characterized as the worst faced by citizens of Kenora in many years.

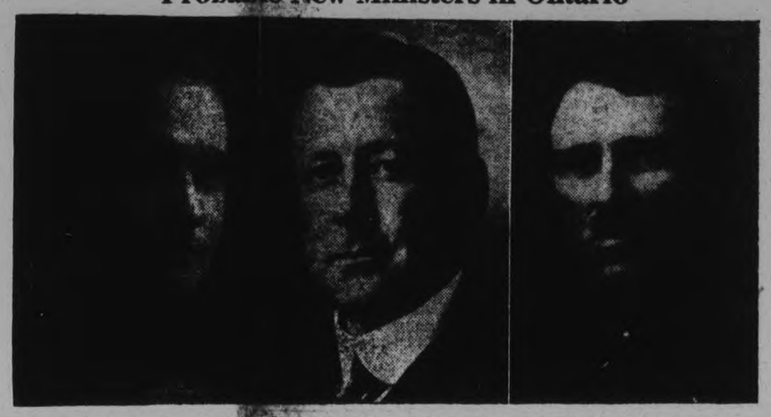
ONE HUNDRED BOYS WANTED SATURDAY

For the Parade at the Exhibition Grounds Saturday Afternoon.

In order to make the parade of prize-winners a complete success, one hundred boys, fourteen years and over are required Saturday afternoon. They are asked to see Mr. Knox at the Lock St. gate at 2 o'clock. The parade is at 3 o'clock. Each boy who takes part in the parade will be given a Grand Stand pass for the evening performance.

Western Australia is considering a partial moratorium to relieve the position of the farmers.

Probable New Ministers in Ontario



The long-expected re-organization of the Ferguson Cabinet in the Ontario Legislature is reported to have taken place and official announcements are expected next week. Above are three members of the Legislature whose names are mentioned, as follows (left to right): William G. Martin (Brantford), Minister of Welfare; Hon. E. A. Dunlop (Renfrew North), Provincial Treasurer, and Brig.-General T. E. Kennedy (Peel), will succeed Hon. G. S. Martin as Minister of Agriculture.

7,521 ATTEND 'EX' ON FOURTH DAY; 20,226 TO DATE

Last Year's Figures to Date Showed an Attendance of 12,705.

GRAND STAND FILLED.

With Continuance of Good Weather Directors Hope to Pass 35,000 Mark.

Another attendance increase over last year was scored by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition yesterday when 7,521 paid admissions were recorded. The total attendance to date now stands at 20,226.

Attendance figures for Thursday, during last year's exhibition, were 6,235, and the total to the close of the day was 12,705. Yesterday's figure was made up of 4,489 paid admissions in the afternoon and 3,032 in the evening.

With a continuation of the ideal exhibition weather experienced so far this week, Exhibition directors are now visualizing a total of more than 35,000 before the Fair is brought to a close Saturday night.

Hundreds Refused.

Shortly after eight o'clock last evening the grand stand was filled to capacity and officials found it necessary to turn hundreds away from the grand stand wickets. The paid admission to the stand was 2,644, compared with 2,121 for the same evening last year. The total grand stand attendance yesterday was 4,377.

The largest attendance figure on record for the Peterborough "Ex" is that of the second day of the Fair in 1919, when 16,625 paid admission.

FORBES IS READY TO FORM TREATY

New Zealand Premier Would Open Subject Before Attending Conference.

HOPES FOR AGREEMENT.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 12.—(CP)—While matters pertaining to trade relations between New Zealand and Canada are at present more or less upset, Hon. G. W. Forbes, Prime Minister of the former country, stated on the arrival of the R. M. S. Aorangi here today.

"I am prepared to state that on our arrival at Ottawa, Dr. Craig, Comptroller of Customs, has authority to initiate conversations with the object of formulating a new trade agreement between our country and yours.

"While it may not be possible to come to any definite understanding during the limited time at our disposal at Ottawa, there will be other opportunities of discussiong trade matters between Canada and New Zealand while the London Conference progresses. The people of New Zealand want to do business with you, and we sincerely hope we can arrive at an agreement beneficial to both countries.

"We are looking forward with pleasure to meeting your Prime Minister, and hope that he will be able to be with us at the London Conference. While the New Zealand Parliament is also in session it was the wish of all members in the House that I should go to London, and it was agreed that no contentious legislation would be introduced during my absence."

BIG PROGRAMME FOR FINAL DAY

Splendid Racing Bill Will Be Seen By Grand Stand Audience.

LIVESTOCK PARADE.

Another of the racing bills which have been the most successful staged at the Peterborough Exhibition for years past is expected to attract a record crowd to the grounds tomorrow afternoon for the final afternoon and evening of the Fair. Two more classes, 2.12 and 2.19 will be run.

Fifty-four horses which are on hand for the races are said to make up the largest field of racers ever brought together at the Peterborough Exhibition. "Old timers" who frequent the judges' stand on the track claim that it is as well the fastest field of racers. Hundreds of visitors are being attracted from points throughout the region to see the racing bills alone.

Grandstanders to-morrow afternoon will see one of the highest-class livestock parades as well as the excellent race bill. It is scheduled for 3.30 p.m. The following judging events are scheduled: Best pony turnout driven by boy or girl, 16 years of age; Pony Turnout, 12 hands; G. N. Gordon Cup; Farmers' special single turnout; Combination Class; Kelly Memorial Cup; Roland Denne Special; Best Girl driver, Empress Hotel Cup; Hill Weddell Cup; Best Lady driver; W. G. Morrow Cup; Best Roadster outfit; Best Turnout (open competition), J. J. Turner and Sons, Non-winners.

The four big acts of vaudeville with the rodeo will be repeated again this evening as well as to-morrow afternoon and evening. The nightly fireworks displays, the splendour and extravagance of which have aroused much favourable comment will be staged as usual at the close of the programs to-night and Saturday night.

Laborer Is Injured In Fall From Roof

OMEMEE, Ont., Sept. 12 (C.P.). — WiWth the breaking of the rope supporting him on the roof of the Anglican Church here, where he was doing repair work yesterday afternoon, Cecil Mills slid down the side of the roof, fell to a scaffold five feet below and then dropped 20 feet to the ground, breaking two ribs and severely bruising himself. He is the son of Samuel Mills, Omemee contractor, who has the contract of re-roofing the Anglican Church here. M. E. Hayes, who was working with him, was fortunate enough to be able to grasp a rope and save himself.

ELECTRICALLY DRIVEN TUG LAUNCHED.

QUEBEC, Sept. 12 (C.P.). — The first electrically driven tug to be built in Canada was launched at Lauzon, when the "Prescotont," Diesel electric tug for the Canadian Pacific Car and Passenger Transfer Company's service between Prescott and Ogdensburg slipped gracefully into the waters of the St. Lawrence, after the traditional bottle of champagne had been broken against her bows.

B. C. CATTLE KING HUNTED BY POSSE AFTER SHOOTINGS

Well Known Rancher Suddenly Shoots Storekeeper, Wounds Another.

FLEES INTO BUSH.

Officers Hunting Spencer Believe He is Temporarily Insane.

150-MILE HOUSE, B.C., Sept. 12.—Charged with the murder of Edward Smith, storekeeper, and with seriously wounding Albert H. Stoddart, foreman of the Bear Creek Ranch, C. Spencer, one of the largest ranch owners in the Chilcoten country, is being pursued through the wild bush country by Provincial Police and a posse of fifty men.

According to the police, Spencer, with a party of men, was loading a light delivery truck at the ranch on Wednesday, when he seized a gun and shot Smith dead.

He then turned the weapon on Stoddart, who was badly wounded, but managed to get into the truck and drive three miles from the ranch, when the automobile overturned. Stoddart was found some hours later and rushed to a farmhouse, where medical attention was called. Later he was taken to Williams' Lake Hospital, where he is now in a serious condition.

The cause of the attack on the two men has not been learned, as Stoddart's condition is such that he cannot talk.

Police officials stated that Spencer fled to the bush immediately after the shooting and is still at large. He has been in very poor health for some time, and is believed to have become temporarily insane.

Spencer is said to be the best-known man in the Chilcoten country, being a pioneer of the district and owning an inland empire. He is classed among the cattle kings of British Columbia.

WAR VETERAN DIES OF HUNGER

Canadian Collapses at Foot of Large Toronto War Memorial.

PNEUMONIA SETS IN.

TORONTO, Sept. 12 — With the grist from a coroner's office yesterday came a story of a Canadian war veteran who collapsed from hunger near the foot of one of Toronto's largest war memorials. Fred Willingham, he said his name was, aged 50.

A hospital official, who discovered the man prostrate, had him admitted to the Toornto General, where it was learned that he had not eaten for some time. His system was undermined by many nights' sleep on the ground.

Willingham's case was diagnosed as malnutrition on his admittance to hospital, but pneumonia, induced by exposure, set in. Bronchial pneumonia it was, according to the post-mortem examinations by Dr. I. H. Erb. The veteran died yesterday.

He will have friends at his funeral —veterans who administer the Last Post Fund.

Young Bride Slain By Angry Husband In Toronto House

Mother of Slain Girl Who Had Been Married Two Months, Claims Her Daughter Had Had Several Quarrels With Her Husband and Mentioned Divorcing Him.

R.C.M.P. SUPERINTENDENT STATES YOUNG OFFICER HAD A STEADY RELIABLE RECORD TO HIS CREDIT

Dead Man Told One of Constables That He Was in Trouble—Regulations Forbade Constables Being Married Until Three Years Service—Commission Unaware of His Marriage.

TORONTO, Ont., September 12 (C.P.). — Angered when his bride of two months ordered him out of her parents' house on Empress Crescent, Simon McIntosh, aged 30, Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable, shot his wife Helen, aged 23, with his service revolver to-day. Walking to the rear of the house, he turned the gun on himself, killing himself instantly. Mrs. McIntosh died on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, where she was removed by the police.

Mrs. McIntosh's body was found lying on the living-room floor by her mother, who heard the shots, but was upstairs at the time of the shooting. McIntosh's body was found on the kitchen floor.

From the incoherent story related by Mrs. Hustler, mother of the dead girl, police gathered that her son-in-law was intoxicated when he came home this morning after being out all night.

McIntosh was of Scottish birth, and is understood to have resided for some time in Winnepeg. He has been with the R.C.M.P. for two years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Hustler stated, had complained of his conduct and mentioned divorcing him. The young couple, as far as it could be learned, had gone together for two years prior to their marriage two months ago, and had had several differences.

Held Hand Over Muzzle.

It is thought the young wife had seen the gun in her husband's hand and tried to stop him from shooting by putting her hand over the muzzle of the revolver. The shot went directly through the palm of her hand and entered the body above the heart. It is believed McIntosh went directly to the kitchen and committed suicide. The back part of his skull was partially blown off and police believe that he had to use both hands to get the gun to the back of his head.

From the mute evidence in the house, and the deaths, Chief Coroner Dr. M. M. Crawford and the police were able to partly piece together just what occurred.

The following statement was is-

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN EARTHQUAKE

Fifteen Injured As Consequence of Volcano Stromboli on Thursday.

HOMES DESTROYED.

MESSINA, Italy, Sept. 12.—(A.P.)—A check-up to-day revealed that five people were killed and fifteen injured as a consequence of the earthquake and eruption of the volcano Stromboli yesterday.

Ashes were piled to-day four inches deep on roofs and balconies of small country houses constructed for the most part of petrified lava. In the hamlet of Ginestra fifteen houses were damaged badly.

Nearness of the strong Blackshirt and Naval force at Lipari Island aided vastly in the rescue work. The eruption was visible from the prison colony there, and immediately the consul in command of the Fascist militia cohort guarding prisoners set out in a fast motor boat with thirty men to reach the island.

PRISONER ESCAPES JAIL.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 12.—Phillip O'Brien, 21, Detroit, escaped from the city jail here yesterady by scaling a conductor pipe on the wall which surrounds the building. Last Friday he was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for theft of an automobile.

TOURIST AND HOTEL BUSINESS A TOTAL LOSS IN NEW YORK

Many Large Hotels Bankrupt—Theatre Dead But Talkies Draw.

Special to The Examiner, Copyright 1930

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(SNS).—The Broadway greeting is no longer "Hello Sucker" because the spenders of the big roll are staying in Podunk or Peoria or Bird's Eye Centre or wherever it was they came from.

Texas Guinan still fog horns the fact that her private stock of suckers is inexhaustible but they are the domestic or home grown orand whose idea of a good time is to spend five dollars on a sandwich and two on a glass of bath tub beer.

Tourist business, according to hotel associations, is at its lowest ebb in the history of New York, considering the number of hotels that have bond interest to meet. In the Times Square district alone there are 15,650 rooms. To-night just 4,710 of these, or about 30 per cent are occupied with no immediate pick up in sight. Worse than that some of the theatrical hotels are comparatively well filled by actors who can't pay a dime on their bills.

There is $518,665 in room rents outstanding in these Times Square hotels with credit managers admitting they will never be able to collect five per cent. To stop any further chiseling most of the houses present their bills every three days now, and if you can't lay cash on the line, out you go, but court action is seldom taken.

"But how did this half million grow so far?" I asked a credit manager. "Most of it came from regular clients. Not people who lived in the hotel altogether, although

Cauliflower Head Is Bright Orange

A real freak of the vegetable world was brought to The Examiner this morning by M. Sucee, R. R. 5, North Monaghan. It is a cauliflower head, which, instead of being the usual snowy white color, is a consistent bright orange. Mr. Sucee claims that he has grown thousands of heads of cauliflower in his market gardens, but has never before seen such a freak. Nor have any of the fruit and vegetable men to whom he has shown the freak ever seen such a specimen before.

The cauliflower was grown from Holland seed. None of the other cauliflowers in Mr. Sucee's large crop have the same peculiarity.

STAR HORSE WILL RACE TO-MORROW

"Budwinger" Will Run an Exhibition Race Saturday Afternoon.

"Budwinger" Dick Walsh's great colt from Hastings which won the $2000.00 Futurity Stake at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto and one of the finest race horses in Canada will run an exhibition race against another horse to be chosen, at the Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon.

To-morrow's Fair program is the classic of the whole week. Be there on time.

$20,000,000 RELIEF BILL GIVEN READING

Measures Passed Without Division After Long Debate

Day of Surprises and High Lights is Climaxed By Sharp Passage Over Relief Resolution Between Premier Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King.

HON. ROBERT FORKE ANNOUNCES TO THE SENATE HIS RESIGNATION FROM WHEAT POOL ACTIVITIES

Veniot Creates Sensation By Accusing New Brunswick Premier of Using Undue Influence at Election—Tariff Changes Next to Come Before House.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12 (C.P.). — The House of Commons has a heavy agenda before it to-day. It will turn this afternoon to consideration of the second reading of a Government Bill to provide $20,000,000 for unemployment relief based on a resolution to that effect passed late last night. From that it will turn to a resolution recommending considerable changes in the dumping provisions of the Customs Act. If sufficient progress be made in this connection, the Government's tariff changes may come before the House.

Each of the three measures forms a part of the Government's scheme to meet unemployment in Canada, the first designed to provide work, and, if necessary, direct relief; the second, to prevent dumping of certain products into the country in jurious to Canadian workers and producers, and the third to foster the Canadian market for Canadian producers.

Relief Bill Read First Time.

After a day-long debate yesterday, the resolution recommending the introdu rtion of a Bill to provide the $20,000,000 for unemployment relief was passed without a division. The end came shortly after 11 o'clock at night and climaxed a day complete with surprises and high lights. The end was accompanied by a sharp passage between Premier Bennett and Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, in which the former said he was "amazed" that the House should debate the resolution so long.

The people of Canada were guaranteed against abuse in the expenditure of the fund because of two reasons, the premier declared. One was the fact that the provinces and the municipalities would place their money and their credit jointly with the federal authorities in any construction program initiated under the scheme.

Secondly, the Federal government must account to Parliament for all

HERTZOG BACKS BORDEN'S PLEA

South African Believes Lawyers Should Handle Mandate Questions.

GERMANY HAS PROBLEM.

GENEVA, Sept. 12. (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—General the Rt. Hon. B. B. M. Hertzog, Prime Minister of South Africa, today added his voice, and in no uncertain terms, to the peace pleas made yesterday by the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's delegate, and the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Britain's Foreign Secretary.

General Hertzog fully agreed with the British position that ratification of a general act of arbitration treaty and the financial guarantee involved should be conditional upon acceptance of a general disarmament treaty.

"Europe" declared the South African Prime Minister, "has too little to bear w tness to its will to peace".

South Africa, in its anxiety, was beginning to ask Europe "How much more are you going to add to your burden of armaments?" "When the question is put," said General Hertzog, "Europe would undoubtedly be embarrassed, not knowing what answer to make.

General Hertzog thought questions concerning mandates should be left largely to lawyers, that the League Assembly should get along with the major work of promoting peace.

The League Assembly today heard Germany bring up the question of the protection of minorities, a matter which, it is generally thought, means, in German minds, the Germans of the Italian Tyrol and those living in Alsace-Lorraine. The German resolution was submitted by the Assembly to the political committee of which Sir Robert Borden is chairman.

Two Liners Carrying Final Loads to Canada Before Duty is Raised.

HEAVY DEMAND EXPECTED

VANCOUVER, Sept. 12.—Two Pacific liners are rushing toward Vancouver with shipments of New Zealand butter, the last which will come in before the Federal Government's duty of around four cents a pound on this article, comes into effect.

The R.M.S. Aorangi, due in Vancouver last night, has 8,277 boxes to be landed here, and 1,900 boxes for Victoria.

On October 10 the R.M.S. Niagara will bring another consignment, the amount of which is not yet known. In this latter case heavy demand in the butter market is expected during the days between the arrival of the butter and the imposition of the tariff.

GREAT FEATURE ON SATURDAY

Parade of Livestock at 3.30 O'clock—Will Be a Great Sight.

Never in the history of Peterborough Exhibitions has there been such an exhibit of stock of all kinds as is to be seen this year. Saturday afternoon there is to be a parade of the prize winners and if you have not visited the stock barns this is your opportunity to see a wonderful show of valuable stock. Practically the whole half mile track will be filled with prize winners.

FIRST ARREST IS MADE IN THEATRE WAR IN HAMILTON

Film Men's Union Vice-President Faces Intimidation Charge.

UNION DENIES CONNECTION.

Movie House Owner Claims He Was Threatened With Chicago Methods.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12. (C.P.)—William P. Covert, international Vice-President of the Motion Picture Projecting Machine Operators' Union, was arrested here last night on a charge of intimidation of an independent Hamilton theatre owner.

Covert's arrest is the latest development in a long-waged war between Union and so-called "open-shop" movie theatres in Hamilton.

Anthony Patzalek, owner of a Hamilton movie house, stated to police that Covert, who is not only prominent in local labor circles but is well known throughout Canada, had threatened him while arguing for the unionizing of the theatre.

"You don't want a taste of Chicago, do you?" is the alleged intimidating remark said to have been made by Covert to Patzalek, and around which the charges focus.

Covert Denies Charges

Covert denied making any such remarks to the aHmilton theatre owner, when arrested here, he also denied connection with allegations of Patzalek that the latter's theatre had been continually harassed by the nightly explosions in the emporium by unknown persons of harmless but objectionable and sickening "stink bombs."

The arrest of Covert follows closely on the explosion a week ago in a Hamilton theatre which rocked the whole downtown part of the city. Some $7,000 damage was done to the movie house by the blast while windows were shattered within a radius of several blocks. The explosion occurred in another "open shop theatre", there being three in Hamilton. The Union denied absolutely any connection with the explosion.

MINER'S BRAVERY REWARDED.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12 (C.P.). — Fred Jackson, miner, of Timmins, who by conspicuous bravery was able to save many of his fellow-workers in the Hollinger Mine disaster of 1928, has been awarded the silver medal of the St. John's Ambulance Association competitions.

Send 7 Months Boy Over Ocean Alone

HAMILTON, Sept. 12. (C.P.)—The Girls' Friendly Society of Hamilton will consign a small but valuable package to Glasgow, Scotland to-day. They have booked a seven-months-old boy babe on the Cunard liner, sailing from Montreal.

He is the youngest child ever to make a passage alone from Canada.

Infants' fare is but $5.50, with an additional charge of $25 to cover the services of a special stewardess who devotes her entire time to looking after the child.

Grand Stand Capacity At a Premium

Record Crowds Both Afternoon and Evening at Peterborough Exhibition.

Practically every performance before the grand stand at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has been greeted with a capacity grand stand. Thursday afternoon the stand was full Thursday night the sale of tickets was stopped as every seat and some standing room was completely sold out. The whole district is appreciating the variety of program. To-day and to-morrow should see capacity gates and capacity grand stands. Best balanced show Peterborough ever held, and the admission is only 25c.

SNOW STORMS HOLD BURWASH AT FORT SMITH

Reports From Pilot Gilbert Indicate Franklin Papers Found.

LOCATED 2 CAMPS.

Believed Long Looked For Cairn Contained Captain Crozier's Diary.

EDMONTON, Septemebr 12. — Fog, sleet, and snow held Major L. T. Burwash storm-bound at Fort Smith yesterday and served as a striking reminder that the explorer and his pilot had left the hazardous Arctic regions with their precious Franklin records just in time.

Burwash may stay in Fort Smith for several days. W. E. Gilbert, his pilot, is returning direct to Edmonton. Burwash will be picked up by Pilot Punch Dickens, who is now stormbound at South Cooking Lake air base.

While Burwash has made no public reference to his discoveries, additional details have been received from Gilbert.

Near Lady Jane Franklin Point, named for the woman who spent her whole fortune seeking traces of her husband, Burwash found the first of Franklin's camps. Ravages of the tremendous storms across the bleak, barren lands had largely obliterated signs of the camp, but Burwash found what his pilot describes as "numerous Franklin records of great historical value."

More Records Found.

Fifty miles south at Terror Bay another Franklin camp site was located and more records found. Ice-filled waters made landing impossible along the coast, but at both camps landing was made on fresh-water lakes. The explorers had to hurry away for fear of being frozen in.

Before leaving King William's Island they circled its 500 miles of coastline, charted it by air photography, and combed the surface for other traces of the greatest Arctic disaster.

Pilot Gilbert's story suggests that the solution of the Franklin mystery has been found. To discover records in camps almost obliterated by storms of 80 years indicates that the long-looked-for cairn containing the detailed story of the tragedy has been located.

HARVEST FESTIVAL OF SALVATION ARMY

Bro. H. Illingworth is at Present Making His Annual Calls on Citizens.

Once again the Harvest Home effort has come around and the official collector of the Salvation Army, Bro. H. Illingworth, with his genial smile, will be calling upon citizens of Peterborough. This comrade has done excellent service for many years in bringing the much needed coins into the Army coffers to help sustain the work. The Army has many willing workers who give their service but this is not sufficient of itself, it requires the funds to keep the hand outstretched in help to the physically and financially down and out. The unemployment situation has made heavy demands upon the Army and it will be grateful therefore for further kind assistance for the local work particularly and, as it trusts therefore that the citizens will meet the happy smile of the comrade with a generous response.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 12. — Live stock receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were 3 cattle, 15 calves, 25 hogs, 344 sheep and lambs.

The cattle supply on Wednesday was practically cleaned up and the offering yesterday morning was too light to make a market. Prices were steady at Wednesday's close at Monday's advance of 50 cents a cwt. on butcher steers and heifers and down 25 cents a cwt on cows. Other classes of killers closed steady with the close of last week. Export demand for weighty steers, cows, and bulls helped in promoting activity during the week. Milch and springer trade was draggy and the top price of springers was easier at $100 each for the best.

Calves closed steady at the week's advance of 50 cents a cwt. with vealers selling from 7 to 12 cents a pound and grass calves at 4 to 6 cents.

Lambs in yesterday's offering sold from 6½ to 8½ cents a pound with culls and buck lambs downward. The prices were off 50 cents a cwt on the opening of the week. Trading was more active and a shade stronger on Wednesday.

Hogs are 50 cents a hundredweight higher in price for the week, closing yesterday at 11½ cents a pound f.o.b. and 12½ cents w.o.c. for bacons.

There were not enough sales to warrant quoting.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 12.—Wheat values sought lower levels yesterday, establishing new lows for the season of barely better than the 80¢ mark. The Canadian Government crop estimate, issued on Thursday, was believed to have depressed the market. The estimate was 27,000,000 bushels higher than a newspaper's figure, given the day before. Fractionally above their bottom points closing prices were 1¼c to 1½c down for the day.

Offerings were not heavy enough to seriously press the market, but in the absence of export demand and speculative interest, the pit could not absorb even moderate sales. Pit trade was light.

Cash wheat spreads, in extremely light trading, were about ¼c better. Coarse grains showed price losses, though interest was confined to oats and barley.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Weakened by Government crop reports, much more favorable than anticipated, prices of all grains declined sharply yesterday, with deferred deliveries in wheat hitting new bottom prices for the season. Traders were discouraged by official crop estimates issued by both the United States and Canadian Governments, which indicate greater yields of wheat and corn than the prevailing estimates by private crop observers, and heavy sales of both grains forced values down. Selling was rather persistent, but in small lots, especially in wheat, and trade was quiet after the first flurry. All deliveries of wheat for the season, and Winnipeg quotations also were sharply down.

Oats Also Turn Lower.

Wheat closed weak at 1 3-8c to 1 5-8c. net lower than Wednesday's finish. Corn closed unsettled 1 3-8c to 1 7-8c down, oats 1-2c to 5-8c off, and provisions ranging from 1-2c decline to a 10c. advance.

Deliveries at interior points in Canada were 5,535,000 bushels, as compared with 3,439,000 bushels a year ago. Since Aug. 1 approximately 93,000,000 bushels have been delivered.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.— Butter and egg prices maintained a firm tone on the local produce market yesterday, and the demand in both lines was fair to good. Ontario No. 1 butter was selling fairly steady at 30c, while No. 2 brought 29c. Receipts of No. 1 have not been very heavy lately, and the demand had to be satisfied with some Western supplies. There has not been any great movement of butter to Toronto from the West recently, but cars have been coming into buyers here fairly regularly. Dealers have been asking 30c to 30½c for this Western production. Local retailers were quoted 33c for pound prints yesterday, No. 1, and 31c to 32c for No. 2.

Cream.

Churning cream prices held steady at 30c for special, 29c for No. 1, and 26c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

The cheese market was firm at 15¼c to 15½c for new large, 15½c to 15¾c for twins, and 15¾c to 16c for triplets. Prices to retailers were 17c for new large, 17¼c for twins, and 17½c for triplets.

Eggs.

Egg quotations to country shippers were steady at 31c to 33c for extras, 28c to 30c for firsts, and 23c to 24c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Prices to the retail trade remained unchanged at 39c to 40c for extras in cartons, 37c to 38c for extras loose, 34c to 35c for firsts loose, and 26c to 27c for seconds loose. Dealers' prices for graded eggs in free cases were firm at 35c for extras, 33c for firsts, and 24c for seconds.

Poultry.

Poultry prices are issued at this time of the week, and the new lists show an increase of 1c for spring chickens, over 5 pounds at 25c, and over 4½ to 5 pounds at 23c. Other prices remain steady, with quotations of last week.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12. — The demand for all lines of cash grain here yesterday was dull, but values were steady.

Further strength for butter, and prices were advanced ¼c per lb., Eastern Townships No. 1, pasteurized, was sold at 29¼c to 29½c. Prices to retailers were unchanged. Receipts were 294 boxes.

The undertone to the potato market continued strong under a fair demand. Local stock sold at $1 to $1.10 per 80-pound bag, and New Brunswick Cobblers at $1.

The cheese market remained unchanged at 14½c for Ontarios, and 13¾c for Quebec grades. Receipts were 5,985 boxes.

The trade in eggs continued fair, and prices showed further upward tendencies. Top grades of Ontario eggs were sold at 39c, firsts at 32c, and seconds at 25c per dozen. Receipts were 2,522 cases.

TORONTO BOYS ADMIT THEFTS

Take Tires, Rims and Gasoline From Tweed Garage Keeper.

PAIR REMANDED.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 12.—Leaving Toronto with an old used car to see the country and visit relatives in the district, brought Woodrow Haller, 9 Rowan avenue, Toronto, and Farley Haley, 29 Roxboro street, same address, in the clutches of the law. The car needed gas and oil and the tires were not good and they had no money.

Provincial Constable Hill received information from Felix Rashotte of Tweed that two auto tires and rims had been taken from his garage and that a quantity of gas and oil had also disappeared.

Woring on the assumption of strangers in the district being responsible, the constable found the tires on the car used by these two boys. They were arrested and brought to the county jail.

Today they appeared at the County Chambers before Magistrate Casement of Madoc and electing summary trial pleaded guilty. At first B. C. Donnan, Crown Attorney, was inclined to ask for a stiff sentence but on questioning the young boys, found out they were in hard luck. It was the first offence for either of them and finally the magistrate remanded them for one week in order that he could think over the case. The boys at the time of their arrest, were it is said, carrying firearms, but no charge was laid in this respect. The boys explained to the court that the taking of these articles looked so easy they did not hesitate. Magistrate Casement commented that the thieving was the one objection to motor cars. They were easy to obtain, but they generally need a stimulant.

Business Block Is Destroyed By Fire

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Sept. 11. (C.P.) — Six business structures and a horse shed were destroyed by fire at O'Learn to-day, occasioning a property loss of about $15,000, partially covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire was not known. It started in the general store of H. Kelly and spread quickly through the row of buildings in two directions.

THE FINAL CHANCE.

With the best program of the week carded for tomorrow, it is to be hoped that the closing day of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will be marked by a record attendance that will send the total for the week up to a new level.

The patronage accorded the big fair all week in view of the economic conditions has been most gratifying, testifying to the wisdom of the policy of lowering the admission charges.

The change has been tested in a year that did not permit of a fair trial, and yet the new policy has triumphed.

To-morrow should see one of the best crowds in the history of the Exhibition, and if this expectation is fulfilled there will be no doubt as to the success of this year's effort.

The large number of new exhibitors, the splendid array of young farmers in the various competitions, and the growth of the agricultural features generally have made the 1930 Exhibition one of the most notable on record, and it would complete the satisfaction of the directors if this progress were to be made complete by a box office triumph as well.

Peterborough people should embrace this final opportunity and visit the Exhibition again to-morrow; they will find a program fully worth while.

THOSE DANGEROUS DITCHES.

For the suggestion advanced by the Globe that dangerous ditches along Ontario's highways should be eliminated and the necessary draining done by carrying off the water through pipes, as is being done along many highways in the United States, there will be a great measure of approval.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the depth of the ditches along sections of the King's highways in this Province has materially contributed to the automobile death record.

Numerous accidents are the result of motor cars leaving the road, and when this occurs at a point where there is a deep ditch a bad smash-up is inevitable.

The proposal that these ditches should, in the interest of general safety and as a means of relieving unemployment, be undertaken at the present time is worthy of the serious consideration of the Ontario Department of Highways and of the Government.

A start might be made on those roads where the traffic is heaviest and the accident record the worst, and if the cost is not found too excessive, the elimination of dangerous ditches on other provincial roads could follow.

Motorists generally regard the present ditches as a menace to safety, and would welcome their removal as an improvement that would materially increase the safety of automobiling.

THE PENNY BANK SYSTEM.

Because of the truth of the comment made by an official of the Illinois State Department of Labor at the convention of the International Association of Employment Services that "workers never have learned to save and until they do we will be faced repeatedly with present conditions," it is gratifying to learn from the official reports that the deposits of Peterborough pupils in the Penny Bank system showed a considerable increase at the end of the year closing June 30, although the percentage of pupils making deposits during May and June was only 40 per cent. of those on roll.

It is true that the foundations of national character are laid in the class-rooms of Canadian schools; it is equally true, as J. R. Littleproud, inspector of the Ontario Penny Bank, points out, that "one of the fundamental virtues which the pupil needs to acquire in this formative period of his life is thrift."

The figures for the last two months of last term indicate that so far as Peterborough's schools are concerned there is room for improvement, the percentage of pupils making regular deposits running from 60 per cent. in the King George School to 24 per cent. at the Prince of Wales School, with Queen Alexandra 32, King Edward 44, Central 35 and Queen Mary 32 per cent., respectively.

Peterborough's public school pupils had at the end of June, 1930, the sum of $14,110.39 on deposit, as compared with $11,640.91 a year ago.

CANADA'S MINERAL PRODUCTION.

Production in Canada of metals and non-metals during the first six months of 1930 was valued at $116,360,400 as compared with $123,702,334 for the half-year ending June, 1929, a decrease of 6 per cent., according to the half-yearly report just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Lessened coal production, lower output of asbestos and the falling-off in metal prices were the principal contributory factors of the decline.

More arsenic, gold, silver, copper, nickel, platinum metals, lead and zinc were produced but these increases in quantity were not great enough to offset the lower prices for silver and the base metals, with the result that metal production totalled $75,031,606 as against $75,476,321 during the same period of 1929, a decrease of 0.6 per cent. Production of bismuth, cadmium and cobalt was not as great as in the first six months of 1929.

Coal output for the half-year ending June was 7,159,761 short tons, valued at $25,354,127, a decrease of 18.4 per cent. in quantity and 18.9 per cent. in value.

Petroleum and natural gas both showed increases over the same period in 1929.

Among the non-metals, asbestos production was lower; gypsum registered an increase; the value of salt produced was higher; magnesite shipments were off. Other non-metals produced were quartz, feldspar, sulphur, graphite, talc, sodium sulphate, mica, iron oxides, soapstone, silica brick, mineral waters, dianomite, volcanic dust, sodium carbonate, bog manganese, bituminous sands, phosphate, barytes, actinolite and fluorspar

CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

Interest of Canadian business at this season of the year centres in the agricultural outlook, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank. Quite apart from the price at which the various products will be sold, the volume of the crop has a marked bearing upon the earnings of transportation and grain handling companies. Until the beginning of August the crops had made excellent progress, but hot dry weather at that time caused considerable damage. By September first between seventy-five and eighty per cent. of the Canadian wheat crop had been harvested and the most recent estimates of yield vary between 350 and 375 million bushels. This was a substantially larger crop than that of 1929, but did not approach the size of the crop of 1928. If the grading reports which have already been received should prove typical, the quality of the crop will be excellent. According to a recent crop report of the Northwest Farmer, for example, "from one day's inspection of 491 cars of wheat at Winnipeg, 391 graded above Three Northern and 59 classified as No. 1 Hard, a grade which two years ago was thought to have disappeared from the West."

The oat and barley crop are said to be of normal size and this should insure a satisfactory supply of feed grains. In Eastern Canada, variable weather has been experienced during the season, but on the whole average crops are being harvested. Damage from drought has been severe in Western Ontario and British Columbia. British Columbia, however, will have an apple crop that is above the average in both quantity and quality.

WHEAT SUPPLY AND WORLD NEED.

In his presidential address at the opening of the hundredth meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Bristol last week, Dr. F. O. Bower, Emeritus Professor of Botany at the University of Glasgow, Scotland, recalled an address given in 1898 by one of his illustrious predecessors. He remarked that the famous scientist, Sir William Crookes, the discoverer of thallium and the inventor of the radiometer, had then forecast that in view of the increase in wheat consumption between 1871 and 1898 and the then low average of acre yield, wheat could not long retain its dominant position among the foodstuffs of the civilized world. "Only one thing could prevent a shortage," he had added, taking comfort from the thought that the "artificial production of nitrate is clearly within view, and by its aid the land devoted to wheat can be brought up to the thirty bushels per acre standard."

President Bower told the association that Sir William's forecast had been fully realized. Not only were artificial fertilizers available in the mass but the northern limit of successful wheat culture had been greatly extended by the production of new strains, with an ever shortening period between sowing and reaping. This triumph, he said, afforded one of the best examples of the importance of applied botany, and he might well have added that Canadian scientists and experimenters had been largely instrumental in successful improvement of wheat strains by selective breeding and that the process still continues. Canada's colleges and experimental farms provide extant evidence that "research is to-day recognized and fostered in the service of the State to a degree never dreamed of when the British association was founded in 1831," just a century ago.

Nature, the British Scientific Weekly, also recently drew attention to Sir William Crookes' address and to the fact that his dramatic warning had created at the time something of a sensation. Although his analysis of wheat production and population growth was not then endorsed by all the authorities of that time, his scientific eminence had given it general currency, and it is interesting to compare it with what actually occurred. In 1928, the year for which Sir William made his prediction, he set the world wheat harvest at 2,670,822,000 bushels and the world population at 1,488,000,000 persons. Figuring at the returns in 1898, the fields were providing something short of two bushels of wheat for each individual. In 1928 the wheat harvest was 4,673,000,000 bushels; the population was 1,906,000,000. There were almost two and a half bushels of wheat a head. Wheat, and the food supply generally, deceives even the most careful as to the future.

Sir William, however, contended that the chemist must rescue the menaced race of man, but something still remains to be done, for in his presidential address to the British Society of Chemical Industry, Dr. Levinstein, referring to the Crookes address, said that the fact that there was no prospect of shortage of wheat in 1931 was the result of greater acreage, not of better fertilization and increased yields to the acre. In Nature's opinion the development of artificial fertilizers in the middle of the nineteenth century has not been matched by any chemical success since attained in this department. "Biologist and botanist, soil-physicist and agricultural engineer" have contributed better methods, better varieties of the grain to increase the crop, and better transportation systems have brought virgin land into production. It is figured that one new variety of wheat has made possible the profitable cultivation, in one country alone, of 75,000 square miles that before its development were idle. At fifteen bushels an acre this land would produce 717,000,000 bushels of wheat. Experience may require us to believe that science will continue to advance, but it might stand still in wheat production and yet the world's grain-food supply would not be imperilled. Application of the knowledge now possessed by humanity but ignored by the majority, observes the New York Sun, "would enormously add to the grain supply. When necessity presses men will use the information they now neglect, for dire need opens minds to which there is no other key."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

More jobs and less politics should be the motto down at Ottawa just now.

A South African girl has just swum the English Channel. She's too late, however; the only way to gain fame now would be to jump the channel.

A shake-up of the Provincial Cabinet is predicted. They could get that easily by trying some of the roads north of Peterborough.

Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition winds up tomorrow with a program replete with features. Give the event a record closing day attendance.

For the first time in a year the weekly earnings of the C.P.R. have shown an increase. That is the kind of news Canadians are delighted to hear.

American visitor has written to congratulate Ontario's Highway Department on the absence of bottles, etc., from the ditches. He should have been here at the time of the last provincial election.

The irony of fate is seen in the story of the veteran American stunt pilot who has had two ribs broken in falling out of bed.

Correspondent to the Toronto Globe blames too many Tory speakers as the cause of the drop in attendance at the Canadian National Exhibition. Surely he does not believe that anybody goes to the Ex. to listen to speeches!

The Office Hound

"Beautiful girls can only stay beautiful so long as they never think." This is the dictum of Earl Carroll, Broadway girl-show producer and bath-tub expert, according to a story in Wednesday's Examiner.

O—H

Which brings us to the evening's educational feature—a little one-act play entitled, "PRESERVING THAT CHORUS-GIRL COMPLEXION, or Why the Crime Rate Is Going Up." . . . The scene is the 110th floor of a New York apartment house; the time, breakfast time; and the characters, He and She . . . husband and wife, presumably.

O—H

As the curtain rises, She is seated at the breakfast table, gazing vacantly at Brooklyn and several other foreign countries. The sun pours in through the huge ultra-violet-ray window and splashes itself shamelessly on an ultra-modern interior and a couple of boiled eggs. The Wife wears a pale silk negligee, a peroxide coiffure, and a silly grin. . . . Make-up by Rubenstein (advt.).

O—H

He enters, wearing a natty business suit and a hopeful expression. He kisses Her gingerly.

O—H

He: Lovely morning, dear.
She: Yeah.
He: Think we're in for a cool spell, sweetheart?
She: I d'know.
He (taking a mean swipe at his egg, and bearing up bravely): You know, darling I think I'm going to have a big day today.
(She, still gazing at Brooklyn, says nothing.)
He (looking up): I said, I expect to have a big day today.
She (turning languidly): Oh, yeah?
He (crushing a piece of toast): This toast is too dry!
She: Uh-huh.
He: Too dam' dry!
She: Yeah—dry.
He: What's the matter with you?
(She produces a mirror and regards it intently, but does not answer.)
He: You got something?
(She shoves her hair and pats her face.)
He (getting up, concerned): Not feeling well, darling?
She: Stop askin' me questions, will yuh?
He: Why, what's the matter?
She: Lissen sap—get this! I'm not supposed ta think, see? Thinkin' and beauty don't go together. If I try answerin' all your dumb questions, I ain't gotta chance to stay beautiful. And you know (coyly) . . . you used to say I was the mos' be--oo--tee--full girl in the world!"
(He grunts and sits down. There is silence for about five minutes, broken only by the munching of toast and the gurgling of coffee.)
He (looking up from his paper): Things look in a bad way.
She (intelligently): Uh-huh.
He: Business conditions are in a Terrible state.
She (brilliantly): Yeah—terrible.
He (after regarding his paper for another minute): Nickel is down again. What do you know about that?
She: Oh.
He: Closed at a new low.
She: Low, eh?
(This co-operation is too much for him and he plunges into the back page.)
He: Says here they may take a census of miniature golfers.
She: Oh, yeah?
He: Silly fad!
She (brightly): Yeah—silly fad.
He (deeply): According to this report, divorce is on the increase.
She: Oh, yeah?

O—H

Whereupon he jumps out of the window into the East River and swims over to Brooklyn where he is taken for an Arctic explorer, met by five bands, a Citizens' Committee of Welcome, fifty-five billion tons of ticker-tape, and is presented with the keys of the city. . . . He returns home at seven p. m. and shoots his wife right through the centre of the make-up. Her dying words and a six-column color story, together with a full page of photographs of the happy event, will appear in tomorrow's tabloids.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM COCHRANE

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 12.— By Examiner Staff Correspondent).— The funeral of Beulah Alice Barrie, wife of William Cochrane, was held on Thursday afternoon from the family residence, Lot 19, Con. 9, of Seymour, the Rev. Dr. W. J. Mark officiating. The pall-bearers were: J. Varco, G. Duncan, M. Mahaney, W. Cross, E. Baptie, and J. Ivey.

Mrs. Cochrane died Sept. 9th in her 69th year after an illness of nine months' duration. She was born on August 19, 1862, in the Township of Dummer, Peterborough County of Old Country decent. In 1885 she married William Cochrane and settled on the farm in Seymour. She left the farm eighteen years ago and came to Campbellford to reside. She was a staunch member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Surviving are her husband, two brothers, T. J. Barrie, Campbellford and George A. Barrie, Birdsalls; and two sisters, Mrs. James Baptie, Lakefield, and Mrs. William Todd, Miami, Manitoba.

Interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

TEMPLE TOWER
BY "SAPPER"

"The mill at Bonneval, and Bonneval was the name of a village between Chateaudun and Chartres. Moreover, it was the nearest village to the quarry where the motor car had been hidden during the day. Isn't it an astounding fact how sometimes, after months and years of fruitless labour, a stray remark casually overheard may provide a clue? As it stood, of course, there was nothing in it—but the coincidence attracted my attention. It was well it did so: amazing though it seems that a chance remark was destined to end our search.

"I stole a glance at the Nightingale: he, too, had caught the phrase, and was listening intently. And after a while, as the full significance of their conversation sank into his mind, he began to quiver like a terrier when it sees a rat. Some times the men lowered their voices, but for the most part what they said was clearly audible. And one fact was soon established definitely. These two sailors owned the kotch Rose Marie, and they had recently smuggled over a cargo consisting of three large wooden cases, which had been landed on Romney Marsh somewhere between Rye and Dungeness. Further, that these cases had something to do with the mill at Bonneval.

"I give you my word that by this time I was almost as excited as the Nightingale himself. I remembered that there was an old disused mill, standing a little back from the road, about a kilometre north of Bonneval.

"Was it possible that that was the hiding place which we had searched for in vain? And if so, who was the recipient of the cases on Romney Marsh?

"Then another thought struck me: was le Bossu Masque present? I glanced round the room: there were only some fisher folk and a pale youth who looked as if he served in some shop. Honestly I could not think he was there, and yet——"

He waved his hand at the tree behind me.

"However," he continued, "it may be that he wasn't. The Nightingale is an easy man to track, and that may easily account for it. To return to that evening. The two sailors didn't say much more, but what they had said was quite enough to send the Nightingale flying over to England. He has one gift which you probably noticed the night before last—he speaks English fluently. And that was a considerable help to him. It was impossible for him to tell, of course, if the cases had been landed on Romney Marsh because the Toad was near at hand, or simply because it is an admirably situated loeality for smuggling."

"Hold hard a moment," said Hugh. "How long ago did you overhear this conversation in the wine shop?"

"About six weeks," answered Matthews. "Rather more. Well, I can't tell you when the Nightingale first discovered that the man he wanted was your next-door neighbour. He's no fool, and presumably his suspicions at once fell on a house fortified like Temple Tower. So did mine. But the Toad is a secretive gentleman, and suspicion is not proof. Personally, I have not seen the man who now calls himself Granger, though I've lain up for hours waiting for him. I assume that the Nightingale has; at any rate, he has satisfied himself somehow that Granger is the Toad. And so his quest is ended: he has found his enemy. Theatrical as all those people are, he has flashed his warning across the Marsh—red and blue lights, the colours of the gang. For years that man—ever since le Rossignol was liberated from Devil's Island—has lived in fear of being found. And now he has been."

Young Freckles took a deep breath.

"I say chaps," he remarked, "we are having a jolly party, aren't we? And how do the Beaver and the girl come in?"

"I was just coming to them," said Matthews. "Paul Vandali is one of those men, well-known to the police to be criminals, who have yet succeeded in steering clear of trouble. The only commandment they keep is the eleventh—thou shalt not be found out. The lady has not, I think ever been united to Vandali in the holy bonds of matrimony, but she has been his inseparable companion for three years."

"I suppose he is not the Bossu Masque?" I asked.

Matthews shook his head.

"Quite impossible," he said. "He is not old enough. Vandali is a man of only about thirty-five. So that rules him out. Oh, no! He comes in in a very different way. I have mentioned, if you remember, the Prince's cousin, who chose his parties for him. Now that cousin is also the Prince's heir, and he is alive to-day in Paris. He inherited all the prince's money, and so is an extremely wealthy man. After the affair at the Chateau du Lac Noir, he offered an enormous reward for the recovery of the stolen property—no less than fifty thousand pounds. Naturally he, years, ago, gave up all hope of getting it back though the reward still stood. And then Vandali and the lady appeared on the scene. You have seen them, and you will realise that they are people who are quite at home in the highest society. At any rate, they met Count Vladimar—that is the cousin—at supper one night not very long ago. And the conversation came round to the affair at the Chateau du Lac Noir. My informant was the waiter—who was not a waiter. To be more explicit, the Paris police were after Vandali over a little matter at Nice. They had no proof, but they were trying to trap him in an unguarded moment. And the waiter was really a detective.

"Well, he got nothing from the meal which helped him over the Nice business, but what he did get was that Vladmir most categorically stated that the reward of fifty thousand pounds still held good. He said it with a laugh, almost as if he implied that it might just as well be a million for the good it would do, But the detective caught a very significant glance that passed between the two. And here they are.

"How they spotted this place I can't tell you. It may be that they, too, through friends in the underworld, have kept themselves posted in the Nightingale's movements, realising, as I did, that in him lay their best chance of being led to the treasure. At any rate, they are here."

Matthews paused and lit a cigarette.

"Well, gentlemen, so much for the past, and the original causes that have led up to the situation as it stands to-day. Of my doings since I have been here there is little to say. I have told you that the main obsession of my life is to lay hands on the man who nearly murdered me to-night. And I have been lying up in a small place in Rye, watching and waiting for what I knew must happen, sooner or later—his arrival. I have kept my eye on le Rossignol: you saw me the other night when I very foolishly got caught in the light. But until to-night I did not know le Bossu was here. I don't know quite what took me up there—restlessness, perhaps, or something deeper. It sounds strange, I know," his voice grew almost solemn, "but I veritably believe, though I have never seen him until to-night, that there is some channel of communication between him and me which cannot be explained by any natural means. Gentlemen, I have felt him near me in Paris: I know it. And to-night an over-mastering impulse took me to Temple Tower. You know with what result. Suddenly I saw him looming out of the darkness—right on top of me. And although I had half expected it, the shock at the moment was almost paralysing. I even forgot to draw my gun till it was too late: he had gone."

He paused, and a dreamy look came into his eyes.

"But he is here, and I am here, and this time it is the end, one way or the other."

For a moment or two no one spoke there was something almost awe-inspiring in the quiet finality of his words. Just as at Spragge's Farm, the soft melodious voice of le Rossignol had seemed to ring Granger's death knell, so, now, did this second deadly hatred promise a fight to the finish.

"Enough, gentlemen," he went on in his normal voice. "No good has ever come of dreaming. Will you now return the compliment, and tell me what has happened to you? Then we will draw up a plan of campaign and decide what to do."

We told him everything: about the chimney-pot episode, the sparking plugs, the stolen map, and Miss Verney's letter. And when we had finished, he smoked a complete cigarette before he spoke.

"Captain Drummond," he said quietly "I congratulate you. I think your deductions are absolutely correct. Whether he meant to kill you with the chimney-pot or only put you out of the way temporarily, is immaterial—but that was his first idea. And I think your appearance on the scene has changed all his plans. He has only just arrived, of that I am sure. He came expecting to find le Rossignol and me: instead, he finds all of you, to say nothing of the Vandalis."

He rose and began pacing up and down his face working eagerly as he emphasised each point.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What To-day Means To You

If September 12th is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a.m. to noon, from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., and 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m., and 3 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

The nap will not be taken off the world for you on this date, and you will feel satisfied with yourself and the rest of the universe. Some hidden truths will be revealed, and some perplexities and complexities will be straightened out. Things of a private nature redound to your good.

Children born on this September 12th will be timid and irresolute, but will have unselfish and sweet natures. They will be sensitive and secretive, sympathetic and generous. Influence of parents paramount. They will be very impressionable, and have enquiring minds.

You have a dualistic nature, very opposing characteristics residing within you, and drawing you this way to-day, and that to-morrow. You yourself hardly know where you stand, what you desire, or what you feel. The stars may be blamed for making you an illogical being, and for any of your eccentricities. It would not be possible for you to live per rule and schedule. One must look for the unexpected, and not to the expected, from you.

You are active and lethargic by turns—some days you waste, and on others you do three days' labour in one. You are not single-minded; multiple interests command your mind and time. You can very quickly adapt yourself to your surroundings, and are hence remarkable for your versatility. You lack patience and lasting perseverance. These weaknesses, however, are somewhat offset by your quickness in thought and action. You do things on the spur and impulse of the moment. You love variety of thought and delight in mental pursuits. You need faithful co-workers, who can act as a balance, and who will hang on when you let go.

You can be very generous, and also niggardly. You can present a very bold front and assertive attitude, and yet be highly timid and nervous. You are conservative and progressive. Who knows what you will be? You gain friends easily, and those who stick by you, find that it has paid them to do so. You are sociable at times, but you love being alone.

START $200,000 ADDITION TO U. OF T. MINING BUILDING

TORONTO, Ont., September 12 (C.P.). — An immediate start is to be made with construction of a $200,000 addition to the mining building of the University of Toronto, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, has announced.

"In carrying out this work the University and the Government recognize the necessity for the additions, and coming at such a time it will afford much-needed opportunities for labor," said Mr. McCrea. "Canadian materials will be used entirely and the scale of wages will be the same paid for similar work in other parts of the province."

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Both the Canadian and United States Government reports were construed as bearish, not only on wheat but on the coarse grains, the estimated figures on production being larger than expected. This fact, combined with weakness in Liverpool and a negligible export business, gave the weak market a heavy tone yesterday and prices declined 2¼ cents from the previous close, making new lows across the board. There was a reaction in the late trade but there was very little going on except buying against the daily bids and a little covering up by early sellers, while offerings were rather scarce during the last hour. There was some spreading between different months, but the market was mostly a local affair, with Chicago doing very little. There was a fair demand from shippers for cash wheat, number 2 northern being most wanted with spreads on this grade being fractionally better and others unchanged. Offerings were not pressing for sale.

Export flour trade was quiet yesterday but some good business has been done recently which will keep the mills running full time for the next two weeks. The day's news was mostly bearish. Liverpool closed 1⅜ to pennies lower, when due unchanged on Winnipeg. Black Sea shipments this week are 2,520,000 bushels of wheat, half of this amount being from Russia, while the barley exports from the same ports reached the large total of 5,849,000 bushels. Country marketings in the west yesterday were 5,535,000 bushels, as against 3,439,000 a year ago. Do not look for any drastic break in wheat prices but supplies are very large in North America with the possibility of around 800,000,000 bushels to be marketed after allowing for seed and feed. Would sell wheat on moderate upturns as long as export sales remain as small as they are.

Coarse Grains.—There was no feature to these markets, there being no foreign demand whatever, while a moderate trade only is passing with eastern Canada. The Government report indicates a large crop in the west, especially in oats.

Flax.—Continued dull, no feature. Closing prices ½ to 2 off. Liverpool Cables due ½ higher based on Winnipeg.

AT WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 12.—(Opening price)—Extreme weakness in Liverpool cables was followed by a decline at the opening of the wheat market here to-day.

Wheat, Oct., 1 3-8 to ¾ lower at 80 7-8 to 81½; Dec., 1 1-8 to ¾ lowe at 83½ to 84; May, 1 to ¾ lower at 90 to 90¼.

NEW YORK LIST ADVANCES UNDER BULL MOVEMENT

Professional Operations For the Advance Centre Upon Utility Issues.

EARLY MORNING SAG.

Heaviness of Wheat Market Causes Further Selling of Farm Implement Shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (C.P.)—Bulls rallied their forces to give the stock market an upward tilt at the end of the week to-day, as they have done for the past three weeks.

Professional operations for the advance converged upon the utilities, and embraced several of the merchandise; food and miscellaneous issues.

The market was inclined to sag for a time in the morning, but the trend was turned by midday. American Water Works, American Power and Light, National Power and Light, Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Lighting, National Biscuit, Coca Cola, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, McKeesport, Worthington, Gillette, Grand-Silver, F. W. Grant, Interstate Department Stores, and Kroger Grocery gained about one to two points. International Telephone, Curtiss Publishing Vanadium, Auto Strop, and Eastman advanced about two to three. Higher fliers were International Business Machines, and Newton Steel, up six and Morea Case, however, dropped a few points, and Sears Roebuck was under pressure.

Heaviness in Wheat.

Further heaviness of the wheat market was used as a basis for further selling of the farm implements, and Case broke several points during the morning, momentarily unsettling the entire list.

Money continued plentiful, as funds piled up at the banks in preparation for the September 15 settlements. Call money officially renewed at 2½ per cent, but was soon being offered outside at 1¾.

DULL TRADING TORONTO CURB

Prices For Most Part Slip to Fractionally Lower Levels in To-day's Session.

OIL ISSUES FIRM.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12. (C.P.)—Transactions were executed in a listless manner on the Toronto Stock Exchange and as a result prices for the most part slipped to fractionally lower levels.

The oils were the one exception to the general move of things and all issues in this group held at, or slightly above their previous closes. Imperial had an advance of 5-8 to sell at 22 5-8, Supertest was up ¼ to 39½. International Pete gained a ¼ to sell at 19. British American sold down a small fraction.

International Nickel eased off an 1-8 to 26 5-8 while Noranda reversed the trend and took on 50 cents to 24,25. The rest of the stocks in this group went unchanged.

Malpe Leaf Milling Pfd. and Kelvinator common were both off a full point to sell at 49 and seven respectively. Brazilian lost an 1-8 to 36, Westons a ¼ to 31¾ and Gypsum a ½ to 20¼. Massey Harris lost a ¼ to go at 20.

Seagrams was strong to sell at 10 and near noon 11 was asked for the stock. Walkers was unchanged.

Goodyear Tire on the curb lost five to 130 while Service Stations went at 44, unchanged.

GRAND PARADE HELD IN FRONT OF STANDS

March of Winners is Big Feature of Saturday Afternoon's Program.

One of the big features of Saturday afternoon's proceeding's at the Fair Grounds is the parade of the prize winners which takes place, headed by the 57th Ranger's Band around the track in front of the Grand Stand at 3:30 o'Clock. The following is the order of the parade:

FAIR BOARD HOLDS

province—bar none." (Voices of Atta Boy.)

He thought that this year's fair was the most successful yet held, looking at it from all standpoints—cattle, sheep, swine and horses. He also reminded them that the show in front of the grand stand, helped along by some of the best weather conditions experienced in the past 13 years, was a topnotcher.

The speaker who addressed the Kiwanis Club on a recent occasion, was introduced by John L. Allen, who stated that for nine years Mr. Burnaby was in the insurance business and at one time he was also owner of one of the largest herds of Holsteins in Ontario. In addition he has been for 16 years on the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Exhibition, and is a member of the downtown Kiwanis club, Toronto.

Mr. Burnaby.

"I always enjoy coming to Peterborough, said Mr. Burnaby, who based an inspiring address on the Kiwanis ideal of service, and their slogan, "We Build."

He proceeded to point out that we are all builders—we are nation builders. He urged the necessity for patronising the manufacturers in our own towns and cities, but urged that we should not take narrow views of such questions. That problems in other parts of the Dominion are the problems of the whole Canadiann family.

"If we buy articles made in other countries," he said, "we are actually helping to build up that country."

He quoted the buying of New Zealand butter, saying that it was not the fault of the New Zealanders, but our own responsibility.

While on this question, he also cited the fact that the largest sardine cannery in the world is in Canada, nevertheless Canadian people are buying their sardines from a foreign country.

He was of the opinion that there are three distinct types of thought in Canada — eastern thought, central thought and western thought. In the marketing of Western wheat, he said that is a "national problem."

"We are members of a great family, we are partners in this great Canadian Confederation. If we look at things in this light we shall build a greater Canada."

D. M. Bissell, president of the Life Underwriters' Association, tendered his thanks for the invitation extended to the Underwriters, making mention of the Mayor, and also Mr. Brown of the Kiwanis Club.

J. Dutton Congratulates Board.

James Dutton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, congratulated the Board on behalf of the Chamber, for the splendid results which their work had shown in this year's exhibition.

He thought the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was doing a great service for agriculture, which could be accomplished by no other means.

Ike and Mike, inimitable entertainers, who have regaled the grandstand crowds all week, provided a good program of entertainment and led the gathering in community singing.

NARROW LIST ON STANDARD

Majorty of Mine Issues Hold Firm at Last Night's Closing Figures.

NICKEL EASIER.

TORONTO, Sept. 12. (S.P.)—Dull trading and confined price movements marked action on the mining market during the early period to-day, the majority of issues holding firm at last night's closing levels.

International Nickel was slightly easier at noon, while Noranda sold steady a few cents above the preceding close. Sherritt Gordon and ventures advanced five each to $1.45 and 90, respectively, and the other Lindsleys were unchanged. Amulet firmed a point to 54.

Nordon was fairly active among the oils, adding another five to yesterdy's gain at $1.05. Dalhousie recovered three to 68, but Home Oil was down to $3.35 and Baltac a point to 13.

Higher-priced golds made a good showing, McIntyre, Lake Shore, Wright-Hargreaves and Sylvanite showing small gains. Other golds were steady, Big Missouri, Siscoe and Vipond registering only minor recessions.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

According to an estimate by the Monetary Times, August bond sales totalled $48,759,600, representing an increase from $46,887,621 in July and an exceptional advance over the $2,573,983 reported for August of 1929. This August total was subdivided as, provincial $12,150,000, municipal $1,914,600, corporation $3,675,000. The pronounced strength and steady demand for high-grade securities is responsible for bringing out this volume of bond financing. Municipalities which had delayed borrowing while money rates were high are now able to sell their securities on a much more favorable basis, and work which previously had been delayed should get under way now, a factor which will aid in the relief of unemployment. September bond financing will also be heavy, judging from the amount already placed and scheduled to come out in the immediate future.

Referring to the market for high grades, Nesbitt Thomson & Company state the expansion in security sales indicates that many investors are purchasing high-grade bonds and preferred stocks. Commodity price levels and money market conditions present at this time a more favorable outlook for the high-grade security market than at any time during the past few years.

Gas Merger.

Further expansion in the Western Ontario territory by the merged Union Natural Gas and United Fuel Investments Companies is seen in the renewal of the offer for purchase of the St. Thomas plant by United Fuel. The Consolidated Company now effectively covers the field from Sarnia and the Border cities as far east as Hamilton and along the north shore of Lake Ontario. Purchase of the London gas plant gave an entry into that field and first attempts to secure the St. Thomas plant were not followed up. Now, however, A. T. Levitt, manager of the Hamilton By-product Coke Ovens Ltd., a United Fuel subsidiary, has submitted another proposal which will be considered by the St. Thomas city council Monday next, and, if proved, will likely be submitted to ratepayers. This latest offer contains a guarantee to construct a coking plant in the immediate vicinity of the city. This clause is interesting in view of the fact that Dominion Gas Company had under consideration construction of a large coking plant at Port Stanley, a lake port some nine miles to the south of St. Thomas.

To-day the Canadian markets are passing through another phase of the readjustment period and are found in an improved technical position and a return of public confidence that is being reflected in the purchase of the high-grade securities and a broadening out of interest. Slowing down of the advance of past week was necessary to guard against rapid appreciation that would only bring another reaction with possibly upset the good accomplished in the quiet summer months. The markets have made the second attempt to the current year to move above the low levels established by a series of crashes in the spring market appreciation was rapid and when business improvement failed to parallel price appreciation there was a second series of reactions that carried the average down to a new low in August. Considerable ground has been regained in recent weeks and the present slowing down of the upward movement is an excellent sign that the mistake made in the early months of 1930 is being guarded against.

MANY TELEGRAMS TO WELSH BROS.

Friends Throughout West Alarmed By Morning Story of Accident.

ONE FROM VANCOUVER.

More than twenty telegram were received by Welsh Brothers at the Exhibition grounds this morning from Western friends who, reading the Canadian Press story from Peterborough recounting Wednesday night's flaming chuck wagon accident in the wind-up of the Rodeo show, concluded that the two brothers had been the victims of the painful accident which sent two of the assistant riders to the hospital with superficial burns.

The story was played up by both the Toronto morning papers, indicating its human interest and spectacular appeal even here in the east, where the personal factor is not the news element which elicited so widespread enquiries from the western provinces this morning. The story was put on the wire last night, and was published by all the morning papers in the west to-day.

It evidently gave the impression that Jose and Louie Welsh had been burned in the chuck wagon dash around the track on Wednesday night.

At any rate Calgary newspapers and friends telegraphed to the Rodeo early this morning for full details, and other friends of the boys throughout the west also manifested their solicitude by telegrams to the Exhibition. The farthest enquiry was from Vancouver.

One of the two men who were burned, was discharged from the hospital this morning and the other will be out in a day or two.

KING IS GIVEN TERM IN JAIL

Man Let Out of Jail Yesterday Goes Back Again To-day.

DIRECTING TRAFFIC.

It's just out again, in again for Edward King, 30, of this city. Released from jail yesterday morning, King was sent back again this morning. It will be a windy day in March when he leaves the county gaol, because this time he was sentenced to a six months' stay.

Booze is King's nemesis. Having just shaken the dust from his feet yesterday, he immediately set about getting drunk. By 7 o'clock last evening, he had so fully succeeded, that he was engaged in directing traffic at the corner of Charlotte Street and Monaghan Road, and enjoying himself immensely.

Traffic Patrol Officer Ted Hornick came along in his car at that time. King signalled him to stop.

"What are you doing?" asked the officer.

"I'm—hic—I'm directin' the cars," was the reply.

Suggestions that he should go home were scornfully waved aside by King. A scuffle followed, in which the officer got the handcuffs on the inebriate.

In Court this morning King told Dr. T. W. H. Young, J.P., that it wasn't vendor's liquor he had been drinking. "No," he said, "it was canned heat. I got it at a hardware store."

It was called King's third offence under the L.C.A., because the police were too busy to look up all of his previous convictions.

"I just got out of jail yesterday," offered King.

"Well, you can go back now for six months," decreed the Justice of the Peace.

KEEN INTEREST SHEEP CLASSES

Number of Entries Totals 229 in This Year's Exhibition.

WELL KNOWN BREEDERS.

Competition in the sheep classes has seldom been as keen as at this week's Exhibition. The number of entries total 229, the exhibiting breeders being: G. H. Mark and Son, Little Britain; C. H. Curtis, Warkworth; Arnold McKinnon, Hillsburgh; J. W. Balson and Sons, Hampton; J. M. Fisher, Woodville; John R. Kelsey, Woodville; A. Ayre, Hampton; R. W. Peterson, Warkworth; Adam Humphries and Son, Hastings; John Cullis, Oakwood; S. Rattle, Milliken; Stuart Hall, Little Britain; H. Skinner, Tyrone.

Tom McIndoo, chairman of the sheep committee, remarked this morning that this department of the Exhibition has brought out one of the largest entries in his recollection, and the quality is exceptionally high.

W. F. Wright of Glanworth, who is judging this section, told The Examiner that he had underestimated Peterborough's Fair.

"I have my own sheep on exhibition at London, and I should be in there to-night, at the latest," he said. "I thought I would have been home Thursday night. I am also judging at New Hamburg on Saturday.

"You have a splendid Fair here. As an example of the quality of the sheep it is worth noting that J. M. Fisher has been on the road since June, over the western circuit of Brandon and the other fairs there and also at Quebec City, Three Rivers and Sherbrooke in Quebec. It requires a skilled herdsman to keep his flock in good condition on the road. Fisher's sheep have had no grass since last fall. After Lindsay he intends to put them out to pasture and pass up the Winter Fair, so they will have a chance to get away from the show ring for a while.

"Your sheep exhibits should be an object-lesson to the breeders in your district. The winners show the difference between local flocks and those that are on display here, and also how sheep should be fitted for competition. The exhibitors are a most agreeable lot of men, and it has been a pleasure to meet them all."

YOUNG BRIDE SLAIN

sued by Supt. E. L. Jennings, of the R.C.M.P.:

"I know of no reason for this act of Constable McIntosh. He was always a steady, reliable officer with about two years of satisfactory service. Under the R.C.M.P. regulations constables are only allowed to marry upon approval of the commissioner after a certain number of years' service. The force did not know McIntosh was married. He was obliged under the regulations to sleep in barracks every night, and last night was heard to say to one of his comrades that he was in trouble."

McIntosh came from Elgin, Morayshire, Scotland, where his mother, Mrs. A. McIntosh still lives. He joined the police at Winnipeg in October 1926, police records show he was a member of the Presbyterian church.

McIntosh's salary was $60 a month and would have remained at that figure until he had served for three years. A marriage allowance is made to members of the force, but in view of the fact that McIntosh had married without permission of the commissioner he could not apply for that.

According to regulations of the force he would not have been able to secure this permission to marry until the end of his three year enlistment period. Then the permission would depend on promotion.

ANOTHER BIG DAY FOR THE CHILDREN

Board Will Place Admission Up to Five O'clock Saturday at 5c.

At the request of a large number of parents who desire their children to visit the Fair once more the Board will admit school children to the Fair tomorrow, Saturday afternoon up to 5 o'Clock for 5c. This does not include the Grand Stand.

There is so much to see that is of general interest to the boys and girls that the directors have gladly acceded to the requests made.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL IS 64 YEARS TO-DAY

No Special Functions Mark Event—Sits at His Desk as Usual.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12 (C.P.). — Felicitations from all over the world poured into Government House to-day as His Excellency the Governor-General celebrated his 64th birthday. There will be no functions to mark the event, in fact Viscount Willingdon was at his desk in the east block of the Parliament Buildings this morning as usual.

From many sections of the British Isles, from distant India, and other parts of the British Empire came messages of congratulations and goodwill. His Excellency's many years of public service to the Empire have taken him to most of its far-flung points. He has been a member of the British House of Commons, Junior Lord of the Treasury, Governor of Bombay and later of the Madras Presidency. He was appointed Governor-General to Canada on August 5, 1926.

106 PARALYSIS CASES IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12 (C.P.).—Reporting to the Board of Health, Dr. G. P. Jackson, medical health officer, states it is likely the number of cases of infantile paralysis will increase during this month. He emphasized the need for vigilance on the part of parents during September and expressed the belief the number of cases would decrease after this month. To date 106 cases have been reported here, with six deaths resulting.

Lasting Softness

is another feature of this deodorizing sanitary protection

BECAUSE it stays soft ... stays cool and light, women find Kotex better. There's no deceptive merely-surface softness about it. The air-cooled layers of filler keep Kotex comfortable longer.

A special process deodorizes Kotex safely, completely. Keeps one dainty, immaculate at times when that is doubly important. Then there are other things: the clever shaping of the pad, for inconspicuous protection under the filmiest frocks. The way you can adjust layers of filler. The fact that it disposes so easily.

Why hospitals use it

Did you know that Kotex filler (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is used in Canada's leading hospitals? It is preferred by surgeons, even for surgical dressings in the most serious operations. They use it because it is so wonderfully absorbent (5 times more, by test, than the finest cotton); so hygienically safe.

INCONSPICUOUS...

1—Designed to remain smooth-fitting under any gown.

2—Deodorizes—By a special process Kotex deodorizes safely and thoroughly.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals... Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in Canada's leading hospitals.

Kotex—60c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store. Kotex Super-Size—75c for 12.

MEASURES PASSED WITHOUT DIVISION

the money expended from the fund.

The leader of the Opposition denied that there had been any obstructionary practices from his side of the chamber and he resented, he said, the insinuation made by the leader of the Government.

Forke Quits Wheat Pool.

Hon. Robert Forke, former Minister of Immigration in the King government and a prominent Manitoba farmer, announced in the Senate yesterday he had severed his connection with the Wheat Pool. When his five-year contract expired he did not renew it although he had "no criticism to make of the treatment received or complaint of my experience with the wheat pool."

The Senate to-day will continue the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and possibly will adjourn until next Monday, pending receipt of legislation passed through the House of Commons. The Upper Chamber has been marking time all week for lack of measures passed on to it by the Commons.

Sir Eugene Fiset (Lib., Rimouski) offered the suggestion that a special committee of Parliament, similar to that functioning in connection with the Canadian National Railways, be established to consider the proposed expenditures in detail. To this, Premier Bennett retorted that all expenditures under the fund would come under the review of the Auditor-General. The Government, he continued, had received a mandate to deal with the unemployment situation, and he asked if it were not to be trusted to see that the money appropriated went for work and, if necessary, relief.

The Premier agreed that no expenditures out of the fund save on contracts already entered into should be made after the end of the present fiscal year, which closes on March 31 next.

During the debate, the Premier reiterated his avowal not to leave Canada to attend the Imperial Conference until the present session prorogues. If we were to attend, he must leave Quebec on September 23, he informed Mr. King, but his going was contingent upon developments and progress made in Ottawa.

At the close of the day, Premier Bennett made a plea that the legislation be passed on humanitarian grounds. It was "something that transcends politics," he argued. When he said the House was dealing with "human suffering," Mr. King assured him the Government had "no monopoly of human suffering" and the Opposition members were just as keen on alleviating distress conditions as were those who sat on the Government benches.

Veniot Creates Sensation

Hon. P. J. Veniot, former Postmaster-General created somewhat of a sensation by reading a letter dealing with road work in Northumberland constituency prior to the election. He charged the Liberals were not given equal opportunity to secure this employment and supported the claim by reading the letter which he said was signed by Premier Baxter of New Brunswick. He read that "those who vote for Mr. McDade will receive favorable consideration" in the allocation of the employment. The former Minister objected to handing over money to a Provincial Government of the type he described.

Later in the day, Mr. King and several Ontario members, particularly from Northern Ontario, referred to the expenditures made by the Ontario Government on road work during the election as improper use of public funds.

TONE-SENSITIVE people have always chosen Fadas. Musical people, appreciative of brilliance and range, have been loyal to Fadas for a decade. Today, in these newest and most beautiful of Fadas, they will find this fleeting quality more enthrallingly present than ever. Fada tone is true, undebased by compromise—and music lovers hear it with gratitude.

But the modern spirit is luxury-loving. Beauty must surround it; convenience must accompany it. And so the new Fadas find themselves possessed of an impressive assortment of ingenious automatic devices to make reception more pleasurable, and operation more easy. The exclusive Fada Flashograph automatically announces stations in lights, by name, as the dial is turned. The Automatic Volume Control practically eliminates fading, and automatically receives all stations at any desired volume, and holds them there, regardless of their distance or power. The exclusive Fada Noise Filter thoughtfully eliminates or reduces electrical disturbances of all kinds so they may no longer spoil favorite programs.

The owner of one of these resourceful Fadas will take a pride in his possession unusual in these sophisticated days. He will enjoy putting his versatile radio through its paces before his friends, and pointing out the all-star features he knows no other single radio possesses.

The new Fada radio possesses, in one instrument, the features you have hitherto found scattered among many, if at all. We ask that you make no radio investment until you have seen and heard them. They deserve this—and so do you.

T. MOORE HEADS LABOR CONGRESS

Vancouver Chosen Over Hamilton as Convention City For 1931.

URGE IMMIGRANT BAN.

REGINA Sask. Sept. 12 (By Jack Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Tom Moore, dynamic Ottawan who for 12 years has stood at the helm of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, was re-elected to the Presidency of that body at the annual election of officers yesterday, and with him stands P. M. Draper, also of Ottawa, who for ten years has acted as secretary--treasurer. Mr. Draper and Mr. Moore went back into office without a dissenting voice while the Congress shouted its approval.

All three vice-presidents, J. T. Foster, Montreal; R. J. Tallian, Calgary, and James Simpson, of Toronto, were also re-elected.

Vancouver was chosen as the convention city for next year, the Pacific Coast nosing out Hamilton, Ont., by the narrow margin of seven votes.

Earlier the report of the Executive Council covering various matters of interest to the Congress was adopted. It particularly referred to the Fair Wages Bill and migration, and of the latter subject there was considerable discussion.

The council recommended the establishment of a Dominion Advisory Council on Immigration, and asked for labor representation on this board. The fact that immigrants were still coming to Canada, and in many cases becoming public charges shortly after their arrival was stressed, and definite action was required at once. The Congress will continue to urge for restriction of immigration.

CROWN WITNESS FAILS TO APPEAR

MAY FORFEIT $2,000 BOND.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 12.—(C.P.)—Douglas Willis Readman, witness for the Crown in the trial in which Harry Bronfman of Montreal, faces a charge of 'tampering with witnesses," failed to put in an appearance when called to the stand yesterday, a bench warrant calling for his arrest was issued by Mr. Justice G. E. Taylor.

Demand was made by A. A. McGillivray, K.C., and H. E. Sampson, K.C., defence counsel. Mr. McGillivray also asked that the $2,000 bond furnished by Readman be forfeited.

Readman is one of the two men alleged to have been removed from this province through the efforts of Bronfman, who is said to have advanced the money which guaranteed the man's disappearance early in 1922 so he could not give evidence.

In London last year the number of persons receiving Poor-Law relief was nearly one-tenth less than in 1928.

NOTED CHINESE BISHOP OUTLINES SITUATION IN HOMELAND TO-DAY

Over 350 Representatives of Parishes Around Belleville Hear Stirring Address.

MISSION FUNDS NOT LOST.

MARMORA, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—Glimpses into the China of to-day as she actually is, religiously and politically, were given in an eloquent address delivered at Christ Church Hall, Belleville on Tuesday evening by Bishop Philip Lindel Tsen, native Anglican bishop of Honan, China.

The address was given to a gathering of 350 representing the parishes of St. Thomas, Belleville, Christ Church, Belleville, Ameliasburg, Wellington, Tweed, Trenton, Roslin, Marmora and Stirling and was not exclusively Anglican.

After a splendid banquet had been served by the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church, Belleville, Rural Dean Rev. C. E. C. Clarke introduced the distinguished guest of the evening. In a short but striking speech he mentioned that the evening's event was a unique one in the history of the congregation. He referred to Dr. Tsen as one who though coming from another race was closely connected with this particular Diocese (Ontario) for his colleagues, Bishop White and Canon Simmons, had spent the earlier days of their lives in the Diocese of Ontario. Rural Dean Clarke continuing said, "Bishop Tsen's visit reminds us of what has happened in our own church in the past 130 years. Before that time, the Church of England was just a national church but now we rejoice in a world wide Anglican Communion. There are five Chinese bishops to-day but only one, Dr. Tsen was able to attend the Lambeth Conferences. In closing, the speaker paid tribute to China's outstanding culture and refinement.

Bishop Tsen

Bishop Tsen in a pleasing yet eloquent voice, having expressed his appreciation of the honor accorded him in being asked to speak at Belleville, remarked that his country was one of the oldest in the world, with a history of 4000 years behind it. "She did, as a member of the human race, make some contribution to human progress," modestly stated the bishop. "She named herself the middle kingdom when brought into contact with Europe and America she felt she had a good deal more to learn. Her closed doors were forced open for the four hundred million people of her country to know contact with other races. This contact and presence of people of other lands and races in China has done a great deal of real good towards the awakening of China" said the speaker in very impressive tones. "She is an old nation being born again." Bishop Tsen said he had many times been asked the question. What has caused the present situation in China? He could not in a few words answer it. He would say however that the internal strife was that of group against group and was of no other nature than that to be found in the history of other nations when they began to have a new birth. There is only one political party in China to-day, he emphatically declared. "That is the Nationalist party but it has groups of individuals within it who disagree through their own personal ambition. The fighting is spasmodic.

Missionaries Remain

In spite of the fighting in Honan all the Christian workers remained at their work. Though there has been some excitment and anxiety all have been left in peace and good health and continue their good. The bishop in this connection referred to a letter recently received by him from Bishop White which told of the opening of a mission station.

Speaking of the changes of ideas in China, the bishop declared that these changes were original to the Chinese and that they were not so much imitating or copying the west as having changes with themselves. As a result, he said, the Christian Church has to refind herself and retrace her message.

Before the Great War when the missionaries who were in China spoke of the fraternal relationship between the nations in the west, the argument was convincing, when the war came, the missionaries had their difficulty. Any foes to Christianity in China belonged to a world wide movement. The bishop then mentioned how he had listened to the enemies of Christianity as they poured forth at Hyde Park in London, England and showed in an enlightening manner how the Nationalists of China severed themselves from the Communists when they arrived at Hankow in course of their revolutionary marches. Christian activities in general in China and the work of the Anglican Church in Honan were dealt with in an interesting manner before the address closed.

Mayor Reid Speaks

Others who addressed the memorable gathering were Mayor G. Reid of Belleville, Rev. A. L. Green, Belleville, Rev. P. Heywood, Trenton, Canon A. L. McTear, Wellington, Rev. A. Smith, Roslin, Rev. B. F. Byers, Stirling, Rev. W. L. Wright, Tweed, Rev. F. G. Kirkpatrick, Ameliasburg and Rev. A. B. Caldwell, Marmora. The best of Belleville's local talent rendered pleasing songs at intervals. Mrs. Vandervoort in proposing the vote of thanks to Bishop Tsen, referring to the bishop's apologies for his imperfect English said very aptly "we got the pith almost immediately." Bishop Tsen is a forcible witness of the statement voiced by Mayor Reid, "Money in missions is not lost but invested." The bishop speaks in Peterborough on September 24th.

MONTREAL BACKS PLANS OF C.N.R.

Railway May Now Proceed With Tunnel Terminal Immediately.

BENNETT SENDS NOTE.

MONTREAL, September 12. — The Montreal City Council yesterday ratified plans for the Canadian National Railways to permit the railway to proceed immediately with the construction of its tunnel terminal and the construction of elevated tracks from that terminal to the Victoria Bridge. The questions as to elevated tracks between Bonaventure and Turcot and the position of the proposed east to west connecting line were left open for discussion between the city and the railway.

Another development was the publication by Mayor Houde of a letter from Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, who urged that 'a very earnest effort be made by your city and the railway company to find a mutually advantageous and satisfactory solution of your differences."

RADIO'S NEWEST MIRACLE

PHILCO TONE-CONTROL

Philco Tone-Control

Philco Radio Phonograph
New 9 tube Screen Grid Plus combined with electric Phonograph; Tone-Control of both radio Programs and records. Automatic Volume Control; built in aerial and new, exclusive tone-arm pick-up. Price (less tubes) $290.00.

Philco Highboy
New 9 tube Screen Grid Plus Chassis in an exquisite cabinet; equipped with Philco Tone-Control and automatic volume control. Price (less tubes) $210.

Also—
A Marvellous Battery Set
For the first time in radio history rural dwellers can now have a set equal in every respect to the best electric sets. New tubes just perfected for battery operation make this Philco set a marvel for distance, selectivity and sensitivity. Battery consumption reduced to a point hitherto undreamed of —beautiful furniture models— Tone Control—wonderful values.

THIS newest achievement is another stride forward in Philco's steady march to the highest levels of wonderful radio performance. Years ahead of the industry, Philco balanced units created the pure, true, undistorted tone which lifted Philco to outstanding leadership in 1929.

But never before has anything been done to improve the tone sent you from the radio station. How well you know that even on local stations you like the character of tone from one station better than another. How often have you wanted to listen to some fine programs but were discouraged because of the quality of the reception.

At last you can have your favorite dance orchestra the way you like it—classical music; great singers; famous artists can be heard the way YOU have always longed to hear them; speaking voices, momentous messages from our public men, can be brought in with a realism only equalled by their actual presence. And finally, for radio stations which come in harshly or accompanied by crackles and buzzes from interfering electrical apparatus in your particular section, you can subdue the stridency and noise and enjoy many additional fine programs.

These things are made possible by this newest miracle of radio which has been named the Philco Tone-Control. Its four settings of tone quality — "brilliant" — "bright" — "mellow" — "deep" — open up new vistas of radio enjoyment. Philco Tone-Control is built in all the new Philco Screen Grid and Screen Grid Plus Radios.

Each and every Philco has balanced units which produce the true, clear, undistorted, Philco tone—new, exclusive circuits of great selectivity and remarkable sensitivity—wonderful distance range and power—reduction of static and background noises—new, improved electro-dynamic speaker, and a new, Station Recording Dial on which you can permanently log your favorite stations.

The Philco Screen Grid Plus has, in addition, Automatic Volume Control, which counteracts fading, so you can not only get but hold and enjoy out of town programs, near and far. It has built-in aerial and enormous power—a super-radio for those who want extra performance.

These new instruments are housed in beautiful cabinets—furniture of which you can be proud; priced from $145.00 to $290.00. (less tubes). Ask your nearest Philco dealer for a free demonstration of Philco Tone-Control today. No obligation, of course, and easy terms when you decide to buy.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

S. CAVAN STAGES ITS SCHOOL FAIR

Keen Competition Features Event as 9 Schools Vie For Honors.

PARENTS TAKE INTEREST.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—Ideal weather, a gratifying attendance, numerous exhibits with the quality quite up to that of previous years, and a marked interest on the part of parents, teachers, and pupils, featured the annual Rural School Fair for the South Cavan district held in the Agricultural Park, Millbrook, on Monday, September 8, under the direction of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

A. E. Summer, formerly of Oxford County, and recently appointed as Agricultural Representative for Durham, is making his initial entry into the duties of his new position in connection with the round of School Fairs throughout the county this month, his predecessor, J. Y. Kellough, having gone to Toronto taking up his responsibilities as a member of the Canadian Wheat Pool. Mr. Summer evidently understands his work, and there is no doubt the interests of agriculture, and the various activities connected with the farmers' organizations, will prosper under his capable supervision.

Nine schools are included in the South Cavan territory, the list, with their respective teachers and pupil directors being: Whitfield's, S.S. No. 8, Miss Bertha Cain, Ronald Argue; Fallis Line, S.S. No. 10, Miss Jean L. Burnham, Mary Ball; Millbrook, Junior room, Miss L. Orchard, Senior room, B. B. Dawson, Lenore Lambert, M. McDowell; S.S. No. 11, Cedar Valley, S.S. No. 12, Miss Ellen Cleugh, Janet Dawson; Zion, S.S. No. 13, Miss Mary Wood, Douglas Carveth; Fairview, S.S. No. 14, Miss Dorothy Hall, Murray Belch; Cork, S.S. No. 15, Miss L. McColl, A. Brackenridge; Carmel, S.S. No. 19, Miss Beadle Profit.

The Rural School Fair staff for Durham, while it retains one or two of its former members, yet has some changes in personnell this year, the members being: Miss Bertha Baycroft, who judged the flowers, cooking and sewing; Miss A. Morton, secretary; Clarence Allen, whose department is fruits, vegetables, manual training, etc.; Eugene Smith, who attends to the judging of poultry, and live stock; James Brown, who assists both Mr. Allen and Mr. Smith, and superintends the sports' program; and A. E. Summers, Agricultural Representative, who has the general oversight of the whole series of fairs, under his personal attention.

Colonel Odell, P.S.I., and Clarence Allen, judged the School Parade, and the Physical Culture, Cork School, with the pupils attractively costumed in orange and black, holding first place in both instances. It is very difficult for teachers to have their pupils ready for participation in this section of the fair when the date comes so soon after the school reopening for the fall term; particularly is this true when a new teacher comes to a section as was the case in at least three instances in South Cavan this year.

COUNCIL TO CLEAR RUBBISH NUISANCE

Bruce Douglas Interviews Dummer Body Regarding Dumping of Rubbish.

WARSAW, Sept. 12.—Bruce Douglas interviewed the Dummer Council at the regular meeting held on Friday, in regard to the practice that the village people have in dumping rubbish at certain places along the river and on the back road, and suggested that the dump near the dam be cleaned up and notices put up directing the public as to the place secured for such refuse and rubbish.

Mr. Douglas was instructed by the Council to have this matter attended to. H. B. Nelson, district representative of agriculture addressed the council in the matter of having classes held at Warsaw in the month of January. A class for girls to take up house management, etc., and one for boys to take up stock pudging, etc., and he asked the Council and the Women's Institute to co-operate with his office in making the classes a success.

Reeve Hawthorne and Councillor Darling were appointed to represent the Council in making arrangements for the classes.

The pay list vouchers showing an expenditure of $1,477.26 for roads was accepted and signed by the reeve, and orders on the treasurer to the amount of $207.27 was authorized to be paid.

Harry Morgans was appointed the collector of taxes for the current year.

August Sales Increase In Schulte-United Stores

Schulte-United 5c to $1. Stores, Inc., reports sales for August of $2,101,164, an increase of $358,996, or 20.61 per cent. over sales of $1,742,168 in August, 1929. Sales for the first eight months of 1930 were $15,914,591, a gain of $6,647,024, or 71.72 per cent., over sales of $9,267,567 during the first eight months of 1929. The company reports 101 stores in operation at the end of August, as compared with 81 stores in operation at the end of August, 1929.

Teacher "Skinny" Nervous, Gains Pep 14 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

ST. AURELIE, P.Q.—"Was nervous, exhausted. So skinny, was embarrassed," says Miss Alphonsine Fortier, teacher. "Tried Ironized Yeast. Gained 14 lbs. in 3 weeks. Now healthy and happy."

Teachers, lawyers, doctors, nurses, mothers, ministers, all write of gains of 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks with new Ironized Yeast. Blemished skin clears. "Nerves," constipation, indigestion go overnight. New pep.

Ironized Yeast is two great tonics in one. Weight-building brewer's Yeast plus strengthening, blood-enriching Iron. Many times more effective than unmedicated yeast. Results in half the time.

Don't be "skinny," weak, nervous, in danger of serious ills. Take these pleasant little tablets. No yeasty taste; no gas. If not delighted with quick gains, manufacturer refunds money. Get Ironized Yeast from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. New pounds quick.

ST. GEORGE'S W.A. APPOINTS DELEGATES

First Meeting of the Season Held in Church Basement.

St. George's W. A. held their first meeting of the season on Tuesday afternoon, in the church basement. There was a good attendance of members. Mrs. E. Tucker occupied the chair, and conducted the opening devotional exercises. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were given by Mrs. J. Malish and Mrs. R. King.

Mrs. W. J. Downer, Dorcas Secretary, reviewed the contents of the bale, which was nearing completion, and it was finally decided to meet for the purpose of packing the bale in two weeks time, members of the congregation to be invited to be present on that day.

The Deanery Officer referred to the forthcoming Deanery meeting to be held on October 9th in St. Luke's Parish. Two delegates were appointed to represent the branch at a supper at Murray street Baptist church, to which an invitation had been kindly extended. Other business connected with the branch was discussed. The Rector spoke of the need for prayer for the protection of our missionaries, especially in Honan, China. He made reference to several letters published recently relating to the dangers and horrors experienced by missionaries in the war area.

The Rector closed the meeting with prayer.

SOUND MOVIES AT THE "EX"

Used in Connection With Post Office Department Exhibit in Manufacturers' Building.

SECOND SHOWING.

The first portable talking motion picture equipment ever made on a commercial basis in existence is to be seen by visitors to the Exhibition in the Manufacturers' Building. It is being used in the Post Office Department exhibit having been borrowed from the Publicity Branch of the Canadian Government.

The apparatus was designed and constructed by engineers of the Film and Slide Company of Toronto in co-operation with the manufacturers of the Dictaphone talking machine. It is the laboratory model and was purchased by the Canadian Government for use by its publicity branch. The first time it was used was at the Toronto Exhibition.

A projector for amateur-width film is used and the sound reproducing unit is similal to the regular dictaphone for office use. Cylinder records are used. It is driven by a flexible shaft from the gears on the projector and synchronized with the action of the snutter.

An electric "pick up" reproduces the sound through a portable loud speaker placed close to the screen.

Pictures of the inauguration of the Canadian air mail service at St. Hubert's airport, Montreal, and the arrival of the R-100 in Canada are being shown at the exhibit each afternoon and evening this week.

WHEN YOUR STOMACH GROANS WITH GAS

When Sourness, Pain and Bloating Follow Every Meal

MAKE THIS SIMPLE TEST

If you really want stomach comfort—quick, certain and lasting relief from the usual annoyance of after-eating distress make this simple NEVER FAILING TEST today!

At trifling cost, get from the nearest drug store some Bisurated Magnesia—either tablets or powder—and take a little after your next meal. This is a simple, pleasant, inexpensive test that can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most cases, relief comes instantly.

Bisurated Magnesia is a good old-fashioned recipe that has been straightening out disordered stomachs for many years. Nothing better has ever been found for soothing, cleansing and sweetening the stomach and neutralizing the dangerous stomach acids that cause dyspepsia and indigestion. If you have never tried it, you do not know what stomach comfort means.

FASHION SERVICE

A smocked frock is such a quaint pretty fashion for small daughter. And when it is as versatile as this one-piece dress with its swaying ruffles at the hem, it's doubly attractive.

The smocking is useful as well as decorative. It affects shoulder yokes and provides a nice fulness to the skirt.

It may be made with long or short puff sleeves.

Style No. 2635 is designed for tiny tots of 2, 4 and 6 years.

An old-fashioned sprigged dimity in pink and blue made the original model. The neck and cuff bands was plain pink organdie. The pale blue ruffing matched the background of the print.

Yellow organdie, pale blue batiste, nile green sheer linen with yellow ruffing, trim and smocking worked in the yellow and pink and white dotted swiss are too cute for words.

Size 4 requires 2 yards 32 or 35-inch material with ¼ yard 27-inch contrasting and 3 yards 2-inch plaiting for long sleeve dress.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

OBITUARY

MRS. W. R. COOK.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, September 12. — News of the death of Mrs. W. R. Cook of Sudbury, nee Bertha Maude Grandy, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grandy of Omemee, was received here on Sunday with widespread regret. Mrs. Cook, who was in her 51st year, was born in Omemee, where she lived until her marriage to Dr. Cook 23 years ago. She kept in touch with friends of her girlhood in her annual summer visit to her parents.

The deceased had been in failing health for the past two years, and death was not unexpected. Mrs. Cook was of a calm and lovable disposition, a wonderful mother, and homemaker, and an ardent member and worker in her church at Sudbury.

The remains were brought to Omemee for interment beside her son, Hugh, who predeceased her eleven years ago.

The funeral service which was very largely attended, was in charge of Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, of Trinity United Church, Omemee, assisted by Rev. Mr. Whidden, her pastor, of Sudbury, Rev. William McDonald of Peterborough, and Rev. R. R. Nicholson, of Cannington, each of whom had served as her pastor in Sudbury, and who paid glowing tributes to her wonderful Christian example to others.

Left to mourn the passing of a wife, mother and daughter, is her husband, one son, "Barney," and two daughters, Doreen and Marion, as well as her parents, Mr and Mrs Samuel Grandy, and one sister (Gertrude) Mrs Col Fee of Peterborough

Very many and beautiful were the floral tributes

The pall bearers were Messrs W. G. Stephenson, H. Lamb, O. G. Williamson, W. Henderson, G. D. Gowans and L. A. Southworth.

MRS. WILLIAM KNOX.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, September 12. — Another of the older residents of Marmora passed away on Wednesday afternoon in the person of Mrs. William Knox. Last Sunday she celebrated her 81st birthday.

Great sympathy is extended the family on account of the delicate health of Mr. Knox, who is approaching his 91st birthday and to whom his wife's death has been a distinct shock.

The late Mrs. Knox was born in Rawdon township. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little. Throughout her life the deceased was of an industrious nature. She was a diligent worker for a number of years in the Ladies Aid of the Marmora Methodist church. In her life, too, she had done much nursing and exemplified at all times the spirit of true neighborliness.

Besides her husband, ten of thirteen children born of her marriage, survive to mourn her loss. They are: William of Toronto, John of Portage la Prairie; David of Marmora; Leslie of Rochester; George of Newark, N. J.; Mrs. W. Baker, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. George Carruthers, Sodus N. Y.; Mrs. James Thomas, Erie, Penn.; Mrs. Holland Clark, Rochester, N.Y., and Effie at home. She is also survived by three brothers and three sisters: David of Blairton; Henry and James in the United States; Mrs. R. Fox, Mrs. James Hay and Mrs. Thomas Haig, all of Campbellford.

The funeral takes place on Saturday afternoon with service at the United church, being followed by interment in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Because of the fall in the cost-of-living figure, only about one-fourth of the men employed on British railways are now receiving any bonus added to their basic weekly wage.

Governments of the Straits Settlements and the Federated Malay States are endeavoring to assist the rubber industry by reducing the wage scale of Indian labor.

SEPTEMBER MEETING OF STIRLING W.M.S.

Miss Lucy Williams Has Charge of St. Paul's United Church Society.

STIRLING, Sept. 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The W.M.S. of St. Paul's United church met in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon, September 9, with the president, Miss Lucy Williams, occupying the chair. After singing the opening hymn "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross", Mrs. W. Hagerman led in prayer. Miss Gladys Joblin read the Scripture lesson taking a portion of Matthew 6th chapter. The roll call was "Seek". The secretary and treasurer's reports were given followed by business. Mrs. Arthur Scott was appointed to represent the society at the sectional meeting to be held in the Tabernacle church, Belleville, on October 1st. Mrs. Roy Bush gave excellent missionary remarks stressing home environments and the using of the home for the benefit of the strangers or lonely ones.

Mrs. Macklin sang "Teach Me to Pray". Miss Ruth Eggleton told of the work done in the Deaconess Home, Toropto, picturing it very intensely to an interested audience.

The hymn "Talk With Us Lord" was sung and the meeting closed with prayer by the president. The program was in charge of Mrs. W. Jeffrey, assistant Helpers' secretary.

A bale was packed on Wednesday afternoon for St. Paul's W.M.S. at the home of the supply secretary, Mrs. T. Montgomery, Sr. It was valued at $200 and was made up of 39 quilts, a quantity of new and second hand clothing and other articles. Miss Williams, Mrs. G. McCutcheon and Mrs. J. Sine assisted with the packing.

St. Paul's League.

The league of St. Paul's church met on Monday evening and was of a re-organizing nature. After the devotional period the various groups met separately and planned their program and other work for the winter. Later they met and were addressed by the president, who suggested ways for making the meetings better than ever. It was decided to hold a reception next Monday evening for the teachers and pupils of the high and public schools. A "Fabric" contest was put on by Miss Florence Bailey. The Mizpah benediction concluded the meeting.

Several Oddfellows from Stirling attended the anniversary sermon and decoration of graves at Madoc on Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Eggleton has moved his photograph studio from the drug store corner to the rooms over the insurance office of W. J. Whitty, Mill street and Mr. McKee is converting the rooms vacated by Mr. Eggleton into an up-to-date apartment.

The harvesting of grain is completed except buckwheat and threshing is going on with good yields and an excellent quality of grain. Mr. Frank Stapley, a veteran thresher, states in all his years of threshing he never saw a better standard than this year's yield.

Mr. Fleming of West Huntingdon who is engaged on the county road work, had the misfortune on Wednesday to lose one of his horses through sickness.

Miss Agnes Morton of Cleveland, Ohio, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Morton.

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Barrett of Brighton called on several former parishioners on Tuesday.

TWO WAYS.

There are at least two ways of learning things which in turn will develop a man to where he can serve himself and those around him best. One of these ways is the slow, expensive and sometimes ineffective one called "going it alone." By this method one must experiment and then construct a workable formula from his own limited—and perhaps mistaken observations. The other and far better way lies in making many acquaintances and friendships with men who have been over all of that ground and in whose ripe experience may be found the solution for most of your problems.

MOTHPROOF 2 NEW FEATURES WITHOUT EXTRA CHARGE MOTHPROOF

IN THIS 9TH SANI-BILT WEEK SPECIAL SUITE

Sept. 13th—20th

at $199 SAVES YOU $51.00

A LOW price

made for this week ONLY
A high VALUE built in for years of service

LAST Spring in a "hard selling" period and in spite of competition from cheap goods, public demand for the Sani-Bilt Week Special Suite exceeded the quantity we produced by over 10%. The reason lies in the VALUE that is built into this Special Suite.

It proved to us that Canadian women know VALUES and are not stampeded by mere price tags.

THEREFORE, with still greater confidence, the 9th Sani-Bilt Week Special Suite is presented with two NEW, EXTRA features of unquestioned merit at NO extra cost to you. (See the small illustrations).

More VALUE . . . smarter appearance . . . greater service . . . a LOW price . . . a better buy.

See it. Compare it with others. The chesterfield is full size, deep and roomy, with a nice high back. The new Shell back chair is wonderfully comfortable and invites you to rest. Distinctive diamond tufted lower band. Fancy welts.

Solid walnut frame and drop scrolls all heavily hand-carved. Choice of six colors in a high grade mohair with attractive frieze cushion reverses to blend with varied room schemes.

And remember, the regular Sani-Bilt Mothproof Replacement Guarantee is given with this suite. This is a printed guarantee that fully protects you against damage by moths. Behind the guarantee stands a big, responsible Canadian corporation operating five plants in Canada.

Buy this week and save $51 on this suite.

1 STEEL LOCKING BANDS FOR WEBBING

Two steel bands, securely locked into the hardwood frame, run from front to rear underneath the heavy Scotch Webbing at the point of greatest strain, viz., 14 inches from each end of chesterfield. Effective reinforcement, yet retaining the comfortable, quiet, non-squeaking qualities of webbing.

2 NON-SAGGING CUSHION EDGE

An exclusive Sani-Bilt feature. Sani-Bilt cushions cannot sag on the front edge under usage. A series of pockets, each separately stuffed with filling form the front edge of the cushion. Then diagonal stitching runs from the front to about 8 inches back, securely holding the front fillings and springs in place, and effectively preventing sagging.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A BELIEF IN SIGNS, is in itself an indication that a person has a tendency toward superstition.

• • • • • • •

We find this belief comes with years. It is lacking in children, and therefore parents should beware of inculcating superstitious ideas into the heads of the little folk, unless the superstitions are helpful.

• • • • • • •

It should be remembered that there are numerous sign notions developed to make the mind react to a proper balance, to promote caution and to prevent foolhardiness.

• • • • • • •

Not all superstitions are false notions. It is the belief in those that make a person apprehensive in trouble that should be thrust from one's memory.

• • • • • • •

People who repeat to others signs that will form recurrent ideas of misfortune do actual harm. They instill into another's mind the thought of something evil or some misfortune that is foretold by an occurrence that in itself is nothing at all unusual nor forbidding.

• • • • • • •

In speaking of superstitions that are precautionary, the one about not walking under a ladder is excellent. It is built on a sound foundation.

• • • • • • •

A person walking underneath a ladder may carelessly jar it and make the person standing on it fall. Also there is the possibility that the one on the ladder may drop some article or tool which, of necessity, according to the laws of gravitation would fall in a straight line to strike the ground.

• • • • • • •

If someone were walking beneath the ladder he would get hit. In both of these instances the misfortune would happen and it would happen immediately, unless the one on the ladder was knocked down or some tool fell on a person beneath, no ill could result.

Nevertheless, because of a possibility of such trouble it is wise to avoid walking beneath a ladder.

• • • • • • •

It is well for a person to analyse superstitions, and realize the cause for their development before swayed to a belief in them.

• • • • • • •

Then avoidance of trouble by heeding the warnings that they give is sound good sense. Faith in the superstition is then replaced by knowledge that danger may result by going against a warning put in terse form.

• • • • • • •

A blind belief in superstitions is not only unwise, but unreasonable and therefore tends to lessen the power of force of a person's character.

BACON MUFFINS

¼ pound bacon
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 cups flour
½ cup corn meal
1 tablespoon sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup Borden's St. Charles Milk
¾ cup water.

Cut bacon in bits, fry crisp and drain off fat. Sift together the dry inpredients. Add the egg, bacon fat, and milk diluted with water. Fold in the bacon. Fill greased muffin pan two-tthirds full. Bake in a moderate oven about twenty-five minutes.

TRUCK DROPS 100 FEET DRIVER HURT, BUT LIVES

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 12. — James Young, a truck driver of this city, had a remarkable escape from death when the truck he was driving plunged over a 100-foot embankment at the north end of East street, and crashed into the stairs leading to the Athletic Park after turning over twice.

Young was taken from the vehicle unconscious, and to a hospital where it was reported he had seven ribs fractured, and probable internal injuries.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

NO PERFCT REDUCING DIET.

At one time I had an ambition to get out a table that would show what the ideal weight should be for any height or age. At my disposal were tens of thousands physical examination charts.

Why was I unable to get out these tables?

Because of the different types of bodies. There is the tall slender, the tall heavy, the short slender, and the short heavy. There is the greyhound type of physique of Dempsey, tall and lithe, and the powerful bull dog build of John L. Sullivan. These men were perfect specimens of their types and yet the weights according to height were much different.

And so when I am sometimes asked why I do not get out a 'reducing diet' which could be followed safely daily and weekly, for a certain period of time, I feel that a diet for everybody cannot safely be advised. My reason for not doing so at the present time at least, is that every case is really a law unto itself.

Here is one individual who is 40 pounds overweight and another 5 to 7 pounds over. In the case of the former, if in good health, the plan would be very simple—cutting down on liquids and starches fully 50 per cent, and eating more meats, lettuce, celery, and so forth. In the case of the latter the 5 to 7 pounds extra weight is really an asset, because of a history of underweight in the family.

Further, by questioning your friends who have been on any of the diets—orange juice, 18 day diet, the Banting, Oertel, Ebstein, and others—you will find that some have been greatly benefited whilst others have had such a collapse that they may be years getting back their former vigor.

As you know, weight in the majority of cases comes at middle age or when the individual begins to do less physical work.

Added to this of course, is the continued desire for food, and the ability to get any amount and any kind of food all through the year.

The reason that the 18 day diet has been effective in many healthy overweight individuals is because so much of meat and eggs is eaten daily that the tissues are kept in good repair. The reason that it has not always been successful is that some individuals using the diet have to do considerable physical work, housework or other exercise, and there is not enough starchy food to supply the necessary energy.

Now what is my suggestion?

That as the whole basis of these reducing diets is the cutting down on starches—bread, potatoes, pastries, and sugars,—that you simply continue your regular meals, of the food you like, but eat one potato instead of two, one half slice of bread instead of two, spread your butter thin, drink a half cup of tea or water instead of a whole cup, and do with as little water as possible, eating your large meal at noon instead of in the evening.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

IN A COTTAGE BY THE SEA

(Contributed by J. H.)

Just one year ago to-night love
I became your happy bride,
Changed my mansion for a cottage
To dwell by a riverside.
You told me I'd be happy
But no happiness I see,
For to-night I am a widow
In a cottage by the sea.

Chorus:
All alone, all alone
Down by the seaside he left me
No other's bride I'll be,
For in bridal wreaths he decked me
In a cottage by the sea.

In my cottage by the seaside
I can see my mansion home,
I can see those hills and valleys
Where in pleasure we have roamed.
The last time that I saw him
Oh how happy then were we!
But to-night I am a widow,
In a cottage by the sea.

My dear and aged father,
Oh how he would weep for me,
And my dear and aged mother
How with tears her eyes would swell,
And my dear and only brother
Oh how he would feel for me
If he only knew his sister,
Was a widow by the sea.

Cubs' National Lead Reduced To Half a Game

WINGS DEFEAT TORONTO FOR 100TH VICTORY

Errors Prove Costly as Johnny Prudhomme is Batted Hard.

BISONS BEAT ROYALS.

Joe Hauser Connects For 61st Homer to Pass Babe Ruth's Record.

TORONTO Ont., Sept 12 (C.P.)—Four more victories, or fewer, stand between the Rochester Redwings and their third straight pennant.

As a result of the latest batch of returns from the front, the Redwings by winning four games of their remaining ten cannot be beaten for the title even should the second-place Baltimore Orioles win all of their remaining 11 games. Each Baltimore defeat will make Rochester's task one game easier.

One more mathematical contender fell by the wayside yesterday—the Montreal Royals—leaving only Baltimore with so much as an outside chance to nose out the Redwings.

As the clubs stood to-day, Rochester leads Baltimore by seven and one-half games. Montreal, in third place, is 11½ games behind with only nine games to play.

The Redwings won their 100th game of the season yesterday, beating Toronto, 12-1 behind the steady pitching of Johnny Berly who gave up only seven hits and did not walk a man. Rochester pounded Johnny Prudhomme for 12 hits but eight of the Redwings' runs were unearned. Brown drove in four runs with a triple and a single.

Baltimore won a tight battle from Newark, 3-1 as Joe Hauser hit his 61st homer of the year. Stroner also hit for the circuit and it was this pair of long distance wallops that beat Leo Mangum, Newark hurler. Mangum gave up only five hits while Luther Roy permitted the Bears six.

Behind great pitching by Dave Danforth, Buffalo easily turned back Montreal, 6-1. Danforth allowed only six hits and pitched easily turned back Montreal, 6-1. Danforth allowed only six hits and pitched easily after his teammates had run up a three-run lead off Buckalew in the first inning.

Reading staggered through to an 11-9 victory over Jersey City but it took three Key pitchers to stave off the Skeeters' heavy batting. Reading scored all their runs in the first three innings but had many an anxious moment as first McAffe and then Warneke failed to stop the New Jersey batsmen.

Greene finally halted the attack in the ninth after Jersey City had scored four runs, within two of a tie. Three of these counters came across on Max West's home run.

BILL TILDEN GAINS SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Veteran Beats Van Ryan—Hunter, Shields and Wood Win.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 12. — The old regime United States tennis has not yet fallen. Frank Hunter, 36-year-old veteran, was beaten yesterday by young Johnny Doeg in the quarter-final round of the national singles championship, but Big Bill Tilden at 37 gave Johnny Van Ryan a tennis lesson and is still the favorite to capture the title for the eighth time.

The strapping Doeg overcame his stubborn foeman in five hard sets, 11-13, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, and will clash with the champion, Tilden, in the semi-final round to-day. It will be a battle of services, as Doeg has one of the three or four fastest deliveries in the world, and Tilden's famous cannon balls piled up a total of 20 aces as he downed Van Ryan by scores of 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 before a gallery of 9,000 yesterday afternoon.

ROBINS AND CARDINALS CLOSE IN ON NATIONAL LOOP RIVALS; MACKS HANDED HALF POINT GAIN

Dazzy Vance Strikes Out Thirteen Cubs While Cards Beat Giants Again.

THIRD FOR PHILLIES.

Browns Defeat Washington in Series Final—New York Loses to Cleveland.

NEW YORK, September 12 (C.P.).—The Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, who looked like the only important entries in the National League pennant race not so long ago, now seem to have become as stationary as the mile posts while the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins are doing all the racing.

Once more, St. Lous and Brooklyn were triumphant yesterday and placed themselves only a half-game behind the league leading Cubs. The Robins performed an almost unprecedented feat of making a clean sweep of their three-game series with Chicago as Dazzy Vance turned in a third successive five-hit performance to give Brooklyn a 2 to 1 victory, while the Cards, with Chick Hafey's first-inning home run as the deciding factor, again defeated the Giants 5 to 4.

As the Cubs move on to-day to the safer regions of Philadelphia and the Giants and Cards remain in New York for a final clash, the race shapes up this way:

	Won	Lost	P.C.	Games behind	To Play
Chicago	80	59	.575	...	15
St. Louis	79	59	.572	½	16
Brooklyn	80	60	.571	½	14
New York	77	62	.554	3	15

The ragged right sleeve of Dazzy Vance and the big bat of Glenn Wright gave Brooklyn its seventh straight victory and its third over Chicago, Vance followed his predecessors, Ray Phelps and Adolph Luque in holding the National League champions to five hits and fanned 13 as well. It took Hack Wilson's 48th home run of the season, a clout over the right field wall in the seventh inning, to give the Cubs their first run of the series, but Wright had beaten Wilson at his own game. In the first inning he smashed the ball into the left field bleachers after Herman had walked to give the Robins a head start that Chicago never overcame. Guy Bush, who allowed Brooklyn only eight hits in seven innings, was the victim.

Southpaw Bill Walker of the Giants was the victim of a similar wrong guess. After Adams had singled and Frish had walked in the opening inning, Walker tossed the wrong ball to Hafey and watched it sail into the upper tier of stands in left for a homer. The Giants overcame that lead in the fifth inning and made another comeback in the seventh, but they failed in their third attemp after the Cards had scored their fifth run, leaving the bases filled when the game ended.

Pirates in Running.

Pittsburgh's Pirates, not entirely out of the running, placed themselves only 7½ games behind first place by winning a tight game from the Boston Braves, 5 to 2, although they were outhit 11-8, while the humole Phillie made it a clean sweep against Cincinnati by slugging out a final 15 to 7 victory.

The Philadelphia Athletics, leaders of the American League, had a day of idleness and had a half-game presented to them by their rivals from Washington and New York. The second place Senators dropped a second straight encounter to the St. Louis Browns as Walter Stewart kept their blows from doing serious damage, while the Browns piled up four runs in the sixth inning.

New York' Yankees all but dropped out of the race as the Cleveland Indians turned on them after two beatings and hammered out a 9 to 5 victory behind the steady pitching of Clint Brown.. The best the Yankees can do now is to tie Philadelphia if they win all their 15 games.

Ted Lyons, veteran Chicago hurler, went 12 innings in the remaining game to win his 21st victory of the season, defeating the Boston Red Sox 4 to 3. Lyons gave 13 hits, but had a homer by Carl Reynolds to aid him.

Honored With Degree

LACEY OVERCOMES OPPONENTS' LEAD

Diegel's Conqueror Out of P.G. A. Tourney—Armour Wins at 35th.

FLUSHING, N.Y., Sept. 12.—The Professional Golfers' Association championship yesterday was narrowed to three former British Empire subjects and one native American. In the semi-finals to-day doughty Gene Sarazen will represent the United States with the rest of the semi-final line-up, made up of Charley Lacey, born in England; Tommy Armour, native of Scotland, and Joe Kirkwood, who first saw the light of day in Australia.

Joe Kirkwood furnished the day's fireworks when he eliminated the highly-favored Horton Smith at the thirty-sixth hole. They had fought a nip-and-tuck battle, and Kirkwood had been up only once. He was one down after 18 holes but evened matters in the first nine of the afternoon and then pulled the match out at the last minute.

Lacey advanced by eliminating Harold Sampson, the slim Californian, four up and three to play, after the Pine Valley pro. had gone to luncheon one down.

Harness Races Keenly Contested

McDOUGAL WINS BY CLOSE CALL IN EXTRA HEAT

Free-legged Trotter Takes Lead in Home Stretch to Win First Money.

22 HORSES IN EVENTS.

Herman Grattan, T. Hodgin's Horse From Lindsay First in 2.27 Race.

No better horse races have ever been seen in this district than those furnished on the Peterborough Exhibition's card yesterday afternoon before a crowded stand variously estimated to contain more than 2,500 fans.

While the races did not produce anything like a speed record, all were keenly contested and close, exciting finishes marked every mile. Twenty-two horses in all competed in the two races, the 2.27 pace and the 2.18 pace.

An extra heat had to be raced off in the 2.18 class before a winner could be announced, so scattered were the honors in the first four heats. McDougal, Marion Harvester and Billy Wilkes were the three to break into the regular heat-winning column, and these three were chased out for a fifth go to decide the first three places.

Wins By a Neck

After riding a little behind and on the outside of Billy Wilkes most of the way in that final dash, McDougal, a great free-legged trotter, was whipped into the front on the home stretch to win by half a neck. It was a fitting climax to the big day, and gave McDougal, owned by A. McIntosh, who hails from the prairies of Saskatchewan, first money.

Marion Harvester, owned by Jas. McDowel, of Toronto, had wheeled out in front in the first two heats, and by her early victories landed into second money, while C. Hodgins, of Clandeboye, with "Billy Wilkes" earned the third purse. Dick Sunday won his owner a sizeable cheque for fourth place.

Lindsay Horse First.

Herman Grattan, T. Hodgin's horse from Lindsay, was the clean cut first placer in the 2.27 race, winning three firsts . First place in the first heat earned Vernon McKinney, Jr second money, with Dr. Dale third, and Red Peter, Stan. Blewett's horse, fourth.

Recalling the way they ran in the heats in the 2.18 class, it must be said that the judges had a tough day of it. The horses were packed so close coming down the stretch that it took a bright pair of eyes to place them. In every heat it was the same, the leaders bunched and spread the full width of the track.

Marion Harvester streaked out in front early in the first heat and maintained that position, although repeatedly tested by Dick Sunday and Betty H. They were running the same way in the second heat with Billy Wilkes having displaced Dick Sunday, when in the final stretch Betty H. mixed in a crash with McDougall.

In the next mile McDougall stole into first place on the turn into the stretch to trim Billy Wilkes by a nose. Miss Chilcoot, a famed free-legged trotter, driven by Cliff Chapman, speeded in fast on the outside to take third place. Whips flashed in that driving finish as the horses swept down in a pack.

Billy Wilkes shoved his way into first place in the fourth heat to beat out McDougall, and make the fifth heat necessary.

Keendale Out.

Keenedale, owned by C. Fife, of this city, was not in a mood for racing, acting so badly in the first go that he was taken into the stable for the day.

One of he best heats of the afternoon was the second in the 2.27 pace. Vernon McKinney, the pole horse, led the whole way, with the pack close on his heels, but less than a hundred yards from the wire Herman Grattan was wheeled out and he came through so fast that he managed to outspeed the leader going under the wire, to win by something less than a nose.

The same horse showed his form in the following heat, taking a short lead at the start and maintaining that place although pushed by the pack the whole way round.

To-day and to-morrow promises to lovers of the pacing game a real opportunity to enthuse, since there are now 56 horses stabled at the park, and the best of them will be seen in action. This is the largest number of steeds ever assembled here for racing.

Referee K.O.'s Fighter In Merry Ring Melee

OKANOGAN, Wash., Sept. 18.—Jimmy Downey, boxer, was having difficulty in connecting with his opponents chin here last night so he shut his eyes and whanged away hopefully. None of the potential haymakers landed on the opponent, Cotton Fryant, but one of them caught Referee Gene Fritts in the mouth.

Fritts forgot all about refereeing and sent a sizzling left to Jimmy's chin and a neat right cross to top it off.

Jimmy went down for the count.

CHERUBIC CELT DEFEATS SINGER IN THIRD ROUND

World Lightweight Champion Joins List of Victims of Jimmy McLarnin.

TITLE NOT AT STAKE.

Vancouver Sensation Has 4½ Pound Advantage in Weight.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 12.—Young Al Singer, baby king of the lightweights, risked his prestige in a gamble for more last night and fell a victim to the dynamite that lurks in the two hard fists of Jimmy McLarnin.

The Dublin destroyer, cherubic Celt who looks the meekest and mildest of warriors, caught up with Singer in the third round of their ten round battle at catch weights, knocked him once to the floor for a count of nine and then finished him with one clean, whistling right to the chin. The third round lasted only two minutes, 21 seconds.

Thus was the name of Singer, newest of champions through his knockout contest of Sammy Mandell early this summer, added to the list that now holds the names of seven titleholders, who either before or after gaining their crowns, matched fists with McLarnin and finished second. Yet McLarnin, uncrowned king of the welterweights, has yet to lick a champion at the class weights.

ADVANCE.

"To advance in any line of life's endeavors, it is necessary both to study and to think. Achievement is possible to those who have the initiative and determination to equip themselves with knowledge. Real joy and satisfaction are ot be found in the realization that one is accomplishing something worthwhile and in the knowledge that its value is the direct result of one's personal efforts."—E. A. LEAFS FAVORED TO WIN HERE

Victory Will Even Series For Bantam Championship of Ontario.

GAME STARTS AT 3 P.M.

The second game of the O.B.A.A. bantam final series will be played to-morrow afternoon in James Stevenson Park, and it can be assured that the fans will find entertainment in the "summer pastime" at this fixture. Besides superb hurling the Maple Leafs have a smart infield who did much to hold the score down in the first game of the series at Toronto on Saturday last.

The local entry is favored to win the game here on Saturday, which will even the series and make a third game necessary; and here it may be said that the Maple Leafs are a small outfit, and have no financial backing. It is up to the fans to patronize this game and give the boys a chance to capture the provincial honors again this season.

The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

TWO SOCCER GAMES ON SATURDAY

King Edward Park and Brinton Ground is Venue—Kick-off Takes Place at 2.30.

Two important league games are scheduled for Saturday afternoon, and no doubt fill give a new aspect as to who the winners will be. At present the Canadian Packing are leading the league with three points.

On the Brinton grounds at 2.30, the Canadian Packing and Brinton Athletic renew acquaintance. Referee Alexander McKinley. This is the replay game that was stopped owing to darkness a few weeks ago, and will complete the first half of the allotted encounters.

At the same time, 2.30 prompt, on King Edward Park, the Canadian General and Caledonians will settle the question of two points. The Scotsmen have nothing to gain, win or lose, but intend giving the runners-up a hard tussle. If the Electric boys come through with a win, and the Packers lose, it will balance the league again, thereby making the standing more interesting. Referee James Hawthorne.

Linesmen must be chosen by the teams competing.

GOLF TOURNEY.

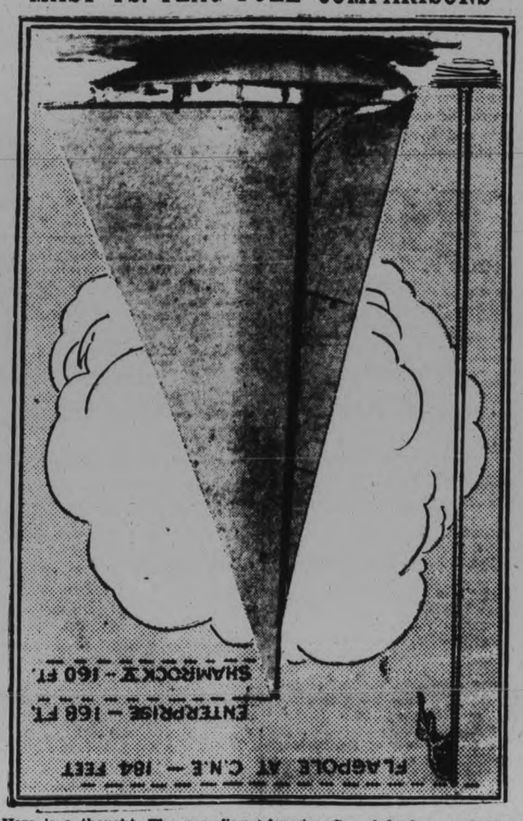
MAST VS. FLAG POLE COMPARISONS



Here is a thought. The new flagpole at the C.N.E., Toronto, recently presented by British Columbia, is 184 feet high and has been recognized as something pretty fair as far as flag-poles go. It turns out, however, that yachts like the Enterprise, America Cup defender, and Shamrock V., the challenger, have been going round with masts sticking out of their decks very nearly as high. Above, the artist has made illustrative comparisons between the 184-foot flag-pole and the masts of the Enterprise and Shamrock.

Hardwood Men Predict Normal Business In Spring

TORONTO, September 12. (C.P.)—A prediction there will be a return to normalcy in Canadian and American business conditions during February and March, 1931, was the highlight of the principal address delivered before delegates to the National Hardwood Lumber Association convention here by W. C. Clark, vice-president of S. Straus & Co., New York.

"We are at this moment experiencing a moderate upswing in business activity, normal at this season of the year, but clear cut," he proceeded. "This is convincing evidence there is beginning to be a state of stability in the economic world's"

The speaker pleaded for a saner, more optimistic philosophy on the part of businessmen.

STEER RIDING IS APPLAUDED BY LARGE CROWD

Three Steers Throw Their Riders in Short Order at Exhibition.

SHOW GREAT SUCCESS.

Bronco Riding Also Provides a Real Thrill For Spectators.

An innocent white steer that had hitherto led a blameless and circumspect life on some neighboring farm, provided a lot of amusement last night for the crowd of people that packed the grandstand at the Fair grounds to capacity. It was estimated that nearly thirty-five hundred men, women and children sat on the stand last evening for the performance. Every available seat was filled, foot space was taken up on the benches by wriggling humans and standing space was at a premium.

It was "thumbs up" in the amphitheatre for the show. The crowd liked every bit of it and applauded enthusiastically. The acrobatic stunts, the music of Joe La Vaux, the daredevil stunts of Kurtzo and Kurtz all received a generous meed of applause. And the Roreo stopped the house.

Steers are Victors.

The cowboys from Calgary put on a fine performance. Last night they had three steers that threw their riders in short order, and galloped off to resume their more peaceful occupations in life. There were no volunteer riders for this gentle sport. The local fraternity let the westerners do it all.

The bronc riding provided its usual thrill. Louis Welsh, on T.N.T., a big sorrel, with a temper that evidently matched its name, and Jose Welsh on Long Tom, gave the watchers something to think about. And the chuck wagon race, with the double careening vehicles making a mad way around the track, blazing merrily, was a spectacular bit.

The two cowboys who were burnt during a chuck wagon event this week were back on duty last night, one with his neck still swathed.

When Louis Welsh rode his black horse over the automobile that provides one of the stunts at the barrier, the animal's first jump landed him on the hood and dented it badly.

New Band Present.

Gliddon's band played splendid music last night, with smooth, free tone and plenty of variety in the selections. When Joe La Vaux took his white and gold accordeon over to the 'mike' in front of the grandstand, Jos. Minicolo, from the band, sang "O Sole Mio," with him in Italian, and to the applause, which followed the impromptu number, both singers gave the old favorite, 'Oy Marie.'"

The fireworks display was as effective as usual last night. A notable bit was the brilliant battle between a tank and a pillbox, as used in the war. Both were done in fireworks and were very startling. The tank spitting firework bombs, slowly approached its stationary enemy, but petered out before it was able to quench the lusty fires of the little pillbox.

Checker Tourney On Monday Evening

A checker tournament of more than usual interest will be held in the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 p.m., on Monday evening, September 15th, to which all checker players are invited. It is being held in honor of Rev. W. S. Edgar of the Gilmour Baptist church, who is soon leaving for the U.S. Rev Mr. Edgar is one of the best players in the province and several star players from outside points will be here. These include J. H. Fell of Fenelon Falls, R. D. McEwan and Dr. Annis of Lindsay, George Bennett, Charles Goodman, William Morten of Port Hope, A. Flindell of Trent, Captain Best of Whitby and George Irwin of Toronto.

As there will be many good scientific games played spectators and those interested are cordially invited to be present.

Ex-National Hurler Has His Neck Broken

HAMILTON, Sept. 12.—"Lefty" Goyer, veteran amateur baseball pitcher, former Belleville Nationals pitcher, who has been playing with the Dundas intermediates this season, is in St. Joseph's hospital here, suffering from a broken neck, the result of an automobile accident while journeying to Ingersoll on Labor Day. Goyer was a passenger, with other members of the Dundas club, in a car which turned over.

Though apparently only slightly hurt, examination revealed that the athlete's injuries were very serious, and he was taken to the hospital. The attending physician, Dr. D. M. Livingstone of Dundas, believes Goyer will recover completely, although it will be necessary to confine him to the hospital for some time.

MONAGHAN SCHOOLS WIN KIWANIS CUP

211 Exhibits in Junior Horticultural Class at the Exhibition This Year.

The Kiwanis Cup, emblematic of the point supremacy in the exhibits of the Junior Horticultural Society at the Peterobrough Industrial Exhibition, was won this year by Confederation and May's schools, comprising S. S. No. 2, North Monaghan. This cup, donated by the local Kiwanis Club to be held for one year by the school winning the most points, has been in the possession of King Edward school for the past year by virtue of last year's win. King Edward school stood second this year.

The showing of the Junior Horticultural Society at the "Ex" this week is a big improvement over that of last year, according to A. J. Madill, Secretary of the organization. There are 211 exhibits, as against 159 in 1929, and 14 new exhibitors are present. The prize money, which is greater this year, includes prizes for carrots, beets, onions, turnips, in the vegetable class, and asters, zinnia, calendula, annual phlox, African marigold, pinks, scabiosa, and strawflower, in the flower class.

Additions to the Prize List published in Tuesday's Examiner were made public by officials of the Society this morning.

Phlox: 1, Mary Parkes, Confederation; 2, Roland Bookman, Confederation; 3, Freda Hill, King Edward; 4, Roy Hudson, Queen Mary; 5, Dorothy Pearson, Prince of Wales; 6, Jean Cordery, May's.

Calendula: 5, Veneral Stoneburg, King George; 6, Virginia Madill, Central.

Scabiosa:: 1, Eva Smith, King George; 2, Aileen Smith, King Edward; 3, Bryan Roberts, King Edward; 4, Leona Foote, King Edward.

CRICKET

LONDON, Sept. 12. (C.P.) — The Australians scored 238 runs in their first innings at Scarborough to-day. Don Bradman made 98 runs and Kippax 59 runs. Parker go 3 wickets for 81 runs and Rhodes 5 for 95 runs. At tea time England had scored 145 runs for 3 wickets of which Hobbs contributed 49. In their first innings, England scored 218, declared.

The match between Gentlemen and Players at Folkestone ended in a draw as it was abandoned on account of rain.

SKELETON OF FARMER LOST FIVE YEARS IS DISCOVERED

PICTON, Ont., September 12 (C P.). — The body of Joseph Woodall, who disappeared from his home in Bethel in 1925, was discovered by his son in a field on his farm yesterday. Only the skeleton remained.

Identification was made through the articles of clothing, a mackinaw jacket and a pair of rubber boots, found overgrown by long grass in an unfrequented spot where the body had laid for five years. The remains of a razor and a pipe were also found. In a pocket were four five-cent pieces.

The coroner decided an inquest was unnecessary.

CANADIAN OPEN HAS STRONG FIELD

Over One-third of Entrants For Monday's Qualifying Are From States.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12.—An exceptionally strong entry has been received by the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union for the twenyt-fifth Canadian ladies' open championship, which commences at the Laval club, Montreal, next Monday morning with the 18-hole qualifying round which will determine the 32 players who will continue in match play on Tuesday. The championship has brought out 73 players, and of these 29 are from the United States, and the ranking players are strongly represented in the field. Miss Helen Hicks, who won the title last year at Hamilton, and Miss Maureen Orcutt are the leaders of the invading contingent, both being rated at plus one by the Metropolitan Women's Golf Association, while Mrs. Higbie of Detroit is rated at scratch.

No less than 11 members of Glenna Collett's team that visited Great Britain and France early in the Summer are seeking the title and the Duchess of Connaught Gold Cup, others besides Misses Hicks and Orcutt being Peggy Wattles, Edith Quier, Louise Fordyce, Mrs. Higbie, Bernice Wall, Mrs. Leo Federman, Rosalie Knapp, Fritzi Stifel and Marian Bennett, and there is a strong possibility that Miss Collett, Virginia Van Wie and other stars will be post entries. In addition there are Mary K. Browne, who will captain the United States team in the international match to-day, Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake and 16 others.

The Canadian contingent will be headed by Miss Ada Mackenzie, the close champion and three times winner of the open title, Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Cecil Smith, Dora Virtue, Mrs. Whittington, Mme. Dagenais, Margery Kirkham, Evelyn Mills, Maude Smith, Eileen Kinsella and Margaret Lockhart. Misses Hicks and Cecil Smith will start the tournament, teeing off at 9.30.

UNITED CHURCH IS RE-DECORATED

Regent Street Church at Lakefield is Re-opened by Rev. C. W. Barrett.

CONGREGATIONAL SOCIAL.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Sunday the Regent street United church was re-opened after being completely renovated and re-decorated. The work was done by Mr. T. Jewell and his son and financed by the Ladies' Aid. The church presented a delightful appearance and was very much admired by the congregations, which filled the church to capacity at both services. A former pastor, Rev. C. H. Barrett of Brighton was the guest preacher and delivered very thoughtful and inspiring sermons both morning and evening. The choir provided a special program of excellent music under the direction of Mrs. H. E. Moore, choir leader.

On Monday evening a congregational social was held in the basement of the church with the pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp, in the chair. A splendid program had been prepared and each performer had to respond to an encore, which is an evidence of how the program "went over" with the crowd. The star of the evening was Mr. C. E. Coleman of Peterborough, who was inimitable in his comedy selections which brought down the house and kept the audience in roars of laughter. Miss Reynolds, who contributed several readings, one which had a great deal of human interest was "Thanksgiving Day at the Watson's" by Nellie McClung. Her encore "The Lost Spectacles" was humorous without pathos. Her last selection "The Face on the Bar Room Floor," was dramatic and very well given. Master Victor Coleman, who possesses a beautiful well-trained treble voice delighted his audience with two numbers "Sylvia, Who Is She" and "Hark, Hark the Lark at Heaven's Gate Sings". The Misses Marjorie and Bernice Hamilton, Peterborough, contributed several guitar duets, which were a novelty to Lakefield audiences, and greatly appreciated. Miss Margaret Northey, a promising elocutionist gave "Betty at the ball game", a humorous selection in a manner which showed decided talent. Two very popular local artists, Mrs. MacMillen, soloist, and Mr. Herrick Brown, pianist, also contributed numbers which added to the well balanced program.

Mr. Coleman's numbers were "I Love A Lassie", "It's Far Too Early In the Morning To Awaken Me", "I'm the Man They Left Behind," and "The Twins". The second named had the whole audience yawning as well as laughing and the military touches of "The Man They Left Behind" were being imitated by a group of youngsters at the close of the program.

Rev. S. A. Kemp thanked all who assisted in any way for their efforts and expressed pleasure at the success.

Ice cream and cake were served at the close and a social hour was spent. It was an auspicious beginning to a new season's activity after the holidays and it will mean much in the congregational life for the year to come.

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

The services at Christ (Anglican) Church on Sunday features a celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 a.m. with Evening prayer at 7 p.m. The Rev. T. McKim, M.A., of Colborne will be in charge for the day. At St. John's United Church the Rev. R. C. Tait will take for his morning sermon theme, "Transforming by Beholding," and in the evening "The Fruit of the Spirit is Self-Control." At the morning service Mrs. Mary Free will be soloist. At the Baptist Church the Rev. L. M. Smith will preach in the morning on the subject, "A Stone of Stumbling," and in the evening he will take for his theme "The Church on the March." The Church School will be at 10.30 a.m. At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church morning and evening worship will be at the usual hours. Special musical programs will be given by the organist Mr. W. A. Newcourt at both services. At the evening service Mr. Newcourt will give the second of his short organ recitals at 6.45 p.m. on "The Masterpieces of the Great Composers." This week's composer will be F. Chopin, and the compositions, Nocturne op. 37 No 1; Prelude op. 28 No 15.

On the Seymour United Church circuit the Rev. F. G. MacTavish will take for his sermon theme "The Trustees of Christ." He will hold services at Stephens at 11 a.m. and Tabernacle at 3 p.m. There will be no evening service at Zion owing to the Anniversary service at Rylstone. At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, the Rev. Donald A. McKenzie will take for his subject at the morning service, "Man's Place in the Universe."

Wee day meetings include the Thursday Bible study at the Baptist Church, and the meeting of the Mission Band of St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae on Saturday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Whitton. The Young People's Society of St. John's United Church will hold their first meeting of the season on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when an address will be given by the Rev. G. W. Gardner, president of the Y.P.S. of the Cobourg Prebytery.

The town was favored Wednesday evening when the Campbellford Jazz Band performed for the citizens before going to Trenton to take part in the Rotary Street Fair at that place. This organization has done splendid work in the past few months and is favorably commented upon wherever it appears.

Don't forget the Campbellford Fall Fair on Sept. 30th and Oct. 1st. This is going to be a big do, and the committee is going, with the assistance of the citizens of town and district, to put it over the top.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Mark and daughters Agnes and Jean returned on Tuesday from a trip to Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bennett have as their guest Mr. Bennett's sister, Miss Bennett of Detroit, Mich.

Several car loads of people from town visited Peterborough Exhibition on Thursday. Campbellford has been well represented at that event this year.

Mrs. N. Southern has as her guest for a few weeks her sister, Mrs. L. J. Clarke of Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. E. H. Lewis of Peterborough is spending a few days with her son, Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Canrobert street.

The Brampton lacrosse team and fans who visited Campbellford on Wednesday for the big game were the guests of the Clifton Tea Rooms for refreshments.

Several of the members of the Campbellford Rotary Club motored to Trenton on Wednesday to take part in the Trenton Rotary Street Fair, and report a good time.

After visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Johnston, Mrs. S. Chessell and daughter Evelyn returned this week to their home at Belleville.

Mr. T. J. Cranghead was a visitor to Hastings on Thursday.

Lacrosse is becoming very popular among the children of town as seen by the numbers that attended the game on Wednesday. Which reminds us that there is going to be a benefit game of lacrosse staged next Wednesday at the High School between the regular Campbellford team and the old-timers. This will be some game, and should bring forth a good response on the part of the people of town. Further particulars later.

Major J. F. B. Belford was a business visitor to town on Wednesday.

Mrs. S. McKee has returned from her trip to Peterborough and Lakefield where she visited friends and relatives.

Three Firsts Awarded Indian River Farmer

Three firsts were awarded to George W. Fife of Indian River in the dairy butter competitions at the Exhibition dairy products judging yesterday afternoon. These awards were for the best five pounds of butter in prints, the best tinnet or crock of butter, not less than three pounds, and for a crock of butter, not less than five pounds.

Judge was G. A. Gillespie.

The general cost of living in New Zealand has risen until now in cities it is practically the same as in America.

CRISP...

and refreshing as a breeze—Kellogg's Corn Flakes and milk or cream. Great for a warm-day lunch. So easy to digest, so extra crisp, they help you feel fit!

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

More than 12,000,000 people delight in Kellogg's Corn Flakes every day. Kellogg's are especially inviting in summer. They furnish energy, and yet are so easy to digest they don't "heat" the body.

Serve for breakfast, the children's supper. Great with fruits or honey added.

Oven-fresh in the inner sealed waxtite wrapper. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants, cafeterias. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

BURN FORD COKE

because it is easy to control and gives quick heat when you want it

FORD COKE is made by the Ford Motor Company for home use. You don't need to alter your present heating equipment to use it. Strict Ford standards control the coking, and the same high-quality coal is always used. That's why you're always sure of the same good results from Ford Coke, whenever you order it.

You get clean heat from Ford Coke—as you like it, when you want it. Warms your house quickly in the mornings, controls easily through the day, requires a minimum of attention. And it burns without smoke or soot—very little ash. Order Ford Coke today, for a cleaner home and better heating.

(Ford Charcoal Briquets are an ideal fuel for starting furnace and for grate fires)

EXHIBITION NOTES

PLAYGROUND EXHIBIT.

One of the very interesting minor exhibits at the Fair this year is the display of work done by small boys and girls at the Supervised Playgrounds. The little lads and lasses have contrived some very pretty things that show an original touch. Especially pleasing are small framed pictures that hold embroidery subjects. They are little, dainty ladies, with blonde curls looking at bright pink and blue flowers in a gay garden. One lovely cushion shows a design in Columbine and Harlequin effect, with colored pieces of cloth making the catchy figures.

Embroidered runners and centre-pieces and little raffia boxes and picture frames make up other exhibits in this display in one section of the Women's Room in the upper hall of the Main Building. James Abraham and the other supervisors of the Playgrounds are responsible for much of this fine work, encouraging the pupils in their efforts.

Doings In Commons.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12. —C. P.—To-day in Parliament:

The Senate will continue to debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The House of Commons will discuss the bill which provides twenty million dollars for unemployment relief, on second reading. Later amendments to the Customs Act will be considered.

The Senate continued the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The House of Commons passed a resolution for the expenditure of $20,000,000 for the relief of unemployment in committee of the whole, and gave first reading to the bill.

DIETING AND PHYSICAL CULTURE

toes above her swing, for he had a bad fall in this way last year. His toes didn't give out, but the cable did and he fell, head first, to the ground, many feet below. Before he reached it, however, he was able to right himself, but he broke both feet in the landing.

Daredevil Stunts

As well as this high pole stuff, Kurtzo has other stunts to his credit, such as making his way on a half-inch rope causeway, from roof to roof of buildings on either side of Broadway, in New York city. Half way over, he swung his feet through a loop in the rope and hung, head down, over the massed thousands of people who watched his effort.

He has also walked and performed stunts on the tops of high buildings, walls and factory chimneys, made balloon ascensions and parachute drops, done stunts on the wings of flying machines and climbed the walls of high buildings.

"One can never tell when occasion will arise when good muscles will mean the difference between life and death" says Kurtzo, who advocates strict diet and is a physical culture extremist. His food, taken in two meals a day, breakfast at about eleven o'clock and dinner at five, consists mainly of vegetables, fruits, coarse cereals, milk and water. For many years he was a physical instructor in various places in the United States.

Get Big Kick Out of Job

"Do you enjoy your work?" he was asked, and admitted, with a little mild smile of deprecation: "I get a great kick out of it."

Later in this year, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtzo intend to go either to Japan or to South America. In Japan, a national Fair will be in progress for three months, and they have a splendid offer as an attraction at it. But they have not yet decided which country to visit.

In off seasons, they do indoor vaudeville work, such as contortion stunts and work on the flying rings and trapeze.

They came here from the Fair at Toronto, where they were one of the main attractions before the grandstand.

Twice a day, they have been thrilling crowds at the Exhibition grounds, with their daring stunts on a sixty-foot steel pole.

"I am what I am today, physically able to perform muscular feats of daring which no other man has equaled, simply because I have lived a sane, clean and simple life since babyhood. I began exercising, training my muscles, almost as soon as I could walk. Today, I have absolute control over every muscle in my body.

"I always have lived in accordance with a strict diet, which forbade red meats, much sweets, pastries and alcohol in any form. For rubbing only it is excellent. I don't smoke. I have never been ill. I don't know what it is to have nerves or be afraid. I am convinced that it is to the always perfect condition of my stomach that I have been successful as an athlete.

"I learned about physical culture eight years ago. I have followed its teachings faithfully day and night, ever since, without a minute of side-stepping."

Mr. Kurto likes Canada. He says it reminds him more of the Old World than does the United States. The atmosphere here is different from the busyness of life on the other side of the line.

WIND DAMAGE IS EVERYONE'S CONCERN

Second only to fire in capacity for destructiveness, high winds wreak damage almost everywhere, at almost any time.

June, "Month of Roses," has a bad record for windstorms. And there is no insurance against such destruction as may be wrought by gales and tornadoes except a specific Windstorm Policy. However, the cost is very moderate, as we'll be glad to prove.

TOURIST AND HOTEL BUSINESS

there was some of that, but customers who came to us both regularly and frequently. Starting about last January, they defaulted bills. We had 27 defaulters in a single day. What can you do put them in Jail" That won't wipe off the debt but it will lose you clients. We'd like to introduce some of this money to our bills but we simply can't get it. We're carrying more than 30 people on the cuff right now."

"But why?" "I think any hotel man would prefer to have a few guests he hopes to collect from some day than no guests at all and no chance of collecting. There are some 500 room hotels here with less than 10 guests some nights.

The Biltmore, one of the largest hotels, is doing a 40 per cent. business which is considered good but two other big fellows, the Park Central and the Paramount have gone into receivership, the management of the Knickerbocker, Plymouth, Victoria, President and Somerset have been dispossessed. According to Wall St. reports, between 15 and 20 other houses are tottering on the verge of bankruptcy and will pass into receiver's hands this winter unless better tourist conditions come quickly.

A 1000 room hotel due to be opened in October may never be used, yet three other big ones, including the new Waldorf Astoria now under construction, are due to take their place next year. The Waldorf is expected to reclaim that national popularity it held when Oscar was king.

More than 200 theatres are dark, the mayor puts the number of unemployed at 254,660 with another half million on short time but the movie houses are jammed to capacity every day, starting at ten in the morning with the last performance getting under way about one the next day.

The ball teams are having what they describe as "the most terrifically successful season we have ever enjoyed." The New York Giants and Americans predict they will split $8,000,000 even if neither of them get into the world series. The split is about 50-50. Earl Carroll's Vanities and "Flyin High" the only big musical shows now going grabbed $92,000 between them last week. The cheapest ground floor seat is five dollars. During the same week the Paramount theatre, took in $91,300; the Roxy did $123,000. These two play talkies.

According to the wise men of the roaring forties this is just an indication of mob psychology.

All day long people line up to get into the Paramount or Roxy. Around the corner theatres fail because nobody goes to them at all. The Roxy is playing "Song O My Heart" tonight. You can probably see the same pictures in your neighborhood without lining up.

The accompanying stage show is good but almost entirely imported from Canada. The chief soloist is Douglas Stanbury who used to be a boy soprano in Toronto.

These Broadway movie cathedrals have spielers too just like the midway. They shoot their spiels at you in batches of three. The trio of $18 a week boys who invite you inside to see the man eating tigers or whatever is on are helped out by the radio which booms away to the effect that you still have time to see the entire show. This goes on even with crowds—native Manhattan crowds—lined four deep for blocks.

Same thing with the night clubs which have about as much genuine entertainment as a pickled whale. Some play to turn away business but most of them starve—and no wonder.

The movie crowds herded into line give a picture of prosperity to that famous street called Broadway but in lower New York there is another famous street called the Bowery and there they are lined up just as thickly trying to get a bowl of thin soup and a slice of butterless bread. A strange city.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 60 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan held in his hand a cable-gram from Paris. He tore it open, almost dreading to know its contents. The message was from his friend d'Arnot. It read: "Finger prints prove you Lord Greystoke. Congratulations." At last he knew the truth. The mystery was solved. His great chest heaved with emotion.

Tarzan turned toward the window. But he saw nothing without. Instead in his mind's eye he beheld a patch of greensward in the African jungle matted with tropical plants and flowers. Above, the waving foliage of mighty trees and over all the blue of an equatorial sky! It was HOME.

A lovely girl sat upon a mound of earth. Beside her was a young giant. They ate pleasant fruit and looked into each other's eyes and smiled. They were very happy—and they were alone. He heard her voice... "I hope your message bears no bad news?" Jane asked gently.

Tarzan came to with a start. He looked toward Clayton, the man who had Tarzan's title and estates. He was going to marry the woman Tarzan loved. One word from Tarzan would take them all from him.... AND JANE! Tarzan made his decision, made his noble act of self-renunciation.

Then he answered Jane. "It means I must return to Africa." He heard her half-choked sob...."We owe you our lives," said Clayton humbly.... "How'd you get into that bally jungle, anyway?"...."I was born there," said Tarzan quietly...."My mother was an ape....I never knew who my father was!"

WEDDING BELLS

SIMS—TROTTER.

The wedding took place quietly at the parsonage of Trinity United Church, with the pastor, the Rev. D. Wren, officiating, of Greta Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trotter, and Daniel Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sims of England.

The bride wore a pretty frock of white brocaded satin with white kid shoes and white silk hose.

Attendants were Mrs. F. Welsh and Rayfield Nickels. The former wore mauve brocaded satin with blonde shoes and hose and fox fur neckpiece.

After the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Barrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims left to spend their honeymoon in Toronto and other points. They will reside at 492 Murray street.

MACLACHLAN--EDWARDS.

St. Paul's church, Lindsay, was the scene of a charming wedding on Saturday, September 6, when the marriage was solemnized of Clementina Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. G. Edwards to Mr. James MacLachlan, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacLachlan, Larbet, Stirlingshire, Scotland. Rev. Canon Marsh, officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a graceful gown of white chiffon, with long veil caught at the back and sides with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Phyllis Edwards was maid of honor, and wore an orchid chiffon gown made princess style, with purple velvet hat and matching shoes. Miss Freda Edwards, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of pink chiffon, similar to that of the maid of honor, with cornflower blue hat and shoes to match. They carried mauve and pink bouquets. The groom was attended by Mr. Cecil Scharfe of Port Hope, and the ushers were Mr. Charles O'Conor-Fenton of Peterborough, and Mr. Geoffrey Edwards of Lindsay. During the signing of the register Mrs. John Wilford sang. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. MacLachlan left for a motor trip to Eastern Canada, the bride travelling in a blue silk suit, with shoes and hat to match.

EXCELLENT HERDS.

Birdsall Herefords Outstanding Local Herd in Beef Class Yesterday.

Judging of the cattle classes was concluded Friday afternoon, concluding competition in the dairy and beef sections that was the real essence of the exhibition.

In the full glare of yesterday's sun only those who have an abiding interest in dairy cattle endured the heat while the final awards were being decided. A little group of breeders and citizens who like to fancy themselves owners of pure bred herds sweltered in the September heat.

In the Ayrshire class the herds of Alex Hume and Son of Campbellford and J. Gordon Mann & Son of Smith township were the most consistent winners; and T. R. Kerr of Campbellford and Ernest Rosborough & Son also share in the first prizes.

The Mann herd won both male and female championships:

The results were as follows:

Dairy Cattle—Ayrshires

Senior bull, 1st J. Gordon Mann and Sons; 2nd and 3rd Alex Hume and Sons, Campbellford.

Bull two years—1st and 2nd, T. R. Kerr, Campbellford.

Yearling bull—A. Hume and Sons; 2nd, J. Gordon Mann and Sons.

Senior bull calf—1st and 2nd, J. Gordon Mann and Sons.

Junior bull calf—1st, T. R. Kerr; 2nd, J. Gordon Mann and Sons; 3rd and 4th, Gordon Kidd, Lakefield.

Cow, four years and over, in milk—1st and 3rd, A. Hume and Son; 2nd and 4th, J. Gordon Mann and Sons.

Cow, three years and under four years, in milk—1st, J. Gordon Mann and Sons.

Cow, three years and over, not milking—1st, J. Gordon Mann and Sons; 2nd, 3rd and 4th, A. Hume and Sons.

FLIERS READY FOR LONG HOP

Trans-Pacific Flight Is Scheduled To Start Early Sunday Morning.

GASOLINE IS LOADED.

SAMBONGI, Japan, Sept 13—(Canadian Press). — Harold L. Bromleys plane, the "City of Tacoma" was poised tonight atop improvished ramp at the end of Samishiro Beach, ready to hop off at the break of dawn to-morrow for a trans-pacific hop to Tacoma Wash.

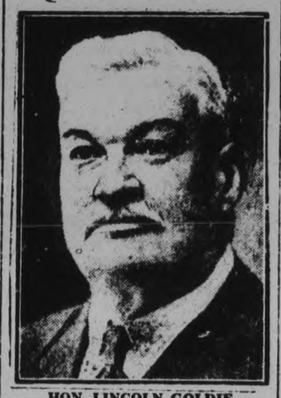
Although the winds were not entirely favorable Bromley and his flying companion, Harold Gatty, decided to start at once because the weather forecast indicated they might he held up for a week if they did not seize the present opportunity.

The two fliers supervised the loading of 1,020 gallons of gasoline into their plane. They provisioned it with two roast chickens, sandwiches, a box of chocolate bars, some corned-beef and hard-tack and four thermos bottles of coffee.

One Spree a Year Allowed Veteran

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 13. (C.P.)—When a man 61 years of age appeared before Magistrate Andrew Elliott, in police court on a charge of being drunk, and was asked how he got in such a condition he replied that he was a veteran of the Great War, and had not been intoxicated since he was demobilized. "I think I will let you go this time," said the Magistrate. "A man of your age is entitled to one drunk a year."

Quits Cabinet



HON. LINCOLN GOLDIE,

Provincial Secretary in the Ontario Government, who to-day announced his retirement from the Cabinet of Premier G. Howard Ferguson. Mr. Goldie stated to the Canadian Press that his decision to resign was made on the advice of his physician, who has ordered him to take a long holiday.

EXTENDED PROBE URGED IN YORK

Crowd Breaks Into Uproar and Police Are Called In.

GO BACK TO 1922.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12.—(CP)—Amid scenes of such tumult that police were called to check the disturbance, ratepayers of York township assembling in a suburban schoolhouse last night, endorsed resolutions requesting Judge J. H. Denton to extend the scope of his enquiry into alleged irregularities in connection with the tendering of sewer contracts to embrace public works of major importance as far back as 1922.

It was the second meeting of a series planned by township ratepayers for the purpose of inaugurating a clean-up campaign in municipal affairs and was the wildest in the annals of York Township politics.

The trouble started when the citizens' committee that had called the meeting suggested the investigation be carried back to 1924. Immediately the crowd broke into an uproar and claim was voiced on all sides this did not go back far enough and an amendment extending the period of the probe back to 1922 was carried uanimously.

TO HOLD NO INQUEST.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.).—No inquest will be held into the shooting and suicide which took place here yesterday morning. The bodies of Simon McIntosh, R.C.M.P., and his wife, Helen, were released from the morgue to-day.

DUMPING CLAUSE TO ADD STRENGTH TO CUSTOMS ACT

Prevent Foreign Goods Being Sold in Canada Below Canadian Production Cost.

DISCUSSION STORMY.

Opposition Would Have Auditor-General Examine Books of Provinces.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.).—After a strenuous week of discussing legislation designed to ease unemployment conditions in Canada, Parliament to-day will take a holiday. Government and Opposition members for the past week have thrown themselves whole-heartedly into the task of finding ways and means of changing distress conditions throughout the Dominion, but will ease up the pace over the week-end.

When the Commons opens again on Monday afternoon, it will discuss a Government resolution recommending changes in the provisions of the Customs Act under which the Minister of National Revenue has the power to set values for duty purposes on certain commodities. Generally, this system is called imposing "dumping duties," and is aimed at preventing the flooding of the Canadian market with foreign goods at prices below production costs of competing home commodities.

Tariff Legislation Monday.

If progress be made on this resolution, the Government intends introducing its proposed changes in the tariff, and from that will revert back to a bill setting up an unemployment relief fund of $20,000,000. This measure was allowed to stand over in committee stage last night after Premier R. B. Bennett intimated that an additional clause might be added, the terminology of which was not drafted. It would specify that all unexpended and unappropriated portions of the fund would lapse at the close of the fiscal year.

Progress was reported on the resolution last night only after a long day filled with protracted and at times stormy discussion. There were many suggestions offered the government from the Opposition side and at least one formal amendment was defeated. It originated with A. W. Neill (Ind.-Comox-Alberni), who moved that 'in carryying out the purposes of the Act there shall be no discrimination allowed either in favor of or against those of any political affiliations.'" Without a division the House rejected the proposed clause after little discussion.

Sound Death Knell.

The dumping law resolution will 'sound the death knell of dumping" in Canada. Hon. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, announced in the House last night. One of the provisions of the proposed bill will be

FLIERS ARE OFF ON FIRST STAGE OF ATLANTIC HOP

Five Year Old Monoplane Columbia Starts Flight Amid Drizzle.

CARRIES NO RADIO

Two Airmen Hopeful Of Start From Newfoundland For London In Morning.

MONTREAL, Que., September 13 (C.P.). — Jubilant at their release after so many heart-breaking delays from weather and legal difficulties, Captain J. Erroll Boyd, Canadian war flyer, and Lieut. Harry O'Connor, his United States friend and navigator, at 8.30 (E.D.S.T.) this morning lifted the veteran Bellanca monoplane Columbia off the turf at St. Hubert Airport in fifty seconds, and headed east for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on their way across the Atlantic to England.

A light drizzle of rain accompanied the take-off of the Columbia this morning, with dull skies and heavy grey clouds. Lieut. Connor said before leaving that he did not expect very good weather, and would probably have to fly a compass course part of the way to Harbor Grace. The flyers asked the Canadian Press to request airport authorities at Harbor Grace to prepare landing flares in case the Columbia does not reach her destination before nightfall and has to make a landing after dark.

Lieutenant Connor said that weather conditions over the Atlantic for the next twenty-four hours are none too favorable, but he hopes to take off for London to-morrow morning.

Starts In Mist

In the misty stillness of an early autumn dawn, the old Bellanca that already had carried Charles A. Levine and Clarence Chamberlain across the unmarked airlanes of the ocean to Germany, was wheeled out of her hangar and made ready for the flight. The last of two hundred gallons of gasoline was pumped into

'29 ATTENDANCE PASSED BY 3,629

7,345 Paid Attendance at the Peterborough Exhibition Yesterday.

TOTAL IS 27,571.

Exceeding all previous records, the total atendance at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition since opening day and up to last night, now stands at 27,571. This is an increase of 3 629 over the total attendance at last year's exhibition, and to-day's gate receipts are yet to come. It is a safe bet that this years total attendance will pass the 35,000 mark, as it is expected that the grand parade of livestock and the big race card scheduled for this afternoon, will bring forth a crowd which will make all previous attendances pale a little.

Opening got away to an auspicous start this year, with a total attendance of 1,819 or an increase over last years opening-day attendance of 1,615. Favoured with ideal weather, such as has not been experienced in the last thirteen years and backed by one of the most pleasing and spectacular grand stand performances in the history of the Fair, the first day's attendance multiplied to 10,886 on the second day as against a total attendance of 6 266 on the corresponding day in 1929 and on Thursday it stood at 7,521, reaching another high total last evening with 7,345.

Co-operation of Public

Such results are not surprising, when it is realised that the Exhibition Board, under their energetic president, Mayor Roland Denne, worked months ahead of opening day to ensure the success of the 1930 Fair. They had the co-operation of the general public and of course the numerous exhibitors of livestock and farm produce without which the Fair would not exist.

To-day children are to be admitted at the gates up to 5 o'clock for the nominal sum of 5c, while their elders are reminded that regardless of time the full program in front of the grandstand will be given to-night to provide a fitting grand finale to the 1930 "Ex".

Sir Thomas Lipton's brand new yacht, the Shamrock V, all ready for her race to-day with the American yacht, Enterprise, for the historic "America" cup, which has never yet left this continent, in spite of Sir Thomas' persistent endeavors. He has strong hopes, however, that the cup this year will return to England with him. The races start at Newport to-day. The ABOVE illustration shows the "Shamrock" in a trial spin. ILLNESS FORCES LINCOLN GOLDIE TO RESIGN POST

Provincial Secretary Held Position Since Tories Won From Drury.

LENGTHY SICKNESS.

Resignation Brings to Fore Possibility Of Ferguson Cabinet Re-organization.

GUELPH Sept. 13. (C.P.)—Hon. Lincoln Goldie, provincial secretary in the Ferguson cabinet announced to-day that he had resigned from the government. Hon. Mr. Goldie stated that he was resigning on account of his doctor's orders.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13. (C.P.)) Hon. Lincoln Goldie who announced his resignation from the Ontario Government today on account of ill-health has been Provincial Secretary since Hon. G. H. Ferguson and his Conservative administration succeeded that of Hon. E. C. Drury, the United Farmer Leader in July, 1923.

Mr. Goldie who is 66 years of age has been in poor health for some time and his retirement from the political field was not unexpected. ..

The resignation brings to the fore again the possibility of a reorganization of the Ferguson cabinet. Reports recently have been to the effect that in addition to Mr. Goldie, Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture would relinquish their posts.

CANADA PAID ALL COST OF TROOPS DURING WAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 13.—(C.P.) — Denial was made by Sir George Perley, wartime Canadian High Commissioner in London last night of the suggestion in the report of the committee of unemployment and wage reduction of the Australian Council of Trade Unions that Canada was relieved of all expenditure relating to troops upon their embarkation overseas in the Great War. "They must have been misinformed," Sir George Perley stated. "Canada herself paid the entire cost of her troops during the war from the time of their enlistment until they were discharged from the service."

More than 900 cross-Channel tourists arrived in Larne, Northern Ireland, in one day recently.

Two Youths Fail To Ride Broncos

In a bold bid for the prize of $100 offered by the Welsh Brothers, to any contestant who is able to ride one of their bronco for 12 seconds under Calgary rules, Joe Robertson of 292 Townsend street and Angus Glover, 632 Union street, mounted their broncos in the shute before last night's grand stand crowds, to be almost immediately bucked off.

Their short-lived exploits in the saddles of the 'outlaws' does not detract any from their pluck. Crowds who have witnessed the Welsh Brothers' rodeo all week and who have breathlessly followed the erratic course of both horses and riders will realize this fact, fully. It is understood that the two boys are coming back for another attempt to-night. Ride 'em cowboy!.

TARIFF RIVALRY NEEDS REMEDY

European Free Trading Countries Driven to Protection League Agrees.

Foresee Economic Anarchy.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 13.—(C.P.).—The League of Nations Assembly has reviewed its past year's work and found that the movement for co-operation in the economic field launched twelve months ago, has many defeats to mourn and no great victories to celebrate.

Spokesmen for various countries, following each other before the international gathering of statesmen, are agreed that Europe is now in a state bordering on economic anarchy and that some joint remedial effort is a vital need for world peace and prosperity.

The Assembly was told by its own leaders that attempts at a tariff truce had failed; the Customs barriers, instead of crumbling, actually had grown more formidable in several states; and that contribution of the growth of its protectionist spirit threatened to drive the few remaining free trading nations into adopting that very high tariff policy which all loudly deplored.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

SARNIA, Ont. Sept. 13. (C.P.)—John F. Harrington, 22, employee of the Imperial Oil Refineries, died in a hospital here as the result of burns suffered in a fire which broke out in the company's laboratory. He was attempting to carry a container of gasoline to safety when he slipped and fell, spilling the fuel and becoming enveloped in flames.

'KING OF THE MOONSHINERS' FACE SECOND CHARGE IN POLICE COURT

Sammy Hill And Bruce Freeburn Charged With Operating Still.

AT NOGIE'S CREEK.

Let out on bail a week ago yesterday on a charge of operating a still at Nogie's Creek, two youths, it is alleged by Excise Officer W. H. Buller, returned to their former haunts and immediately set about preparing another large still.

The two, Sammy Hill, 16, and Creighton Freeburn, 18, nephew and son ,of Bruce Freeburn, called by the authorities "King of the Moonshiners," faced a new charge of operating a still in the police court this morning. Freeburn, Senior, is at present out on bail awaiting trial on a similar offence, having been arrested at the first still with the two boys.

The boys refused to plead this morning and over the protests of the excise officers they were again offered a bail of $1000. This is the same amount as their bail on the first charge.

Officer Buller would not state who had arrested the boys, but said they were taken into custody on Boyd's Island in Pigeon Lake, near the site of the first still yesterday afternoon. It was a large still, he said, and had been fully set up for operation. The boys were preparing to boil some mash when the officers descended upon them, he said.

Northland Waters Add Years to Life

TORONTO, Sept. 13. (C.P.) The Ontario Research Foundation, it is reported, is conducting an investigation of the radium ore deposits in the Township of Cardiff, 60 miles north of Lindsay, where pitchblende, one of the ores of radium, was found in considerable quantities by a prospector several years ago. Natives who imbibe the radium water near the deposits are said to attain a ripe age and are in perfect health, while horses are said to be quite frisky at 32 years of age as the result of drinking the water.

Spectators Cheer As 2 Yachts Race Into 5-Knot Wind

White Sparred American Defender Crosses line at 11.55 footing Faster Than The Emerald Green British Racer And Soon Opens Up Several Lengths Of a Lead.

THRONGS ATTENDING OPENING CONTEST OF SERIES CHEER BOTH YACHTS AS THEY START 30-MILE COURSE.

Light North Breeze Holds Speed To Five Knots Shortly After Start And Unless It Freshens It was Believed Sloops would Make Poorer Time On Homeward Leg.

U.S.S. KANE, Off America's Cup Race Course, by Radio to Canadian Press, September 13. — A light northerly wind was blowing over the course on which the Shamrock V., owned by Sir Thomas Lipton, and the Enterprise are fighting to-day in the first race of the America Cup contest. The Enterprise took an early lead, which it was holding at 2.30.

The Enterprise bore down on the line bearing mainsail, balloon and jib topsail, while Shamrock V., in addition to her balooner had her staysail and small jib set.

Shamrock V. was first to break out her spinnaker, and she began to foot faster with this wing set. The Enterprise's spinnaker was broke out a moment later and whistles of the huge spectator fleet shrieked encouragement to the sloops as they crossed the line, and then fell in line well off the course to follow the racing boats.

The breeze was light and from the north at the start. Fifteen minutes later the speed of the racing craft was estimated at about 5 knots, but sufficient to carry the boats over the thirty-mile course within the five and a half hour time limit. Enterprise at that time was leading Shamrock V. by many boat lengths. The course was fifteen miles south by west before the wind and return, and unless the breeze freshened it was reasonable to believe the yachts would make poorer time beating back into the light air on the homeward leg.

The starting signal was sounded at 12.55 E.D.T., Harold S. Vanderbilt put the white sparred Enterprise over the line in the weather berth faster than Sir Thomas's green sloop, and the American boat immediately opened up a lead.

Enterprise, defender of the cup, which has been held by America for 73 years, started moving toward the starting line under tow.

The wind was still in the east and visibility was poor.

The steamship, City of Lowell, loaded with spectators, who had come up to see the race, steamed past Sir Thomas's yacht, and the passengers lined the rails, and gave the 81-year old Irish sportsman a rousing cheer.

Sir Thomas came to the rail and waved his acknowledgment.

TARIFF CHANGES MAY BE ANNOUNCED ON MONDAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.).—The changes in the tariff may be made known in the House of Commons on Monday. This all depends on the progress that is made on the resolution for amendments to the Customs Act respecting dumping duties. If this resolution gets through early enough the tariff changes will be taken up immediately, but otherwise they will be left over until Tuesday. This was the effect of the discussion between Premier Bennett and Mr. King, leader of the Opposition, at the close of the night session.

FULL PERFORMANCE AT FAIR TO-NIGHT

Vaudeville And Rodeo Acts Will Complete Peterborough's Best Exhibition.

To-night will see the closing of the most successful Fair in Peterborough's history.

There have been three contributing factors to this year's success: First, the good-will of the whole community ,both local and district; second, a bang-up, well-balanced show; and, third, exceptionally fine weather. The three are practically necessary to make a Fair go over, as this one has.

Every one is enthusiastic about this year's success ,and it would not be surprising if record-breaking figures were finally turned in. To-night is the last opportunity citizens have to boost this years' figures, and the full Vaudeville and Rodeo Program will be given in front of the grand stand, commencing at 7.45 o'clock with the Midway operating all evening to capacity.

Admission to grounds is only 25 cents and no where can you get as much for a quarter as you can at this year's Peterborough Exhibition.

NEW ONTARIO IS PARADISE FOR CAMPERS

Local Motor Party Describes Trip Through Forest Clad Lands Upper Province.

RICH IN GAME.

Many Tourists From United States Visit This Camping Ground Each Season.

MILLBROOK, September 13. — (Examiner Correspondence).—"Know Ontario" is a slogan that has recently become unusually familiar because of frequent repetition from platform and press, and probably in no better way may a knowledge of at least a part of this vast territory, one thousand miles long and bounded mainly by the waters of the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay, be obtained than by means of a motor tour northward, leaving behind Old Ontario, well-settled and with its flourishing agriculture and great industries, and continuing into New Ontario comprising the northern section of the province, forest-clad, and rich in timber and mineral wealth, and with an agriculture of rare promise that is practically still in the pioneer stage.

Leaving Peterborough on a morning late in August, a vacation party of four, with Cochrane in view, approximately five hundred and forty miles away, as its northern objective, and with camping outfit compactly arranged in the trailer attached to their car, proceeded northward to Orillia, skirting the shore of Lake Simcoe for a time, and so into the Muskoka region with its clear air, its well-wooded hillsides, picturesque lakes, and beautifully-situated town sites.

The first night's camp was made thirteen miles north of Huntsville, after a drive of over one hundred and sixty miles, the stopping-place chosen being on the shores of Clear Lake, a lovely little body of water with an island or two in view, and with the occupants of one or two cottages as the only neighbors on this privately-owned camping ground.

Rich in Game.

Evidently fishing, boating and bathing were available at this point, as was afterward found to be the case at practically everyone of the big tourist camps, and midway in the next morning the journey was continued northward still some steep climbs during the drive through the Parry Sound district necessitating the use of low gear, particularly with a trailer as part of the outfit.

The rocky nature of the country, the abundant fern bracken, sumachs, red cedars, the red, pink and mauve blossoms of wild flowers with the yellow of the golden rod, the spruce, oak and pine trees, were features that continually gave pleasure to the trip through the rolling country, and as Emsdale was approached there came a hint of pioneer work in the big stone piles on the cleared fields, the

CAIRN BEEN ROBBED.

Remains of Ship Seen—Burwash Brings Mementoes Out.

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. Sept. 13.—Yielding some of the toll it collected from the long-dead Franklin party of 83 years ago, the Arctic has given up valuable relics to the daring search of Major L. T. Burwash, intrepid explorer who dashed into the Northern wastes in an aeroplane piloted by W. E. Gilbert.

Burwash hopped off from here yesterday afternoon for Fort McMurray on his way to Edmonton from Ottawa where he will report his discoveries to the Canadian Government. Here for two days finishing up business preparatory to proceeding south, the Major had little to say about his aerial expedition. Relics of the Franklin party were found on King William Island, he admitted, among them broadcloth and ropes which are in an excellent state of preservation despite long exposure to the elements.

Graves Discovered.

FORT McMURRAY, Alta., Sept. 12. —In his daring flight to the desolate shores of King William Island, Major L. T. Burwash, found the graves and relics of the Franklin expedition which perished 83 years ago in an attempt to find the Northwest Passage, W. E. Gilbert, who piloted Major Burwash on his trip, stated here to-day. No official documents of any kind were found, he stated.

The tragedy which overtook Sir John Franklin's party in their venture can readily be reconstructed from the discoveries and relics found by the Burwash expedition, according to Pilot Gilbert.

Mute evidence that some of the men succumbed to to scurvy, while others starved to death was uncovered. Numerous graves, arranged in orderly fashion, were found and this was taken as proof that men of the Franklin party had dropped off one by one and been buried by their comrades. Bones and skeletons were found in rocky cairns that had been

The Weather

The temperature yesterday took another rise to a high point, and reached 85 degrees in the shade. The fair directors should congratulate themselves on their choice of dates for this year. The weather has been ideal so far. NORTHERN ROAD WORK WILL GO ON

McRae Upholds Stand on Question Answering Bradette's Charges.

TOOK RIGHT COURSE.

TORONTO, Ont., September 13 (C. P.). — "The work of the Provincial Government in building roads throughout Ontario's north country must proceed, whether a Dominion election is in progress or not," declares Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, in a statement issued here in reply to charges levelled at him in the House of Commons last Thursday night by James Bradette, Liberal member of Parliament for Timiskaming North.

In the House of Commons Mr. Bradette charged Mr. McCrea with using provincial funds to [illegible] votes in the Dominion election of July 28 last.

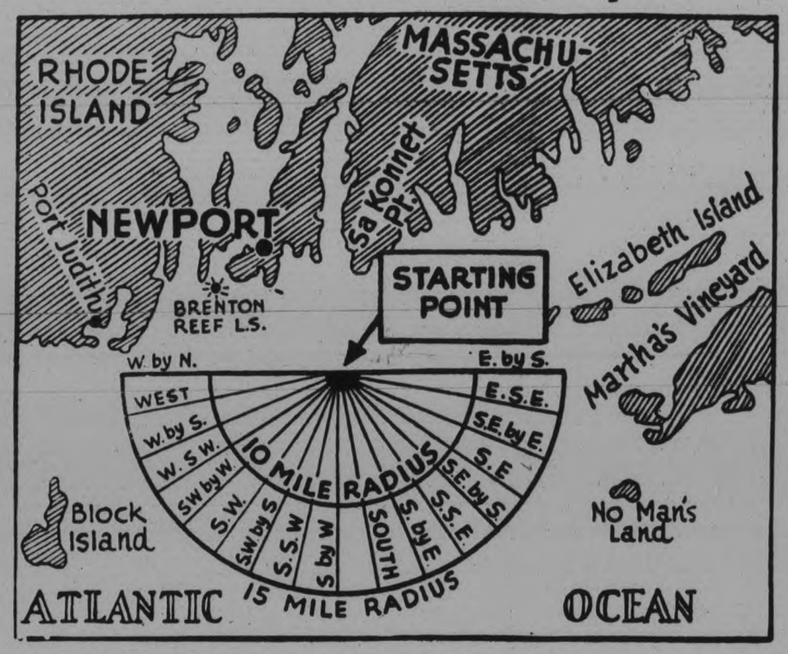
"Notwithstanding Mr. Bradette's views," states Mr. McCrea, "I always considered it my duty, as a Minister of the North Country, to advise as to the work of the Government in northern Ontario. During the course of these duties, assistance should be given to settlers in the north by way of aid to road construction, and I did.

"Mr. Bradette says the Government should not attend to the discharge of these duties in the interest of the north during a Dominion election I do not agree with him," the Minister declares.

Concluding, Mr. McCrea states Mr. Bradette's principal cause of complaint against him appears to hinge on the fact that he (Mr. McCrea) took the platform during the election, "but I maintain I was completely within my own rights in doing so," states the Minister.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Course for the American Cup Race



This map shows where Lipton's Shamrock V. will race the Enterprise for the America's Cup, four victories being necessary to determine the winner of the series. For seventy years the Sandy Hook course has been used, but this year, for the first time, the course off Newport, Rhode Island, will be tried. The winds are supposed to be a little heavier and steadier here but a ground swell often affects racing boats. The first race will be fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return; also the third. The second and fourth will be around a triangle, each leg of which will be 10 miles. The map shows the various points of the compass and is worth keeping for reference purposes, as, on it each day, the reader could plot the course after reading the opening bulletin, saying in what direction the course was laid. The starting point is nine miles southeast from the Brenton Reef lightship, which is located on the map. The first race is being sailed today, the start being at 11:40 o'clock eastern standard time.

CAR THIEVES FAIL TO ELUDE POLICE

Pair Lead Police 7 Hour Chase Before Being Trapped in Station.

TAKE TO SWAMP.

GUELPH, Ont., September 13 (C. P.). — Following an exciting seven-hour chase, police last night arrested two alleged automobile thieves, William Bradley, no address, and Harold Emerson, Montreal.

The pair, it is alleged, stole the car belonging to George Walker, local resident, after abandoning another stolen machine near Rockwood.

Traffic Constable James Culp overtook the men in Walker's car after a thrilling race along the highway, during which he attained a speed of 70 miles an hour before pulling up alongside of the pair. Seeing they could not escape in the car the men fled into Puslinch Swamp. A man hunt for them started and lasted until late last night, when the wanted pair were found cowering in Puslinch Station.

FORKE REMAINS MEMBER OF POOL

Burnett Claims Senator Violating Contract By Quitting Before 1932.

LIABLE TO PENALTY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 13.—Hon. Robert Forke, who in the Senate Thursday declared he had not renewed his membership in the Manitoba Wheat Pool, is still a member of the Farmer Co-Operative Organization.

In a statement issued here C. H. Burnell, President of the Manitoba Wheat Pool, it is declared that Mr. Forke signed a contract with the pool in March, 1924, and he renewed this contract for another five-year period in January, 1928, his contract expiring with the 1932 crop.

"That there is no mistake in this in proved by a notation in Mr. Forke's own writing on the contract," said Mr. Burnell. The notation reads. Send all mail to Ottawa. If Mr. Forke is not delivering his wheat to the pool this year then he is violating the contract he made with his farmer neighbors and is liable to the penalties provided in the contract."

Senator Surprised

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept 13.—Until he had an opportunity of communicating with C. H. Burnell, President of the Manitoba Wheat Pool, Senator Robert Forke, former Minister of Immigration, declined to make any extended reply to the statement issued by Mr. Burnell in Winnipeg.

The statement declared that Senator Forke was still under contract to deliver his wheat to the pool.

"I am very much surprised at Mr. Burnell's statement", said Senator Forke when it was referred to him. "I renewed a contract in 1928, but I understood that it only covered the coarse grains. I understood I was under contract to deliver my barley to the pool but not my wheat. My understanding is that the wheat contract expired last year and last fall I delivered my wheat to the United Grain Growers elevator. They did not check me up for it. However, I am going to wire Mr. Burnell about it.

GIVE CONFIDENCE TO YOUNG MOTHERS

A simple and safe remedy for the common ills of babyhood and childhood should be kept in every home where there is either a baby or a young child. Often it is necessary to give the little ones something to break up a cold, allay fever, correct sour stomach and banish the irritability that accompanies the cutting of teeth.

Experienced mothers always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the home as a safeguard against the troubles that seize their little ones so suddenly and the young mother can feel reasonably safe with a box of these Tablets at hand and ready for emergencies.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that act without gripping, and they are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE TWO BOOKS OF GOD

(A passage from a great religious classic)

There is a close analogy between the world of nature and the world of spirit. They bear the impress of the same hand; and hence the principles of nature and its laws are the types and shadows of the Invisible. Just as two books, though on different subjects, proceeding from the same pen, manifest indications of the thought of one mind, so the world's visible and invisible are two books written by the same finger, governed by the same idea. Or rather they are but one book, separated into two only by the narrow range of our ken. For it is impossible to study the universe at all without perceiving that it is one system. Begin with what science you will, as soon as you get beyond the rudiments you are constrained to associate it with another. You cannot study agriculture long without finding that it absorbs itself into meteorology and chemistry; sciences run into one another till you get the "connection of the sciences" and you begin to learn that one Divine Idea connects the whole in one system of perfect order.—F. W. Robertson's sermon on "The Principle of the Spiritual Harvest."

'THE CURE FOR SLANDER'

(A passage from a great religious classic)

"Man," says the Apostle James, "was made in the image of God;" to slander man is to slander God; to love what is good in man is to love it in God. Love is the only remedy for slander; no set of rules or restrictions can stop it; we may denounce, but we shall denounce in vain. The radical cure of it is charity—"out of a pure heart and a faith unfeigned," to feel what is great in the human character; to recognize with delight all high and generous and beautiful actions. To find a joy even in seeing the good qualities of your bitterest opponents, and to admit those qualities even in those with whom you have the least sympathy—be it either the Romanist or the Unitarian—this is the only spirit which can heal the love of slander and of calumny. If we would bless God we must first learn to bless man who is made in the image of God.—F. W. Robertson's sermon on "The Tongue."

The Question ?? Box ??

In this corner the enquiries of readers on Biblical and religious problems are answered. Address "The Q. B. Editor c-o The Examiner.

Q.—I believe there are certain people in this town who are making slanderous remarks about me. What I am told they say is absolutely untrue. Do you think this is a cross I should bear without complaining? — M. C.

A.—It depends upon circumstances. You do not give enough details, not, that is about, what they say, but about what the effort of the alleged slander is. Does it hurt you alone, or your family?

If it affects only you and you have the determination to accept your trial with fortitude and to act as Jesus advised us to act, the best thing to do is to forget the slanderous remarks. Slander must have something to feed upon, and if you have done nothing wrong and act honestly the slander will cease of itself.

No one can go on telling lies about another person and have those lies believed in when the individual criticized shows by his or her life and words that they are slanderous.

But if others are injured by the slander, then the case is different. You have no right to allow others to suffer because you may have an unconscious desire to pose as a martyr.

If the slander hurts any of your family or your friends, you should consult a lawyer. People who tell lies are always cowards at heart, and the threat of retribution for their wrong-doing is often sufficient to send them scuttling to safety.

You may, however, have been acting indiscreetly, without intending any wrong you may have done things which may have given people occasion to criticize you.

Here again the same principles apply. If you are the only one injured you may continue with your unjudicious conduct prepared to pay the penalty of misunderstanding and slander.

But if others are affected by the slander, your conduct should be changed so as to give none an opportunity to harm to whom you are bound by ties of love and duty.

Q.—Who were the Hicksites?—S. D.

A.—This is the name given to a body of Quakers and is derived from a minister, Elias Hicks, who was their leader. It came into being as a result of an attempt on the part of elders in Philadelphia to discipline Hicks, because they said he taught unsound doctrine.

Naturally the Hicksites do not apply the name to themselves, any more than the members of the Society of Friends call themselves Quakers. They refer to themselves as Friends.

George Fox, who originated the Society of Friends, and his followers called themselves at first, "Children of the Light."

Q.—Is there a mystical meaning to the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam?—Interested.

A.—In our opinion, there is. Its verses are generally regarded as presenting an agnostic or atheistical view of life, but this, we think is a grave error.

It is a difficult subject to discuss, however, for the meaning of the text must be perceived by each intuitively.

Like William Blake, the poet and painter, we believe Edward Fitzgerald the pharaphraser of Omar to have had much of the mystic in his composition.

FRANKLIN RELICS OUTLINE STORY

looted by natives or disturbed by Arctic gales.

Cairn Rifled

A cairn was located on the north shore of King William's Land which apparently had been robbed. In this was found a blue jacket, probably worn by a member of the party, and part of a tent covering. These relics were brought out by Major Burwash.

In one of the graves the explorers came upon a pair of bearskin trousers in good state of preservation.

As the Burwash party flew over North Magnetic Pole the compass needle dipped violently. During the flight the remains of a ship were seen.

Topographical details of the Arctic archipelago were recited by Mr. Gilbert. The party, he said, was convinced that the country could never be used for agricultural purposes. The vegetation is scanty, and the sandy wastes are swept by icy blasts. Several botanic specimens were brought down and given to C. Potts, McMurray horticulturist, for experimental purposes.

Nearly half of the 458,000 women in England drawing unemployment benefits are married.

Seven-tenths of the American cigarettes sold in foreign markets now go to the Orient.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 13.—Liquidation set in on down-grade on the Winnipeg wheat market yesterday, sending prices to within a fraction of the 80-cent low established in 1914. In heavy selling, occasioned by lack of export demand and unsteadiness of foreign markets, wheat sank 2 cents and then recovered part of the loss, to close off 1¼c to 1¼c for the day.

October wheat touched 80¼c, just ¼c better than the bottom reached sixteen years ago. Some support came from commission houses and private interests who believed the market had gone about as low as it will, but forced liquidation put considerable selling pressure in the pit. Trade volume was fairly heavy.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 13. — With the help of a demand for steers for export to Great Britain and for cows and bulls to go to Antwerp trade in cattle at the Union Stock Yards this week showed considerable increase in activity, and prices on butcher steers and heifers advanced 15 to 25 cents per cwt. on Monday to hold the gain for the remainder of the week. Fresh supply was about even with that of last week and there were 700 sale cattle in addition, all of which were cleaned up by Wednesday' close. Thursday's run was too light to make a market. Butcher cows were easier at the top, but good clearance was found for the fairly good kind. Very few real choice killers offered, and a few of the best sold as high as 8 cents, with the bulk of the steers and heifers at 6 to 7 cents, and common downward to 4 cents per pound in the clean-up.

Cows sold from 4½ to 5 cents for good to choice, with exporters paying 5½ cents for a few choice heavies. Good bulls sold steady with last week at 4½ to 5 cents per pound and bolognas were unchanged at 3 to 3½ cents per pound. Fed calves were a light supply and sold steady in a range of 9 to 11½ cents.

Supply of store cattle for home use was lighter than last week, and the beter kind, mostly feeders, sold a shade stronger at 5 cents to an extreme 6 cents. Stockers were unchanged at a spread of 4½ to 5 cents per pound.

Calves were a light supply, some 400 less than last week. There was considerable demand for veals to go to the United States and the domestic trade was active. Prices advanced 50 cents per cwt., choice vealers closing at 11 to 12 cents per pound, with grass calves selling on Wednesday from 4 to 5½ cents.

There was an increase of 900 in supply of sheep and lambs as compared with last week and lamb prices were down 50 cents per cwt. at the opening, good ewes and wethers selling at 8½ cents per pound, with heavy lambs, culls, and bucks at 6½ cents per pound. There was slightly better feeling for the best lambs on Wednesday, around 100 head moving at a top of 9 cents, but the 8½ cents per pound took the best in Thursday's light offering. Sheep were a dull trade, with good light ewes selling at 4 cents and culls downward to a cent per pound.

Offerings in the hog division were about even in volume with last week and trade was active, with prices advancing 50 cents per cwt. Hogs of the bacon grade closed at 11½ cents f.o.b., 12 cents off trucks, and 12½ cents weighed off cars, per pound, and odd lots made 25 cents per cwt. higher at midweek in sales to outside buyers.

Receipts for the week were: 5,650 cattle, 1,611 calves, 3,198 hogs, and 8,462 sheep and lambs.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.— Grain prices in Chicago were struck down yesterday by an epidemic of selling fever, which afflicted every major grain market in the world. The ailment left all grains weak, with little strength left for rallies. Selling was persistent throughout the session here, but it came mostly in small lots. Houses with connections in Canada and foreign countries were the most prominent vendors of wheat in Chicago—most of which was construed as hedging against actual purchases of wheat. All deliveries of wheat in Chicago sounded new depths as they plunged into the lowest levels of the season. Winnipeg wheat prices were even lower than Chicago, and Liverpool prices also registered new lows. Support for the market, such as it was, came mainly from commission houses with standing orders to buy at various fixed levels as the market went down. Corn was afflicted with the same illness which sent wheat crashing down, and likewise was without support.

Corn Also Closes Lower.

Wheat closed weak at 5-8c to 1 1-8c net lower than Thursday's final quotations. Oats ¾c to 1 1-8c off; rye, 7-8c to 1 3-8c lower; and provisions ranged from unchanged to a decline of 10c.

DUMPING CLAUSE

that the fair market value in the country of origin shall not be less than the wholesale or jobber's price in that country, he said. At present the fair market value, upon which is based the value for duty purposes, rests upon the manufacturer's price. Dumping, the minister defined, as "unfair trade, competition no one should be asked to meet." Canada had become a dumping ground for the whole world, particularly from the United States. That country, however, had taken precautions to see that the dumping of foreign goods in that market was impossible.

The Senate will not resume sittings until Monday evening when it will proceed with whatever legislation has been passed by the House of Commons. Yesterday it passed without division the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, the sitting being featured by the reading of a telegram by Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, from the Mayor of Saint John, N. B. It contained a protest against the government estimate of 500 unemployed in New Brunswick. The mayor declared that the city of Saint John alone had 2500 men out of work.

When the relief bill came before the Commons for second reading yesterday afternoon, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King took two exceptions to it. He was not opposed to the principle of the measure, he assured the House, nor was he critical of the Government's avowal to deal with unemployment. As drafted, however, the bill contained no specific purposes or amounts of money. For instance, the bill provided money for public works. He wanted to know what public works and how much money. He took the same exception to "undertakings," "railways," "bridges and canals" and the other items enumerated.

Conduct Audits.

Secondly, the leader of the Opposition considered the Federal Government, which raised the money and was responsible to the people for its expenditure, should conduct audits among the provinces and municipalities to which it was advanced. He suggested to the Government that a clause be inserted whereby the Auditor-General would examine the books and accounts of the provinces in connection with the expenditure from the fund and present a report to Parliament.

This drew from Premier Bennett strenuous opposition. It was an "unenviable and unwarranted insult" to the Provincial Governments, he submitted, to insist upon a Federal audit of their books. The members of the Legislatures had beeen elected by the people and could be depended upon to do their duty to their constituents without Federal direction or guardianship.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence, characterized the measure as "the greatest power of expenditure ever handed any Government since confederation with the exception of the War Measures Act." He believed it was only business foresight to demand on audit and did not believe any Government would resent it.

The Government does not intend to force Canadian banks to do anything in connection with the marketing of the wheat crop which those responsible for their administration do not think they should do, Premier Bennett announced during the debate. He was replying to John Vallance (Lib.-South Battleford) who injected the subject of wheat marketing. He believed if the Government gave some assurance to the banks they might reduce the margin of fifteen cents now in vogue. Such a scheme, he thought, would help the farmers materially besides putting into circulation about 25 per cent more than at present.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib., Vancouver Centre) told the House the people of British Columbia did not want the Provincial Government to handle any part of the relief fund without a Federal audit. "We have in British Columbia the most inept, inefficient, and extravagant Government in Canada to-day," the former Minister stated.

Several Ontario members, all on the Opposition side, charged the Government of that province with improper use of public money during the last election campaign. They pressed on the Bennett Government the need of a Federal audit so as to guarantee to the people, through the Federal Parliament, that their money had been used in the way intended.

Wins First Award For Ensilage Corn and Oats in Field Crop Competition.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 13.—Under the auspices of the Field Crop Competition of the Seymour Agricultural Society, judging was held on Sept. 10, when D. J. Gibson of Bowmanville, government grader went the rounds and announced the winners in this event.

This is an annual competition and prizes are awarded for the best ensilage corn. The first prize is an award of $20.000. The winners in order are: William Rannie, E. A. McCook, Percy Oddie, W. A. Wynn, A. H. McKelvie, James C. Milnem, and Robert Innes.

In addition to winning the first prize in the ensilage corn class, Mr. Rannie also won first award for oats in a competition conducted by the same society. This also carries a $20 prize.

NOVA SCOTIA OFFICERS SEEKING ESCAPED LUNATICS

HALIFAX, N.S., September 12 (C.P.). — Two lunatics, one thought to be dangerous, were still at large to-day, after escaping from provincial institutions this week.

Police believed their search for Tois Guptil, said to be a homicidal maniac, who broke out of the King's County Home on Tuesday, was narrowing down in the vicinity of Kentville.

The case of Wendell Ellis, who escaped on Wednesday from the Nova Scotia Hospital for the Insane at Dartmouth, was not considered dangerous.

SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED.

While it is easy to make charges during an election campaign or in the House of Commons regarding the practices followed by members of another Government, and sometimes charges so made do not stand up under examination, the allegations that have been uttered of illegal practices in the spending of the $10,000,000 voted by the Ontario Legislature for Northern Ontario development cannot afford to let go unchallenged.

The very nature of the method followed in connection with this grant makes it essential that the spending of the money so voted should be above suspicion.

The Northern Ontario grant, it should be remembered, differs from other votes in this respect, that it is voted practically as a blank cheque.

There are no estimates given as to how the money will be expended; the Government, making the reasonable plea that much of the development work in the North has to be dealt with as the need develops, simply asks the Legislature to vote $10,000,000 to be used as may be seen fit.

Under such conditions charges that this grant was utilized during the last federal election as a pork barrel to help elect Conservative candidates should be rigidly investigated when the Legislature meets.

They are too significant to be brushed aside in newspaper interviews.

THE EXHIBITION'S SUCCESS.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition comes to a close to-night with a final grandstand performance that should attract a huge crowd anxious to get a last glimpse at the splendid vaudeville acts and to watch the final thrilling work of the wild western riders.

In many respects this can be written down as the most successful local Exhibition in history.

Certainly none has offered such a well-balanced and meritorious grandstand performance, such a remarkable entry of race horses, such an outstanding representation of young farmers, and few have equalled the general quality of the exhibits.

The midway, while not as pretentious as some of the huge affairs seen here in the past, was probably as large as present conditions warranted, although in the years that lie ahead the Exhibition Board may find it worth while to build up that department in line with the progress noted in other departments.

All in all, the 1930 Exhibition has been a triumphal success; its attendance figures, in view of the failure of other fairs to measure up to past records and in view of the general conditions, surpassing the expectations of many admirers of the Exhibition.

The directors have given lavishly of their time and energy in promoting the interests of this big annual event, and are to be congratulated upon the splendid results scored.

A capacity grandstand audience to-night would be a fitting finale to a glorious week.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY.

Juvenile delinquency is apparently on the increase in Canada, according to the annual report just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which covers the year ending September 30, 1929.

As a matter of fact, juvenile cases have increased during the eight years in which these reports have been published by 17.9 per cent., or an average of 2.2 per cent. every year.

The total number of cases dealt with in the year under review was 10,509, of which 237 were dismissed cases of major charges and 2,446 adjourned sine die, leaving 7,826 proven cases.

5,106 of these were major and 2,720 minor offences, an increase of 43 major and 84 minor offences as compared with the previous year.

The principal class of offence in the more serious division for 1929 was, as has always been, theft, which, including breaking and entering, constituted 79.4 per cent. of the total number of offences.

Of the 2,720 minor delinquents 691 were cases of breaches of municipal by-laws, 343 disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace, 327 incorrigibility, 484 trespass, and 327 truancy.

Of the 7,826 total delinquents 6,556 were reported from the principal urban centres, 1,270 from the rural districts, or 83.8 per cent. for the cities and 16.2 per cent. for the less closely settled districts.

THE $20,000,000 PALLIATIVE.

By the resolution for a vote of $20,000,000, which Parliament has passed and which will now go through the House in the form of a bill, the Bennett Government is to all intents and purposes been given carte blanche to use this money for the relief of unemployment in practically any way it sees fit.

It will be applied in some cases to public works directly undertaken by the Government itself; in others, to works commenced by municipalities; in still others, such as the construction of the necessary links completing a national highway to supplement similar appropriations by the Provincial Governments concerned.

The Government is free, in fact, to spend this special vote wherever it sees a chance to assist the unemployed, an unusual situation that is only justified by the fact that the unemployment problem is serious enough to warrant extraordinary measures.

What the results will be no one can estimate accurately.

Mr. Bennett's prediction is that within two or three weeks the Government will be able to put to work some 25,000 or 30,000 of those now unemployed.

If that prophecy is verified the benefit, of course, will not stop with the number mentioned, for with the spending power of 25,000 or 30,000 workers restored the effect will be felt in business and industry generally.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the Premier has not been too optimistic in his prediction: as to the effect of what he himself has frankly described as a palliative and not as a remedy.

A KINDLY MAN.

An interesting story comes out of Toronto about a private contractor who went out to the lot where one of his big excavation jobs was in progress and, after watching the operation of a steam shovel for a while, ordered his foreman to have the equipment moved aside and sixty picks and shovels tossed into the pit. The milk of human kindness runs in that man's veins. The steam shovel which he discards temporarily represents a considerable investment and it will not be possible for him to do this particular job as economically on the day-labor plan as it could be done with mechanical equipment. But he has brightened the drab existence of sixty men of the army of the unemployed, some of whom, we have no doubt, were not sure where the next meal was coming from or where the beds on which to lay their heads that night. There is another incident in connection with this little drama worth repeating. It concerns an old man who was taken on the job, but whose weight of years made it impossible for him to keep his end up with the younger pick-wielders. Subjected to the joshing of his mates, he tried to stick it out, but the flesh was weaker than the spirit. The contractor, we are told, called the veteran off the pick and shovel gang and made him supervisor. We sometimes get the idea that this is a "hard-boiled" world, in which sentimentality doesn't pay many dividends. And it is refreshing to read a story of this kind in the news of the day. Civic governments, opening up relief works in times of unemployment distress, find it is good business to resort to day-labor, instead of using labor-saving mechanical devices. While the actual cost of construction is higher, a saving is effected by municipal relief departments. It is much better to give unemployed work than charity and the thought occurs that other private contractors, reading of the Toronto incident, may see their way clear to emulate the actions of their Queen City contemporary—not as a general practice, but as a helping hand for a day or two.—Hamilton Spectator.

INTEREST IN MUSIC.

An increasing interest in music by the young people in the rural districts is very encouraging to the Ontario Department of Education, and music festivals held throughout the various counties have been successful beyond the original hopes of their creators. In the county of Middlesex, for example, there were 150 entries, including seven school choruses, three high school choruses and two mixed choruses. Over 1,500 people attended. In Peel County some 154 entries competed at the festival, including fifteen rural and three urban school choruses. The good results of the festivals are no more in evidence anywhere than in Wellington County, where, encouraged by previous festivals, a great many rural school boards have made the necessary arrangements for the regular teaching of music to their pupils.

Such an advance in the musical life of Canada as these reports indicate is a great thing for the people of the nation. This country, indeed, need not be ashamed of its record in the world of music. It has produced many great vocal and instrumental artists, and many of its choirs and choruses need take second place to none in their various classifications. Yet in spite of this Canada, in common with the rest of the British Empire and the United States, can scarcely be said to be "music-minded" to the extent, for instance, of some of the countries of northern and eastern Europe, where practically everyone seems to be trained, from early childhood, to produce and enjoy beautiful music, and to reach the height of joy and happiness in the doing of it.

Everyone cannot be a great singer or a great player. That sacred honor is reserved for the few. But everyone with an earnest spirit can learn to appreciate and love good music, and can help to encourage its growth and progress. Such a development cannot fail to bring greater good and happiness to the community, for it inspires and ennobles the lives and the hearts of men.—Brantford Expositor.

LIFE IS STILL WORTH WHILE.

There has been a fair measure of change in the method of carrying on church work in recent years; we have seen denominations split on the issue of fundamentalism and modernism; other religious bodies have pooled their forces to march ahead together.

Yet, through all these changes we are so pleased to see that one institution remains—the annual fowl supper in the rural churches. We noticed an announcement about one of these the other day, and the mental effect was pleasing, and the gastronomic reaction was entirely satisfactory.

We do not know whether the chickens running about at liberty to-day realize the drab events which lie ahead; perhaps it is a kindly fate that hangs for them a curtain over the immediate future. They rise early in the morning, pursue the routine of their pleasant days, roost at sundown, all blind to the little notice which we saw in the paper announcing the date of the first fowl supper of the season.

Many folk gather at these events from whom there can be no profit. The folk who prepare and serve these suppers never did seem to work on the cold calculating basis that would make certain that on each meal there would be revenue; they do not look elsewhere when a hungry man waves aloft his empty plate as a token that he craves more victuals. His entrance fee seems to be a binding contract that ere he leaves the premises his waist must protrude farther than his brow.

The country is safe and wholesome as long as these fowl suppers continue to function. When a hungry man gets his legs wrapped around the sawhorse that helps to sustain the long tables in the basement of the church, and when he has before him the first fruits of the kitchen and the leg and chest of the tender chicken, 'tis then he begins to forget about the ravages of the sow thistle and the onslaught of New Zealand butter.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The success of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, despite economic conditions, has been most gratifying.

Summer came back yesterday, and everybody but the rugby players was delighted.

A lot of things it was thought were settled by the vote of the Canadian people on July 28th are bobbing up in Parliament.

Some members of the House seem determined to see that the Hansard staff has no reason to complain of unemployment.

It takes the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to show that the automobile has not wiped the horse completely off the map.

Better ease off on the talk about New Zealand butter. Premier Forbes of New Zealand is now in Canada.

Popular prices have made the Industrial Exhibition more popular. The new policy has justified itself.

Voice of the People

MUNICIPAL GOLF

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir:—

In all the countries in the Old Country and in the U.S.A. there are golf courses for the people who are not able to pay like our worthy mayor who belong to swell clubs. These courses are called municipal courses because like Riverside Park they are under control of the Municipal Council.

Now, sir, why should baseball and football have municipal grounds to play on and not golf. Golf is a people's game and was played by working men long before the toffs took to it.

It is no great job and I am sure that the park ranger and municipal decorator who has done so much to make Peterborough beautiful in its little corners and sweep holes, Ald. Stocker would look after it.

A small fee per game is all that is needed and as a woman who would like a little cheap recreation beside baby golf and softball slush, I ask the Council to take hold.

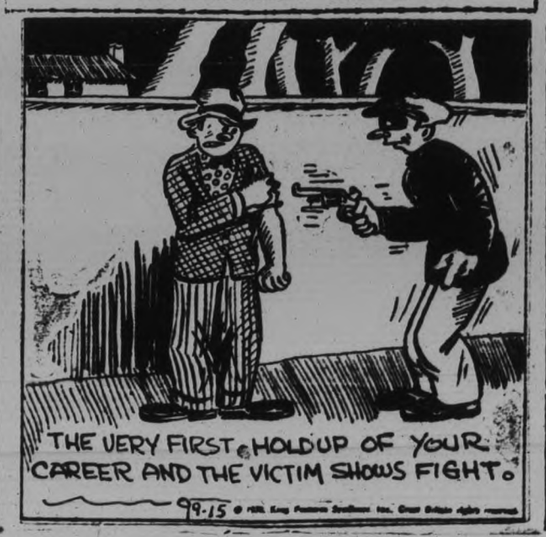
EMBARRASSING MOMENTS



TEMPLE TOWER
BY "SAPPER"

"What is the result? Merely that time becomes all important. He hears of the map belonging to Sir John: he steal it. Not knowing of the verse behind, he thinks that he has solved the method of getting in to Temple Tower. And he was looking for the entrance to-night when the dog found him. Probably alarmed by the din the animal made, he hid for a while near by, and it was then that Gaspard stumbled on him, only to be strangled. Who knows why he did that? It is possible he did not know you were in the grounds, and thought he might gain access to the house by pretending to be Gaspard: it is possible he had no alternative. But of one thing, gentlemen, I am very sure: time is now even more all important to le Bossu than it was a few hours ago.

"In view of the fact that he did not gain access to the house, the killing of Gaspard was an error—a bad error. But it is done and cannot be undone. And of another thing I am very sure, too." His voice grew grave, and he stared over the Marsh thoughtfully. "If you heard the Vandalis' program, Mr. Darrell, so did he. And I do not think it would find favour in his eyes—far from it. I hold no brief for either of them, but—"

He said no more, but the little shrug of his shoulders filled in the silence more ominously than any spoken word.

"Had he got into the house to-night, the Vandalis would not have mattered. But he didn't, and now they do. However, they can look after themselves: the point we have to decide is what we are going to do. Shall we call in the police, or shall we not? There are, it seems to me, two main objections. The first is this: What are we going to tell them? Nothing that we can do can bring the man Gaspard back to life, and if we tell them anything, we must tell them all. And frankly, gentlemen, though you are, of course, the best judges of that, I think an account of your recent doings, told in cold blood at a police station, might prove a little awkward."

"I know the Inspector pretty well," said Hugh, "but perhaps you are right."

"The other objection," went on Matthews, "is this. And to me it is a far bigger one. If we tell the police, and they take the matter up, we drop out,or at any rate you do. And"—he thumped his fist into his open palm—"for the local police to try and tackle le Bossu is about equivalent to asking a board school child to explain Einstein's Theory. They are naturally trammelled by the law, and le Bossu would laugh at them. No, gentlemen, the only way of catching him, if you are prepared to do it, is for us to join forces and act outside the law on our own. Keep the police out of it, and we will catch him. Let them in, and our hands are tied."

"My dear fellow," said Hugh with a grin, "no one loathes the idea of letting the police in more than I do. But do not forget there is a lady involved."

"I don't," remarked Matthews gravely, and turned to young Freckles. "I quite appreciate your position, Mr. Scott. But I am going to say something which I hope you will not consider impertinent. There is a reward of fifty thousand pounds at stake. Wait, please"—he held up his hand, as Freckles started to speak—"and then bite me afterwards. Captain Drummond, if I may say so, hardly seems to be a gentleman in need of money. I am in this show for one reason only—to get to grips with le Bossu. If between us we find that property, we get fifty thousand pounds. And do not be under any delusion. Count Vladimar can pay that sum without feeling it. Which brings me to my point. Your fiancee can be of invaluable assistance to us in finding it, and as a natural result would be enttiled to the whole reward. Please understand me, Mr. Scott," he continued with a smile, which robbed his words of any offence. "But young ladies do not as a general rule take on jobs of that sort if their future husbands are wealthy."

"My dear old lad," laughed Freckles, "we haven't got a blinking bean between us, if that is what you mean."

"Then here is an unprecedented opportunity of getting fifty thousand of the best," said Matthews.

"Be a bit more explicit," said Hugh after a pause.

"Le Bossue will return to Temple Tower," said Matthews quietly. "You disturbed him last night, but there is no power in Heaven or Hell that will deter that man from doing what he has come here to do. He may or may not kill le Crapeau, according to the mood he is in: but he has come to get the stuff stolen twenty-five years ago—the stuff which, as Captain Drummond says, Miss Verney has been engaged to sell. Well, gentlemen, my suggestion is this. Let us lie up and wait for him. In the past we have always laboured under the disadvantage of not knowing where he would turn up: this time that disadvantage is gone. We know exactly, and all we have to do is to wait for him. And this time," he added softly, "we are going to catch him. What do you say?"

Hugh glanced round at all of us.

"It seems to me," he said, "that Scott must decided."

"Well, old birds," answered Freckles, "it seems to me that if five of us can't tackle this bloke, the addition of a couple of policemen isn't going to help much. I'm all for Mr. Matthews' suggestion."

"Good," cried Hugh. "Then that's that What do you want, Denny?"

The butler had come out of the house in an obvious state of suppresged excitement.

"Have you heard sir, what they've found in the wood opposite Temple Tower?"

"No," said Hugh quietly. "What?"

"A dead man, sir. Hidden in the bushes. A terrible looking thing he was, so the postman told me—more like a great monkey than a man. They say that he has been stopping at Spragge's Farm."

For a moment or two there was silence: then Victor Matthews spoke.

"How was he killed?" he asked.

And I think we all knew the answer before it came.

"Murdered, sir, so I hear. From the marks round his neck they say he was strangled."

CHAPTER IX

In Which I Meet "Le Bossu Masque."

So le Rossignol had been there after all. His dead body must have been quite close to us during the hour we had lain up waiting, before we found that the ladder had gone. And horrible and repulsive though he had been, I could not help feeling a twinge of pity for the poor brute. I could imagine him there in the darkness of the wood searching for the rope ladder he had made so laboriously, and then suddenly feeling the grip of the silent strangler on his throat. Perhaps that same choking cry that Gaspard had given—and then silence.

"Your friend," said Hugh grimly, when the butler had gone, "is evidently no believer in half measures."

Matthews was silent: this new development seemed to have nonplussed him. He paced up and down with quick ,nervous steps, and a look of frowning concentration on his face.

"This alters things, gentlemen," he said at length. "Now the police must come into the affair."

"True," remarked Hugh. "At the same time, I don't see why we should run round telling them what we know. In fact, it makes it even more difficult to do so, because we lay ourselves open to grave blame for not having informed them about what we knew of the Nightingale's intentions."

"That is so," said Matthews thoughtfully. "And as a matter of fact, it is even worse for me. Strictly speaking, if only as a matter of courtesy, I should have informed them of my presence here, and what I was doing. Instead of that, I am passing as an ordinary tourist. You are right, Captain Drummond. We must still say nothing about it. And there, going along the road, if I'm not mistaken, is the local inspector."

Hugh started to his feet.

"I'll get him in," he exclaimed, going towards the gate.

"Please don't mention who I am," called Matthews after him, and Hugh nodded in answer.

"Hullo! Inspector," he hailed, "what's this I hear about someone being murdered?"

"Quite right, sir," said the other gravely, halting by the gate. "Just come from there myself."

"Come in and have a spot of ale," said Hugh, "and tell us all about it. I think you know Sir John, don't you? And these are three other friends of mine."

"A bad business, gentlemen," said the Inspector, putting down his glass. "Very bad. And as far as I can see at present, there is no trace of a clue."

"What happened?" asked Hugh. "I've heard vaguely from my butler, who had heard vaguely from the postman."

(To be continued)

FIFTH TROOP

Eighteen Scouts came smartly to the alert and saluted as the Uunion Jack was raised for the first regular meeting of the Fifth Peterborough Troop last Tuesday. The Troop, after being inspected by A. S. M. Bill Barry, were put through ten minutes P. T. to remove some of that abundance of energy that all Scouts seem to possess.

During Patrol instruction, the tenderfoot tests were reviewed by all the Scouts and after several games and some staff drill the Troop was dismissed. Patrol competition got off to a good start with the Beavers in the lead with 24½ points. There are only vacancies in two out of the four patrols, so any recruits wishing to join this Great Movement should attend next week's meeting in All Saint's Parish Hall.

CORNWALL POLICE STUMBLE UPON $15,000 LIQUOR HAUL

CORNWALL, Sept. 12 (C.P.).—Luck led the city police here into making one of the most important liquor seizures effected in this area. As a result, more than three thousand bottles of choice whisky, champagne, gin and high-grade ale, valued at more than $15,000, are under guard at the City Police Station to-day, awaiting instructions from the Attorney-General as to its disposal, and the city treasury is enriched by a $300 fine, paid by Allan J. Fox of the General Service Cartage Company, Windsor.

The Office Hound

Today our mildewed mailbox holds a letter from our perennial peroxide, Mademoiselle X. We use the epithet despite the lady's denial of the peroxide, because we like to think of her as blonde by choice. There is, after all, no virtue in being born blonde . . . but acquiring blondeness—that spells decision! . . . Of course, as Casey might remark, there is very little chance for blonde virtue, anyway. But here's the letter. . . .

Dear Andre:

I just wanted to tell you about visiting my friend, the Single Cop, in the hospital. You remember, because you wrote about it so sympathetically and tactfully, that he was injured on the evening that I was to meet him on George street?

Well, I went to the hospital to see him. (I wish you would tell me, dear Andre, just en passant, as it were, why hospitals have such a vile odor? I suppose they have to use something in the operating rooms to deaden the pain, but why can't they spray the corridors once in a while with perfume? You can buy the cutest little bottles of Black Narcisse very cheaply and even the lowliest soul responds to Black Narcisse, I am sure. Although a very catty friend of mine remarked recently that it was just a little passe as a perfume. (But she hasn't a friend who spends fifty dollars on a twelve-ounce bottle, as a certain gentleman I heard about recently does for his sweetie).

Anyway, I went to see him. Of course, a lady very seldom visits a gentleman who is not related to her by marriage or kin, when he is horizontal, so to speak, but then circumstances alter cases. Don't you agree with me, dear Andre? I have a very kind heart and the thought of that poor man lying there suffering, when I was the cause—although quite innocent, I assure you—moved me almost to tears. He had a couple of nice bouquets of flowers on his table, but he explained that they were from his sisters, so I had no reason to think his illness had made him forget me. Of course, I had to introduce myself, because, as a matter of fact, we had never met. We were supposed to do so on the evening of the unfortunate contretemps, as you may remember, dear Andre?)

The nurse was just about to take his temperature when I arrived. The thermometer was in his mouth, so he could do little but gurgle. And then the strangest thing happened. The nurse extracted the instrument from his mouth and fainted dead away! Imagine my consternation. There was I alone in the room with the single cop. He was unable to help me and I was supporting our chaperon in my arms. I was at a loss, but just for a moment. My presence of mind rarely deserts me, dear Andre. I rushed into the adjoining room and emerged with a basin of water which I threw into the nurses face. It had a magical effect. She not only recovered from her faint but she flew into a violent temper and gave me a very dirty look before withdrawing, muttering something about "peroxide blondes." (And you know me well, enough, I am sure, to realize that my hair is certainly not peroxide. I may help it along a little as a golden aura, but then, it certainly was born on me as a light, nice brown shade.)

Another nurse came in shortly and told us the cause of the first attendant's attack. It seems that the thermometer registered a high degree of 110, and she thought her patient had contracted galloping malaria, or something like that. (For awhile, the bouquet of scarlet salvia on the table was suspected as a cause, on account of their very heating color.)

But the Single Cop, in terse and vigorous sentences, explained the reason very clearly. It seems that, in the course of his duties as a member of the police force, he often contracts what he called "a pain in the neck". So, to offset its return in the hospital, he had very cleverly concealed a red-hot water-bottle in the folds of the coverings which he had drawn up modestly about his face. It gave his complexion a bright scarlet hue which was somewhat disconcerting. I imagined that he was blushing at my intrusion and was just a little uncomfortable until the matter was explained. What delicacy of feeling was revealed when the affair stood forth in its true light!

Now, I am not impressionable, dear Andre, but there is something very attractive about that noble guardian of the law. The little imperfections which were mentioned as drawbacks at first were not apparent, during this meeting. His hair had been shampooed very recently and no trace of dandruff was visible. His fallen arches, if any, were of course concealed by the coverlet and the bromidosis from which he suffers was quite imperceptible. I feel that his sojourn in the hospital will be very beneficial to him, if some of the nurses do not vamp him.

I took him a small sponge cake which I had made myself. It was slightly heavy and my arm was quite tired when I deposited it thankfully on the table, but still, I am sure he won't blame me for a bad oven and consequent failure of the cake to measure up to a high standard. I also took him some tracts dealing with the future life. "In the midst of life we are in death", as Lord Bacon remarked so fittingly. He thanked me for both in a subdued voice. But then nospitals are subduing places. I am looking forward eagerly to meeting him when he is perpendicular. I will let you know what I think about him then. Of course, good men are scarce, but then good women are scarce too. I feel that I can't afford to take any chances and the life of a policeman is a precarious one at best, what with high-grade bandits shooting about the country at break-neck speed and automobiles shinnying around every corner.

—Mademoiselle X.

O——H.

Well, all we can say is—it's either love . . . or chloroform!

Which leads us to ask little Oswald for a sentence with the word "anaesthetic". . . .

"Anaesthetic sir sized about her young man, she can't sleep at nights."

—Andre.

FINANCIAL NEWS

CONSOLIDATED BAKERIES MOST ACTIVE ISSUE AT TORONTO

Sales On Whole Slightly More Than 13,000 For Two Hour Session.

CITY DAIRY ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Trading was individualistic in character on Toronto Stock Exchange. Sales slightly more than 13,000 for the short two hour session were on an average with recent days. The market was nervous most of the morning reacting from the opening and recovering from the extreme lows before the close.

Consolidated Bakeries provided the chief point of interest, opening a point above its previous sale and rising as demand continued constant. Selling as high as 14¾, the stock netted a gain of approximately two points. The move was reported to have originated in Montreal.

City Dairy was more active than usual, declining from the opening, then firming later.

The oils followed the same trend as the general market, slackening off after initial transactions, firming before the close. Imperial Oil made a small gain. International Petroleum was unchanged. B.A. Oil eased in light trading. Nickel and Brazilian were both fractionally lower, as were the liquor stocks. C.P.R., re-acting with Wall Street, lost a couple of points, the new stock a fraction. Service Stations was down a point.

HIGHER TREND ON MINE MART

Gains Somewhat In The Majority At Close Of Irregular Session.

LINDSLEYS MIXED.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13. —(Canadian Press)—A slightly higher rate of turnover and broader price action marked the abbreviated session to-day on the mining market. Trend remained irregular with gains somewhat in the majority at the close.

Some softness was evident in Nickel which dropped to a low of $25 but latter rallied to close practically unchanged. Noranda finished off a fraction at $23.25, however, and Hudson Bay sold slightly below $8.

The Lindsley's displayed some mark ed action with Sudbury Basin good demand at higher prices. Sherritt Gordon slightly stronger at $1.60 and Falconbridge and Ventures easier. Amulet and Waite-Ackerman displayed small advances and other base metals were firm.

Higher priced gold made strongest showing. Dome, Lake Shore, McIntpre and Teck Hughes closing above last night. Kirkland Lake gold and Premier also received some favorable attention, but other gold failed to participate. Big Missouri, Sylvanite and Siscoe showing small recessions.

Acme Gas continued to show strength, touching a high of 20 and fluctuating back and forth to close around that figure. Ajax Oil moved above $2 and was well taken up to $2.15. Other movements in the oils group were irregular. Home Oil and Mayland sustaining minor set-backs for the period.

SHOATS SELL AT $7 APIECE

Produce Plentiful In Two Sections Of Farmers' Market This Morning.

BUYING BRISK.

"There must be plenty of money in farming", said a youth who watched little protesting Tamworth pigs lowered into sacks this morning, as their buyer made ready to take them home from market. He tied them up tightly and carefully. The watcher hoped they would have air enough to last until their destination was reached.

They brought $7 apiece.

The market overflowed this morning. Upper and lower sections were packed to capacity. In the basket section, extra tables were laid out at the north end, and on the open market, every bit of space was utilized by the vendors. Produce was very plentiful and buying seemed to be brisk. The warm air of the morning lent a cheerful atmosphere to the scene. Little boys cried their wares; bouquets of feverfew and bachelors' buttons and French marigolds and bunches of watercress and parsley, in the lower entry, and the Italian fruit vendors and snatches of "O Sole Mio" in his own smooth tongue, as he bent over his baskets of peaches. They were $1 each, large eleven-quart baskets of Crawfords and Elbertas.

In the basket section, a turkey came to market this morning. It was priced at 30 cents a pound, the same quotations as that for ducks. Hens were 25 cents and chickens 25 to 28 cents a pound. Extra long legs on White Leghorn birds provoked the interest of a passer-by.

Eggs were 28 to 32 cents a dozen and butter 30 to 35 cents a pound. Cream was 30 cents a pint.

Red-cheeked Wealthy apples sold at 20 cents in small baskets; beans were 10 cents a quart and little green sugar plums 3 quarts for 25 cents.

Baking sales were plentiful, with all sorts of frosted and iced cakes. Buns were 20 cents a dozen.

Little bottles of red cabbage and green tomato pickle were 15 cents apiece.

Fresh trout was 25 cents a pound and whitefish 20 cents a pound. A basket of fish-heads lay at the rear of the vendor's tent. Queried as to their disposal, he obliged with the information that they go to people who ask for them and who utilize these as well as other fish scraps.

Tomatoes were 30 and 35 cents in large baskets; red and green peppers in 11 quart containers were $1; green gherkins in little baskets were 60 cents; potatoes were 30 cents a peck and $1.25 to $1.50 a bag.

Honey was 13 cents a pound. Corn sold at 2 dozen for 25 cents.

In small baskets, small blue plumbs were 50 cents, and larger specimens, as well as green gages, were 75 cents. Damsons were 75 cents a basket and yellow plums, 2 quarts for a quarter. Little pear tomatoes in red and yellow were 10 cents in quart boxes, and green tomatoes were 40 cents a basket.

White pickling onions were 20 cents a quart, cauliflower 10 and 15 cents apiece, small chili peppers were 20 cents a dozen and green and red peppers 30 cents a dozen. Cucumbers were a nickel apiece. Grapes were 40c, 50c and 55c a basket, green pears 40 cents.

Alderberries sold at 45 cents a basket and wild grapes at 40c.

Flowers were everywhere, in great variety; marigolds and asters, gladioli and gaillardia, bronze helenium, gypsophila and sweet peas.

Twins born in New South Wales have been christened Amy Johnson and John Bradman Smith.

DOMINION WOOLLENS REPORTS NET DEFICIT

Of $294,890 After Interest, Bad Debts and Depreciation Allowance.

TORONTO, September 13. — A net deficit for the year which ended June 30, 1930, is reported by Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited. Profit before interest, depreciation, etc., amounted to $57,749, to which was added miscellaneous revenue of $8,067, bringing the total to $65,816.

Deduction of interest on bank loan of $28,294, bond interest of $135,000, and other interest of $55,447 left a deficit of $152,925. This deficit was augmented to $294,890 by inclusion of bad debts, $42,000, depreciation reserve of $99,965.

President A. O. Dawson informs the shareholders the results bore out the forecast of the previous year. Directors felt confident towards the future in view of the manner in which the company had come through a very trying period.

"It is doubtful if the woollens industry has ever before had to face more severe competition from home and abroad. Foreign competition particularly has been acute and one result of the existing world-wide depression has been to encourage producers of other countries to dump their goods in this market, in a struggle to keep up their own volume. This clearly emphasizes the need of a reasonable protective tariff. Another result of the present world conditions has been the restricted buying power of the public, which necessitated a drastic curtailment of production.

"The market value of practically all raw materials has shown a steady decline throughout the past year. Raw wool, the commodity in which we are principally interested, declined to a point not encountered since before the war. The operation of a large company such as yours in the face of a steadily declining market is most difficult.

"As a result of the elections held on January 28, and in view of the promise of the new government to assist our industry by a tangible increase in the tariff on Woollen goods, coupled with the appointment of O. B. Kiesewetter of Philadelphia, as general manager, we feel that the future prospects of your company have vastl yimproved."

Madoc

MADOC, Sept. 13. — Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, graduate of Trinity College Toronto, has been appointed by the Bishop of Ontario, Rt. Rev. C. A. Seager, D. D., to the mission at Bannockburn, in North Hastings, assuming his duties on September 15th. Mr. Swayne is a son of Rev. W. G. Swayne, rector at Bath.

The Star of Hope Closs of Trinity Sunday School were entertained at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Rivers on Monday evening. After re-organization, a social hour was enjoyed.

DRURY DENIES OFFER

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 13 (C.P.) Denial of the rumor that he had been offered the portfolio of Minister of Finance in the Cabinet of Prime Minister Bennett was made here by Victor M. Drury, senior member of the investment banker-age firm of Drury & Company. "I have not been asked to accept the post of Minister of Finance, or any other for that matter," Mr. Drury said.

IRIGOYEN A PRISONER

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 13. (C.P.) The Government this morning issued an official communique in which it is stated that Dr. Hipolito Irigoyen, deposed president of this country, is under arrest and will not be allowed to abandon the Argentine. He is at present on the cruiser General Belgrano in Buenos Aires Roads outside the harbor.

Exports of American agricultural machinery are greater than a year ago.

CESSATION OF PRICE ADVANCE SIGN OF INCREASED STABILITY

Technical Position Greatly Improved During Past Few Months.

PUBLIC SHOW CONFIDENCE.

(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1930).

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—Operations for the rise slowed down in the closing days of the week on the Canadian stock exchanges, following two or three weeks of advancing prices, and this is a good rather than a bad sign: Appreciation from the lows reached in August has been considerable, and there was danger of the upward movement being carried too far, making another corrective reaction necessary that might undo much of the good work accomplished by the quiet summer months when the technical position was improved immensely and the public showed confidence in buying high-grade issues for a long pull. The collapse in prices in May, after the spring advance, is still fresh in the minds of the public who are not apt to forget and fall into the same pitfall for a second time. Early this year the stock exchanges went ahead hastily in discounting expected improvement in business that failed to materialize and security prices had to retrace part of the ground covered.

To-day, the situation is somewhat analogous to that of last spring. Security values here rose in line with Wall Street, and that market was helped by much the same set of circumstances as were responsible for the flurry in Canadian stocks in recent weeks. President Hoover called a conference of the business executives of the nation to relieve unemployment, the United States Government announced expenditures on public works, and there was a tariff bill before Congress. Optimistic remarks were given wide publication and the stock markets went ahead only to receive a severe set back later when earning statements for the first quarter of 1930 were found to be unfavorable. Canadian stocks have gone ahead in discounting the proposals of the new government at Ottawa. Premier Bennett has had a conference with business executives, is sponsoring a bill in the Federal House to provide $20,000,000 for public works expenditures as an aid to unemployment and has in mind increasing tariff. Individual securities and those of certain industries have appreciated in value anticipating increased operations and benefits to be derived from tariff changes.

No doubt some of these proposals at least will help. Increased employment will add to the purchasing power of the Dominion at this time, and the expenditure of such a large sum as $20,000,000 will create a greater demand for essential products while the construction companies and others will naturally benefit from large public construction projects. However the results of this will be gradual rather than immediate and spread over a considerable period. General business improvement without the aid of more or less artificial methods is what is needed. Already their are indications that business is on the mend in the Dominion. Railway carloadings have been increasing and the weekly earnings of the C.P.R. for the first time in very nearly a year are higher than for the corresponding period of 1929. The outlook is for a much larger wheat crop and better marketing conditions, but this is offset to some extent by lower prices.

Standard Statistics of New York expresses the opinion that the low point in manufacturing activity in the Dominion was passed last winter and that today activity of Canadian industry remains close to the highest level of the current year. This organization holds to the view that economic activity in the early future months should not compare too unfavorably with a year previous. The July leter of the Royal Bank of Canada states there can be no doubt that all lines of Canadian industry have suffered from the effects of the general depression. Taking a broad view, however, there are few countries that have come through this trade reaction as well as Canada and none will respond more promptly to an improvement in the volume of international trade. The Canadian Bank of Commerce note the presence of factors slightly more favorable than the majority of those which have operated so far this year but say the business outlook is still too clouded with uncertainty to allow a clear view of the road immediately ahead and these favorable factors must be tested for a time before they can be accepted as sufficiently permanent to provide a real stimulus to business.

It would not do, therefore, to let the market get out of control at this stage and it is just as well the upward movement was temporarily halted. It is not that the appreciation was not warranted but that enthusiasm might have carried the list to a level that would have invited profit taking by those who purchased earlier and found themselves with sizeable profit. In checking the advance, the market acted sanely without impairing the technical position and is now in place to further discount general improvement as conditions continue to better themselves.

TENNIS.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 13.—(C.P.)—Gone for this year is not forever is "Big Bill" Tilden's chance of winning the National tennis singles championship more times than any other man.

This year's title will not go to the gaunt Philadelphian but either to Johnny Doeg or Frank Shields.

When Tilden went down at last in the semi-finals of this classic tournament yesterday before the thundering strokes of the brawny young California southpaw, Doeg, he failed in a bid for his eighth United tSates title which would have broken a tie with two great old champions of the past and stood as a record for many years to come.

Richard D. Sears, first winner of the National title, chalked up a string of seven straight between 1881 and 1887 and William A. Larned of heroic memory, winner first in 1901 and last in 1911, touched the same magic total—seven.

It remained for Tilden, coming back in dramatic style last year after three seasons of domination by the French, to make the title for the seventh time in a decade but ten thousand fans sat in the crowded stands of the west side stadium yesterday and saw the younger generation as represented by the strapping Doeg catch up with the might one to the tune of 10-8, 6-3, 3-6, 12-10. he figure of Father Time might have been somewhere in the background, somebrely counting up to seven.

THE CALM SHADE.

Stranger, if thou hast learned a truth which needs
No school of long experience—that the world
Is full of guilt and misery — and hast seen
Enough of all its sorrows, crimes and cares,
To tire thee of it — enter this wild wood
And view the haunts of Nature . . .
The calm shade
Shall bring a kindred calm, and the sweet breeze
That makes the green leaves dance, shall waft a balm
To thy sick heart!

THEATRE NEWS

THREE SPLENDID PORTRAYALS REACH SCREENS OF NEW YORK

George Arliss, Greta Garbo and Walter Huston Win High Praise.

UNIFORM EXCELLENCE..

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Three sterling screen performances are now to be seen on Broadway. They are George Arliss in the film version of John Galsworthy's play, "Old English"; Walter Huston in David Wark Griffith's first talking picture, "Abraham Lincoln," and Greta Garbo in the shadow conception of Edward Sheldon's "Romance." The work of these players is of such excellence that it leaves no doubt as to the value of audibility in motion pictures.

Mr. Arliss lives up to one's fondest expectations in his portrait of the octogenarian, Sylvanus Heythorp, the crafty bon vivant of early Victorian days in the Galsworthy play. This picture, which is at the Warners' Theatre, is a delightfully smooth entertainment, a feature in which one never tires of beholding Mr. Arliss's carefully acted interpretation of the aged Heythorp, who though his legs are feeble has an acute mind.

"Abraham Lincoln."

Walter Huston also contributes an impressive performance as Abraham Lincoln in Mr. Griffith's episodical audible film study of the martyred President. This is Mr. Griffith's first film ventrue with dialogue, and he is to be congratulated on the major part of his work. The script of this production is attributed to Stephen Vincent Benet and Gerrit Lloyd, and they have accomplished their task in a praiseworthy fashion. The words that fall from Lincoln's lips are always effective and are especially well spoken by Mr. Huston.

That Charming Swede.

Although Greta Garbo's performance in "Romance" is perhaps as good as anything she has done on the screen it would have made the picture far more credible had the producers seen fit to recognize that she is no Italian soprano, but that virtually all that had to be done in translating Edward Sheldon's popular old play to the screen was to first account for her Scandinavian accent and deep voice, and then to have a contralto sing when Miss Garbo is supposed to be rendering "The Last Rose of Summer."

Miss Garbo, in this her second talking film, appears to be quite as much at ease in speaking her lines as she was in her old silent picture performances. She is a breath of life in this love story, which, old as it may be in theme, really is no more old than love itself. It is quite an affecting picture, for Gavin Gordon, as the young curate, is distinctly capable in his part. So is Lewis Stone as Cornelius Van Tuyl, the agreeable paramour of Cavallini, the opera singer, played by Miss Garbo.

It is true that after the picture is on its way one's ears become accustomed to the low tonal quality of Miss Garbo's voice. Her fascinating countenance and her graceful movements are admirably suited to the role in this slender narrative, which moves along so easily that there is never an instant one would take one's eyes from the screen.

Cutest Chorus Girls Are in Hollywood

"Let's Go Native" is lavish and fantastic. Has about everything but the kitchen stove in it, with Jack Oakie, Jeannette MacDonald, Skeets Gallagher and Kay Francis.

Jeannette is pretty good in pictures. She is losing that musical comedy air and creeping up on acting ability. And photographs most flatteringly.

Kay Francis plays the role she should play here, a sophisticated worldy woman. When the heroine, she is somehow out of tune and not quite as attractive.

Where do they get all the girls with the cute legs and perfect figures? More every day and all from the same charming mould. They have Broadway choruses lashed to the mast.

Greece Wild On Sound Has 50 Wired Houses

ATHENS, Sept. 13.—Even in ancient Greece the sound screen has advanced so far that actors and musicians find themselves defeated in their efforts to combat the new vogue.

There are now eight wired houses in Athens as against only two a year ago, while the total of sound theatres in all Greece totals 50. Sound has progressed so rapidly in the face of heavy handicaps, chief being a government tax amounting to as much as 50 per cent, the heaviest on the Continent.

The public is sound-screen crasy, its favor going strong to new model theatres. Old fashioned houses suffer sadly in this new era.

The musicians' organizations have campaigned in vain against mechanical music, finding the people not responsive. Musicians have been staging benefit open-air concerts in the stadium here which seats 60,000 with the average audience not more than 40,0000.

HOKUM DEMAND STRONG AGAIN

Identified as "Heart Interest" and Emotional Appeal.

OLD ONES REVIVED.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Hokum as a word is despised here, but it's well under the wire for revival. Like the rose which smells just as swell otherwise, hoke is being spread in current films under such fancy identification as 'strengthening the heart inetrest,' 'emphasizing emotion qualities' and 'specializing in human treatment.'

After a period of musicals and pictures tinged with sophistication the executives took stock to find that the outstanders of the last few months have been plentifully supplied with the garden variety of old-fashioned hoke—the prop on which the whole business was built.

Success of talkers based on ideas like "The Trespasser" and "Common Clay" had the producers convinced that they have finaly discovered what talker audiences want. Hence the rush to buy up material which fill those measuremen's, plus orders to the scenario departments to soak the originals in hoke.

Revive Dying Kids.

Tear-jerkers are wanted, the producers opine. A dying kid, perhaps, who will lead mama and daddy to a new start, or a villian who is obviously a wolf in wolf's clothing And Pollyana heroines.

"Jane Eyre" was dragged out by the limbo of things forgotten by audiences anxious to pay for a little weeping.

Same for "East Lynne," which is in the works both at Fox and by Liberty Productions. Metro reached back 10 years to get "The Rise and Fall of Susan Lenox."

Meanwhile the indies are reviving western yarns dealing with strong silent men and women about to be wronged.

Neighborhoods Need Kids

Another reason for the backward march is the kid angle. Recent type of story hasn't helped the Saturday afternoon and neighborhood business. Kids go for the hoke and pull the parents into the neighborhood houses.

THE MARX BROTHERS

That incongruous quartet, the Marx Brothers, are now to be seen at the Rialto, New York, in a version of "Animal Crackers" which is filled with brainy lines contributed by George S. Kaufman and others. This comic piece of insanity is chiefly a flow of chatter between the three talking Marx brothers and amusing actions delivered by Harpo Marx, who only makes use of the microphone when he plays a tin whistle or a harp.

These four clowns show marked ability in their many scenes. When Groucho, the most voluble of the quartet, is expressing pain while listening to Chico's piano-playing, he shows himself to be something more than a mere comedian. He really acts in quite a number of the episodes.

SILENCED ELSIE

Sequel to Elsie Ferguson's reprimand to "Fata Morgana" customers in Frisco was an order to the stage manager to drop the curtain if the star tried ay more anpeeches. A couple of nights later, while everybody was taking bows, a couple of remarks reminiscent of the previous occasion were heard in the front rows.

Miss Ferguson stepped out and started to speak.

She rushed to the wings and argued with the femme stage manager. Nix. She had orders, said the stage manager. Miss Ferguson shoved her aside and pushed the signal button herself, but she didn't know the combination and there was no curtain. And no speech.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

STAGE AND SCREEN NOTES.

"The Perils of Pauline," the old serial thriller in which Pearl White jumped from trestle to moving box car and did other equally exciting stunts, will be remade in sound, according to E. B. Derr, president of Pathe. Pathe first made the serial in 1914. Late that year "The Exploits of Elaine," with the same star, followed.

"Viennese Nights", the Hammerstein-Romberg film operetta which Warner Brothers recently completed, will soon be seen on Broadway. The authors of this musical photoplay have tried to capture the indefinable charm of Vienna. The theme of the picture is that of a suppressed love that died but is reborn again in the hereafter. The film is in Technicolor and was produced under the direction of Alan Crosland.

Lily Damita, who arrived here from Paris a week ago, will appear in the Paramount production, "Fighting Caravans." This is Zane Grey's story of wagon trains on the Western frontier and will have in its cast, besides the vivacious Parisienne, Gary Cooper, Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall.

Juliette Compton, who was formerly on the stage here and more recently appeared as the indulgent ex-wife in "Anybody's Woman," has been engaged for the leading role in William Powell's forthcoming production "New Morals," a name which in modern dress is no other than Frederick Lonsdale's "Spring Cleaning."

Harold Lloyd's plans, always of interest to the comedy-conscious, will include as his next production a picture centering about the activities of a football eleven. Having just finished "Feet First," which was made in a large part aboard a steamship bound for Hawaii, Mr. Lloyd has begun plotting the course of his next laugh provoker. It will be remembered that he had some training for a gridiron encounter in his previous "The Freshman," in which he ran the wrong way for a goal.

Despite all rumors to the contrary Clara Bow will remain with Paramount for another contractual period. This will mark her fifth year as a Paramount player. Her latest and as yet unreleased production is "Her Wedding Night."

"The Leather Pushers" series of films about boxers by H. C. Witwer is being remade in sound with Sam Hardy appearing in the role created by Reginald Denny. For the purpose of obtaining authentic backgrounds Mr. Hardy was sent to New York, where he was photographed last week in the exact locations required in the script.

"Journey's End," the talking picture version of the play by R. C. Sherriff, is on the screen of the Roxy, New York. Colin Clive appears in this version of the happenings in a British dugout at Captain Standhope.

Entire profession, both in the east and in Hollywood, who remembered the last Dustin Farnum, who died July 3, 1929, were amazed when the probate of the actor's will at Bucksport, Me., disclosed his estate had dwindled from an estimated $500,000 to a small $10,000 farm in Maine. Sole beneficiary is the widow, Winifred Kingston, picture actress of 1428 North Stanley avenue, Hollywood.

Rod La Rocque arrived in New York from Hollywood to start rehearsals in the Arch Selwyn play, 'How to Be Happy' in which he and his wife, Vilma Banky, will start. Colleen Moore, to be featured in Arch Selwyn's 'Foam' is also in New York.

Fan Mail Heavy But Can't Save Alice White

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Figuring that she has lost 40 per cent of her draw during the past six months, her fan mail is as heavy as ever, First National is dropping Alice White this month.

It's a case of plain washup, they claim, with a slant on letter writers as being disloyal or else indifferent to buying more than government postage.

Word that the option will not be taken up has been received in the New York office.

Alice is described as being "little more than a member of the cast" in her last two pictures yet to be released by the Brothers. These are titled "The Widow from Chicago" and "The Naughty Flirt."

Bernice Claire is another whose contract is up and whose option is not being taken up immediately. Warners have until January to excise this right.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

FORD PLANT IS GREATEST IN DOMINION

STANDARDS OF SERVICE RIGID

Policy Features Quality of Parts and Flat Repair Rates.

It is a fact seldom recognized by the public that the modern automobile age has been made possible largely through the development of maintenance services. For, obviously, without garages and service stations, half of the motorcars in the world would not be operating at their best efficiency within a very short time.

The world-wide distribution of authorized Ford agencies where owners of Ford cars can obtain uniform parts and uniform service is one of the greatest assets of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. Twenty years ago the difficulties of maintaining an automobile in running condition were far greater than now. There was, at that time, no far-flung chain of authorized service stations where genuine parts and uniform maintenance service could be obtained.

The controlled service, as it has now become known, was founded upon the initial business principles which actuated Mr. Ford, namely, that his obligation to car purchasers did not end with the sale. Just as the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, was a pioneer in the making of a strong, simple, satisfactory automobile at a low price, so it also was a pioneer in establishing complete and satisfactory service facilities. Provision for speedy purchase of parts and repairs at a reasonable cost were the innovations of that service.

Mr. Ford was one of the first to protect the owners of his cars against extortion by instituting a set of flat rate labor charges.

There are to-day more than 700 Ford dealers in the Dominion whose mechanics have been trained in special schools conducted by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, and who are equipped with the latest service machinery. No matter in what section of the Dominion the car owner may find himself, there is a Canadian Ford dealer prepared to render prompt and business-like service at fair charges.

Commercial Cars Redesigned

Redesigned commercial car models of greatly increased utility and added attractiveness have just been announced by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. The line includes a new 1½-ton truck with 157-inch wheelbase, 25½ inches longer than the standard wheelbase. This is intended to meet the demand for Ford trucks with longer chassis and capable of adaptation to longer and larger bodies for bulk haulage. A new cowl and increased radiator capacity are features of the new line.

USE FORGINGS FOR STRENGTH

Employment of Proper Steels Adds to Sturdiness.

Scores of steel forgings are used in the Ford chassis. In a great many cases, these steel forgings are used where stampings or castings are employed in the ordinary car. Naturally this makes the Ford a stronger car.

Another factor in the sturdiness of the Ford is the extensive use of electric welding. This permits the use of strong single units of great strength instead of several connecting or overlapping parts being riveted or bolted together.

Nearly forty different kinds of steel are used in the Ford cars, each kind being selected and perfected to fit the particular needs of each part. Seven kinds of steel are used in the transmission alone, because research and experience have proved that seven kinds of steel will give greater efficiency and reliability than one or two.

There is no limit to selection—no thought that any certain steel must be made to do to save expense. The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, to give it to the public at low cost.

Finish Crankshaft By New Methods

Bearing surfaces of the Ford crankshaft are being polished to a much finer degree as the result of the development of machines that finish all seven main and connecting-rod bearings in a single operation, say officials of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

After the crankshaft has received its final grinding and has been statically and dynamically balanced, it is placed in a specially built lapping machine which has seven arms—one for each bearing. Each arm holds six very fine lapping stones or hones which clamp around the bearings under heavy pressure. The shaft is rotated and also oscillated until no roughness from the grinding operations remains.

To insure an absolutely smooth and bright finish, the shaft is then placed in a similar machine which holds an extra fine polishing paper instead of the lapping stones. Again it is rotated and oscillated after which the bearings are cleaned and inspected.

This process gives the bearings a mirror-like smoothness which reduces friction and makes easier the breaking-in period of the car. The polishing paper used in the second machine is fed automatically so that there is a fresh supply for each crankshaft. This, with the oscillating motion, permits a more uniform finish than was possible under the old method of polishing each bearing separately on a revolving wheel.

Industrial Plant Has Capacity of 100,000 Autos Yearly.

One of the great industrial titans of the Dominion of Canada is situated at East Windsor, Ontario. This colossus has shouldered its way upward until now it stands acknowledged among the greatest industries of the entire British Empire.

It is the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, an institution entirely Canadian, operated largely by Canadians, employing thousands of native Canadians, manufacturing a Canadian motor car from Canadian materials.

Few Canadians realize that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is in every truth a Canadian industry, distinct from the Ford Motor Company of the United States. And fewer still, perhaps, know that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is the largest motor car factory in the British Empire! Mr. W. R. Campbell is president, Mr. Henry Ford is a member of the board of directors.

The annual capacity of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is more than 100,000 automobiles, which are distributed to some 5,500 dealers scattered in every corner of the vast British Empire, with the exception of the United Kingdom and Ireland. This huge industry is purely a Canadian enterprise, manufacturing nearly all of its parts consumed, and importing only such material from the United States as Canada is unable to produce at a reasonable price, or in dependable quantities.

Furthermore, the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., enriches the Dominion by millions of dollars every year and furnishes employment to thousands of Canadians. To be exact, during the four year period between 1926 and 1929, this company paid to its employees wages aggregating $45,191,169. During the same period, the company disbursed in the Dominion for materials and services needed for manufacturing the Canadian Ford car an additional $80,536,686.

Approximately four-fifths of the value of these materials and services went to pay for the labor involved in their production, making an additional $64,429,349 turned into channels of Canadian labor. This represents a grand total of $109,620,518 during the last four years, which this vast corporation has turned back into the maintenance of the Canadian high standard of living throughout the Dominion.

The Ford economic principle of high wages and reasonable hours is too well known to need explanation. Everywhere the Ford plan has gone, prosperity and progress have followed.

The industrial relations of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, with its employees has been so congenial that strikes are practically unknown.

Even the "bogey" of repetitive work, by which competitors have charged that the Ford mass production methods burned out the company's men through grinding monotony, has been exploded. Several years ago an executive order that every man was to change his job every three months went into effect. To the surprise of everyone, this order was fiercely resisted by the majority of employees in the so-called monotonous jobs. The protests were so violent that the order was recalled.

No development in all the Ford industries has been a greater source of satisfaction than the reduction of industrial accidents to the point where their total elimination may be visualized. The general cleanliness of any Ford plant and its yards is far ahead of the average public park.

As a result of the great volume of production possible to the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, combined with innumerable detailed efficiencies of manufacture and savings in materials, the new Model A Ford motor car is acknowledged by engineers actually to embody considerably greater value than its price indicates.

BUYER SHOULD STUDY VALUES

Ford Achieves Low First Cost Without Sacrifice of Quality.

Convincing proof that extra value has been built into the new Ford car without extra cost is given by a searching scrutiny of the features which make the new Ford car a value far above the price. Many of these features are exclusive with the Ford car in the moderate price field.

Of first importance in the selection of a motor car comes low first cost. In the Ford car this has been achieved without sacrifice of quality or performance. Next in importance is low cost of maintenance and operation. The Ford car meets these tests admirably.

In the consideration of the Ford car the relation between value and price and the reason for the low price and the manner in which it has been achieved without sacrifice of quality or performance is of the greatest importance.

Every purchaser shares the benefits of the Ford policy of large production at low cost—of selling at a small margin of profit—of constantly giving greater and greater value through the vast Canadian organization which has been built up for the making, selling and servicing of the Ford car.

A new degree of excellence has been brought within reach of all the people through the development of new manufacturing machines and the discovery and working out of new manufacturing methods. Evidence of this is found in the extremely close limits of measurement maintained in the manufacture of vital parts. Some of these are held true to within a maximum variation of three ten-thousandths of an inch, reducing friction and wear and resulting in greater reliability and long life.

As the quality of workmanship has been increased, so has the quality of materials been improved. The savings resulting from new manufacturing economies have been put right back into the car. Through special Ford methods, materials once thought too expensive for a low-price car have been made available for use in the Ford.

To-day, as a result, the Ford car is an outstanding example of high quality at low cost. Were it made and sold in any other way, under any other business and profit policy, it would unquestionably cost much more than the present low price.

The use of shatterless glass for the windshield and rustless steel in many exposed metal parts is a definite indication of the quality that has been built into the Ford car. So are the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, the five steel-spoke wheels, the silent, fully-enclosed four wheel brakes, the aluminum pistons, the chrome silicon alloy valves, the simplicity and efficiency of the lubrication, cooling, ignition and fuel systems. So, too, are the large number of ball and roller bearings, the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings and the many other mechanical advantages that count so much in reliability, economy and long life.

All of these are important considerations to any one who is contemplating the purchase of a motorcar. All are important reasons why the Ford delivers a value far above the price.

But there are many other considerations which enter into the extra value of the Ford car. The Ford is a smart car. It is available in a changing variety of beautiful colors, an unusual feature in a low priced car. Its appointments are in keeping with its mechanical excellence. Its upholstery is rich in tone and long-wearing. The body finish is of enduring pyroxylin lacquer.

When beauty is added to the other outstanding qualities of the Ford car it is not difficult to understand why the Ford leads all other cars in sales.

New Fordson More Powerful

The new Fordson tractor is ideally suited to farming. For any job requiring power, either belt or draw bar, the Fordson does the work quickly, easily and economically. Some of the new features of the Fordson are more power, easy starting, new cooling, lubrication and ignition systems, larger air washer, redesigned transmission, longer wearing crankshaft, improved gasoline carburetor and hot spot manifold. Lubrication of rear wheel bearings is automatic.

Jersey Cattle

As judge of the dairy cattle Arthur Brethen had perhaps the largest class of Jerseys that has ever been assembled at the local exhibition. Competition was exceptionally keen and Mr. Brethen explained the reasons actuating many of his decisions. The breeders were: W. H. Down of Lakefield, A. E. Hubble of Havelock, John T. Drope of Roseneath, S. S. Staples of Cavan, Field Lodge Farm, Rice Lake; Garnet Kerr Campbellford; F. C. H. Bent & Son Omemee.

This large showing is in itself an index of the development of the livestock branch of the Exhibition, and of the interest local breeders of Jerseys are taking in their herds. A. E. Hubble of Havelock and Sam Staples are both young farmers, gradually expanding in their dairy enterprise. John T. Drope is another comparative newcomer to Peterborough in the Jersey competitions, while Fred Field of Field Lodge Farm is now virtually a veteran exhibitor.

Garnet Kerr and W. H. Down are in the same class and have for years been showing here, while F. C. H. Bent's name has long been familiar at Exhibition time.

The Field herd captured the male and female championships and also first prize for senior bull; the Drope Jerseys were awarded red ribbons for both the senior and junior herds; while S. S. Staples won firsts for senior heifer calf, junior heifer calf and yearling bull.

The Jersey prizes were distributed as follows.

PROPER START HALF THE BATTLE FOR GOOD LAYERS

Correct Feeding Practices Should be Put Into Effect at Once

PUT FEED IN LITTER

Chicks Should Learn to Scratch as Exercise is Very Important.

"As the twig is bent so will the tree be inclined," was not spoken of chicks, but the proverb fits splendidly. Chicks must get a good start if they are to develop into good layers. In the first place, strong chicks are necessary. Good environment, sanitary quarters, freedom from dampness and plenty of warmth for comfort are all important factors, but nothing is quite so important as proper feeding.

The ideal feeding method is one which keeps the chicks growing every minute. If your present methods are accomplishing that result, do not change, but unless your chicks are developing regularly from day to day so that you can literally and actually see them grow, you will probably profit by changing to another plan. That does not mean a more difficult or complicated one. On the contrary, it often means simpler and easier methods—most certainly more effective ones.

The time to start proper feeding is the very moment your chicks arrive from the hatchery or when taken from the nest or from your own incubator. Thousands of chicks are killed every year by premature feeding or by being given the wrong kinds of food materials during their first few hours of freedom.

Nature provides all the nourishment needed by a chick during the first two or three days of its life. Just before it emerges from the shell, what is left of the yolk which nourished the chick before hatching is absorbed into its abdominal cavity. This supplies all the nourishment needed for the first 48 to 60 hours. To feed anything else during that time may lead to serious digestive disorders causing death later on if not at once. A considerable percentage of so-called White Diarrhea cases are caused by premature or improper feeding at this time.

No Feed for 60 Hours.

While chicks should receive no grain, mash or other solid food during the first 48 to 60 hours, they can have water, fresh buttermilk or sour milk from the start. If the milk is available water is not necessary, otherwise see that they constantly have before them clean water into which is dissolved Chick Tablets. Water or milk should be given in clean shallow dishes or drinking fountains so arranged that the chicks cannot get into them with their feet.

After about 48 to 60 hours, give them their first feed, placing the food on clean paper or in shallow trays so they can see it and learn to eat easily. Do not overfeed as it is extremely dangerous. Baby chicks should be fed about every three hours for the first two weeks and never at any time should they be given more than they can clean up in about fifteen minutes. It is much better to keep them hungry than to stuff them during this period.

Scatter a little grain and fine grit in the litter the first day or two after you start feeding them and teach the little fellows to scratch. If they find some of the grain in the litter they will learn to scratch readily, and as soon as they learn to scratch, all their grain feed should be fed in the litter, as exercise is very important for baby chicks. It causes growth and wards off disease. I can usually teach my chicks to scratch the second or third day, and then I scatter all grain in the litter.

Litter is very essential for baby chicks that are brooded inside. It is the means of providing the exercise necessary for the chick's growth and continuous appetite. It should be dry and clean and free from mold or must.

Chaff that is found in all straw makes excellent litter for chicks. In fact, I prefer it to any other. Shake the chaff from the straw and use it for the chicks. Alfalfa is good, but it should not be as fine as dust, as that will get into the nostrils of the chicks and cause inflammation. Bright straw, hay or alfalfa cut into short pieces make excellent litter for baby chicks.

I have carried on hundreds of experiments during the past fifteen years and as a result of the knowledge thus gained, I have developed a very successful method of feeding baby chicks. Unfortunately, lack of space prevents me from incorporating my method in this article, although I hope to give it in the next one. Should you miss the next atricle or desire any further information about the handling and feeding of baby chicks, I shall be glad to answer any questions addressed to me in care of the editor of this paper.

Canadian Hay Is Preferred Abroad

The increase in popularity of Canadian graded hay in the overseas market, coupled with an acute shortage in the United States, is the basis for the forecast by the seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture of an increase in hay exports at advantageous prices this year. Canadian hay has secured for itself a high reputation during the past three years, and reports indicate that among particular customers it is preferred to anything grown in Great Britain. This is another case in which quality assured by Government grading means much to the Canadian farmer.

LEGHORNS LEAD BARRED ROCKS

First for Best Individual Bird Held by Rhode Island Red With 229 Eggs.

11TH EGG-LAYING CONTEST

As the eleventh Canadian egg-laying contest at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, enters the home stretch it finds the leading pens changing places. The pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks entered by Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Saskatchewan, which led the contest through the first forty weeks, has dropped to second place; first place is now held by a pen of White Leghorns entered by Richard Green with a total score of 1924.3, or a lead of 29.8 points over the Barred Rocks. The race for second place is very close, and the third pen is only 13.1 points ahead of the fourth.

First and second place in best individual birds is held by a Rhode Island Red and a Barred Plymouth Rock, respectively, with records of 229 and 225 eggs to date.

Moulting is having its effect on the birds in the contest and egg production shows a decline, the record for the week being 12 below last week's total. 30 eggs laid could not be given credit.

CROP ACREAGE OVER ONTARIO DROPS SLIGHTLY

Total Area of Field Crops is 10,297,228 Acres, Against 10,306,883 in 1929.

FALL WHEAT, 676,802 ACRES

Oats and Rye Only Two Crops With Bigger Acreages.

The following statistics of the principal field crops of Ontario for 1930 show the acreage as compiled by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from individual returns made by farmers. The yields were estimated by a large and experienced staff of correspondents who give probable yields according to conditions on August 25th.

Fall Wheat—672,802 acres will produce 18,951,289 bushels or 28.0 per acre as against 691,662 acres, 17,820,739 bushels or 25.8 per acre in 1929 and 16,766,408 bushels in 1928. The annual average for the 48 years, 1882-1929, was 22.1.

Spring Wheat—98,966 acres, 2,256,975 bushels or 22.8 per acre as against 106,610 acres, 1,929,892 bushels or 18.1 in 1929 and 2,181,855 bushels in 1928. The annual average was 16.5.

Oats—2,468,913 acres, 97,198,924 bushels or 39.4 per acre as against 2,335,310 acres, 73,640,478 bushels or 31.5 in 1929 and 93,461,068 bushels in 1928. The annual average was 35.9.

Barley — 609,879 acres, 21,158,724 bushels or 34.7 per acre as against 622,063 acres, 18,032,191 bushels or 29.0 in 1929 and 19,944,133 in 1928. The annual average was 28.8.

Rye—52,881 acres, 954,350 bushels or 18.0 per acre as against 52,023 acres, 873,239 bushels or 16.8 in 1929 and 1,131,172 bushels in 1928. The annual average was 16.5.

Peas—80,093 acres, 1,521,223 bushels or 19.0 per acre as against 79,523 acres, 1,235,658 bushels or 15.5 in 1929 and 1,892,588 bushels in 1928. The annual average was 19.0.

Beans—67,540 acres, 891,706 bushels or 13.2 per acre as against 63,732 acres, 1,113,310 bushels or 17.5 in 1929 and 873,427 bushels in 1928. The annual average was 16.2.

Alfalfa—641,686 acres, 1,257,450 tons or 1.96 per acre as against 685,880 acres, 1,596,212 tons or 2.33 in 1929 and 1,730,135 tons in 1928. The annual average was 2.45.

Alsike—141,480 acres, 180,795 tons or 1.28 per acre as against 189,848 acres, 289,560 tons or 1.53 in 1929 and 235,325 tons in 1928.

Sweet Clover—338,234 acres, 691,876 tons or 2.05 per acre as against 388,106 acres, 803,576 tons or 2.07 in 1929 and 924,608 tons in 1928.

Hay and Clover—2,849,702 acres, 4,189,374 tons or 1.47 per acre as against 2,915,221 acres, 4,661,660 tons or 1.60 in 1929 and 4,455,615 tons in 1928. The annual average was 1.46.

The acreages in other crops for which no estimate as to yield have been made at this date are as follows: Buckwheat, 275,317 as against 294,388 in 1929; flax, 5,234 against 5,492; mixed for husking, 130,094 against 120,000; ed grains, 958,086 against 892,897; corn fodder corn, 311,817 against 287,566; cleared pasture, 3,149,460 against 3,134,614; potatoes, 159,192 against 148,435; turnips, 74,133 against 72,502; mangels, 29,055 against 30,395; sugar beets, 38,220 against 36,864; carrots, 1,772 against 1,777; summer fallow, 247,067 against 247,802; orchard, 212,232 against 214,370; strawberries, 7,286 against 7,613; vineyard, 11,586 against 11,255; small fruits, 12,376 against 12,367; tobacco, 27,376 against 23,073; rape, 17,275 against 17,911.

The total area enumerated above exclusive of cleared pasture and fallow is 10,297,228 acres against 10,306,883 in 1929 and 10,645,770 on 1928.

CONTRACTS ARE LET ON CHURCHILL JOB

Splendid Progress Being Made on 2,500,000 Bushel Elevator.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 13.—(CP)—Important contracts in connection with the power equipment for the 2,500,00-bushel elevator the Department of Railways and Canals in constructing at Churchill, were announced.

The announcement came from Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of that Department.

The boiler house equipment will be supplied and installed by Babcock-Wilcox and Goldie McCulluch Limited, of Galt, Ontario, and the generator room equipment by the C. A. Parsons Company Limited, of Toronto, Ontario, and Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. The expediture represented by these contracts will amount to about $55,000.

Good progress is being made with the work of development at Churchill, and the construction program laid down inthe winter of 1927-28 has not only been maintained but, in certain respects, exceeded. That program contemplated sufficient work and facilities to permit of testing out of the route during the Fall season of 1931.

FARMER GIVING MORE ATTENTION TO CROP COSTS

Information Dealing With Subject Obtainable From Publications Branch.

DETAILED REPORTS

Costs $30.62 to Produce Acre of Oats With Value of $133.08.

The farmer to-day is giving more attention to what crops cost than he has ever done before. With the present condition of markets both at home and abroad and with increased competition he must know pretty well in advance what a crop is going to cost him.

Many factors enter into the question of crop cost and these are not always readily apparent. There are two sources of information from which a farmer may secure a useful guide by which to figure crop costs. These are: the annual report of the field husbandry division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the reports of the Dominion Experimental Farm or Station serving the area in which the farmer is located. Through its Experimental Farms' services the Dominion Department of Agriculture conducts experimental studies and scientific research of farming problems. The result of these studies are made available to farmers in the form of annual reports and publications, which are supplied without charge on application to the department through the publications branch at Ottawa. The latest report of the Dominion field husbandman covers a wide range of material with respect to crop rotation, preparation of the land, the seeding and cultivation of farm crops, and farm crop costs.

At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, it is found, for instance, that it costs $30.62 to produce an acre of oats having a value of $33.08; the cost of producing hay in 1929 was found to be $19.60 an acre for hay valued at $34.05; ensilage corn cost $4.38 an acre more to produce than it was worth at current values—the cost per acre was $54.62 with an acreage crop value of $50.24. In the case of mangels, it cost $72.45 an acre to produce the crop and the yield of 17.81 tons per acre, valued at $1.91 a ton, was worth only $34.02; or, mangels showed a loss per acre of $28.43. Potatoes on the other hand proved a particularly profitable crop, showing a surplus of $97.94 per acre over cost of production; potatoes cost $80.99 per acre to produce and yielding 192.4 bushels, valued at 93c, showed an acreage value of $178.93.

These figures afford some indication of the importance to the farmer of knowing what his crops cost him. The detailed information with respect to production cost available in the annual report is well worth having.

HIGHWAY ROUTE IS AGREED UPON

Upsala-Ignace-Dryden-Kenora Suggested as Course of Trans-Canada Road.

ASK IMMEDIATE ACTION.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13.—(C.P.)—Representatives of municipalities at the Head of the Lakes, in conference here yesterday, presented a resolution to Hon. William Finlayson, Minister in charge of northern development, unanimously endorsing the Upsala-Ignace-Dryden-Kenora route as the route which, in their opinion, the trans-Canada highway should follow to the Manitoba boundary, and urging the Ontario Government to undertake construction immediately as an unemployment relief measure.

Mr. Finlayson promised the deputation the Government's serious consideration of their request. No action, however, can be taken from the Provincial end until the Dominion Government at Ottawa is consulted.

The route in question is about 300 miles in length. The whole of it has been surveyed, and parts of it are now travelled extensively.

First approach of Mr. Finlayson with two distinct routings of the trans-Canada highway from the Head of the Lakes—one way by Kenora and the other by Fort Frances—but at the suggestion of the Minister they got together, ironed out their differences, and agreed on the Upsala-Ignace-Dryden route as the more feasible and advantageous of the two, and one which, in their belief, would enlist more readily the Government's response and co-operation.

NEW ARGENTINE GOV'T TO BACK BRITISH FAIR

BUENOS AIRES, Argentine, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Board of Directors of the British Chamber of Commerce have made a complimentary call upon Provisional President Uriburu and informed him of the British Trade Exhibition, to be opened in Buenos Aires next year by the Imperial Government.

General Uriburu promised to support the enterprise, adding that the Government would heartily welcome the Prnice of Wales if his promised visit takes place.

Apple Crop Light But Good Quality

While present indications point to a lighter apple and fruit yield than last year, a crop of much better quality is also indicated. The latest forecast by the Dominion Department of Agriculture estimates a yield of some 2,-900,100 barrels, or 6-1 per cent. below the five-year average. Production prospects in Eastern Canada are lighter than last year, while British Columbia expects a heavier pack than in 1928. The general prospect, however, is that while yield may be lighter fruit will be of good size and well colored., Extremely dry weather in Ontario and British Columbia has reduced estimates of production for plums, prunes, peaches and grapes, although yields are expected to exceed the 1929 figures.

APPLE GROWERS WATCH ORCHARDS

Canadian Exhibitors Hope to Take Major Honors at the Imperial Fruit Show.

KEEN COMPETITION

Apple growers in Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia are watching their orchards closely for the selection of apples and other fruits to be shown at the Imperial Fruit Show in Leicester, England, October 24 to November 1.

In the words of the Dominion Fruit Commissioner, this is the blue ribbon event of the year. Fruit growers from all over the Empire compete for honors and competition this year promises to be keener than ever for the championships, cups and medals in the several classes which make up the show.

The Dominion fruit branch of Ottawa will have a special display and the Provincial Governments of the apple-growing Provinces—British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia—are exhibiting their best fruits. Individual entries from growers, organizations and the larger shippers will show the British market the excellence of Canadian apples and other fruits.

At last year's show held at Birmingham over ninety thousand people attended. One of the features of the show is the free distribution of Canadian apples by the Empire Marketing Board. This year they will be distributing over twenty thousand individual specimens.

The Empire Fruit Show is open to entries from all parts of the Empire, and it is hoped that Canada will this year carry off the major honors for apples.

LINDSAY IS LOWEST IN INFANT MORTALITY

LINDSAY, September 13.—(CP)—That Lindsay has the lowest infant mortality rate per capita of any town in the province of Ontario was the report given out at the meeting of the Lindsay Board of Health last evening. There have been only two infant deaths here in 1930 up until the end of July. In the last six years the highest rate was in 1923, when there were 24 deaths and the lowest, excepting this year was in 1918 when 18 infants died.

AIR STUNT WILL FEATURE FAIR

Public Stand Chance of Winning Watch Dropped From Air at Campbellford.

DONATED BY P. TWEEDIE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 13 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Much interest is being caused here centering around the airplane stunt that is going to be featured at the Campbellford Fall Fair by C. D. Beattie, local pilot and president of the Campbellford Flying Club.

On the second afternoon of the event Mr. Beattie will drop from his plane at an elevation of 1,000 feet an ordinary cardboard box. Within that box will be a Bruner Master-Built wrist watch donated by the local jeweller, P. Tweedie. This watch which is valued at $25.00, is shatter-proof. It will be examined before it is taken into the air and when picked up on the ground will be opened by a committee headed by Mayor C. H. Davidson, and again examined by Mr. Tweedie before presentation to the winner.

This watch can be won by the public. Each person attending the Fair will be given a guess as to the time it takes the package to reach the ground after leaving the plane. This time will be gauged in seconds and fifths of seconds.

The person making the correct guess, or the nearest thereto, will be the winner. A lady's or gent's watch will be given according to the sex of the person receiving the award.

This stunt will be watched by people with a great deal of interest, for it combines the generosity of a local merchant, the ability of Campbellford's local pilot, and a chance for everyone to win a prize.

INSTITUTE ACCEPTS SCHOOL BOARD OFFER

Willing to Buy Old Warsaw School Building For Meeting Place.

WARSAW, Sept. 13.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held in the Institute room on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. George Weller in the chair. The matter of buying the old school was brought up. At it had been discussed before, it was voted upon and carried that the trustees' offer be accepted. I was also carried that the unused room may be rented to a village organization, and that as community work, the fire extinguishers may be stored in the basement.

The school fair will be all day. It was decided to serve a dinner as well as hot dogs.

Mr. Nelson is arranging for classes in domestic science and sewing to be held for two weeks each at the same time that the boys have their classes in agriculture.

There was community singing, "The Church in the Wildwood" and "Long, Long Trail." Mrs. David Miller gave a travelogue on Ontario. Mrs. John Payne sang very sweetly "It Was Springtime."

Among those from Warsaw who attended the Apsley Fair on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tedford, Mr. Walter John Kidd, Irwin Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tedford, Mr. and Mrs. Art Hendren, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Moore, Mr. and Mrs. W. Darling, Michael McManus, Thomas McMurray, Harold Payne, B. Clysdale, Stuart Miller, Misses Lena and Lyall Miller, Mr. and Mrs. David Drain, Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, Misses Valetta and Cora Drain, Miss Laura Webster Mr. and Mrs. J. Clysdale, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Long from Havelock spent the week end with their niece, Mrs. John Sargent.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lathrope from Castleton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong from Keene and Miss Armstrong from Ottawa visited relatives in Warsaw vicinity on Tuesday.

Rev. Hugh Nixon of Victoria, B.C. called on his cousin, Mr. David Drain, on Thursday. It is many years since last Mr. Nixon was east.

Several farmers a few miles from here have already filled their silos. Some of the best corn to be seen in many miles is seen on a few farms close to the village.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Sept. 13 (Examiner Correspondence)—The initial meeting of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group for the fall and winter season was held on Wednesday evening, at the leader's home, with fifteen members in attendance, and the president, Miss Marian O'Brian, in the chair.

Discussion of business items included a new list of girls giving weekly service toward a shut-in companion, ill for some weeks, and arrangements for the annual bacon supper, to take place on Friday, September 12th, on Mr. O'Brian's farm, the Grove, the usual place for the gathering, being taken for that evening by the public school with its yearly corn roast.

Misses Frances Jones and Marian O'Brian, with the other girls coming immediately after school; bacon, beans, and coffee will be cooked over camp fires, and the remainder of the menu will include bread and butter, pie, and pickles. The outing is always looked forward to with keen anticipation, and a good time invariably enjoyed.

Announcement was made for the annual meeting to take place on Wednesday, September 24th, when reports will be received and election of officers take place. The Mission Circle will be held on Tuesday, September 16th, and as most of the girls belong to this organization, the group meeting is withdrawn the week of its gathering.

The impressive ritual opened the devotional session, the 'prayer chapter,' Acts 12, being read alternately for the Scripture lesson.

Miss Marian Earle, who with Miss Bernice Thornton, represented the Wide Awakes' group at the Provincial C.G.I.T. Camp at White House, Lake Couchiching, this summer, gave a most interesting and comprehensive report, telling of the many activities arranged for those in attendance at the "Court of Friendly Hearts," as the camp was christened. The local delegates won first prize in the competition for neatness in the keeping of their room, and also first place for being promptly on time each morning at flag-raising and physical 'jerks.'

A brief talk by the leader on the value and necessity of prayer to make the new year upon which the group is entering reach higher standard than any previously attained, was followed by a period of prayer, and the closing benediction.

The usual social hour was enjoyed at the close, with light refreshments served. In the near future the group will consider ways and means of adding to its funds, its custom being to contribute to the church Maintenance and Missions fund each fall, and to give help to the Star Santa Claus fund at Christmas time.

BETHANY

The members of the softball team entertained their captain, Miss Jean McKinnon, on Friday evening at the home of their manager, Walter Price, and presented her with a beautiful leather nat box. The evening was spent in games and music, after which a dainty lunch was served of cake and sandwiches.

There was a meeting of the young people of the United church to reorganize for the fall term of C.G.I.T. and Tuxis Square on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Ronald Hutchison, Toronto, Bank of Montreal, accompanied his friend, Mr. Cecil Magill, who is on holiday for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Bailey, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Smith, of Ingersoll, arrived on the evening train Tuesday to be present at the wedding of their niece and granddaughter, Miss Jean McKinnon.

The ladies of St. Paul's church are very busy preparing to entertain the deanery meeting to be held here on the 11th inst.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

The Standard Remedy for Headache

ZUTOO TABLETS are an efficient and harmless remedy for headache. Mr. Geo. Legge, Editor of Granby Leader-Mail, writes: "Your ZUTOO TABLETS deserve to be known widely as a remedy that will stop headache." A box of these harmless little tablets in the office, home or pocket, are assurance against aches and pains. They stop them.

A goodly thing it is to meet

MOUNT PLEASANT

City housewives during the past few years have rapidly developed an economic independence and have turned a hobby or career into a paying concern of their very own. Shops of all sorts, tea rooms, craft-work, organizing, professions, etc., and jobs of all sorts, anything at which their brains may work to augment the family budget have been tackled successfully by women who also manage their home.

Now the farm women are following their example and taking on side lines to add to the general income—and are doing it with outstanding results, according to reports at the last annual convention of the Women's Institutes.

One woman, living about a mile from the highway, grew mushrooms, rented a room in a house facing the highway and did a thriving business in mushrooms, homemade bread, cake and pies during the summer.

Another got profit and pleasure from rhubarb grown in the cellar in January and February.

Two high school girls were given the milk from two cows by their father. They milked the cows, delivered it to the village customers and netted a nice return. Others profited from fine onions and potatoes and disposed of them to the seed houses.

The making of rugs is carried on in a modest way here and there and tourist accommodation is a very general means of utilizing spare room and talents for cooking along the highways.

The general improvement in farming conditions, etc., is noticed. Farm houses in general are now comfortable and convenient, greatly helped by Hydro, telephones, radios, cars, good roads and the Women's Institutes are also great factors in this better state of affairs on the land.

That the many problems confronting agriculture are constantly changing. Even the tastes and demands of the customers are changing. People are willing to pay for what they want, but they now want it put up in an attractive form, showing that haphazard system of marketing will not do, and only good quality products may command satisfactory prices. The farm women of Ontario are coming to appreciate more and more the importance of a profitable agriculture of the opportunities and advantages which they seek for themselves and their children are to be provided.

The necessity for a standard in household conveniences, comfort, and health-giving qualities is recognized, and ambitious boys and girls are more induced to look forward to the farm home as a permanent residence.

The study of child character and development is receiving more and more attention, and the promotion of a wholesome social life in the country side is a recognized responsibility of the Institutes in many districts.

Women and girls on the farms are taking a keen interest in everything connected with agriculture, as well as other topics, and there is an ever-increasing interest in the laws of the land and the administration of the same especially those relating to women and children, keen interest being manifested in inheritance, wills and custody of children.

The splendid work done by the Institutes which have made such great strides in the past few years, in providing literature, lectures, etc., to satisfy the keen desire for knowledge.

The Government of the Province of Ontario has recognized the importance of the profession of home-making, and has provided instruction in household economics in schools and in order that those who have passed the school age may have an opportunity of obtaining up-to-date information in the various branches of home making, provision has been made to furnish to the Women's Institutes trained instructors in the housing, clothing and feeding of the family.

The department also provides for a course in home nursing and first aid specially suited to the needs of the girls and women of the rural districts.

The value and practicability of this is shown in the assistance given by neighbor to neighbor in cases of sickness and accident. One Institute member who has taken the course is said to have attended thirty maternity cases during the past year without the loss of a mother.

We may well class home-making and community building as among the professions, for what is of greater importance than physical development and preservation, comfort, economic stability, efficiency and good citizenship, for which the Institute stands?

The accomplishments of the members and the earnestness with which they seek information of value in their undertakings entitle them to the best that science, experiment and practical experience has to offer.

MILLBROOK

As an appreciation of how the Institute 'mothers' some young folk needing just the help which it is the organization's ideal to give, a speaker at a recent convention told of a girl of twenty-one, left motherless, with her father, four sisters, and two brothers as her care, five years ago.

"I cannot tell you what the Institute has meant to me", the brave young girl said to the visiting secretary; "had it not been for the practical help I received from its programs each month, in connection with my housekeeping problems, and the kindly understanding and helpful sympathy of its members, I could never have carried on at all. Mother always was an Institute member, and regularly attended its meetings often she spoke of the help and inspiration it had been to her, and she had me join the junior organization when I was only thirteen. Many times when she was tired, and feeling discouraged, the meeting day came along, and after the social converse of the gathering, meeting many friends, and the fine, practical suggestions and demonstrations of the program, mother would come home quite cheered up, and go on again with courage and enthusiasm for her daily round."

It was a very cheerful home which the secretary visited, entertained at the tea hour and over night, books, magazines, and music being in evidence, and the conversation round the supper table was of a character that showed high ideals were inculcated, and encouraged. "If our Institutes bring forth fruit like that," the visitor said, "we are doing the finest kind of missionary work, and, with prayer and perseverance, will continue our way of service with thankful hearts and results in homes and hearts of the utmost practical value."

Discovering and developing the talents of its members is one of the best things that Institute work accomplishes, and one neighbor speaking during a discussion at a recent monthly gathering, mentioned the "mother, homemaker, and entertainer" who lived in her immediate vicinity, whose daily life, with her husband and five children and a farm home to care for, with limited means, was to her a constant revelation and surprise.

"Prosperity might spoil her," she said; "for she has expensive tastes had she the money to indulge them; lacking this, she declares she has found, in our Institute meetings, so many practical suggestions, and so much happy fellowship, it has just called forth the best she has in her, and as a 'master homemaker' her work goes daily on. Her family always comes first and though she may worry in private that her home is not as well furnished as her neighbors, she makes it as comfortable as she can, and does not apologize when visitors come and they are always made most welcome) for any lack that may be apparent. Her children are taught to help her, and even the boys take their share in the cleaning, and can set a table and help materially with a meal if mother is busy with company, and the latter, coming unexpectedly, have been invited to remain for tea. You would feel stimulated to spend an hour or two with her, for she radiates an atmosphere that may not be found in many other more richly-furnished home; and she declares the Institute has been a vital factor in helping her self to be, and her home to become, just what they are today."

An exchange of slips would be a seasonable response to the roll-call in these fall days, since plants are now being prepared for the winter indoors, and many roots will be left in the flower-beds, only slips being taken to brighten the windows during the dull, dark days not far ahead.

CAVAN.

The different provinces of the Dominion had exhibits at the C.N.E. Toronto, showing the industries and products of each.

It was very interesting to make a tour of these exhibits and glean some idea of the occupations and handiwork of the women of our vast Dominion and especially so to Institute members as this section was under the auspices of the Institutes from the various provinces.

Ontario Institutes, under the care of Miss M. V. Powell of Whitby and Miss E. Appelbe of Georgetown, had an exhibit showing in just how many ways they cater to the needs of rural women.

In the Ontario building there was much real and varied information to be had. Expert advice was to be gotten on a wide range of subjects, the use of white pine in the home, how to prevent forest fires, what to feed the children and what to do about one's dental equipment. A very interesting feature was the display prepared by the girls of Macdonald Institute, Guelph, who had taken a drab bedroom and made it into a thing of beauty at a total cost of $4.78. They showed the whole thing before and after, and told how they did it. Bare walls disappeared under a covering of seven rolls of pretty paper, costing $1.26. The ugly oak bed was treated to a coat of ivory paint and lost two or three feet from the head board, the top of which dropped down to make a pleasantly proportioned bit of furniture. Packing boxes made a shoe box and a dressing table and 22 flour sacks were dipped in dye of rosy hue and emerged as curtains and draperies. An old organdie dress also had a dip in the dye pot and transformed itself into several frivolous pillows to delight the heart of any girl who appreciates daintiness. There was something very homey about that transformed room in the midst of all the grand governmental displays.

The Markets Branch of the Department of Agriculture adjured us to "Reach for an apple instead of an orange" and backed up the slogan by a display of delectable fruits of our fertile gardens.

More Canadian apples might be eaten in place of so many imported oranges, and would be found just as beneficial to the health and not nearly so expensive.

Just a little consideration and planning would show us how to make more use of our Canadian products, not only helping to cut down our own living expenses, but at the same time help our Canadian manufacturers and producers and thus assist in giving employment to Canadians.

Institutes should put on a real campaign to assist in this commendable task which is about to receive consideration at a special session of parliament, "providing employment for the unemployed."

FASHION SERVICE

The sleeveless capelet frock of printed silk crepe is probably one of the most wearable types of the season. It's especially attractive for town, as it is so comfortably cool.

The soft capelet in this chic model falls in soft ripples over the arms giving the effect of short sleeves.

The fitted basque bodice with button trim and snug line through the hips of the circular flaring skirt is suggestive of Princess silhouette.

Style No. 2507 can be had in sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. The 36 inch size requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Plain, washable crepe silk in Iris-blue is youthful choice.

Printed dimity, printed voile, chiffon, printed batiste, handkerchief linen, shantung and novelty tub silks are dainty suggestions.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

What To-day Means To You

If September 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:15 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:40 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The astrological aspects for this date are materially beneficial, although there will be experienced mental and spiritual depression. The evening hours favor love and romance—guard your heart, and do not declare your affections! Mind less acute and efficient than usual.

Children born on this September 13th will soon indicate that their brains are real thinking machines, and they will desire to exercise their own tastes and will form their own ideas and opinions. They will never be anybody's shadow or echo, and will have strong, positive personalities.

The biggest character asset with which you were born is your courage, and Samuel Johnson once said, "Unless a man has this virtue, he has no security for preserving any other." Courage never appears alone, and you possess its accompanying co-attributes — self-denial, self-confidence, assertiveness, energy and integrity of purpose. You are one of those enviable people who get things done. You are not fate's football; you have always played center-forward yourself. Your vision shapes an idea, and your ambition and pluck carries it through to materialization.

The two-sided ball of existence, work and play, with you, is so blended together that the play side is indivisible from the work side. You get a lot of fun and enjoyment out of every thing you do You never fail to put a large dash of humor into all the commotions you make. You are very outspoken, blunt in your compliments and blunt in your criticisms. Your words seldom hurt, however, for behind them is kindliness and soundness.

You are not a "know it all," and you choose able and loyal confederates. You do not make the mistake of doing too much yourself. You know your strength and you know your limitations. You have a loving nature, and would make a splendid wife or husband for one who wants a constant loyal and true life-partner. You will be active within and without your home.

September 14.

If September 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8 a.m., and 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

It will be proved to-day that every day is a vessel into which much may be poured if we fill it to the brim. The heart will be awake to love and beauty, and the mind will soar to your castles in the air, where the workaday world will be forgotten. Little action, much thought.

The child born on this September 14th will spend a great part of its life in thought, rather than in action. It is a born planner and schemer, and will prove to be the man or woman behind the gun. It will be both inventive and original, and will have a reflective mind. It will be demonstrative in its affections.

During the early years of your life you will foolishly adopt a sheep-like habit, and will follow your leader — the leader in your case being the Custom in your own little class circle. Eventually you will rebel, and will dare to exercise your own choice and capacity in regard to your individual work, play and general interests. You are neither a negative or neutral being, and the positiveness of your nature will be bound to come to the front.

You are naturally optimistic. You do not wait till the clouds roll by, but keep on working in the rain. You know how to laugh, and it is said that laughter, by putting us in a good humor, enables us to tolerate ourselves and to tolerate each other. You know how to knuckle down to work, and you know how to resign yourself to the enjoyment of life.

There is a good adjustment between caution and adventure in your makeup. After you have done your best — and you usually do give your best efforts and thoughts — you seldom grieve over the results. You are very broad-minded and modern minded. You have faith, but you mix a strong arm with it. You move first, and let Providence move second. Fortune or flattery will never spoil you, and you will receive them both. You are courteous and have charming manners, and a convincing personality.

OMEMEE W.I. HEARS ADDRESS ON BLIND

Rev. Mr. Pickering Makes Urgent Appeal For Help in Splendid Cause.

OMEMEE, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. T. E. MacPherson with an attendance of nearly forty ladies. Mrs. R. J. Cornwall presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. D. Rea. The meeting opened with the institute ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were heard and the secretary reported a membership of 48 ladies. The main item of business was the collecting of all articles for the exhibit at the Lindsay Fair next week.

The Rev. Mr. Pickering, a representative from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was present, and addressed the gathering. It is officially stated there are 7,000 blind people now in Canada, and no doubt there are many more cases not reported. Numerous stories were told by the speaker, showing that a large percentage of these cases is caused by the carelessness of parents and when it is too late a remedy is sought. The institute in Toronto is prepared to alleviate distress among blind people and are also prepared to help all who haven't the means to receive the attention. Last year the sum of $280 was spent in Victoria County. Grants are received from the Federal Government, also the Provincial Government, but these are not sufficient and there are many ways in which help may be given. By the purchasing of goods made by the blind, tag day, donations, etc., were some of the suggestions offered by Mr. Pickering, whose mission it was to get some assistance from the society. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Parsons for the splendid address.

During the evening an instrumental was played by Miss Jean Parsons; a solo, Mrs. J. Widdiss; instrumental, Frances McPherson; solo, Mrs. C. Elliott, and a solo by Miss Lila Parsons. A vote of thanks was extended to all those taking part in the meeting by Mrs. J. J. Nichols.

A picture contest answered by the names of advertisements was much enjoyed.

A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. J. Palmer, Mrs. C. Davis, and Mrs. A. Rutherford.

Norham

Mrs. Ella Campbell is spending a week at the home of her son, Mr. Oscar Campbell, Campbellford.

Mrs. James Wilson, of Regina, visited Mrs. Marshall Wilson on Tuesday.

The Rev. D. R. Clare and family spent Tuesday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Wilson were visitors at Peterborough fair on Thursday.

A congregational meeting of the Norham United Church was held on Monday night to discuss the date for the anniversary and decide just what form the sixtieth anniversary of the church should take. After a lengthy discussion, a number of committees were appointed to report later.

Mr. Robert Mitchell attended the funeral of the wife of his brother, the Rev. George Mitchell, in Toronto, on Tuesday.

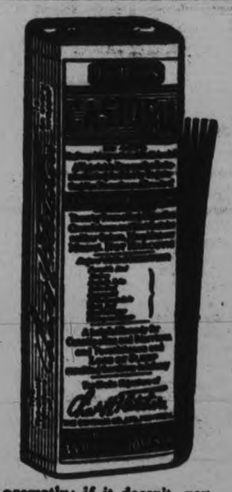
Sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raycroft, of Codrington, whose barn and contents were completely destroyed on Monday night. The year's threshing had been completed the previous day and all the grain as well as hay, horses and fowl were burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gummer, Miss Orietta and Kenneth and Cecil motored to Peterborough on Wednesday and attended the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, of Brighton, were recent visitors of Mrs. Langford.

Miss Marguerite Huycke returned to Toronto on Wednesday.

For any BABY



We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

DO YOU VALUE YOUR HEALTH?

If your health is poor; if you are pale, nervous and easily tired; if you suffer from headaches and backaches; if your digestion is bad, you may depend upon it that these symptoms come from an impoverished state of the blood; that unless this condition is remedied a complete breakdown may follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect medicine for any one in this condition. They enrich and purify the blood and thus promote health and strength.

Mrs. G. M. Andrews, Halifax, N.S., writes: I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house. When I was a young, anaemic girl they completely restored my health. After marriage my health broke down and once more these pills brought me back to health. My friends all tell me how well I look and for this Dr. Williams' Pink Pills deserve all the credit."

You can get these pills at all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WEDDING BELLS

BENTON--BROWN.

George street United Chuch was the scene of a charming wedding on Wednesday evening, when the marriage was solemnized there of Margaret Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of Smith Township, and W. George P. Benton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Benton, 782 Water street. The Rev. J. E. J. Millyard officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated by the Peterborough Floral Company, with palms, ferns and autumn flowers.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her brother, to the strains of the wedding march played by the organist, David R. Howat, wore a lovely gown of white satin crepe made ankle length, with white gloves, white chiffon hose and silver slippers. Her veil of embroidered net was held by a double coronet of pearls and orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of Heart of France asters and ferns

The bridesmaid, Miss Flossie Brown, was frocked in blue chiffon, with cut velvet yoke. She wore hat, shoes and hose to match, and carried a bouquet of yellow snapdragon and fern

The flower girl, little Fern Brown, looked very sweet in an Empire gown of yellow silk with white hose and black slippers, and nosegay of autumn flowers.

Morgan Brown, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and ushers were Orville Rome, cousin of the bridegroom, and Sidney Brown, brother of the bride.

During the signing of the register, Miss Phyllis Rome, cousin of the bridegroom, sang "I Love You," in a very pleasing voice.

Later a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom, at 782 Water street, and after an evening spent in music and dancing, a dainty buffet supper was served to the sixty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Benton left by motor for a ten day honeymoon trip the bride travelling in a coat of brown broadcloth with brown trimming and matching accessories. Upon their return, they will live at 782 Water street.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

ALTHOUGH THE UNEMPLOYMENT situation has been felt in Peterborough, we are told it is not nearly so bad here as it is in other parts of the world, and that is something to be thankful for, isn't it?

• • • • • • •

This year is a fairly good one in that the crops have turned out well. Perhaps they could have been better, but I do not think there is much room for complaint.

• • • • • • •

Oftentimes when crops fail the farmers just feel "fed up" as it were. They lose heart and may give up because of the uncertainty of the crops.

• • • • • • •

They may have reason for feeling fed up, but then hasn't the farmer's wife a reason to feel this way, too, at times? City housewives do, too, and so do their husbands

• • • • • • •

But there is a difference between men and women feeling discouraged

• • • • • • •

When a man is discouraged and down and out, it is his wife who brings him back to that determination to conquer. It is she who soothes him and shows him the bright side of it all, and points out to him that things could even be worse

• • • • • • •

Some men may not agree with me, but I know the majority of them will. Our housewives have just passed through a period which has been hard for both them and their husbands.

• • • • • • •

Money is scarce yet the children are growing. They must be clothed and fed, even if there is a scarcity of money. And who must do the worrying over it all?

• • • • • • •

The Mother, of course. Do you wonder some times when you were at home and your mother became cross now and then—when she seemed to be indifferent to anything the family wanted?

• • • • • • •

And now you come to realize it, don't you wonder how she maintained that spirit of cheerfulness and sense of humor when everything seemed to go wrong?

• • • • • • •

I realize it now and often wish I could have helped my mother during those times. It was no wonder she seemed indifferent and cross. No wonder that now and then she was silent when anything was demanded of her.

• • • • • • •

Everyone knows when a man gives in, but we do not always know when a woman gives in.

• • • • • • •

A woman does it in secret and it is as much physical as mental.

• • • • • • •

Her strength, no matter how frail she might seem, can stand all sorts of strain and long after her strength is spent, she goes wearily on.

• • • • • • •

This goes on and on until even her reserve strength fails and she lets go. And it is a sad, sad thing when this happens because all hope is lost for the husband and children who have constantly looked toward their mother as a bright light shing forth in the darkness.

• • • • • • •

And so, what I have been really trying to say is that if anybody has a right to feel "fed up" with life, it is the woman with a family.

• • • • • • •

So if ever you get the chance to help anyone who is discouraged and about to give in, lend them a helping hand and point out to them that there is still something left—something worth striving for.

WASTE OF LOVE.

The saddest thing in the world is the waste of love. There is so much of it thrown away because we don't know what to do with it, or, forlornly, because no one seems to want it.

Hand-to-Mouth Buying Is Passing in America

BY EDWINA NOLAN

Director of Home Service, General Electric Refrigeration Department

A NEW order, insofar as food purchases for the home are concerned, is coming into vogue.

Hand-to-mouth buying is passing. Housewives are not buying for one meal or for one day, but for two or three days, or longer.

It is true that many women still make daily trips to market, but more and more housekeepers are buying in larger quantities, thereby getting the benefit of price reduction by larger purchases, and at the same time making their marketing easier and facilitating the work of meal planning. They are enabled to do this through having facilities for the proper preservation of foodstuffs, which, of course, is essential. Modern electric refrigeration thus is a boon to the housewife.

Many housewives try to pare down food costs and they scheme and contrive to save a dollar here or a dollar there, but the saving seldom is appreciable, for the reason that they buy in small quantities. Saving of as much as 10 per cent can be made through larger purchases.

For instance, in buying meats the hand-to-mouth purchaser orders two, three or four chops, or a half pound of bacon, or a slice of ham. She pays the highest price per pound because it costs more to serve her and to wrap her purchase than it would if she bought in larger quantity. But the woman who buys in lots of five pounds or more, having the butcher cut the meat into chops, roast or stew meat, gets the lowest price. The same is true of fruits, vegetables, fats or salad ingredients. This housewife has planned her meals for more than one day and she knows that her food shopping is done for a while, because she has facilities for keeping her foodstuffs. Her trips to the market, too, are cut in half.

MADOC CELEBRATES NEW ROAD OPENING

Completion of Pavement Marked By Street Fair and Dance in Open.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, September 13. — Madoc's citizens celebrated the opening of the newly paved roads on Wednesday evening by a street carnival and dance under the auspices of the Madoc Community Club. Gay bunting, many flags, and brilliant lines of electric lights, made a vrey gay scene which was augmented by the rows of decorated booths, in which were displayed games of chance with their wonderful prizes of beautifully dressed dolls, bright colored blankets, canes, bath towels, etc., and in two of which were served a continuous course of hot dogs, meat pies, sandpiches, pie, cake, ice cream, cider, and soft drinks of all descriptions.

Little Billy Hawthorne acted as a very imposing bandmaster as the band swung into a march and paraded the streets, and then dancing byy old and young was indulged in the roped off spaces of the streets, which were specially prepared with talc to suit the occasion.

Representatives of the County council were present and were entertained by the Reeve, Mr. Walter Whytock. The closing strains of the National anthem were played about two a.m.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

LESS HAPPY BECAUSE OF MUCH FOOD.

Whenever you feel less happy than usual, eat less, sleep more, exercise more and find out whether something is worrying you.

If this doesn't help you, see a doctor.

I came across the above few lines some weeks ago and couldn't help but think how far-seeing was the writer.

You and I were meant to be happy, to feel the joy of being alive. Life wasn't handed to us just as an existence in which we put in day after day without hope or happiness.

And so if you are not happy there must be a reason.

You will notice that he speaks of something worrying you as a cause of your not being happy.

Now this may be something that is not in your power to control—loss of loved ones, sickness in the home, unemployment, financial losses, and so forth. All you can do about these is to try to plan how best to endure or to meet them.

However, if there are not these things to worry you, and you feel "less happy" than you should, then seek the reason, for it must be from some physical cause.

Physicians in charge of the welfare work of large industrial plants, tell us that Monday morning is the time when most sickness is reported, more employees with a disinclination to work then on other mornings.

To many individuals Monday is the "bluest" day in the week, the day when they are "less happy" than usual.

What is the reason that Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday has not fitted them for a bright happy Monday?

Because some of them eat and sleep too much, with no opportunity to use up the extra food eaten, by exercise.

This is only natural, because after working all week, or being confined all week, it is only to be expected that when the opportunity comes that permits the to "lie in bed" the morning they are going to grasp it. Also, with appetizing food and plenty of time to eat, it with no care on the mind, more than the usual amount of food is going to be eaten.

Why does food cause "blueness" or "tiredness"?

Because of the waste from this extra amount of food, which was too much for the liver to clean out of the blood, is carried to all parts of the body. Wastes act as poisons, just the same as the wastes from hard work of the muscles also act as poisons.

If you must rest during the week-end or any time, in fact, don't eat too much or you are likely to be "less happy."

EXHIBITION NOTES

IT ALL HELPS.

The Exhibition Board acknowledge with many thanks the receipt of a cheque from Jack Hughes of the Chevrolet Garage, for $30 to help forward the work of the Exhibition.

This is the second donation for twenty dollars received so far, the first being from James Dutton of Stock's Bread Company. Mayor Denne hopes these are the forerunners of several more subscriptions.

LABOR.

It is noly through labor andpowerful effort, by grim energy and resolute courage, that we move to better things.

Derringer Holds Leafs and Rochester Wins 4-1

REDWINGS NEED THREE GAMES TO CLINCH PENNANT

Derringer Proves Good in Pinches and Leafs Lose Out 4-1.

BIRDS BEAT BEARS 2-0.

Reading Takes Final of Series From Jersey—Royals Win From Bisons.

TORONTO September 13. (C.P.)—The Rochester Redwings led the International League pennant race by seven and a half games to-day with only nine more games on their schedule.

Baltimore, holding second place, had a mathematical chance to overhaul the leaders but it was so slim as to be virtually non-existent. As the situation now stands, Rochester can clinch the pennant by winning three of its remaining nine games, even should Baltimore win all of its 10 last contests.

Both registered victories yesterday. Rochester easily defeated Toronto 4-1 behind some excellent pitching by Paul Derringer. The Leafs found Derringer for ten hits but found the Rochester ace a difficult proposition in the pinches. Rochester collected 12 hits off Art Herring and won the game as early as the first inning when Pepper Martin clouted a home run with one on.

Baltimore came out on top in a close battle with Newark, 2-0. Jim Weaver held the Newark batsmen in subjection all night and was especially strong with men on bases. Thomas and Cooney split pitching duty for the Bears and held Baltimore to six hits but the Orioles broke through for single runs in the fourth and fifth innings to win the game.

Reading won the final game of the series from Jersey City 7-3 as Johnny Welch held the Skeeters to six scattered hits. Reading made the most of the nine hits permitted by Pitte, clouting him six runs in the first inning. After that he pitched brilliantly but the damage had been done.

Montreal slugged out a 13-4 victory over Buffalo in the third night game of the evening. The Royals clouted out 17 hits and scored eight runs in the last two innings to make their margin secure. The triumph lengthened Montreal's lead over fourth place Toronto to four games.

MERRY DIRECT IN FIRST MONEY

Peacock Horse of Lakefield Wins Three Straight Heats in 2:22 Class.

NO CLOSE FINISHES.

Local horses were prominent in the Exhibition's harness races at the track yesterday afternoon, three of them breaking into the money in the 2:22 pace and one in the 2:16 race. Merry Direct, owned by W. Peacock of Lakefield and driven by Wm. Sharen, of this city, won three straight heats in the 2:22 class to win first place. In the same race Jimmy Akey's Dr. Byron was second and his Furie Mildred was a bang-up fourth. Lu Grattan, Charley Schooley's horse, earned third place in the 2.16 race.

The races failed to supply the same close finishes as did those on Wednesday. The winners stepped out in front at the start and stayed there. Star Peter paced to three firsts in the 2:16, and he made the fastest time of any of the week's racing, 2.12¾ in the first heat.

Lu Grattan faltered in both the first heats as he was pressing the leaders and finished last, but in the final he paced true to form to be second under the wire.

FORBES HAS NO ANXIETY ON TREATY WITH CANADA

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 12.—(CP)—Prime Minister Geo. Forbes of New Zealand has no anxiety about negotiating a reciprocal trade treaty satisfactory to both New Zealand and Canada when he meets Premier R. B. Bennett at Ottawa, he stated here when he arrived on the R. M. S. Aorangi from New Zealand.

"I sincerely hope Mr. Bennett will be able to get away to the Imperial Conference," Prime Minister Forbes said. "The deliberations of the conference will have their biggest inspiration from a full attendance."

GIANTS DROP BACK TO FOURTH PLACE

WILSON CONNECTS FOR 49TH HOMER AS CUBS RETAIN LEAD BY DEFEATING PHILS 17 TO 4

Detroit Hurler Drives Gehringer With Deciding Run Against Yankees.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, September 13.—With the continued triumphs of three of the four rivals for the National League pennant, the fans have just about given up trying to figure out who will capture the flag, and are rooting for their favorite and hoping for the best. Chicago, St. Louis, and Brooklyn, all triumphant yesterday, remained just where they were before while the New York Giants, who took a punishing blow in their third straight defeat at the hands of the Cardinals yesterday, have dropped to four games behind first place.

Here is to-day's standing of the four contenders:

	Won	Lost	P.C.	Games To behind	Play
Chicago	21	50	.579	...	14
St. Louis	80	59	.575	½	15
Brooklyn	81	60	.574	½	13
New York	77	63	.550	4	14

The 5 to 2 triumph of the Cardinals over the Giants in the final game of their series yesterday gave the New Yorkers a setback that will be hard for them to overcome. On the basis of past performances, the Giants seem to be equally matched with the Cubs and Robins in the few games they have to play while the Cards have forced the fans to toss their dope sheets into the waste basket with their recent spurt.

They did it again yesterday as they put on a ninth inning rally to make it three out of four over the Giants. With the score tied a the start of the ninth, big Jim Chaplin, second Giant hurler, began to weaken, and the Cards poled out four hits which, with a Giant error, produced three runs to win the game before the Giants could even threaten to stop the rally.

Chicago's slugging Cubs had little trouble in holding their slim lead against the attacks of their rivals. They hit early and late in their first game against the Phillies and with Hack Wilson's 49th home run in the second and a six-run rally in the sixth as the high spots, they came out with a 17 to 4 triumph.

Brooklyn downed Cincinnati almost as easily. The Robins made a fast start against Ray Kolp and finished their part of the scoring in their 7 to 3 victory in five innings as Lopez and Wright hit timely homers. Ray Moss had only one bad innings as he held the Reds to eight hits, four of the blows and all the Cinncinnati runs coming in the sixth.

Yanks Out of Race

Babe Ruth continued his pursuit of Wilson in the season's home run race and furnished the one ray of light for the New York Yankees as they dropped completely out of the American League pennant chase. The Babe hit homer 46 in the third inning, but his teammates' errors enabled the Detroit Tigers to stay in the running and finally win out in a ninth inning rally, 5 to 4. The Yanks lost a half game to the Philadelphia Athletics, who were idle for a second day, and at the same time lost their chance of finishing better than a half game behind the world's champions.

Washington, however, gained the same amount of ground and once more is 6½ games behind the leaders. Off to a six run lead in the first two innings, the Senators barely staggered through to an 8 to 7 victory over the Chicago White Sox, who scored five runs in the seventh with a homer by Carl Reynolds as the finishing touch.

10 Inning Battles

Two games of no particular importance in the standings went ten innings and both were decided by 5 to 4 scores. The Boston Braves came from behind to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates by that margin as Chatham and Spohrer found Larry French for doubles in the tenth. Boston's other team, the Red Sox, scored four times in the ninth to tie the series against the St. Louis Browns. Phil Tod hit a last minute homer only to have the Browns come back for their fifth run of the extra inning.

Wooler

Mrs. William Walker returned home after spending a few weeks in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Herrington of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wessels spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Miss Cicely Cox of Montreal is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walker.

Miss Roma Wessels of Toronto is the guest of Mr. and Mr. E. M. Wessels.

Rev. A. Poulter and Mrs. Poulter and family returned home after spending the month of August at the sea shore, New Brunswick.

Miss Eva Masters is spending a few weeks at Smithfield.

Mrs. Clarinda Terrill is spending two weeks with Mr. Maggie Fraser at Port Hope.

Car Strikes Pole

On Monday morning a motor accident happened southwest of the village when Harry Gerow, driving a sedan occupied by his wife and two children, and Miss Eva Masters, were on their way to Smithfield by the way of Trenton. Just before making a turn, Mr. Gerow applied the brakes, causing the car to turn in the north ditch, striking a large hydro pole. He was badly shaken up but the other passengers were practically unhurt. After an hour or more the car was righted and Mr. Gerow was able to drive it into Brighton. However the car was badly damaged, the top being a wreck.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill spent Sunday afternoon at Albury with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weiss and other guests.

Miss Grace Mutton of Shiloh spent Sunday with Gwendoline Elford.

Rev. A. Poulter was in charge of Sunday services after spending a restful holiday. The congregation was large and the quartet in the choir was much appreciated. The Junior congregation re-established with Mrs. Teal and Mrs Poulter as leaders.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bryant of Brighton were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott, Percy Whaley and Mrs. E. McConnell spent Sunday in Kingston.

Corn Roast

On Friday evening a real enjoyable evening was spent on the school grounds around a very large camp fire and the moonlight through the large maple trees was a picture. The members of the Mission Circle held a corn roast. Laura Vosburgh sang a most romantic song and Ruth Ornis told a weird ghost story.

Miss Grace Mutton, accompanied by her ukuelele sang many fitting songs in the programme.

The president, Gladys Vosburgh made every one feel welcome to enjoy the roasted corn, ham sandwiches and lemonade. The closing number, every one joined hands around the camp fire, sang community songs and repeated the Mizpah Benedition.

The Mission Circle have sent their supplies to the Presbyterial Supply Secretary and are very energetic in their missionary ambitions and are planning for their Hallowe'en party on October 31st.

The topic of conversation and extensive preparations are being made for Wooler Fair on Friday 12th. Swimming, ball game and many other attractions. Followed with an evening's entertainment of the official opening the highway between Wooler and Trenton. The Women's Institute will have a booth of good things to eat at their Memorial Park.

The School Fair will be an attraction on the grounds this year and should be well patronized.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ferry were calling on friends on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Linton of Ochre River, Manitoba spent two days with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Herrington of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Herrington of Hilton, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, what with the fall fair and all they ain't been much doing in the local sport world this week, except our bantams gets into action against the Toronto kids here Sat. The 2 teams tangled in the Queen City last Sat., and the Maple Leaves, as our kids is known, sure put up a awful argument before they was nased out 4 to 3 in overtime. This young Mister Norm Calladine whiffed no less than 22 of the Toronto birds and yet lost his ball game, owing to a coupla tough brakes, which must be a record. It takes real pitching no matter what the series to blow 3 strikes past nearly 2 dozen batters in a contest, and Mister Calladine looks like a great prospect for future sr. teams.

Our C.G.E. team come through against Pt. Anne, Mac, and while I ain't going to pull that old I-told-you-so stuff, I'm entitled to say I ain't surprised. The Electricians, when they hit on all 8, is a tough ball team to knock off, and they oughta make a real bid for the provincial title. The clash with Oshawa oughta be worth going miles to see, Mac.

The Petes' old friendly enemies, the Belleville Nationals, went down with all hands on board here last Sat., Mac. It was a kinda sad afternoon for them which remembered how the Belleville lads used to battle all and sundry. When the old National machine was in its prime the opposition never felt safe, even with a 5-run lead, cause you could never tell when that bunch was going to break loose like a pack of firecrackers and splash base hits all over the scenery. It wasn't like that Sat., Mac. Just as soon as this Telephone crew flashed in front the Nationals folded up like a card table. They hadn't a word to say and just tried to go through the motions, and, of course, the Bells slid through to a soft win. The winners looked good on the afternoon's play, but in the past Central Ont. League winners has climbed over tougher opposition than that without turning a hair.

The most excitement this week has been watching Louie and Jose Welsh and them other hard-ridding hombres perform down at Rolly Denne's fair. Them babies from Calgary is horsemen what I mean, and the way they handled them bad-acting horses made the moving picture cowboys look like novices.

Well, Mac, you better not overlook that Oshawa-C.G.E. clash here next Wed. p.m. The boys travel to the Motor City Mon. and play back here 2 days later, and both contests should have more action than a 8-day clock.

The 1st race will be starting down at the fair grounds in a quarter hour, so I'll better call it a day right here. Don't forget that Wed. game, old-timer.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

U. S. Judge Missing

A wide search is on for Supreme Court Justice Forcer Crater, above, who disappeared about a month ago, after drawing $5,000 from bank. Out of the many theories advanced, close friends of his believe that he may have been the victim of foul play. Interest centres around his case, because of the magistrates' probe in New York city.

"CANADIAN-BUILT FOR CANADIANS"

It was characteristic of De Soto engineers that even while the famous De Soto Six was enjoying unprecedented popularity—in fact, setting a sales record for a first-year car—they were working to improve it. And it was characteristic of De Soto manufacturing genius that factory efficiency kept pace with engineering advances. As a result, the finer De Soto Six—a better car at a lower price—is so able in performance, so attractive in appearance and so economical in operation and maintenance that it is not only outstanding in its price class today, but it anticipates the future.

GOLFERS MEET FOR FIRST TIME

Bitter Battle With One or Two Hole Margin is Anticipated.

SARAZEN FAVORED.

FLUSHING, N.Y., Sept. 13. (C.P.)—Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour veterans both as athletic careers are measured, have picked a fine spot for the first golf match they've ever played against one another. The clash in the 36-hole final round of the Professional Golfers' Association championship at Fresh Meadow course to-day.

Sarazen, winner of the title on two previous occasions, had the advantage of playing over his own course but Armour's too experienced a performer to let that make any difference to him psychologically. A bitter battle, with a final margin of one or two holes, was anticipated.

Armour, the current Canadian open champion, never has won the P.G.A. title. Sarazen was king of the pros in 1922, the year he also won the national open and 1923.

TRAP SHOOTING

The Cobourg Gun Club paid a visit to Peterborough last evening and in a match with the Peterborough Team beat them for 204 to 192.

Herb Cooey and W. S. Edwards were high guns with 48 to 46. Cooey and Edwards both breaking straights of 25 each. Mr. Manross of Buffalo shooting for Peterborough broke 44 and Eldridge broke 41, and Gravestock 42.

Cobourg has a lot of crack shots and most of them are duck-shooters so the evening sport was a good practice.

Peterborough will pay a visit to Cobourg in the near future. The visitors were entertained at a dinner at the Empress by the local club.

The following are the scores:

Cooey, 48; Edwards, 46; Manrose, 44; Gravestock, 42; Eldridge, 41; Throop, 39; Haffener, 38; McNaughton, 35; Graham, 34; Barnes, 32; Dean, 31; Greer, 31; Black, 30.

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE REMAINS INTACT

All Eight Clubs in the Minor Circuit to Function Again.

KING RE-ELECTED.

Opening Date of Schedule Likely to be November 14th or 15th.

WINDSOR, Sept. 13.—Charles H. King of this city, was re-elected to the Presidency of the International Hockey League for the fifth consecutive term, at the annual general meeting of the organization here yesterday. Mr. King became the first President of the league in 1926-27, when the group of clubs then operated as the Canadian Professional Hockey League.

All eight teams of this thriving minor hockey league that outdrew every other professional organization, outside of the National League, were represented at today's enthusiastic gathering.

John A. Anderson of London was returned as Vice-President of the league. President King combines his presidency with the position of Secretary-Treasurer. His financial report today indicated that the league itself was able to show a comfortable bank balance.

Rumors of a shake-up in the circuit and the possibility of two teams being withdrawn to reduce the race to six clubs, were dispelled at today's meeting. Representatives of all eight clubs indicate that their units will once again be in the field when the 1930-31 season opens.

No date for the official opening of next season's campaign was arrived at, although President King stated the send-off would likely be either Friday, Nov. 14, or Saturday, Nov. 15. Last year the League opened on Nov. 12, one day after the National League debut. A tenative schedule, Mr. King said, will not be available until after the National League general meeting, late this month. Since Detroit and Toronto are represented in both circuits, the International League desires to arrange its program in these cities so as not to conflict with the major leaguers.

Fishermen in the vicinity of Larne, Northern Ireland, report record catches of herrings this season.

Streetcar passengers in London last year numbered 19,000,000 more than in 1928.

THE RING.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 13.—(CP)—Big Boy Rawson of Boston won a ten round decision over Johnny Rousseau of Montreal in a slow bout here last night.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON, GRAND OLD YACHTSMAN

Sir Thomas Lipton has returned for a fifth time in his quest for the America's Cup. The new Shamrock is a beautiful ship, sleek as a greyhound, fit as a fiddle. Sir Thomas still has his famous smile and confidence that is just as solid as it was 40 years ago when he sailed his first Shamrock into New York harbor. Society at Newport is chattering and old seafaring men rub their chins with comment on the outcome of this famous set of races. Sir Thomas Lipton has apparently won no mean number of friends in the United States, and the general trend of opinion is that if the cup must go, it's to be hoped that Sir Thomas takes it. This superb sport costs a small fortune. These merry gentlemen race for a cup that consists of silver and when just offered costs only about $500.

On Aug. 22nd, 1851, Capt. Stevens sailing the American defeated a squadron of vessels at the Isle of Wight and beat the second to the finishing line by eight minutes. That was the beginning of this famous international yacht racing. A series of challenge races followed between England and United States but it wasn't until about 1898 that the most famous of yachtsmen appeared on the scene, Sir Thomas Lipton. Since that time he has become an international figure of sportsmanship.

In speaking of sportsmanship there is no grand purse for the victor, no world's title that would mean a million dollars to its holder. For this yacht racing contains the pure essence of sport. It is a sport of merchant princes, if you will—certainly a sports of sports.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY BUMPS THE WOLF.

"There! That's off, thank goodness!" growled the Sea Wolf as he squirmed around on the sand.

"What's off?" roared the Sea Lion as he flopped over on a bed of wet seaweed to rest himself after a long swim in the ocean. "What's off?"

"That bottle is off my tail!" said the Wolf and he flung the piece of glass as far out in the waves as he could.

"Well, of all the silly things to do in hot weather, sticking an empty bottle on the end of your tail is the silliest!" chuckled the Lion. "Why did you do it?"

"Nonsense! Don't imagine for a moment that I did it!" grumbled the Wolf. "It was Jackie Bow Wow, that puppy dog friend of Uncle Wiggily, who put the bottle on my tail, and so tightly that I was only just now able to get it off."

"Why did you let a little puppy dog do such a thing?" the Lion wanted to know.

"Oh, I don't see the little rascal," said the Wolf, looking at the end of his tail to see if the bottle had worn off any hair. "I was sitting beside Uncle Wiggily, getting ready to nibble him, when this Jackie Bow Wow chap stuck the bottle on my tail, and scared me so I ran away. But I'll fix him for it!"

"Fix who!" asked the Lion.

"Uncle Wiggily! I'll fix him!" growled the Wolf. "I know just how to do it, too. Listen! That old rabbit has just made a new roller coaster, out of a barrel back here in the sand hills. He lets his bunny boys and girls roll down the hills into the hollows and up the next hills inside this barrel he brought out of the sea. It's like a Coney Island roller coaster."

"Well, what about it?" asked the Sea Lion, rolling lazily over and over on the seaweed.

"It's like this," explained the Wolf. "Uncle Wiggily will be so busy teaching the children how to roll down and up hill in the barrel coaster that he will not see me creeping up on him from in back. I'll jump on him and nibble him before he know what is happening. How is that for a trick?"

"All right if it works," chuckled the Lion.

"Oh, I'll make it work," growled the Wolf, letting some sand softly fall on the sore end of his tail where it had been jabbed into the bottle by Jackie Bow Wow.

Then the Wolf slunk away along the beach to where Uncle Wiggily had made the roller coaster. It was all true enough. The rabbit gentleman, as I told you in the story last night, had found a big empty barrel in the sea. He found, by getting inside and jiggling it, that the barrel would roll down one sand hill, across the hollow below, up the next hill and so on for quite a long distance, making a fine roller coaster. Uncle Wiggily called his bunny boys and girls, and their friends, to come from their play on the porpoise fish raft merry go 'round to try the new toy. And they came running!

"About a dozen of you can get in the barrel at a time," said Uncle Wiggily to the children, "and away you will roll. The rest of you will take turns after the barrel rolls down the last hill. Now begin."

Jingle, Jangle, Buster, Custer and several other children got inside the big barrel. Uncle Wiggily gave it a push down the first hill and it rolled all the rest of the way up and down other hills until it reached the end of the coast.

"Oh, what fun!" cried the children. Then they pushed the barrel back to the top of the first hill so others could have a turn. In this way they all had fun, and it was when everything was most jolly that the Sea Wolf came along, creeping up to the top of one of the middle hills to take a look.

"Yes, there's Uncle Wiggily, so busy with his roller coaster that he will never see me!" whispered the Wolf. "I'll sneak up and get a good nibble off his ears."

The Wolf circled around to get back of Uncle Wiggily on the first or highest hill. The bunny gentleman was busy getting the barrel ready for the next lot of children who were to roll down in it. All of a sudden, before any of them could take their places, the rabbit gentleman popped into the barrel himself and started it rolling down the hill.

"Oh, where are you going, Unkie Wig?" cried Baby Bunty.

"I'm going to bump the Sea Wolf and bump him hard!" cried the rabbit. And just then the Wolf stuck his nose out from behind a rock ready to nibble, and the barrel, with Uncle Wiggily in it, hit him ker bunko, ker swash and k doodle! Socko!

"Oh, my nose! My nose! My nose!" howled the Wolf. "First it was my tail and now it's my nose! Oh, I'm going home!" And he ran away.

So, after all his troubles, the Wolf only got bumped.

WARKWORTH.

Miss Isobel Neal left on Wednesday for Toronto where she is attending school at Branscombe Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pierce and son, of South Porcupine, were recent guests of the Misses Gallagher.

The Guild of St. John's Church held their regular meeting in the Community Hall with an excellent attendance. Miss D. Plant and Miss Battisby, of Hastings, were guests at the meeting.

D. Plant and Miss Battisby, of Hastings, were guests at the meeting.

Two rinks of local lawn bowlers contested against two Hastings rinks at Hastings, Wednesday afternoon, and lost three out of four games. This puts Hastings in the running for the second half of the Trent Valley Bowling League.

There's Longer Life in Layerbilt

LONG after old-style "B" batteries would have to be scrapped, Eveready Layerbilts keep right on producing power to operate your set. Because the Layerbilt Battery is ALL battery—packed full of active, current-making materials, layer upon layer. No waste space. No delicate cell-connections to cause trouble. That is why there's longer life in Layerbilt—why you get better radio results—why Layerbilts are the most economical "B" battery power you can buy. The only Layerbilt "B" Battery made bears the famous name of Eveready.

Ladies Study Foreign Mission Work From the Blue Book.

NORHAM, Sept. 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the parsonage on Monday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Clare, had charge of the first part of the meeting. After the opening exercises, the minutes of the previous meeting were read. A report was heard from the supply secretary, who stated two quilts prepared and the required knitting. It was decided to pack the bale on Monday, the fifteenth.

The literature secretary reported on the books in circulation from the lending library.

After the offering the first vice-president took charge of the program. The devotional leaflet, "The Way of Holiness," was read by Mrs. Windover.

A duet, "Alone," was sung by Misses Florence and Ida Clare.

An interesting questionnaire on the Blue Book was taken when many interesting facts were learned about the work in the various mission fields.

It was planned that the next meeting be "Missionary Monthly" day.

The president closed the meeting with prayer.

CAVAN.

Messrs. Harry Elson, Wesley Woods, John Armstrong, and Wilbert Larmer started on Wednesday on a motor trip to the West. Mrs. A. J. Fallis, sister of Mr. Larmer, accompanied them as far as Detroit. They will go to Alemeda, Sask., and visit friends en route.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Crawford, Miss Lorraine Crawford, Orillia, and Mrs. Purvis, Mr. Jackson Purvis and Miss Margaret Purvis, Cannington, were recent visitors with the Misses Agnes and Nellie Stark.

The Misses Jessie Armstrong and Margaret and Audrey Larmer attended the domestic science competition at Peterborough fair on Wednesday.

Mr. Will Stark, the Misses Agnes and Nellie Stark, Cavan, with Mr. and Mrs. W. Rowan, Bethany, motored to Bobcaygeon on Sunday, calling at Lindsay and Fenelon Falls.

Mrs. Richardson and daughter, Miss Miriam Richardson, Peterborough, visited Mrs. Richard Matchett on Wednesday.

"Oh, I'm Feeling Great"

"Yes, I was all in, weak as a kitten, no appetite, nervous and irritable.

"No, I was out of school for months. Guess my nerves got the start of me.

"Well, it didn't take so long once I got using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Every week I felt better and now I am in the pink of condition and have got back my normal weight.

"I never thought I would need medicine, but I certainly did this time and I'll know what to do after this if I ever get run down again.

"Yes, everybody tells me I am looking fine and I am certainly feeling great. You should see me eat."

unpainted houses, comparatively small outbuildings, and occasionally the deserted farms. At Doe Lake the remains of old sawmills were noted, and on the surface of streams passed floated graceful leaves and flowers of the water-lily.

Cars From U.S.

Burk's Falls is a small town offering no particular attraction to tourists, but road work on the bad hill soon after passing through the village meant that several cars had been pulled out the previous day, owing to heavy rains and the slippery condition of the clay. It was interesting to note cars of passing tourists, some with trailers for the camp outfit, some with tents or boats tied to the tops of the cars, trunks, boxes, and dunnage bags being on sides and backs, while others, with two passengers in the front seat, had the rear filled to the top with the baggage required. Ohio license plates predominated on the American cars, though New York, Indiana, and Michigan were other States noted, and further north a number of Quebec markers were in evidence.

After passing through Sundridge on an arm of the Magnetewan River traces of forest fires could be noticed in the scorched trees, and a number of washouts on the sides of the highway gave evidence of the heavy rains a day and a night before; men were at work, however, giving the damage immediate attention, and what was evidently an abandoned power line at South River, with rocky banks, water foaming over the big stones of the river bed, and bathers enjoying themselves from the stone wall above the rough water, offered a tempting view for camera use.

At Trout River, and its vicinity, the dust nuisance was being allayed with calcium chloride, and later the sacks which had contained the salt were thrown along the roadway at intervals, from the rapidly-travelling truck holding the workmen; apparently the farmers picked these empty containers up and used them to cover the piles of fertilizer set out on the ploughed fields. The bee-hive shaped straw stacks noted continuously wherever there were farms on the way northward, built up with precision and smoothness, suggested the foreign element in the population, bringing to mind pictures of similar constructions on agricultural areas of central Europe. Ukrainians, Finns, and French were mentioned as among the immigrant settlers, and small holdings were numerous there, from the nature of the soil and surroundings, it was apparent that only by hard labor could a living be eked from the land. Every little shack, however, had its quota of children, and evidently race suicide is not a problem in the north country. Coming toward North Bay a better class of farm buildings was noted, with fields cleared of stumps, and ripe with golden grain.

Fire Dangers.

Fire warnings, posted by the Forestry Department, are seen along the entire route northward, and are made conspicuous by such designs as a large, black hand on ground of bright yellow, urging motorists to beware of throwing away lighted cigarette stubs cigar ends, or pipe heels; a big black F on an orange background bore the legend: "Forest Fires Finish Fishing" and away up near Cochrane, on a canvas runner, were seen the words, "Jobs are lost through Forest Fires."

A stone cairn, near Calendar, attracted attention, its inscription telling that on July 26, 1615, Samuel de Champlain passed this way to the Huron County; the memorial was erected by the Champlain Chapter of the I.O.D.E. in 1926.

Twin stone pillars supporting an archway give entrance to the pretty and prosperous city of North Bay, on each one of which are engraved names of the towns and cities on the road ahead, and as motorists pass out of the city they find an artistic stone look-out from which a magnificent view may be obtained. A short distance farther on, with stone gates and lettered arch, tourists are warned: "Stop and get your travel permit here." These permits do not cost anything, and are for protection in case of forest fires when the ninety miles of bush of the Temagami Forest Reserve are being traversed, the authorities knowing, by this means, who are in the woods, for how long, and the number of passengers to each car, so that if necessary succor may be made. Permits are handed in at Latchford as travellers emerge from the forest, and must be obtained again at this point when entering the Reserve on the homeward journey.

Fascinating Scenery.

The Temagami Reserve contains thousands of acres, and the Ferguson Highway cuts through but a comparatively small corner of it, but the drive for the ninety miles is easily the most fascinating of the whole trip. The scenery is constantly varying, and never for one moment allows interest to lag. Thick bush, part of it virgin forest, with pulp wood prevailing and Jack pine noticeable throughout our northern forests as the tree found farthest toward the Arctic circle, and readily reclothing burned-over areas; strange formations where trees have been bent over in some wind storm; uprooted trees, another evidence of violent storms, the exposed roots having the appearance of a giant octopus; the unexpected turns in the roadway, the latter sometimes blasted out of the solid rock, bringing to view island-studded lakes set like jewels among the thickly-wooded hills, or rivers, spanned with White-painted bridges with water foaming over the rocky bed, or with water lillies floating on the calm surface; the sharp curves and rocky headlands; the occasional log cabins, and the feeling that, somehow, an understanding is being gained of conditions as they were in this older section of the province when our forefathers carved homes out of the wilderness, are among the many features that add to the interest, enjoyment, and wonder which the drive through the Reserve inspires.

Approximately every three miles through the Temagami Forest the Government has established lunching places, equipped in every instance with good well water and a pump, a table for eating, a platform in case a tent is pitched, sanitary conveniences, and a fireplace of stone and cement on which cooking may be conveniently done. There are, in addition, four big camp sites, always on lake or river side, lighted by electric light, the conveniences of the lunching-places being multiplied many times over to accommodate the large number of tourists practically always found at these delightful stopping-places.

Good Camping Service.

There is a caretaker for every camp; free ice may be had for the asking, and the large garbage pails at each platform are emptied each morning from the individual camp sites. Wild life abounds in the woods, and often the steep shores of some quiet lake-side, densely wooded, lead to the expectation of seeing a deer on a jut of land drinking from the waters; caretakers, however, assured the travellers that while bears, wolves, deer and moose are to be found in the forest, the constant travelling on the highway drives them farther back, and only motorists making their way along in the night are likely to encounter some wild animal stranded in the middle of the roadway in the glare of the car lamps. The vacation party of which mention has been made were offered bear steak for supper one evening while staying at the Martin River Camp Site, friends having gone on a bear hunt, leaving the highway at Charlton and going some miles northwest; success had crowned their efforts, and the steak was reported to be "so tender it fairly melted in your mouth." Unfortunately for the party who had been offered the unusual treat, the time was somewhat late in the evening, and 'dinner had already been served.'

Continuing the journey through the great Laurentian plateau which follows the general outline of the Hudson Bay, extending from the Labrador to the shores of Lake Superior and thence northward to the Arctic Circle, forming the third natural division of the Dominion, surprise was felt at the growth and prosperity of many of the towns passed through, fine homes, good stores, paved streets, large schools, and numerous churches with modern conveniences such as electric light and sewage disposal plants characterizing many points. Cobalt is apparently going backward, wandering as it does, in an aimless way, up hill and down, though its stores were well supplied, and the Nipissing mine, which is on both sides of the river so that tourists drive over part of it when coming into the town, is in operation.

New Liskeard and Haileybury are but five miles apart, and with Cobalt are connected with an electric railway. They have many lovely homes, set in the midst of well-kept grounds, and the Tourist Camp at the former is the very finest in the north country; it offers hot and cold water in the kitchen, with a large sink, two big ranges with kettles of hot water always available, and useful also for cooking purposes, shower baths, with plenty of hot water, in the lavatories, grounds free from undergrowth and mowed with the lawn mower, a care-taker on hand all day to give any assistance needed and last, but certainly not least, is beautifully situated on the shores of Lake Temiskaming.

There is a paved road some miles coming into Kirkland Lake, which boasts on its welcome sign "the highest grade gold in the world," and is a most up-to-date town; judged by the outside gold mines certainly looked prosperous with their trim lawns and flower beds surrounding the office and other buildings, and while in the city information was vouchsafed that the Lake Shore Mining Company was paying a dividend of $1,600,000 this quarter." The Teck Hughes mine adjoins that of the Lake Shore Company.

Kiwanis Club signs were frequently observed on the northward trip but so far as can be recalled none regarding Rotary Club organizations were noticed. Outpost hospitals of the Red Cross were seen at some points, and pulp mills, with immense piles of the pulp wood, were features of Iroquois Falls, and many other places; lumber mills, and the great piles of their output, dotted the landscape not infrequently telling of one of the chief industries of the north country.

Government Station.

At Shillington there is established the Federal Government Illustrated Station with notices printed in both French and English, and with fields labelled with different crops grown therein. Many time burned areas were passed through, evidence of the work of the fire demon, and one long section of the twenty-five miles of wood through which the road runs on the way to Cochrane had on either side tall stumps of pulp wood trees stretching bare fingers to the clouds of the low-hung sky, inducing sombreness and depression.

Cochrane is a railway centre, claiming a population of thirty-five hundred, with good stores, school and hospital, reminding one of a western town set out on the prairie. The motor camp is furnished with electric light, and taps of good drinking water, but the low and abundant undergrowth is a drawback, the camp, like all others visited, was well patronized; in the Temagami Forest and at many other camps, it was apparent that tourists motored in, set up their tents, and remained for the whole period of their holidays, taking in the fishing, bathing, boating, and frequently with the men folk hiring an Indian guide, better to find the best fishing and hunting grounds.

A look-out, eighty-five feet high, in the Temagami Reserve is always an attraction to tourists who are made welcome to climb its long round of steel steps, and visit the man who keeps watch from its lofty height for forest fires. Communication with other rangers is by telephone, and a single line runs parallel with the highway, the wires being strung rather low on poles set up like tripods, or where a single pole is used the base is made secure with a great pile of stones. One dozen of the look-outs were marked on the map at the point visited, this being just in the territory the ranger here had under his supervision, there are many others seen in the north country as lofty, tree-clad hill summits come into view.

Good Farm Crops.

Excellent crops are claimed for the clay belt, but the land, to passing motorists, as it was broken up by tractor ploughs looked like great chunks of hard, white cement. Potatoes were in bloom, and also peas, in the Cochrane vicinity, and fields of hay and clover were being cut; raspberries were thick on the wayside bushes, and huckleberries were found on the rocks anywhere a stop was made.

The rural schools in the north country have a succession of windows on the south side and none at all on the north, evidently a precaution against the all too long time "when the icy winds do blow." Cochrane claimed to be "having our first summer this year," in the last week of August, and it was noted that not many storm windows were removed from the houses on the way to this northern town. Timmins is now a city of between fifteen and twenty thousand, and Kapuskasing, up-to-date with paved streets and electric lights, claims "the finest town site in the north."

The area reforested by the government along the Ferguson highway has the various trees lobelled, with the date of their planting, so that growth and suitability of soil and location may be satisfactorily observed.

On the homeward trip stops were made at the motor camps of Huntsville and Orillia, both being well equipped and beautifully situated, and a visit to the Martyrs' Shrine at Midland and the magnificent monument marking the tercentary of Champlain's winter near that point in 1615 in the Orillia park, were final features of a vacation tour covering nearly eleven hundred seventy miles.

YOUTH.

Fades the rose; the year grows old;
The tale is told;
Youth doth depart—
Only stays the heart.
Ah, no! if stays the heart,
Youth can ne'er depart,
Nor the sweet tale be told—
Never the rose fate, nor the year grow old.

C.N.R. STOCK AGENT AT EX

A prominent visitor at the "Ex." yesterday was E. J. Hilliard of Montreal, Live Stock Agent for the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Hilliard is touring Eastern Canada in the interests of the C.N.R. and inspecting the live stock exhibits at the various fall fairs.

Yesterday afternoon, in the company of A. McNabb, C. N. R. freight agent here, he was shown through the Peterborough Exhibition Grounds and introduced to officials. He expressed himself as being much impressed with the live stock there, and delighted with the fair as a whole.

WIN PENMANSHIP PRIZES

James Primeau of 709 Crescent and Gerald Primeau of 161 Adeline avenue were respective winners of first and second prizes in two classes for Drawing and Penmanship for Children at the Fair.

James Primeau, who won first prizes in both classes, one for the best imaginative drawing, illustrative of some simple story or nursery rhyme, open to first and second book classes, and the second for the best pencil drawing of a shaded group of garden tools, including a barrel or wheel-barrow, open to third and fourth book classes or to Collegiate pupils, went in for a galloping horse in the first class, probably reminiscent of Paul Revere and his famous ride, while Gerald Primeau, who won second prizes in both classes, confined his attention to more facetious subjects.

Electrical household refrigerators having a total value of $6,000,000 were exported from the United States this year.

FRANCO-ITALIAN DISPUTE CLEARS

Alexander And French Minister Discuss Problem at Great Length.

NO AGREEMENT AS YET.

PARIS, Sept. 13 (C.P.).—The atmosphere for further naval negotiations between France and Italy is believed in well-informed circles to-day to have been considerably cleared by a series of conferences here between Jacques - Louis Dumesnil, French Minister of Marine, and Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, British First Lord of the Admiralty.

The conversations are carrying further work left pending at the London Naval Conference, but are not yet considered to have reached a state where any addition can be made to the agreement signed in London.

M. Dumesnil said that France's position remained the same, in commenting upon previous talks he has had with Mr. Alexander. They conferred briefly Wednesday night all of yesterday morning and again last night.

The settlement on naval affairs between France and Italy, referred to as probable by Foreign Minister Briand at Geneva this week, must necessarily come from direct Franco-Italian conversations. But the British are supposed to have contributed something towards the hoped for agreement.

CHEMONG ENGAGEMENT

After extended summer season engagements at Thurstonia, McCracken's Landing and Kawartha Park pavilions, the the Mowry-Steer Silver Collegians band has returned for an indefinite engagement at Chemong Park. They will play Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights. The band which Mowry and Steers will use in their Chemong engagement will be composed of Ferdy Mowry, saxophone, clarinet and vocal; Bill Steers, piano; Wils Dunlop, drums and vocal; Maurice McGrath, banjo and guitar; Doug. Widdess, sax and clarinet and Pud Braund, trumpet and vocal.

LOCAL ARTIST SKETCHES FAIR SCENES.

Miss Mamie McCarthy, Park street, took several sketches of the big Fair during visits there on Thursday and Friday afternoons. A number of the gentlemen in charge took occasion to pose for her, if she would include their handsome figures in her pictures.

CURTAINS TAKE FIRE.

Canning operations at 93 Hunter street west early this forenoon provided more than the maximum amount of thrills to the house wife. She had placed some paraffin wax on the stove to melt, and while absent for a few minutes it boiled over and took fire, igniting the curtains nearby. In answer to the alarm the whole equipment of the City Fire department turned out in quick time.

FIRST MEETING OF CALEDONIAN CLUB

Good Program Provided at Gathering in Woodma nof World Hall.

The Woodmen of the World Hall was filled to capacity last evening with an enthusiastic gathering of Caledonians and their friends for a Scots' Rally. This was the first fall meeting, and the large gathering augurs well for the social season of the Club.

The meeting opened by a few remarks from the President, W. Petrie, who welcomed the audience, and hoped they would enjoy the program, and encourage the Executive to carry on by turning out in like numbers during the social season.

On the call of the President, the company observed two minutes' silence for absent members.

A. D. Clark, vice-president of the Club, occupied the chair, and carried through the program in a very able manner. He opened the proceedings by welcoming the guests of the evening, "The Caledonian Football Club." Mr. Clark congratulated the players on having already won the Peck Trophy this season.

R. Gilmour, President of the Football Club, replied on behalf of the team. Messrs. Curtain and Cook, members of the Caledonian team, also made a few remarks, and received hearty applause from the audience.

Presentation Made.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful fern in a silver jardinier stand to John Moyes, the first President of the Caledian Club. Mr. Moyes, on account of failing health, was unable to be present, and Robert Hendry accepted the gift on his behalf. Accompanied by other members of the Pipe Band, he immediately proceeded to Mr. Moyes' home on Rubidge Street, and after handing over the gift, the Band played a few selections. This thoughtfulness of the Club was much appreciated by Mr. Moyes.

The following musical program was rendered, interspersed by dances, such as reels, waltzes and quadrilles:

Selections by Pipe Band.

Vocal solo by R. Hendry, "Bella, the Belle o' Dunoon." As an encore a reading entitled "Granny's Laddie," was given.

Vocal solos by Miss Jessie Pattison, "Danny Boy" and "My Rosary."

Vocal solos by Jack Smith, "The Standard on the Braes o' Mar" and "Sound the Pibroch."

The accompanists were Miss Pearl Smith, W. Dougal and Jack Smith.

R. Gilmour supplied the music for the dances.

Refreshments were served, and a pleasant evening brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

FLIERS ARE OFF ON FIRST STAGE

her tanks. Her new coat of silver paint glistened in the pale grey light as Captain Boyd shook hands with a few friends and climbed into the cockpit. Arthur Suddes of the Canadian Wright Company, mechanical expert of the flight, swung the wooden propellor as the old Wright Whirlwind that took the ship to Germany and then to Bermuda and back this summer snorted, caught, and roared into life, as Captain Boyd warmed her up. Lieutenant Harry Connor, master mariner, clambered into his little navigating cabin behind the big fuselage tank in the cockpit, a roll of charts under his army. R. Carmichael, Government weather expert at the airport, handed up a few last minute weather reports.

A few moments later the chocks were yanked from beneath the wheels and the old Bellanca trundled slowly forward, turned to point her nose into the wind. With a final wave of the hand, Captain Boyd opened the throttle and the five year old plane lurched forward, lumbering down the airport at increasing speed. With plenty of room to spare, the wheels finally left the earth and the Columbia droned upward in a gentle climb. Swing in awide circle, the Canadian aviator gained a little over 1,000 feet of altitude before heading the old ship into the mist to the east, his motor drumming steadily into the distance of his 993 mile hop to the lonely airport on the tip of Newfoundland, jumping off place for many a trans-Atlantic hop.

Cruises 100 Miles an Hour

The Columbia cruises at a little over a hundred miles an hour and expects to reach Newfoundland before dark. Before taking off, Lieutenant Connor indicated that he would steer a course across the lower part of this Province, across the northern part of New Brunswick and then cutting out over the water to Prince Edward Island. The plane, bearing the markings "NR 237" in black on the wings, and a huge "140" on the silver fuselage, will appear over Cape Breton in the neighborhood of St. Margaret's River, turning up to North Cape and then across the gulf of St. Lawrence to Pointe Aux Basques, Newfoundland, before turning east again to Harbor Grace.

The flyers expect to remain only a few hours at Harbor Grace before resuming their flight to London. But the weatherman may keep them at the jumping off place longer than that. The Canadian Marconi Company will wire Lieutenant Connor a complete list of vessels at sea lying along his course, with their last reported positions, their approximate speed and the course they are steering. The Columbia will not carry a radio, Lieutenant Connor relying on his sextant and his sighting of ships below. The Columbia is equipped with all the latest aerial navigation instruments including the new Sperry artificial horizon for fog flying.

FALL ROAD WORK PLANS LAID OUT

Henry Announces Grading To Be Done at Peterborough East and Norwood Diversion.

MILLION DOLLAR OUTLAY.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13. (C.P.) A million dollars worth of new highway work to be undertaken this fall with the idea of relieving unemployment, has been announced by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways for Ontario.

The work comprises sound sixty miles of grading and culverts, five miles of paving between St. Thomas and Port Stanley and two bridges—at the Severn and east of Arthur.

Grading work will be done at Peterborough east, Brighton north, Arthur east, Greenwood diversion, L'Original diversion, Stoney Creek cut off, Gananoque to Seeley's Bay and Brooklin west.

Originally, stated Mr. Henry, almost all of th's work would have remained over till 1931, as it is difficult to maintain highways on which grading is being done. Mr. Henry felt, however, the travelling public, if inconvenienced a little in this connection would appreciate why the work was being undertaken.

So far this season contracts have been let by the highways department for 230 miles of paving, 105 miles of grading, 12 bridges and a number of culverts, at a cost of $7,500,000. The new relief work will bring the expenditure up to $8,500,000.

OBITUARY

JOHN S. LOUGHEED.

The death occurred on Friday of John S. Lougheed at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Ashby, 588 Water street, in his 73rd year.

The late Mr. Lougheed was a native of Caledon, Ontario, and had resided in the city for the past four years, previous to which he lived in Toronto. He was predecessed by his wife in February of this year, and leaves one daughter, Mrs Ashby, from whose home the funeral service will be held on Sunday evening. The remains will be taken into Toronto on C.P.R. train at 7.34 Monday morning for interment at St. John's cemetery, Norway. Rev. E. James and Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave of St. Johns church, will officiate at the service in this city, while Rev. John Bushnell of St. Clement's church, Toronto, will conduct the service at the graveside.

MRS. JAMES CHARLTON

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 13. — Sarah Caldwell, widow of the late James Charlton, after a short illness died this morning at her home on Reid street, aged 75 years.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Bulmer, of Buffalo; and five sons, George, John and Lawrence, of Lakefield, William, of Smith, and Robert, of Peterborough, and also five brothers, James Caldwell, of Port Arthur, Thomas, Nathaniel and David, of Elkhorn, Manitoba.

Funeral announcement later.

IN MEMORIAM.

MILLAN.—In loving memory of our dear sister, Miss Maude Millan, who passed away September 13th, 1929.

"Beside your grave we often stand
With hearts both crushed and sore,
But in the gloom the sweet words come,
Not lost but gone before.

It's not the tears at the graveside
That tell how the heart is torn,
But unseen tears in after years
To a memory silently borne."

Sadly missed by Sisters and Brothers.

Good Year For the Can. Gen. Electric

Year Ending March 31, 1930 Shows Profits on Outstanding Stock of $20.20 Per Share.

TORONTO, Sept. 13.— The Canadian General Electric Co. has a fair volume of unfilled orders on its books, the Financial News Bureau is informed by D. C. Durland, president. "While current orders are running somewhat less than last year," Mr. Durland stated, "they are still sufficient to maintain a good rate of production. Results for the year probably will be fairly satisfactory, having regard to general depression in business."

During the year ended March 31, 1930, Canadian General Electric Co. showed profits, after depreciation and taxes of $4,428,884, which after providing for preferred dividends were equal to $20.20 per share on the common stock outstanding.

Enterprise Wins Second Cup Race

AMERICAN BOAT TOOK BIG LEAD OVER SHAMROCK

Enterprise Finishes Course With a 9 Minutes and 49 Seconds Lead.

4 VICTORIES NEEDED.

Cup Has Been on This Side of the Atlantic For 73 Years.

U.S.S. KANE, Off America Cup Course, September 15 (By Tom Morgan, by Radio to the Associated Press). — The Enterprise, defending the America Cup from the challenger of Sir Thomas Lipton, Shamrock V., won the second consecutive race of the series to-day.

The slim American defender ghosted across the finish line at 2.41.31.

Whistles on the spectator fleet played a noisy chorus as the Enterprise slipped between the buoy and the boat marking the end of the thirty-mile triangular course.

Her time for the course was 4 hours 31 seconds.

The Shamrock finished at 2.51.20, or 9 minutes 49 seconds behind the American defender.

With the first two races stowed away safely the Enterprise needed only two more victories to retain the cup which has been held on this side of the Atlantic for 73 years.

Ernest (Ned) Heard, veteran English skipper at the helm of Shamrock, fought a losing battle from the start and lost precious minutes at the turn when he reached for the mark a bit too early and was forced to pull up the challenger so hard that she almost lost way.

Ahead of him all the way from the starting line was the towering mast and wind-filled sails of the Enterprise, and tack as he would, the barricade of sail stood between him and the breeze.

He soon crossed the line on the weather side, but she was outfooted by the Enterprise, which quickly crossed her bow and held that position to within sight of the ten-mile marker.

Enterprise made the turn at 12.21.30, just one hour 41 minutes 30 seconds after the starting gun sent them on their way. The Shamrock V. went round 84 minutes later.

Conditions Ideal.

Conditions were almost ideal for racing to-day, with a ten-knot breeze, a clear sky, and fine visibility. This was in direct contrast to the first race on Saturday, when fog shrouded the course from starting buoy to finish line.

Despite the changed conditions the fleets accompanying the boats to-day were much smaller than the great armada that sailed out of Newport on Saturday morning and surged along through the mists in the wake of the racing yachts.

The race to-day was over a triangular course as compared to the straight windward and leeward course that was sailed the first day. The series goes to the first yacht to win four races.

Race Started at 10.40.

The second of the series of races for the historic America's Cup got under way at 10.40 a.m. E.S.H. exactly on schedule.

The United States' defender Enterprise led the challenging Shamrock across the line and appeared to be footing much faster. Shamrock, however, was in the weather berth, a technical advantage.

Both racing craft began shaking out their sails when the course signal was hoisted.

The course signalled was ten miles

Sea-Tramp De Luxe Uncovered on Liner

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Sept. 15.—(C.P. Cable.)—A completely outfitted stowaway appeared in police court here to-day when Henry Edwin Bradshaw aged 32, described as a Bristol analyst, pleaded guilty to stowing away on the White Star liner, Doric, on its voyage from Montreal to Liverpool.

Bradshaw was sent to jail for a fortnight. He was found by members of the ship's crew in a lifeboat with food sufficient for a week, blankets and even a stove and fuel to provide hot meals. He had a change of clothing with him.

The sea-tramp de luxe told the court he had a university degree.

"I left for Canada two years ago," he said. "But I couldn't get on with the farmers."

SLAIN BY DRY AGENTS

TEN ARE KILLED AND 14 INJURED

Highway Accident Toll is Heavy in Province of Quebec Over Week-end.

7 CAR FATALITIES.

MONTREAL, September 15. (C. P.)—Ten persons lost their lives and 14 others were injured, three critically, in accidents in the province of Quebec over the week end. Seven of the fatalities were due to automobile accidents; one woman was killed when she stepped into the path of a fast train, while two men were killed while at work.

The most serious of all the accidents occurred on the highway near Sherbrooke, where Angus Arpin, 60, of East Angus, A. Leesy, and his wife of Sherbrooke, were instantly killed when the car in which they were passengers left the road when the driver attempted to avoid a collision and crashed into a tree. Two other passengers in the automobile, Mrs. A. Duhamel, 35, and Florian Arpin, both of Montreal, suffered severe injuries. Mrs. Duhamel is believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

CIVIL LIBERTY IS THE EMPIRE'S GIFT TO WORLD

Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner Gives Eloquent Address Before Members of Rotary Club.

SIZE NOT ALL.

British Empire is Not Large in Extent But Has Made Valuable Contributions.

Civic and religious liberty, fair play and justice, and the bringing of the backward peoples into the light, were listed in the course of a most eloquent address before the local Rotary Club to-day, by Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner, as the chief contribution of the British Empire to the welfare of the world.

Using a large map to illustrate his remarks Rotarian Kenner, pointing out that the British Empire comprised one-fourth of the earth's surface, and represented one-fourth of the world's population, took his hearers on a rapid tour to the various countries that make up the Empire, to show their extent, variety and material richness.

Neither size nor wealth, he remarked, made nations great. The world's greatest art came from a small nation; the world's finest literature came from a small nation. From Greece the world obtained its art and philosophy, from Rome its laws. Great Britains great contribution had been civil and religious liberty, stated Rotarian Kenner, tracing this development back to the Seven years' war, which had seen Britain's influence spread over the world.

The speaker ended his address with eloquent word pictures of Canada, Scotland, Ireland and England, pointing out the beauty and variety of these important parts of the British Empire, and stressing their wealth and glorious history in language that brought home to his hearers the splendid heritage that belonged to them as citizens of that far-flung Empire.

The thanks of the club were extended to Rotarian Kenner by Rotarian V. J. McElderry, K.C., and President Abbott also added a word of appreciation expressing the hope that there might be more addresses by Club members.

NO SEAWAY ACTION BY CANADA TO BE TAKEN UNTIL NOVEMBER

Bennett in Note to Washington Claims Dominion Not Ready as Yet.

WILL CONTINUE STUDY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (C.P.).—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Premier of Canada, informed the United States in a note made public at the State Department to-day that Canada could not deal with the St. Lawrence waterway project as proposed by the United States until next November at least, when a study would be made and further notes exchanged.

The note was a reply to the United States note, carried to Ottawa by Hanford MacNider, new United States Minister to Canada, informing that Government the United States was ready to proceed with the project at any time, and suggesting the appointment of commissioners to formulate a treaty for this purpose.

"The Canadian Government has given consideration to some phases of the St. Lawrence waterway question", Mr. Bennett said, "but in view of the fact that the Parliament of Canada is now in session, and that the opening of the Imperial Conference has been set for September 30, it will not be possible to deal with the question in a comprehensive manner at the present moment.

"I purpose, however, to go into the matter immediately upon my return from the Conference in November, and following this examination I shall communicate with you further."

The text of MacNider's note, dated

The text of MacNider's note, dated September 2, but made public to-day for the first time, follows:

I have the honor to refer to previous correspondence exchanged between the Government of Canada and the Government of the United States on the subject of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway. "In pursuance of instructions from the President, I desire to reiterate that the Government of the United States stands ready to proceed with this proposed development at the earliest possible date.

"I have been directed to enquire whether the Canadian Government now finds itself in a position to appoint commissioners to discuss jointly with commissioners of the United States the details of the seaway, and to formulate a treaty appropriate to the purpose."

Hot Dogs, 2 for 5

The purchasing power of the Canadian five-cent piece advanced by leaps and bounds in Peterborough on Saturday night.

It was the final closing time at the Fair grounds, and many of the concession stand proprietors found surplus stocks of "hot dogs" and lemonade on their hands. The market was "weak" and "hot dogs" took a sudden drop to two for five cents, later dropping to a new low level, "as many as you want for a nickle." Lemonade also dropped several points and small boys proved to be regular "bears"; their combined efforts and nickles effectually succeeding in clearing away all remnants of perishable stock.

FIVE BARNS ARE GUTTED BY FIRE IN FIERCE STORM

Bad Electrical Storm Sweeps District on Saturday Night, Destroying Barns.

DAMAGE IS HEAVY.

George Shield and Son Suffer Heavy Loss When Fire Destroys Crop.

A series of freak storms struck Central Ontario over the week-end and left behind a trail of wrecked buildings, burned to the ground when struck by lightning. Heavy rains accompanied the electrical disturbance, and although the moisture was of great benefit to late field crops and fall wheat, much of which has been planted, farmers suffered the loss of their entire season's harvest when their barns burned. Several barns were struck in this district, including George Shields and Son, of Smith Township; La Vergne McKinley, of Lifford Line; John Parkin Valentia and Garnet McMahon, near Omemee. Trainmen arriving at Lindsay reported having seen nine buildings burning between there and Belleville.

John Coveney of Hastings had four valuable head of cattle killed by lightning.

Telephone and Hydro services were slightly disrupted locally, although no serious trouble is reported. The City Fire Department fire alarm circuit in the south end of the city was burned out in four different places, but was temporarily repaired later on Sunday morning.

From Chemong Park, report comes of a startling experience which two young men had during the storm. One of them was struck to the ground and had a finger slightly scorched, while the other man, although unharmed, was considerably alarmed when a flash of lightning struck a tall tree near their summer cottage, jumped from the tree to the Hydro line and completely smashed the Hydro meter; jumped onto the wireless aerial and also breaking the radio. The tree which bore the brunt of the flash, was almost split asunder.

WINDSOR DRIVER HELD FOLLOWING CAR CRASH

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 15 (C.P.)—Anthony Hakam of Windsor faces a criminal negligence charge as the result of an auto crash near Tecumseh. His car struck one driven by Trefly Renaud of Tecumseh, injuring Renaud and his son Clifford, aged four, so that medical treatment was necessary. Mrs. Renaud is suffering from shock, while a second child escaped injury. The Hakam car left the pavement and sideswiped the Renaud car, which had been driven to the ditch to escape the oncoming car. The Renaud car was totally demolished and the Hakam car damaged to considerable extent.

GERMAN GOV'T IS NEARING FALL

Fascists Create Sensation By Rose From 12 to 101 Seats.

COMMUNISTS GAIN.

BERLIN, Germany, September 15.—(C. P.) — A landslide of Fascist and Communist votes in the Reichstag general election, the sixth since the foundation of the Republic, this morning shook the foundations of parliamentary government in Germany and threatened the life of Chancellor Heinrich Bruennings government.

The two parties advocating overthrow of the Young German Republic, were shown by returns early to-day to have outstripped practically all other parties except the Social Democrats and to control at least 176 seats in the next Reichstag.

Complete figures for 27 out of 35 electoral districts, assured 137 seats to the Social Democrats, the strongest party in the late Reichstag, 101 seats to the Fascists, 75 to the Communists; 64 to the Centrists, Chancellor Bruenings party, 38 to the Nationalists, and 27 of the people's Party. The sensation of the election has been the dizzying rise of the Fascists from 12 seats to 101.

Baroness To Dispose Of Valuable Horse

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 15 (C.P.). (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The Baroness Wentworth, of Crabbet Park, Sussex, is being forced by heavy taxation to dispose of her world-famous stud of Arabian horses, valued at no less than a quarter of a million pounds sterling.

This Crabbet stud, as it is known, was founded by Wilfrid Blunt, the Baroness' father, who spent much time in Arabia and combed the peninsula for the best of its horse blood. Nowadays, curiously enough, war and disease having played havoc with the horses of Arabia itself, many Arabs have come to Sussex to purchase stallions and brood mares.

The Baroness Wentworth is a peeress in her own right through her mother. She is a granddaughter of Lord Byron and also a descendant of Shelley.

WOMAN TRAPPED IN WRECKED CAR BURNS TO DEATH

Sedan With Tourist Party From Auburn, N.Y., Strikes Tree Near Kingston.

SKIDS ON SLIPPERY ROAD.

Flames Drive Workmen Off After Husband and Daughter Are Rescued.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 15 (C.P.).—Mrs. T. J. Walsh, of 64 Cheele Place, Auburn, N.Y., was burned to death this morning near Cataraqui, five miles west of here, when the sedan in which she had been driving with her husband and daughter took fire after turning over. The husband and daughter were extricated from the car suffering only minor injuries.

The Walsh family were motoring through Ontario, and just as they passed Cataraqui, the car skidded on the slippery pavement, crashed into a tree and turned over on its top. Several workmen, busy on a new house nearby, ran to the assistance of the party and were able to extricate Mr. Walsh and his daughter from the front seat of the car, when suddenly the automobile burst into a mass of flames, driving them away. Mrs. Walsh was in the back seat and it was utterly impossible to get her out. The men could see the woman plainly through the flames, but were unable to get to her.

LEAGUE TO STUDY UNION FOR YEAR

Briand's Scheme Left in Hands of Committee of Interested States.

REPORT NEXT SESSION.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 15. — (C.P.). — French Foreign Minister Briand and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Great Britain's foreign relations chief, prepared to-day a resolution to place Briand's European Federation plan in the hands of a committee of European interested states for action next year.

The resolution will be offered for adoption by the Assembly to-morrow. The proposed committee, after examining the plan for a "United States of Europe," then will report its recommendations to the Assembly of the League of next year's session.

Henderson Agrees.

Mr. Henderson, who originally wanted the plan to go to the sixth or political commission of the League so that it could be kept under the League's control, accepted the compromise proposal with the understanding the Assembly would have

Increase of 14,305 Over that of 1929; 10,676 Saturday

The 1930 Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Goes Over the Top With Flying Colors When 38,247 Attend.

RECORD ATTENDANCE WAS IN 1927 WITH 40,901 WEATHER ALL COULD BE DESIRED DURING WEEK

Large Crowd on Saturday Was Much Impressed By Great Parade of Livestock—Not Single Arerst Made on the Grounds.

The 1930 Peterborough Industrial Exhibition went over the top with flying colors. Attendance for the five days of the Exhibition swelled to a total of 38,247. This is an increase of 14,305 over last year's attendance, and is a close challenge to the Exhibition's record attendance of 40,901 set in the golden days of 1927. In 1928 the attendance was 34,383.

Saturday did its full share to boost the attendance, 10,876 clicking through the turnstiles as compared with 7,394 on the final day last year.

Old Sol was on duty the whole week, and the sunny skies and warm weather drew many from far distances to the Exhibition. It is thirteen years since the big Peterborough show enjoyed such perfect weather, and this added to the many attractions of the Fair was responsible for the greatly increased attendance.

Mayor Thanks Public

Mayor Denne on behalf of the Directors asked The Examiner on Saturday night to thank the public for their co-operation.

"We have had this year the best agricultural exhibition we have ever had" said the President "and the attendance delights us all. The manner in which the people from the country and the city helped us, as exhibitors and spectators, has encouraged us to greater efforts for 1931.

"Nothing marred the show" he continued. "The weather was ideal, striving I think to make up for the many rainy days of past fairs. The midway was run properly and cleanly, and there will be no one to say that he lost a large sum of money. Most of the concessions were given to local people and in that way the money wil stay here at home."

The Saturday afternoon crowd packed the grandstand and overflowed into specially constructed seats along the track rail. The parade of the prise-winning cattle and horses must have impressed the crowd with the high quality of the entire exhibit of livestock. Each herd of cattle was preceded by a banner giving the name of the owner and also of the breed of stock. In addition to this information for the public there was broadcast the principal honors won by each herd. By this means the parade was given a personal touch of exceptional interest. Webber Turner made the announcement over the amplifier as each went by the stand. The details of the parade were prepared by William Knox, managing director.

Not one Arrest Made.

Peterborough received its greatest compliment from Provincial Constable Harry Thompson, who with Provincial Constable Sommerville, and several city police, was on duty continuously on the grounds. 'There was not a single arrest made at the exhibition," stated Constable Thompson. "There was no sign of drunkenness or misbehaviour of any kind. The crowd on the stands was the best conducted, happy and easy to manage that I have encountered in more than ten years of police duty."

The city was in holiday throughout the five days of the exhibition and the rodeo and other big grandstand attractions delighted everyone who attended the exhibition.

FOGGY WEATHER DELAYING BOYD

Airmen on Atlantic Hop Forced Down in Charlottetown, P.E.I., Saturday.

HEAVY HEAD WINDS.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 15.—(C.P.)—The trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia remained weatherbound to-day. It will leave for Harbor Grace, Nfld., to-morrow morning, if conditions permit. Captain Erroll Boyd, who with Lieutenant Harry Connor was forced back to Charlottetown by head winds after leaving St. Hubert Airport, Que., Saturday, for Harbor Grace, said weather reports he had received cautioned him against taking off to-day. He is in touch with weather bureau at Toronto and New York.

PILGRIMS VISIT MARTYRS SHRINE NEAR MIDLAND

1,050 People Go By Train From Diocese of Peterborough to Fort Ste. Marie.

SUFFERERS RELIEVED.

Old Man For Years Nearly Blind Was Reported to be Able to Read.

Tears of thankful surprise poured down the cheeks of a white-haired man at the Shrine of the Canadian Martyrs at Fort Ste. Marie yesterday afternoon, as he took the glasses from before his eyes, and found that he could read without difficulty the small lettering on the base of Our Lady of Lourdes' statue. A member of a party of 53 men from Toronto, who have been making a retreat at the Shrine, he has been a sufferer from cataract and has been wearing very strong glasses that did little more than allow him to see with difficulty. Yesterday, he saw with ease, and he gave the credit to the first Canadian Martyrs who were canonized in Rome this year, on June 29th, and in whose honor the fifth annual pilgrimage from this diocese took place yesterday.

On August 24th, 1926, the first pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Martyrs who were then called Blessed only, was organzed from this diocese by Bishop O'Brien. There were 914 people in attendance that year.

On August 21, 1927, 1529 people made the trip, and there were 1557 on August 19th of the following year. Last year, on September 15th, the total was 1250. These were by train alone. The number was augmented considerably each year by motor car pilgrims.

This year, when the Shrine has become the spiritual home of the first martyrs of this Dominion, 1050 train pilgrims made the journey of 98 miles to the site of old Fort Ste. Marie, which is situated between Port Mc-Nicholl and Midland. This year, both railway lines were utilized. The C.P.R. carried about 450 people in thirteen coaches, with over 200 from the city, about 150 from Lindsay, 50 from Tweed and a number from Orillia.

On the C N. R. line in seventeen coaches, were 600 people; 305 from Peterborough, 40 from Campbellford, 67 from Hastings, 8 from Keene, 150 from Lindsay, 10 from Orono, and 20 from Brechin. James Doran on the C.N.R., and C. C. Patten on the C. P. R. Line, looked after the wants of the pilgrims, and the staffs of both lines gave excellent service.

Sufferers Relieved.

Several minor aids in illness were reported yesterday. A crippled man with grey skin tightly drawn over his bony face, unable to walk for nearly 20 years, got out of his car, with the aid of one man, and walked into the church, after prayers were said over him by the assisting Fathers. A crippled woman with rheumatism, which chains her to a wheel chair, was able to lift both hands to her head, for the first time in many long months. A little child with infantile paralysis took a few halting steps, much to its parents' delight.

Rev. T. J. Lally, S. J., in charge of the Shrine, reports several cures this year, which have been authenticated. The priests are chary of accepting first evidence of a cure and prefer to wait for some time before pronouncing it as final. But in these cases there is no doubt. In the church be-

Cobourg Acquires New Bait Factory

SOUTH BEND CO. WILL ESTABLISH CANADIAN UNIT

Largest Manufacturers of Fishing Tackle in World Coming to Canada.

$50,000 CAPITALIZATION.

Will Locate in H. W. Cooey Machine and Arms Company Building.

SOUTH BEND, Sept. 15 (Special to The Examiner). — The South Bend Bait Company of South Bend, Indiana, the largest manufacturers of fishing tackle in the United States, will open a branch factory at Cobourg, Ontario, within the near future. Final plans for the new plant were approved recently by officers of the new concern, which will be located in the H. W. Cooey Machine and Arms Company building.

The new company will be known as the South Bend Bait Company of Canada, Limited, and will have a capitalization of $50,000. Officers are: Ivar Hennings, South Bend, president; John B. Pagin, South Bend, and C. E. Adcock, Montreal, vice-presidents; Mr. Adcock also will be general sales director for Canada; H. O. Stream, South Bend, treasurer, and A. G. Graham, South Bend, secretary.

Reasons for opening a branch factory at Cobourg were outlined by Mr. Hennings in the following statement: "The growing market in Canada for fishing tacle, and fishing in Canada attracting more from the United States each years, are responsible for our establishing a branch factory at Cobourg. We have had this matter under consideration for several years. Indirectly, we have helped to build up the tourist trade in Canada by our co-operation during the past six years with the Canadian Motion Picture Bureau at Ottawa. We have received movie films showing sportsmen catching fish, and at our own expense sent these reels to sportsmen's clubs and Izaak Walton clubs in the States, with the result that when a fisherman sees a picture of someone catching a large bass or 'lunge, his immediate question is, 'Where can I go to get a fish like that?' "

Mr. Adcock, whose offices will be in Montreal, in commenting on the new factory, said: "The primary motive behind the opening of a new factory by the South Bend Bait Company at Cobourg is to make in Canada what is sold in Canada. Naturally, we expect to be able to give better service on shipments to the trade, since they will all be made from Cobourg.

"In locating in a part of the H. W. Cooey Machine and Arms Company we have ample means and facilities for expansion, which we expect will be necessary within the next few years.

"Heretofore it has been necessary for us to use American-made tackle, but now we have the opportunity of developing tackle that is particularly adaptable to our conditions.

"In interesting the South Bend Bait Company to establish a Canadian factory, we feel that we have selected an American firm of the highest type, that has been known in the tackle world for many years as manufacturers of the highest quality merchandise."

ASK HON. GOLDIE TO NOT RESIGN

Friends Deplore Resignation and Seek Grant of Leave of Absence.

MAY RETAIN SEAT.

GUELPH, Sept. 15. — Shortly after word was received here that Hon. Lincoln Goldie had tnedered his resignation as Provincial Secretary in the Ferguson Administration, owing to ill-health, a largely attended meeting of the executive of the South Wellington Conservative Association representative of the whole riding, was held at which the matter of Mr. Goldie's retirement was fully discussed. While no official action was taken at the meeting it is understood that plans are under way to make strong representations to Premier Ferguson not to accept Mr. Goldies resignation and to grant him leave of absence until such time as he regains his health.

Although it had been rumored that Mr. Goldie was about to retire, statements to that effect were given little credence here and the sudden announcement of his retirement came as a shock to his supporters in all sections of his constituency.

May Retain Seat.

In the event that Mr. Goldie cannot see his way clear to reconsider his resignation as Provincial Secretary, a strong effort will be made to have him retain his seat in the Legislature and to continue to act as South Wellington's representative.

Mr. Goldie, who was in the city to-day, refused to comment on his resignation other than to state that he action was taken on he advice of his physician. He was not prepared to say whether or not he would also resign his seat in the House.

COUNTRY'S BEST LIVESTOCK PARADE PAST GRANDSTAND

Large Crowd is Well Satisfied With Fine Showing of Prize Animals.

A QUALITY PARADE.

The livestock parade past the grandstand Saturday afternoon was a processional demonstration of the number and quality of the animals that compete for Peterborough Exhibition prizes. Some of the cattle were left in the barns and ouly four sheep were brought out on a truck from their pens as specimens of the total of 209 that were entered in this class.

It was a highly impressive parade arranged by William Knox, managing director of the Exhibition, whose plans materialized without a hitch. Exhibitors were identified by banners and Webber Turner's broadcast introduction as they came in front of the stand included a few remarks about the principal prizes won by the various herds of cattle. This detail is greatly appreciated by the breeders and added a personal touch which enabled the crowd to recognize herds and exhibitors who were otherwise known only by report.

Approved By Crowd

This was only one of the thoughtful services which Mr. Knox rendered to the exhibitors. It interrupted the track and platform program, but it was a feature that had the approval of the entire crowd. The splendid showing of livestock indicated the primary importance and standard of the Exhibition, and no doubt the opinion of the general public coincided with the tributes which were paid during the week by the judges of the livestock classes, fieldmen of the different breeds of cattle and other visitors who were equally well informed.

Mr. Knox receives the loyal support of the directors who compose the livestock committees, and beyond that he has the goodwill and confidence of the exhibitors without one exception. They recognize his own knowledge of farm stock, also his courtesy and desire to give every exhibitor a fair deal.

It would not be a simple matter to report the many expressions of appreciation of the Exhibition which the Examiner heard all week. Probably there were a few exceptions to the consensus of the exhibitors in regard to the awards in the cattle classes but, it is perhaps too much to expect that everybody would be fully satisfied when their own interests are at stake. However in so far as Mr. Knox's relations with the exhibitors are concerned each Fair has strengthened the esteem in which he is held by them.

Power of Co-operation

The Exhibition is a proof of the power of co-operation. So many of the people of the city and district contributed their efforts, all of them valuable in their respective spheres, that it might seem unfair to single out any of these assistants for special mention.

For instance the help of Gordon Matthews and Don McKinnon of the Canadian Packing Company is becoming an important element in the success of the whole show. J. B. Nelson, local representative of the Department of Agriculture, also deserves a word of commendation and so on down a lengthy list, names of citizens whose interest and co-operation are distinct and substantial advantages.

OBITUARY

FLORENCE BATEMAN.

MARMORA, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Shortly before 9 o'clock on Sunday evening, Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bateman, passed to her everlasting rest. The deceased, who was twenty-three years of age, was born in Rawdon Township and was a cripple from birth, but until six months ago, when her condition became worse, was exceedingly cheerful despite her bodily affliction. The prolonging of her life through the great suffering which has been her lot for the past three months was a matter of astonishment even to the attending physician.

Besides her parents, she is survived by two brothers, Harry and George, and a half-brother and two half-sisters: Percy Bateman of Rawdon Township, Mrs. W. Bateman of Rawdon Township and Mrs. Charles Nobes of Marmora Township.

Funeral service will be conducted at her late residence on Tuesday at 10 a.m. by Rev. A. B. Caldwell. Interment will take place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery

Two American Girls Attempt Channel

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 15.—(CP)—Two United States girls, twins, Bernice and Phillis Zittenfield, were engaged today in an attempt to swim the English channel.

Entering the water at South Foreland at 6:50 a.m., the twins drew slowly away from land and headed toward the far away French shore.

The Weather

On Sunday the temperature was again high, reaching 82 degrees in the shade. The heavy thunderstorm in the early hours of Sunday morning, brought .40 of an inch. The electrical display and thunder were considered by many citizens as the worst they had ever seen and heard. —W. P.

FAMOUS GENERAL DEAD

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 15. (C.P.)—A London wireless despatch to the New York Times said that Lieut. General Sir Louis Bols, Governor of Bermuda since 1927, died in a private hospital at Bath Sunday at the age of 62.

Before he entered upon his Governorship, he had a brilliant military career, culminating in 1917, when he became Allenby's chief of staff and organized his historic Palestine campaign.

DERANGED LADY KNIFES HER SON AND BURNS BARN

Young Man May Die From Wounds Inflicted By Mother.

FAILS IN FIRST ATTEMPT.

Woman is Removed to Hospital For Insane at Brockville.

MAXVILLE, Ont., September 15 (C.P.). — Suddenly mentally deranged, Mrs. Charles Montgomery, 45-year-old wife of a prosperous farmer living near here, set fire to her husband's barn and seriously wounded her 22-year-old son Charles with a butcher knife on Sunday. The son was taken to a Cornwall hospital, where his condition is critical. Police took Mrs. Montgomery to the Ontario Hospital for the Insane at Brockville.

Mrs. Montgomery, who had been in indifferent health for a year, twice set fire to the barn and attempted to detroy her home also. Charles beat out the first fire she set in the barn and frustrated her attempt to fire the house. The woman then rushed into her home for the butcher knife and, lunging at the youth, plunged it into his throat and chest.

Suffering from loss of blood the youth managed to release three horses from the barn and reach the roadway, where a passer-by picked him up and took him to a neighbor's. Mrs. Montgomery and her son were alone at the farm at the time.

Her husband rushed home from a neighbor's farm, but not in time to save the barn, which the woman had fired for the second time. The woman was quieted down and later a provincial constable and a doctor took her to Brockville.

CANADA'S NET DEBT IS REDUCED $4,000,000

OTTAWA, Ont., September 15 (C.P.). — The total net debt of Canada on August 31 was $2,144,860,443.93, a reduction of about $4,000,000 from the figure of $2,148,702,415.33 a year ago. These figures, made available in the current issue of the Canada Gazette do not take credit for non-active assets.

The total funded debt on August 31, before subtracting $442,190,353.32 in non-active assets, amounted to $2,587,050,979.25. This is a reduction of more than $57,000,000 from the figure of $2,644,422,653.64 at the same date in 1929 Of the funded debt $1,907,112,033.82 is payable in Canada, $11,868,136.30 in London, and $168,916,200 in New York.

SET NEW RECORD.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15.—(C.P.)—Leaping from an airplane at an altitude of 6,700 feet, Elsie M. Storrow, 18 year old parachute jumper, is believed to have established a new Canadian women's record. George Bennett, well-known jumper, made his 990th descent from 2,100 feet in company with Gladys McGrath. He was to have attempted breaking the mens Canadian record, but was unable to secure a plane capable of gaining the necessary altitude, it was reported.

GEISKING IS NOT HELD.

LONDON, Ky., Sept. 15 (C.P.). — Carl Losey, Indiana State policeman, early to-day said none of the three hijackers held in jail here is Ted Geisking, sought on several Indiana charges, and as a suspect in the slaying of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

CABINET CHANGE TO BE ANNOUNCED WITHIN FEW DAYS

Premier Ferguson Believed to Have Resignations of Two Other Ministers.

PREMIER WILL NOT TALK.

Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey and Hon. John S. Martin Are Slated to Retire.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16.—(C.P.)—An announcement of changes in the Ontario government is expected from Premier G. Howard Ferguson within a few days, following the resignation on Saturday of Hon. Lincoln Goldie, provincial secretary.

While Premier Ferguson had no statement to make this morning it is believed he is in possession also of the resignations of Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, and Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, both of whom have been in poor health for some time past.

Premier Ferguson would neither confirm nor deny the report from Montreal, stating that he and Premier R. B. Bennett had booked passage to sail from Quebec September 23 for England.

FASHION SERVICE

You'll like the unusualness of this saucy little sports frock of tub silk. It is eggshell ground printed in tones of orangey-red. The scalloped collar, cuffs, pockets and belt are of plain crepe in eggshell shade.

It gives the figure a beautifully moulded line through its long-waisted bodice and low-flare fulness.

It displays a feeling for summer sports activities in men's silk shirting fabric in gay stripes, pastel washable crepe silk, shantung, pique, linen and pastel wool jersey.

Printed dimity and printed batiste are also appropriate.

Style No. 3497 can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The 36-inch size requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

NOW THAT THE EXHIBITION is over for another year, and one settles back to normal procedure, the thought of Christmas comes to our mind, and together with Christmas comes the usual festivities along with bazaars.

• • • • • • •

I suppose all those especially interested in women's work noticed all the beautiful embroidery work exhibited. I didn't notice any pincushions; possibly there wasn't any entry for them on the prize-list, but I have seen some very pretty flower pincushions which I thought would make attractive gifts for Christmas and fall bazaars.

• • • • • • •

Small pieces of left-over textiles can be utilized—washable materials are excellent, for they make simple cushions, while the silks, velvets, etc., are richer and supply a texture more suggestive of petals.

• • • • • • •

Very pretty flowers can be made—for instance, one with a brown centre and yellow petals is immediately recognized as a sunflower, or a large ox-eyed daisy. A yellow centre with white petals, a field daisy, and with rose petals, a rose.

• • • • • • •

The petals can be flat, or they can be cut wide at the base and be turned over toward the front slightly, making modelled petals. The back portion can be of green with the edge petal-shaped to suggest foliage, or it can be one of the flower portions.

• • • • • • •

There are three parts to the flower cushion, namely the small round cushion, stuffed with any preferred filling through which pins can be thrust easily; the top, with a circular centre cut large enough for one or two rows of petals to be stitched around it; and an under portion circular with indented edge.

• • • • • • •

The seam, where the petals join circular centre, can be covered with a narrow bias fold, or narrow ribbon, or the petals can be seamed to the centre on the wrong side.

• • • • • • •

The cushion is put together invisibly wiwth snaps sewed to top and bottom portions around the circular section in which the cushion is put and so held in position.

• • • • • • •

Or, if one prefers, they may be ribboned together.

• • • • • • •

Circular cushions can be made from handsome wash or non-washable materials. The edges of it may be roll hemmed, bound or plain hemmed, with tiny turnings, or they may be blanket stitched.

• • • • • • •

Some one of these finishes is used for the edges of petals in flower cushions unless the petals are of organdy and slightly rolled about the edges, when they are left without any finish.

Refreshments Climax The Children's Party

BY EDWINA NOLAN
Director of Home Service, General Electric Refrigeration Department

NOT every mother has learned the secret of running a children's party smoothly—supervising the games, keeping the little guests interested and happy in wholesome fun—and then, as a climax, bringing on the refreshments, which always are uppermost in the minds of youngsters.

Mother must be on hand to guide the games; but, also, she must have good things to eat. Too often, she is forced to leave the children without leadership in order to prepare the refreshments. Then, the youngsters may fall into aimless rough-housing and the party may become overly boisterous.

Preparing the party refreshments the day before permits mother to keep her hand in the games, because she will have everything ready to serve at a moment's notice. She can make chill jellies, freeze salads and desserts the day before and they will be all ready to lift out and serve at the refreshment hour.

As a suggestion for such a menu she could have:

Jellied Chicken
Fancy-shaped Sandwiches
Hot Chocolate with Whipped Cream
Vanilla Ice-Cream Sandwiches

The jellied chicken she makes the day before and chills in the refrigerator. Garnished with hard-cooked egg cut in fancy shapes, it looks quite partified in its nest of lettuce and watercress. The ice-cream sandwiches, also, can be made the day before. Vanilla mousse for this popular dessert can be bought and kept hard in the electric refrigerator tray, or it can be made easily. The sandwiches can be made in the morning, covered with a damp cloth and kept fresh in the electric refrigerator. If the party is held in summertime, a milk shake or float can be prepared the day before and kept in the refrigerator. It sounds easy and it really is easy.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CAUSES OF ECZEMA.

Your family doctor will tell you that he comes across a number of cases of eczema every year.

In one case he believes that the trouble is caused by the inability of the patient's body processes to handle certain kinds of food—particularly the starches, and so by cutting down on the bread and potatoes a cure is obtained.

The next case in which he thinks food is the cause, does not respond to treatment from this standpoint. He has the patient cut out pork, butter, goose, duck, rich soups, and pastry, and yet there is little or no change in the skin ailment.

In looking around he finds that at times the patient handles certain substances, or comes in contact with them, and that these substances are really the cause of the skin irritation.

Continual soaking of the hands and arms in water, or water with soda or other alkali in it, certain chemicals or dyes; substances like turpentine and benzine which remove the natural oil from the skin.

As a matter of fact the removal of this natural protective oil causes the skin to dry and crack easily, thus making it easy for organisms or other harmful matter to cause trouble, which is very slow in healing.

And there are still other cases which cannot be traced to foods eaten, or to any skin irritant, and these are very difficult to handle.

And yet the use of bending and twisting exercises to increase the flow of bile from the liver and gall bladder, and stimulate the large intestine to hasten the waste matters out of the body, has brought brilliant results in these cases.

Now what does all this mean?

That, as a matter of fact, eczema may be due to any of the three abovementioned causes: (a) certain kinds of foods, (b) use of substances that irritate the skin, or actually irritate the skin if they are present in the room, even if not touching the skin, (c) waste matter lying in the intestine too long and being absorbed into the blood, the liver failing to remove it as it passes through.

And also it can be easily understood how more than one of these causes can occur in the same individual; in fact, it could be possible for all three to be present.

So don't get discouraged if you have a persistent eczema; think of the above three general causes, and try and help your doctor to locate the one or more responsible for your particular case.

Madoc

MADOC, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Presbyterian W. M. S. again found its way into the country for the September meeting. It was at the home of Mrs. R. Lewis. The day was beautiful and some of the members took advantage of it by walking out, and others were taken by cars, 25 being present.

Mrs. George Wright, in the absence of the president, took charge of the meeting. After the singing of the first hymn, the roll call was answered by each member reciting a Bible text. As the Study Book was completed at the July meeting, Mrs. McCaffrey gave a review, and asked questions on subjects which every member should know. Following the hymn Mrs. Bedford sang.

The profitable hour was closed by a hymn and a prayer.

A bountiful lunch was served by Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. H. McIntosh, the joint hostesses.

BRONFMAN NOT GUILTY.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 15.—Harry J. Bronfman, wealth Montreal distiller, was found "not guilty" on charges of tampering with witnesses in a Moose Jaw liquor case some years ago by a jury in court of King's Bench late Saturday.

The jury had been out for 58 minutes when they returned the verdict.

CAIRN ERECTED TO GREAT POET

Archibald Lampman Honored as a Poet and Great Canadian.

SACRED MISSION.

MORPETH, Ont., Sept. 15.—(C.P.)—In the presence of men who were his friends, men whose inspired pens have added lustre to the literary heritage of a young Dominion, a cairn of straight and simple lines was unveiled here Saturday to the memory of Archibald Lampman, Canada's nature poet. It was unveiled in the township, and amid the scenes, of Lampman's birth. Nearby were the elm and the maple, whose stately beauties he had sung and in the distance lay Lake Erie, the great inland sea, which often gave him of its inspiration.

"We are here engaged upon a sacred mission," said Arthur Stanger, the noted novelist and poet in speaking to the hundreds — leaders in the world of letters and natives of Kent township—who were assembled at the cairn. Among those present to honor Lampman were Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott, the poet, and literary executor, his friend, and Charles G. D. Roberts, poet, historian and novelist of fame.

Mr. Stanger deplored the tendency of Canadians to show indifference to their litreray accomplishments. "We are here to-day," he exclaimed, "to fan the flame of noble achievement and to encourage those who tread in the same path." It was too soon yet to judge whether Lampman was preeminent among Canadians of verse, but a matter for the calm judgment of decades.

The novelist quoted the line "they had no poets and they died unsung," in showing the importance to a nation of its bards and he pointed out the influence of such men as Shakespeare and Robert Burns had shaped the life of nations. Great national achievements, unless immortalized in verse, became but feats of brute estrength.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

HEARTSEASE

Heartsease! What a lovely name
For a lovely flower,
Smiling through the sun's bright flame
Or the sudden shower!

All old-fashioned gardens knew
These loved blossoms' worth,
Velvet-petalled, gemmed with dew,
Nodding, close to earth.

Maidens have been called always
After flowers fair;
Lily, rose, a name betrays
All the sweetness there.

But to make the likeness true,
Dearer Flower than these,
I have found your name, for you
Should be called Heartsease!

MADRIGAL SINGERS WILL GIVE CONCERT

Splendid Concert is Being Planned For Conservatory Hall on Tuesday Night.

The Madrigal Singers under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park will give a concert in the Conservatory Hall tomorrow evening. These singers as the Peterborough people now know, have won the highest commendation from the foremost music critics and musicians of Canada for their fine singing. These singers have just fulfilled their third engagement at the Toronto Exhibition and have also been engaged for a third Recital at the Royal York Hotel. Last April when they gave their second concert there they were given an ovation by the packed audience in the big Convention Hall and the music critics present acclaimed them as a splendid organization. A charming program has been arranged for tomorrow evening, when some new part songs will be sung for the first time. A beautiful arrangement of "Deep River," the sprightly English Folk song "Twenty Eighteen" and the Scotch Folk Song, "Rantin Rovin Robin" and others.

By special request Schubert's exquisite "The Lord is My Shepherd" and the Armenian Folk Song "By the Cradle" will be sung. Among the soloists will be the wonderful boy cellist, Bobby Spergel, a child of ten, who won the Gold Medal and scholarship in the string class last year at the C. N. E. This boy is a marvel and must be heard before one can fully realize his brilliant promise for the future.

Grete Schoni and Dorothy Sagar, both medallists of this year, one in the Colorature Soprano, the other in the Dramatic Soprano class will sing the test songs along with another number. All who have already heard these two brilliant young singers will desire to hear them again.

Orville Wainman, another ten year old soloist and medallist of this year, will also sing two numbers including his test songs. Captain J. S. Atkinson, director of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music will be at the concert and present the medals. Agnes Best of Toronto and Gwen Mary Donley will be at the piano. The MadrigalS ingers are real advertising agents for Peterborough and deserve the hearty support of the citizens. Full particulars will be found in the ad on the back page.

SIX LOSE LIVES OVER WEEK-END

Only Four Highway Fatalities Reported Despite Heavy Traffic.

TWO DROWNINGS.

TORONTO, Ont., September 15. — (C.P.) — A marked drop in the number of fatalities throughout the province occurred this week. Despite good motoring weather that lured thousands out on the King's Highways and other provincial roads only four traffic fatalities were reported. Two drownings brought the total list to six.

James Mulligen, 37, Merivale, was fatally hurt when struck by a car at Ottawa. He died shortly after in a hospital. The three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Forgette, of Penetanguishene, was killed when a heavy truck driven by the father, struck the child as the machine was being backed out of the farmyard. Homer Alarie, 25, died from injuries suffered in an automobile accident near the farm where he was employed at Windsor. William Sanders, aged 8, died in a Toronto hospital, after being struck by a car near Richmond Hill.

Albert Taverner, 11, Toronto, was drowned in Lake Ontario while seeking relief from the heat with thousands of other bathers at a popular beach. Mario Yallin, 14, of Port Corborne, was the other drowning victim. He was swimming in the Welland ship canal and is believed to have been drawn under a passing steamer by the suction from the propeller.

BONARLAW

Mr. Walter Jones and his mother returned to their home here after spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Whitehead in Toronto. Mr. Whitehead has been suffering from a broken jaw caused from two men attacking him when trying to break into his house.

Rev. Mr. Bunt called on Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Allan to-day.

The friends and neighbors in this vicinity will be sorry to hear of the death of Mrs Wm. Morton who died last evening at five thirty at her daughter's home in Keene.

NO MORE PILES

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cost you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony.

A PROBE JUSTIFIED.

The Globe, in referring to the charges made in Parliament against the Ontario Government's expenditures during the federal election, remarks that "if Premier Ferguson shows due regard for public confidence and is properly jealous of the political reputation of this Province he will demand an immediate judicial investigation."

As The Examiner said on Saturday, it is most certainly desirable that the allegations made at Ottawa should be probed, and it might perhaps be as well to have it done by a judicial tribunal at once without waiting for the public accounts committee of the Legislature to deal with it next spring.

The fact that somewhat similar charges made during the last session of the Legislature petered out when the affidavits on which the allegations were made were investigated does not do away with the necessity of getting at the truth or otherwise of what is now being charged.

With ten million dollars being handed out each year in a bulk vote for Northern Ontario development it is essential that the manner in which such money is spent should be able to stand a thorough examination.

The system is not sound under the best of conditions, and now that on the floor of the Federal Parliament specific charges of a misuse of this grant have been uttered the matter cannot be allowed to stop there.

MR. GOLDIE'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Hon. Lincoln Goldie from the post of Provincial Secretary removes from the Cabinet a Minister who has never been much in the public eye and whose strength has been shown in the administrative end of his duties rather than as a debater in the House or on the public platform.

Mr. Goldie entered politics late in life after repeatedly refusing earlier opportunities to do so, and when called to the Cabinet went about his duties in a business-like manner that was appreciated in the department and by those who came into contact with the Provincial Secretary and learned to appreciate the work he was doing.

The retiring Minister rarely spoke in the House, the battling there being left to other members of the Government, and his voice was seldom heard in public addresses.

Mr. Goldie's excellent service as administrator, however, has earned him public thanks, and it may be that his ability in that direction more than counter-balanced the more spectacular showing of some of the other members of the Cabinet whose names have been much more often before the public.

His retirement is regarded as only one step in a Cabinet re-organization that may see three or four changes in the Queen's Park departments, others to drop out, it is said, being Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Labor.

THE EXHIBITION AND THE MERCHANTS.

The Examiner has no desire to attempt to tell other people how to run their own business; the world is full of people willing to do that at any time.

And yet it does seem that local merchants should be able to utilize the week of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to better advantage than would seem to have been the case last week.

The fair brought thousands of people from all over the district to Peterborough; many of them it is true spent a good deal of money here, but more merely visited the Exhibition and went home again.

Would it not be good business in other years to make a special effort to interest the latter in what the stores of Peterborough have to offer?

Could not the idea of shopping in Peterborough be linked up with the Exhibition so that the visitors who pour into town during Exhibition week might to their own advantage and that of local merchants patronize the city stores to a greater extent?

Exhibition sales with emphasis placed on morning shopping so that those from out-of-town would find it worth while to come in early, and with the city's stores co-operating in the effort and advertising it effectively might solve the problem; at least it offers sufficient promise of success to justify the plan being given every consideration.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Favored by perfect weather throughout the entire week, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition triumphed over economic conditions, and despite the experience of other exhibitions, which have been recording decreasing patronage, attained an attendance record that must be a source of deep gratification to the directors.

Following last year's showing when bad weather cut materially into the box office returns, the Exhibition just closed has been a source of encouragement to the management, indicating as it unmistakably did the entire willingness of the people of the city and district to patronage a good fair at reasonable prices, and what is more, to patronize it two or three times instead of only once as has been the case in other years.

It is safe to say that at no previous Exhibition have there been as many "repeaters" pass through the turnstiles at the entrance gates and at the grandstand as there were last week, and since it is only in this way that the attendance record can be built up, the results must be regarded as most satisfactory.

We emphasis the attendance because exhibitions must have the sinews of war to carry on, and excellent as they may be in every department, they cannot prosper unless the revenue keeps pace with the expansion of the fair itself.

It is generally agreed that in many respects the 1930 Exhibition has attained a new standard of merit, and with the support of the public clearly attained, plans for next year can be launched with every hope of even greater success.

THE FARMER IS SELF-RELIANT.

The Beacon-Herald has received a clipping from a U.S. farm publication which claims to analyze the situation of many of the farmers in the territory to the south. The name of the paper we do not know, because the clipping has left that part out. In one part we read this: "Many of our farmers must learn to be more self-reliant; they will have to do their own planning to a greater extent." There was more of this same line of thought, but that section quoted above seems to be the central ideal.

This paper has always imagined that farmers were rather self-reliant. They have to be.

The farmer has to run his own business; he has to do his own financing; he has to do his own buying and attend to his selling; he has to arrange the crops he intends to plant; he has to attend to the repairs of his own machinery; he has to make all his own decisions. He is, in fact, a business institution himself.

He has to be more self-reliant than the man in the city. The average person who is an urban resident works for some other person. He goes to work at a certain time of day that is named for him. He finds that his work is pretty much laid out for him. On a certain day of the week he is given a certain amount of money as his wages. He does not have to worry about the banking of the business, because others attend to that. From the very nature of things he is apt to be possessed of much less initiative than the man on the farm.

The farmer who is going to keep going now must be a student of markets. He must know whether it is going to pay him to sell grain or feed it and produce beef, pork, etc. If he finds that he has to buy a quantity of grain for feed, he must buy just when the market is at its best for him. He must be constantly in touch with the outside world.

It would be difficult to imagine how a farmer could stay in business at all under present conditions if he did not possess a good sized share of self-reliance.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

SELLING THINGS.

There was a case in police court on Monday that attracted considerable attention. A drug store packed a number of sealed parcels and offered them for sale at 89c, and at the same time guaranteed that the contents would be worth at least $1.85. It was also made known that in some cases the value of the merchandise might be worth more than that amount.

The court held that this was not in keeping with the terms of the code which prevented the introduction of the "urge to buy," which was considered to be present in the case under review.

Merchants are busy all the time considering what they can do to put that "urge to buy" into their daily advertisements. Newspapers do it in their business; they seek to make their papers better so that people will keep on wanting them, and if cut off from the office of publication will feel that they must scamper away as quickly as possible and make certain that their favorite publication is once more a regular visitor.

Very few businesses can survive that adopt the attitude of complacence which reasons that if customers want certain things they will, in due season, sally forth and secure them.

Then, too, a good many of us have flirted with the element of chance in making purchases. We have been at garden parties where the ladies have asked us to guess the number of nice-looking beechnuts in a pint sealer, and the person guessing the nearest to the correct number was presented with a good old home-made quilt to keep the shanks warm in the cold months. Of course, just to show an interest in some good Christian object there was a fee of ten cents connected with the event, and also the handing out of a ticket which might or might not be worth something.

Then, too, we have bought tickets on loads of coal, on a rick of wood, on a radio, on a chesterfield, on an electric stove, and on an easy chair in which to rest the framework at the end of a long day's work. Never in any case have we ever had one of these articles delivered at the ancestral home, and for that reason we are inclined to believe that there is a very considerable element of chance in the manner in which we have disposed of a section of our insufficient income. Yet no officer of the law has ever moved across our path to inform us that we had done a thing that was contrary to the Criminal Code, the Ditches and Watercourses Act, the Weights and Measures Act, the Ontario Highways Act, the Liquor Control Act or the Dunning Budget.

* * * *

One day we attended an auction sale, and the gentleman in charge held on high a box over the side of which protruded what looked like the handle of a hammer or some similar instrument. We were informed that it contained several articles that would make home happier. Always have we been in favor of the happy home, so we bid against other native sons and carted the box away with the feeling that from now on things would be better. The hammer had one of its claws missing. In the box there were two electric light bulbs from which the life had departed; there was a screwdriver with no handle on it and a monkey wrench with the monkey section missing.

Once again it did appear as though the element of chance had run its course. There was no recompense. The buyer should have gone forward and searched diligently in the recesses of that box before singing out his bid against all those who were anxious to become owners of the merchandise.

Then, too, we have bought real estate, oil stocks, mining stocks, in which the element of uncertainty was the chiefest thing in the transaction. The "urge to buy" was also present, and it was supplied by smooth gentlemen who were able to recognize a sucker afar off.

And these things rather set us to wondering if the selling of parcels for 89 cents which had $1.85 worth of goods in them could be particularly painful or wicked after having passed through the hands of those who have sold us tickets which produced no reward and shares and certificates representing wells digged in dry ground.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition made a real comeback, for which both the directors and public deserve congratulations.

The Shamrock failed in its first test. The world will wish Sir Thomas Lipton better luck in the remaining contests.

And now the Exhibition directors start in to plan for next year's fair, assured of the good-will of the whole district.

If the proposed tariff changes take as long in passing the House as did the $20,000,000 grant, Premier Bennett will be missing when the roll is called at the Imperial Conference.

It is proposed to substitute the title, "magistrate's court," for the term, "police court." The scale of fines, it is understood, will not be altered by the change.

We are surprised to find that the Toronto Star has so far failed to point out that the only Liberal member from Torono promises to be quite a Factor in the House.

64 Years Old

Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, who, on Sept. 12, at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, was recipient of many congratulatory messages upon his 64th birthday.

What To-day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

If you have a grouch against the world and all its beings on this date, blame the astrological influences. Make decisions and meet clients during the p. m. hours of the day. A proposition revealed—consider it carefully and not in haste.

The child born on this September 15th will have a very active inquisitive mind, which will need proper feeding at a very early age. It will develop into a constructive thinker and worker, and will "take" to school work. It will need to be taught self-control for a hasty temper.

Your capacity for strong feelings, bitter suffering and true delight makes you a man or woman alive in a way that the cautious and unadventurous can never be. You run the gamut of your emotions, without being their slave. You know what it is to feel love and pity to have passionate loyalties, to deny neither tears nor laughter their place, to have enthusiasms in both likes and dislikes. It was a true saying of the Greeks that those whom the Gods love die young—not young in years, but young in spirit.

You could be called vain, if it is vain to always want to look your best. Your effort to make a good appearance repays you in many ways. It gives you self-respect, and invites the respect and admiration of a critical world. You are, however, neither a dandy, not a self-conscious conceited woman. You yourself greatly judge others by their external manners and dress.

You are a very painstaking, conscientious worker, and you never turn out a slovenly, half-finished job. You do not dawdle over things—you like to get through the things on hand, so as to take up something else, either work or play. You seldom let go of your temper, and settle your grievances after your tempest of anger has past. You are jealous as a lover, but not enough so to make you foolish. A Taurus person makes you a good companion.

GOODNESS.

This world, with its wonderful creations, its beauties, and mysteries may lead a child up to the father's throne, if his heart and mind are open to it. Fill the heart with goodness and there is no place for badness. Fill the soul with heaven, and there is no hell. And this delightful time will come when "God is all and in all."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

TEMPLE TOWER
BY "SAPPER"

"It was Joe Mellor that found him, sir—him that keeps the dairy farm along the road there. Found him quite by accident, he did: or rather, not him, but his dog. He was walking past Temple Tower, and his dog was in the wood opposite. Suddenly it began to bark and make a rare blather, and Joe went in to see what was happening. He found the dog standing by some bushes, and, when he looked closer, he saw a man's leg sticking out. The rest of the body was carefully covered, and Joe tells me that he'd never have seen it but for the dog. He gives a pull on the leg and hauls out the body. Well, gentlemen, in the course of my life I've run across some pretty queer customers, but I give you my word that the dead man is the queerest. He don't look like a man at all: he looks like a great ape. A terrible face he's got, and not improved by the manner of his death. He was strangled, and the face is all red and puffy.

"You've got no clue at all?" asked Hugh. "No idea who the man is?"

"None at present, sir," answered the Inspector. "But I shall soon. Bill Matchman, who works down on the Marsh, happened to be passing, and the instant he saw him he recognized him as a man who had been lodging at Spragge's place. Maybe you know the farm, sir?"

"Vaguely," said Hugh casually. "Somewhere down there, isn't it?"

He waved a comprehensive hand at the Marsh.

"That's right, sir. And Spragge himself is a queer customer. Well, I don't mind if I do, sir." He took the refilled glass from Hugh. "Hot work this morning."

"By the way," said Matthews speaking for the first time, "for how long had this man been dead?"

"The doctor said somewhere about twelve hours, sir," answered the Inspector.

"So it happened last night," cried Hugh, in affected surprise.

"That's right, sir; last night sometime around about ten o'clock this man was strangled and his body hidden in the wood by Temple Tower."

"You've got something in your mind, Inspector," said Hugh quietly.

"Well, sir, we're all of us entitled to our thoughts, and maybe I have mine. Ever see anything of Mr. Granger, sir?"

Hugh smiled slightly.

"So that's how it is, is it? I can't say I do, Inspector. I've met him out walking once or twice, that's all."

"A queer gentleman, sir: very queer. Who ever heard before of a man coming to live in a place like this and fortifying his house with all them steel spikes and things, to say nothing of the bars all over the windows?"

The worthy officer put down his glass and wiped his lips with the back of his hand.

"Well, gentlemen, I must be going. This affair is going to keep me busy."

"But surely you don't suspect that Mr. Granger had anything to do with it?" said Hugh.

"I don't suspect no one, sir," answered the other. "All I say is that Mr. Granger is a queer customer, and this is a queer affair."

"A most sapient conclusion," remarked Matthews with a faint smile as the gate shut behind the Inspector. "One wonders what the worthy man would think if he knew that a precisely similar corpse lay inside the fortifications."

"One also wonders," said Hugh quietly, "what steps our Mr. Granger is going to take over that similar corpse."

But any surmises on that point proved unnecessary, for at that moment who should appear at the gate but Miss Verney. Even at that distance one could see that she was in a state of great agitation, and she had left Temple Tower in such a hurry that she had come without a hat. And as she stood there for a moment the Inspector returned and joined her. Then they both came towards us.

"She's found Gaspard's body," said Matthews with quiet conviction. "Be very careful what all of you say."

And he proved to be right. It appeared that, going out after breakfast, the first thing that had struck her was that the dog's kennel was empty. And then, in the distance, she had seen the brute lying asleep as she thought. For a time she had watched it, ready to dart back to the house if it moved. But after a while it had struck her that from its attitude it couldn't be asleep: one hind leg was sticking straight up in the air, and she had approached it cautiously to find that it was dead.

"I was so amazed," she went on, "that for a moment or two I just stood there staring at it. There was no sign of blood, or of any wound, and so I guessed it must have been poisoned. But who by? I had heard it baying furiously in the middle of the night, and then it suddenly stopped and there wasn't another sound. Still trying to puzzle it out, I walked on into the undergrowth. And there I found"—she grew a little white at the recollection, and her voice trembled—"the body of the servant Gaspard. He looked too awful, with his face all red and terrible. And I simply lost my head and flew to the gate and came here."

"An extraordinarily wise proceeding, Miss Verney," said Hugh quietly.

"May I ask who this young lady is?" said the Inspector.

"Miss Verney was engaged to do secretarial work for Mr. Granger," answered Freckles. "And her engagement is now terminated," he concluded firmly.

"This is most extraordinary," said the Inspector, scratching his head with a pencil. "I must go back there at once. One inside and——"

"Quite so, Inspecter," interrupted Hugh with a warning sign. "But Miss Verney is a bit tired at the moment. I'll stroll with you to the gate. Come along, Peter. There is no good upsetting her any more," he went on as we got out of earshot, "by telling her about the other."

"What do you make of it, sir?" said the Inspector as we came to the road.

"Well, from what Miss Verney said," remarked Hugh, "it would appear as if the servant Gaspard had also been strangled. And if ithat is so, the strong presumption is that the same man did both murders, and poisoned the dog."

The Inspector nodded portentiously, and then lowered his voice impressively.

"What did I tell you, sir; what did I tell you? Mr. Granger is a queer customer."

"Queer customer he may be," answered Hugh. "But one thing is as certain as that gate in front of us. He has nothing to do with the two murders. With his physique, he could no more have strangled Gaspard than he could have strangled me.'

"I don't say he did it, sir," said the other, "but you mark my words, he could tell a lot about it if he chose to."

"I wouldn't be surprised if you're not right," said Hugh gravely. "Drop in on your way back and let us know if you find out anything."

For a while we stood leaning over the gate, watching his retreating back.

"What do you make of it, Peter?" said Hugh suddenly.

"It is one of the most extraordinary affairs I've ever heard of," I answered. "Even with Matthews' explanation it's amazing enough; without it, as the Inspector is, no wonder he is scratching his head. It's a mighty lucky thing that le Bossu missed him."

"Mighty lucky," he agreed, lighting a cigarette. "He strikes me as being an extra-ordinarily sound sort of bloke. Extraordinarily sound," he repeated, as we started to walk back to the house "In fact, I was proposing to ask him to come and stay here."

"Not at all a bad idea," I agreed. "Then we're all on the spot together."

We found him alone with John, the other two having disappeared somewhere and Hugh at once proposed it.

"That's very good of you, Captain Drummond," he said. "But, frankly speaking, I don't think there will be much staying."

"What do you mean?" said Hugh, looking puzzled.

"Simply that matters have come to a head," he answered. "I am as certain as I can be of anything that le Bossu never intended to be in Rye to-day. He murdered le Rossignol, and then got into the grounds by the ladder, believing that, once he was inside, Sir John's plan would enable him to find the secret entrance. It didn't. Then the dog came for him and disturbed the household. Then Gaspard came, and he murdered him, once again believing that he would be able to get into the house—this time by the front door. And what defeated him was your sudden appearance. I know I've said much the same before, but when one is dealing with a man of his calibre there's no harm in being clear in one's head. He didn't mind in the slightest if these two murders were discovered after he had settled things with the Toad: but now the discovery has been made before the settlement. And that is why I say matters have come to a head and there won't be much staying before the end comes. We are going to find things moving at breakneck speed, and the only comfort is that even le Bossu can't do anything by day. But I think you can dismiss the idea of sleep at night for the next day or two."

"That's not likely to worry us," said Hugh. "And I quite see your point. Still, the offer holds if you care to make this house your headquarters."

"Thank you again," answered Matthews. "I won't bother to move my kit here, but if I may drop in when I want t o I shall greatly appreciate it. And if I may stay now for a little lunch I should be most grateful."

"Of course, my dear fellow," cried Hugh. "And in view of our rather erratic time-table and hours at the moment, I'm rather in favour of a bit of food at once. It's twelve o'clock."

He shouted for Denny, who, accustomed as he was to Hugh's vagaries, betrayed no astonishment. And then, whilst we waited, we went on discussing from every angle what was likely to be the next move. With his previous knowledge of le Bossu, it was only natural that Victor Matthews should take the lead, but even he confessed himself beaten. How was the silent strangler to rectify his mistake?

"Le Bossu knows," he said, "as every other criminal knows, that the English police, once they get their teeth into a thing, never let it go. They may chew slowly, but they chew surely. And he must know that the discovery of these two murders is going to make the police swarm round Temple Tower, which is the last place he wants them at. So what is he going to do? Because he'll do something: of that you can rest assured."

And it is safe to say that not one of us there, in our wildest dreams, would have guessed what le Bossu did do that very afternoon—so staggering was it in its simplicity, so incredible in its ferocity. But of that in its proper place.

Lunch was over, and the first problem to be settled was what the girl was to do. She, on hearing the whole story, was as keen as mustard on helping, but Freckles—in fact, all of us—were absolutely opposed to her returning to Temple Tower She already knew, at any rate, one of the secred hiding-places of the stolen jewels, and though she offered to go back, we vetoed it unanimously. And, finally, it was decided that she should stop at Hugh's house for the present at any rate, with Freckles as her guard, an arrangement which seemed to satisfy everybody concerned. John had decided to motor back to Laidley Towers, returning again in the evening, and as soon as he heard that, Victor Matthews asked for a lift to Rye. He was of the opinion that developments might take place there in connection with the two murders, and he had decided, if necessary, to tell the police something, if not all, of what he had told us that morning. Later, John might pick him up on his way back.

"What are you going to do, Hugh?" I said.

"I dunno, old lad," he answered. "Don't you worry about me."

And sure enough he disappeared soon after lunch and I was left to my own resources.

At first I tried to sleep, but I soon gave up the attempt. Sleep simply would not come, and after a while I decided to go for a walk. I gathered from Denny that there was a short cut over the fields which led to Rye, and with the idea of possibly getting a lift back in John's car I struck out along it. There was always a chance, I thought, of finding out something, and if not, Rye was a town well worth exploring.

It was a drowsily warm afternoon, and I walked slowly, my thoughts full of Matthew's astounding story. It seemed wellnigh unbelievable that this amazing crime of a generation ago should have its denouement in such a peaceful English setting. Who was he—this sinister being—who had baffled the whole French police force? Had we seen him in the Dolphin the night before? Was he the clergyman, as Hugh had half suggested?

Futile surmises: if Matthews didn't know it was hardly likely that I should. But the problem haunted me: I couldn't get it out of my thoughts. And suddenly I arrived at a decision. I would stroll round Rye, and then go to the Dolphin for tea. With luck I might find the little room empty, in which case I would investigate the fireplace, and see if there was anything in Hugh's theory. It could do no harm, and it gave me an object for the afternoon. Possibly even, I might solve the problem of the identity of le Bossu himself.

A neighbouring clock struck three, and shortly after I reached the outskirts of the town. I strolled aimlessly round, looking into old curiosity shops for about half an hour: then, striking up the hill, I made for the Dolphin. Once I thought I saw Victor Matthews in the distance, but I wasn't sure, and I wondered how his line of inquiries was progressing.

The hall was deserted when I entered: so, fortunately, was the little room. And I made a dive at once for the fireplace. It was, as I have already said, an enormous affair, in which it was easy to stand with one's head and shoulders up the flue. I peered upwards, but could see nothing. Evidently there was a jink in the chimney which stopped the light. At any rate there was only blackness to be seen.

"Do you require tea, sir?"

I emerged hurriedly, to find a waiter staring at me.

"Please," I said, feeling remarkably foolish. "A wonderful fireplace, this."

"Yes, sir. It is very famous."

He stalked from the room, leaving me with the uncomfortable feeling that he regarded me with grave suspicion. Admittedly the beauties of the fireplace were best seen from the outside: at the same time I failed to see any reason why I shouldn't stand inside it if I wished to. However, having satisfied himself on his return that the fireplace was still there, he thawed somewhat under the influence of a substantial tip.

"Hotel pretty full?" I said casually.

"Yes, sir. They comes and goes," he answered. "Week-ends we're always full up, but we've got some rooms now if you want one."

His interest awned when he found I didn't, and after a while he drifted away to some new arrivals in the hall. They were obviously American tourists motoring through, and therefore could be given a clean bill of health as far as I was concerned. Presumably, also, the waiter might be excluded, though his case was not quite so certain. I had already made up my mind that the most unlikely person would prove to be the man we wanted, and that even women must not be ruled out. After all, men had masqueraded in female clothes before now.

Other people came drifting in, and I eyed them all like a lynx. And then, after a while, the absurdity of the proceeding struck me: how could I possibly know? It was more than likely that le Bossu had already left the hotel, even assuming he had ever been there.

NEW YORK MART GOES INTO SLUMP

Shorts Hammer Vigorously at Utility, Steel and Merchandising Shares.

AUTO STROP UP 5.

NEW YORK, September 15. (C.P.)—The bears took another fling at the stock market to-day, but ran into the same obstacle their professional opponents have encountered—dullness.

Failure of the Saturday rally to do much more than eliminate that days early declines, leaving the market lower on the week, encouraged renewed operations by the shorts, who hammered with vigor at the utility, steel and merchandising shares. Result of the German elections, reflected in selling on the Berlin Bourse may also have contributed to the weakening of speculative sentiments.

Heaviness at the opening was followed by indications of a rally as week end selling orders were disposed of, but the list soon resumed its downward course. Shares losing 3 points or more included R. H. Macey, Safeway Stores, American Telephone, American Can, American Power and Light, Foster Wheeler, Gulf States Steel and Lackawanna. U. S. Steel Crucible Steel, International Harvester, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Loew's and American Tobacco New slumped about two points. Case and Allied Chemical lost half a dozen points, and Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric and Eastman Kodak dropped four. American Water Works, which rallied briskly on Saturday, rose another point but yielded its advance. Auto-Strop moved up 5 points.

AUTO THIEVES REMANDED

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 15.—Pleading guilty to theft of a motor car, Harold Emerson and Douglas Wicksett, wanted at Thamesford for assaulting a garage man and at Sarnia for auto theft, were remanded until tomorrow for sentence in police court.

PROBING ACCOUNTS.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Sept. 15.— (C.P.)— It has become known that a committee of four has for some time been investigating alleged discrepancies in the accounts of the aged people's home at Brampton.

One of the charges being probed, it is understood, is that the $2 per month which is allowed each of the sixty inmates of the home receiving an old age pension has been withheld from them, while other allegations arise from the handling of the payroll.

THIEVES ROB WAREHOUSE.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 15.—(C.P.).—Robbers early this morning broke into the British American Oil Company's warehouse and blew the office safe with nitro-glycerine and escaped with $100 in cash and cheques amounting to $218.

Windows in a wide area about the warehouse were shattered by the force of the blast. A bottle containing some nitro-glycerine was left behind by the thieves.

PREMIER TO SAIL SEPTEMBER 23

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 15 (C.P.).—Tentative arrangements have been made by Premier R. B. Bennett to sail from Quebec on September 23 for the Imperial Conference to open in London on September 29. In the event of the session being prolonged, which is not expected, an alteration in these plans may be made. Premier Bennett contemplates sailing on the Empress of Australia.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Shareholders of Blue Ribbon Corporation, Ltd., will gather in Toronto late this afternoon for the first annual meeting of the holding company and will have presented to them a consolidated financial statement for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930. Blue Ribbon Corporation is a holding company formed this year to acquire the outstanding share capital of Blue Ribbon, Limited, and Pure Gold Manufacturing Company and the statement to be presented at to-day's meeting will represent a consolidation of the figures of the two component companies. Economies of operation have been effected by the holding concern along the lines anticipated at the time of amalgamation and it is said the financial statement for the fiscal period to June 30, 1930, will compare quite favorably with the combined earnings of the two operating concerns in the preceding fiscal year.

Accompanying dividend cheques of the McColl Frontenac Oil company, is a brief note for President J. Irwin in which it is stated sales of the companies products continue to show increase in volume and that new names are being constantly added to list of users of the various products. Mr. Irwin says he is sure a part of the increase is due to the activities of shareholders in not only signing McColl Products but also in promoting sales among friends.

Dividend Reduction.

A reduction in the dividend for the current quarter from 25 to 12½ cents a share is made by pressed Metals of America, Inc. From the drop in motor car production it was obvious that Pressed Metals could not earn much money at the moment and this led to the belief in some quarters that the dividend payment might be passed altogether, however, the company is fairly well fortified with reserves and the board felt justified in making payment of 12½ cents in view of the improvement that has taken place in business in more recent months and the outlook for sales for the new lines developed. The business of Pressed Metals was at its lowest ebb in July, last with August showing improvement over July and September to-date showing further improvement over the preceding month of August.

For the first time this year, cumulative sales of Dominion stores for 1930, have fallen below the total for the corresponding months of 1929. Reduction in Commodity, prices has been noted in a slight falling off in the dollar volume of sales of Dominion Stores in late months, but the increase in the early months of 1930 was sufficient to take up the decrease until August was reached. Sales for the five week period ending August 30, 1930, are officially reported at $2,147,776, compared with $2,271,869 for a similar period of 1929, a drop of $134,093 or 6.8 per cent. Total sales from January to August 30, amount to $16,225,266 contrasted with $16,266,554 for the corresponding period of 1929, a decrease of $41,288 or 2½ per cent. To July 26, 1930, sales were up by $112,803 but the drop of $154,093 in August more than wiped out this advantage.

STOCK IS FEATURE ISSUE IN TO-DAY'S STANDARD TRADING

Company Holds Strong Interest in Oklahoma and Western Ontario Fields.

ADVANCES ABOVE 30.

TORONTO, Sept. 15 (Special to The Examiner)—Acme Gas and Oil was the feature of the mining market from the opening to-day, the activity of the latter part of last week being continued. Some difficulty was experienced in moving the price above 30 on Saturday, but within a few minutes of the opening to-day the stock was being sold several cents above that quotation. While the company holds a substantial interest in a well now drilling in the Oklahoma field and also retains considerable acreage in western Ontario fields, it has been suggested on several occasions that a strong pool is operating in the stock. Previous price action appears to bear out this fact.

Dome Dividend.

Dome Mines has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share payable October 20 to shareholders of record September 30. Mill construction at the property is understood to be nearing completion and the new plant should be operating by the end of October, at the latest. Unofficial reports indicate new finds of importance on the property.

According to a recent visitor to the Sudbury district, Treadwell, Yukon has cut expenses to the bone, the crew having been reduced to about 100 men. The drive on the 1,500 level from No. 2 shaft has advanced over 800 feet and within the next month it is expected ore will be cut that will determine the fate of the property. The management announced some time ago that if developments on the lower level equalled those on the 500 horizon, equipment of the property for large production would be proceeded with.

Murray Mine Drilling.

International Nickel, in carrying out the recently announced program of explanation in some of the outside properties in the district, is understood to have already started diamond drilling the Murray mine, situated about two miles from the Frood. This property has 13,000,000 tons of 3.5 per cent. ore developed to 1,000 feet with better values indicated at depth. Present drilling will probe the orebody to deeper horizons. Results of this work will be important for, if they show good ore on the lower levels, say 3,000 feet, the property could be developed from the Frood and Stobie mines.

The plant of Ontario Refining Co. at Copper Cliff is receiving regular shipments of blister copper from Granby Consolidated and will with the turn of the year probably have additional metal from Sherritt Gordon for treatment.

With the huge copper production indicated for the Frood to take care of there seems every basis for the rumor plans are being considered to double the present capacity from 20,000,000 pounds per month to 40,000,000 pounds. This will likely take place during the next two or three years.

ACME ADVANCES ABOVE 30 MARK

Oil Group and Some of the Golds Display Strength on the Standard.

BRAZILIAN LOWER.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15 (C.P.)—Acme Gas and Oil continued the feature of the mining market during a rather dull opening session to-day. The oil group, as a whole and the some of the golds displayed strength, but turnover was light and movements confined.

Though some difficulty was experienced Saturday in raising above 30, Acme Gas was bid up rapidly on the opening to-day. Standing at noon with a gain of seven for the period at 37. The company retains a substantial interest in a well drilling in the Oaklahoma field as well as holdings in Western Ontario, but it has been suggested on several occasions that a pool is operating in the stock.

Western oils have been displaying strength in Calgary and Vancouver for the last few days and were strong here to-day. Calmont sold 18 above the last sale at 85, Home Oil was up 15 to $3.55, Dalhousie 12 to 80 and Mayland a few points to 78. Nordon and Ajax Oil moved slightly easier.

International Nickel and Noranda were both fractionally lower, and Waite-Ackerman and Abana showed small losses. Base Metals gained 13 to $2.45, Ventures 6 to 91 and Amulet and Hudson Bay a few cents each.

Declaration of the Dome dividend payable October 20 to shareholders of record September 30, caused firmness in that stock, and the higher-priced group, generally, including Teck Hughes and Lake Shore, was strong. Howey was weak, dropping to 36, and Vipond and Wright-Hargreaves were off 3 each.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 15.—George H. Box, secretary treasurer of the grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engine Men of the C. N. R. pleaded guilty in city police court today to two charges against him, one of obtaining $2,000 from a local bank by forgery and the other of converting $9,000 of the committees money into his own use.

He was remanded for sentence by Magistrate J. A. Makins. Box was arrested some weeks ago following an investigation of the books of the grievance committee.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Wheat was firm and steady during the first part of the day when prices were unchanged to 3-8 higher, but the demand, which was largely local, was quickly filled up, and later there was increased selling, part of which was credited to the pool and prices declined easily, making new low records. Export business was very small, being confined to a few scattered loads, and there was really no support in the market after the first evening up movement had been concluded. Trade volume on the whole was small, no outside interest being shown. Liverpool was only steady, closed unchanged to 3-8 higher after being very weak the past two or three days. There was a little hedging pressure and possibly some forced liquidation, but the absorption was poor as compared with Friday. The cash market was very quiet, a little demand for top grades from shippers with offerings light, and spreads about unchanged. Winnipeg futures closed 1 1-4 to 1 1-8 lower, the lowest in about two decades.

Coarse Grains.—These markets were all extremely weak, oats and barley making new low records. Scattered liquidation was going on tired holders while demand was extremely light, while the cash demand was about nil. Oats closed 1 to 1 3-8 lower, barley 2 3-8 to 2 1-2 lower, rye 7-8 to 1 1-2 lower.

Flax.—This market was fairly steady with very little going on. Closing prices were 1 cent to 1-2 lower.

Liverpool due 1 1-8 lower on Winnipeg.

STOCKS LOWER TORONTO CURB

Late Rally Saturday Does Little to Stimulate Trading To-day.

OILS EASIER.

TORONTO, Sept. 15 (CP).—The late rally on Saturday did little to stimulate an upward movement on the Toronto Stock Exchange during the course of the morning session to-day. Prices for the most sold fractionally below the last close, with a few exceptions.

Bakeries was a feature, selling at a new high on the current movement to turnover at 15¾, a gain of ¼. Ford of Canada was up a ¼ to 29 and Bell Telephone and C.P.R. in the high priced section had small advances.

The oils were all easier; Imperial went at 22½ for a loss of a ½; International Pete dropped ¼ to 18¼, Supertest A ¼ and Canadian Oil A ½ to sell at 18½ and 25 respectively. British American was unchanged at 18¼.

International Nickel eased a small fraction to 25¼. Noranda, its team mate, followed suit and fell off 35 cents to 23.25, Lake Shore was unchanged at 23.25.

Brazilian was down ½ to 35; Laura Secord Lost a full point to 39; City Dairy Œ to 67⅜. East Steel proved indifferent to the general run of things and gained 2 points on the day to go at 31. Canada Brewing was well up at 8⅜.

On the curb, Service Stations and Montreal Power both lost a ½ point to sell at 43 and 64½ respectively.

COSTE AND BELLONTE START GOOD WILL TOUR

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte took off from Curtis Field at 11.06 a.m. (E.S.T.) in their trans-atlantic plane Question Mark, on the first leg of their good will flight around the country. Hartford, Conn., was their first objective. Following this tour, which should end in about two weeks, the fliers will visit three Canadian cities, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

HASTINGS MAN BREAKS LEG IN FALL FROM PLATFORM

John English, R.R. 3, Hastings, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday last, suffering from a fractured shoulder and hip, as a result of falling from a milk-loading platform. Mr. English was lifting the lid from a cream can, and it came off unexpectedly and precipitated the unfortunate man on to the roadway.

D. Belleghem and Sons' ambulance was summoned, and conveyed the man to hospital.

BOOTLEGGER FACES TWO CHARGES.

ST. CATHARINES, September 15.—Paul Comet, Thorold South, alleged bootlegger, who was shot when he attempted to escape from the Provincial Police at Oshawa, a week ago, will face two charges when he has recovered from his wounds, according to Chief of Police Harold of Thorold South. He will be charged with a breach of the L. C. A., and also under the customs act. Comet is at present in Oshawa hospital under police guard and is making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

CAR THIEF GETS YEAR.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 15.—(C.P.).—Frank Tytel, Rose Avenue, was given a year in jail to-day. He pleaded guilty to the theft of a motor car, which he left in Guelph, where he stole a car owned by a Churchill resident. The car had been stolen from a parking place near the Canadian National Exhibition.

AUSTRALIAN UNIONS ACT TO PREVENT WAGE CUT

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 15.—(C.P.)—The Council of the Australian Trade Unions is determined that the current unemployment in the country and its unfortunate financial position shall not result in the lowering of Labor's wages. The Council has empowered its emergency committee to call a general conference of the unions to bring pressure to bear on the Federal or any of the State Governments should they show signs of contemplating reductions.

Bond Progress Slow But Position Strong

Money Still Cheap—Prospects For Bright Future Seen.

(By J. H. Turnpenny)

TORONTO, Sept. 15. (Special to The Examiner, Copyright 1930)—Although further progress was not registered by high grade bonds the past week, the market continues to be strong. Commodity prices declined in August to a level not equalled since 1916 and marked the eighth consecutive monthly lowering of the index. Money continues cheap and with these conditions prefailing and no immediate change in either money in sight and the possibility that, while commodities may have reached the nadir of the cyclical, any improvement will be slow, the prospects for firming prices in bonds are bright.

The Dominion of Canada issues, provincials and Dominion guaranteed C.N.R.'s closed this week practically unchanged. There is a good demand for blocks of the long term securities but it is a demand at prevailing levels. Utilities strengthened during the week, easing fractionally the last couple of days. Foreigns were jumpy. South American issues soft in a narrow market. Industrials haven't started to move yet. Action in this section is expected once business shows definite signs of improving.

There were no new flotations of large amounts but heavy financing is expected next week. The Dominion Power and Transmission is selling $12,500,000 of 4¾ per cent. 40-year and $2,650,000 of 5 per cent. 5-year bonds of the Ontario Hydro. Montreal Metropolitan Commission is asking for tenders on $1,350,000 of 4½ per cent. 32-year bonds, and the City of Regina will sell $813,000 of 5 per cent. ten to 30-year bonds. In addition there are reports of additional financing by the C.N.R., but this may not come for a while yet.

August bond sales were well in excess of those for July and far above those for August last year. Sales for the first eight months are estimated at $455,726,910 against $386,208,148 for the like period in 1929 and $302,573,151 for the first eight months of 1928.

INITIAL MEETING

Mrs. Tisdale, Lifford Line, is Hostess to Members of Society.

LIFFORD LINE, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence) — The initial meeting of the Fleetwood branch of the Women's Association was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Tisdale, Lifford Line, on Wednesday last.

The large attendance of twenty-three members was a most gratifying beginning and augurs well for the success of the newly formed church auxiliary. The meeting opened by a sacred selection on the phonograph followed by receiving the membership fees for the year.

Autograph Quilt

The autograph quilt for which each member has been securing names was a matter of lengthy discussion, each lady submitting the numbers of names received with total amount of proceeds.

Mrs. Victor Grandy was congratulated for collecting the large number of one hundred and eighty one names with a value of over fifty dollars. The total number of names received was seven hundred and forty-six with a value of one hundred and forty dollars which exceeded the objective set by the ladies. A committee of four ladies, Mrs. T. Shea, Mrs. Lloyd Staples, Mrs. Clare Staples and Mrs. Chas. Staples were appointed to assume further responsibility for the quilt which is to be quilted at the October meeting and sold at the annual fowl supper to be held at Fleetwood church on October 27th.

It was decided that some new dishes and cutlery needed to be added to the church kitchen supplies previous to the supper. A committee consisting of Mrs. Shea, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Grandy and Mrs. Archie Staples were appointed to place these supplies as soon as possible. Mrs. Leslie was appointed to interview a carpenter to build a new cupboard for the reception of the new property.

Mrs. T. E. Shea offered her home for the next meeting to be held the first Wednesday of October. Each member is to answer the roll call with a scripture verse. Two members were appointed to assist Mrs. Shea as hostess.

The collection of two dollars and fifty cents was taken by the treasurer, Mrs. Clare Staples and it was decided to open a bank account in Bethany for the Association. "Sing them over again to me," was the closing hymn, followed by the benediction.

A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess and assistants and a social half hour concluded a pleasant and profitable afternoon.

Hippopotamus meat will be served in London.

ANGLICANS NEED YOUNG PRIMATE

Archdeacon Fotheringham Would Have Election Open to Any Member of Clergy.

MAY BE DELAYED YEAR.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 15 (C.P.).—"I want a Primate of 45 years of age and have the election thrown open to any member of the clergy by popular vote of the General Synod." Ven. Archdeacon O. B. Fotheringham of Brantford, Ont., observed to-day, discussing the question of electing a new Primate for the Church of England in Canada, in succession to Archbishop S. P. Matheson of Rupert's Land. The resignation of the aged prelate from that high post is to be considered by the House of Bishops, meeting here next Saturday. Incidentally, Archdeacon Fotheringham, who is a member of a special committee named to report on a new method for the election of the Primate, said selection of a new Primate will likely be delayed until the meeting of the General Synod of the Church next year.

"I don't see how the House of Bishops could proceed to elect a successor to Archbishop Matheson at this time after the committee on a new method of election for the Primacy has done so much work," he averred. "What the Church of England in Canada needs in these times is an aggressive young Primate."

GUELPH BARN BURNS

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 15.—Fire totally destroyed a fine barn, twenty head of aberdeen Angus prize cattle, and thirty head of hogs on the farm of Peter Thompson, Erin Township, late last night. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

PILGRIMS VISIT

neath the altar of the Sacred Heart, rests the complicated brace which encircled the leg of a youthful sufferer from infantile paralysis, Donald Benenger, aged 16, of Toronto, who left his useless brace behind him when he received cure at the Shrine on a recent visit.

A stretcher which had held the frome of Mark Deimert of Mildmay for four years, after he was crippled by the concussion of a puck, and had developed serious eruptions and tuberculosis, is abandoned on one of the galleries at the Shrine, after its owner was cured, and needed it no longer. And there are numerous crutches under the same Sacred Heart altar, no longer needed by their healed owners.

A child with eczema was completely cured about a week ago, and its father returned yesterday to the Shrine in thanksgiving for the favor.

The big church on the hill held a capacity crowd of nearly twelve hundred people yesterday, as the train total was augmented, as in other years, by pilgrims in automobiles. The overflow was accommodated on the hillside, where Mass was said at the Calvary station by the Rev. Bouvrette, S. J., and the sermon was preached by the Rev. T. J. Lally.

In the church, Pontifical High Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by the Rev. J. J. O'Brien, as first assistant Deacon, the Rev. V. Corkery second assistant Deacon, the Rev. P. Costello, assistant Priest, the Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore Deacon of the Mass, the Rev. J. T. Finn sub-Deacon of the Mass. First and second Masters of Ceremonies were Earl Grant and Charles Kay, while Frank Grant acted as Thurifer. Present in the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay, the Rev. Perdue of St. Michael's College, Toronto, the Rev. Father Flynn of Londdn, the Rev. Harrigan and the Rev. Downer of Pembroke. Other priests who were at the Shrine yesterday included the Rev. James Guiry of Port Hope, the Rev .Dr. Masterson of Peterborough, and the Rev. C. Begley of Parry Sound.

Grey Stone Church.

The handsome church, its Flemish-Gothic structure fashioned of grey Longford stone from Orillia, stands on the eminence of a steep hill, approached by a winding path and wooden steps. On the slopes which rise with it, where sand and dust greeted the pilgrims only a few years ago, Nature and the hand of man have effected a kindly transformation. There are flowers growing from rock crevices, little pine trees with fragrant needles, greyish-green lichen and mosses and friendly small shrubs. Here, and in the beds placed around the church and through the little grey stones at Our Lady's Grotto, are petunias in blue and pink, phlox and marigolds and everlastings. The Indian paint brush has an appropriate place in these gardens where the Indian converts helped the missionaries so long ago and where Indian savages hindered them, and there are, too, many little bushes of cool-looking snowballs.

These white snowballs were in tiny tubs at either side of the high altar, resplendent with gladioli and asters yesterday, for the High Mass. From the groined roof far above, from the colored panel windows in the apse, from two beautiful rose windows in transept, crept bars of golden light that lay glistening on polished wooden walls of the church, panelled to represent the birch-bark interiors of long ago. Flickering candles on the altar, gleaming golden vestments and myriads of twinkling little gem-like votive lights filled the interior with lovely color.

Beneath the two side altars in the church are mortuary statues of the two senior saints of the Jesuit eight who suffered martyrdom here. Beneath the altar of the Blessed Virgin appears the waxen form of St. Jean de Brobeuf and beneath the altar of the Sacred Heart that of St. Gabriel Lalement.

A portion of the decoration that catches the eye is the plaqus done in relief in colored plaster. It is placed in one of the transepts and depicts the martyrdom of St. Gabriel Lalement, whose neck was encircled with blazing axe-heads as he stood tied to the stake, while ferocious savages danced about him.

Choir Renders Music.

The choir of St. Peter's Cathelral, led by J. Minicolo and with Miss Hurley at the organ, rendered very finely M. E. Downey's Mass of the Blessed Sacrament, at the High Mass yesterday.

Greetings from the Order to the pilgrims were voiced by the Rev. W. X. Bryan, S.J., who is a Professor of Physics at the new Seminary in Toronto, formerly Loretto Abbey.

Father Bryan announced that next Sunday will see the final pilrimage of the year, from Toronto diocese, but that the Shrine will remain open until September 26th, which is the Feast of the Canadian Martyrs and that a novena in preparation for the Feast will commence in the old Loretto Abbey Chapel in Toronto on September 17th. This chapel has been declared a public chapel by Archbishop McNeill, and will be used as the winter Shrine of the Marters.

The reverend speaker went on to outline the meaning of the word "martyr" which, in the early history of the Church, meant a witness to Christ, but later came to mean one who gave his blood for Christ. This blood was not to be shed alone for love of Christ, but must be taken by those who did so in hatred of Christ or of Christian virtue. It was of some difficulty at first to fully establish the fact that the savage Iroquois martyred the Jesuit missionaries through hatred of Christ and Christian virtue, but this was later established beyond doubt.

The Holy Father, said Father Bryan, had recommended three things in connection with the Martyrs: First, that the faithful should feel a great admiration for them; second, that they should have confidence in them, ("for", said the reverend speaker, "love of country is something that may be taken into heaven and there spiritualized and supernaturalized, there these saints will listen with interest to pleas from those of their own land") and third, we should imitate them in their devotion to Christ.

Many Pilgrimages

At the Shrine this year, there have been many large pilgrimages, including those from Montreal, Toronto, North Bay, Hamilton, Windsor, Ottawa and Pembroke. The pilgrimage from Peterborough is an annual large event. Yesterday, young and old united in prayer for the sick in the church, at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, where they knelt silently praying in the hot sun and at the Stations that creep up the steep hillside. At the holy water font near the church, a young man asked for the prayers of the faithful. He said he had been cured of infantile paralysis and heart trouble at the Shrine, and now he wants to dedicate the remainder of his life in service as a Christian Brother. One of the first to come forward and shake hands with the elderly man whose sight came back to him yesterday was a man who said his own rheumatic trouble had been cured some time ago at the Shrine.

So the halt, the blind and the lame came to the Shrine yesterday and their friends and well-wishers came with them. They prayed through mass, through Benediction and Veneration of the holy relics in the church and through the Stations of the Cross which took place on the hillside in the early afternoon, and they came home in the cool of the evening with a worthy day's pilgrimage behind them.

The eight martyrs who were canonized this year were of French origin. Six were priests: Jean de Brebouef, Gabriel Lalement, Anthony Donile, Charles Garnier, Noel Chanabel and Isaac Joques, and two were adjutants: Rene Goupil and Jean de la Lande.

According to a quaint report of those times the hardship from which they suffered were cold, heat, smoke and dogs. In the bark huts they built a fire in the centre around which crouched men, women and dogs. When the smoke became too acrid, they would lie with their mouths on the ground and breathe through the cold earth to avoid suffocation. It was a life like this that the French gentlemen faced, and yet when Father Joques was rescued by Dutch traders from the tortures of Iroquois savages, he begged permission to return and did so, to fall a victim to a treacherous Indian's axe. His five companions all were tortured and killed by savage Indians.

While these martyrs have the distinction of being the first North American saints, the distinction of being the first canonized saint of the new world goes to St. Rose of Lima, a woman of Peru in South America, whose name was placed on the list of saints of the Church Militant in 1671.

How to make 97 delicious Jams and Jellies!

Here is Your Recipe Booklet Under the Label of Every Certo Bottle

WITH Certo, anyone, even the most inexperienced, can make perfect jams and jellies every time—with only a few minutes' boiling. Famous cooking experts recommend this Certo "short-boil" method. Home Economics Departments of universities and colleges teach it. Always use the Certo Recipe Booklet. You'll find it under the label of every bottle of Certo. It gives 97 recipes for delicious, perfect jams and jellies, including many kinds you have never made before. Follow directions carefully. You'll be sure of success.

CERTO

—The natural jellying substance extracted from fruit.

—Jells the juice that would have boiled away by the old (long-boil) method.

—Makes 50% more jam or jelly at less cost per jar.

—Saves ⅔ the time. Saves the fruit flavour. Saves the fruit colour.

TO-DAY'S RACE IS DOUBTFUL

Thouasnds of Yachtsmen Crowd Little Town of Newport on Second Day.

SKY IS OVERVCAST.

(By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Writer)

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept 15.—Three hours before Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock and Harold S. Vanderbilt's Enterprise were scheduled to go into their second tilt for the America's cup the wind blew gently out of the southwest, the sky was overcast and a thick mist was upon the sea.

Commodore Ernest Bell, of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Club, who is here for the races, refused to express an opinion.

On Saturday the Enterprise showed itself to be a faster boat than the Shamrock in light air, but no one, not even the solemn experts, know what will happen today.

Last night the fleet lay in the narrow harbor. There were perhaps four hundred sail, sloops, yawls, schooners, barquentines and the like besides power boats, gas and steam, outboard and turbine. These vessels rode under a clear sky with Venus, star of the evening, sailing in the west. From the anchored fleet preceded the strains of radio and mechanical music. A typical note was "the devil was in your heart and heaven was in your eyes, the night you told me those little white lies."

Thousand little white lies were going the rounds of the town of Newport, filled to the overflow with yachtsmen, sailors, newspapermen and casual spectators. They were not really white lies because the people who told them believed them.

The actual fact was that Saturday's race between Shamrock and Enterprise was inconclusive, meant nothing. Maybe the Shamrock will beat the Enterprise. No one can judge from Saturday's race what she might do in a head sea or a stiff breeze.

The result of the series is as doubtful as it was in the beginning.

FIVE BARNS ARE GUTTED BY FIRE

Two Head Cattle Lost

A barn and it's entire contents valued at $6,000, on the farm of Geo. Shield and Son, Smith township was totally destroyed when struck by a flash of lightning at about 2:10 on Sunday morning, just when the storm was at the height of it's fury. The damage is partly covered by insurance.

Two head of cattle were burned, including a pure bred Holstein bull, valued at $500; the entire seasons crop was lost, consisting of a quantity of hay and alsike, 20 loads of unthreshed grain and over 1,000 bushels of threshed grain. A straw cutter, fanning mill and other implements were also destroyed.

Fortunately the horses and most of the cattle were out in the pasture, otherwise the loss may possibly have been more extensive.

Mr. Shields said he was in bed when the storm broke. His boys and the hired man had not long arrived back from town, when they heard a terrific crash. Peter Stewart, the hired man looking out of the window saw the barn burst into flames. The fire got such a rapid hold that it was useless to do anything—"we just had to let it go". Up to a late hour on Sunday afternoon, the ruins of the barn were still smouldering.

LaVergne McKinley of Lifford Line, whose barns were completely destroyed, assesses his loss at $4000. He lost 95 loads of grain, seeder, sleigh, wagons and other implements.

Implements and the seasons crop including 1500 bushels of grain, and 26 loads of hay, were also lost by Garnet McMahon of Omemee. In both the above instances the loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Brantford experienced its first real rainstorm since St. Swithens Day. All outdoor activities ceased as the rain descended in torrents. The moisture came too late for the corn crop but will greatly benefit root crops and buckwheat.

While farmers gazed anxiously skyward in the Niagara district, the rain threatened several times, but the storm clouds finally drifted away, leaving streams dried up and pasture lands scorched. The situation is serious in that section of the country, as already the majority of the farmers are feeding their livestock winter food and are driving their stock long distances for water. Outside of peaches all varieties of fruit have been affected by the dry weather.

The lightning caused heavy damage in the vicinity of Owen Sound; in the village of Chatsworth the Galbraith Hotel was destroyed, causing an estimated loss of $9000. A house and two barns were also razed to the ground. A deluge of rain that followthe lightning saved other buildings that were threatened by fire.

MADOC, Sept. 15.—Friday night's Jitney Tournament on the Greens of the Madoc Lawn Bowling Club was much enjoyed by the members. The winners for the evening were Rev. G. W. Rivers, Mrs. T. L. Nickle, and Mr. W. E. Connor, with Mr. H. Bailey as a runner-up.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. — Drifting aimlessly like a rudderless ship, wheat prices floated a little farther downstream yesterday to the lowest prices of the week, year and for almost two decades. Most of the day was spent in eddies, nervously swishing upward and the falling back within a range of 1c a bushel.

Unexpected weakness just before the close at Winnipeg where a deluge of selling poured into the market in anticipation of an extraordinarily heavy run on Monday, finally shoved wheat here into the current and prices quickly broke to the extreme low for the season.

DAIRY BOARDS.

IROQUOIS, Sept. 15. — At the Cheese Board meeting here Saturday, 312 boxes colored and 176 boxes white were boarded. No bids or sales were recorded.

NAPANEE, Sept. 15.—At Saturday's meeting of the Napanee Cheese Board, 260 white and 734 colored were boarded, and all sold at 14¾c to the usual buyers.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 15. — At the Cheese Board meeting here Saturday, 1,324 boxes of white sold at 14 13-16c, and the balance of 245 boxes sold at 14¾c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—Eggs, butter and potatoes advanced on the local dairy and produce market last week, when cheese ruled steady.

Eggs opened the week with an increase in prices, being up 1c to 3c a dozen. At the end of the week, quotations were: Fresh specials, 48c.; fresh extras, 44c.; and fresh firsts, 37c a dozen.

The wholesale carlot butter market was firmer, advancing ½c to 29½c a pound during the week. Dealers stated that prices were expected to go higher within a few days. To retailers prints were 32c and solids 31c a pound. Potatoes advanced 15c to 25c a bag, closing at $1.10 for local Quebec stock and $1.25 for New Brunswick cobblers.

Cheese was steady at 14½c for Ontario and 13¾c a pound for Quebec stock.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, September 15.—Hedging sellers came back to the wheat pit on Saturday and knocked prices down to record lows in a late bear rally. Wheat stocks, for the first time since 1914, could be bought for less than 80 cents a bushel. October wheat finished the short session off 1¼ cents at 79⅝ cents and November and December neared the 80-cent point. Losses for the day ranged from 1c to 1¼c.

An early fractional advance was wiped out as elevator interests started their hedging sales. The market, lacking any substantial support, offered no resistance and the retreat was orderly.

Cash wheat spreads were ¼c lower as offerings continued light and demand moderate. Coarse grains were heavy.

AUTO JUMPS NARROW BRIDGE

Serious Accident is Narrowly Averted on Havelock-Marmora Road.

NO SERIOUS INJURY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, September 15. — A serious accident was narrowly averted on the Havelock-Marmora Highway late on Saturday night when two cars met on the narrow bridge over the Havelock Creek on the Marmora Road near Preneveau.

One car from Madoc in attempting to pass, caused a plank to break and was thrown over into the creek.

McCutcheon's wrecking car was sent for and after over two hours' work the car was pulled out and towed to Havelock garage. Fortunately the occupants escaped without any serious injury. The traffic was busy on this road at the time and a long line of cars on both approaches to the bridge was held up for some time.

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

Meyersburg United Church will hold their anniversary services on Sunday, Sept. 21, when the special preacher for the day will be the Rev. M. E. Wilson. This will be an event, as Mr. Wilson was on the circuit when the church was built.

And don't forget that one of the features of the Campbellford Fall Fair will be a lacrosse match between Campbellford and Oshawa. This is going to be a fast game and one with lots of thrills.

The first cooking sale of the season is being staged by the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday, September 20th, in Denyes store, Front Street.

The Mispah Mission Circle of St. John's United Church is scheduled to give an entertainment in the school room of the church on the evening of Tuesday, September 23rd, at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at this event.

Mr. Chas. Stephens, Mrs. J. Macgregor and daughters, Mary and Isabel, motored to Belleville on Friday.

Major Belford was in town on Friday.

Congratulations to Mrs. Annie Chase who won first prize at the Peterborough Exhibition for work done by ladies over seventy years of age. Mrs. Chase, who is eighty years old, fashioned two pretty quilts in Irish chain design, pink on white, on Peter Pan print.

After spending a week in Belleville, Miss Alma Simpson has returned to her home here.

Mrs. T. Meiklejohn and daughter Orpha were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Gibson of Stirling at the beginning of the week.

The local Fire Brigade has had two calls this week, both of minor importance. This is the season of the year when care should be taken as everything is so dry and fire is likely to spread very fast.

Miss Mary Macgregor, Miss Eva McKelvie, and Miss Dorothy Barnum all left for Peterborough to-day to enter the Normal School there.

Mr. J. R. Battisby is holding another auction sale of the household effects and furniture of the late George Hoards, near Hoards Station, on Thursday, September 18th.

Mrs. Chas. Black and son are visiting at the home of Mr. John Coughlan, Hastings.

Arrangements Made For Lunch Counter at Local Fair.

MARMORA, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence). — The September meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Sanderson on Wednesday evening with a splendid attendance and Mrs. H. W. Sabine, president, in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Maple Leaf and the Institute Ode. Arrangements were then made for the lunch counter which is always a welcome feature at the local Fair. The roll call, "Memories of our Grandmothers," was responded to by nearly everyone present and proved very interesting.

The programme was in the charge of Mesdames W. A. Sanderson, W. Holland and W. Grant. It commenced with a delightful piano solo by Miss Hilda Taft. Then came a very pleasing duet, "Twilight" by Mrs. S. C. Boyd and Mrs. G. R. Hartley. Mrs. W. Holland followed with a reading 'Family Financing." Mrs. E. C. Prentice and Mrs. H. W. Sabine then gave a pianoforte duet. Miss E. Henry was well applauded for an appropriate reading, "Grandmother's Shingle Party." The contest "Things Our Grandmothers Missed" proved quite a brain teaser. A delicious lunch was served at the close.

TWENTY-FIVE STRIKE-OUTS.

Toronto Team Works in Two Smart Double Plays—4 Errors For Losers.

It was a great game to win and the Peterborough Maple Leafs, last year's provincial bantam champions, won it. To Stanger goes the credit for the victory, connecting for a single into centre field he brought in Calladine in the tenth inning for the winning run to make the count 2-1 in favor of the locals. The result evens the series making a third game necessary, which will likely be played on Wednesday next in Oshawa.

It was Calladine's great work on the mound, backed up by airtight fielding support, that gave the locals the victory. The flaxen-haired Leaf hurler had a total of fifteen strike-outs against his opponents' ten while he issued no free walks. And to his battery mate goes a great deal of the credit. Starr was accountable for tieing the score in the sixth inning when with the bases loaded he made a neat single to left field, bringing home Stanger with the tieing run. Not only did Calladine do noble work on the mound, but he also starred at bat, connecting for the only three-base hit of the game in the fourth frame, a beautiful drive falling just short of the score board in left field.

Begley, Williamson and Stanger were the only other local players to thrive at the bat, the former getting two nice hits and assisting in four putouts from his second base position despite the handicap of a sprained ankle which he had the misfortune to hurt in the early part of the week. In centre field, Williamson copped off three long hits which would have meant runs for the visitors had not the timely "Stew" been right underneath them. Stanger did good work in his section of the outer garden, also as mentioned before driving in the run that won the game.

Greenburg and Cherevatz were the stars for the visitors, the hurler having ten strikeouts being chalked up to his credit, this mark being offset however by issuing of five free ducats to the initial sack. The stocky red-headed shortstop turned in a great performance, being the most colorful player on the lot and while not coming up to his former standard of hitting he copped off four putouts at the second sack, being right there all the time.

Two Double Plays.

The Toronto infield played far the smarter ball of the two outfits, running off two double plays that were a delight to the eyes of the fans that thronged the stands, one in the second when after Williamson gained first on a walk, Stanger struckout and Murdock grounded to the shortstop who threw to second catching Williamson out, the second baseman doubling back threw to first, returning Murdock to the benches and retiring the side. The second was in one of the most crucial stages of the game. In the seventh frame with the bases loaded, Williamson and Stanger having got on through errors and Murdock walking, McCarthy bunted to the pitcher, who tossed the ball home catching Williamson out, the catcher relaying it on to first beating McCarthy's time.

In the beginning, neither team scored for the first three frames, the visitors' terms at bat being featured by a succession of strikeout; and easy pops to the infielders while the Leafs connected for two solid hits in the first. The Saints scored their first run in the fourth when Parker the second man up gained first on a hit into left field, stealing second and advancing to third on a passed ball and romping home on the first run of the game on Zapp's clout through short.

No score was made then until the seventh inning, Stanger and Murdock were left on third and second base when two were retired through a smart double play on the part of the Toronto infield. Clarke, pinch-hitting for Kingdon, walked, filling the sacks and Starr the next man up connected for a single into left field, bringing Stanger home with the tieing run.

Win In the Tenth.

Again the game went on with no score, passing the allotted time period of nine innings and going into the extra frame, the Saints failing to score in their half. Begley, the first man up for the homesters, singled past short but was later caught out at second when Calladine hit to short. Gardner filed to the first baseman. Williamson hit through centre field, advancing the runner to third. Stanger brought in the winning run but a cut in centre to end the game with a victory for the local youngsters.

Tommy Armour Beats Sarazen For Honors

Scotch Professional Plays Stellar Golf in Winning P.G.A. Championship.

FLASHING, N.Y., September 15 (C.P.). — Tommy Armour stylish Scottish professional, on Saturday won the Professional Golf Association championship from Gene Sarazen, one up, and in winning showed again that he is a great putter in a pinch.

For years the Scot has been dubbed a poor putter, and a great iron player. On Saturday, with the match all square on the 36th green, he holed a 14-foot putt for a four and when Sarazen missed his bid from a few inches under 14 feet, Armour was the P.G.A. champion for the first time.

ROBINS TAKE NATIONAL LEAD IN BITTER RACE

Defeat Reds For 10th Straight Victory While Cards Break Even.

CHICAGO IN 3RD PLACE.

Brooklyn Comes Back to Win After Spotting Reds Three Runs in First.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (C.P.)—The events of a busy baseball week-end have brought a new order in the standing of the National league's pennant contenders without bringing much advantage to any of the current big three—Brooklyn, St. Louis and Chicago. The difference in the number of victories put Brooklyn a half game ahead of St. Louis and a full game ahead of Chicago.

The New York Giants, however, were practically eliminated from the race as they lost a double header to the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday and found themselves 5½ games back of first place. After staging a great comeback fight to tie the score, the Giants lost the first clash in the tenth inning, 8 to 6, then went down almost without protest before the pitching of Charley Wood in the seventh inning second game 7 to 3. The double defeat left them only 2½ games ahead of Pittsburg.

Here is how the teams stood today as they played their final games before to-morrow's beginning of a new pair of "crucial" series.

	Won	Lost	P.C.	Games behind	To Play
Brooklyn	83	60	.580	—	11
St. Louis	82	60	.577	½	12
Chicago	81	60	.574	1	12
New York	77	66	.542	5½	12

Brooklyn's amazing Robins won their way to the top yesterday by scoring their tenth straight victory at the expense of the Cincannati Reds. The score was 8 to 3. Hollis Thurston failed to uphold the recent tradition of fine Robin pitching when he gave the Red three runs in the first inning, but Jim Elliott shut them out with 6 hits in 8 2/3 frames while powerful hitting against Rixey and Kolp soon put the Robins ahead. The Robins showed the loss of Johnny Frederick hurt Saturday, especially when a "Charley Horse" kept Eddie Moore from playing a full game in his place.

BUDD GRATTAN STAR OF RACES

Pentang Horse Outstanding Performer in Closing Card of Exhibition Races.

SOME FAST PACING.

Budd Grattan, leading pacer in J. T. Payette's famed stable at Penetang and considered by track followers to be one of the fastest steeds in Canada, was the outstanding performer at the Exhibition's closing card of harness races on Saturday afternoon.

With Cliff Chapman, of Toronto, up behind him the great Budd Grattan was out to break records, and with closer competition it is likely he would have succeeded. He was on the verge of tottering the record every time he spun the mile. In the last lap of the first heat in the 2.12 class he clipped off the half-mile in 1.03¼ which was within an eye-lash of the track record. In the third heat he was again given the reins to step the mile in 2.09¼, a quarter of a second short of the mile record for the track.

L. G. Bennett's horse, Peter Direct, was the only one of the five in the race that could stay anywhere near the great pacer. Driven by his owner, Peter Direct was on the winner's wheel most of the way. The others were strewed out behind.

Budd Grattan was first in all three heats with Peter Direct second and Jack Abbe, owned by James Akey of this city, third. Gentry Todd was fourth.

Smart Speeding.

Outside of Budd Grattan's smart performance there was nothing to get excited about in the 2.12 pace, but the 2.19 class supplied enough fireworks to more than balance the bill. With nine horses competing every go in the 2.19 class was a race. Several times the judges were hard put to it to select the winner, the horses sweeping down the stretch neck-and-neck, packed almost full way across the track.

Dick Sunday, driven by Eddie Jones, was wheeled out at the three-quarter pole in the first to win first place in a driving finish. Whips flashed in that home drive but Dick Sunday was a half-neck in front of Billy Wilkes, the leading horse most of the way round.

In another rousing finish in which the horses were stretched fanways across the track, Dick Sunday repeated, speeding through in the final 100 yards, and again Billy Wilkes was second.

The third heat was the pick of the day. Billy Wilkes had led most of the way, but McDougall, a big free-legged trotter, came through on the back stretch. Going under the wire the two horses seemed to be as one. It was finally decided that Billy Wilkes won, but it could just as accurately have been given the other way.

June Patchen came up from nowhere to win the first in the fourth heat. When the heat winners were turned out to decide first place, June Patchen again came in first place to win first money in the race.

BENEFIT LACROSSE GAME IS SCHEDULED

Campbellford to Play Old Timers at High School on Wednesday.

CAMPBELLFORD, September 15 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — What is going to be a feature game of lacrosse will be staged at Campbellford on Wednesday, September 17, when the regular Campbellford team will clash with the Old Timers on the High School grounds at four o'clock.

This game, which is a benefit event, will draw a large crowd, as the Campbellford team is playing up to form, and the Old Timers are composed of many of the outstanding players of many years ago.

The Old Timers' line-up is an interesting one, and is as follows: P. Saunders, C. Montgomery, T. Steward, "Hoot" Nicholas, V. Farrell, P. J. Kelly, C. Holmes, J. Nesbitt, M. Reid, Eddie Baugh, W. Blue, R. Sperry, B. McPherson, L. Plunkett, O. Hendy, R. Airheart, and Jordan.

No admission fee will be charged, but a silver collection will be taken.

CARDS LEAD SATURDAY.

The Cardinals, who took the lead on Saturday, as Chicago Cubs dropped to third through a defeat by the Phillies, promptly went back to second place yesterday as they divided a double header with the Boston Braves. Effective pitching by Burleigh Grimes and equally effective hitting, gave the Cards the first game 9 to 2, but the Braves slammed Sylvester Johnson around to take the second by a 7 to 4 count.

The Cubs and Philadelphia were idle yesterday but have a double header to-day to make up for it.

ORIOLES TRAILING LEAGUE WINNERS BY EIGHT GAMES

Redwings Clinch Pennant By Splitting Two Games With Montreal.

BALTIMORE DROPS TWO.

Montreal and Baltimore Have to Fight It Out For Second Place.

TORONTO, Sept. 15. —(CP)— Billy Sothworth has led the Rochester Redwings to their third successive International League pennant. The Redwings clinched the pennant yesterday by splitting two games with Montreal while the second-place Baltimore Orioles were dropping two battles to the Reading Keys.

Today's standings showed Baltimore trailing Rochester by eight and one-half games with only seven games still on the Orioles' schedule. Rochester has six more games to play. Principal interest now will be attracted to the fight for second place Montreal being only two and one-half games behind Baltimore.

Grant Pitches Game

George Grant pitched the Redwings to victory in the first game with Montreal 7-6. Grant was nicked for 15 hits but was very effective with men on bases. The Royals tied the count at 3-all in the eighth but the Redwings pounded home a run in the ninth to win. The Redwings got only nine hits off three Montreal pitchers but used them to good advantage. The tables were turned in the second game which the Royals won. Classet pitched a strong game for the Canadians.

Eleven Homeruns

Reading's victories over Baltimore were scored by 10-5 and 13-5 counts. Eleven home runs sailed over the fences during the day, Reading getting seven of them. Krasovich hit two for Reading in the first game while Barton of Baltimore got one in each game. Whitman, Reading outfielder, was the leading slugger of the day, however. He combed Baltimore pitching for a home run, two doubles and three singles. Newark strengthened its hold on fifth place by taking two from Jersey City 6-1 and 4-3. The first game was a walks for the Bears as Harvin gave the Skeeters only five hits but they had to fight hard for the second game. Jersey City jumped on Don Brennan for three runs and five hits in the first inning but Hank Boney held the Skeeters to one hit and no runs for the rest of the game. Newark tied it up with one run in the fourth and two in the sixth and then won out by scoring one run in the ninth.

Toronto Beaten

Al Moore's home run in the tenth enabled Buffalo to defeat Toronto 6-5 in the first game of the series. Fussell and Page, southpaws both, waged a great hurling duel for eight innings. Going into the ninth the score was deadlocked at 2-2 but Toronto drove Fussell off the mound with a three-run assault, Bedore hitting a homer with two on. The Bisons came back with a three-run splurge in their half of the same frame, driving Page off the mound. Two wild pitches by Nick Harrison accounted for a pair of the Bisons' runs in this frame. Prudhomme was pitching for Toronto when Moore's clout ended the game with none out in the tenth.

PHILADELPHIA TIGHTENS HOLD

Earnshaw Outhurls Ferrel as Athletics Sweep Series With Indians.

RUFFING BAFFLES TIGERS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. (C. P.) — The Philadelphia Athletics, already almost certain of winning the American League pennant, made their hold on first place a little safer by bumping Wesley Ferrell and the Cleveland Indians for a 7 to 1 triumph, while Washington was losing a close decision to Chicago. Earnshaw, starting his second game in as many days, gave ten hits and came close to a shutout when homers by Dykes and Simmons helped the champions pile up a score.

Chicago's white Sox downed the Senators 2 to 1 in a ten inning game and left them 7½ games behind Philadelphia with only a dozen games to play. Four more triumphs for the A's will assure them of nothing worse than a tie for first place. Jim Moore, a recruit from Little Rock, had all the better of "General" Al. Crowder, in a mound duel, giving only six hits and keeping every Senator away from first base from the fourth to the tenth inning. A triple by Watwood and Reynold's single, brought the deciding run.

Charley Ruffing, big New York pitcher, led the Yankees to a 10 to 3 victory over Detroit in the one remaining contest as the Boston-St. Louis double header was rained out. He allowed the Tigers seven hits, made three of the Yanks' 15 blows, and drove in four runs.

St. George's Juveniles Defeat Hamilton 8--3

OAKVILLE, Sept. 15.—St. George's Juveniles eliminated Hamilton Moodies from O.B.A.A. playdowns in the semi-final round here on Saturday when they handed them an 8 to 3 setback.

The game was held up in the second inning for more than an hour due to a thunder storm. St. George's were leading at this stage, 1 to 0, having scored a run in the opening inning on a base on balls, sacrifice, a stolen base and an infield out.

After the game got under way Moodies took a one-run lead on Anderson's homer and Mickimmon's single scored Simpson, who was hit by a pitched ball and sacrificed to second.

The winners took a five-run lead in the fourth when they scored six times on six hits and two free passes. Included in the hits was a homer over centre field fence by Ivan, with two men on base and a double by Kearns, which counted two.

St. George's will not meet Peterborough for the Ontario juvenile championship.

DOEG IS WINNER NATIONAL TITLE

Youthful California Southpaw Achieves Stirring Victory Over Frank Shields.

LONGEST SET IN HISTORY.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., September 15 (C.P.). — Johnny Doeg, brawny young southpaw from Santa Monica, Cal., won the national tennis championship on Saturday at the age of 21.

In a hair-raising final match, contested amid scenes of highest tension before a capacity crowd of 13,000, this new California comet achieved a stirring victory over the 18-year-old Frank Shields of New York, 10-8, 1-6, 6-4, 16-14, to ascend the throne.

Through the thrilling moments of a great 30-game set which goes down into history as the longest ever contested in the final round of this classic tournament, Doeg and Shields fought it out with the issue in doubt until the final stroke.

EXCELSIORS DEFEAT HAMILTON TWELVE

Brampton Team Overcomes Early Lead of Opponents in Later Frames.

BRAMPTON, Ont., September 15. —(C. P.) — Displaying the form in the last two quarters that enabled them to defeat New Westminster Salmon Bellies in the Mann Cup finals at Toronto, Excelsiors of Brampton, Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association champions, overcame an early lead secured by their opponents, to trounce the hitherto undefeated Hamilton Tigers, six goals to four in an exciting game here on Saturday.

The Tigers, winners of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, outplayed Brampton for two quarters and secured a three goal lead. The Excelsiors returned to form in the latter part of the contest, however, and clearly demonstrated their superiority over the ambitious City twelve.

For your new home Choose this modern roof

THE question you should settle in your mind when considering the roof on your new house is which is the most economical roof—not which is the cheapest.

While a cheap roof may cost you only a very few dollars less than a beautiful, permanent roof of Johns-Manville Shingles, it will become increasingly expensive as each year brings fresh repair bills. A J-M Roof is the best dollar value you can buy because it gives you roof protection and outstanding roof beauty at the lowest cost per year.

A roof of J-M Asbestos Shingles will never need further attention. A J-M Asphalt Shingle Roof (at lower cost) will give you sturdy protection that will free you from all repair expense for many years.

In either type of roof there is a wide range of beautiful colour combinations which are not obtainable in most other roofings.

Ask your builder or the nearest roofing material or lumber dealer to show you some of these modern, durable J-M Roofs in your neighbourhood.

Johns-Manville Roofs
Asbestos Shingles - Asphalt Shingles

For built-up roofs on industrial and commercial buildings, apartment houses, etc., specify Johns-Manville Bonded Built-up Roofs. Buying a J-M Roof is buying protection from fire, leaks, and old expense.

LEAGUE POINTS WON BY C.P.C. FROM BRINTON

Beggs Connected From a Pass By Downer—Buchan Reappeared For C.P.C.

C.G.E. FAILED TO APPEAR.

O'Halloran Got Equalizer — Downer Replying With Winning Counter.

A large crowd witnessed the Canadian Packing win two valuable league points from the Brinton Athletic by the score of two goals to one, on Brinton grounds, on Saturday afternoon. O'Halloran, at center forward, for the Brinton leading his teammates in an interesting battle that was worthy of a draw on the run of play. Preston of C. P. C. being in the shade through the brilliant display of Andy Beggs and N. Downer on the berths. Buchan re-appeared, at center-half for the Packers, for first time since he received his serious knee injury.

In the other game scheduled between the Caledonians and the Canadian General on King Edward Park, the latter failed to put in an appearance, except George Blowers and Alex. Burgess of that team. The Scots having a full quota of players on hand. They claim the two points through the non-fulfillment of the game, and no notification was received from the C. G. E. Executive.

First Half

The spin of the coin was no advantage, the Brintons only having ten men against the full eleven of the Packers. Anderson relieved the C. P. C. center man of the ball in front of goal and beat up field to send Wilson inside the goal area. He beat the full back cleverly, dribbled his way toward goal to miss the upright by inches. While at the other end, Preston lay close up on the defense awaiting the opportunity to have a try at goal but he was too closely watched. Green controlling the ball at every favorable moment to make his tactics concrete in C. P. C. attacks. The Brinton rear guard got a fright when Newt. Downer introduced combination to his success, until Art Read picked up the ball from a well timed pass near goal that Jones found difficulty in clearing. The flag kick amounted to nought. Play run from end to end at a rapid pace with the forwards endeavoring to get the first goal. Eventually it fell to the Packers through the right wing carrying the offensive up against the opposing full backs as two men intervened a minute too late. Newt Downer crossing at the right time to permit the centre-forward to jump over the ball so that his inside man, Beggs, would get a chance to score. The move proved successful as the scorer tapped the ball, from one foot to the other, to get it at his liking with a left footer that landed the ball away out of the reach of the custodian who had no chance to save. This set back to the Brintons didn't kill their enthusiasm for the remainder of the first half. They kept the Packer goal-keeper busy saving his citadel from a down fall. In fact, O'Halloran had hard luck in not being a marksman of high repute through the energetic display of Griffin in goal. Just before the interval, Boon beat three men on the run with the ball at his toe and was in the act of shooting when a decision spoiled his effort, although he was recompensed with two beautiful corner kicks that had the Packer's team in goal packed tight to keep the score at one to nothing in their favour. C. P. C. 1, Brinton 0.

Second Half

The customary respite seemed to enliven the tussle in the second half. From the kick off, the carpet boys front rank tore down the field like a streak of lightning to have Griffin putting in a busy session in goal. O'Halloran swinging the ball from wing to wing, keeping the opposing halves on the run, until he connected from a pass of Boon's. The goal-keeper stretching himself in the air to pull down the ball in the nick of time. He threw it out, Bayliss rapping a smart one back at him quickly that landed at the foot of the left winger who missed at close range. Success finally went in favour of the Brintons, when Hotson travelled down the wing, drew the full backs over to him, then centered across to O'Halloran. The opposition closed in on him a fraction of a minute late because he shot with rapidity to beat the custodian with a rising ball for the equalizer. Ding dong methods prevailed for a while with neither team showing any vitality on the field of play. But this dwindled away when Newt. Downer scored the leading tally after twenty minutes. Congratulations being handed out quite freely. It added vim to the game more ways than one. The referee having to caution some of the players for their over anxious methods and unnecessary language. From this point until the end, the losers had the greater portion of the play. They kept up a continual barrage of shots. Repeatedly O'Halloran would break through with the ball and nobody to beat but the custodian. His efforts were excellent in spite of the truth that he was harassed by an opposing full back. Then E. A. Bayliss followed up with two attempts that were diverted out of danger when a goal seemed to be in the horizon. The last ten minutes, the Packers only were at the Brinton goal twice while the losers peppered the citadel without any result and had too admit defeat by the small score of Canadian Packing 2, Brinton Athletic 1.

Goal scorers—C. P. C., Beggs and N. Downer. Brinton—O'Halloran.

C. P. C.—C. Griffin, goal; J. Cross and A. Downer, full backs; H. Mann, J. Buchan and A. Bromley, halves; N. Downer, A. Reed, R. Preston, A. Beggs and T. Foster, forwards.

Brinton—W. Jones, goal; D. Green and S. Laidler, full backs; J. Creighton, J. Anderson and E. A. Bayliss, halves; H. Houston, W. James, J. O'Halloran, T. Wilson and J. Boon, forwards.

EDGE OVER SHAMROCK.

Sentiment Among New York Yachtsmen Favors "Genial Irishman to Win Cup.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15. Everything is in readiness for the second race for the America's Cup between Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger Shamrock V, and the Harold Vanderbilt syndicate yacht Enterprise that the New York Yacht Club has named to defend the Cup.

In the past, twelve attempts have been made to lift the cup that the yacht America won way back in 1851 and of these the eighty-one-year-old Irish sportsman, Sir Thomas Lipton, has been responsible for the last five challengers.

After the first Shamrock came over here in 1899, some feeling developed against the Irish sportsman in certain yachting circles. But this year all is cordiality and good feeling. Strange to say, to-day not only the general public but the majority of the members of the New York Yacht Club are hoping that the Shamrock V will win the cup.

Sentiment Favors Lipton

There are two reasons for this reversal of sentiment; one is in the interest of sport, the feeling being prevalent that if the Shamrock should win it would mean that a fleet of yachts would be built on th's side of the pond for the honor of recapturing the mug. The other reason is that Sir Thomas has proved such a good loser and such a fine sportsman every one hopes he will at last achieve his lifelong ambition of lifting the cup.

Of course no one really knows who will win the cup, but, as in past years, the Amer'can defender seems to have the better chance.

It is not that there is really much difference between the two boats, as they are built under the same rule and restrictions, but the advantages in the Enterprise's favor are in minor refinements.

To begin with, unlimited money has been spent on the Enterprise which is said to cost over $650,000 to build, equip and operate, while it is doubtful if the total cost of Shamrock will exceed $300,000.

The Enterprise's Sails

Briefly the Enterprise has about ten mainsails to choose from to the Shamrock's two and among the lighter headsails the Enterprise has about forty odd to pick from to about a dozen in the challenger's sail lockers.

Otside of this the Enterprise has been tried out and raced more than the Shamrock was racing older boats on the other side, the Enterprise was fighting it out almost daily in more strenuous competition with the Weetamoe, Yankee and Whirlwind, with the Resolute and Vanite thrown in for good measure.

In addition, Mr. Vanderbilt, who does things very thoroughly, has had his crew, the pick of the yacht racing fleet go through a thorough physical training, so that they are in the pink of condition.

JONES AND DOUGHTY IN TIE FOR FIRST

Second Half of Hastings Bowling League Schedule Brought to Close.

HASTINGS, Sept. 15. (Examiner Correspondence).—The finish of the second half of the local bowling schedule finds C. E. Jones and C. P. Doughty tied for first place. The two teams play-off on Monday night the winner meeting Rivard who won the first half, for the McCarthy trophy.

Friday's Results

There was a large crowd out on the local greens on Friday night for the scheduled league games between Havelock and Hastings. This was Havelock's first appearance here of the year as they were not in the league in the first half. Each team took two games. In the first games Mathison ran away with a 16 to 5 victory from Dodd. Lynch had a hard task to beat Simons out 12 to 10, Simons pulling a fine end at the start.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM PROPERTY

Charles Calder of South Dummer Suffers Heavy Loss. From Blaze.

WARSAW, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—A barn and outbuildings on the farm of Charles Calder, of South Dummer, was completely destroyed by fire along with the season's entire crop, on Friday evening. The outbreak, which occurred at about six o'clock, is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. The buildings were valued at $8,000, not including the crop, which consisted of a bumper harvest of grain and clover. Several implements were also lost.

Assistance was sought from Warsaw, but by the time aid reached the scene of the fire, it was too late to save anything.

FIGURES IN INTERNATIONAL YACHT RACES

THE CHALLENGE CUP • SHAMROCK V. • SIR THOMAS LIPTON

The above cut shows the contender, the Shamrock V., and the America's Cup, three of the principal figures in the international yacht races which are being held off the village of Newport on the New England coast. The series runs to seven races, with the yacht winning the first four being declared the winner. The Enterprise, Cup defender, won in easy style on Saturday, and to-day the course is all set for the second event, the outcome of which is very doubtful.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY FOUNTAIN.

"There is only one thing I miss, down here at the seashore," said Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, as she sat on the porch of the summer bungalow one morning.

"What is that?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was beginning to pack up, for the summer visit was almost over. The bunny and other animal children must soon go back to the Hollow Stump School.

"I have always wanted a fountain squirting water in my front yard," said Uncle Wiggily's wife as she watched the rabbit gentleman down on the beach, playing in the sand with the children. "I dearly love a fountain and I thought, when Wiggy brought us to the shore, that I might have one. But I suppose I shall have to go back to Woodland and our hollow stump bungalow without having seen my fountain play."

"Oh, ho! So you want a fountain, do you, my dear?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he came hopping up to kiss his wife, for he loved her very much. "And why did you think you might have one here at the shore?" asked the rabbit gentleman, giving Nurse Jane's long tail a tweak, but only in fun, for he loved to hear the muskrat lady housekeeper squeal.

What a fine fountain that whale would make."

"Well," said Mrs. Longears, "you see there is so much water here in the ocean that I thought I might have a little for a squirting fountain. But never mind, Wiggy. I've had a very nice time, otherwise, and it has been wonderful for the children. They are as brown as oak leaves in the autumn. Well, I must help Nurse Jane pack up to go home," she said with a sad, little sigh.

"Hum!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he hopped back down the sandy beach. "I didn't know my wife was so fond of a fountain. I wish I had known it before. I would have tried to make her one."

The rabbit gentleman looked at the ocean, rolling and tumbling in front of the summer bungalow he had made out of seaweed and driftwood.

"Perhaps it isn't too late yet," he murmured. "Certainly there is plenty of water there. And if I could, somehow, get a lot of it up in our front yard so it would squirt out of the end of a hose hidden in the sand, my wife might yet have her fountain before she goes back to Woodland. I'll try it!"

Uncle Wiggily hopped along the beach on which the sea waves cast up many queer things such as old bottles, cans and pieces of fish nets and wood. Soon he found a bit of old hose that had been tossed off a ship. Uncle Wiggily put one end of the hose in the ocean and carried the other end up to the front yard. He waited and waited, but no water came out. For water can't run up hill, you know, unless it is pumped.

"Well, I guess this fountain isn't going to work," said the rabbit gentleman sadly. "And yet I would like to surprise my wife with one. I wonder ——" All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily stopped talking to himself and looked across the waves. To his surprise he saw water spurting up in the air like a fountain. And, what is more, there were two jets of water and not one spurting up.

"A double fountain out there in the ocean! How wonderful!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "I wonder who made that fountain?"

"That isn't a fountain, that's a whale spouting," growled an old Sea Dog who lived all the year at the shore. "He's mighty close to the beach, too, is that whale, if you ask me, shiver my timbers!"

"A spouting whale! Of course! I've read about them," said Uncle Wiggily. "A whale is really an animal, and not a fish, and it must come out on top of water to breathe every fifteen minutes or so. It holds its breath under water and when it breathes out it blows a lot of air and water into the air, just like a fountain."

"That's it, blow me topsail!" growled the Old Sea Dog, sailor fashion.

"What a fine fountain that whale would make for my wife!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I wonder if he would come a bit closer in shore and blow for Mrs. Longears?"

"I'll swim out and ask him," offered the Sea Dog.

The whale was very kind and obliging and when the Dog asked him he swam as close to shore as he dared and there he blew and blew, puffing up two jets of water high into the air just like a double fountain.

"Come out here, Mrs. Longears!" Uncle Wiggily called to his wife. "I have a funny fountain for you!"

"Oh, you dear!" said his wife when she saw the spurting water. "How clever of you! How did you make it?" And she kissed him. And when Uncle Wiggily told her the fountain was a whale in the ocean, why Mrs. Longears kissed her husband twice. And all the little bunnies and the other animal children thought the whale fountain was wonderful.

Disabled Policyholder Receives $12,228 in Benefits and Bonus $880 Added to His Insurance

Confederation Life Association,

Dear Sirs:

I took out a policy for $12,000, on a 15 year Endowment with total disability, at age 34, on May 23rd, 1922. I was carried on this policy on a term plan until September 23rd of the same year, and made my premiums annually on and after that date.

I have been farming about twenty quarter sections of land for several years, and was in excellent health when I procured this policy. After two full payments, in the early part of January, 1925, I went to Rochester, as I had been unwell for about a month or six weeks. Mayo Bros. pronounced my case incurable, and it developed into shaking paralysis. Although able to give direction in the farming operations, I have been unable to work since that date, and at present require assistance to rise from my chair and walk. The Company requested that I be examined. They admitted the claim and began paying me $120 per month on April 21st, 1925, and have continued to pay this sum promptly each month. At present I have received in payments $7,200; have also had five premiums of $1,005.60 each, amounting to $5,028, paid by the Company, making a total payment to April 1st, 1930, of $12,228. The Company have also added five years' bonus to my policy of $888, and, I am told, will pay claim in full when I pass on.

I wish to thank the Company and its agents for the splendid service rendered. All my family have taken policies with the Company and we have pleasure in saying a good word for the Company who has done so much for us.

Yours truly,

4 Years without HEADACHE

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain without getting rid of the trouble which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "DON'T!"

Such makeshift methods simply suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and leave the underlying cause to look after itself. And it only obtains a firmer grip. Headaches can generally be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts bring swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

"For many years I suffered from severe headaches almost daily. I started taking the small dose (of Kruschen) a matter of four years ago, and I can honestly say I have never had a headache since."—(Mrs. M. W.)

ROSENEATH W.M.S. PREPARES QUILT

Mrs. L. Nixon Gives Talk on Mission Work in China.

ROSENEATH, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence)—Misses Eliza and Annie Brown entertained the ladies of the United Church Women's Missionary Society on Tuesday afternoon with a goodly attendance present. The president, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe presiding. After the opening exercises the regular business was talked over, principally about the autograph quilt which the ladies are making to help with their allocation. Mrs. M. D. Brown was appointed secretary-treasurer to receive the quilt blocks and fees collected.

This quilt is something different from the ordinary autograph quilts, the material is fast colors, a yellow block with a large white daisy in applique, and has a name worked on each petal. When completed it will not only be beautiful but very serviceable.

Mrs. Archie Campbell spoke very nicely from the devotional leaflet on "The way of Holiness," taken from Isaiah 35:8. "And a highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called the Way of Holiness and the way faring men, though fools, shall not err therein."

Lunch Committee

Lunch committee for October meeting is Mrs. M. D. Brown, Mrs. A. Campbell, Mrs. H. Blodgett and Miss Brown

Owing to the Roseneath Fair next month the date for the Missionary meeting was changed to the first Tuesday of the month.

The Watch Tower herald on China was read by Mrs. L. Nixon telling of the work done by the United Church in China.

A letter was read by Miss Eliza Brown from Miss Luella Rorke who is a missionary in Japan. This letter was very much enjoyed as Miss Rorke had lived in Roseneath before taking her departure to the foreign fields.

The meeting closed with singing "I gave my life for Thee" and repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Refreshments were served by the ladies in charge and a social half hour was spent.

"Take a letter"—

Rushed stenographers and irritated executives — along about 4 p.m. — would benefit by stopping for a few moments — and drinking a cup of tea.

Time would be saved—not lost.

ST. JAMES' W. A. MEETS.

Ladies Hear Interesting Talk on Former Days By Rev. F. Battersby.

ROSENEATH, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Church met at the home of Mrs. Ross McCracken for their monthly meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. James Timlin, Mrs. Ross McCracken took charge. The meeting opened in the regular way, followed by a passage in scripture from Rev. F. Battersby who also gave a very interesting talk on the ways of olden times, the habits etc. and comparing each with the life of to-day and our duties toward our Maker. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Timlin "A Gossipy Tongue." Mrs. Gordon Parker, "Be economical of Mother." Miss Jessie Johnston, "What a Bible did," Mrs. Lottie Nichol a chapter from the study book.

The W.A. has completed their autograph quilt which is left at Mrs. Joseph Robins in the village to be sold at a reasonable price, also several other quilts are open for inspection and ready for sale.

After the closing exercises a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a pleasant afternoon was spent.

October meeting will be held at Mrs. Rupert Nichols on Tuesday, Oct. 7th.

CANAL COMPLETION REPORT IS DENIED

Present Gov't Not Even Considering Trent Valley Route Authority States.

LINDSAY, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondent)—The report broadcast from Lindsay and given prominence in the Toronto press that the Dominion Government was about to undertake the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, is somewhat premature.

This report was started following the arrival of the steamer Bessie Butler at Fenelon Falls on a trip over the northern stretch of the canal. The announcement of its arrival was chronicled in the local press with the announcement that the vessel was on its way to the Georgian Bay end of the waterway, and that the Government was about to start the completion of the canal at that point.

Your correspondent was informed by one in authority that there is nothing in the annoucement. When the Hon. Chas. Dunning, who held the portfolio of Minister of Railways and Canals in the King Government, visited Fenelon Falls on an inspection tour of the canal, he made a statement to the effect that the government would undertake the completion of the highway. The present goverment, your correspondent is informed has not even considered the project.

MILK DRIVER IS BADLY INJURED

John English, of Hastings, Falls From Wagon on Saturday Morning.

FRACTURES HIP.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 15.—The many friends were shocked to hear of the serious accident that befell John English, prominent Asphodel farmer on Saturday morning. While in the act of loading milk cans on to the wagon, Mr. English slipped and fell off the milk stand. On examination it was found he had a bad fracture of the hip and also the shoulders, also some ribs broken.

He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, Peterborough by ambulance where his condition is said to be very serious. Mr. English's son Louis had a team of horses run away with him on Thursday in which he received a very bad shaking up and is confined to his bed.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

STEWARTS HONOR GEORGE DRYLAND

Faithful Church Worker to Take Up His Residence in Hamilton, Ontario.

George E. Dryland, Wescott street, who left on Sunday for Hamilton, Ont., where he goes to reside, was tendered a farewell address and gift by the Board of Stewards of St. James United Church.

The address, expressing the deep regret of the Board of Stewards, of which Mr. Dryland has been a valued and efficient member for many years, was read by W. K. Sloan, while the presentation of a handsome pen and pencil case, was in charge of J. H. Spence.

Mr. Dryland, in a few brief words, thanked the stewards, both for their gift and for their kindly wishes which accompanied it, which he assured them would not soon be forgotten.

Presentation Made.

On the eve of his departure for Hamilton yesterday, Mr. George E. Dryland was the recipient of a beautiful reading lamp, from his fellow employees at the Canadian Packing Company, on whose behalf Mr. Murduff spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Dryland was held and the regret felt at his removal from their midst. Mr. Stewart presented the lamp, and Mr. Dryland acknowledged the gift, thanking his friends for their good wishes.

Mr. Dryland goes to Hamilton where he will be identified with the John Duff and Sons, and will take up residence in that city.

Mrs. Dryland and three daughters, Audrey, Jean and Shirley, with Mrs. Mann, her mother, expect to join Mr. Dryland in Hamilton, this week.

SALE OF TIMBER.

TENDERS WILL BE RECEIVED by the undersigned up to and including TUESDAY, 23rd inst., for the right to Cut the Timber on Lot 13, Concession 1, Township of North Burleigh, County of Peterborough.

FURTHER PARTICULARS may be obtained upon application to the undersigned, or to Mr. A. Stevenson, Crown Timber Agent, Peterborough.

W. FINLAYSON,
Minister of Lands and Forests.

FALL MEETING OF THE BROTHERHOOD

Salvation Army Band Provides Special Music For St. James' Church Gathering.

The Brotherhood of St. James' United Church held their opening fall rally on Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the church with a good attendance.

Special music was provided for the occasion by the Salvation Army band, who accompanied all the singing and rendered a beautiful selection, "While the Days Are Going By."

The Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of the church, was the interesting speaker of the afternoon, dealing with the pertinent question, "Our Undeveloped Resources," to which he gave a new interpretation. "Our undeveloped resources" are generally measured from a materialistic standpoint. A great leader of industry destring of utilising the undeveloped resources of his establishment, sent out four trained scientists to investigate. When questioned as to the percentage of man power represented, he admitted that it was 80 p.c. To all this he was giving no credit and was only concerned with the material side of the question, which made up only twenty per cent. of his business. This challenges the development of the man and woman power in the world. This power comes from the Great Teacher who must never be challenged. This power must be measured by life's real values.

As a church and Sunday school "our undeveloped resources" are found in the men, young and old, who are losing their grip upon God. To win these we must present truths with a clean example in our own lives. Boys go where men go, not where men tell them to go. It is inconsistent to rebuke a boy for smoking while we hold a pipe in our own mouth. Ask yourself, "If a boy follows me, does he follow aright? What does it cost the character of your community if your jails are full of drunks? And what would it mean to turn these undeveloped resources into the right?"

At the conclusion Mr. Church, the class president, expressed his delight in having present their pastor as well as the Salvation Army band, assuring the Brotherhood that this was but a forecast of the good things awaiting them during the coming fall and winter.

A hearty vote of thanks tendered the visiting musicians and Rev. Mr. Moorhouse by J. H. Spence was seconded by H. H. May, to which the Band leader graciously responded.

The service closed with singing "Lead On O King Eternal," accompanied by the band.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 1 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A great ocean liner was nearing France. Aboard her was Tarzan of the Apes returning home to his African jungle. Thinking, rather sorrowfully, over the past few weeks, he wondered if he had acted wisely. For he had renounced his birthright and the woman he loved. To a man to whom he owed nothing.

Tarzan's thoughts drifted from the past to the future. He tried to look forward with pleasurable sensations to the scenes of his birth and boyhood. But who now would there be to welcome him in the fierce, cruel jungle where he had spent twenty of his twenty-two years? Only Tantor, the elephant, could be call friend.

The others would hunt him or flee from him, as had been their way in the past. Not even the apes of his own tribe would extend the hand of fellowship. Civilization had become distasteful to him. He longed for the old jungle life. Yet he looked with little relish upon the future he had mapped out for himself.

As he mused upon this, Tarzan saw, reflected in a mirror, four men at cards. Suddenly he was all attention, permitting no detail of the picture to escape him. Sharp words arose. Springing up, one of the players leaned across the table striking another full in the face. Then the others closed in between them.

BRUCE FREEBURN IS UNDER ARREST

Harvey Township Resident Arrested on Saturday on Boyd's Island.

FACES TWO CHARGES.

The police net closed about Bruce Freeburn, said to be the man behind all big moonshining operations in Harvey township, at daybreak Saturday morning. Freeburn along with his nineteen-year-old son and young nephew were charged a little over a week ago with operating a still, but were allowed bail.

Friday according to the authorities the two lads were caught putting the finishing touches to another large still, and Saturday the elder Freeburn was arrested at the new still on Boyd's Island.

Bail was refused him when he was arraigned in court this morning. He was remanded until the nineteenth along with the two youths, who failed to secure the $1,000 bail set for them on Saturday.

full opportunity to debate and take action next year.

It was expected that if the resolution should be adopted on the floor of the Assembly to-morrow the personnel of the committee would be announced shortly and that the task of elaborating the framework of the Union will get under way within a month or so.

The French Government has accumulated much material which will be turned over to the committee for study.

here this morning. Conditions at Harbor Grace were unfavorable, too. Officials pointed otu that the weather there must also govern the departure from here. Cloudy and rainy weather was reported from points in Cape Breton and the Magdalen Islands, in which vicinity lies the route for Harbor Grace, where the projected hop to England will take origin.

It is 500 air miles from Charlottetown to Harbor Grace, and Captain Boyd expects to cover this distance in from four and a half to five hours.

The two flyers landed in an ordinary field four miles from here Saturday after being in the air ten hours. A perfect landing was made, and the captain anticipated the field would offer no difficulty in taking off.

ATLANTIC FLIERS FORCED TO LAND

Bellanca is Weather Bound Midway Between Harbor Grace and Montreal.

HEAVY HEAD WINDS.

CHARLOTTETOWN P.E.I. Sept. 15 (C.P.)—Weatherbound midway between Montreal and Harbor Grace, their jumping off place on a proposed flight to England, Captain Erroll Boyd and Lieutenant Harry Connor kept the monoplane Columbia on the ground here Sunday. Should the weather clear, which was considered unlikely, the Veteran Bellanca will push off for the Newfoundland airfield some time to-day. With the start for Croydon tenatively scheduled for Tuesday morning, but Captain Boyd said that either start would depend entirely on flying conditions.

The flyers landed at Teafield, four miles from Charlottetown at 5.30 p.m Atlantic standard time Saturday, after almost ten hours in the air. The plane had been sighted over Charlottetown more than two hours before, but Boyd and Connor continued until they sighted the Western edge of the Cape Breton coast. By that time the winds had cut the plane's speed to such an extent that a landing at Harbor Grace would have been impossible before eleven o'clock and the flyers decided to turn back, being unwilling to take unnecessary chances on a night landing.

DOUBLE FRACTURE OF ARM.
Eddy Loucks, 101 Rubidge Street, sustained a double fracture of his left arm, while Lillian and Cecil Hartwick of Mountain Grove and James Douglas of Westwood escaped with nothing more than a severe shaking, when the car in which they were driving overturned near Norwood on Saturday afternoon.

ONE LESS.
Fishing from a canoe along with his host, William Freeburn, of Buckhorn, Carl Mackey of 327 Sherbrooke street, this city, succeeded in landing a fine lunge 44½ inches long and weighing 14½ lbs. The fish had a girth measurement of 16 inches.

The fish was caught with a rod and was landed twenty minutes after being hooked, putting up a fierce struggle in an effort to regain his liberty.

OBITUARY

MRS. ARMSTRONG WINDRIN.
OMEMEE, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Overcome by a heart attack after breakfast this morning, Hattie Pritchard, wife of Armstrong Windrin, of Omemee, died a few minutes later. Deceased had been suffering from heart trouble for several years, but had been able to continue her household duties.

Surviving are her husband; one sister, Mrs. J. H. Reeds of Reaboro; four brothers:: Wallace of Aberdeen, Washington; Robert, San Francisco; John, Norvalk, Ohio, and Thomas of Toronto.

Service will be held from the late residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to the Lakefield Cemetery.

JULES BROWN.
Jules, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of 1 McClennan Street, died this morning after a short illness.

The funeral was held this afternoon from D. Belleghem and Sons' Funeral Home to St. Peter's Cemetery.

Sympathy of many friends will be extended to the parents and to the three brothers and two sisters who survive. It is interesting to note that Mr. Brown met his wife, formerly Mlle. Leone Ansart of Vimy Ridge, while he was on active service with the 5th Canadian Field Ambulance. When the fighting became fierce around Vimy, the residents moved back to Estracuchy, a distance of some twelve miles.

It was to Estracuchy where the boys in that sector went to spend a few well-earned hours of rest, and it was while in billets there that Brown met the girl, who after the cessation of hostilities, he married and brought back to Canada.

MRS. W. J. WALLACE.
Word has been received here by A. J. Johnston of Dennistoun Avenue of the death of his cousin, Mrs. W. J. Wallace, of Riverside, California, which occurred on Friday night, September 5th, in her 73rd year, following a stroke of paralysis.

She was the daughter of George Johnston, who for several years was Chief Constable of Peterborough.

Mr. Wallace was for years a merchant in Lakefield. The family left for California in 1888, where they have since resided. Her husband predeceased her ten years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and two daughters in Riverside, California.

SUDBURY FRACAS ENDS AT ALTAR

Ukrainian Girl Wedded in Church Where She Made Startling Charges.

MANY ATTEND CEREMONY.

SUDBURY, Ont., Sept. 15.—(C.P.)—In the Ukranian Greek Catholic church in which she appeared seven weeks previously to make starting allegations against its pastor, laying a few months old child upon the altar rail, Sophie Linkeveth was yesterday married to Emil Laska, of Sudbury, a popular young man in Ukranian circles here. Rev. A. P. Erakoski performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Mrs. M. Debrie and was charmingly attired in white satin wedding gown. The ceremony was attended by a large number of the friends of both parties. The young couple will reside in Sudbury.

GALT MINISTER

Rev. Roadhouse claimed that as a free citizen he had the right, equal to that of any other man, to carefully investigate, with a nopen, unbiased, and critical mind, any subject whwatsoever, that appeals to his interest, and claimed that as a Christian minister, it was his right and duty to investigate all subjects which had a bearing upon vital htngs in which many of his people were concerned.

AMERICAN BOAT TOOK BIG LEAD

west south-west, ten miles south-east by east and a final ten miles north by east.

Hit Line As Whistle Blew.
Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, at the wheel of Enterprise, hit the starting line just as the starting whistle sounded. Shamrock was a bit tardy, apparently fearful of crossing too soon.

Vanderbilt was noted in the elimination trials for hitting the mark right on the dot, a nicety of handling that frequently gave him a large advantage from the start.

A nice sailing breeze of about ten miles an hour was blowing as the two yachts started over the thirty mile triangular course.

Both craft were wearing main sails, stay sails, jibs and large jib topsails.

Enterprise, sailing closer to the wind, was drawing away from the Shamrock in the first few minutes of the race. The defender was so far ahead that sailing men estimated Vanderbilt might cross the bow of Shamrock to the weather berth if he so desired.

Shamrock, unless Skipper Ernest Heard could shake her up, appeared doomed to take the wake of the Enterprise as she did throughout the first race Saturday, which the American boat won with a margin of two minutes 52 seconds.

Vanderbilt crossed Shamrock's bow at 10:53. His manoeuver left the green-hulled challenger about five lengths in the Enterprise's lee.

As soon as the United States skipper had his boat well to weather of the Shamrock he went back on the starboard tack.

Position Real Advantage
Vanderbilt's new position was of great strategic advantage. Being to weather [illegible] be first to feel the [illegible] and also act as an obstruction to the wind reaching the Shamrock's sails at its full velocity.

Both boats [illegible] surging along with white water showing under the bows.

Although Shamrock appeared to be footing it along in good shape it was impossible to see how the challenger could work through Enterprise's lee.

All Skipper Vanderbilt had to do to check the Shamrock was to bear down on her and blanket her with his own towering spread of sail. Such a manoeuver undoubtedly would almost empty the wind from the British boat's sails.

Both boats went over on the port tack at 11:05.

Skipper Heard, using every means to gain advantage, stayed on the port tack but a moment and then went over to starboard. Vanderbilt, taking no chances, quickly followed.

The manoeuver only gained ground for the Enterprise, her crew appearing faster in stays on both changes.

Ned Heard appeared to be playing the American defender's game as the Enterprise is noted for her ability to spin about like a dancer, scarcely losing way.

Shamrock went back on the port tack again at 11.16. The Enterprise quickly followed. Vanderbilt was playing the game for all there was in it and taking no chance of the challenger slipping away from him and regaining that precious advantage the Enterprise won at the start.

The situation was analogous to that of a cat playing with a mouse, following every movement of the latter to escape with a countering thrust of an alert paw.

Shamrock at Mercy of Enterprise.
The United States skipper appeared to have the Shamrock at his mercy, and it seemed only a question of how wide his lead would be when the boats rounded the ten-mile marker.

With the turning marker almost in striking distance at 11.45 an hour and five minutes after the start, Shamrock went over on the starboard tack.

Enterprise followed the manoeuvre closely and Captain Heard quickly went back to the port tack again.

Again Shamrock appeared to have gained nothing by the shifts, in fact the advantage was with Enterprise, due to her crew's quicker sail handling.

Shortly after noon the Shamrock tacked again, but Skipper Vanderbilt held on the starboard track, heading for the marker that showed a third of the race was run, apparently satisfied that he had the situation well in hand.

The sun had burned away the mist as the boats neared the turn and the fine visibility made it a brilliant picture as the white and green boats slipped along through the blue water, spray flying from their bows.

Two blimps cruised leisurely overhead, their silver bodies etched against a brilliant blue sky.

Two Mile Lead
The Enterprise rounded the twenty mile mark at 1:22:25 (E.S.T.). She was two miles or more ahead of the British boat.

The white hulled American boat made the second leg of the thirty mile course in an hour and one minute as compared to the hour and forty minutes she required to complete the first leg. The second ten miles was a reach as compared to a windward beat for the first leg.

The Enterprise put the wind off her port quarter and almost directly astern as she turned for home.

The Shamrock's only chance to overtake the flying American defender was for the latter to break down or have a sail carried away, which was unlikely in the light breeze that was blowing.

Enterprise had increased her lead over Shamrock to approximately two miles at one o'clock and was footing along at a good pace.

In addition to the ballooners both boats were carrying stay-sails in the reach for the second marker.

Shamrock rounded the mark at 1:31:35, nine minutes and ten seconds behind the American boat.

Enterprise came down to the twenty mile mark with a bone in her teeth and swung around the home with little lost motion.

Shamrock was so far behind that she could not be easily distinguished among the fleet that was accompanying her.

Enterprise had increased her margin over Shamrock to more than nine minutes as the two-thirds mark of their race was reached.

The British challenger was more than two miles behind, with only ten miles to go. Her chances appeared hopeless.

The United States boat was just two hours and forty two minutes completing the first twenty miles of the thirty mile course.

CRASH FATAL TO CYCLIST
GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 15.—(CP)—Injuries sustained in an accident at Aberfoyle proved fatal early today to Victor Peachey of Hamilton, who was thrown from a motorcycle to the pavement when the machine on which he was riding pillion with his brother, collided head-on with an automobile driven by Alfred Casson of Toronto. The driver of the motorcycle, Sidney Peachey, Grand Valley, sustained a serious cut to his leg.

Foreign Royalty Gather in England

Queen Victoria of Spain is coming with her two pretty daughters. Queen Maud of Norway will arrive with the Crown Prince and his wife, and they will spend some time at Queen Maud's permanent residence near Norfolk.

The Queen of the Belgians and ex-Queen Amelie of Portugal are already here.

Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan are in the north, and will return to London shortly. The Prince a Ingrid of Sweden is at Bagshot wiwth her grandfather, the Duke of Connaught.

10,000 PEOPLE CROWD BIG HALL AS HOUSE OF BISHOPS MEETS

Bishops From All Over Dominion Bring Messages of Progress to Ottawa.

LARGE STREET PROCESSION.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 15.—(CP)—Drawn from all parts of Ottawa diocese to greet the House of Bishops at the opening of their annual meeting here, and to participate in a monster reaffirmation of their faith and rededication to the extension of their church, thousands of members and adherents of the Church of England in Canada filled the auditorium Sunday night in a great meeting of witness, under the presidency of Rt. Rev. J. C. Roper, Bishop of Ottawa.

More than 10,000 people crowded into the big meeting place and joined in the traditional ritual of the old church in the new land. Time-honored hymns were sung under the leadership of the massed Anglican choirs of the city and district, making up a vested assembly of more than 500 voices, and music was provided by the regimental band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards.

Before an arrangement of loud-speakers which carried their voices to all parts of the huge auditorium were assembled on the platform almost the entire House of Bishops of Canada, including the venerable Father of the Church, Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, and Primate of all Canada.

Bishops from all over the Dominion brought messages of progress and achievement in the mission fields at home, and Rt. Rev. P. Lindel Tsen, Assistant Bishop of Honan, China, a native Chinese, aroused marked enthusiasm when he outlined the growth in the old Orient of a branch of the Church of England, in which Canada, as parent of the Honan diocese, has a special interest.

The meeting of witness was preceded by a street procession of the vested clergy and choirs, headed by the bugle and drum band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and by the Bishops in full vestments. Thousands of persons followed the procession which exemplified all the simple dignity and splendor of the "Church militant."

TOURIST RECORD IS SET IN NORTH

Splendid Fishing in Victoria and Haliburton Counties Proves Attraction.

Many September Bookings.

LINDSAY, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondent)—According to figures obtained from the different resorts in Victoria and Haliburton Counties the number of American visitors spending their vacations at these points reached a new record this summer.

The big majority of the American visitors came from Ohio and Pennsylvania. New York State came next, while a goodly number came from Michigan, Illinois and Virginia.

The resorts along Balsam Lake attracted a greater number of visitors than ever before. The same can be said of the centres of Haliburton, the trout and bass preserves of the northern county attracting many who had not previously visited the northland.

The village of Bobcaygeon was the tourist centre par excellence. This resort was the mecca for hundreds of Americans, many of whom are still enjoying a fish in the adjacent waters. It is announced that bookings of American visitors at the Rockland Hotel for September is heavier than during the month of August.

A number of American visitors who have been holidaying close to the village—on Pigeon Lake—have purchased property and have erected thereon summer homes costing a great deal of money.

A new resort was opened this summer between Lindsay and Sturgeon Lake. It is called Lunge Haven, and was operated by a Cleveland syndicate.

Many Americans spent their vacation at Fee's Landing, Pigeon Lake, where the fishing has been excellent.

BLACK KNIGHTS ATTEND SERVICE

Rev. William McDonald Preaches to Members of Royal Black Preceptory.

SALVATION ARMY BAND.

Members of Peterborough Royal Black Preceptory, No. 261, and visiting brethren from Oshawa, Millbrook, Lindsay, and Blackstock attended divine service at Knox Church Church on Sunday evening, where Rev. William McDonald preached a splendid and inspiring address on the theme of Chivalry.

The parade, which moved off from the Orange Hall on George Street, was headed by the Salvation Army Band, under Bandmaster Frank Robinson. The band later providde music in the church for the singing of some of the hymns, while one of the bandsmen sang a solo.

After returning to the hall, the members of the Order heard short speeches from various Lodge officers, after which refreshments were provided. During the course of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. William McDonald and to the bandsmen.

Fenelon Falls Man Has $100 Stolen While in Toronto Taxi.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED.

Victim Hands Money to Girl Friend When Pursuing Cars Discovered.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16 (C.P.).—Four youths and one man are under arrest here on charges of highway robbery in connection with a hold-up on Eglinton Avenue last night, when W. E. Austin, cattle-drover, of Fenelon Falls, was said to have been robbed of more than $100.00, the profit of recent cattle sales. The men arrested are: Charles Wako, Leo Alport, Jim Massey, N. Lepask and Bernard Hill, all of Toronto. Police authorities state that most of the money has been recovered.

Police were told by Austin that after he had completed his sales, he ordered a taxi, driven by D. Ferris. It was during his wait at the taxi stand, Ferris said, he happened to display the receipts of his deal.

Taxi Forced To Curb.

While proceeding along a county road, Austin said, he noticed they were being trailed by two cars, which later forced the taxi into the curb. It was here the robbery occurred. The money, Austin said, had first been given to the driver for safe keeping when the pursuing cars were discovered. The driver in turn handed it back to Miss Elsie Nighsdale, with whom Austin had become acquainted during the wait for the cab. She hid the roll of bills in her clothing, but when threatened by the thugs, she handed it over.

Police believe there were more men implicated in the affair, and more arrests are expected.

PACIFIC FLIGHT IS CALLED OFF

Replacement of Damaged Parts Would Take Month Bromley Says.

WILL TRY IN 1931.

OMINATO, Japan, Sept. 16 (C.P.).—Lieutenant Harold Bromley tonight abandoned his attempt to fly across the Pacific this year, but said he hoped to obtain backing for a trans-Pacafic effort in 1931.

Replacement of damaged parts in his monoplane, "City of Tacoma," would require one month, Bromley said, and it then would be too late to attempt the flight this season. He plans to store the plane in Yokohama during the winter.

Gatty, co-pilot, revealed it was a damaged exhaust pipe and not a leaky gasoline feed line which caused the return of the Vermilion monoplane, "City of Tacoma," to Japan after a flight of almost twenty-five hours, during which the plane travelled 1,200 miles towards its goal.

25,000 INDIANS HELD IN PRISON

Majority Jailed For Part Taken in Disobedience Campaign.

CLAIM CONVICTS FREED.

BOMBAY, Sept. 16 (C.P.).—More than 25,000 Nationalists are in jail, says an announcement of the working committee of the All-India Congress Party, Bengal heading the list with just over 6,000.

Most convictions have been in connection with violation of measures adopted by the Government to overcome the civil disobedience campaign inaugurated by Mahatma Gandhi in his struggle to free India from British rule.

The Nationalists contend that in many instances, in various parts of the country, ordinary convicts have been released to make room for political offenders. Government officials deny this statement.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16.—(C.P.).—A reduction in the price of bread to eight cents per loaf, was announced to-day by two chain grocery stores in Toronto. Bread companies making house-to-house deliveries will not reduce their price of ten cents, it was learned.

Kennedy, Macaulay Martin and Robb Are New Ministers

Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey and Hon. John S. Martin Resign From the Cabinet of Premier G. Howard Ferguson—Services Appreciated.

NEW DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS AND LABOR IS CREATED WITH HON. DR. MONTEITH AS HEAD

Hon. W. G. Martin of Brantford is Made the First Minister of Public Welfare Following the Report of the P. D. Ross Royal Commission.

TORONTO, Ont., September 16. (C.P.) — Announcement of the personnel of the reorganized Ontario Cabinet of Premier G. H. Ferguson was made shortly after noon to-day, following the swearing in of the new Ministers by His Honor W. D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

Brigadier-General T. L. Kennedy, Peel, succeeds Hon. John G. Martin as Minister of Agriculture, while Dr. J. M. Robb of Algoma, takes the place of Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey as Minister of Health. Leopold Macaulay, South York, is the new Provincial Secretary, succeeding Hon. Lincoln Goldie, while Hon. E. A. Dunlop, since 1928 a minister without portfolio, takes over the Provincial Treasurership, Hon. J. D. Monteith switching to a new Department, to be known as Public Works and Labor.

The other new appointee, Rev. W. G. Martin, of Brantford, will head the Department of Public Welfare.

Three Ministers have Stepped out of Cabinet.

The Ministers who have stepped out are Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Wellington South, whose resignation as Provincial Secretary, was announced last Saturday; Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, York West Minister of Health, and Hon. John S. Martin, Norfolk, Minister of Agriculture. The Premier expressed appreciation of the services of the retiring Ministers in the strain of public administration for many years, and said they had determined to withdraw from active participation in the government.

In the re-arrangement of Departments the Public Works has been taken from the Department of Highways, and Labor from the Department of Health, forming a Ministry of Public Works and Labor under Hon. Dr. Monteith, formerly Provincial Treasurer.

Premier Ferguson emphasizes the fact that while it has been necessary to increase the number of Ministers, only one new Department is created.

Following the report of the P. D. Ross Royal Commission, a new Department of Public Welfare has been created, with Hon. W. G. Martin of Brantford, at its head. Mr. Martin will take over the administration of various social branches now under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Secretary and Department of Health. Hon. E. A. Dunlop, the new Provincial Treasurer, has been a member of the Cabinet without portfolio. The appointment of Brig.-Gen. Kennedy to the Department of Agriculture, had been forecast, and it was freely predicted Leopold Macaulay, the new Provincial Secretary, would be taken into the administration.

Premier Ferguson made no announcement regarding his reported intention to relinquish the portfolio of Education.

Ferguson's Statement

"In announcing the changes in the Government consequent upon the reorganization which becomes effective today, I feel that I should express my sincere appreciation of the public services that has been rendered by the three colleagues whose labors have now been transferred to other shoulders. The heavy strain of public administration borne faithfully for a long period of years, and the constant pressure sustained, levies toll on the physical resources of every public man and is bound in the long run to tax his health and strength. For this reason three members of the Government have determined to withdraw from active participation in the administration. The fact that they felt the necessity of taking this course should bring home to the public a realization of the personal sacrifices which public men are required to make when they assume the burdens and the responsibilities of office. All the members of the Government regret the severance of the long and intimate relations and of the valued co-operation and counsel of these gentlemen, while we cherish their friendship and our appreciation of their sterling qualities, changes, however, are inevitable in every organization and every business, and the Government of Ontario is no exception to the rule.

"In this re-organization of the Government, an effort has been made to allot the work of administration so that the burden will be more evenly distributed, and so that no member of the Cabinet will be required to undertake more work than should fall upon the shoulders of any one man. For instance, we all realize that the Department of Highways is sufficient to occupy the time and the energy of one minister without the added responsibility of the Department of Public Works which has hitherto been administered by the Minister of Highways. The same observations apply to the Department of Mines which is coupled with the Department of Game and Fisheries. The Department of Health likewise is sufficiently important and exacting to occupy the full time of a minister without requiring him to discharge the functions of the Minister of Labor as well. In solving these problems and in providing for a Minister of Public Welfare to take care of the humanitarian activities of the Government, it has been necessary to increase the number of Ministers, but with the one exception no new departments are created. The charges therefore are mainly a re-grouping of different branches of the Government which are already staffed, and will not entail the expanding of the public service.

Many Capable Men

"I consider myself exceedingly fortunate in being surrounded in the Legislative Assembly by such a large number of capable men to whom I am able to look in recruiting the ranks of the Government. Many considerations enter into the composition of the Cabinet, but the most important of all is the efficiency of the service to be rendered to the public. In accepting the office of Provincial Treasurer Mr. Dunlop is giving the province the advantage of his well recognized business capacity. I am exceedingly glad to have as my colleagues such gentlemen as Colonel Kennedy, whose brilliant war services are well known, Mr. Martin, whose ministrations at the front of battle endeared him to our fighting forces. Dr. Robb and Mr. Macaulay who have both shown their capacity for public business in the Legislature and elsewhere. I sincerely hope that the Government as re-constructed, will enjoy the same measure of public co-operation and support which has been so generously accorded to us in the past, and that it will continue to advance the public interest and promote the welfare and prosperity of the Province.

SAILOR DROWNS

MIDLAND, Ont., Sept. 16. (C.P.)—A young sailor named W. Skimmerton, of Port McNicoll, a member of the crew of the C.P.R. passenger boat, was drowned shortly after the boat sailed from Port McNicoll yesterday for Owen Sound. He was assisting other deck hands in battening the doors when he stepped and fell overboard. The body has not yet been recovered.

General Revision In Tariff in 1931

Complete Tariff Structure of Canada Will Undergo Revision at Next Session of the House of Commons Hon. R. B. Bennett Announces.

NEW TARIFF PROPOSALS ARE SUBMITTED TO HOUSE NOT QUESTION BETWEEN FREE TRADE AND PROTECTION

OTTAWA, Ont., September 16 (C.P.). — "There will be a general revision of the tariff at the next session of Parliament," declared Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Prime Minister, in the House of Commons this afternoon. Whether it was himself who would be charged with such a revision, as Minister of Finance, or some other member, he desired to make it clear that the complete tariff structure of Canada would be overhauled. The Prime Minister was moving the House into Committee of Ways and Means for the purpose of considering the tariff proposals which he subsequently introduced.

He had indicated, declared the Prime Minister, that the measures which the Government proposed for the relief of unemployment were three in number, of which the proposed tariff measure was one. It was not general in character, but dealt only with such items as would ensure additional employment to a large number of men and women in Canada. He would not traverse the old ground of controversy as between free trade and protection. It served his purpose to indicate that for many years protection had been practised by all parties in the House. Matters respecting free trade had been placed on the statute books only within the last twenty years, but those respecting protection had obtained since 1878.

Hon. R. B. Bennett announced that the Government proposed that the wants of the Canadian people should be satisfied insofar as possible by Canadian producers. The Government, he said, proposed to deal with the countervailing duties brought in by the previous administration.

"With respect to the items dealt with, we have definite and positive assurance from the manufacturers that these enactments will result in no increase in price to the consumer," Mr. R. B. Bennett said. In the enactment provision has been made for that purpose, he said, and in case of any price increase, the Cabinet will possess the power to remove the protection.

130 Tariff Changes

Tariff changes announced by Mr. Bennett numbered about 130. The items covered a broad variety. The iron and steel schedules, cottons, woolens, etc., are among those affected.

The first resolution of the tariff changes was inserted to bring the act into conformity with the new changes regarding dumping. The old dumping penalty was limited to fifteen percent. The new one increases it to fifty. All expectations to the dumping act are removed. Only articles affected by the Excise Act remain in the exemption list.

BAD FOG SETTLES OVER THE COURSE POSTPONING RACE

Committee Orders All Boats at Starting Line Back Into Harbor.

BOON TO SHAMROCK.

U.S.S. KANE, Newport, R.I., September 16 (C.P.).—The third race of the series for the America's Cup scheduled for to-day, was called off at 10.26 (E.S.T.).

A pea soup fog which has given signs of lifting settled down again shortly after ten o'clock, and the committee decided that a race was impossible.

Return to Port.

At 10.20 the committee ordered all boats at the starting line to return to port, and six minutes later the postponemen signal was hoisted. Neither the Enterprise, American defender, nor Shamrock V. had left port.

The fog made navigation difficult. Two large yachts, the identity of which was not learned, collided in the harbor, but with little apparent damage to either.

Postponement for a day, with present conditions prevailing, is a boon to the Shamrock, already twice defeated in light airs. It will allow her after guard more time in which to ponder the two reverses and consider ways and means to improve the speed of their boat.

The coastguard patrol force, which keeps the racing course clear, also remained in harbor.

Sticks With Ship.

Many of Sir Thomas' guests immediately went ashore for the day, but the 80-year-old baronet decided to stick to his ship and catch up with the correspondence and telegrams that have piled up on him since the start of the America's Cup races. The Erin never moved from her position in the harbor within hailing distance of the Shamrock V. and the Enterprise moored nearby.

Sir Thomas shook hands with his guests and was disappointed that the entertainment for the day had been cancelled.

"It's a pity" he said, "people come from so far to see the race and there is none. I can't make the weather but I wish I could."

Only a faint southwesterly breeze was blowing hardly sufficient for racing and much too light to drive away the fog.

Breeze Too Light

The light breeze hardly would have carried the two big racing sloops around the thirty mile course in the five and a half hour time limit, under which the race must be completed to be oficial.

The third race will be sailed tomorrow, weather permitting.

To-day's respite may make it unnecessary for the Shamrock to ask a postponement of the fourth race, which had been considered if to-day's race had been sailed and the Enterprise again had won.

So far as could be seen through the fog neither of the large yachts which collided was damaged to any extent.

They came together in full view of hundreds aboard the spectator fleet, apparently because of mistaken or improper orders from the bridge of one.

Both apparently were bound out for the starting line when the mishap occurred.

Unemployment pay is being drawn by 210,000 married women in England.

America's Cup

THE TROPHY LIPTON SEEKS.

The historic Queen's Cup, emblematic of the yachting supremacy of the United States and Great Britain in the big yacht class, and which is the prize for which the British yacht Shamrock V. and the United States boat Enterprise are battling in a series of seven races.

NEEDS OF CHURCH BEING SURVEYED

Anglican Leaders Discuss Changes For Number of Dioceses.

PRELATES MEET TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.— Several readjustments and changes for extension of work in a number of the dioceses of the Church of England in Canada, as a result of a Dominion-wide survey made in the past two years by a National Commission, were discussed last night as leaders of the church continued their annual business sessions here.

In view of the fact that there are still three dioceses to be surveyed, the report of the commissioners, as presented last night was merely verbal, and was accepted as an interim statement of the commission's findings. Full details of the matters discussed will not become public until the report of the National Commission is presented at the next general Synod to meet in 1931.

Their survey was for the purpose of discovering the needs of the church in various sections of the Dominion, to consider certain changes, and to recommend any alterations in diocesan boundaries which might be in the general interest of church work, regulation of areas, extension of activities of various fields and other church matters.

The commissioners announced the Maritime diocese will be surveyed before the close of the present year and that they will commence the survey of the dioceses of Niagara and Huron early in the spring of 1931.

The major meeting of the prelates to-day is that of the Missionary Society when Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, Primate of all Canada, will be in the chair.

COL. ALEXANDER IS SENT TO HAGUE

McGill Graduate Will Represent Britain at International Court.

CALLED TO BAR IN 1910.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 16. (C.P.)—Lieut. Col. Maurice Alexander, a graduate of McGill University and a former resident of Montreal, has been appointed the British Government's representative at the International Court at the Hague in relation to inter-allied war claims against former enemy states.

Colonel Alexander has been a lawyer in both Canada and this country, and was Member of Parliament for Southwark southeast in 1922-23. He was born in 1889, was educated at McGill University, Montreal, and was called to the bar of the Province of Quebec, in 1910.

He was a member of the firm of Davidson, Wainwright, Alexander and Elder, Montreal.

BRITISH DAILIES SEE NO DANGER IN GERMAN VOTE

Guardian Blames Fascist Gains Upon Moderates' Timidity.

Democracy at Cross Roads.

Most Regrettable Consequence Will Be Effect on International Situation.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 16. (By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—The most responsible British newspaper opinion, while admitting fully the portentous character of the German elections, declines to admit that the startling gains made by the two extremist parties—Fascists and Communists—need to be taken too seriously.

The Manchester Guardian ascribes the Fascist gains of Adolf Hitler and his following to timidity on the part of the Moderates, which threw away a number of excellent chances of forming a strong United block. The Communists gained, the Guardian thinks, not because of the sudden conversion of the German workers to the program of revolution but because there was a widespread feeling that the official Socialists had not done all within their power to relieve the dire unemployment situation.

Coalition Gov't Best

The only government which would have a prospect of genuine stability, the great Manchester daily says, is a coalition including all the constitutional parties now outside the Government but it would not have an easy career for there is danger that a long succession of fowdy scenes will make the German electors disgusted with parliamentary government itself.

One of the most regrettable of the consequences the guardian continues, is the effect which will be produced upon the international situation for while it is not likely that Germany's foreign policy will change it is easy to argue that the tremendous Fascist gains prove a large number of Germans favor an adventurous attitude and such an argument will appeal to all those who secretly oppose disarmament.

The main feature of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, it is pointed out, has been the insistence of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, the Foreign Secretary, upon some Maharajah of Bikaner Makes Plea For Reduction of Armaments.

ACTION MUST BE REAL.

GENEVA, Switzerland, September 16 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — From the ruling Princes of India came another voice to-day in support of Sir Robert Borden's forceful plea for the reduction of world armaments.

The Maharajah of Bikaner, a major-general in the British Army, and a man who has represented India's ruling class abroad more perhaps than any of his peers, told the Assembly of the League of Nations that while he himself came from one of the martial races of India no one knew better than the soldier that there could not be effective security without limitation of armaments.

"Limitation of armaments," added the Maharajah, "must be real, universal, and substantial."

Bruins Grow Bold In Hastings County

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 16.—According to farmers in the northern part of Hastings County, bears were never more plentiful than this year. John Davison, who resides on a farm near Millbridge, reported yesterday that one of his cattle had been killed by bears. Yesterday in visiting his pasture field he found that one of the yearlings had been slain and its carcass consumed. He found bear tracks leading into the bush. Traps have been set in the district, and hunters have taken up the chase to exterminate these animals from the surrounding district.

BENNETT TAKES FIRST DIVISION BY 38 MAJORITY

Woodsworth Fair Wage Amendment Defeated By 109 to 71.

SENATE GETS RELIEF BILL.

Barrage of Questions and Objections Holds Anti Dumping Act to First Reading.

OTTAWA, Ont. Sept. 16 (CP)—The first division of the present session of Parliament gave the government a majority of 38 votes in the House of Commons last night. The vote, which took place when the twenty million dollar unemployment bill came up for third reading, followed on the introduction of an amendment by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg north centre. Mr. Woodsworth moved in effect that in cases where Federal aid was granted for public works for unemployment relief, fair and reasonable wages should be paid.

Opposition Backs Woodsworth

The Woodsworth amendment met with the support of all members on the Opposition side of the Chamber and was opposed by all Government supporters. Liberals and members of the other groups present favored the amendment but Conservatives voted it down by 109 to 71.

The bill was then given third reading.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister raised a point of order when the amendment was moved.

"I think," he said, "the amendment is out of order inasmuch as it seeks to impose on th's bill the provisions of an applicable statute which already exists. So far as the other part of the amendment is concerned, I think it may be taken for granted that what it suggests will prevail in any event.

Hon E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries, supported Mr. Bennett in his contention, but Speaker Black ruled that the amendment was in order.

Anti-Dumping Bill.

Despite a barrage of questions and a number of warm protests, the Government bill amending the dumping clauses of the Customs Act finally got first reading last night. The measure came before the House in the form of a resolution last Friday night just before adjournment, but explanation was not completed then. Yesterday, Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, wound up his explanation, and the House in committee proceeded to discuss the resolution. There were many questions. There was some caustic criticism. The Government was charged with attempting to assume excessive power. There was complaint that the interests of the farmer and the consumer generally would suffer seriously.

The resolution, however, finally got through, and a bill based on it was introduced. First reading, however, was as far as the measure could proceed. A suggestion by Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, that the second reading be gone on with at once met with the protest by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, that the bill was not printed and circulated. Therefore it

RANEY SCORES ANCIENT JAILS

Believes Six or Eight Jail Farms Should Be Established in Ontario.

COUNSELS JURORS.

WHITBY, Ont., Sept. 16. (C.P.)—Addressing the Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes here yesterday, Mr. Justice Raney advised the jurors when they inspected the jail here to keep in mind the report of the Royal Commission, appointed to investigate welfare conditions throughout the Province.

Prisoners in jail should be kept employed, he said, and in order to carry out this the old type of jail should be abolished and six to eight jail farms established throughout the Province. York, Halton, Peel and Ontario were counties he thought would do well to join in establishing a jail farm.

Justice Raney maintained the present system of jails was entirely wrong. Criminals of various classes should be separated, he told the jury while prisoners awaiting trial should certainly be kept apart from the others. Out-of-date jails are crime hotbeds he concluded.

Cold and Porpoises Halts Channel Try

Dover, England, September 16. —Beset by cold, jelly fish and porpoises, Berenice and Phyllis Zittenfeld, New York twins, last night were forced to abandon their effort to swim the English Channel when only four miles from the French shore.

Their mother said to-day that they would give up the attempt for the present and would return home. 'They were wonderful, she said, and begged to remain in the water even when we decided it best they come out."

GOOD QUALITY EXHIBITS SHOWN AT SCHOOL FAIR

Annual Event Under Direction Department of Agriculture Held at Garden Hill.

MANY ENTRIES.

Woodville Awarded First Honors in School Parade—Students in Costume.

MILLBROOK, September 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — Threatening weather practically all day, with a heavy rain storm midway in the afternoon, had but little effect in dampening the enthusiasm of teachers, scholars, parents and friends who attended the North Hope annual Rural School Fair, held at Garden Hill on Monday, September 15, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture.

The large tent had about all the available space filled with exhibits of excellent quality, and the innovation of having several members of the School Fair staff, using selected vegetables or grains from a number of clases as illustrations, give practical talks on reasons for the placings of the awards, and useful information on the choosing of exhibits for competition, has been a very popular feature of the fairs this year. The practice will be continued until the entire series for Durham County is completed.

Many Speakers.

All of the speakers, including Col. Odell, P.S.I., and A. E. Summers, agricultural representative for Durham, urged a closer study of the rules and regulations on the prize-list, definite conformation with these being more likely to bring the coveted award, and Mr. Summers also

COUNTY SCHOOL FAIR ARRANGED

Will Be Staged in Connection With Campbellford Fall Fair on Oct. 1st.

SCHOOL SINGING AWARDS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 16. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — One feature of the Campbellford Fall Fair which gives evidence of being very successful and gaining much attention is the County Championship School Fair which is being staged in connection with the Fall Fair on the second day of that event, October 1.

In this fair the first and second prize winners of the different school districts are expected to compete. These districts comprise the townships of Seymour, Percy, Murray, Cramahe, Brighton, Alnwick, Hamilton.

The program of this event opens with the judging of the exhibits at 10.30 which is continued by the live-stock naming and sewing compititions. In the afternoon the tent will be open to the children at 2.45, and after that to the general public.

Special prizes of first and seconds for school singing, and also for Strathcona exercises will be given. The regular prize list will also be awarded.

There will be a parade at 2 p.m. in the special school ring, and all schools competing in this feature coming ten miles or under will be given a bonus of $3,000 while those coming over ten miles will be given a $6.00 bonus.

In connection with this school fair arrangements will be made by the Department of Agriculture to get the first prize winning exhibits to the Championship Fair.

BANDITS ROB MONTREAL STORE IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 16 (C.P.). —In a daring daylight robbery yesterday, five persons, including the proprietor', the manager and three employees of the fur store of G. A. Painchaud on Park Avenue, were locked in a fur vault by two armed bandits. The thieves removed several fur coats from the shelves of the establishment, in addition to taking the proprietor's gold watch.

Escape was made by means of a waiting automobile, driven by an accomplice.

SPORTMSEN WIN RACE WITH DEATH TO SAVE ANGLER

Rescue Party Hacks Way Six Miles Through Bush to Wounded Man.

CUT FOOT WITH AXE.

Planes Sent Out From Sault Search Three Hours in Vain.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., September 16 — A party of sportsmen, assisted by a search party which left the Sault early on Sunday, last night at 5.30 won what was practically a race with death, when they brought Max Soulliere, an angler, to the city with a badly gashed foot, the result of an accident at midnight on Saturday at a fishing camp six miles back in the wilds from Batchawana and about 60 miles from the city.

The injured man, together with Horace Louis and J. Soulliere and Denny Fogarty, was out on a fishing trip, and it was when he went to prepare wood to use in the morning that he cut his foot with an axe, an artery being severed.

A rush 'phone call brought two planes of the Provincial Air Service to the scene on Sunday morning. One was piloted by George Phillips and the other by Frank MacDougall. The forestry planes failed to find the spot where Soulliere was, while Ed. Arr, who flew up later, located him, but wa unable to land on the small lake.

Dr. J. H. Evans, of the steel plant, was called and set out with the ambulance and four men. However, Soulliere was six miles from the road. A number of men went up yesterday morning to assist in cutting a trail through the woods to get him out.

Captain W. R. Maxwell, director of the Ontario Air Service, said that his two planes made every ecort to locate the injured man, but unfortunately their information had not been exact and they had been led to believe that the party was at the Twin Lakes. A three-hour search availed nothing, so they landed at Batchawana Bay and were told that Soulliere was being carried out.

SELLING PLAN IS LAUNCHED

Three Campbellford Merchants Start United Profit Sharing System on Saturday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 16. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — What looks like being a successful enterprise on the part of some of the Campbellford merchants was was launched on Saturday when F. N. Brown, the druggist, J. M. Ferris & Co., the dry goods house, and T. S. Tait & Son, the hardware men, started a co-operative campaign.

This consists of a profit sharing system which is operated through the medium of coupons, the collecting of which secures a choice of a prize. For every dollar spent in these specific stores a profit-sharing card is given which is valued at five cents. The collecting of these cards to the number required for the prize chosen constitutes the scheme. These cards are also given for fifty and twenty cent purchaes, two of the former and four of the latter making the equal of the dollar.

There are fifty eight prizes in all, ranging from a key ring for one coupon to a cabinet of silver with twenty-six pieces for 380 coupons.

To start the scheme working a free coupon was given to every house in town and to the first 144 customers spending a dollar in these stores a beautiful cut glass tumbler will be given free, the only rule being that only one tumbler will go to each family.

U. S. Bank Bandits Head for Canada

Humboldt, Minn., September 16. — In the third bank robbery in Minnesota in five days, two bandits held up the First State Bank here yesterday, forced two officers and a patron into the vault, and escaped with about $2500. The bandits drove northward in an automobile, and officers expressed the belief that they had crossed the border into Canada. Humboldt is a town of less than 200 residents in Kittson County, about ten miles from the Canadian border.

CANADA MAY BUILD NEXT CUP YACHT

Rules of America's Race Would Have to be Changed to Permit New Venture.

U. S. LIKELY TO WIN.

Yachtsmen Believe Twice Defeated Challenger Has Slim Chance to Take Cup.

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 16 (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Writer). — The next challenger for the America's Cup may be built in Canada. This was the suggestion offered by Rear-Commodore Ralph Grove-Raines of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club yesterday afternoon as he saw Shamrock falling behind Enterprise, and saw hopes that Sir Thomas Lipton would get back the odd looking bit of old silver for Great Britain fade.

The rules of the race would have to be changed to permit building a boat on this side of the water. The advantage to the challenger would be obvious. The yacht would not have to cross the Atlantic under her own power. In any case if the Shamrock does not win this series, and there are no indications that she will, Commodore Raines does not see another attempt to take the cup from the United States under the present rules.

The British in Newport to-night put a good face on the matter, but there is not a soul in this city who thinks the twice defeated challenger has a chance to win four races. The experts are as one in announcing that the defender is a faster boat under the conditions of the competition so far.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, the dashing young amateur, certainly handled his boat to perfection. He beat Heard across the starting line twice and gave him nothing, tacking, reaching or running. Some hold that Heard is too orthodox and too cautious, that he pinches his boat. Of course all see the race from a distance of at least half a mile, and their opinions are as various as the sea winds. Most of them would like to see the Shamrock win, or at least make a contest of it, and are ready to lay blame upon the shoulders of anyone for her failure.

There will be a race to-day. The forecast for fresher winds from the west, perhaps thunder showers.

The course will be windward and leeward if possible. This was the course set for Saturday's race, but the wind hauled and turned the match into a run and a reach.

NEW DECK GAMES

The Funard Line has developed for its patrons several new games which are calculated to give them pleasure and exercise. Our best game we call Hit the Deck. The bar is involved to a sufficient extent to make for good will on both sides, win, lose or draw. There must be at least two players of any sex. Each eats a hard boiled egg and then drinks a glass of anything. Then each runs to the deck and back to the bar again for another and another and another. The barkeep tallies the score and the one to Hit the Deck first buys the drinks. Disqualification follows falling down the stairs. The player has to fall on the deck. Otherwise we would have to change the name of the game.

The next best game is called Captain's Bridge, a variation on auction and contract. One organizes a party of at least four and one starter. All stand within view of the bridge. When the captain heaves in sight (do not misconstrue our meaning), the first to see him shouts, "Yoicks! Yoicks! Tally-ho!" Then all try to get on the bridge and down the captain. When he is downed the one sitting on his chest or approximate area has the honor of taking the pliers to the captain's bridge. If he has false teeth, the game is called Spin the Plate.

SEAPLANE FLEES WITH SUSPECTED PACKAGE OF DOPE

Transfer of Box Near Clarkson Interrupted By Two Youths.

PAIR SPEED OFF IN CAR.

Provincial Police Trailing Plane and Car By License Number.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16 (C.P.). — Provincial Police are to-day endeavoring to trace a mysterious seaplane that last night landed on the waters of Lake Ontario, near Clarkson. When the machine stopped two occupants of a high-powered automobile that had been parked on the highway nearby, waded out to the plane and were handed a small box, thought by police to have contained narcotic drugs.

The appearance on the shore of two youths out for a stroll apparently frightened the bearers of the box, who immediately turned about and tossed the box back into the plane. A few curt commands were given and the plane soared away to the south, possibly heading for the United States. The men in the water hurried out and ran to the waiting motor car, which was last seen heading for this city at a high rate of speed.

Police are of the opinion the alleged smugglers mistook the two youths for constables in plain clothes. The pair became suspicious of the mysterious actions of the plane and motor car occupants and immediately notified the Provincial Police. They secured the letters on the tail of the plane and also the license number of the auto figuring in the thwarted transaction. The latter, it is understood, was issued for a smaller type of car than the one used last night.

REV. H. FEIR IS VISITING IN CITY

Old Omemee Boy is Spending a Few Days in Peterborough.

MINISTER IN WEST.

The Rev. H. Feir of Oliver, B.C., one of the West's veteran missionary divines, is at present the guest of his brother, J. A. Feir, 88 Aylmer Street, this city, while the Rev. Mr. Feir is taking a much-needed rest in the form of his first trip East in many years.

Born at Omemee, the Rev. Mr. Feir has spent over thirty years among the Western mission fields. Many places of worship have claimed his services during this time — including Bosswood, Russell, Verdun and Tall Oaks, all in Manitoba.

Ten years ago, after a brief retirement in Winnipeg, he sought new fields of labor in British Columbia. When he arrived at his present post, Oliver, B.C., was a mere hamlet of a half dozen houses. To-day the town boasts a population of over a thousand souls. It is situated in the beautiful Okanagan Valley, famed for fine fruit.

GRAIN YIELDS GENERALLY GOOD

Long Drought Cuts Crops on Acreage Sown to Fall Wheat to 50 Per Cent.

ROOTS SUFFERING.

TORONTO, Ont., September 16 (C.P.). — Yields of grain already harvested throughout the Province have been generally good, the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture reveals. Wheat has yielded from 25 to 40 bushels per acre and oats from 45 to 80 bushels per acre.

Due to the long continued drought the acreage sown to fall wheat will crop almost 50 per cent. below the average, the report says, and in some sections it is almost impossible to plow, and where cultivation has been accomplished there is not enough moisture to sprout the seed.

Corn and root crops have suffered severely from lack of moisture.

THREE CABINET

The by-elections necessitated by these promotions will be held on either October 22 or 29, with odds on the latter date. At the same time the four seats now vacant in the Legislature—South Perth, South Waterloo, Nipissing and South Lanark—will be filled.

Unless unforseen events happen Premier Ferguson will accompany Premier Bennett to England on Sept. 29.

Were it not for this fact, in all probability Cabinet re-organization would have been left over until shortly before the session of the Legislature.

Hon George S. Henry, Minister of Highways will be Acting Prime Minister during the absence of Mr. Ferguson. No changes are contemplated in the Department of Lands and Forests directed by Hon. William Finlayson, Department o. Mines headed by Hon. Charles McCrea c. in the Attorney-General's Department of Col. W. H. Price.

Colonel T. L. Kennedy of Peel, the new Minitser of Agriculture, is a war veteran and a successful farmer in Peel County. He is a veteran member of the Provincial Legislature inter the armistice he set to work to bring himself back to health, which was affected overseas, and achieved the desired result by a long sojourn in Northern Ontario.

Hon. E. A. Dunlop, the new Provincial Treasurer, has been a member of the Provincial Legislature intermittently since 1903 when he was elected for North Renfrew. He was born in Pembroke in 1876, the son of Arunah Dunlop, a former M.L.A. He was appointed Minister without portfolio in 1926.

Hon. W. G. Martin is a minister of the Anglican church and has been connected with welfare work in the province for many years. He is considered one of the best speakers in the Legislature.

There will be seven by-elections some time in October, probably towards the end of the month. Messrs. Kennedy, Martin and Robb will seek re-election in their constituencies as a result of their elevation to the Cabinet. The remaining four by-elections will be held to fill seats left vacant by deaths and resignations.

Hon. Dr. John M. Robb of Algoma, has been a member of the Legislature for a number of years. He is an experienced member of the Legislature and is keenly interested in health matters.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH LADIES' AID CONDUCT DINNER TENT AT "EX"

Full Restaurant Service is Ably Manned By Efficient Staff.

PROVIDE GOOD MEALS.

When sixty or more women work together in all the little intimacies of home life in a tent for a whole week, without friction, too much cannot be said to their credit.

This anomaly was evidenced in the St. James' United Church activities at the Exhibition last week.

With Mrs. W. D. Sargent, Ladies' Aid President, as their capable leader the women of the church gave their loyal support in preparing and serving meals to the Exhibition visitors, who were, on the whole, appreciative of the service, and not afraid to express themselves as entirely satisfied.

The tent consisted of dining hall, kitchen, work room and pantry, all fully manned by an efficient staff.

The tables were each tended by two or three waiters, who were entirely responsible for the service and dish-washing of their own table.

Clean, white paper formed the table covers, which were replaced from time to time. Autumn cosmos, gladioli and asters were the floral decorations, adding to the attractiveness of the dining room.

Busy Hive of Industry.

The kitchen was a busy hive of industry, with its two immense cook-stoves, whose ovens were in constant use, and their tops filled with boilers and kettles.

Quite modern equipment was noted in the water piping to the kitchen, which provided a ready supply; and in the ice-filled refrigerator, keeping fresh the meat, milk and butter.

A quaint reminder of other days was the paring machine, which made short work of the toil of peeling apples.

A long table down one side was found filled with such commodities as sugar and flour by the hundred pounds, lard in large pails, salt, tea and cereals.

This table was flanked by another where pastries were made by deft hands. It was quite interesting to watch the process of this pie-making, which consisted of several stages. Three women pared and sliced apples or pumpkin, while another three made paste, filled pans, and placed them in oven. Another long table held the finished product—apple, raisin and pumpkin pies. These were taken from the tins, placed on plates and dispensed to watiers to required. It was estimated that during the exhibition more than a thousand pies were baked.

Throughout the week three women were constantly busy in paring potatoes, which were stored in large milk cans.

Slicing bread, brown and white was the tiresome task performed by two other women, as was also the peeling and slicing of tomatoes and cucumbers by still another duo.

As meal time approached there was a steady stream of waiters passing with their service plates, first to the table where three people sliced and served meats, next to a huge boiler of mashed potatoes in charge of one woman, and last to another who spooned the delicious hot gravy. Carrots, turnips and beans were prepared and served by another trio of happy workers, while for supper delectable salads were also daintily prepared and served.

In this instance tea was poured by the young men of the church, who also assisted the pastor in ushering the guests to their tables.

Perhaps one of the most responsible positions in the tent was that of the two ladies who were treasurers at the entrance. Any one who was available at meal time was pressed into service as bell-ringer. Several young men were continually busy doing odd jobs about the tent, assisting whenever needed.

Great credit may be accorded the women who conducted the most difficult and tiring of the work about the hot stoves and ovens.

The outstanding feature of the whole tent was the absolute cleanliness in every detail.

S. S. CLASS HOSTS AT CORN ROAST

Members of Grace Presbyterian Church Sunday School Hold Outing.

PLEASING EVENT.

MILLBROOK, Spet. 16 (Examiner Correspondence) — The members of Miss Kathleen Lancashire's class, the young men of Grace Presbyterian Church Sunday School, entertained the 'teen age girls' class taught by Mrs. J. R. Eakins, at a corn roast at Wallace Point, Otonabee River, on Friday evening, when a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent.

Cars conveyed the young people to the place of meeting, games of various kinds filling in the time happily until the 'roast' was in readiness, when all gathered about the open fire on the shore and did full justice to the supper menu.

A dance in the pavilian afterward brought a jolly outing to a close at a reasonable hour. As Miss Lancashire's marriage takes place the last of this month, her class is regretting that a change of teachers will shortly be necessary. Unfortunately Mrs. Eakins was not able to attend the happy party on Friday evening owing to ill health; her girls have, on more than one occasion, been hostesses to the boys' organized class, the church parlors usually being the place where their social gatherings have been held.

The entire Sunday School of Grace Presbyterian church held a corn roast at the Agricultural Park last week, the superintendent, W. E. Belch, assisted by the teachers and officers, acting as hosts and hostesses, and a very happy outing being enjoyed.

The local grounds were chosen because of the culinary conveniences at hand, the Women's League of Grace church keeping tables, kitchen stoves, dishes, etc., at the park from year to year in readiness for serving hot meals on the days of the annual fall fair. The committee in charge looked after cooking the corn, and the large number who attended the out-of-doors' event enjoyed a very happy hour about the well-laden supper tables.

Games of all kinds were played both before and after the tea hour, and the event, the initial one of its kind which the school as a whole has sponsored, was voted an outstanding success, and its repetition, as an annual occasion, is likely to be adopted.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pollock and Mrs. McLaughlin and Miss Violet Vardy attended the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition on Friday.

The pupils of the day school attended the rural school fair at Campbellford on Monday. A truck conveyed the children accompanied by their teacher, Mr. Umphrey.

Mrs. Vivtor Scott and children are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick in Campbellford.

Mr. Fred Scott is holding an auction sale of farm stock and implements and grain on lot 5, concession 9, in the township of Belmont on what is known as the Sam Wilson farm, half a mile east of Old Havelock Corners, on Tuesday. Mr. Victor Scott, who has resided at this farm for the summer and running a milk delivery at Havelock, is giving up the business.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—In a deluge of selling, wheat prices yesterday plunged below 80c a bushel, touching the bottomest level since 1907, barring only 1914. Word that a big increase of the United States wheat visible supply had brought the total up to a new high record did much to pull the market down. Selling was also induced by an official statement that $30,000,000 bank credit which the Grain Stabilization Corporation had obtained would be used to refinance the corporation's present holdings of wheat and not for new purchasing.

Despite early upturns in quotations, wheat closed unsettled at nearly the day's lowest point, ¼c to ¾c under Saturday's lowest point. Corn closed 3-8c to 1 1-8c off, oats varying from 7-8c decline to 1-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Sept. 16.— The local butter market enjoyed another fair day of trading yesterday, with prices steady with those of the latter part of last week. There was a fair demand, and dealers reported stocks easy to move at 30c for Ontario No. 1, and 29c for No. 2. Straight cars of Western butter commanded better prices than these, No. 1 bringing 30¼c, and No. 2 29c to 29¼c.

Wholesalers increased the price to retailers for No. 1 butter, top grade, ½c at 33½c, making the spread on this grade 33c to 32½c, and No. 2, 31c to 32c.

Cream

Churning cream prices held firm with last week's advance, at 31c for special, 30c for No. 1, and 27c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

The cheese market was a little stronger at 15¾c to 16c for new large 16c to 16¼c for twins, and 16¼c to 16½c for triplets.

Eggs

There were very few changes in egg prices yesterday, the market continuing strong at quotations similar to those of Saturday, with the exception of prices to retailers. Country shippers were quoted 31c to 33c for extras, 29c to 30c for firsts, and 23c to 24c for seconds, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Brokers were quoting graded eggs at 35c for extras, 33c for firsts, and 24½c to 25c for seconds, in free cases. But the prices to retailers were up 2c per dozen, at 40c to 42c for extras in cartons, 38c to 40c for extras loose, 35c to 37c for firsts loose, and 27c to 29c for seconds loose.

Receipts of Ontario eggs were light but, according to dealers, sufficient to take care of present requirements with the aid of some storage supplies will be placed on the market.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 16 — Strength at Liverpool failed to bring the local wheat market out of its sinking spell yesterday, prices slipping still lower to record net declines of ¼c to ⅝c for the day. Gains of 1c to 1⅞c were marked up near the opening, but lack of buying support removed the advances rapidly and the market dropped sharply. October slipped to 77¼c, November 80⅝c, December 81¾c, and May 85c.

Only 300,000 bushels were reported exported over the week-end and no trace could be found of more sales. Pit trading was light and the selling was mostly by elevator interests.

Barley featured the coarse grain trade when some of this grain was sold for export for the first time in months. The other grains were dull and practically unchanged from the close on Saturday.

OBITUARY

MRS. ALICE JANE MORTON

BONARLAW, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—The death occurred on Tuesday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Graham, in Keene of Alice Jane Morton.

The late Mrs. Morton was born in Rawdon township nearly seventy-five years ago, being a daughter of the late Robert Reid. She spent all her life in Rawdon township. Her husband predeceased her four years ago.

She is survived by one son, Mark on the homestead and three daughters, Mrs. Samas, of Colborne, Mrs. Swanger, of Peterborough and Mrs. Graham, of Keene.

The funeral took place from her son's residence, and interment was made in the 12th Line Cemetery.

PERRY P. DOUGAN

MADOC, Sept. 16.—The district was shocked and grieved to receive the sad news from Saskatoon that Perry Dougan, a widely known pioneer of the district, had died in the hospital there. Mr. Dougan had received fatal injuries last Saturday afternoon. It appears that he was guiding the tongue of a wagon that was being pulled backwards out of the barn, and that the wheels hit an obstruction, causing the tongue to swing and strike the victim with such violence as to cause internal injuries. After receiving medical aid it was advised that he be taken to Saskatoon for an operation, which was done on Sunday morning. Mr. Dougan was reported to be progressing finely following the operation and no further word came through until the sad message of his death.

The funeral of the late Perry P. Dougan, who died in the Saskatoon hospital on Monday, August 18th, from internal injuries received in an accident on his farm the previous Saturday, was held from the Birsay United church on Thursday afternoon last at 2 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Rawlinson officiated at the service.

The late Mr. Dougan was born at Madoc, Ontario, in 1877; came out to Manitoba in 1900 and to Saskatchewan in 1904, teaching school in the both provinces for a number of years. He was married in 1911 to Miss Adeline H. Brown, of Stonewall, Man. Six children survive him: Gladys, 17; William, 15; Henry, 12; Lillian, 10; Irene, 7, and Hubert, 6. He is also survived by three brothers, Johnson W. of Davidson, Sask.; Harry L., of Saltcoats, and Murney G. ,of California, and four sisters, Mrs. G. Jose of Davidson, Mrs. M. A. Caverly and Miss Emma of Belleville, Ontario, and Mrs. A. F. Kay of Schomberg, Ont. 21 years ago he took up land nine miles west of Birsay which he farmed until his death. During this period he served two terms as councillor and almost continuously on the Newbank school board and the board of the United church of which he was an earnest and active member.

The pall-bearers were: A. S. Wright, G. Hamblin, J. Anderson, R. McBurney, J. Jobb and J. K. Bayliss, all neighbors and friends of many years' standing of the deceased.

Interment was made in the Lake Coteau cemetery near Tullis.

Regular Meeting Of Fenella W. M. S.

ACCIDENTS AND COMPENSATION.

There has been a considerable decrease in the number of accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario during the month of August, the number being 5,838, of which 42 were fatal cases. This is some 200 less than the number during July, and 2,623 less than the number during August a year ago.

The total accidents reported to date this year are 48,277, as compared with 58,514 for the same period last year.

During August the benefits awarded amounted to $572,022.30, of which $466,189.36 was for compensation and $105,832.94 for medical aid; this as compared with $590,316.75 awarded in benefits last August.

This brings the total awards to date this year for compensation and medical aid to $4,946,835.23, as against $5,298,612.81 for the corresponding period of

MANY VIOLENT DEATHS.

In Ontario last year 2,669 people met a violent death—a figure that demands some explanation as to why the number of such deaths in this Province should so much exceed the totals in other parts of the Dominion.

Violent deaths in Quebec numbered 1,542, in Nova Scotia 319, in New Brunswick 260, in Prince Edward Island 41 and Manitoba 551, the total of these five Provinces combined being less than Ontario's record.

Traffic accidents accounted for a large proportion of the deaths in Ontario, 551 lives being taken in automobile accidents, 158 in railway accidents and 145 in other traffic mishaps.

There were 298 drownings and 78 homicides included in Ontario's 2,669 total for last year.

The social and economic loss represented in the sudden taking off of so many lives cannot be estimated.

"The great majority," as the St. Thomas Times-Journal remarks, "are worth-while citizens, husbands and fathers, wives and mothers, promising young people and children, whose passing is a distinct loss to the state and the community. Their deaths not only bring sadness, but often want. Many of those taken by violent deaths are wage-earners, and with their going many families are placed in dire straits."

Despite such organizations as the Ontario Safety League, supplemented by the constant efforts of the newspapers, it would seem that nothing like complete success has been accomplished along the lines of making this question of accident prevention a personal one, which is the only way in which any real improvement can be effected.

LABOR'S LEADER.

The re-election of Tom Moore as president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has been hailed with satisfaction throughout the country, not only by members of labor organizations, but by the press and the public generally.

As the Ottawa Journal puts it, "Mr. Moore represents the best type of labor man," a description that is thoroughly in accord with the facts.

He is sane, reasonable and level-headed, and while ever ready and willing to battle for the workers whose leader he is, his record shows that he has always endeavored to avoid extreme methods and sought to arrive at amicable settlement of difficulties between employer and employee.

It is fortunate that such a man is directing labor activities in Canada at the present time.

With a serious unemployment problem causing distress among Canadian workers it would be an easy matter for Communistic agitators to cause a great deal of trouble among those out of work, and active as are the Red agents at normal times it is undoubtedly true that they are attempting to make the most out of the present situation.

Under Mr. Moore's staunch leadership organized labor in this country has maintained a stout front against Soviet agitation, and it is lucky indeed that he is to continue to point out the sane road to Canada's workers.

THE ANTI-DUMPING LAW.

The anti-dumping legislation introduced by Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, is not new in principle.

It merely puts more teeth into a method of protection first put into force as far back in 1897 when in the early days of the Laurier regime Hon. W. S. Fielding introduced an anti-dumping clause in his tariff proposals.

The object of such a clause is to prevent the dumping into Canada at a price less than the fair market value in the country of origin of surplus foreign goods which the outside manufacturer or producer prefers to sell at a loss on a foreign market rather than to have the price on his home market cut down.

For example, a United States manufacturer whose production is 10,000 machines, 9,000 of which are sold in the United States, dumps the remaining 1,000 into Canada at a price the Canadian manufacturer cannot hope to meet.

Similarly apple producers across the line in times of a heavy crop have chosen to dump their surplus into Canada and thus avoid hurting the price in the American market.

Mr. Ryckman's proposal is to put a stop to that kind of thing, to keep this country from being a dumping ground for the surplus products of other countries and to save the Canadian market for the Canadian manufacturer or producer.

It is in line with promises made by members of the new Government during the election campaign, and the administration has been given a mandate to put the policy into force.

MIXED BABIES.

An organization which calls itself the Associated Mothers of Illinois has been formed within the last few weeks, the purpose of which it to have legislation brought down making it impossible for there ever to be a repetition of the Watkins-Bamberger "mixed babies" case. The concern of the mothers of Illinois is understandable, but it is difficult to effect complete safeguards where the human element is involved. It was a nurse's carelessness that brought about the unfortunate mix-up and legislation may be brought down in quantity to fill many tomes without providing any guarantee that such a thing will not come to pass again. It was brought out in the investigation of the Watkins-Bamberger case that special precautions were taken in the maternity ward of the hospital in which the births occurred to ensure that mothers would leave the institution with their own offspring. The surnames of the infants were written in indelible ink on strips of adhesive tape and stuck on chubby backs. A nurse, quite possibly fagged out after a long spell on duty went "wool-gathering" momentarily and affixed the wrong names, and some of the best scientific minds in the country, called in to identify the newcomers, disagreed. Eventually the majority report they brought in was accepted and an exchange of babies was effected, but there will always be lurking doubts about which is which. The Fort Worth Record-Telegram, commenting on the organization of Illinois mothers, said recently: "The world will doubtless watch the operations of the newest protective organization with much interest. There is nothing quite so charged with unguessable potentiality as a group of mothers on the warpath on the subject of offspring. A man by the name of Kipling rounded out quite a reputation by putting the individualities of the abstract mother into rhyme. 'She is wedded to convictions—in default of grosser ties; her contentions are her children. Heaven help him who denies!'" Several years ago, considerable flurry was caused in medical circles when announcement was made that it was possible to establish paternity by blood tests. Unfortunately, the promises of the originator were not borne out in toto. Scientific medicine has not discovered any means of study of the blood which is an absolute identification of paternity. It is possible in some cases to prove that a certain man could not possibly be the father of the child, but this is dependent on a determination of blood groups and in some instances all the persons involved seem to belong to the same group, rendering the test impracticable.

BUSINESS-LIKE JUSTICE.

(San Bernardino, Cal., Sun)

American business methods are wonderfully efficient. But we do not make a business of administering justice. We make a legal sport of it. On the other hand—well, here is what happened next door a few days ago.

Two bandits in Toronto held up a local bank, robbed it of $2,400, seized an automobile standing near by and fled with the money. Immediately the police broadcast a description of the men and the number of the car. An Italian girl in Hamilton, about 50 miles away, heard the broadcast, and a few minutes later saw two men jump from a car with that number to another car and drive off. She instantly reported the numbers of both cars. The bandits were caught, tried, sentenced and in the penitentiary for eight years, all within 24 hours from the time they committed the crime.

Just a little later, a man who robbed a drug store was chased and caught by two boys and turned over to the police. The next day he was stowed away in the penitentiary for three years.

Observe that in these cases there was prompt, complete co-operation by civilians, police and courts. No criminal lawyers were allowed to bedevil the cases with specious pleas and delays. No technicalities were allowed to interfere with justice.

They do not play with crime in Canada. No wonder they have so little of it, compared with us.

LIFE AND THE DOCTORS.

This is the season of association meetings. The doctors and lawyers have had their innings, and now the British association is in session. In the meeting of the Medical Association there was a good deal of discussion about dietetics, preventive methods in respect of disease and much else akin. Fads and faddists had a rough ride given them by some of the doctors, and there was a marked trend towards what many of us regard as common sense in the matter of dieting. A very respectable contemporary wonders if, after all, life in the average has been prolonged as the result of modern methods of life-saving services. Fortunately, in the meeting of doctors referred to there was no consideration of how life can be prolonged long after the allotted span of three score and ten by certain specifics, often widely advertised, the authors of which themselves usually die young. Curiously enough, the allotted span seems to have been pretty well maintained since the Mosaic period.

There is no doubt that child mortality has greatly decreased, that epidemic diseases have been reduced, in some cases to almost a vanishing point, and sanitation, both public and private, has much improved. Insurance actuaries tell us that as the result of all this the expectancy of life has been advanced by ten years. But, and there is a great big BUT, the obituary columns of the newspapers show, and this is especially true of the ranks of business men, that the majority of those who die are under and not over the Scriptural time limit. Those of our readers who follow the obituary columns of the Journal, and they number two or three each day, find that the ages of the deceased usually run between fifty and seventy years. It may be remarkable, but it is true. The moral of it all is that there is no specific for lengthening our lives much beyond the average of the past. The best we can do is live moderately and naturally, with due regard to accepted hygienics, and trust to luck. Long life is mainly due to an inherited sound constitution, and in this respect we owe much to our ancestors, both one way and the other. What use we make of an asset of a sound constitution is "up to ourselves."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Shamrock has failed again. It looks as if Sir Thomas Lipton will have to make a sixth attempt to capture the famous trophy.

Anyway the selection of a route for the Northern Ontario link of the transcontinental highway is keeping the municipal councils employed.

At least Mr. Bennett was not original when he complained of being misquoted by the press during the federal campaign.

With the Peterborough Exhibition out of the way, the coal man knows that he'll come into his own before long.

Once more the announcement is made that work is to be commenced this fall on the new highway east of Peterborough. Hustle it along, Mr. Henry, please.

With the American defender equipped with many mechanical devices, Sir Thomas Lipton might be excused if he hung a made-in-Peterborough Johnson motor over the stern of the Shamrock.

Either skirts are not so long as the style pages keep contending they are, or they're building the sidewalks lower.—Detroit News.

What To-day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date are of a depressing nature, and a darkcloud crosses your path. Will meet with a great annoyance. Let reason be the keeper of your passions. Old interests revived through the renewal of a friendship. Health slightly below normal, more mental than physical causes.

Children born on this September 16th will have stubborn nature, fiery tempers, and strong emotions. They will be combatative and aggressive and will show no indications of laziness. They will be lacking in pliability and adaptability. They will make faithful friends, and unchanging enemies.

You are a Sunny Jim or a Sunny Jane as the case may be. Both men and women born on a September 16th will keep their color, so to speak, in spite of disappointments and world-weariness. You are never a traveller on a bus of lost hopes; there is something within you that keeps your spirits buoyed up, and your faith alive. You do not choose an easy life, and you live hard, love hard, and work hard. You are of use to the world, and of help to your fellowmen. It is what you put into life, and not what you get out of it, that makes you the happy, contented being that you are.

Your success with people, and your legion of friends, is due to your power of making one and all feel that they are your only interest at the particular moment. You are not a hypocritical listener, for you are indeed interested in others and their affairs. You are a safe confidant, and many secrets are poured into your ears. You do not sap the vitality of others, either by too great an exuberance, or by depression.

You have general, rather than specific, ability, and with your energy, and dexterity of hand and mind, you may turn to many types of work and meet with success. You are fond of sports, but none of them will ever become your fetish. You are fond of reading, without being a book-worm. You love to travel, and are an intelligent visitor to foreign fields. You are eager to learn and to see.

TEMPLE TOWER

BY "SAPPER"

Suddenly my interest revived: Vandali and the girl had come into the hall. For a moment or two they seemed undecided as to where they would sit: then they turned and came into the little room. The girl swept past me as if unconscious of my existence, but Vandali gave me a curt bow.

"Been doing any more botanising?" he said sarcastically.

"Been getting the Yuletide welcome at Temple Tower again?" I returned.

He paused and stared at me, and I thought for a moment that he was going to have an actual discussion. Then apparently he thought better of it and he passed on and joined the girl. I picked up a paper and pretended to read. It was a day old but I wanted a screen from behind which I could study them. They had begun to talk in low tones, and it was impossible to hear more than an odd word or two. But it seemed to me that he was urging some line of action on her, and that she was opposed to it. What it was I had no idea, but once I distinctly heard him mention the word "police." I strained my ears, but they were sitting too far away. Only it became increasingly obvious that there was a fundamental difference of opinion between them over something, and that neither could apparently convert the other.

I laid down the paper and lit a cigarette. Therre did not seem to be much object in waiting any longer. I could not move closer to them without making things obvious, and they were evidently not going to raise their voices. And I was on the point of getting up when some dirt fell down the chimney at the end of the room and lay in a little heap on the whitened hearthstone. A very ordinary phenomenon, and yet—was it? I felt my pulse begin to go a little quicker. Had that dirt fallen naturally, or had it been disturbed by something? Was the hidden listener even now at his post? And yet how could he be unless he was in the room?

The other two had noticed nothing. For about five minutes they continued their conversation: then, shrugging his shoulders irritably, the man got up and left the room, whilst the girl picked up an illustrated weekly. In a fever of impatience I waited for her to go too: I wanted to have another look up the chimney. But apparently she had no intention of following her companuon's example, and after a time she took out her cigarette-case.

I watched her out of the corner of my eye, as she began to hunt in her bag for a match. And it suddenly struck me that the opportunity was too good to miss "Allow me," I said, rising and striking one for her.

She thanked me, and a little to my surprise she laid down her paper as if quite ready to talk.

"A ghastly affair," I said, "these two murders."

"Two!" she cried, staring at me blankly. "Two!"

"Yes," I said. "One outside, and one inside the grounds of Temple Tower."

And now it was obvious that not only was the information a surprise to her, but it was a very agitating surprise.

"I heard of one," she said, "the one outside. But, tell me, who was murdered inside?"

"Mr. Granger's servant—a man called Gaspard. It appears that both men were strangled."

"But this is amazing," she cried. "You're sure it wasn't Mr. Grainger who was killed?"

"Perfectly sure," I said. "The police are investigating both crimes now."

A look of relief appeared on her face, though her bewilderment was still obvious, and I tried to read the situation by the light of my inside knowledge of the Vandalis' plans. The reason for the relief was clear: it would have complicated things for them considerably if Granger had been dead.

"It is incredible," she said once again. "Who on earth killed the man outside?"

"The same person presumably who killed the one inside," I answered, but her remark, phrased as it was, threw a sudden ray of light on what she was thinking and the reason for her surprise at my news. Evidently she must have assumed that le Rossignol had been murdered by Gaspard. And the information that Gaspard himself was dead completely nonplussed her. So much was apparent: what was not clear was whether or not she knew of le Bossu. Her expression at the moment seemed to be that of a person who had heard an inexplicable piece of news: but surely if she knew of le Bossu the matter ceased to be inexplicable at once. And as we continued to discuss the thing, I began more and more to feel sure that she did not know of the silent strangler. Which only tended to make it more baffling.

If Hugh's surmise was right: if our plans had been overheard by someone listening in the chimney, and if, further, the Vandalis' room was the one overhead something must be wrong somewhere. He had put his theory forward when the idea was that the person who had heard our plans was the very woman I was talking to. Of course, it might well be that there was no one there at the moment, and that the dirt had fallen accidentally. And even as I thought so, some more fell down the chimney and lay in a little heap on the whitened hearthstone.

"I beg your pardon," I said, suddenly conscious that she had asked a question and was expecting an answer. "I didn't quite catch your remark."

"I asked if you knew anything about this man Granger?" she said.

"I fear I am only a stranger here," I answered lightly. "He seems a man of curious disposition."

"Is it worth while," she said coldly, "lying in quite such a stupid fashion? A man does not go and conceal himself beside the road on a hot summer's day for fun."

"Is it worth while," I answered equally coldly, "calling a man a liar until you are quite certain of your facts? The reason for my concealment, as you call it, was simple. Mr. Granger has recently engaged a secretary. She happens to be the fiancee of the youngster who was with me. And in view of the type of house it had been arranged that she should throw a letter over the wall telling him if she was all right. Hence our presence there."

She stared at me suspiciously, but with the serene confidence of having told the truth—or very nearly—I returned the look blandly.

"You mean to say that that is all you were there for?" she cried.

"What else is there to be there for?" I countered.

"A man doesn't fortify himself like that unless he is afraid of something," she said.

"Some such idea had occurred to me," I agreed.

For a while she smoked in silence: then she seemed to come to a sudden decision.

"What do you think he is afraid of?" she demanded.

"Presumably the entrance of callers," I remarked.

"Shall we cease to beat about the bush, Monsieur?" she said quietly. "For I really cannot believe that your ignorance is quite so profound as you make out."

"If it enabled me to talk a little longer with you, Madame," I replied, "I would wish it were even more profound."

She waved aside the clumsy compliment with a frown.

"You know who the man is who was found murdered in the wood." The remark was a statement, not a question.

"Let us suppose for the moment that I do. What then?"

"Why then, you must know everything," she cried irritably. "Why not come out into the open, Monsieur? There is plenty for all of us. And now that he is dead there is no hurry. We can take our time."

At last her meaning was clear, and with it the absolute truth certainty that she was ignorant of the existence of le Bossu. She believed that, with the murder of le Rossignol, the only people left to share the reward for the stolen property were themselves and us. But one thing it seemed to me she had overlooked even from her own point of view.

"Madame," I remarked, "we agreed, I think, that the object of the fortification was to keep out callers, and it would not appear to have been successful. Someone must have been inside the grounds last night."

"Precisely," she said, staring me straight in the face. "And that someone must have been a very powerful man. Almost as powerful as your friend who was in here a night or two ago."

For a moment I did not take her meaning. Then it suddenly dawned on me, and I burst out laughing.

"My dear lady," I cried, "you surely are not accusing us of having pulled off a double murder, are you? That is a bit too rich altogether."

She rose without answering, and with a feeling of relief I realised she was going. There was nothing more to be gained by prolonging the conversation, and I wanted to have another look up the chimney. It was certainly not my intention to enlighten her over le Bossu, and if she chose to pretend to me that she thought we had murdered Gaspard and le Rossignol, she was quite at liberty to do so.

I watched her step out into the hall, and stand there for a moment or two as if undecided where to go: then she turned and ascended the stairs. And I, after a swift look round to make sure I was unobserved, made a dart for the chimney. And this time it was not all darkness: Hugh was right.

About six feet above my head was a square opening through which a faint light was filtering. And even as I stared at it something moved behind it, and I saw a pair of savage eyes staring down into mine. Then they were gone, and I stepped out into the room again.

My pulse was beating a shade faster than usual, but my brain was perfectly cool. What was the next move? That those eyes had belonged to le Bossu Masque himself I felt sure, but what was going to happen now? According to Hugh, the Vandalis' room was above us, and Madame Vandali had just gone upstairs. So that she would be bound to find him, and what then? Because, from my reading of the case, she didn't know of his existence.

I waited—but there was no sound. Then I took another look up the chimney, but this time all was darkness. And after a while another thought struck me. If, as I believed, the Vandalis did not know about him, would he have dared to go into their room?

I went quickly out into the hall and looked upstairs. True enough, Number 18 was over the little room where we had been talking, and so far Hugh was right. But he had not seen the position of the opening in the chimney, and I had. And I saw at once that that opening could not have been made from Number 18, but must have come from the room next it. Number 19 was le Bossu's room—not 18. The door was shut, and for a moment I had an insane impulse to stroll casually up the stairs, open the door and walk in. I could pretend I had come into the wrong room by mistake, and he could not do me any harm in the Dolphin.

However, I decided against it, and walked over to the Visitors' Book. There was the entry right enough: "H. Thomas, London. No. 19."

"I see you have a Mr. Thomas staying here," I said to the girl. "I wonder if that is the Harold Thomas I used to play golf with? Is he a big man with a slight stoop?"

"He is a biggish man, but I don't think he stoops," she answered.

"Fair moustache?" I asked.

"I think he is clean shaven," she replied. "I really couldn't say for sure. But I expect he will be back for dinner."

"He is not in the hotel, then?" I said quietly.

"No. I haven't seen him all day."

She turned to a new arrival, and I went back into the annexe. What was to be done now? That the man who called himself Thomas was in the hotel I knew. But it was manifestly impossible for me to tell the girl how I knew it. If a man lays claim to having seen eyes peering at him out of chimneys, his audience is more than likely to make rude insinuations concerning alcohol. And yet it was utterly imperative that, somehow or other, I should see inside Number 19. How to do it: that was the problem.

I wandered restlessly back into the hall: what about sitting down in a spot which commanded a view of the room? And to my amazement I found, on looking up, that the door was open. Mechanically I ordered a whisky and soda: how did that fact affect things? Did it mean that the owner of Number 19 had gone out in reality, or what?

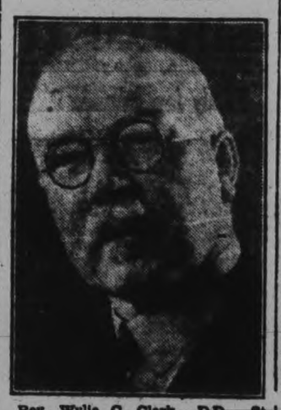
To Attend Council



Rev. Wylie C. Clark, D.D., St. John's Nfld., is coming to the General Council of the United Church at London, Ont., opening Sept. 17. He was formerly pastor at Brampton, Quebec, and Saskatoon, and was educated at University of Toronto and Montreal Presbyterian College.

H. H. POLLOCK HAS UNIQUE BOOK SET

Valuable Collection Has Been Handed Down For Generations.

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—H. H. Pollock, an old and esteemed resident of Trent River, has in his possession a collection of valuable old books which have been handed down for generations.

Among those worthy of mention are the following: A geographical historical and commercial grammar by William Guthrie, Esq., illustrated with a correct set of maps, published in 1800. The grammar is divided into three parts, 1 Astronomical Geography; 2 The Origin of Nations, Laws, Government and Commerce; 3 Origin and Progress of Religion.

A book with geographical sketch of Asia and Nations of Antiquity—earliest social and political forms among Asiatic nations, printed in 1856 in Edinburgh.

A grammar of the English tongue; an illustrated book of Phrenology and Physiology, a self instructor with one hundred engravings, published in 1850; a book of elements of Geometry and a history containing a chronological table of remarkable events, discoveries and inventions; the analysis or outlines of general history from the creation to 1800; also showing how monies were reckoned by the respective nations and the figures standing against the denomination of each foreign piece give the English intrinsic value, according to the best assays at the Mint of the Tower of London.

Mr. Pollock has also in his possession a commentary upon the Holy Bible, Job to Solomon's Song, published in 1834.

Keene

Mr. Tom Goodman, Mr. William Dickson, Mr. Gordon Burns and Mr. Bob Allen, of Toronto are down for duck shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. Erskine, of Lakefield, with Mr. and Mrs. Erskine, Jr. were at Mrs. Robert McIntyre's on Sunday.

Mrs. Patrick Roach is with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Campbell in Belleville.

Miss Mary Doris was among those who joined the excursion on Sunday to the Shrine of the Little Flower at Midland.

Miss Kate Shearer, R.N., of Oshawa spent Sunday at her home here.

Miss Rita Wilson and Miss Lilian Wyman, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with the former's parents.

Mrs. Mollison, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mollison and Mr. William Mollison of Niagara Falls, are visiting friends in the neighborhood.

Miss Leona Johnston, of Buffalo, is the guest of her mother.

Miss Jean Armstrong returned to Ottawa on Saturday morning.

Mr. Will Barrie of Norwood was in the village on Friday in connection with his work of sampling seed grain.

"Mother" Whittemore spoke in the United Church on Thursday afternoon and evening on her work in the slums of New York City. Her audiences were very appreciative of this message from a world so far removed from their own.

Birth—To Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McIntyre on Thursday night, a daughter.

EASIER PRICE ACTION NOTED ON MINE MART

Lake Shore Selling Point Higher at Mid-day is Feature of Trading.

OTHER GOLDS QUIET.

International Nickel and Noranda Both Show Light Declines.

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP).—Dull trading resulted in somewhat easier price action on the mining market during the forenoon session to-day though movements failed to reach important proportions in any instance.

Lake Shore was something of a feature, selling nearly a point higher at mid-day and meeting with brisk demand. A group of prominent business interests are understood to have visited the property over the week-end, returning last night, and the renewed interest may possibly be traceable to this fact.

Other golds were relatively quiet. Teck Hughes fell 10 to $6.60; Wright-Hargreaves and Siscoe a couple each to $1.85 and 33, respectively, and McIntyre sold at $19. Other members of the group were firm.

International Nickel and Noranda were both down a half at noon and Base Metals and Ventures sustained small recessions. Amulet and Sherritt Gordon were up a couple each, and the balance of the Base Metal stocks held unchanged or failed to put in an appearance. Acme Gas did not repeat yesterday's strength, the price easing a few points from last night to 34. Ajax Oil, after early softness, recovered to gain 4 at $2.16, and Alberta Pacific and Mayland displayed small advances. Nordon continued soft, dropping 2 to 91 and Dalhousie was off 5 to 75.

ITALIAN SCULPTOR DIES.

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 16 (C.P.).—The sculptor, Riccardo Ripamonti, died here yesterday at the age of nearly 81. His best known works were "Judicial Error" and "Waterloo and Cain."

WINNIPEG WHEAT HITS RECORD LOW

October Future Under Heavy Offerings Drops Lowest in 17 Years.

78¼ CENTS PER BUSHEL.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 16 (C.P.). — Under the weight of heavy offerings and a total lack of buying power, wheat values reached the lowest point in 17 years an hour after trading opened on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange this morning.

The October future was the first to drop to the record low when it touched 78¼ cents a bushel, for the first time since 1913. Other futures followed its lead, all on the decline.

Lower Liverpool cables and inactive export trade influenced the market at the opening.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 16. (C.P.)—Prime mercantile paper 3-3¼ per cent.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

One company that is not feeling the effects of the present recession in business throughout the world is the Rogers Majestic Corporation, Ltd. This company announces the real value of August sales was $750,000 representing an increase of 50 per cent over August 1929 and follows an increase of 100 per cent. in 1929 sales over 1928. In making the announcement it is officially stated "the above facts and figures express more eloquently than could any extravagant statements that here is one Canadian company to whom hard times and business depression are myths. Not only do our sales break all former August records actually 50 per cent greater than the boom year of 1929, which in turn was over 100 per cent greater than 1928, but demand so far out stripped production that we finished the month with unfilled orders for over one thousand of the new 1930 models of Rogers and Majestic radios on our books."

Bond Demand.

Increased demand and higher prices for Canadian high grade bonds, which fundamental conditions during the past eight months have made inevitable are now rapidly becoming accomplished facts, says Mathews and Company. Since the reaction in the stock market, there has been a constantly increasing demand for fixed income bearing securities, and while the average price level during December 1929, and the first few months of 1930 did not show marked appreciation recent activity has resulted in a more rapid marking up in the quoted price of standard issues.

Dominion of Canada 4½ per cent bonds due 1944, have advanced from 95.90 to 100.50 since the beginning of the year. Province of Ontario five per cent. due 1959 from 100.50 to 106 and municipal bonds in proportion. There has been a clearly defined tendency during the past twelve years, for general world conditions including money rates and bond prices to again gradually approximate those existing prior to the war, say Matthews and Company. The present decline in the world commodity prices is one evidence of this. Money rates the world over, have receded from the relatively high quotations of war and post war years. It is perhaps significant that in 1921 province of Ontario bonds were selling to yield four per cent Dominion of Canada long term bonds, gave an interest return of only 3¾ per cent and municipal bonds for example those of the city of Hamilton, were sold in 1931 to give the investor a yield of less than four per cent, best informed opinion indicates that this present upward trend in bond prices and down trend in yields, is likely to continue for some time.

General increase in the intermediate tariff on iron and steel products was announced. The intermediate tariff on ingots, blooms, bars, and rods and structural steel is increased to the level of the general tariff. On iron or steel plate there is an increase under all tariffs. Increases in the general tariff on agricultural implements to 25 per cent. under the general tariff was announced. Formerly nearly all these implements were subject to 10 per cent. duty under the general tariff.

The intermediate tariff applies to certain foreign nations with which Canada has made treaties. The general tariff applies to other foreign nations, including the United States.

The tariff changes announced today by Premier Bennett include the imposition of a duty which has not been in existence before. This is a duty on internal combustion traction engines for farm purposes valued at not more than $1,400 each. Under the new tariff, the Governor-in-Council may impose 10 per cent. duty under the British preference, 15 per cent. intermediate and 25 per cent. general.

Buildings are materially increased under the tariff announced to-day. Such apparatus under the old tariff entered Canada free under the British preference. Under the proposed tariff it will be subject to duty of 15 per cent. British preference. The rates under the intermediate tariff are increased from 22½ per cent. to 25 per cent., and from 25 per cent. under the general tariff to 30 per cent.

Watch cases, and parts thereof, finished or unfinished—20 per cent., 45 per cent., 45 per cent.

WASHINGTON, September 16 (C.P.). — State Department officials today denied a rumor that Ambassador Morrow had been injured in an automobile accident near Mexico City. The denial followed a long distance call to the United States Embassy there.

NEW FINDS AT OKLAHOMA FIELD

Developments in Fields Also Look Promising For Acme Operation.

NEW STOBIE RUMOR.

TORONTO, Sept. 16. (Special to Examiner.)—It is officially intimated in current activity in the shares of Acme Gas and Oil possibly may be traced to the fact financial arrangements, sufficient to carry the Oklahoma well to completion, have been made important new interests becoming affiliated with the company's affairs. Developments in the field also took promising for the Acme operation, a well known as Hall Briscoe No. 1 and situated near a corner of section 2 in which Acme is drilling, having come in yesterday with a flow estimated in the neighborhood of 65-000 barrels a day.

The Ajax Oklahoma well, in the same section as Acme, has reached every interesting stage, according to current reports, the crew are now drilling out the cement plug put in last week and it is expected the production horizon should be reached within the next 200 feet, a matter of a few days at most barring unforseen accident.

The report of the Department of Mines of gold production in Ontario during August reveals some improvement in the tonnage and total bullion recovered at Howey Gold mines. By deducting figures for other camps from the totals for the province, crude bullion output of $62,923 from 16,444 tons is indicated for Howey this compares with $55,339 from 14,564 tons in July. The daily average tonnage would be about 530 tons in August against 470 the preceding month. Indicated average grade is $3.83 for last month compared with $3.80 in July. R. T. Birks, president, is reported to have stated the later figure was somewhat above operating costs.

Stobie Affiliation.

Rumor around the street to-day had it the formation of the affiliated company to handle trading operations of Stobie Forlong Assets, Ltd., is nearing completion, and that an announcement in this connection is pending.

To-day's strength in Lake Shore had some of the boys guessing, though evidence of improved condition in the company's affairs has been piling up for some time. The declaration of the dividend and bonuses indicated a strong cash position and it is well known, the mill additions are gradually being worked in with increased production as a result. The gain shown in total output from the Kirkland Lake camp in August can be attributed, at least, partially to this fact. It also is understood a party of prominent business men, including interests from New York and Montreal visited the mine over the week-end, returning last night, this may, or may not have something to do with present demand for the stock of the price of copper is reported to have been reduced by refiners in their offerings to 10.5 cents a pound, which practically sets a new low for the present century. In view of statistics at the end of August, the reduction is not surprising.

Most authorities now lean to the attitude that while copper might go somewhat lower as a result of the unsatisfactory statistical position, the heaviest part of the reaction has now been experienced. Only a comparatively light volume of buying resulted from yesterday's cut and a recovery appeared under way later in the day.

Opening Quotations.

AT WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 16 (C.P.)—Wheat, Oct., ¾ to 1½ lower at 78½ to ¾; Nov., 3-8 lower at 80¼; Dec., ¾ to 1½ lower at 81½ to ¼; May, ½ to 1¼ lower at 87½ to ¾.

Over 25,000 Will Be Given Work Under New Rates

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16. — (C.P.).—His earlier estimate that 25,000 men and women would be aided in securing employment through the Government's proposals, Premier Bennett now considered too conservative. The Government had "definite assurance from those charged with production," that the steps being taken would result in increasing that number of jobs for Canadian labor.

RESTORATION OF PROSPERITY RESTS UPON BUSINESS MEN

Wallace R. Campbell, President of Ford Motors of Canada Discusses Present Situation.

HARD WORK NEEDED.

The restoration of prosperity in business rests upon the shoulders of the business men of Canada, in the view of Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

The real worth of the Dominion's business executives will be tested as never before during the next few months while business battles its way back to good times, Mr. Campbell declared.

"Styles for real business men during the coming months will be coats off and sleeves rolled up, for they must work as never before if business is to be restored to its former levels," he asserted. "If Canada's business leaders put their shoulders to the wheel with a real determination to make business better good times will be back with us before we realize it."

Mr. Campbell, who heads the biggest automotive industry in the British Empire and one of the largest industries in the Dominion, is firmly of the belief that the nation's business men hold the key to business prosperity if they only see fit to use it.

Rules to Success.

"There are a certain few rules which lead to business success, no matter what the condition of our national prosperity happens to be," said Mr. Campbell. "One of them is 'work.' The business which applies its utmost efforts diligently to the creation of the best product of which it is capable, which markets it in volume and at the lowest cost consistent with good business management cannot help but succeed, if the product itself is one which the public requires, or which in itself possesses the merit of adding to the public good. To create such a product and to market it hard work is required. That is the first thing our business men must do if the national prosperity is to be restored."

No Wage Reductions.

Mr. Campbell also expressed himself vigorously as opposed to the practice of reducing wages when business slumps, a device which has been resorted to by some businesses during the last few months. Such a means of meeting the present problem facing the country is diametrically opposed to the judgment of leading business men the world over, he pointed out.

"The surest way a business man can assist in prolonging a period of business depression is to reduce the wages of his workers," Mr. Campbell declared. "Instead of reducing wages, the Ford Motor Company of Canada increased the minimum daily wage of its workers from $6 to $7 when the first rumblings of the present depression were heard. We believed this the surest way to help business back on its feet and we think our judgment was sound.

"To reduce wages when business falls off means to frighten the average wage earner, who is the foundation of the country's buying power, upon which business depends. His first thought in such an emergency is to conserve his funds, to limit his purchase to the minimum required by necessity and to wait for the storm to pass. Such a policy and such a reaction is bound to have its inevitable effect.

"The first to feel such a curtailment in buying are the luxury trades, but inevitably such a curb also hits the industries which supply the necessities and it is not long before business men are complaining of lack of orders, when in fact they have only themselves to blame.

Experience Necessary.

"Business men must learn, and the present period is a good time to do it, that the national welfare, and not the dividends of their own companies, must be considered first, if the country is to enjoy good times. They must operate their businesses at levels as close to normal as possible, they must maintain wage levels and they must keep up production, even if revenues suffer, if general business is to be maintained at a normal level. The business man who curbs production, reduces wages or lays off workers at the first cloud of the approaching storm is not fit to lead."

Mr. Campbell pointed out that an adherence of his company to these principles had been a contributing factor to its present prosperity. He said that the company's sales this year were virtually on a level with last year.

PRICE RANGE VERY NARROW

Volume of Trading on Toronto Market Lowest in Some Weeks.

LIQUIDATION ABSENT.

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP).—Toronto Stock Exchange market went through the motions this morning and that was about the best that could be said for it. The volume was the lowest in some weeks, the price range was too narrow to indicate a definite trend although the better known stocks, especially interlisted issues, tended to ease fractionally due to New York influence.

Liquidation is almost wholly absent, selling orders having a limit behind them. Small recessions which occur invariably uncover buying orders so that the market is confinedas a ship in a canal.

International Nickel and most of the oils slackened off to show small losses. Consolidated Bakeries was down to 14 for a loss of a point, Massey-Harris lower at 20¼, Service Stations down ½ point at 14¾, and a few other stocks off slightly. The utilities were firm in light trading and many issues including Ford of Canada, Gypsum, Simpsons preferred, Walkers showed no change at all.

Goodyear Tire preferred met with firm support, reaching 107 where the demand, such as t was, subsided.

TWO BLAMED FOR NURSES DEATH.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 16.—A coroner's jury at Crunlin yesterday held William B. Burton, of London, and J. M. Jennings, of Woodstock, jointly responsible for the death in a recent highway accident of Miss Mabel Brenner, 19, student nurse. Burton and Jennings are being held on $1,000 bail on charges of criminal negligence. They will appear in court to-day.

Eaton Co., and going to the pupils winning highest number of points at the school fair — 1 Handsome silver trophy, suitably engraved, 2 book, beautifully bound in limp leather, "Flint and Feathers, by Pauline Johnston; 3 'This Canada of Ours," by J. S. Morrison and Maud Morrison Stone, both Canadians of U.E.L. stock. The winner of the Eaton Silver Trophy in previous years is not eligible for the cup a second year, but may receive second or third prize.

The Department of Agriculture each year awards a Certificate of Honor to the pupil winning the highest number of points in the individual school, and a copy will also be given the teacher to hang up in the school. A handsome silver shield is also donated by the Department to the pupil winning he highest average number of points in all school fair work, same to be the property for one year of the school winning it. It is however put up annually for permanent competition. Cork school won this shield in 1928 and 1929.

Winners of these special awards will be announced later when figures and names are available, the secretary's heavy duties while the fairs are in progress preventing the complete making up of totals until the series is practically concluded.

was held up, and the House turned to further consideration on the twenty million dollar unemployment bill.

Tariff Changes Out To-Day.

Premier R. B. Bennett announced that changes in the tariff would be made known in the House of Commons to-day. As the Prime Minister suggested making his statement, former Premier Mackenzie King objected to the second reading of the measure amending the Customs Act in respect to dumping which had first to be carried.

"Unless we proceed with the second reading of that bill we cannot proceed with the Ways and Means resolutions at this time of night," Premier Bennett stated; "therefore we will proceed with ways and means to-morrow."

Protest was made by the Prime Minister against any delay in Parliament which might interfere with Canada being represented at the Imperial Conference.

The remarks of Premier Bennett came after the Opposition Leader had put a question in respect to the debate on the tariff changes.

GOOD QUALITY

gave notice that another year the school fairs will begin at 9.30 a.m. as advertised, instead of after 12.00 noon as has apparently been the practice, a letter to the teachers before the series opens next September being promised as a reminder of the earlier start. An earlier admittance to the tent, and the closing of the whole fair at a more convenient hour will be among the advantages of the change.

The schools, teachers, and pupil directors of North Hope include: S.S No. 10, Osaca, Miss Williams, Arnold Cinnamons; S.S. No. 11, Woodville, Miss Lane, Hazel Horner; S.S. No. 12, Perrytown, Miss Ada Langdon, Jean Varcoe; S.S. No. 13, Elizabethville, Miss Mary Cooper, Roy Beatty; S.S. No. 16, Beech Hill, Joyce Gardiner; S.S. No. 16, Pine Grove, Miss Violet Bothwell, Gwendolyn Worr; S.S. No. 17, Pine Hill, Melville Bell; S S. No. 18, Miss Anna Retallick, Grace Beatty.

Mr. E. Whitelock, Assistant Director of Agricultural Representatives, Toronto, with Mrs. Whitelock, and Colonel J. W. Odell, judged the School Parade, and the Physical Culture exercises, five schools participating the First Aid work, the drills, the school yells, and the singing being features well executed and of peculiar interest. The costumes were also worthy of mention, the pupils from Osaca having a large Union Jack carried at their head, the caps being of red, white and blue, the girls wearing white middies and navy skirts, and the boys white shirt waists with dark trousers. The pupils of Woodville school school wore head bands with red design on white, a handsome banner being carried at their head, and the red ties worn showing up well on white blouses and shirts. Elizabethville pupils also carried a banner in blue and white, with flags inset, the girls being dressed as milkmaids, with white bonnets, blue aprons over white dresses, and each carrying a tin pail; the boys wore overalls, large straw hats, and carried rakes; a small boy at the head had a wheelbarrow filled with farm produce, "Young Farmers" being the obvious title for this group. Pine Grove scholars were picturesque with green and white sashes and ties, and Beech Hill pupils had the initial letters of their section done in green paper on tall paper bags worn as hats, green ties being another feature of their costumes.

Awarded Honors

The prizes in the parade were awarded to: 1, Woodville; 2, Pine Grove; 3, Osaca; 4, Elizabethville. For Physical culture the standing was: 1, Pine Grove; 2, Woodville; 3, Osaca.

The handsome silver shield, given by the Department to the school winning the highest average number of points per pupil in all school fair work, was won this year by S. S. No. 12, (Perrytown), a similar honor having come to this school in 1929. The winners of the special prizes offered each year by the T. Eaton Company will be announced later, more time being required to obtain totals than the secretaries have at their disposal while the fair is in progress.

WAILING WALL FAILURE DENIED

JERUSALEM, Sept. 15—(AP)—Reports that the attempt at voluntary settlement of the Wailing Wall dispute had failed definitely were printed in a local Hebrew paper today and stirred both Jewish and Moslem communities, but were quickly followed by denials from authoritative quarters that such was the case. The negotiations, it was said, are still progressing.

where is YOUR Advertising GOING?

YOU give an Air Mail Special Delivery letter preference over all other mail, not because of the carrier investment involved, (you, the recipient, pay NOTHING for it) but because its manner of delivery has CONVINCED you of the importance of its contents . . . . The self same message, carelessly tossed into your front yard, to snarl the blades of your lawn mower or spoil the yard's tidy appearance, would probably gain your attention also, but it would be attention not calculated to put you in a mood to buy the product advertised . . . . EVEN IF YOU READ THE MESSAGE.

Your Advertising Message to be Wholly Convincing Must be Delivered Convincingly

Your may force your advertising message into the hands of a prospective buyer, with countless schemes and methods of delivery, but you CANNOT force him to read that message . . . . . The prospect must be PERSUADED to read your message by first placing it before him in a manner that CONVINCES him that YOU, the advertiser, believe sufficiently in its importance to, at least, GUARANTEE delivery . . . . Unobtrusive delivery, in no sense forced delivery that gains his attention by persuasion; delivery that gives him his news the way he wants to receive it . . . . THAT is newspaper advertising.

AND AS FOR INVESTMENT

The cost of printing in a job room, a circular of the same size as a full newspaper page and mailing laboriously only 5,000 of them to an uncertain delivery, is at least $20.00 more than the newspaper full page costs, and it is given a welcome reception in double the number of homes, without any more trouble to the advertiser than the simple preparation of copy. There is a great difference between the way a circular is looked on, which is "only an advertisement," and the way the daily newspaper is received, so that in the latter case, your offerings are brought to the reader's attention under the most favorable conditions possible. The Examiner reaches 10,000 homes, where 50,000 readers look eagerly for its daily visits, bringing both the cream of the world's news, and your advertising message to an appreciative public.

INDUCTION SERVICE IN UNITED CHURCH

Rev. George A. Adamson is New Pastor of Pontypool United Church.

PONTYPOOL, Sept. 16.—The induction took place on Monday evening in the United Church, Pontypool, of Rev. George A. Adamson, who on July 1st arrived here from Eldorado. A good number were present and the induction was in charge of Rev. Edwin Swayne, of Fraserville, who presided and inducted the new minister. The sermon was preached by Rev. S. H. Moyer, of Springville, who took his text from 1st Cor. 10 verse 4. Tracing the existence of God in the world and the presence of Christ before His entering in human form, the speaker spoke of the influence of Christ among all peoples. An exceedingly interesting and impressive charge was delivered to the minister and congregation by Rev. J. E. Whithame, of Cavan. The speaker congratulated the new minister on his happy settlement as pastor of the charge. The minister has a great many duties and there are many claims in an exacting age like this but his first and chief business is to preach and so to preach that his audience will be inspired and strengthened. And to be the best preacher, the minister must spend a great deal of time in his study. These are days of competition when the radio brings the world to our feet; when by the turn of a dial the greatest preachers of this continent are listened to. But if the preacher has a message, a message of comfort to the sorrowing and a message of mercy for the sinner, even a cosy room and a beautiful radio will not keep the people from church. Then, continued the speaker, a great secret of the minister's success lies in pastoral visitation. People like the minister to visit them. They look for his coming, and he is always sure of a welcome and if he turns up around mealtime they will like him all the better. Perhaps he may have to take pot luck sometimes, but if the people can stand it all their lives surely the preacher can stand it once. The personal touch is a great connecting link between the minister and his people.

Turning to the congregation, Mr. Whithame said that if the church was to prosper then it could only prosper as they are loyal to their pastor. He is their minister, has been inducted into their pastoral charge, and he cannot do his work efficiently unless the people co-operate with him. He is only human, is not free from making mistakes. The doctrine of infallibility has no place in Protestant churches and the minister is just as liable to make mistakes as anyone else. The people may not always agree with his views or his plans. He will not always be right, but the very fact that he has been to college and trained for years for the particular work in which he is now engaged is a sure proof that he will generally be right. The speaker urged the congregation not to expect the minister to lower the tone of his message merely for the sake of a cheap notoriety or a vulgar popularity.

The service concluded with the singing of the hymn "Blest be the tie that binds," after which the ladies of the church served a dainty lunch in the church basement.

I Wonder! will he succeed in Life?

THE carefree little lad who thinks only of play is safe enough now, for you are here to look after him—but suppose you passed on?

You are making plans for his future, no doubt. You want him to have a good upbringing and a good education. Would those plans be carried on if you died prematurely? Even if you live, can you guarantee that you will be able to spare the money later on to send him to college?

Why carry this burden yourself and permit the lad to run such risks?

An Imperial Life Educational Policy meets such cases exactly. You decide upon the sum you think will be necessary and it will be paid to your boy or to you at any future date you set—or if you die before, the money will be paid immediately to him, or to his guardian.

The small yearly deposits, easily within your means, guarantee that your plans will not miscarry.

JOINS WATERMAN'S "21 YEAR CLUB"

R. E. Dickson Presented With Illuminated Address and Cheque For $1,000.

The L. E. Waterman Company, Limited have a very practical way of showing their appreciation of faithful service.

Years ago they inaugurated the Waterman's "21 Year Club" and every employee of the Company who serves for 21 years is admitted to this honor organization and receives an illuminated address and a cheque for $1,000.

On July 9th, Robert E. Dickson became a member of this club. Mr. Dickson came to the Waterman Company on July 9, 1909, in a mechanical capacity. He rapidly won promotion by excellent work and then graduated to the sales force, a position he has held for a number of years, covering parts of Ontario. Mr. Dickson is the seventy-third member of the "21 Year Club"; and the second to become a member this year, the first being Herve Leroyer, one of the staff of the Waterman Factory in St. Lambert.

Mr. Dickson's induction to the "21 Year Club" was made by E. J. Katsner, General Sales Manager of the L. E. Waterman Company, Limited, who also presented the address and the $1,000 cheque.

While the Waterman's "21 Year Club" is of immediate benefit to the individual members, it also has two definite purposes. First, it is an incentive to the younger employees to remain with the Company which deals so generously with its workers. Second by retaining the services of the experienced workers, the company is able to maintain that high standard of efficiency in the Waterman Factory at St. Lambert which means so much in lasting service and satisfaction to every one of the millions of users of Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pens.

For sending letters threatening injury to four people if they took part in Protestant League meetings of St. James' Church, Glasgow, Scotland, George Spiers, aged 20, son of an elder of the church, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

SOCIETIES PLAN TO HOLD DANCE

Junior Institute and Agricultural Society of Havelock Hold Gathering.

SET MEETING NIGHTS.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The regular meetings of the Agricultural Society and the Junior Institute was held at Belmont Town Hall on Thursday evening, September 11.

It was decided, on motion, to hold the regular meetings on the first Wednesday of each month. The boys decided to hold a public dance on November 3rd, if the hall is taken for Hallowe'en. Billie Longmuir was delegated to see about securing the hall for the dance. He will also see about the printing and advertising for the dance. The admission fee was set at seventy-five cents a couple, and twenty-five cents for extra lady. Hugh Buchanan and Grant Seeney will see about procuring the Excelsior Orchestra of Hastings for the music.

Fred Rutherford was delegated to interview the girls to make arrangements for the winter's programs.

It was decided that the boys would invite the girls to a weiner roast at a date in the near future, the exact date to be determined later. Donald Mathison and Billie Longmuir will see about procuring supplies for the weiner roast.

At the girls' meeting, Madeline Armstrong, the president, presided. The business had to do chiefly with programs for the winter meetings, and making arrangements for the meeting place. The societies have really outgrown house meetings, as there are not very many houses large enough to house the two societies. It was decided to interview the Belmont council regarding procuring the hall for the next three meetings, as it is thought wheeling will be up until December, and there are enough members driving cars, to look after the transportation of all the members to the meetings. During the winter months when the weather will be too severe to consider the hall as a meeting place, meetings will be held at the largest houses.

It was decided to ask Mrs. Coates to give an instructive address along Institute lines, as that lady is conversant with the work, and has signified her willingness to help the juniors in any manner possible.

Alma Hagerman and Jean Anderson were appointed a program committee to work with the boys' committe on the programs for future meetings.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Afterwards the members of the two societies gathered round a large bonfire outside and had a very nice social time, when the boys passed around the corn which had been boiling in a huge boiler during the business meeting.

WEDDING BELLS!

MAGILL—McKINNON

BETHANY, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—The United Church at Bethany was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Sept. 10th, when Winnifred Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinnon became the bride of Cecil David Oswald, second son of Mrs. O. H. Magill and the late Mr. Magill, of the 10th line of Manvers, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr Scott, pastor of the church.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was charming in a gown of shell pink satin, made very long and with rippling effect. She wore a hat to match trimmed with soft rose velvet bow and long scarf hanging over the left shoulder, long white kid gloves and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, lily of the valley and maidenheir fern.

Miss Evelyn McKinnon, youngest sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and was gowned in hunter's green georgette frock with cape effect and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

The groom was assisted by his brother Louis and during the signing of the register, Miss Helen Byers sang very sweetly, "Because."

Mrs. McKinnon, mother of the bride, wore a soft shade of dark green georgette, with hat to match and brown fox fur, while Mrs. Magill, mother of the groom, wore a black overdress of silk showing egg shell satin lining with hat to match and a corsage bouquet of pink moss rosebuds.

The guest pews were marked with white satin bows and pink asters and the chancel of the church was beautifully decorated with ferns, white asters and gladioli. Hanging underneath the pulpit was placed a basket of white falling star.

Following the ceremony, the guests proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served, following which the young couple left on a short honeymoon. The bride travelled in a beige suit of silk crepe with brown fox fur and hat, gloves, shoes and hose to match.

The young couple will reside in Montreal and their many friends join in wishing them much happiness and success.

IMAGINATION.

Rightly directed, wisely used, imagination is the greatest gift and blessing of intellectual man. Whether he will or not, it mingles more or less with all his acts, and almost all his pleasures. But how it might be taught to elevate and purify all those enjoyments, would man but give the due ascendency to the finer essence and suffer it to direct his corporeal energies. How it might tranquilise his death! For imagination must ever be an ingredient in that power by which we realise in ourselves "the substance of things not seen."—J. A. James.

DR. O. C. WATSON ROTARY GUEST

Speaks to Campbellford Club on Importance of Mouth Hygiene.

DEMONSTRATION STAGED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Featuring the regular luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club held in the St. Lawrence Hotel on Monday, Dr. O. C. Watson was the guest speaker for the occasion and gave a very instructive talk on mouth hygiene. The club president, H. N. Carr presided.

Commencing his address with the statement that the public knows too little about mouth hygiene and the care of the teeth Dr. Watson drew attention to the fact that in all the smaller communities the children were suffering because mouth irregularities were not noticed and treated, and continued to congratulate the local club on sponsoring the movement for a school nurse which would be a great asset to the elimination of much trouble.

The speaker claimed that ninety per cent of the backwardness of the pupils in all schools can be traced to the teeth and the tonsils, and read extracts from letters where this had been proven. "Good teeth," he said, "were essential to good school work."

Dr. Watson then continued to give a practical demonstration of mouth hygiene. The first matter of importance in the cleaning of the teeth was the choosing of the tooth brush, which should not only be a good one but one with a curved handle, this causing a rolling motion when used. The brush should be used dry, and the teeth should be brushed down starting from the gums. It is always necessary to work from the gums to the teeth. After this dental floss should be used to clean the apertures between the teeth and this should be followed by the rinsing of the mouth with a glass of water using the tongue and the cheeks as a pump to force the water through the teeth. Then the brush should be cleansed in running water and salt.

Mouth hygiene should be the most important exercise of the daily toilet affirmed the speaker and continued by warning his hearers to keep away from the old habit of a family tooth brush.

It has been stated by one authority, that cancer could be cured by proper mouth hygiene said Dr. Watson. Whether this were so or not the Ontario government had acknowledged the importance of mouth hygiene by appointing a Director of Dental Service for the province.

In conclusion the speaker said that dentistry had evolved from the mere pulling and fitting of teeth to a science which had as it fundimental principal preventative dentistry.

Contributing the musical portion of the program G. W. Lucy rendered a vocal solo which received hearty applause.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

I see that you keep smiling and pegging away although for one reason or another or for no reason at all, we all are so silent. What's the matter with us all? We don't deserve to have the privilege which The Examiner has so kindly placed at our disposal. The trouble is that we make all important many things that are really not very important after all and neglect the all important things of the soul—the reading of good things, assimilating them, passing them on, giving bread, spiritual bread to the soul hungry and a word of genuine cheer to help them over the rough places of life.

We are told in Isaiah 58 that if we draw out our soul to the hungry, which, in the most important sense means spiritual hunger, and if we satisfy the afflicted soul, then, "Our light shall rise in obscurity, and our darkness be as the noonday, and the Lord shall guide us continually and satisfy our soul and make fat our bones and we shall be as a watered garden, like a spring of water whose waters fail not," etc. And at the end of this beautiful chapter we read, "For the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Further, "I know that as I seek to practice these things that these rewards are bound up in the deeds when they are done from real desire to be helpful and kind and not for any lesser motive than to see God's kingdom come and His will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

I have just read your little talk Anne on living in apartments and it rather appeals to me, as I do want to simplify living so as to have more leisure for good reading, meditation and giving out again, or sharing with others the treasures found. I believe in simplicity and I think you do too Anne, some folk have the idea to keep getting and adding, and by so doing they cumber themselves up and are careworn and starved in soul on account of it. If we were only wise and would put first things first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all other things shall be added unto you. Added, nothing taken away, no Heaven is always giving for God is love. His nature and His name is love, and love always desires to Give.

You will think I am preaching quite a little sermon. Well I'm writing as I feel. My best wishes to you Anne, and all the neighbors. Hoping to hear from some of them.

Yours very truly,
WATER-LILY.

P.S. Thank you for all your little chats, which you always endeavor to make helpful for someone.

Thank you, Water-Lily. I don't think it would hurt any of us to have a little sermon on giving. Not necessarily of giving money, but of ourselves.

* * *

Dear Anne:

I have been very much interested in your page and have found it very helpful.

I wonder if any of the neighbors could tell me what would clean gray lamb which has turned yellow.

I am enclosing a stamped envelope and would appreciate it very much if you would forward me a reply.

Yours respectfully,
H. L.

I do not know of anything that will restore your fur to its natural shade. If it is dirty, rubbing it with warm corn meal will remove some of the dirt. Possibly some of the neighbors have a formula for restoring the shade.

That Body of Yours

THE MIND AND INDIGESTION.

The surest way for a patient with "indigestion" to retain his indigestion is to go to a different physician with each attack.

If he really wants to get well, he should stick to the same physician so that he can get a complete picture of the condition.

Because, after all, indigestion may have very little to do with the stomach and yet the stomach is the first thing in the mind of the patient.

Dr. W. C. Alverez, of the Mayo clinic, made a study of 500 cases of "indigestion" and found ony 12 cases of actual organic disease of the stomach and only 167 had any recognizable disease anywhere in the digestive tract. Of these, 77 were gall bladder cases, 42 ulcer of first part of intestine, 17 with appendicitis, and only 6 with ulcer of the stomach.

A number had symptoms resembling those of organic conditions; 60 looked like inflammation of gall bladder; 13 like ulcer of the stomach; and 8 like appendicitis, and 16 had abdominal pain for which no cause could be found.

Now why do I write about this?

Because indigestion is one of the commonest ailments known; next to the common cold it must be at the top of the list, and yet here is the report of a research physician who has spent many years studying the digestive tract, and he reports that only 12 in 500 cases were due to a real stomach condition, and only 167 of the 500 had any recognizable disease anywhere in the digestive tract.

What does this mean?

That the cause of indigestion in the great majority of cases will have to be sought elsewhere than in the digestive tract.

And as mentioned before the likely cause of most of these cases is due to the mind, to the emotions and their effects upon the digestive tract.

As you know, fear, anger, anxiety, fatigue, pain, or injury will stop the movements of the stomach and intestine; in fact, they may reverse the movements and cause vomiting.

Thus, at the University of Toronto, where it was my privilege to examine and observe the students for a number of years, about the end of February, during March and into April, the number of cases of "indigestion," accompanied by "blue funk" at the thought of the examination, was ten times as large as at any other part of the year.

The thought, then, is that the worried individual, one who is anxious or afraid of his health or his financial condition, has his digestion so affected by these emotions that he thinks he has some real organic ailment.

Remember Dr. Alvarez's advice, and let your own doctor have a real chance to look you over completely and that more than once.

WARSAW GIRLS CAPTURE PRIZES

About Seventy Students Take Part in Judging Competitions.

AT LOCAL EXHIBITION.

WARSAW, Sept. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The young ladies from Warsaw district who took part in the girls' judging competition held at the Peterborough Exhibition on Wednesday were Isabell Towns, Douro; Mary Rose, Warsaw; Anna McMurray, Douro; Velma Payne, Lakefield; Rosetta Frankish, Lakefield; Helen Tedford, Indian River; Pearl Mullen, Peterborough; Margaret Whibb, Douro; Margaret Coughlin, Douro; Mabel McIntyre, Indian River.

About seventy girls competed and nine prizes went to girls from this district. Anna McMurray came second, Helen Tedford fourth, Rosetta Frankish and Pearl Mullen tied on the fifth, Velma Payne sixth, Marjorie Frankish seventh, Isabell Towns eighth, and Mary Rose and Mabel McIntyre tied on the ninth.

Peterborough County has come up to ninth place among the thirty-four counties in the province competing. In the competition in Toronto Helen Tedford came third.

Mr. Putman, superintendent of Women's Institutes announced that the first five girls in each county will be given the trip to the Winter Fair. For several years the Institutes have sent resolutions requesting that girls as well as boys be given a chance to the Winter Fair.

The judges for the field corn competition were around on Friday but the official announcement has not been made.

AGAIN PRESENTING SANI-BILT WEEK

Snyder People Aim to Eclipse the Success of Last Spring.

The Snyder People—with five plants in Canada engaged in the making of furniture—are again presenting "Sani-Bilt" Week. Company officials anticipate that interest will be nation-wide, and they base their opinion on the fact that last Spring more people wanted to buy Snyder's Mothproof Upholstered Furniture during "Sani-Bilt" Week than could secure it.

They underestimated, they explained, the response that Canadian households would make to an offer of good furniture at a genuine saving of money.

The idea behind the campaign is this: The Snyder Company make a particular suite of guaranteed high quality upholstered furniture and mark it at a price much lower than usual—for the one week only, of course. For example, this time you save $51.010 on the suite. And the low price prevails at every store in Canada handling Snyder Furniture, so that everyone can profit by the saving no matter where the purchase is made.

This is a merchandising plan that the Snyder Company has found enormously successful. Newspaper advertisements now appearing are presenting the details in full.

Six Years Old

Six years old and going to school!
Learning to talk and act by rule;
Taking a step toward the Land of Men,
Never to be quite the same again;
Starting to climb the ladder of life,
Unaware of the danger and strife
Toward which eager climbers are bound
As they struggle upward, round by round.

Six years old and going to school!
My heart is heavy. Maybe you'll
Think I am foolish, and lacking grit,
But you don't understand, unless you've had
Just such another little lad.
And have watched him, smiling, trudge away
Out of your arms to school, one day.

C.G.I.T. ENJOYS HOT BACON SUPPER

Members of Wide-awakes Group Gather at Home of W. A. O'Brien.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group held its annual fall outing at the farm homestead of W. A. O'Brian, east of the village, on Friday, September 12th, when a hot supper was enjoyed and a jolly time was spent.

The gathering took place immediately the girls were free from school, the fun of cooking the major items on the supper menu over camp fires, hedged round with large stones, adding materially to the pleasure of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brian were most kind in doing everything possible to add to the enjoyment of their guests; Miss Marian O'Brian has been the capable president of the group during the past year, and this was not the first time the girls have had extended to them the warm-hearted hospitality of her home.

When keen-edged appetites had done full justice to the good things provided, games of various kinds were entered into with plenty of zest, and as the darkness fell the group gathered about the open fires and ghost stories were told with marked realism, the 'eerie 'feeling growing until there was at least, a pretended fear of leaving the circle of light and warmth and starting the walk through the dark laneway toward the house for the 'homeward way.'

By a hearty round of applause the girls showed their appreciation of the good time provided, and the privilege of holding the out-of-doors social event at the O'Brian farm, this year's outing being voted the 'best yet' in the history of the organization.

Many personal expressions of pleasure were included in the good-byes spoken to the hostess and her daughter, as the guests left for their several homes. The next special event in the group's program is likely to be the Hallowe'en entertainment and social gathering in the Sunday School hall, by which the girls add to their funds each year.

RENOVATION WORK ON SUNDAY SCHOOL

S. S. Executive of St. Andrew's Church Holds Special Session.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Sunday School Executive of Saint Andrew's United Church held a special business session on Friday evening, September 12th, to consider the renovation of the school auditorium, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, occupying the chair.

The attendance was representative, and an animated discussion of ways and means took place, the information secured showing that there is now on hand a considerable sum available for this purpose. The Boneka Bible class, in conjunction with the Tuxis Square and their teacher, had raised funds with the renovation scheme especially in view, and the Men's Bible Class has also a substantial balance in the bank, part of which will probably be devoted to this worthy object.

Following a discussion that went into details in many particulars, a committee was appointed to decide definitely what is needed to be done, secure an estimate of cost, from more than one source if possible, and report back to the executive in the immediate future. The committee, which includes the superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, the teacher of the Tuxis Class, W. O'Brian, the musical director, G. E. Burnham, with Mrs. M. McDowell, Mrs. W. O'Brian, and Miss Burnham, adjourned to the basement as soon as the meeting was dismissed, giving its task prompt attention, and arranging for initial steps to be taken at once in order to facilitate the carrying out of the matter in hand.

The thorough cleaning of the school auditorium, the graining of the woodwork, painting of walls and ceiling, and also the floor, are items in the renovation program that will call for a considerable expenditure of time, labor, and money. Provided the final decision is to go on with the work, there will probably be no action taken until after the annual fowl supper, on Tuesday, October 14, the hundreds who attended that event, with the shifting of furniture, and the many other changes necessary, making it unwise to have a renovation scheme just concluded immediately prior to an activity of this nature.

WEDDING BELLS

EASTWOOD—NELSON

The marriage of Belford Elizabeth, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Nelson to Donald Ross Eastwood, Toronto, son of Mrs. M. Eastwood and the late A. T. Eastwood, Springbrook, was solemnized at Knox United Church today at one o'clock, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. W. McDonald.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was quaintly frocked in rose opaline chiffon fashioned on long lines with fitted bodice to a peplum of tiny frills, and puff sleeves. She wore a matching hat of chiffon with long velvet streamers, satin slippers, lace mittens and carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley tied with white bridal tulle.

The attendants of the bride were Miss Winnifred Melton as maid-of-honor, and Miss Irene Nelson her sister as bridesmaid. Their frocks of miniature and of cloud pink repeated the quaint note of the brides frock with bertha collars and high waistlines, accentuated by rose opaline velvet ribbon. The skirts hung in soft folds from a peplum. Their broad-brimmed hats of chiffon and their moire slippers were of the same shade as their dresses. Lace mittens and old-fashioned mosegays of rosebuds and larkspur tied with pink tulle, completed their costumes.

Noel A. Rishor was groomsman and George W. Gore and Carl M. Campbell acted as ushers. Mr. Potter presided at the organ and during the signing of the register Miss Bertha Hill sang "Beloved It Is Morn". She was becomingly attired in a period frock of net posed over pink taffeta, the skirt of frills shading from shell pink to rose with hat of pink felt, pink lace mittens and matching crepe slippers. Miss Hill's nosegay was of a deeper shade than those of the bridesmaid.

An informal reception was held at the home of the brides' parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood left by motor for a honeymoon in the eastern provinces, the bride travelling in a dome blue tailored frock with dome blue tailored frock with dome blue felt hat, squirred trimmed coat of crystal beige broadcloth and accessories to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood will reside in Toronto.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

SINCE the frost we had in this district about a week ago, I have noticed that Peterborough's housewives are making the most of green tomatoes by putting them into pickles.

• • • • • • •

Right the next morning the thrifty housewives were seen picking the green tomatoes from the vines and taking them indoors where they would be safe from further frosts.

• • • • • • •

There seems to be an endless variety of pickles made from green tomatoes—so many in fact that it would be useless for me to try to name them here.

• • • • • • •

Green tomatoes form the basis for endless pickles, relish and catsup recipes and a variety of sweet conserves, some of them known as "butters."

• • • • • • •

The latter, however, are rather more likely to be made of the fruit when it is ripe and red. The color lends attractiveness to them.

• • • • • • •

If a frost of the destroying sort threatens, and there is not time nor opportunity to pick the tomatoes one by one, cut off lengths of the vine and put them in the cellar.

• • • • • • •

The fruit will remain fresh for a long time when so treated. Of course you must be very careful not to bruise the fruit, or it will not keep.

• • • • • • •

Tomato recipes calling for ripe tomatoes can often be made as successfully as far as the flavor goes, when the fruit is green as red.

• • • • • • •

If you have failed to put up some favorite recipe when ripe tomatoes at prices not prohibitive for doing up were to be had, try using the green fruit.

• • • • • • •

Before using them in the recipe, cut them in slices and sprinkle layers of salt with those of tomatoes and let stand over night.

• • • • • • •

The salt should be well washed out. Drain the fruit in the morning and rinse with at least three waters, or after draining, and washing once, cover with fresh cold water and let stand for two hours.

• • • • • • •

When freshened in either of these ways, use as fresh fruit.

• • • • • • •

When using green tomatoes for pickling the fruit is sliced, and put down in a brine, or in layers with salt as described.

• • • • • • •

The salted water together with the juice extracted thereby is drained off and sometimes the fruit is rinsed. The salt remaining is needed in pickles and indeed extra is sometimes added.

• • • • • • •

Tumeric used in chow-chow, supplies a yellowish tone, but it still has the greenish tint.

Toll Gate Changes Hands Roddy Buys Half Interest

KINGSTON, Sept. 16. — John Roddy, Division Street, has purchased the half-interest held by F. F. Metcalfe in Toll Gate, trotter, which broke the course record at Toronto, and broke the record for the Kingston course established in 1920 by Amardale, when on Thursday last he went the mile in 2.07. It is understood that the amount paid for the half-interest in the horse was $3,500. Toll Gate is said to have been formerly a milk wagon horse around Forest, Ont.

SCOUT NEWS

FIRST PETERBOROUGH TROOP

On Friday last the week by meeting of the First Peterborough Troop (St. John's) was held in the Parish Hall with A. S. M. Reg Howden in charge.

The usual routine was followed throughout the evening, starting with flag-break at 9:15 p.m. and closing with the lowering of the flag and the National anthem.

It was announced that the leaders had made plans for a weiner roast on Thursday, Sept. 18. This roast is for all the boys of the Troop and it is hoped that they will show up. They will gather at the corner of Brock and Water streets at 6:45 sharp.

The Scoutmaster urges all patrol leaders and seconds especially to be present at the usual weekly meeting next Friday in order that the organization of the Troop for the coming season may be completed.

"THERE'S ONE kind of girl who always attracts," says Joan Crawford, the screen star whose vivacious loveliness has won conquests by the thousand. "It's the girl with exquisite skin!

"There's something about a smooth, soft skin that's irresistible, it seems. Just watch the girl who has it. She's sure to be sought after, the center of attention wherever she goes!

"The Hollywood directors found out long ago"—Joan Crawford shook her red-brown head in emphasis—"that a girl simply must have ravishing skin to win her public. Those great glaring close-up lights reveal even tiny flaws, you know.

"So you can imagine how carefully every girl in Hollywood guards her skin! Especially now that the talkies are here, with more close-ups than ever!

GWEN LEE (M. G. M.)
"I find it wonderful!"

JULIA FAYE (M. G. M.)
"I always use it."

"For a long time almost everyone I know has been using Lux Toilet Soap. It does leave the skin so soft and smooth! That's why lovely Gwen Lee uses it regularly. And Carlotta King. Did you ever see more breath-taking skin than hers? Julia Faye and Dorothy Sebastian, too, and ever so many others.

"If a girl wants to have the charm of temptingly beautiful skin (and what girl doesn't), she ought to try this nice white soap. She's sure to be delighted with the results!"

Nine out of Ten Lovely Stars use it—in Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms!

The lovely Broadway stage stars, too, have discovered that Lux Toilet Soap gives their skin just the gentle care that is required to keep it lovely.

And now the European stars are using this fragrant white soap! You, too, will want to try it. Order several cakes—today.

C.G.E. Intermediates Lose First Game to Oshawa

Arabs Win By 3-2 Count

Rose and Swanston Connect For Homers in First Game of Eastern Ontario Finals.

HURLERS EVENLY MATCHED.

Final Run Made in Sixth on Elliott's Double Scoring Young.

It will be do or die with the C.G.E. ball team here on Wednesday afternoon in their second clash with the Oshawa Arabs Playing without the usual sting to their batting efforts the Peterborough Electrics lost their first game in the series with the Oshawa Arabs in the Intermediate playdowns at the Motor City stadium yesterday afternoon 3 to 2.

The usual heavy artillery of the C.G.E. sluggers was woefully absent, and it was their inability to come through with a single on several golden occasions that brought their defeat. "Maggie" Frink, a right-handed hurler whom Manager Hank Cohen sent to the mound when he found that "Duke" Dainty, his ace, was missing at the start of the game, displayed a brand of curves that was wholly responsible for the Electrics' failure to connect for sound blows. Frink had a fast-breaking drop and a sharp hook, but his strong point was that he kept the ball out of the alley.

Connect in Fourth

Twice he allowed his curve to cross the centre of the plate, and on both occasions it was given a long, long ride. Both these slips came in the fourth frame. One was made to Abbie Rose and the other to Max Swanston and both were crashed out for home runs. Rose's clout cleared the high board fence in right field, and Swanny's effort crashed off the boards in deep centre, both making the circuit with ease.

That was almost the full extent of the C.G.E.'s hitting. They did get four other safeties but none came at a time when they would earn anything.

Weak in Hitting

On the hitting Oshawa was just as weak as the losers. Vin Utronki, twirling his best effort in several games, allowed them but a half-dozen hits, but they were stuck in at just the proper times to manufacture runs.

The Electrics were without the services of their star first-baseman, Ash, and this may have been responsible for their lack of dash. Shiner Johnston covered the initial sack in his absence and made a good job of the role, only one, a throw by Red Hollingsworth, being too high for him, which Ash would have grabbed.

All the runs and hits in the game came during the first six frames. After that the teams by their sensational fielding cut short the journey of every hit ball. The Petes played perfect ball, their two errors coming on Red Hollingsworth's throw to first, and wild toss by Swanston which went over Utronki's head. Theo. Elliott, playing second for the Arabs, kicked in with all three of their errors, but after a bad start Elliott settled down and played effective ball. The game brought about two snappy double plays, each club turning in one.

Lose Opportunity

Two errors by Elliott in the first innings would have brought the Electrics a run if the necessary hit had been forthcoming. Jones and Swanston got lives on the misplays, but Rose and Beavis struck out.

Oshawa returned to get one. With one out, Hubbell singled and Rowden walked. Young drove a single in centre to score Hubbell. Then Whiteley hit to Rose who created a snappy double play.

A triple by Rowden in the third scored Oshawa's second run. Then in the fourth the C.G.E. crashed through with their two homers to knot the count. Two singles accounted for Oshawa's winning run in the sixth.

The game was played in the stadium which was originally built for lacrosse and softball. Both teams played sparkling ball considering the uneveness of the infield.

Utronki gave but two walks as compared with Frink's four.

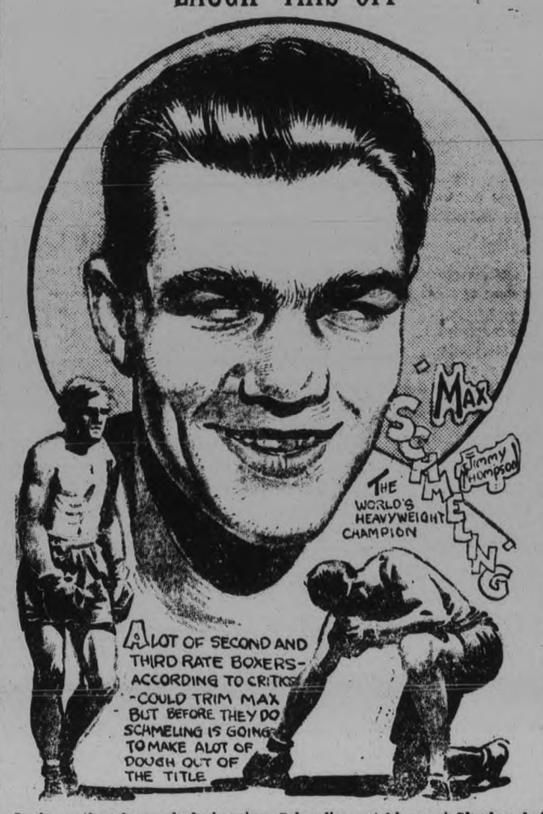
ROBINS TAKE ELEVENTH STRAIGHT WIN

LAUGH THIS OFF



Looks as though somebody is going to get left in this Heavyweight mix-up. Max Schmeling and Joe Jacobs are heading for disaster. Well don't quote me but that's the chatter. As a pair they seem to have nothing but the "Filthy Lucre" on the brain, for they are quite willing to sign contracts for financial reasons and for the same reasons are contented to break them. This idea jumped into startling reality when a recent announcement was made by Jeff Dixon, London Boxing promoter, that he would stage a Schmeling bout in England to test the agreement Madison Garden hold with the German heavyweight Champion. To those who are on the inside of things at the Gardens this was in no way a surprise. Joe Jacobs, it is alleged is the man behind this move and scheme. When he sought a match with Sharkey he had to meet the Garden's terms and in doing this he signed away his rights to promote a fight with Schmeling anywhere but at the Gardens. That's the story as to how Schmeling got his go at Sharkey, but the fly in the ointment was the fate Sharkey according to form pulled the usual bone-head play. To those who saw the bout it did appear that Schmeling had no right to be in the same ring as Sharkey, and he won the title only through the indiscreet tactics that Sharkey used, and so it naturally follows that Schmeling as a champion just doesn't click. Joey, however is not the kind of an individual that matters of this nature would interfere with his designs on the big money, and so far as that goes it is probably immaterial to him whether the German is a fighter of the first calibre or the third just so long as he can secure plenty of opposition for the Heavyweight Champion. He is probably wise to the fact that there are at least five boxers in the States who could trim Schmeling without any overdue effort. True there isn't a reason why the Gardens should have a stranglehold on the heavyweight crown, but it would be better in their hands than sacrificed to such crude business methods.

BROOKLYN DEFEATS REDS 13-5 WHILE CARDINALS LOOK ON

Robins Make Further Gains in Boiling National League Pennant Race.

CUBS SPLIT PAIR.

NEW YORK, September 16 (C.P.).—Once more the pace-setters, the Brooklyn Robins, to-day faced the difficult task of turning back the threatening St. Louis Cardinals as they did the Chicago Cubs last week, if they are to be the first team under the wire in the boiling National League pennant race.

The Robins, boasting a season's record-winning streak of eleven games, went in to-day's fray holding a one-game margin over the Cards and one and one-half game advantage over the third place Cubs. Incidentally while the Robins and the Cardinals are battling in a three-game series, the Cubs will be called upon to meet the Giants, all but eliminated from the race, but still clinging to that mathematical possibility.

As the four leading clubs line up in their second crucial series within a week, the standing looks like this:

	Won	Lost	P.C.	Games behind	To Play
Brooklyn.	84	60	.583	—	10
St. Louis.	82	60	.577	—	12
Chicago..	82	61	.573	1½	11
New York	78	65	.546	5½	11

In turning back the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, the Robins won their eleventh consecutive game, beating the Athletics' former record of ten straight. The Reds started out as though they were going to be tough, scoring three runs in the first inning and driving Ray Moss from the mound, but the Robins were out after the game and a chance to increase their lead over the idle Cardinals, a few of whom were in the stands.

Red Lucas, ace of the Reds hurling staff, went the way of Moss as Brooklyn tallied six times in their half of the first session. There would have been one more run if Glenn Wright, who bounced a home run into the bleachers, had not over-run Babe Herman on the base paths. As it was Wright was declared out and got credit for only a single. After the first inning, the Brooklyn sluggers kept peppering away, rolling up a decided advantage while Watson Clark, Moss' successor, was holding the Reds in check.

Cubs Lose Chance.

The Cubs lost a chance to gain valuable ground, when they split a double-header with Philadelphia, the Phillies taking the opening slug test 12 to 11 and Chicago accounting for the nightcap 6 to 4 after Hack Wilson had pounded out his fiftieth home run of the season. Lefty O'Doul's home run with one out in the ninth and the score knotted at 11 all decided the exciting opener. Guy Bush performed brilliantly on the mound to give the Cubs the second. He held the Phillies at his mercy until the ninth, when they rallied and scored three runs. Heathcote hit a home run in each game for the Cubs, while English and O'Doul also connected with homers.

With Red Fitzsimmons giving out only three hits, the Giants stayed in the race with a 6 to 1 triumph over the Pirates. Swetonic was equally as brilliant after the first two innings, but in those two frames, the Giants scored five of their six runs The victory broke the Giants' five-game losing streak.

Says Fortunes Spent By Men in Courting

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 16.—"We'd all be rich if we had the money we spent on girls we didn't marry," Judge Joseph Wearing said in first division court in dismissing the claim of John Smith, who wanted to get back the fox fur he had given a young woman before their impending marriage. The judge said a fur was not the type of gift conditional with matrimony.

"Y" Sports Hour Is Much Enjoyed

Sports Hour is still a much enjoyed recreation at the Y.W.C.A. Swimming Pool. Last week new water games were introduced to the great delight of the swimmers. The "Y" girls are becoming very proficient and now that it is too cold for outdoor swimming the "Y" pool with its heated and filtered water is doubly appreciated. This month will be a big swimming month. Miss Littlefield, swimming instructress, urged all to attend lessons regularly as lessons must be completed by October first. Gymnasium and dancing classes commence October first. Physical Directress will be in the swimming pool late afternoons and evenings during next week to consult with prospective pupils.

The various contests last evening resulted as follows:

Senior speed—1, Hazel Bradley; 2, Ileen Bowler.

Junior speed—1, Izabel Duffus; 2, Marion Harvey.

Babies—1, Frederick Fowler; 2, Dora Doukas.

Senior diving—1, Hazel Bradley; 2, Hazel Schiarizza.

Junior diving—1, Marion Harvey; 2, Helen Goselin.

Babies—1, Dora Doukas; 2, Frederick Fowler.

Racers back stroke—Seniors: Ileen Bowler; Juniors: Helen Goselin; Babies: Lily Long.

RENUNCIATION.

Renunciation must be interpreted and interpenetrated by the thought of immortality. Then it becomes as beautiful as the rain struck through by the sun to rainbow glory. "He that hateth his life in this paltry, luxurious, selfish, hypocritical world shall keep it to life eternal," said Charles Kingsley, and that is the gist of the whole matter.

Max Schmeling Is Recognized Champ

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 16. (C.P.) Formal recognition as heavyweight champion last night was accorded Max Schmeling of Germany by the National Boxing Association, in convention here.

The association which has jurisdiction over boxing in about thirty states, listed Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., as its choice for leading contender of the heavyweight division. Primo Carnera was accorded number three ranking.

Al Singer of New York, who recently stopped Sammy Mandell, was recognized as lightweight titleholder. All the other generally recognized champions were approved.

SENATORS GAIN ON IDLE MACKS

Washington Batters Ted Lyons to Take 14-9 Decision From Chicago Sox.

YANKS BEAT TIGERS.

WASHINGTON managed to pick up a half game on the idle Athletics in the American league as they trimmed Ted Lyons and the Chicago White Sox 14 to 9. Lyons was not hit as hard as his three successors but was given poor support. Each team got fifteen hits but the Senators were able to couple their blows with White Sox misplays.

Yanks Beat Tigers

If it hadn't been for one bad inning Vic Sirrell would have pitched the Tigers to a triumph over the Yankees. As it was New York defeated Detroit 5 to 3, scoring four of their runs in the second. Thereafter Sorrell had the New Yorkers at his mercy.

The St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader, the Browns winning the opener 3 to 1 and the Red Sox taking the second 2 to 1 in eleven innings. Goose Goslin's thirty-second home run in the eighth decided the first in favor of St. Louis while Oliver scored the winning run for the Red Sox in the nightcap after singling, advancing on a sacrifice and scoring on a wild throw.

BIRDS LEADING ROYALS IN BID FOR 2ND PLACE

Orioles Score Fourteen Runs in Sixth Inning and Win From Keys 22-9.

BEARS BEAT SKEETERS.

Buffalo's Rookie Team Trounce Toronto—Leafs Make Triple Play.

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (C.P.).—The International League pennant has gone to Rochester once more and forced the circuit's followers to depend upon the battle for second place for their thrills during the rest of the season.

Rochester was idle yesterday, but Baltimore took advantage of an opportunity to improve its position as runner-up, beating Reading in a wild game to gain a half game on the third place Montreal Royals, who also were idle. Baltimore now leads Montreal by three games, with only six games to be played. The Royals have four more contests on their schedule, and mathematically at least, still can finish the season in second place. The odds, however, are all against it, for the Royals have lost four more games than the Orioles, and it's losing games that count at this stage of the proceedings.

Baltimore's victory over Reading was scored by a 22 to 9 count as the Orioles broke loose for 14 runs in the sixth inning to turn what had been a close contest into a rout. Bell, Herrmann and Woolfolk all saw service in this wild frame before the side finally was retired. Baltimore collected 25 hits all told, while Richmond and Koupal granted the Keys twelve.

Newark came from behind to beat Jersey City 5-4. Each team scored a single run in the second inning, but Jersey City added a cluster of three in the fourth frame. Newark got one back in its half of the fourth and then added single runs in the seventh, eighth and ninth to win. Leo Mangum went the route for the Bears and gave up only five hits. Walsh and Bream were almost as stingy with hits, giving Newark only seven.

Leafs Again Lose.

Buffalo took Toronto over the jumps 6-2 behind the effective pitching of Joe Bloomer, rookie right hander. Buffalo scored all its runs in the fourth inning. Five of the first six men to face Samuels in this frame hit singles, and the other was walked. Before it was all over, Samuels was in the showers and Buffalo had the game won. A triple play engineered by Burke and Davis helped keep Buffalo's score down. Burke took Munn's line drive with men on first and second, stepped on second and tossed the ball to Davis at first for the third putout, Ussat being caught before he could scramble back to the bag. Bloomer allowed eight hits, of which Bill Rogell got three.

DAINTY TO HURL FOR THE ARABS

Second Game of Eastern Ontario Intermediate Finals Will Be Played Here.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The C.G.E. ball team will have "Duke" Dainty to contend with in their home game with the Oshawa Arabs at Exhibition Park to-morrow afternoon. "Duke" for some unknown reason did not show up at the ball park yesterday until the fifth innings and when he did he wasn't in uniform. He was immediately rushed to the club house by Manager Cohen who had him don diamond-dress in j'g time. Frink was twirling such a nice game that Dainty was allowed to warm the bench. This means that owing to Dainty's delay in getting to the field the Arabs will have their ace to send in to-morrow.

The C.G.E.'s mound selection lies between Abbie Rose and Bun Frost. Both are capable hurlers if not worked too often and both are in great shape for the game. Frost was sent up to Bonesetter "Doc" Bannister at Toronto yesterday morning to have any little kinks and creases ironed out of his good right arm. On Frost's last appearance he went in cold against Point Anne and stopped them abruptly and effectively, while Rose took the skids from under the Crescents in his last effort.

The C.G.E. team will be at full strength for the game, Ash, who was absent yesterday, will be back at first base.

The game will get underway at 4.15 sharp at the Exhibition Park diamond.

Mr. Porteous claimed they were not ill-treated by the bandits, although occasional threats kept them in a state of agonized suspense.

PLAY BIG SERIES GAMES IN BROOKLYN IF ROBINS WIN THEIR LEAGUE TITLE

Ticket Reservations Will Be Exhausted Within a Few Days at Rate Applications Pouring In.

AT EBBETS FIELD.

Sports Writers Look to Robins and Athletics as World Series Contenders.

NEW YORK, September 16. — Over in Brooklyn they are getting ready for the world series. While the Robins were winning their eleventh straight game yesterday by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 13 to 5, and gaining half a game on the idle St. Louis Cardinals, the board of directors of the Brooklyn Club were deadlocked for five hours trying to settle the question of where to play the world series—Ebbets Field, Polo Grounds or Yankee Stadium

Leading the Cardinals by a full game and with nine of their ten games left at home, the Robins have the pennant in their clutches for the second time this season

Although considerable pressure was brought to bear to have Brooklyn shift the National League's games to Yankee Stadium with its seating capacity of 80,000, or the Polo Grounds, with its seating capacity of 60,000, the board of directors finally decided to hold the series at Ebbets' Field despite its inadequate seating capacity of 29,000

Applications for tickets to the world series poured into the Brooklyn office to-day ,and it is apparent that the supply will be exhausted within two or three days.

Manager Gabby Street and most of the Cardinal players witnessed the Robins' victory yesterday, which gave the mthe longest string of successive victories in the major leagues this seasonson The best previous streak was ten in a row made by the Philadelphia Athletics, who are certain to face the Robins in the world series if the latter win.

To-day the Robins and Cards open a crucial three game series at Ebbets Field, which will have an important bearing on the pennant race, but is not likely to settle the issue unless one team wins three straight.

While the Cards and Robins are battling, the Cubs will make one fnal effort to get back into the running in a three game series against the New York Giants.

BANTAM FINAL ON SATURDAY

Leafs and Saint Andrew's to Tangle at Oshawa in Third Game.

TEAMS EVENLY DIVIDED.

Although no definite word has been received from the O.B.A.A. as yet, it is understood the third game of finals for the Ontario championship will be held in Oshawa on Saturday instead of tomorrow afternoon as previously announced. The boys put up a great game on Saturday last, winning out by a hair's breadth after ten innings of hectic baseball battling. The third game will likely start at 3 o'clock daylight saving time and the result will be known in this city around 6 p.m.

The first game of the series for the juvenile championship between the local Kiwanis club and the Toronto St. George's will also be staged on Saturday with the Peterborough entry entertaining the Saints.

Aspirants Out For Two Varsity Squads

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16. — (C.P.).—Unusual enthusiasm was shown at the first practice of the University of Toronto inter-collegiate football squad last evening. Despite the hot weather, 76 aspirants for places on the Blue machine turned out in company with hundreds of rooters.

Les Blackwell will again coach the Varsity team, while Lou Carrol will handle the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior squad.

Twelve of last year's inter-collegiate team were present.

AFFILIATION IS DEBATED

Fans Get Opportunity to Hear Pro's and Con's of Organized Football.

GORDON CUP SATURDAY.

A real old fashioned soccer meeting took place last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, under the jurisdiction of the P. and D. F. A., when the subject of affiliation came under discussion preparatory to the conclusion of the fiscal year of the present board.

Definite remarks were made in reference to the voting power of the clubs and persons so allowed to participate in the deciding factor of any question that may be brought up at the annual general meeting.

The debate proved educational from many angles in which all explained the advantages of the organized football but had the fear that without an explanatory meeting it would be unwise to proceed further along the suggested progress.

Finally the board accepte dthe generous offer of Fred Sutcliffe who stated that he would interview Robt. Muir, of the Ontario Football Association, in regards to him addressing a meeting of the local fans on the benefits to be derived under organized soccer. He stated that he was willing to pay all expenses incurred so that Peterborough would get into its old standing again. A large hall will be obtained and the meeting will conform to the wish of the secretary of the O.F.A. as to the date selected. If the board decides to affiliate, they must harmonize their local rules with the O.F.A. and D.F.A. All fans and those interested will receive a hearty welcome. Questions will : answered on the subject of football.

Game Saturday.

The final of the G. N. Gordon cup will take place on Saturday afternoon on King Edward Park, between the Brinton Athletic and the Canadian Packing. Kick-off at three o'clock. Linesmen—T. Stewart and Alexander Anderson. At the conclusion of the game, the donor of the trophy will present it.

Points Awarded.

Under the ruling through default, the Canadian General lost two points to the Caledonians when they failed to appear last Saturday afternoon.

Acceded to Request.

Fred Sutcliffe intimated to the board that he had an interview with the Rev. Father Phelan in Campbellford recently, and informed them that the donor had already obtained a new cup for next season. To meet the wish of the giver, the board agreed to return him the old trophy with its many shields upon it depicting the winners of the nine years of its existence, at a meeting in the month of December, under the heading of a "Soccer Night."

Notice of Motion.

Vincent Stewart and W. Harrington gave the following notice of motion: "That no other rules to be dealt with other than the O.F.A. and D.F.A. under the jurisdiction of the P. and D.F.A.

YANKEES BUY FRANK BARNES

Toronto Leafs to Receive Cash and Players For Southpaw Pitcher.

TO REBUILD FOR 1931.

TORONTO, September 16.—Southpaw Frank Barnes was sold to the New York American League Club by the Toronto Baseball Club last night. In announcing the deal, President Lol Solman of the Toronto Club declared that cash and players had been secured for Barnes. Barnes will report to the Yankees next spring.

Barnes is the second Toronto pitcher to be sold to the Yankees in the past few days, Sam (Hoot) Gibson having been purchased by the New York Club on Saturday night Gibson has already reported to the Yankees.

According to President Solman, Toronto will receive cash and players for Gibson, and the sale of the two winning Leaf pitchers is part of a plan to bring new talent to the Maple Leafs and build up a pennant winner for next season.

Two Seasons With Leafs.

Gibson and Barnes have been with the Leafs for two seasons. Gibson joied the O'Neillmen at Baltimore previous to the opening game of the 1929 season. Barnes came about a month later. Both came from the Detroit Tigers. Gibson was with the Leafs when Dan Howley was manager in 1923 and 1924. During the present season he has won 15 and lost 12 games. He has a number of shutouts to his credit. When he was in form he was one of the best pitchers in the league, but he had his bad days as well and was quickly batted out when he wasn't right. Barnes has been one of the most consistent hurlers for the Leafs this season. He has lost 13 and won 12 to date He has given some fine performances, and with another chance to make good in major league company he may make the grade. The Toronto Club did not mention whether the sales were contingent on the players making good or not.

Both players were subject to draft this season, and as yesterday was the closing day for sale of players, the Toronto Club managed to market the players for a higher price than they would have brought in the draft. Toronto Club officials have been negotiating for their sale for several days past, and it will not be surprising if further deals are announced before the end of the week. It is no secret that several present members of the Maple Leafs will be traded or sold before next season rolls around.

LAWN BOWLING

AT LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 16. (Examiner Correspondence).—Local interest and enthusiasm centred largely at the bowling green last week when the recently organized lawn bowling club held a tournament which not only was of interest to the members but a good advertisement to the public of the real fun in the game. Several of the games were so close that the interest was keen to the very last and held the crowd's attention.

The following are the results of the games to date:

J. W. Ridpath, skip, 10; T. Crawford, skip, 9.

W. G. Morrison, skip, 17; W. J. N. Moore, skip, 3.

C. C. Stenner, skip, 10; Rev. T. M. Wesley, skip, 5.

C. S. Tanner, defeated Rev. W. J. Creighton, skip.

C. C. Stenner, skip 10, W. G. Morrison, skip, 6.

J. W. Ridpath, skip, 13; C. Thomson, 7.

C. S. Tanner, skip, 8; C. C. Stenner skip, 4.

Charlie Belanger Wins In His First Appearance

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16 (C.P.).—Making his first appearance in the ring since fracturing his hand some weeks ago, Charlie Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight champion of Winnipeg, secured a unanimous decision over Joe Sekyra, clean hitting light-heavyweight from Dayton, Ohio, in their 10-round bout which featured the Shamrock Athletic Club's sparkling show here last night.

AT THE REGENT

"JOURNEY'S END"

"In the mud and scum of things, something lovely always sings." Was it Emerson or Carlyle who said that? It doesn't matter. It has an application to "Journey's End" anyway, the picture that is drawing capacity crowds to the Regent Theatre and sending them away with a strange look in their eyes.

It is a silent crowd that watches this picture and the ending is given the supreme tribute of enthralling silence,—and a little sigh.

In the dugout where the chief scenes are staged (and, by the way, the stage play had no other locale than that same dugout) the tension grows, moment by moment, until the "big attack" wipes the slate free of it and of most of the characters. Stanhope (Colin Clive) sits there, eating his heart out. What a characterization this, of the stern, dark face, the sombre burning eyes, the strong, twisted mouth of the man who was slowly growing mad under the torture of prolonged war.

It is a picture without a woman. Hollywood filmsters assured R. C. Sherriff, who wrote the play, that the picture would have to be changed. It needed sex appeal, they said. But they were wrong. It is a drama of men, men of war, in their strong and weak moods. Stranhope blusters and drinks and—finally, breaks down in one heart-catching moment. Raleigh, the lad with the crusader face, goes out with Osborne, the kindly loved schoolmaster lieutenant and comes back alone, in a surprise ra'd that nets them a shivering German soldier. Trotter, the fat, thick-skinned good-natured comrade, provides the comedy relief that is necessary to relieve the mounting tension, and then there is Mason ,the batman, with his "cutlets" and his pink blanc mange.

Cooties find their finish in a candle-flame; there are cockroach races with a whiskey bath to liven up the black darting insects; there is the tragedy of the missing pepper pot for the bowls of yellow soup, discussion rises and falls over the merits of coffee or tea as a drink, just before the men go out to almost certain death. It is the attitude of the British Public School boy that is immortalized in this picture; the staff guarded rigidity about "playing the game" and keeping the upper lip stiff.

Osborne reads from "Alice in Wonderland" before he goes out to the tangled wires and the gaping shellholes of No Man's Land, and Stanhope bolsters his failing courage with stiff 'spots' of Back and White whiskey. They joke while their hearts are breaking. "Cest la guerre."

It is impossible to describe the impression created by "Journey's End." It certainly hasn't been overestimated. It is a dramatic and detailed portrayal of life, a slice of life out from raw, quivering flesh—the flesh and souls of men in the trenches and the dugouts during the days of the Great Conflict. They are here—heroes, madmen, cowards, and jokesters, drawn with a master pencil. And their clipped, trenchant manner of speech, their strangely limited vocabulary that sends them to drink a cup of coffee or to face death from whining shells, with the one word, "Right-o" on their lips, seems to be quite right in this atmosphere of strain and tension.

—Jeanette.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIG SHELL.

"Have you caught Uncle Wiggily yet?" roared the Sea Lion of the Sea Wolf, who was sitting on the sand at the edge of the water.

"No, I haven't," answered the other Bad Chap, looking at the Sea Lion, who was bobbing up and down like a cork in the ocean waves near shore.

"Well, you had better do it soon," went on the Lion.

"Why?" asked the Wolf.

"Because," answered the Lion, "that rabbit is going to move his family up from the shore next week. School begins for the children and they won't be here after Saturday. So you had better step on the gas if you are going to catch him."

The very thing for my wife!

"I will!" growled the Sea Wolf. "But how do you know Uncle Wiggily is going to leave here Saturday?"

"He told the Whale so and I heard him," answered the Lion. "You know the Whale has been pretending to be a fountain for Mrs. Longears—lying close in shore and spouting water through his blow holes to please the rabbit lady. Uncle Wiggily was so glad that the Whale made a fountain out of himself that the rabbit talked a lot and the Whale told me all about it. So if you're going to do any rabbit nibbling you had better start something."

"I will!" muttered the other Bad Chap. "I'll get after Uncle Wiggily right away. Here he comes now. I'll sneak along after him, hiding in among the sand hills where he can't see me, and when I get him to a lonesome place, where he can't call his friend the old Sea Dog to help, I'll nibble him."

"Well, I wish you luck," growled the Sea Lion. "I'm not very good flopping around on land or I'd help you chase him."

"I can do it alone all right!" boasted the Sea Wolf. "I'll catch him when he gets among the sand hills!"

The Wolf slunk away, his tail held between his legs so it would not flutter in the sea breeze and let Uncle Wiggily know a Bad Chap was after him. For the rabbit gentleman was walking along the beach all alone by himself, and it was a good chance to catch him, the Wolf thought. He was very angry, this Bad Chap was, at the way Uncle Wiggily had fooled him more than once, when the Wolf thought sure he was going to catch the rabbit.

Now the reason Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the beach, all alone by himself, was this: That morning his wife had said:

"Wiggy, I wish I had a big sea shell to take home with us! I think they look so stylish on the front porch. The children have gathered a lot of pretty, little shells, but I want a large one, as big as a wash tub."

"You shall have it, my dear!" promised Uncle Wiggily, who always did everything his wife asked, not being like some rabbits, who think anything is good enough for the women folks.

So Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the beach looking for a shell, and not knowing anything about the Sea Wolf who was sneaking after him, hiding in among the hills of sand which were scattered here and there.

All of a sudden, down near the edge of the waves, Mr. Longears saw a dandy, big shell. It was nearly as large as a tub and was the kind of a shell that a clam lives in.

"The very thing for my wife!" cried Uncle Wiggily, hopping toward the shell, which was stuck up on edge in the sand like a sun umbrella. "But it is so large that I shall have to fasten a seaweed rope to it and get the children to help me drag it up to the bungalow so I can get it in the auto to take home."

Uncle Wiggily hopped closer to the shell to look at it. From behind a hil of sand the Wolf slunk closer to the rabbit. Then Uncle Wiggily noticed that there were two shells, the lower one being in a little pool of water, and in the lower shell was Mr. Clam himself. The Clam had been washed up on shore from the deep sea and had opened his top shell, hoping a wave would bang against it and wash him back again. For he must live in the ocean and not on land.

Uncle Wiggily stood close to the lower shell and was surprised to see Mr. Clam in it. The rabbit was going to ask the sea creature if he knew where there was an old empty shell as large as his when, all of a sudden, the Wolf made a jump to nibble the rabbit.

"Quick, Uncle Wiggily!" cried the Clam. "Get in my lower shell and I'll save you!" The rabbit stepped into the pool of water and into the big shell where Mr. Clam lived. At the same time the sea creature lowered the top shell down over the rabbit like a tin cover, shutting him up inside where the Wolf couldn't get him. It was dark and clammy inside the shell, but Uncle Wiggily didn't mind it for a little while.

"As soon as the Wolf goes away I'll open and let you out," said Mr. Clam. Meanwhile, make yourself at home.

So the rabbit did, sitting on one of the Clam's ears while outside the Wolf snarled and growled. But he couldn't get the rabbit.

Headaches
Colds

ASPIRIN tablets will relieve pain. No doubt about that. Even those deep-seated pains that make a man's very bones ache. Even the systemic pains that women suffer. They yield to these tablets! Genuine Aspirin has many important uses. Read the proven directions found in every package of Aspirin tablets and don't endure needless pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc. Keep a bottle of these tablets in the house; carry the pocket tin if subject to unexpected headaches, sudden colds. Quick relief, without any harmful effects. Aspirin does not depress the heart. Just look each time for the name Aspirin—and the word genuine printed in red on every box.

The senior mixed Sunday School Class of the United Church held a delightful party at the summer home of Rev. Mr. Archer on Wednesday evening, September 10, when the members of the class gathered there for a weiner roast round a large bonfire made at the shore. A really enjoyable time was had by all present.

The Misses Emma and Nina McColl and Mr. Boulton Armstrong, all of Warkworth, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Archie McColl and family.

Mrs. Clifford Jamieson, Miss Marjorie and Master Elmore were recent visitors with Toronto friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Veale were recent visitors with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. Dugald Wright, of the Bank of Toronto at Newmarket, is spending his vacation with his parents here.

Miss Elma Ellis spent three weeks recently with relatives in Toronto.

Misses Jean and Gladys Anderson have returned home after a delightful holiday at Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Mr. Douglas McColl has returned from Bigwin Inn, where he spent the summer months.

Miss Helen Jewett, of Toronto, spent the week-end with her friend, Miss Edna Haig.

Miss Lucy Wing will be a student this year at Peterborough Normal School.

Mr. and Mrs. Finney, of Pontypool, have moved to town, and are occupying Mrs. Robert Bannon's house at the east-end.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton and children motored to Orono on Tuesday last.

A number of Havelock citizens motored to Peterborough and attended the Fair last week.

The Comets and Supremes school baseball teams met in an exhibition game on Friday after school, when the Supremes defeated the Comets by a score of 8 to 10.

HALL'S BRIDGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shearer and Miss Viva Shearer have returned from their trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Miss May McCaffray of Toronto is staying with her sister, Mrs. Harry Shearer.

"It tastes so good"

"It keeps me regular"

. . . . . the reasons why millions of your neighbors prefer this delicious bran cereal

HOW pleasant it is to know that a cereal with such a tempting flavor as Post's Bran Flakes is as effective as it is delicious! How natural it is that more people eat Post's Bran Flakes with other parts of wheat than any other bran cereal in the world! You need bulk in your food to help safeguard you against the dangers of constipation. That bulk is in Post's Bran Flakes. You need flavor to tempt you to eat the bran cereal which you need. Post's Bran Flakes is perfectly delicious.

Eat Post's Bran Flakes each morning for the next two weeks. See how delicious it is with milk or cream, with fruit or in muffins or in bread. Eat it regularly—for regularity. You'll find it fun to feel good!

"Now you'll like bran!"

† Ordinary cases of constipation, associated with too little bulk in the diet, should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, consult a competent physician at once and follow his advice.

For the mouth of youth use the dentists' dentifrice

YOU can clean your teeth safely and beautifully with Forhan's—and in addition, you can give your gums the important care they need.

Originated by a dentist, this dentifrice contains a preparation which he had long used in treatment of pyorrhea—and accompanied by the massage of brushing, it helps to keep healthy gums firm and youthful.

Naturally it is easier to keep the mouth healthy than it is to treat it after infection gets started. As a matter of simple precaution the mouth of youth needs Forhan's. In two sizes—35¢ and 60¢—a few cents a tube more than the ordinary toothpaste, and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Ltd., Montreal.

Any mouth may have pyorrhea and at forty the odds are

TWO FINAL "Y" CONTRACTS LET

Heating, Ventilating Goes to W. R. Turner, Swimming Pool to P. G. Wallace.

EXCAVATING PROGRESSES.

Preparatory work on the large addition to the Y.M.C.A. building is progressing rapidly. The construction contractor, Thomas C. Ephgrave, lost no time in getting the work underway. Some twenty local men were hired on the job early last week and a great part of the excavation work has already been completed. This morning workmen began tearing down the brick work on the wing of the boys' department.

Final contracts on the building were awarded by the Y. M. C. A. board last evening, the heating and ventilating being secured by W. R. Turner and Sons, and the swimming pool contractor going to P. G. Wallace, a local plumber. Thus the board has followed through their aim in giving the whole job to local firms.

BANTING INSTITUTE FORMALLY OPENED

Rt. Hon. Lord Moynihan, K.C. M.G., Performs Important Ceremony in Coronation Hall.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 16.—(C.P.)—Rt. Hon. Lord Moynihan, K.C.M.G., of Leeds, president of the Royal College of Surgeons, England, this morning formally opened the new Banting Institute, dedicated to medical research, and named after Dr. F. G. Banting, the co-discoverer of insulin.

The official ceremony took place in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, and was presided over by Rev. H. J. Cody, chairman of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto. In his brief introductory speech he referred to the contribution made to medicine by Dr. Banting, and the guest of honor, Lord Moynihan.

Lord Moynihan urged greater cooperation between laboratory worker and clinician, his address embodied practical suggestions for the advancement of medical research, and the revision of the medical student curriculum which would enable him to devote more time to work in hospital wards.

CAR IMPORTERS OPPOSE TARIFF

Claim Increase Brings Hardships With No Advantage to Canadian Industry.

THROW MANY OUT OF WORK.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—(CP)—Opposition to any increase in the tariff on automobiles is contained in a brief submitted to the Government by the Canadian Automobile Importers' Association which contends an increase would bring many hardships to the importers with no corresponding advantage to Canadian industry.

The members of the Association say they have an invested capital of $33,465,594, employ 9,084 people and pay out $16,189,922 annually in salaries and wages. Their business, they say, is almost wholly owned and operated by Canadians while most of the capital invested in the Canadian automobile factories is owned in the United States.

Quoting figures from the Department of Trade and Commerce compilations the brief maintains that because of modern methods manufacturers can attain a large increase in output with a very small increase in employment. On the other hand a disruption of the importers business would throw many people out of work. It is also contended the imposition of duties which would restrict imports would give a few firms a monopoly of the motor industries, and it is suggested the United States owners of branch factories here would not be too ocnsiderate of the Canadian consumers if theoy had no competition from abroad.

BRACKEN OPENS PARLEY MEET

Seeks Solution For Serious Situation Facing Western Farmers.

ACTION NEEDED AT ONCE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 16. (C.P.) Manitoba's Premier and Lieutenant-Governor to-day focussed attention on the "serious crisis" facing farmers of the Canadian West and sought solution of the problem. Premier John Bracken has announced a series of four parleys at his office, linking banks, municipalities, agrarian and credit bodies. And Hon. J. D. McGregor suggests finishing cattle on the farm as a means of profiting despite low coarse-grain values.

"A crisis has arisen that cannot but react later on all sections of the community" comments Mr. Bracken. He announces that delegates of banking institutions will convene in his office to-day. Tomorrow, municipalities will be represented at the Premier's office to talk unemployment in general.

On Friday, Livestock and agricultural society representatives will discuss the livestock situation, while loan and credit organizations will be gathered at a session with the premier next Monday.

"Immediate action is imperative if steps are to be taken to prevent farmers from liquidating both coarse grains and thin young cattle at a sacrifice" says a statement issued by Hon. Mr. McGregor, expressing his belief that feeding of cheap grains to cattle to be sold as beef, would bring valuable returns to the farmer. He forecasts that if the problem is tackled now, a prompt solution can be found. The Lieutenant-Governor has been a farmer for 50 years and is one of Canada's most prominent breeders.

WHITE GRUB OUTBREAK STARTS

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—(C.P.)—A serious white grub outbreak in Eastern Canada is reported by the entomological branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Heavy losses to susceptible crops as corn, potatoes, and the finer grasses, are reported, and unless effective control measures are taken at once the loss may be considerable.

TRUCE ON TARIFF HAMPERS BRITAIN

Empire Trade to be Fully Discussed at Imperial Conference Says Graham.

NO PREFERENCES GRANTED.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16.—(By George Hambleton C. P. Staff Writer).—While the international tariff truce remains in force the British Government cannot grant tariff preferences involving the imposition of tariff duties. The Rt. Hon. William Graham, President of the British Board of Trade, was most definite upon this point when interviewed. The truce, incidentally is of 12 months' duration, commencing April 1 last, but unless notice of withdrawal is given before February 1, 1931, the treaty is automatically continued for periods of six months.

"But" continued Mr. Graham, "there will be the fullest and freest possible discussion at the Imperial Conference of any proposal for the development of Empire trade whether or not it involves the imposition of tariffs."

ENGLISH HORSE GIVEN DOPE RULED OFF ALL TRACKS

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Sept. 16. (C. P. Cable).—A sensation believed to be unprecedented in the history of horse racing in Great Britain was revealed to-day with the announcement that Lady Ludlow's four-year-old brown colt Grand Success had been disqualified from further racing under the rules of the stewards of the Jockey Club, and the horse's trainer, D. Taylor, warned off all race courses where these rules are in force.

After investigations the stewards of the Jockey Club were satisfied a drug was administered to the horse for the purpose of stimulating it for the race in question.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 2 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the card-sharp tried to sneak away, he saw the exit barred by Tarzan's tall figure. Struggling and striking without effect, the fellow found himself in the ape-man's grasp. It was Nikolas Rokoff's first experience with the muscles that had brought their savage owner victorious through encounters with Numa, the lion, and Terkoz, the great bull-ape.

Dragging the villain back to his astonished victims, Tarzan related the card trickery he had seen reflected in the mirror. Then releasing his prisoner, he thought no more about the matter. But from this incident Tarzan was to find he had made a desperate enemy, for Rokoff was one of the worst scoundrels in all Europe.

Next day the liner docked. Arriving in Paris, Tarzan went directly to the apartment of his friend d'Arnot, who was overjoyed to see him. Never could the naval lieutenant forget that but for Tarzan's wondrous strength he would have died at the stake in the cannibals' village of far-off Africa.

The two friends spent the next few weeks enjoying the sights of Paris. One evening Tarzan went to a music hall. During a dancing act he suddenly caught a glimpse of evil, black eyes fastened upon him. He had an uncanny feeling he was being watched. Had Tarzan but known it, he had been followed often of late, but never before had he been alone.

THE PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION.

On behalf of the President and Directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, I wish to express our appreciation of the very great help afforded by The Examiner in bringing our Fair to the successful issue achieved last week.

As a director, Mr. Glover was untiring in his efforts, and as editor of The Examiner, he with his staff was not only courteous, but enthusiastic in promoting the work of the Exhibition, and contributed freely of space in this paper, setting forth the features of the Fair.

With all due credit to Directors, Exhibiors, and the Weather Man, we owe much to the publicity most generously given by this paper preceding and during the Exhibition and we are proud to extend to The Examiner its full share of credit in attaining the success which it is now able to report through the prize-lists and other columns to its readers.

WILLIAM KNOX,
Vice-President.

OBITUARY

FREDERICK BLASTORAH

Frederick Blastorah formerly of this city passed away at Atlantic City, N. J. on Saturday, age 56 years. The funeral was held in that city today.

The late Mr. Blastorah was born at Harvard and was educated at St. Michael's College, Toronto. For several years he kept the Palace Hotel on Hunter street, later leaving to accept a position with the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y. Ill health made a change in climate advisable and the late Mr. Blastorah went to Atlantic City, where he held the position of book-keeper at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

He leaves his sorrowing wife and two daughters Corinne and Anastasia of Atlantic City; his mother and two sisters Katie and Margaret of Harvard and two brothers Bernard of Harvard and William of the Brittania Candy Shops, in this city.

LT.-COL. POWELL QUITS DRAGOONS

Commanding Officer Has Applied For Transfer to the Reserve List.

GOING TO FLORIDA.

Lieut.-Colonel H. W. Powell, O.C. 3rd Princes of Wales' Dragoons, tendered his resignation and applied for transfer to the reserve, it is learned.

Colonel Powell has also sold out the Powell Construction Company in order to accept a position as assistant-master-mechanic of the Florida East Coast Railroad. An old Pontypool boy, the Colonel served overseas with the 21st Battalion, and following the war had command of B Squadron of the Dragoons, with headquarters at Millbrook and Pontypool. Three years ago he succeeded Lieut.-Colonel T. D. Johnson as O.C. of the Dragoons.

As head of the Powell Construction Company he has been working on the new airport at Trenton for some time past and has also been engaged on road construction work in the vicinity of Kingston.

It is expected that Colonel Powell will be in this city on Thursday or Friday of this week to bid good-bye to the boys of his regiment. He will leave for Florida almost immediately after his visit.

speedy measures of disarmament and while the German elections do not invalidate his arguments they will diminish the probability of other nations acepting the Henderson conclusions.

The London Times prefers for the moment to regard the incursion of the Fasists largely as the rise of an unknown quantity and says the Hitler tactics will be carefully scrutinized for clues.

Hitler Rouses Nervousness

"The attitude of Hitler towards the Young Plan has already aroused some nervousness across the Rhine from Germany" says The Times, "the fate of Parliamentary Government in Germany lies largely in the Fascists hands and they have also the power to create or destroy the confidence of the outside world. It is upon this confidence that the economic prosperity of Germany must still continue to depend for many years.

The Morning Post considers the Fascist gains due largely to impatience on the part of the voters. "German democracy" says this paper, "is at the cross-roads and will be put to a salutary test of its powers of survival. Fortunately, amid and above the welter of parties, stands the towering personality of President von Hindenburg."

GO TO THE WOODS.

"Go out in the country next time; into the woods some place," was Mayor Denne's advice this morning to a local young man who appeared before him in Police Court on a charge of fighting in a hotel yard. Mayor Denne and City Treasurer Adams were pinch-hitting on the bench for Magistrate Langley, who concludes his holidays to-day.

The J.P.'s were told that the young man was of good character and was forced into a fight with a friend, who was intoxicated. The "friend" was fined $10, but the other got off with the Mayor's warning.

HYDRO POLE SNAPPED.

A big Hydro pole was snapped off near its base at 4.40 p.m., yesterday, at the corner of Aylmer and McDonnel streets, when struck by a car driven by P. J. Shanahan. He was going east on McDonnel street, and failing to stop at the stop sign at the Aylmer street intersection, he side-swiped a car driven south by Mrs. A. McCarthy. The Shanahan car continued across the road, jumpthe curb, and crashed into the pole, breaking it off. Shanahan's car was badly damaged, but neither of the motorists were injured.

140 STUDENTS AT NORMAL

The Peterborough Normal School opened this morning with an attendance of 140 students, and increase of 20 over last year's total.

One new member has been added to the teaching staff, V. McIntyre, B.A., who will be in charge of the Department of Mathematics.

Two admirals of the British Fleet and nearly 70 admiral were among the 283 past and present officers of the H. M. S. Excellent who dined at Portsmouth, England, recently, to celebrate the famous gunnery school's centenary.

IN MEMORIAM.

MILLER.—In loving memory of our dear sister, Miss Maude Miller, who passed away September 13th, 1929.

'Beside your grave we often stand
With hearts both crushed and sore,
But in the gloom the sweet words come,
Not lost, but gone before
It's not the tears at the graveside
That tell how the heart is torn,
But unseen tears in after years
To a memory silently borne,"
—Sadly missed by Sisters and Brothers.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWNE—VINCENT.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place this morning at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church manse, when Isobel Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vincent, became the bride of Mr. Lionel Browne, son of Mr. C. F. Browne and the late Mrs. Browne. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Allan.

The bride looked charming in a gown of French beige chiffon and brown suede shoes, with hat and gloves to match. Miss Sybil Hood and Mr. Stanley Payne acted as witnesses.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bride and groom left for a motor trip through New York State. The bride travelled in a coat of English tweed, with brown lamb collar, and accessories to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Browne will reside in Peterborough.

DONEGAN--GARDNER.

A pretty wedding took place at St. Peter's church, Bathurst street, Toronto, when Florence Mary Gardner, daughter of Mrs. James Heaslip, and the late Mr. Gardner, of Peterborough, became the bride of Jas. Victor Donegan, of Pembroke. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. H. Hooke, was charming in a gown of pale pink chiffon with hat and shoes to match. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was attended by Miss Ruth Baker who wore a gown of turquoise blue silk-crepe, with contrasting hat and shoes. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and baby's breath. Mr. E. J. Donegan, brother of the groom, acted as best man and the music was rendered by Mr. F. Kelly of Toronto. After the ceremony a reception was held at 265 Greer Road. Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip through the Eastern Provinces, the bride travelling in a beige ensemble with brown felt hat and brown shoes. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

GLIDDON--WAITE.

The marriage of Jean Sutherland, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hugh Waite, Orillia, and Mr. Otto Rupert Gliddon, son of Captain and Mrs. Rupert Gliddon, of Peterborough, took place very quietly in St. Paul's United Church, Orillia, on Tuesday, September 9th, the Rev. W. E. Baker officiating. The bride was married in her travelling costume of brown Roshanora crepe suit, brown felt hat and brown fox fur, gloves, bag and shoes. She was unattended and only the immediate family witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon left immediately on a trip to New York, Atlantic City and Newport, and will reach the latter place in time for the races. On their return they will reside in the Clarendon apartments, Clarendon avenue, Toronto. Previous to her marriage the bride was tendered several showers by her Toronto friends and on Monday afternoon she was the guest of honor at a delightful miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Bruce Croxall.

200,000 In China Starving To Death

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 16.—(C.P.).—Two hundred thousand persons are facing death by starvation near Checheng, Honan Province, as the result of warfare, bandit depredations and floods, said a Chinese press despatch from there to-day.

The entire number is doomed unless immediate aid is given, the city authorities informed the Nationalist Government at Nanking.
